We are still riding in Palestine. We are on the western side of the Jordan river, which is no doubt opposite the place where the Israelites crossed over and erected a monument to the twelve tribes of Israel, Naaman dipped seven times and was healed of the dreaded, filthy, and loathsome disease called leprosy, Elijah smote the water and they parted for him and Elisha to pass over and Elijah ascended into Heaven. Elisha in returning took Elijah's mantel and smote the waters and crossed on dry land again and went back into Jericho.

It was at this place that John the Baptist baptised many people who had brought forth fruit meet for repentance. It was here that Christ, the son of Mary and the Son of God received the Jewish ordinance of baptism. God Himself, spoke from Heaven and acknowledged His Son in words like these: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased" We can truly say of this place that it is the place where John baptised his own converts.

The first place we come to after crossing the Jordan lies westward. This place is called Gilgal or new Jericho. We remember Gilgal as the place where Joshua and the army of Israel after crossing the Jordan pitched their tents, and built an alter of twelve stones from the river bed to commemorate God's goodness to them in bringing the twelve tribes out of their Egyptian bondage, and also a commemoration to God's goodness to them during their forty years of wandering in the desert, and at last bringing them into the land of promise. This was to let the people of all time to come know that God's mighty hand rules and meets the needs of human lives.

While living at Gilgal the children of Israel kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the month at evening in the plains of Jericho. The manna from Heaven ceased to fall, and they ate unleavened cakes, and parched corn, the fruit of the land of Canaan. But we are to cross over from this first place of encampment of the Israelites after crossing the Jordan into Jericho. This town of ancient Judea is on a plain about eighteen miles northeast of Jerusalem. It was a noted city, especially in Solomon's time. We have found Gilgal a very filthy, loathsome, buggy hamlet. I suppose it might be called a leper colony.

But now we are in Jericho which is about two miles or maybe one and a half miles from Gilgal, and as I have already stated about eighteen miles northeast of Jerusalem. Jericho, we find from reading God's Word, had to be stormed and taken by the Israelties before they could enter. The people conscientiously did their part toward being permitted to enter into the full freedom of the land which God had promised them. The spies had returned to Joshua and told him the whole truth concerning the people and the land. They had told the truth now about the well-walled and awful wickedness of the city of Jericho.

But we read that Joshua becomes a spy himself, and walks up to the walls of this historical city which is no doubt one of the oldest cities in the world. As Joshua walks along by the great wall he looked ahead of him and saw a man. He walks up and says unto the man who has a sword drawn in his hand, "Are you for us, or for our adversaries?" Then this man of God, this captain of the Lord's host said unto him, " I am come as captain of the Lord's host, loose thy shoe from off thy foot; for the place whereon thou standest is holy."

Then Joshua was instructed by God how to take the city. The city was compassed once each day for six days by all the men of war. Seven priests with a trumpet each of ram's horns went before the ark of the covenant of the Lord. The armed men went before the priests who blew with the trumpets, and the reward came after the ark. The priests blew their trumpets, but not until the seventh day did Joshua command the people to shout when the trumpets blew seven times. He said to them, "Shout; for the Lord hath given you the city."

After the capture of the city Joshua pronounced a curse upon Hiel, the oldest son of a Bethlehemite, who tried to rebuild it. Two years ago the walls were still down. We read in one of Paul's inspired letters these words: "By faith the walls of Jericho fell after being compassed seven times." The capture of the city was due entirely to God's miraculous power. The walls fell and the city was destroyed.

Right near Jericho is a fountain which has been called for centuries "Elisha's Fountain." In the time of Elisha the water of this fountain was bitter. God used His power in the hands of Elisha to make the water sweet. The water is good unto this day. When God does a thing, we always find that He does it right. So here is the place where Jericho once stood. Everything certainly confirms the teachings of the inspired book of Joshua and God's presence with His prophet in the Old Testament.

We read about the strength of the walls of Jericho. Excavators of recent years have discovered that its foundations are strong. Excavators have dug into certain mounds and found that there was at one time a stone, an iron, and a brass age judging from the utensils they have discovered. It is likely that great discoveries will still be made in the land of Palestine. And yet we look at the ruins of Jericho and think of the verse, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

This city sowed intemperance, worldliness in all of its forms and reaped the destruction of the city. According to God's promise it has never been rebuilt. Up to the northwest of Jericho is Ai, the royal city of the Canaanites, where God's army was defeated on account of sin in it. We should read all about Jericho and Ai. It tells us what faith in God will accomplish for us who believe all things are possible.

By faith Noah entered into the ark with his sons and their wives, and the ark was a place of refuge to them during the flood. By faith we are saved, and that not of ourselves, it is the gift of God. Jericho seems to have been the place where one of the prophets taught a school. This must have been a well watched, and talked of school among the inhabitants of the land of Gilead. Somewhere in this land of Gilead not far from Jericho some children laughed at Elisha's bald head in great glee. They were devoured by bears from the woods because of their irreverance.

STATE CAPITOL News

Use of convicts on road construction work in Alabama is a proven success, and is giving the State a handsome profit above all costs of construction, as compared with prevailing contract prices. Figures recently made public by Hamp Draper, Associate Member of the State Board of Administration, show that during the month of July the seventeen convict road camps made a net profit to the State, as compared with contract prices for the same work, of $32,500.95, an average daily profit of 76 cents per man for the 1,400 convicts so employed. These figures were reached after computing every item of cost of maintaining and operation of convict road forces, from the price of a lead pencil to depreciation on a steam shovel. They are regarded as furnishing a very decisive anser to prediction which had been made in some quarters to the effect that use of convicts on the roads could not be made a financial success.

Employment of convicts on road work in lieu of working them under lease in coal mines was one of the main planks in the platform of Governor Graves when he was a candidate for office. Lieutenant-Governor W. C. Davis of Jasper was also for many years a leader in the fight to abolish the lease system and remove convicts from the mines to employment on road construction and other work.

"There is absolutely no doubt that the employment of convicts on the roads is an economic success," Mr. Draper said. "I am thoroughly convinced of this after 90 days of operation under the present system whereby convicts on the roads are worked and handled exclusively by this department. If it were not for the outlet thus afforded for 1,400 men, the cost of their maintenance would have to be borne by taxpayers of Alabama, and would mean an annual financial burden of a million to a million and a half dollars; for we have about reached the limit of farming operations with prison labor. And some other outlet is absolutely necessary. The results accomplished are highly gratifying to me and a credit to the men in the field whose work has made such a showing possible."

In figuring the cost of convict road construction every item of cost has gone in, including feeding and clothing of prisoners, medical and surgical expenses, salaries, office and traveling expenses, tobacco, money allowed convicts, and depreciation on houses and equipment. The convict road camps were charged with part of the cost of operation of the general headquarters of the convict department at the capitol, the same percentage of this cost being charged to road operations as the number of convicts on road work bears to the total number of all state convicts.

Average cost of common excavation for all road camps for July was 26 cents per cubic yard, as compared with an average contract price of 30 cents. At some camps excavation costs showed a profit and five a loss, during the month. Failure of some camps to show a profit is attributed to the fact that on certain jobs most of the work had already been done under an arrangement formerly existing whereby convicts were worked jointly by the convict department and highway department, leaving only some of the less profitable clean-up work to be done on these jobs in July. Since June 1, the convict department has had complete charge of convict road work, and the new system is showing splendid results, it is stated.

A new feature of road work recently inaugurated is that of surfacing with convict labor. Three surficing outfits are now being equipped. This phase of work has already been tried and found successful, by the Perry County road camp. A surfacing outfit there, consisting of 22 white trusties, returned a profit during July of $1,191.21, despite the fact that the small number of men employed naturally tended to increase the cost. Gravel surfacing was placed with this convict labor at a cost of 35 cents per cubic yard, as against a contract price of 50 cents.

HAVE YOU AN UNMARKED GRAVE?

How unthoughtful is he who permits the remains of a loving Mother, Father, Sister, Brother or a little Child to rest in an unmarked grave with nothing to distinguish that hallowed spot from the commonplace surface of the earth, indifferently trampled by man and beast. Great comfort will be gained by consecrating the spot where sleeps the departed with a beautiful and lasting monument.

FROM L. H. BEAN

Editor Union-Banner:

I want to say a few words in regard to the three mill tax election which will be held on September 17. I think the time has come when the voters of Chilton County know what they want. I want to say to Bro. Lawrence, and his bunch to leave off the last minute campaigning. I have been told that they had a bunch of speakers to rush out over the County on the last days and tell the people how to vote. From past years of experience I find that the last minute campaigning shows to the public that there is something rotten. And I feel like the good voters of this county will not stand for such in this case. So let us have a good clean election of September 17. And I am going to ask Bro. Lawrence not to put out anyone at the last minute as has been done before or scatter any circulars with the intention to mislead or influence the voters. Let them go to the polls on September 17 and vote as they pray.

You can never win by trying to defeat justice, so if you hear the wolves howling on the last days remember there is something rotten and do not let them mislead, persuade or influence you in any way. In this case just vote against the three mill tax.

Anyone who wants to write a letter in the County Papers dealing fair with both sides that will be nice and will be appreciated. We are all humans and want to be respected. You people who have a conscience let it be your guide on election day and you who have no conscience ask someone who has.—L. H. Bean, Jemison, Ala.

MRS. PERMELIA RUTLAND

The Death Angel visited the home of C. D. Bullard and took away our dear Mother and Grandmother, Wednesday, August 27, 1929.

Her soul took its flight at six o'clock p. m. and went home to God where there will be no more sorrow, no more pain, no more trials, temptations and no more tears to shed.

Her trials and temptations were great, but she bore them patiently. She said the heavier the cross the brighter the crown. She always wore a smile and never frowned at anything and the smile she wore will never be forgotten. She was always kind to whom she met and talked with, and loved everybody. She always spoke words of comfort to all who were in trouble.

Oh, she has gone to a better world, but the words she has spoken will never be forgotten.

She was 79 years, 6 months and 20 days of age.

She has been a member of the Baptist church ever since a young girl, and always lived a devoted and Christian life.

She leaves to mourn her loss seven children, Mrs. Arrie Bailey of Detroit, Michigan; Mr. Rix Rutland of Coopers, Ala.; Mr. John Rutland of East Tallassee, Ala.; Mrs. Dartha Thornton of Wetumpka, Ala.; Mrs. Ressie Bailey of Clanton, Ala.; Mr. Henry Rutland of Parkwood, Ala.; Mrs. Detnie Bullard of Verbena, Ala.

She leaves fifty-four grandchildren to mourn her loss and a host of great-grandchildren.

Oh, how we miss her; oh, how we are going to miss her, but God knows best and took her to a better world where there will always be rest.

Weep not, dear friends and relatives, God knew best, for she is asleep in the arms of her Jesus.

Sleep on, Dear Mother and grandmother, and take thy rest.

We all loved you, but God loved you best.

She was laid to rest at Chestnut Cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. D. Hughes.—Written by her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Ressie Bailey and Miss Lillie Stroud.

LETTERS FROM PUPILS OF OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS

Dear Mr. Harris: I want to thank you for our school at Pate's Chapel. It has been an opportunity for me because when I started I could not even write my name. Now my teacher says I read and write well. Thanks for the opportunity schools.—Lily Pate, Jemison, Ala.

Dear Mr. Harris: I am writing to let you hear from our school. We are very much delighted, asking your help in our next school with our same teacher, for we are very much attached to her. We would be dissatisfied without our same teacher next year. Your friend, J. N. Barnett, Plantersville, Ala.

Dear Mr. Harris: I am proud of our school. We have very good attendance. I sure am enjoying it every day. I am sure I will continue. —Mrs. Charlie Littlejohn, Lawley, Ala.

Dear Mr. Haris: You and my teacher will please accept my thanks for the advancement I have made in your opportunity school at Mt. Pisgah. I think these schools are a wonderful blessing to the people.—Yours truly, M. F. Lett, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Mr. Haris: I could not attend school every day, but I have learned many things that will be of value to me in the future. These schools offer a wonderful opportunity to the people of the communities where they are located.—Yours truly, John W. Wilson, Clanton, Ala.

SINGING CONVENTION AT PATE'S CHAPEL

As per announcement in The Union-Banner, the Old Book Singing Convention was in session Sunday at Pate's Chapel.

It was a success beyond the most sanguine expectation. It was great in numbers, great in good will, great in enthusiasm, and great in the volume of music rendered. From about nine o'clock a. m. until 3 p. m. it was one round of sacred song.

The directors of Chilton were liberally represented. Besides quite a number came from Bibb County, Sylacauga and Wilsonville.

Prof. T. C. Jackson, one of our former presidents, came in. His singing was quite impressive and heartily listened to. Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Ingram of Wilsonville, both good directors, rendered splendid assistance. Mr. Spearman, another good singer from Wilsonville was there and added very much. Mr. J. C. Deason, one of Bibb County's fine singers, did some very attractive directing. Prof. John Deason of Bibb County caught the crowd. He is splendid. Mr. and Mrs. E. Daniels of Bibb were among the finest. Mr. J. S. Deason directed one lesson. He is one of the best. He lives also in Bibb County. There was Arthur Deason, the talented youth of Bibb, directed just before noon. He is a good one in music, a youth of promise, a director of music from childhood. Mr. C. C. Calloway, formerly of Birmingham, sang a very fine lesson. Mr. Calloway is an efficient leader.

But the crowning feature was the Daniels-Deason Quartet. It brought an outburst of applause from the audience.

Pate's Chapel did her duty most admirably. The dinners were rich and bountiful. The beautiful basket of flowers of brilliant hues placed in the midst were duly appreciated. It was a great session.—One who was there.

UNION GROVE

Every member of Union Grove church is requested to meet at the church next Sunday morning at ten o'clock for the purpose of electing a pastor for the coming year. There will not be any Sunday school, but will be precahing at eleven o'clock, and the United Singing Society will meet at two o'clock. Don't forget to be there at ten o'clock.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are progresing just fine. We have enrolled several new members in our B. Y. P. U. and hope to have lots more.

Miss Pearl Chandler spent Sunday with Miss Delene Collum.

Mrs. Leone Dorminey returned home last Sunday from a weeks visit with relatives in Flat Top.

Misses Thomasine Dorminey and Lucile Davis spent Sunday with Misses Edna and Winnie Kate Robinson.

Mr. Dannie Jones left Friday for Gadsden.

Miss Dortha Littlefield had as her guest last Sunday Miss Maggie Littlefield of Clanton.

Mr. Harlem Daniel was visiting in our community last Sunday.

Miss Claudie Smith of Thorsby spent last week with Miss Thomasine Dorminey.

Several from this place attended the singing at Mineral Springs Sunday and reported a good singing.

Mr. Arthur Chandler recently returned from a fishing trip to different places in Florida.

Don't forget the announcements at the church next Sunday.—A Reader.

WHAT THE 3-MILL TAX MEANS TO ONE SCHOOL

It has occurred to me from reading an account of what revenues would be lost to the schools of the county should the voters fail to levy again the three-mill county tax, as published in last week's issue of the county papers, that perhaps a few facts concerning a definite school type, of which there are some five similar in this county, would be more easily digested than a mass of material concerning the whole county revenues and expenditures. Inasmuch as I have worked in the Verbena schools a number of years it is natural that I should be concerned in their welfare, so it is this particular school territory that I shall use as an example.

During the school year 1928-29, closing last May there was spent for the operation of the Verbena High School and Grammar School $12,-441.28. It must be borne in mind that this school serves children in the high school from distances as far as nine miles. We have received this year a large number of children transported from that distance on to as short a distance as two and one half miles. Without this transportation these boys and girls would not have an opportunity of getting a high school education. It would be an impossible undertaking to provide funds to place an accredited high school within walking distance of the pupils in most of the sections on account of the costs of buildings, equipment, and teaching force. It would cost as much to run a smaller high school as it does to run one the size of Verbena High School. Therefore, since every reasonable person believes that all the boys and girls should be given a chance for a high school education, transportation is used as the only means now possible to do this. This is sufficient reason for the transportation system. The boys and girls of Chilton County deserve to have provided for them such opportunities as the county and state may provide for them. The taxes that have been in force for the past ten years are not unreasonable. The election for September 17 is to decide whether or not the three-mill county school tax, which has been paid by the citizens, business firms, and corporations owning property in this county for the past ten years shall be continued. This will continue your taxes just as they have been. Furthermore, it will allow the districts of the county to continue their district taxes, not any higher than they have been, but just the same amount they have been. Unless this election is carried favorable to the scholos no district tax can be voted again, and various other funds will be lost to the county, as was noted in last week's paper.

Of the $12,441.28 spent for the District 15-B schools last year, $4,-057.05 was from the district tax alone, which tax can not again be levied if the county tax is not voted again as was done in 1919. Now, stop and consider the taxable properties within District B. The largest taxpayers have the least number of children, or no children at all. And I have reason to believe that they favor this tax. I know they do in Verbena. The taxes that are paid in this county by corporations amount to a considerable figure. Their rates of service are based on an average rate over the state or over a group of states. If Chilton county fails to collect its part of these taxes, they will be paying it in rates and not getting any of it back in the form of taxes. Think that part of the deal over for a time.

Now, you may easily assume that from the county 3-mill tax the school here receives a considerable portion as well as from the rural high school fund from the state, from the attendance fund, and a few other lesser funds. These funds will certainly be lost to the county if the tax is not carried. The letter of State Superintendent Tidwell in this week's papers shows the total public funds for the county would, in case the tax fails to be passed, be less than $45,000.00; certainley there will be a loss of $85,000.00 from the county 3-mill and district 3-mill taxes. That would be certain. And with the number of grammar school teachers alone, the schools could be run only about two months from public funds, and there would not be any Jemison, Verbena, Isabella, Clanton, Junior-Senior High Schools, and no Junior high schools, of which the county folks have such good reason now to be proud. Now you needn't call this "bunk" just to hear the word. Get the number of teachers used in grammar schools in the county, their salaries at the present basis and figure it out for yourself.

Verbena would have about $880.00 to run the grammar school two months, and would suffer a loss of $11,561.28 public money's worth of educational opportunity for a large number of boys and girls.

Yes, my salary comes from these taxes. Some may not be able to see that I am speaking for the children, and that I could get a job somewhere else. If anyone will say I have an axe to grind by favoring this tax, I would also like to ask of the person who would vote against it, would it not be too disastrous to the schools and children to grind the axe of opposition.

Get out the vote for the tax.—W. E. G. Sutton, Principal, Verbena High School.

Prof. Green, athletic coach at the Chilton County High School, has already begun training and practice of his football team. Some of the youngsters are complaining of sore stomach and stiff joints, but they will get the kinks out in a few days and be ready for real battle.

Mrs. George Blalock of Birmingham has been visiting relatives and friends in Clanton for the past week.

Jesse Sam Gowan left this week to resume his studies at a college in Atlanta. He is preparing for the profession of dentistry.

Will Reynolds made a business trip to Montgomery Wednesday.

FINE POTATOES FROM THE KINTRAY FARMS

Mr. E. A. Moore has brought to The Banner office two extra fine sweet potatoes from the Kintray Farm at Verbena. The two weigh exactly eight pounds. Mr. Moore says his crop of potatoes is extra fine.

SINGING AT SHILOH—S. CALERA

SINGING AT WALNUT CREEK

There will be singing at Walnut Creek church next Sunday afternoon, September 8, beginning about 1:30. It is hoped that this will be one of the best singings we have had and we cordially invite all singers and lovers of good music to come and be with us and help us in this service.

Might Serve It with a Summons—A salesman sold an elderly negro farmer a tractor. Some time after the machine was delivered, the salesman called on his customer for pay.

"Can you pay me for that tractor, Uncle Jim?" he asked.

"Pay fo' de tractor!" he asked in astonishment. "Why, man, yo' done tole me dat in free weeks de tractor would pay fo' hisself."—Canning Trade.

Slight Detour—The little girl was crying. Her mother, to distract her thoughts, called:

"Oh, come here, darling—come here and look at the airplane."

The little girl ran to the window and stared up at the airplane till it disappeared. Then she got out her little wet handkerchief again.

"Mama, what was I crying about?" she asked.—Wall Street Journal.

Buried Eloquence—The Mayor had just laid the foundation stone of a new wing for the hospital, and the spectators awaited his speech.

"What can I do?" cried the harassed Mayor to his wife. "I've laid the stone on top of it."—Pearson's Weekly.

Down but Not Out—"The way for you to straighten out your financial difficulties is to live within your means for a while, until you get square."

"Within our means? I should say not! We may be poor, but we're not as badly off as all that."—Montreal Star.

A card from Mr. Paul C. Mims Tuesday afternoon says that he is getting along extra fine at the Woodlawn Hospital where he underwent an operation for goitre last Sunday. He expects to be able to return home in the next few days.

NEW POLICEMAN IS DOING BIG BUSINESS

Night policeman, Loss Robinson, who was put on duty in Clanton September the first, is doing a big business. He has arrested people going and coming for violation of traffic ordinances.

He has given special attention to cars running without proper lights. We understand that his activities in this respect have caused a special selling of tail lights for automobiles at some of the accessory shops in town.

Clinging Vine—"What kind of a woman is his wife?"

"Well, he has as much chance of going out alone as one of the Siamese twins would."

Rah-Rah Girls—"Jack have you ever loved before?"

"My dear girl, I'll be perfectly frank with you. I've been engaged so many times that my ex-fiancees have perfected an organization and adopted a yell."

Life's Darkest Moment—An average husband's idea of a wall-eyed liar is a man who boasts he can carry an umbrella over his wife without getting any back seat driving on how to do it.

Pick Your Victims—"So you got a big fine for smashing up someone's car? I thought you said you had a friend at court who would fix up things for you?"

"Just my luck. He was the fellow I ran into."—Judge.

The Clean-Up

Published in the interest of the people of Chilton County by CLANTON LAUNDRY & CLEANING CO.

Leo Thompson, Editor

VOL. I. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1929 NO. 9

The Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company is three years old this week. As we take a backward look over the three years we have been doing business in Clanton we feel proud of the growth that we have been able to make in this time. And we wish to extend to you our appreciation of your patronage which has made this growth possible. Your continued patronage shows us that we have been able to give a satisfactory service to our patrons. We also want to give you our assurance again at this anniversary that we will continue to spare no effort to give you the very best service in our power. We shall ever make it our policy to serve our customers in a way that will assure us the privilege of serving again.

We never get over the fishing fever. It's a delightful disease and, the best part of it is, there is no cure.

Success comes in Cans, not Can'ts. If you think you can you will, if you think you can't, you WILT.

We agree with you that treating a prospective or regular customer like a rich bachelor uncle is not just courtesy, it is just plain common sense.

Sam walked into the employment office and said hopefully: "Don' spose you don' know nobody as don' want nobody to do nothin', does you?—Boston Transcript.

Ella: She is a rabid fighter for equal rights, isn't she?

Bella: Yes, she's determined, now that we have mail planes, we also must have female planes!

ETERNAL TRAGEDY

What's the matter, my dear?

Daughter: Freddie and I have parted forever.

Um! In that case I suppose he won't be around the house for a couple of nights.—Tit-Bits.

BUDDING DAIRYMAN

"Mother," asked little Jack, "is it correct to say that you 'water a horse' when he is thirsty?"

"Yes, dear," replied his mother.

"Well, then," said Jack picking up a saucer, "I'm going to milk the cat."

Say, do you know a good joke that you would like to see appear in The Clean-Up? If so, send it in, we would like to have it.

CHATAUTAQUA USES CHEVLET SIXES FOR TRANSPORTS

For the first time in its 16 years existence Redpath Chautaqua is this year employing passenger cars to transport the members of its Deluxe Circuit. Buses and trains have been used in the past, but the comfort that the passenger car alone affords accounted for its ultimate selection.

The cars are Chevrolet six-cylinder sedans and the task to which they are placed in transporting "bag and baggage" the 40 members of the company is indeed a formidable one. The itinerary of the group trails jaggedly from Florida to northern Wisconsin. The jaunt started April 1 and will not conclude until September at which time approximately 7,000 miles will have been traversed.

Unless one has traveled with a Chautaqua troupe it is almost impossible to realize the rigours entailed by travel of this sort. In the first place, the troupers are in the strictest sense not really troupers at all. They are persons who because of an outstanding reputation are drafted to traverse the smaller cities, many experiencing the life of the road for the first time.

Among the celebrities who are traveling by Chevrolet this year over the DeLuxe circuit are Mrs. Nellie Taloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming; Anne Campbell, the celebrated newspaper post and Captain Dennis Rook, former British Army ace and holder of the world's record for the longest solo flight, a trip from London to India, a distance of 7000 miles.

For four months now the Redpath troupers have been making their one night stands and then hopping on to the next showing place. The 12 Chevrolets have never failed to get thei roccupants to their destination at the appointed time. Already more than 100 towns in a dozen states have been visited. When the tour ends 140 towns will have been visited.

Redpath is perhaps the best known Chautaqua in the country. About five years ago it gave up almost altogether the custom of traveling by train. Awakenings at early hours to catch trains resulted in jaded nerves and sometimes in missed engagements. Later, until this year, large buses have been used with an occasional passenger car here and there.

Not only do the Redpath Chevrolets transport the troupers but they also serve as baggage cars. All of the luggage is hauled in trunks placed in racks in the rear. The huge tent weighing nearly a ton is the only piece of equipment not carried by the Chevrolets. This goes by train.

The average jump between show points is 100 miles. There are afternoon and evening performances. A departure shortly before noon allows ample chance for rest. Then the smooth running Chevrolet sixes click of fthe hundred miles comfortably in the intervening three hours. There is none of the hurry or bustle that characterized these jumps when they were made by train.

In the last 10 years the cost of producing an acre of corn has been reduced from 20 man-hours to about 4 1-2 man-hours. Machinery did it.

Mr. J. D. Evans of Birmingham spent the week end at home. He went back the first of the week, and will leave soon for Winston-Salem, North Carolina, where he has accepted a position.

Clanton to Greet Tolbert Sept. 9th

Sixteenth Annual Visit of Celebrated Theatre Company With New Features Promises Event

The news of the coming of the popular Milt Tolbert Company to Clanton will bring a wave of enthusiasm from the entertainment loving patrons of this popular company in this city following the announcement of the 16th annual visit of the Tolbert organization here opening a week's engagement, Monday, September 9.

Those who have attended these performances of the celebrated Alabama home company in past years will have many pleasant surprises awaiting them, according to promise of Mr. H. D. Hale, owner and manager of the company, when the company opens their engagement here. A complete program of the high class royalty plays, new feature acts never before shown outside the largest theatres, and many new ideas in entertainment will be presented on the Tolbert program this season.

Among the 1929 features presented to patrons by the Tolbert Company this season will be the augmented orchestra of this company which has earned a reputation of being one of the most popular musical organizations appearing before the public throughout the South. This famous band of artists contains names which have become celebrated through appearing before southern audiences in person and "on the air" for many seasons. Bigger and better and more popular than ever, this orchestra will entertain Tolbert patrons every evening at the big tented theatre.

The play selected for opening night Monday will be a comedy-drama which created a furore of comment wherever it has been shown. Direct from the large metropolitan theatres, this thrilling drama will furnish a performance above and beyond any ever presented here. "Honest Hearts" as the name implies, carries the spectator through the run of every human emotion in a thrilling, exhilerating manner. Romance, intrigue, thrills, tears, laughs and an unusual moral lesson in it's theme, "Honest Hearts" brings out the primal instincts of man in an impressive manner.

As usual with the Tolbert Company ladies will be admitted free opening night, one lady free with each paid admission. This custom will be appreciated by patrons of Clanton and every promise is held out for a capacity crowd which will turn out Monday, September 9, to welcome this popular company to our city for the 16th consecutive time.

Yesterday's Ginning Methods Are Not Enough Today

the farmer now demands that his cotton be ginned to protect his profit

Ginning methods of even five years ago do not meet today's needs any more than the farm implements of fifty years ago would.

To get the highest price for his cotton, the farmer knows that it must be cleaned and ginned to increase spinnability of every bale. High spinnability reduces spinning loss, for which the mill man willingly pays a premium.

AUBURN ADDS 166 SUBJECTS OR STUDY

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 2.—When the 58th session of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute opens September 9, 166 new subjects of study will be taught, according to an announcement by President Bradford Knapp, and as published in the new catalog. In all 699 subjects are now being offered at Auburn.

The increase is in line with a policy of general expansion that is enriching the work of all divisions, schools, and departments. This expansion is directed by Dr. Knapp to allow students desiring specialized training in particular lines a wider choice of electives.

In the school of education alone 48 new subjects have been added, and Dean Zebulon Judd has announced that the Alabama Polytechnic Institute has definitely set itself to the task of training educational leadership for Alabama.

Dean Judd and his associates have arranged special curricula to allow students to specialize and receive degrees in 21 different types of professional service as teachers. Curricula for county superintendents, supervisors, and principals, as well as for school room teachers, are offered.

Other notable expansion includes addition of a new school of textile engineering and a new department of industrial arts and shops.

Twenty new subjects will be given in the textile school, and 19 in the department of industrial arts and shops. Textile students may specialize in textile manufacturing, fabric design, textile business administration, and textile chemistry and dyeing.

Subjects have been added in civil engineering and agriculture and these divisions rearranged to allow, for the first time, specialization in the different phases of these courses.

A number of new professors are being added to the staff to take care of the large increase in class work.

ALABAMA FARM NEWS

A resume of county farm agents' reports made at Auburn reveal that there will be a large increase in the amount of hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas planted in Alabama this fall. Practically all the county workers mention that large orders have been placed through local farm bureaus.

At a meeting of the Poultry Science Association of North America in Auburn in late August the poultry plant at Auburn was declared the best in arangement, method of work, and upkeep in North America. Poultry experts from 30 states and 3 Canadian provinces were present and seemed to agree on this point. Prof. John E. Ivey designed the plant at Auburn.

The Alabama Farm Bureau Federation plans to add another important service. It is that of life insurance for members of the organization. Final plans await action of the executive committee.

Arsenic kills trees quicker and surer than girdling.

More machinery is necessary to increase the number of livestock on Alabama farms, because machinery is needed to produce feed for livestock.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

Scrub farmers keep scrub livestock.

Next year members of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation will buy Austrian winter pea seed direct from growers in Oregon. This was arranged by J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialist, extension service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, while in Oregon recently. He states that the supply of Austrian pea seed is unlimited.

The biggest and best crop of satsuma oranges since 1923 is expected this year by J. Lloyd Abbott, manager of the Horticultural Development Company in Mobile County, which is one of the largest satsuma plantings on the Gulf Coast. The bulk of satsuma oranges in this country is produced in Mobile and Baldwin Counties, Alabama.

"Dusting the kitchen shelves, cabinet, base boards, and floors with sodium flouride is a good way to control roaches. Repeat until the pests disappear."—Winford A. Ruffin, entomologist at Auburn.

Alabama farm people are interested in scientific farming. This summer 3,075 of them have visited their college of agriculture and home economics at Auburn to study the research work being done for them.

"Fertilizer should be applied one-half to the land and one-half to the man."—Dr. Seaman A. Knapp.

Auburn is advising farmers to plant entire fields—not just a few acres—in winter legumes. It is the cheapest way known to increase soil fertility.

Mr. Henry Arthur Roper, who works with the Drennen Motor Car Company, Birmingham, is spending this week with home folks in Clanton.

Mr. Julian Evans of Atlanta spent the week end with relatives in Clanton.

Mrs. Jean Wyatt is in the St. Margaret's Hospital, Montgomery, taking treatment from Dr. George Blue. It is expected that she will have to remain in the hospital for several days.

Leon B. Popwell of Thorsby was in Clanton attending to business Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Teel of Birmingham spent a few days last week with relatives and friends in Clanton.

SAMARIA

Our Sunday School was not as large Sunday as we would like for it to be. We had quite a number absent, some on account of sickness. But we hope to have all our absentees back with us next Sunday. We surely are having some wonderful lessons this quarter. If we just had faith in God like Ezra did we surely could accomplish great things for our Master.

Our B. Y. P. U. met Sunday night at the regular hour, 7:00, and a fine program was rendered by Group No. 2. Next Sunday night the subject is: "Nehemiah, Leader in Jerusalem." Come and let's learn what kind of a leader he was.

Mr. and Mrs. Odis Blackmon of Gadsden spent the week end here with their parents.

We are sorry indeed to report that Mr. Joe Holley is on the sick list this week. We wish him a speedy recovery.

A large number from here attended the singing at Maplesville Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Horace Aldridge and children spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Claude Wood.

Mr. J. W. Wood and son, Irby, spent Friday with Mr. J. G. Wood.

FAVORS THREE MILL TAX

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in support of taxes for our schools. If we expect to keep our schools going at their present rate and at the same time add to their efficiency and usefulness we will need our special school taxes, which are not burdensome, and are derived from those who are most able to pay them. Many people who are not able to pay their supplements are being urged to vote down school taxes and thus cripple their children's opportunities. Any person who will take time to think even casually, can see the advancing need of education. It is something that must be paid for by those who have grown up amid its resultant advantages. The children can not assume their own responsibilities.

Shall we overlook the magnitude of educational worth to our posterity in an attempt to mete out spite to some officers we don't like? If our forefathers gave their lives for us surely we can stand to see a few dollars go for the education of our children. Men! We have a duty to perform. Let's go to the polls without prejudice and vote for the children. Let's shoulder our responsibility before them. Don't listen to chronic bellyachers, who seek to put themselves in the limelight by looking at the dark side of life. Think before you act. Any fool can knock, but it takes patience and fortitude to construct. Human beings are imperfect, but life is a grim reality. Let's face it bravely and we will win. Yours for schools.—Battle Axe.

FORDOR SEDAN IS AN ATTRACTIVE CAR

In discussing the individuality of different Ford automobile body types, Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers, pointed out that a richness of finish and appointments usually associated only with custom built bodies has been obtained in the Fordor Sedan.

"The Fordor Sedan possesses many features exclusive in the low price automobile field," said Clanton Motors. "Its distinctiveness may be seen in the streamline effect given by the length of the narow belt moulding, which is accentuated by the raised panel on the cowl and the roll belt beneath the wide windows.

"This Model "A" type is ideally suited for the family of several members, or for the family of two or three persons who desire more room than is afforded by the coupe or roadster. It is an ideal car for persons who frequently take friends on motor rides or who are accompanied by friends on evening engagements such as at the theatre.

"The exterior finish of the Fordor Sedan is in pyroxylin, highly polished, and the type is available in an attractive variation of color schemes.

"Interior appointments of the Fordor Sedan are excellent in taste and strikingly rich and inviting in appearance. The wide seats are of the lounge style, upholstered in soft, woolen cloth with brown hairline stripe, harmonizing with the light brown interior trimming. Other refinements and conveniences include arm rests, a flexible robe rail, an oval bow light in the rear compartment and paneling around the doors and on the front compartment seat."—Clanton Motors.

THANKS FROM ROBINSON FAMILY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow us a small space to express as best we can our great appreciation for the many deeds of kindness shown us during our recent sadness. Our friends and neighbors were indeed good to us beyond measure, and we appreciate it more than words can tell. A loved one has gone from among us, and all we have left of him is the life of usefulness which he lived for his friends and neighbors. The greatest comfort we find in our dark hours is that which comes from God through the sympathy and understanding of our friends.—The family and relatives of Cary Robinson.

ANY OLD BOOKS? ? ? ?

The beginning of school has come and there are some children whose families have had misfortune one way or another. We are again making an appeal to the people of Clanton and Chilton County to help give aid to the children of this type.

Many of the books are new and several of the old books have again been adopted in the state. If you have any of the books listed below, and if you have no younger children in the family to use them, you will be doing much for the children whose fathers are not living or who are otherwise unfortunate.

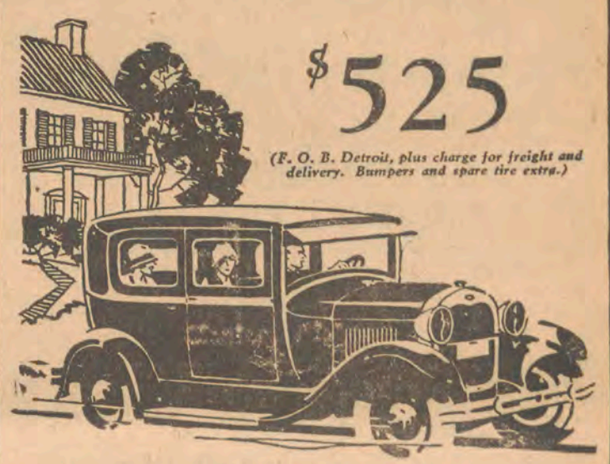
Footprints

If every step you took in doing daily duties of your household left its mark, your home would be tracked from cellar to garret at the end of a busy day.

Did you ever stop to think what a lot of these daily steps are wasted? And how many of the trips back and forth to do some tiresome task can be saved?

Now that new low rates on electricity are in effect in Alabama, you can afford a retinue of servants—electric servants—who will do many of these tasks for you at wages of a few cents a day.

Your cooking, your ironing, your washing, your water heating and your food preservation—all can now be done at little cost by Reddy Kilowatt.



Weighed against the time, the labor and the trouble which they save—electrical appliances operated at the new low rate—are the cheapest long run investment any housewife can make.

50 Extra Eggs in a Bag of Purina

Says 1,492,876 Hens

A SEVEN months' survey covering 1,492,876 hens in all leading poultry sections shows:

238 eggs in 100 pounds of Purina Poultry Chows
188 eggs average in 100 pounds of other feeds

Fifty extra eggs in a bag of Purina! $1.50 extra value in every bag of Purina Poultry Chows! Not a few hens here and there, but thousands of them from everywhere say, "Purina will make you more money." That's why we've become the local authorized Purina dealer. That's why we urge that you, too, get some of those profits from feeding Purina to your poultry and live stock.

Come in and let us show you the Purina line—or phone us for a supply.

It is easy to ship your cotton if you will tell the ginner or weigher that you want your cotton to go to the Farm Bureau. He will give you a tag, tell you your contract number and fix you up.

The only thing left for you to do is to take your bill of lading (after you get your cotton on the depot platform and have the agent sign the bill of lading) to the bank, if you want money.

If you do not want to draw money, just write on the bill of lading, how and when you want the cotton sold, and address it to the ALABAMA FARM BUREAU COTTON ASSOCIATION, MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

Shoults Citizen is In Favor of 3-Mill Tax

Editor Union-Banner:

It has been quite a while since I have written you, but it seems that now my nieces and nephews are in danger of having to take a set-back educationally, so I am asking that you give me a small space to say a few words in their behalf.

I have always heard it said "count the cost, we pay for all we get," and believing in this quotation, as I do, it is inconceivable to me, to think there are some people who think that we can educate our children without having to pay for it.

When I was a boy, I went to school only about two months in the year, as we did not have public schools at that time. The people could not pay for a longer private term. During the term I cut cross ties and paid my tuition and board, so I say, God forbid our going back to the time when boys and girls, whose fathers would be unable to pay their tuition in school, having to do such laborious work as I did, so they might go to school to be taught to make better citizens. It is absurd to think of the idea when we know there are over 6000 children in our county attending our schools and that the incorporations of the county pay two-thirds of the taxes for our children's education; in other words, every time we pay $1.00 tax, they pay $2.00 tax. After they have come to our county and utilized our water and our land, and made a fortune for themselves, isn't it fair that they give us something in return?

It was my pleasure to attend an Opportunity School this summer and I hope that the tax can be levied so that I may go again next year. I have no children of my own to educate now, as my youngest one is already a graduate of the University of Alabama, but I can not be selfish enough to vote against other people's children getting an education.

Some people think this tax levy is to increase their taxes, but that is wrong. It is only to continue the tax we now have.

Let's put aside our personal prejudices and vote for the best interest of our boys and girls who will soon be our citizens.—Yours for better schools, Uncle Remus.

ALL-DAY SINGING

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to announce that we are going to have an all-day singing at Corinth Church on the Fifth Sunday in September, which is the 29th. We will not have a public dinner but we expect to feed the singers, and ask that everybody come and enjoy the day with us and bring your Showalter and Vaughn books, and a basket. We extend a hearty welcome to the Clanton Quartet, and ask them to be with us and all other quartets are asked to come. Corinth is located five miles east of Verbena on the Knight's Ferry oad. We tried to have this singing early in the summer but were knocked out on account of rain, and we hope to have a nice day for the singing.—C. P. Jones.

MT. PISGAH NEWS

Editor Union Banner:

Please allow us a small space in your paper to say a few words in regard to our community. Everybody is getting their little bit of cotton out now while the sun shines, but the job won't last long through this section, for our crops are rather short.

Folks, we still have a wide-awake church here, a Sunday school every Sunday at 10 a. m., and a real good C. E. Society at 6:30 p. m., and preaching on the second and fourth Sundays and Sunday nights. Bro. Martin of Clanton preaches on the 2nd. So, please remember that visitors are welcome to all our services. Come, help out, and see what is taking place here.

Our C. E. Society rendered a good proposed radio program last Sunday P. M.. Everybody seemed to enjoy it mighty well. Our society is planning on carrying a program to Pleasant Grove M. P. Church next third Sunday night, September 15.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

KEEPIN GOOD EGGS GOOD IN THE GOOD OLD SUMMER TIME

With an audible "Whew!" a perspiring old fellow deposited his week's "catch" of eggs on the store counter. "By golly!" he exclaimed, "it may be the good old summer time for some folks, but it sure don't do the egg business a mite of good!"

"Why, what's the trouble, Mr. Withers?" inquired the white-aproned clerk.

"Well," drawled the older man, "I've got just 15 dozen eggs for you today and by right it ought to be 20, but the darned weather just ruins 'em."

"Let your roosters run with the hens, Mr. Withers?" asked the clerk.

"Sure," was the reply. "What else are you going to do with them?"

Then the young man, who happened to be recently graduated from the state agricultural college, explained to his rather incredulous one-man audience that by allowing eggs to become fertilized he reduced their keeping qualities to an almost unbelievable extent. He concluded this impromptu lesson with this good advice: "If your roosters are of no special value, kill them and eat 'em. I fyou don't want to do that, pen them up until you needs eggs for hatching. A rooster does more harm than good any time outside the breeding season if allowed to run with the hens."

I think most people realize the correctness of the young clerk's statement, but his advice si not followed as generally as it should be. Hens will continue to lay eggs if there isn't even a rooster in the same county. What is more, eggs produced under such conditions will keep much longer and at considerably higher temperatures than the fertile eggs that result from permitting male birds to run with the flock at all times.

A fertile egg will soon begin to show chick development if exposed to a temperature of over 70 degrees. Higher temperatures cause faster development and ang egg will become absolutely unfit for human food within four or five days after development starts. Since temperatures even higher than those mentioned are not uncommon during the summer months the desirability of "swatting the rooster" at that time is very important.

By keeping eggs infertile, the difficulty of handling them is greatly reduced. Another of the rules for producing good summer eggs is to keep them clean. A dirty egg has usually been wet, and wetting destroys the natural film which protects an egg against the entry of the spores of decay. Keeping eggs from getting dirty is not nearly as difficult as it sounds. Provide plenty of clean nests; and clean them frequently. It is also advisable to keep hens indoors when the runs are wet and muddy. Should some eggs become soiled in spite of all precautions, keep them for home consumption. Do not wash them, as washed eggs sopil quickly. Gather eggs at least once or twice each day.

A cool clean place is another essential factor in keeping eggs fresh and marketable during the wram days of summer. A basement is usually cool enough but should be dry and free from objectionable odors. No matter how good your storage facilities may be, however, market your eggs often in hot weather and the hotter the weather the oftener they should be gotten out of your hands.

Bad flavors in eggs are usually more common during hot weather than at other times. They may result from mold, absorption of odors or feeding of certain materials. Eggs held in a damp musty place will develop a mold which causes an unpleasant flavor, or storing eggs near onions, cabbage, kerosene or any other substance with a strong penetrating odor may cause bad flavors.

Most of the suggestions given above might well be kept in force the entire year round. The high temperature of summer months creates special conditions, however, which make it doubly desirable to exercise every precaution to insure delivering to market only eggs that are strictly fresh and palatable. Producers who are known to deliver only the best of high grade eggs can always command a higher price and can find a ready market for their output even when others are bewailing the fact that over-production or some other ever present bugaboo has beaten their prices down.

J. L. RUFFIN DEALER FOR PURINA CHOWS, FEED

J. L. Ruffin has just become an authorized local dealer for Purina Chows, famous mixed feeds sold in the checkerboard bags, according to an announcement by one of his assistants.

Everyone connected with the local concern are farm trained and will be Purina account, to render invaluable service to farmers in this territory. Purina dealers in every section of the country have become noted for the use of outstanding merchandising ideas. The local dealers will put into effect at once the same successful business plans as is endorsed and used by other Purina dealers in the United States and Canada.

J. L. Ruffin will handle the full line of Purina Chows which includes mixed feeds for cows, horses, hogs, sheep, and dogs. The service of Purina specialists and service men will be available to farmers in this territory since the establishing of a dealer here to handle the accounts. Purina Mills is one of the oldest feed manufacturing concerns in the United States. It has nineteen plants in the United States and Canada. It has long been noted for its careful policy of selecting representatives to handle their account.

"It will be our aim to give the very best service possible to our customers and to actually help them with their feeding problems through specialists that will be at our command through the Purina organization," one of his assistants said in making the announcement this week that their company had been named to handle the checkerboard account.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Co-operation in Religious Work

In order to prepare to teach this lesson the teacher should master the contents of the book of Nehemiah.

Nehemiah was a cupbearer to the Persian king. While performing his official duty he learned of the distress of his brethren in Jerusalem. The walls of the city were broken down, its gates burnt, and the remnant of the captives were in great affliction. This news brought by his brethren greatly moved Nehemiah. He sat down and wept and mourned several days, fasting and praying before God. In answer to his prayer he was granted a leave of absence from the Persian court, and credentials from the king. He journeyed to Jerusalem and made a survey of the city by night without disclosing his purpose to any one. Having thus obtained first-hand information, he called the representatives of the Jews together and said, "Let us build the walls of Jerusalem."

I. Preparation for the Building (chap. 3).

The division of labor in this project displayed Nehemiah's administrative ability. A wise distribution of labor makes difficult tasks easy. Observe some outstanding features of this great work:

1. Stress laid upon indifference (v. 5).

In administrative tasks it is proper that unfaithfulness should be pointed out as a warning to the unfaithful and encouragement to the faithful.

2. Help rendered by the women (v. 12).

Perhaps Shallum had no sons to aid him.

3. Stress laid upon earnestness of some (v. 20).

Recognition of fidelity will spur one to faithfulness.

4. Every one built over against his own house (vv. 10, 23, 28).

No incentive for exertion is quite so strong as that which concerns one's own family.

5. Certain guilds of men undertook certain work (vv. 8, 31, 32).

II. Hindrances Encountered (4:1-6:14).

1. Scoffing of Sanballat and Tobiah (4:1-6, cf. 2:19, 20).

The oppressors of God's servants frequently begin by hurling ridicule.

2. Conspiracy for a sudden attack (4:7-9).

When the enemy saw that the work was actually succeeding they changed from ridicule to an attempt to throw the workmen into a panic.

3. Conspiracy with the Jews (4:10-23).

They sought to hinder by inducing the Jews who were outside to discourage their brethren by the claim that the task was hopeless and that they were liable to sudden and secret attack.

4. Greed and oppression of the rich (5:1-13).

The Jews of that day, like the profiteers of our day, took advantage of the poor and oppressed them, so that they mortgaged their land and even sold their daughters into slavery.

5. Scheme to take Nehemiah's life (6:1-14).

When Sanballat and Tobiah failed in every other way they sought by craft to get Nehemiah away, that they might kill him.

III. The Wall Completed (6:15-7:4).

So energetically did they pursue their tasks that in fifty-two days the wall was completed. We may learn from this:

1. That though God's children are beset by enemies, they should not fear.

2. That when beset by enemies, we should pray (4:9).

Their faith was accompanied by wise precaution.

(a) They set a watch (4:9).

(b) Men were permitted to be with their families (4:13), and would thus fight better.

(c) Half worked and half watched all armed for battle.

(d) They worked with sword in one hand (4:17).

(e) They slept in their clothes in readiness (4:23).

Prayer and faith are not slothful or inactive.

Plato pictured the soul under the figure of a many-headed monster, a lion and a man, combined in one form. The man represented the higher nature, the reason; the lion the passionate element; and the many-headed monster the lusts and appetites. The picture is as true today as when first presented. The lion and many headed monster exists in every person. It can only be changed by the love of the Christ, by which the lion is made to be as a lamb.

FROM OLD IGNORAMUS

Editor Union-Banner:

I noticed in last week's Union-Banner that you said if we did not vote the three mill school tax the public schools of the county would be able to operate only a little more than two months each year; that there could not be a single high school operated in the county; that there would be no Chilton County High School; that there could only be Grammar school grades running for a little over two months each year. You say these are startling statements. They are vouched for by the Superintendent of Education of Chilton County. And you also warn the voters to look facts squarely in the face as they read from the pen of Ignorance Drops and Ignoramus.

Now then, I believe that Ignorance Drops and Ignoramus believe in education just as much as you or the Superintendent of Education of Chilton County or anyone else. But I do not believe that a county superintendent of education should use an editor of a county paper as a spur to spur the taxpayers into line to vote as he wants them to. I do not believe a county superintendent of education should have the right to deny a community the service of a teacher after the teacher has given a year of good and satisfactory service and employed by the trustees and patrons for another year's service.

I do not believe that a county superintendent of education should sit down and dictate three letters to his lady assistant and have her address them to three trustees of a school and put them in three stamped envelopes and hand them to the trustees. This is a waste of that much of the taxpayers money.

The governor of our state has said if his school program was allowed to continue on after his term of office expired that we would have sufficient revenue for public education, public health and other state activities. Now if the governor's statement is true why should the voters of Chilton County hearken unto the voice of the County Superintendent of education who apparently is sitting in a soft saddle buckled to the good old tax paying pacing horse of Chilton County with an editor securely fastened to his heel to spur the voters in line on the 17th day of September, 1929.

Dear voter, did you ever believe that we would ever have such a monarchail school system in Chilton County as we now have? The only privilege the patrons of the schools have now is to vote for more taxes to run the schools and pay to every call that comes for school purposes. If we have any more privilege than that please tell me what it is.

Dear old voter, as the editor said in last week's Union-Banner, these are startling statements. What are you going to do? Can't you see a desperate landing just ahead? We had better learn how to vote a little to our interest instead of voting entirely to the interest of the office-holder, and making them our bosses and we their servants.

Now look out for misleading statements in next week's papers because politicians generally use such tactics to carry things their way. The time has surely come when the voters of Chilton County should demand economy in the handling of our county funds.

In conclusion let me ask that each voter look facts squarely in the face and vote for the interest of the Masses and not for the Classes.

Yours for reduction in Taxes.—Old Ignoramus.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Smith of Wetumpka were visiting friends and relatives in Clanton Sunday.

ENDORSES DOCTOR SCOTT

Editor Union-Banner:

Seeing so many good things in our good old paper just can't keep from writing a few lines. First place, I think if we had a few more Doctors like Doctor Scott, and had the backbone to come out and tell how things are going I believe things would get better. I think he has the greatest politic remedy there is. It looks to me like two doses would cure the histerics and I don't know if it would relieve a man of hook worms. He is one of the doctors that you don't have to go to see, just write him up in the paper and he will give the medicine. The good old doctor referred to schools. I will indorse what he said. With all the mill taxes that can be voted in show me what good it does the man that is sending to school. You take the high incidental fees at Jemison and the price of books, a poor man is not able to send to school. I say let people have schools in the county. You take what the county pays the trucks and give it to schools in the county and with what they have got they can run an eight months school and teach up to the eighth grade. So, come along boys and don't forget the 17th of this month.—Just a Reader.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court, In Equity, No. 782, August 3, 1929.

A. E. Hicks, et al, Complainant, vs. H. G. Boyd, administrator, et al, Defendant.

In The Matter of Estate of G.W. Fox, deceased

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds that Nora Anderson is a non-resident of State of Alabama and resides in State of Oklahoma; that Thos. J. Smitherman is non-resident of State of Alabama and resides at West Point, Ga., 610 State Court; that Pearlie Mae Higgins, is non-resident of State of Alabama, whose residence is 602 Sante Fe Bldg., Dallas, Tex.; that Johnnie Smitherman and Mary Louise Smitherman are minors over 14 years of age, and who reside with their sister, Pearlie Mae Higgins, at 602 Sante Fe Bldg., Dallas, Tex.; Pearlie Mae Higgins, the person with whom said minors reside, that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that their place of residence and post-office address is unknown, except as stated above, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; except as stated above, and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendants are over the age of twenty-one years, except the two minors as indicated.

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring them, the said Nora Anderson, Thomas J. Smitherman, Pearlie Mae Higgins, Johnnie Smitherman, Mary Louise Smitherman to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 16th day of September, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against them.

Done at office in Clanton, this 8th day of August, 1929.

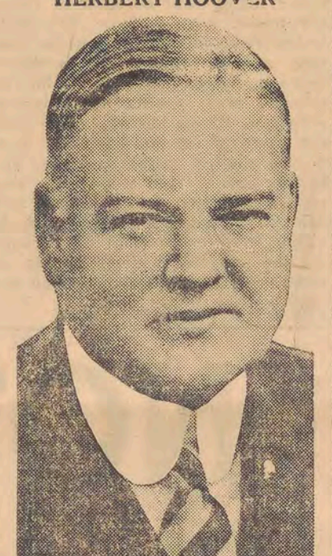
Mr. H. W. Peterson spent several days here last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Peterson. He was accompanied to his home in Birmingham by his wife and two children who have been spending a couple of weeks here.



PICTURE OF BAPTIZING IN NEW YORK TIMES

The rotogravure section of The New York Times Sunday, September the first, carried a large half-page photograph of the baptizing at Falakto on Sunday, August 25th. The scene shows 65 candidates for baptism standing in the waters of Chestnut Creek awaiting their turn to be immersed.

The picture may be seen on the show window of Alred Drug Co.

Mr. A. J. Culp was visitor at The Banner office Tuesday.

HERBERT HOOVER

President Herbert Hoover is going to give Ray Burraker back his 'possum. Since Ray visited the President's Rapidan fishing camp a few weeks ago, and presented Mr. Hoover with a big, fat 'possum, it has become known that the president has definitely decided to arrange for the education of Burraker and a number of his chums. This action on the part of President Hoover is a very commendable one, and one which will make Ray's 'possum prove to be a valuable one indeed to him in the years to come.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL

On last Friday evening at eight o'clock members of the Senior Epworth League of Clanton Methodist Church met in the basement of the church and enjoyed a delightful social. CLANTON BOY IN PRATTVILLE FUSS

J. L. Teel Placed Under Bond Charged With Cutting Another Boy During Fight

J. L. Teel, son of Walter Teel, of Clanton, is under bond charged with cutting a man during a fight at Prattville Monday night. Following the affray, young Teel was placed in jail. When friends in Clanton were notified of his incarceration, they went to Prattville and secured his release on bond.

J. L. and Durwood Teel, accompanied by Courtland Retherford and Chick Fiquett, went to Prattville Monday night to visit the skating rink. On a previous visit to Prattville, J. L. Teel had had some trouble with a young man there.

When the Clanton boys arrived in Prattville Monday night a group of Prattville boys are said to have been waiting for them. Somebody in the crowd, said to be a brother of the boy with whom J. L. had had trouble, knocked J. L. and Durwood down with a brick, and the fight started. One of the Prattville boys was reported severely cut about the head and face, and J. L. Teel was charged with the cutting.

The Sheriff of Autauga County broke up the fight and put Teel in jail. He was later released on bond when friends from Clanton went down to see about him.

NEW LAUNDRY IN OPERATION

Felix Rhodes and Tom Taylor, owners of the new Clanton Service Laundry, are pleased to announce to their friends and patrons that they now have their new machinery installed and in operation. Their place of business is west of the railroad next to the picture show.

General supervision of the business is in the hands of Mr. Rhodes, who is well known as a laundry man throughout this territory. The inside work of the plant is in charge of Mr. V. Z. Taylor, an experienced laundry man from the Capitol City Laundry of Montgomery.

There are two Clanton Service Laundry trucks which take care of the job of collecting laundry in Clanton and twelve other adjacent towns.

"We are highly pleased with the manner in which our new machinery is working," said Mr. Rhodes. "Our work is turning out extra good. We find that Clanton's water supply is ideal for our purposes since the filtering system has begun to work."

Dates Announced For Foot Ball Here

High School Team Will Take On Isabella Followed by Centreville Team

Coach W. M. Green at the county high school is pushing up practice on his football team, and has already signed up for two games here soon. The first is to be with Isabella here on Monday, September 30th. The next will be with Centerville here on the following Friday, October 4.

Chilton probable line-up for these games will be: Retherford, center; Ralph Johnson and Orville Popwell, guards; Dooney Wagoner, 1st tackle, 2nd tackle will lie between Paul Holley and William Robinson; Rufus Brown right end; left end will be held down either by Paul Cox or R. J. Jones; Benson Sims, quarterback; Herman Harris, left half; Harvey Nelson, full back; Robert Sumner, right half.

This team deserves special mention in that it is light but fast and brainy. Dooney Wagoner is sure to make a big hit as first tackle as he has shown exceptional skill in his practice; Paul Sumner is also good on the toe. Clyde Cleckler and Gerald Birdette are light but fast is no name for them.

Those who enjoy athletics should keep a close watch on Chilton's football team this vear, as they are sure to have something interesting for you all the season. Watch the papers for announcements.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson and son, Arthur, Jr., are visiting Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Hall, in Owensville, Indiana, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Teel and Mr. Dovard Cleckler attended the circus in Montgomery last Wednesday night.

CELEBRATE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

Rev. W. S. Cox and Mrs. Sarah (McKee) Cox celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding on last Saturday, September the 7th. In discussing this event with Brother Cox we took down some notes about himself and his family which we think will be of interest to his many friends and acquaintances throughout Chilton County.

Rev. and Mrs. Cox have eight children living and two dead. They have 33 living grandchildren and four dead. There are three great grandchildren. On September 22 Brother Cox will be 72 years old.

Mrs. Cox is a daughter of John and Lucy McKee, who were well-known residents of Chilton County back in the pioneer days. Rev. Cox is a son of L. M. Cox who died when he was 13 years old. At the time of his death he lived near where Lock 12 is now located. W. S. Cox is the only child of that family now living. He was born in Cobb County, Georgia, at Roswell factory, September 22, 1857. His father came to Chilton County when he was a small child.

Rev. Cox joined the Baptist church at Cane Creek when he was 16 years old. He says he has never had a charge against him in his church nor has ever been personally involved in a case in court. "I have been preaching for 39 years," said Rev. Cox, "and I am glad to say that I have the same faith as when I began." Mr. and Mrs. Cox are now living at the home of their daughter, Mrs. W. M. Poole, in Clanton.

JOHN A. DICKINSON VISITOR HERE LAST WEEK

Hon. John A. Dickinson of Prattville was a visitor to Clanton one day last week. The editor of The Union-Banner was glad to have a visit from Mr. Dickinson while he was here. We were able to scrape up a few choice memories of the famous Brandon Legislature of 1923, wherein we were the more or less exalted representatives of our respective and neighbor counties of Chilton and Autauga.

Mr. Dickinson is now Judge of the Inferior Court of Autauga County. He was engrossing clerk of the present legislature at its last session.

The political bee is still buzzing around Judge Dickinson. He is considering the race for State Senator next year to represent the counties of Autauga, Chilton, and Shelby.

SAMPLES OF SORRY COTTON

Usually farmers bring us samples of their best products. Mr. E. H. Mims of Concord took the other side of the picture last week and brought in some stalks of cotton to show how sorry it was. One of the samples he brought to The Union-Banner office was a stalk eight and one half feet high which had only seven bolls on it. Too much stalk and not enough cotton frequently happens when cotton is grown on certain kinds of land with improper methods of cultivation and fertilization. We would not attempt to say what was the matter with this particular sample, but it was evidently sorry cotton.

We saw a field of cotton at D. M. Apperson's place last week which afforded a perfect contrast to that of Mr. Mim's. The Apperson cotton was small. It averaged about 18 inches high, but was loaded with bolls. Plenty of stalks a foot high had more cotton than the stalk that was eight and a half feet high.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

On Monday evening of this week, September 9, at 7:30 o'clock, there began a Special rally and Revival services at the Third Presbyterian church, Corner of Avenue G and 22nd Street, South, Birmingham, Ala., Bro. J. A. Bryan, pastor. The following are some of the topics which have been or will be discussed at these services: "The Importance of Private Prayer," "The Conditions of Answered Prayer," "The Garden of Gethsemane," "God's Plan of Salvation from Sin," "The Blood of Jesus Christ."

Bro. Bryan, the pastor for forty years and three months, will preach.

The officers and members and pastor, beg your prayers, and your presence.

CLANTON QUARTET AT MAPLESVILLE

The Clanton Quartet will render a musical concert at the High School Building at Maplesville on Friday night, September 20, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The program will consist of a varied selection of sacred, spiritual and popular songs.

The singers will appear under auspices of the Maplesville parent-teacher association. Everybody is invited to attend.

Members Of Commissioners Court Are For Three-Mill School Tax

Answer To Editorial of Chilton County News Brings Statement Regarding Three-Mill Tax And Other Questions Concerning Conduct of County's Financial Business

In answer to some queries made by The Chilton County News, the members of the Court of Commissioners of Chilton County have issued a statement setting forth their views about the three-mill tax and certain other related questions brought up by The News.

The position of the members of the Court is set forth in a letter to the editor of The Chilton County News, copy of which is as follows:

Editor Chilton County News:

The attention of the Commissioners Court was called to an editorial appearing in your paper of September 5th, regarding the election on September 17th, 1929, of the three-mill school tax, and the members of the Court authorized the following statements to be made regarding your editorial, and in answering the questions therein stated:

To answer the main query of your article, of course the Court takes no official stand upon this question as a Court; but as individual members each member of said Court is for said tax, and expect to vote for the same on September 17th. We fully realize that the education of the boys and girls of this County is one of the most important public questions with which we are confronted. However, the law places the duty of managing the school affairs upon the County Board of Education and its Superintendent, and the Court of County Commissioners has numerous other duties to perform, and we do not think it our legal right to encroach upon the duties and responsibilities of the school authorities in the management of the schools. The Commissioners Court recognizes that it is the servant of all the people, and it is anxious to obey their voice. The Court is always glad to consult the people upon all matters it has to deal with, and always gives the people an opportunity to express themselves in all public matters when they can conveniently do so. Just recently the Court advertised a road meeting in your paper, also in The Union-Banner and invited all parties interested to come before the Court and make any complaint or suggestion that they thought would be of the best interest of the working of the roads in the County.

You refer in said editorial to what Mr. Gerald said about the surplus we have in the County Treasury, how it should be spent. Now we would be glad to meet the people in mass meeting and discuss with them the interest of the schools in the County, and any appropriations they would want us to make of their money; however, we might say if the Commissioners Court in the past had followed the advice of Mr. Gerald and Mr. Atkinson there would not be any surplus in the Treasury to be argued over, as their public record will show they have never left any surplus.

Under the law we can only make appropriations for certain kinds of schools, being vocation schools and those of the Smith-Hughes type and also High schools, and we have appropriated very liberally to the vocational school at Jemison and Isabella, being the only two schools of that type in the County.

It is true that the County has a considerable surplus in the Treasury, but our idea now is to pay off an old debt which was created some fifteen years ago when neither of the present members of the Court were in office, and on which the taxpayers have been paying interest and will have to continue until this debt is paid. We are also trying to manage the County affairs economically and upon a conservative basis. However, we are also glad to listen to the wants of the people, as we consider ourselves public servants, and we will be glad to appropriate some of the County funds to help those schools in the County which the law authorizes us to help if the money is to be economically spent for the education of the boys and girls, and if the same is not used to raise salaries, to create new jobs and other useless expenses which will not benefit directly education.

The members of the Commissioners Court frankly state that as individual taxpayers and officials of the County we are glad to appropriate out of the public funds money for any purposes authorized by law when we feel the people are directly benefited, but as we have stated herein the Commissioners Court is not encroaching upon the rights of the school authorities, as they are specifically delegated by law with the duty of managing the school affairs.

Again we might state that we are for the school tax, as it does not place any additional tax on the public, but is a mere continuation of the tax we have had for the past fifteen years, and we feel that notwithstanding any disagreement that the people might have against the present operation of the school system, or any of its officials, that we can not neglect the education of our children and to defeat this tax would greatly retard this. If the opportunity arises in the future whereby appropriations are needed from the public funds, and that the public will be directly benefited by said appropriations, then the members of the Court hereby express themselves as being in favor of appropriating reasonably for said purposes.

We conclude this statement by saying that we are for local self-government and we believe the people are supreme, and should be consulted on all matters that could be consistently referred to them. In voting for the continuation of the three-mill school tax we do not indorse all of the present school system nor all things done by school authorities, however, as we stated above, notwithstnading this, we feel that our duty to education and the love for our County, and the education of its children that we will sacrifice any such differences, and will vote for this tax.—L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate; Commissioners, A. P. Vinson, J. P. Bean, J. L. Burnett, T. A. Maddox.

Kiwanis Club of Clanton Resolves To Support Three-Mill School Tax

Question Discussed And Given Unanimous Endorsement At The Regular Weekly Meeting At Methodist Church On Last Thursday, September The 5th

Whereas, an election has been called by the Commissioner's Court of Chilton County Alabama, to be held on the 17th day of September 1929, to submit to the qualified electors of said county the question of revoting or rejecting the three mill scool tax for another period of ten years, and,

Whereas, this tax is used to operate our public schools throughout the county and has been one of the great factors in bringing Chilton County to the front in Educational Standards during the past ten years, and is of vital importance if these standards are to be continued, and

Whereas, to reject this tax will mean a great disaster to the education of our children and will bring the name of our county into question and will cast upon it such a reflection as to denominate its citizenship as being backward and non-progressive, and,

Whereas the Kiwanis Club holds as one of its objectives the furtherance of all causes for the advancement of education and the proper training of the youth of our land, therefore

Be it resolved by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, at its regular weekly meeting, this the 5th day of September, 1929, that we declare ourselves in favor of the proposed three mill tax and urge the citizens of Chilton County to vote for it.

The resolution was unanimously authorized and passed by the Club at the meeting above stated and the following members being present: H. G. Boyd, E. A. Childs, C. B. Cox, S. J. Ezell, V. J. Gragg, F. P. James, J. C. Jones, J. R. Mullins, J. C. Page, P. M. Pitts, Geo. C. Polk, Raymond C. Smith, C. E. Stapp, Reedie Taylor, L. C. War, W. M. Wyatt.

BRIGGS CRUMPTON GONE TO CENTERVILLE, ALA.

Mr. Briggs Crumpton, who has been on the sales force of Polk Brothers Motor Company for some years past, has severed his connection with the local firm, and gone to Centerville, where he will sell Chevrolet automobiles for the Pratt Chevrolet Company.

His connection with the Pratt organization began Monday morning. Mr. Crumpton is a good hustler, and has made a splendid record for selling cars here. His friends wish him well with his new connection.

DR. JOHNSON HAS ARRIVED IN JAPAN

The Union-Banner has received a card from Dr. Sam Johnson saying that he has arrived in Yokohoma, Japan. He has been assigned to duty on the U. S. S. Mindanao.

SELLING CHEVROLETS TOO

Mr. Herbert W. Lowery wishes all of his friends to know that he is now connected with Polk Brothers in the capacity of new and used car salesman.

Of course Mr. Lowery is a singer by trade, but while he is not singing he has to pass off the time some way, so he thought he might do Mr. Polk and the public a little good by impresing on them the right kind of automobile to buy; hence his decision to sell Chevrolets.

Mr. Lowery asks The Union-Banner to tell his friends and acquaintances over the county to see him if they are interested in either a new Chevrolet or any kind of used car; he will be glad to figure with you.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONFERENCE

The annual Sunday Schol Conference of the Unity-Chilton Associations will be held with Sardis church on Sunday, September 22. All Sunday school workers of the two associations are requested to attend this meeting.

Especially do we urge all officers and teachers to be present as business of great importance will come before this meeting.

Each Sunday school is asked to elect delegates on next Sunday so that your school will be represented. Don't forget to send report.

Program will be published next week.—Respectfully, H. A. Harris, President Sunday School work.

M'KINNON-LAMBERT WEDDING

Mr. Percy McKinnon and Miss Meadie Lambert were married last Saturday. Mr. McKinnon is a son of D. W. McKinnon of Friendship community. His bride is a daughter of Mr. W. J. Lambert of Cane Creek. For a while the newlyweds will live in Clanton with Mr. McKinnon's grandmother at the Green Retherford place.

Their friends extend to them hearty good wishes for a long life of happiness together.

CHARGE AGAINST REYNOLDS FAILS

Federal Official Given Clean Bill By Mitchell In Handling Prohibition Cases

Washington, Sept. 7.—Department of justice agents have made another investigation of the record of Grady Reynolds, United States attorney for the middle Alabama district, and here again reported that nothing was discovered to warrant his removal, according to information from official sources today.

The latest investigation was conducted under the personal direction of Attorney General Mitchell. It centered aroung charges by the Montgomery Woman's Christian Temperance Union and Mrs. Mary T. Jeffries, state president, that Mr. Reynolds' handling of prohibition cases had been unsatisfactory to the organization. Inasmuch as these charges were filed right at a time when the justice department and the administration was seeking to tighten up prohibition enforcement, the attorney general gave them his personal attention.

In view of the fact that the investigation failed to make out a case against Reynolds, it is expected that the district attorney will be nominated for another term at an early date.—Washington Bureau of The Mobile Register, by Herbert Baughn.

DEPUTY KILLED HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT

Clarence Bailey, 18, student at Clay County High School at Ashland, was shot and killed Sunday afternoon on the Ashland-Roanoke Highway about six miles from Ashland.

Deputy Sheriff Cecil Guthrie surrendered to the Sheriff's office shortly after the killing. Guthrie is reported to have said the shooting was accidental. He told Sheriff Allen that he was approaching Bailey and several other youths to place them under arrest on liquor charges when they fled.

The deputy said he fired twice into the air to frighten Bailey. He said a third shot was fired accidentally when he stumbled while pursuing the youth. Bailey is a son of J. W. Bailey, farmer residing ten miles from Ashland.

ALBERT THOMAS ARRESTED

Albert Thomas was arrested Saturday night by the Sheriff, and put in jail on a charge of public drunkenness. He was later released on bond.

Milk Truck Wrecked Near Here Tuesday

B'ham Man Landed In Jail For Being Drunk And Having Liquor On Him

When a big milk truck attempted to pass a Ford car on the highway Tuesday afternoon the result was a wreck of the truck which sent its occupants to the hospital. Two white men and a negro were injured, though not seriously.

It is said that when the truck passed the Ford the latter pulled over so close that the truck got off the pavement to avoid a crash with the car. This caused the truck to get out of control of the driver. It crossed the ditch, climbed a bank and turned over in a field.

Occupants of the Ford car gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McKinney of Birmingham. The lady was driving when the mishap occurred to the truck.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinney came on to Clanton. As they came to the busy intersection of the highway and Second Avenue they were traveling too fast. Their car struck the car of Mrs. Frank Callen. No serious damage was done but Chief John Boockholdt took charge of them. He was informed that the occupants of the Ford were the same parties who had been mixed up with the milk truck and carried them back up the road for identification.

Mr. Boockholdt found that the man was intoxicated and charged him with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. County Deputy Murrah found that he had about half a pint of liquor and charged him with violating the prohibition law.

Mr. McKinney made bond for both charges and was released late Tuesday afternoon.

Yesterday's Ginning Methods Are Not Enough Today

the farmer now demands that his cotton be ginned to protect his profit

Ginning methods of even five years ago do not meet today's needs any more than the farm implements of fifty years ago would.

To get the highest price for his cotton, the farmer knows that it must be cleaned and ginned to increase spinnability of every bale. High spinnability reduces spinning loss, for which the mill man willingly pays a premium.

NEW FORD TUDOR SEDAN
$525
(F. O. B. Detroit, plus charge for freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra.)

Real quality has been built into every part of the new Ford

"Read over the details of the mechanical features of this new car and you will know there is nothing quite like it anywhere in design, quality and price.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD

REMARKABLE ENGINE

THE engine of the new Ford embodies many new mechanical features. It gives unusual acceleration, smoothness, speed and power without sacrifice of reliability and economy. Ford engineering has found the way to include every essential feature of good performance without the necessity of a high speed motor.

The design of the cylinder head is just one factor in this performance. Others are the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, the carefully planned large valve diameter, the chrome silicon alloy valves, the aluminum pistons, the statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, and the simplicity of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel system.

VIBRATION-ABSORBING ENGINE SUPPORT

A special feature of the Ford engine is the manner in which engine vibration is absorbed before it reaches the chassis of the car, thereby preventing unpleasant vibration periods.

This is done in the new Ford through the introduction of a flexible front end support that is both simple and practical—a truly remarkable improvement in engine mounting developed after many months of testing and experimenting.

55 to TO 65 MILES AN HOUR

The new Ford has unusual speed. It will do 55 to 60 miles an hour with ease. This is a conservative statement. In many road tests it has exceeded 65 miles an hour. So well does the new car hold the road that you can travel at high speed for long stretches with a new feeling of comfort and safety. Even bad roads may be taken at a fast pace. You will be delighted too with the way the new Ford climbs the hills. You will face the steepest grades with confidence, knowing you have power to climb them all without greatly reduced speed, without strain, or unnecessary shifting of gears.

QUICK ACCELERATION

Everywhere you go you can see how quickly the new Ford accelerates. Fact is, there are very few cars at any price that are any quicker on the get-away. Watch it in traffic the next time the light says "GO."

LOW UP-KEEP COST

The reliability and economy of the new Ford are as important as its beauty, speed, comfort, and safety. Because of the quality that has been built into it, you will save many dollars a year in operation costs and in repair bills.

SILENT SIX-BRAKE SYSTEM

One of the first things you will notice when you drive the new Ford is the quick, effective, silent action of its six-brake system.

This system gives you the highest degree of safety and reliability because the four-wheel service brakes and the separate emergency or parking brakes are all of the mechanical, internal-expanding type, with braking surfaces fully enclosed for protection against mud, water, sand, etc.

A further improvement is effected by the self-centering feature of the four-wheel brakes—an exclusive Ford development. Through this construction, the entire surface of the shoe is brought in contact with the drum the instant you press your foot on the brake pedal. This prevents screeching and howling and makes the Ford brakes unusually silent.

SIMPLE OILING SYSTEM

The lubrication system for the engine of the new Ford is as simple in principle as water running down-hill.

A gear pump in the bottom of the oil pan raises the oil to the valve chamber reservoir. From here it flows on to the main crankshaft bearings and the front camshaft bearing. Overflow oil drops into the oil pan tray and runs into troughs through which the connecting rods pass.

As the ends of these rods strike the oil they scoop up a supply for the connecting rod bearing. At the same time they set up a fine spray that lubricates the pistons and other moving parts.

From the tray the oil runs into the bottom of the pan, and is again drawn up through a fine mesh screen and pumped to the valve chamber.

This system is so effective that the five-quart contents of the oil pan pass through the pump twice in every mile when you are traveling at only 30 miles an hour. Yet there is only one movable part—the oil pump.

EASE OF STEERING

The new Ford is exceptionally easy to steer because of the well-proportioned weight of the car, the steel-spoke wheels, the co-ordinated design of springs and shock absorbers, the size and shape of the steering wheel, and the simple mechanical construction of the steering gear.

The Ford steering gear is of the worm and sector type used on high-priced cars and is three-quarter irreversible.

In simple, non-technical language, this means that the car responds easily and quickly to the steering wheel yet there is no danger of the wheel being jerked from the hands of the driver by ruts or bumps in the road. A light touch guides the car, yet you always have that necessary feel-of-the-road so essential to good driving.

TRIPLEX SHATTER-PROOF WINDSHIELD

All of the new Ford cars have a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield. This eliminates the danger of flying glass—the cause of 65% of automobile injuries.

EASY RIDING TRANSVERSE SPRINGS

The springs are of the transverse, semi-elliptic type, specially designed and built for the new Ford. They are built of the finest spring steel, and the leaves are wide and thin. Each spring is built up of varying sizes and number of leaves to give proper flexibility and to meet riding requirements of the different body types. The size and number of leaves used in these springs is one of the reasons why the new Ford is such a comfortable car. The construction of the transverse springs also contributes to the safety and efficiency of the six-brake system.

HOUDAILLE SHOCK ABSORBERS

Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers are standard equipment on the new Ford. These combine with the low center of gravity, the minimum unsprung weight, and the easy riding qualities of the transverse springs to make the new Ford one of the most comfortable cars on the road today.

THREE-QUARTER FLOATING REAR AXLE

The rear axle of the new Ford is of the three-quarter floating type with spiral bevel gear. The axle housings are made entirely of steel, built up by welding steel forgings to steel tubing. The axle shafts carry none of the weight of the car, the wheels running on roller bearings on the housing. The pinion hub is exceptionally heavy and the pinion is carried on double taper roller bearings, insuring perfect alignment of the gear. Special care has been taken to insure silence in the pinion and ring gears.

GREASE GUN LUBRICATION

The chassis of the new Ford is lubricated by the Alemite high pressure system, the simplest and most effective method of lubrication.

STANDARD EQUIPMENT

Standard equipment on all new Ford cars includes four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers, five steel-spoke wheels, electric windshield wiper, speedometer, gasoline gage on instrument panel, dash light, mirror, combination tail and stop light, oil indicator rod, complete tool equipment, theft-proof coincidental lock, high pressure grease gun lubrication, and Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield. Wide, substantial rumble seat is also standard equipment on the new Ford Sport Coupe. Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield wings are provided and standard equipment on the Roadster and Phaeton.

ERIC HART WRITES ON THREE-MILL TAX

To the Citizens of Chilton County:

Next Tuesday, the 17th, we will have an opportunity to decide a question that will mean much to this county, whether we shall continue the three-mill tax, or if we shall vote it down.

As I understand it, if this tax is not re-voted our school term will be so shortened that we will have practically no school in this county, a situation that would be one of the worst that could confront us, and which I hardly believe can happen, yet we must face the fact that without the money this tax brings in the schools in this county will not be able to operate but about two months in the year.

If we have dissatisfaction with the administration of the school affairs of the county a failure to re-vote the three-mill tax will not remedy the situation, but will only produce another much worse.

Let's all vote FOR the three mill tax next Tuesday.—Eric Hart.

FROM E. W. BUTLER

Thorsby Institute, Thorsby, Ala.
Editor Union-Banner:

I wonder if a story I heard the other day has any bearing on next week's election.

I have been acquainted for more than 20 years with Professor Thomas McDonald, now of Eclectic. I met him recently and he told me a very interesting story of a recent experience of his.

He was asked to teach an Opportunity School in the penitentiary at Wetumpka, and while there he took an educational census of the men prisoners. There were two hundred of them, mostly young men, and many of them very illiterate. Very few of them had enough education to be ready for High School. Not one of all that number was a High School graduate.

That reminded me of a little experience of mine some years ago. I was trying to get a man to send his daughter to Thorsby Institute but he couldn't afford to do it as he had just had to spend a sum of money ten times as large as it would have cost to send his girl to school, to keep his boy out of the penitentiary.

Thorsby Institute would not be hurt directly if the Three-Mill Tax should be defeated next week. Indeed, I suppose we would find it easier to get pupils if the other high schools of the county were closed, as no doubt they will be if the tax is defeated, but the defeat of the tax would be such a blow to the county that I am sure no real friend of Thorsby Institute wants to see our county take such a backward step in educational matters.—E. W. Butlre.

NEWS FROM MT. CALVARY

As there is no news in our paper about our community I decided I would send just a few words.

Health of this place is just fine, everyone seems to be enjoying the days as they come very much.

Our revival closed Saturday with sixteen new additions. Everybody took a part in the meeting, and it was a grand and happy time around Mt. Calvary, as it had been quite a while since a meeting was held there. Bro. Davis and Bro. Cost were our preachers. Everyone who attended the meeting seems more benefited than before.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vinzant were visitors in Chilton Saturday night, and also Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Vinzant attended the meeting at Union Grove Sunday. They have joined at Mt. Calvary church, so they will bring their church letters from Union Grove, Chilton County, to Shelby County.

The people around here are going to re-organize a Sunday school class, and also call a preacher next Sunday. Hope all will go and take a part in the church affairs. This county is not represented as it should be and we Chilton County people hope to see this place noted for something better than a liquor den. I can say that no other church could have any better behavior than Mt. Calvary. No disturbance of any kind, and I hope all will let God dwell in their hearts since such a grand revival was held.

The Vinzant brothers are saw-milling just fine up here.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mims.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell Robinson returned home after spending a while down in dear old Chilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone from Chelsea were visitors at their old home Tuesday, also Mr. and Mrs. Shaw.

Mr. Dock Ousley and wife were visiting the latter's parents Sunday.

Mr. J. I. Crane and family from Chelsea attended the meeting here.

Miss Una Miner is planning a trip to Chilton with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vinzant in a few weeks.

Hoping The Banner much success.—A. Reader.

ISABELLA F. F. A. CLUB

The vocational agriculture boys of Isabella High met September 5, 1929 and elected new officers of the F. F. A. Club. The officers are as follows:

President, Oliver Manning; vice president, Herman Lecroy; secretary, Houston DeRamus; treasurer, Eubie Hamrick; reporter, Claude Conway. We hold our meeting on Thursday at the Agricultural Building. The F. F. A. meeting is about one hour and a half long, and we don't want any visitors unless they are interested in our line of work.

The F. F. A. stands for the future farmers of Alabama. It is an interesting club. We have lots of fun together. We have parties etc., along with our work.

SAMARIA

We sure were glad to see some of our members back at Sunday school Sunday who had been absent several Sundays.

Mrs. Leila Williams spent last week in Muscle Shoals, Decatur and Birmingham.

Mr. Raymond Mims and Mr. Buster Foshee will leave the middle of this week for the University of Alabama, where they will be in school next year. We are glad to see them take the advantage which stands out before them. We hope for them that this will be their best year in school.

Miss Jennie Foshee of Birmingham spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foshee.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Goss spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wood and family.

We are glad to report Mr. Joe Holley who has been seriously ill is lots better now.

Mrs. Margine Hendley left Sunday afternoon for Jacksonville, Ala. where she will enter Jacksonville State Normal School.

The B. Y. P. U. met at the regular hour, 7:00, Sunday night and a fine program was rendered by Group I. Group II will have charge next Sunday night. The subject for next Sunday night is, "The Ministry, That High Calling." What an interesting subject, and we hope to have a large crowd present as it is our regular preaching Sunday. It always makes the pastor feel better to have a large crowd, so come and fill the house.—A Reader.

LETTER FROM OLD IGNORAMUS

Editor Union-Banner:

As the time is drawing near when the voters of Chilton County must decide whether or not the three-mill school tax shall be continued for another ten years or not, I want to appeal to the voters of our county to consider well before casting their ballots for or against the three-mill school tax.

We are told by some that the high schools of our county could not be operated without the three-mill tax. Why not our commissioners take more interest in educational affairs and appropriate some of our surplus tax money for educational purposes instead of spending so much money to build speed highways for people to speed over and knock their brains out.

Do our children get any longer school terms then they did twelve or fifteen years ago when our county paid only about fifty thousand dollars per annum tax. Since then our taxes have more than doubled threefold. And the salaries of some of our school officials have more than doubled and our public schools don't get any longer terms nor any better service. Something wrong.

I say let us look after the interest of the children of our county and not so much to the interest of those who are running away with the educational wagon, and will sooner or later wreck our educational interest.

Let our commissioners take care of the high schools, and public roads. They were mighty big and smart men just before the election, and we want to see them continue to be big and smart and take more interest in the education of the children of Chilton County. Vote the three mill tax down and our schools can be operated just the same. And if our present officials fail to operate them we will try and put men in next time who can and will operate them. The editor of The Union-Banner says that there could not be a single high school operated in Chilton County if the three mill tax was voted down. He gives the County superintendent of education as his voucher for the statement.

Now is it a fact that the three-mill tax is to operate the high schools of Chilton County? We understand that the high schools can be run by appropriations by the commissioners court. Now, what are we going to do? Are we going to vote to operate the high schools? The editor of The Union-Banner has told us that they could not operate without the three-mill tax.

Now let each voter weigh the matter in the balances of justice and consider the condition of the poor old burdened farmer as compared with the condition of the school officials. As to the children of Chilton County, they will be cared for just as well as they have been in the past.

Yours for the education of the children and reduction in taxes.—Old Ignoramus.

Mr. Bud Jones and family have moved back to Clanton from Auburn, where they have been living for the past year. They are living at their home near the cemetery.

DEALING FAIR WITH THE THREE-MILL TAX

Editor Union-Banner:

I notice that Mr. L. H. Bean requests that someone write a letter in the paper dealing fair with the school tax question, so I am trying to do this.

First, I want to say that all my children have finished their school career and that I have no grandchildren in this county to benefit from this tax; but I feel it my duty to vote for the interest of my neighbor's children, and to do this I will have to vote for the tax.

As Uncle Remus said, I remember very well when our fathers had to dig down in their pockets and get three to five dolars per child per month for tuition, and if there were four or five children out of one family to go, it would cost the patron $15 to $20 per month to send them to school. I am sure that in our 6,000 school children there are some whose parents could not pay the fees for a private school.

I also notice in the letter of Dr. Tidwell, state superintendent of education, that the money Chilton County would get if the three-mil tax fails, would have to be used solely for grammar school purposes. A conservative estimate of the fee in a private high school would be $5 a month or $45 a year for each child. How many people in this county would the failure of this tax cause to pay $45 for a child in high school?

It has been previously said that corporations in the county pay two-thirds of our taxes, or that they pay two dollars every time we pay one. Then I can not see why any person would vote to keep them from helping to educate the children of the county. I have never known a corporation to vote to keep us from paying them for the service they render with their property.

It may be true that the school board does not do everything just as you or I would do it, but we are all human and all subject to mistakes. None of us are perfect. If we were members of the school board we might make mistakes too. All we could do would be to do the best we could, and that is probably what the school board has been trying to do.

Anyway, if we defeat this tax, it will not injure the school board or county superintendent. It wil injure only the little children of our county who deserve the best that we can do for them.

I am sure if this tax is defeated the best teachers will go to other counties. A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush; and no good teacher is going to teach in our county for doubtful supplement when they can go to other counties and get a salary guaranteed by the county. We want the children of our county to have the best, and in order to get the best teachers, we must pay them by taxation, so they will know their money is sure.

Instead of making cotton to buy more land to make more cotton, let's pay part of that for the education of our children, the best heritage that we can give them.—Perry Gore.

Jordan's Waters In the Creek at Falakto: Seventy-One Converts Baptised by Rev. A. L. Nichols

THE ABOVE is a view of the crowd which assembled on the banks of Chestnut Creek on Sunday, August 18th, and witnessed the baptizing of seventy-one converts. They were from Samaria, Maple Springs and Chestnut Creek churches and were administered the ordinance by Rev. A. L. Nichols, under whose preaching they all united themselves with the different churches. This picture reprinted by courtesy of The Alabama Baptist.

On Winter Legumes

By J. C. LOWERY, Extension Agronomist

The richness of the soil determines the welfare of the farming people of any country. Rich soils mean good schools, good churches, good roads, good homes equipped with modern conveniences, and a happy and prosperous people.

A soil to be fertile must have a good supply of nitrogen, phosporus, and potassium. In addition, it must be well supplied with organic matter or humus.

There is nothng the farmer can do about phosphate and potash except buy them and add to the soil. However, there is much he can do about nitrogen and organic matter. As it is now, our farmers are buying nitrate of soda to supply the nitrogen and no organic matter is being returned in most cases.

Each year Alabama farmers are buying about $18,000,000 worth of fertilizers. A big per cent of this bill goes for nitrogen. In fact, nearly half of every dollar earned by Alabama farmers is required to pay for food and feed actually needed on the farm and to pay the fertilizer bill. In some counties it runs much higher than this figure.

Poor soils are responsible for this serious situation. Poor soils will not make feed and foodstuff. Poor soils must have liberal applications of commercial fertilizers if the farmer is to realize a living wage for his labor.

There is a way out for Alabama farmers. Nature has very kindly provided us with a family of plants called legumes which have the power of taking nitrogen from the air and storing it for the farmer's use. In addition, they add much valuable organic matter to the soil. Common examples of these plants are cowpeas and soybeans, which are summer growing, and vetch and Austrian winter peas which grow during the winter and early spring.

The ability of these legumes to increase corn yields as compared with non-legumes is well illustrated in one experiment at Auburn. Vetch, a winter legume, was turned under and corn planted after. The yield was 29 bushels per acre. On adjoining land rye, which is not a legume, was turned and corn planted after at the same time the corn was planted after the vetch. The yield was 12 bushels per acre.

To test out the value of both winter and summer legumes over a long period of years, the Alabama Experiment Station began a series of experiments with vetch and cowpeas in 1896. This is the oldest experiment in the South.

Two plots were planted in corn and fertilized exactly alike. The first plot had cowpeas planted in the middles at laying-by time, while the second plot never received peas. Both plots made the same amount of corn when the experiment was started. The following are the results:

1. Corn and cowpeas, 1896-1905, 19.2 bu.; 1906-1915, 16.2 bu.; 1915-1927, 18.4 bu.; 1928, 30.9 bu.

2. Corn alone, 1896-1905, 17.1 bu; 1906-1915, 10.2 bu.; 1915-1927, 9.3 bu.; 1928, 9.4 bu.

Each year both plots received 160 pounds of phosphate and 160 pounds of kainit. Beginning with the fall of 1923, the phosphate was increased to 400 pounds per acre. It had become known that legumes needed phosphate. In the fall of 1925 cowpeas were discontinued and vetch planted instead and turned the following spring for the corn crop. Good crops of vetch have followed and the yield in 1928 was 30.9 bushels per acre as compared with a ten year average of 18.4 without vetch. The plot not receiving legumes continued to make about nine bushels or about half of what it made in 1896.

At the same time this experiment with corn was begun, a similar one with cotton was started.

One plot was planted in vetch each fall. The second plot never received any vetch. Each plot received 160 pounds of phosphate and 160 pounds of kainit each year. The vetch was not receiving enough phosphate. Several things about this crop were not known at this time. The vetch frequently was not so good. However, the following are the results:

1. Cotton and vetch, 1896-1905, 813 lbs.; 1906-1915, 678 lbs.; 1915-1927, 829 lbs.

2. Cotton alone, 1896-1905, 803 lbs.; 1906-1915, 573 lbs.; 1915-1927, 383 lbs.

A scant crop of vetch with continuous cotton has kept the yield from decreasing. Without vetch the yield has dropped to less than half the beginning yield.

What Can a Farmer Expect From Winter Legumes?

Experiments at Auburn show that a crop of vetch or Austrian winter peas will easily double a fifteen to eighteen bushel per acre corn yield.

How Does Hairy Vetch Compare With Nitrate of Soda?

A good crop of vetch or Austrian winter peas will add as much nitrogen to the soil as 400 pounds of nitrate of soda. In addition, it adds more humus than five tons of stable manure.

It is commonly observed that corn after vetch stands drought better than corn with nitrate of soda. The humus added to the land makes it work easier and holds moisture better.

How Long Will Vetch Increase The Corn Yield?

The number of years vetch will continue to increase the corn yield is not known. Many farmers say they can see the effect of the vetch for several years.

At Auburn in 1928, in one experiment where vetch and nitrate of soda were being compared, the second crop of corn after vetch made as much corn as 300 pounds of nitrate of soda. (The vetch was killed in the winter of 1927-1928 so the crop of corn had to get its nitrogen from the vetch that was turned under in the spring of 1927.)

Do The Farmers Believe in Winter Legumes?

This question is answered by the fact that in 1919 less than a ton of winter legume seed was planted in Alabama. In 1928, around 1,500,000 pounds of seed were planted.

Why Have Winter Legumes Increased In Popularity?

Winter legumes have increased in popularity because farmers have made greatly increased corn yields following these crops. A survey was made in 1927 to determine the increase farmers were getting from vetch or Austrian winter peas. This survey covered every section of the state. The results show that they made an average increase of 22 bushels of corn per acre. The experiment station said a fifteen to eighteen bushel yield of corn would be doubled by turning under vetch.

Suppose a sack of vetch is planted at the rate of 20 pounds per acre. This means ten acres in vetch, or 220 bushels of corn increase from one sack of vetch. This will be around $220. The bag of vetch seed will cost about $25 including inoculation. Two tons of slag needed to supply the phosphate will cost about $18 or a total cost of $43 for seeding one bag with an increase of $220 worth of corn leaving a profit of $177.

In this same survey it was found that cotton was increased an average of 356 pounds per acre after vetch. From a sack of vetch, as figured for the corn, an increase of 3560 pounds of seed cotton can be expected or almost three bales increase. However, cotton is not recommended as a crop after winter legumes. Corn is the best crop to grow after winter legumes. (Austrian winter peas could be substituted for vetch in this calculation.)

But in either case the farmer is increasing his wages. He is getting more per acre for his labor. At the same time the land is left in much better condition than at the beginning of the year.

It is not a question of being able to buy seed and basic slag and plant vetch or Austrian winter peas. The farmer who is having to buy feed or who is not making 25 or 30 bushels of corn per acre needs winter legumes. He can not afford to let the season pass without planting at least a bag of seed.

(Methods of planting are fully covered in the recent circular on planing vetch and Austrian winter peas. A copy has been mailed all agricultural workers of the state.)

NEWS IN BRIEF

Nine Montana counties have established libraries that have books designed to meet the reading needs of every age and occupational group according to a recent bulletin, "The County Library in Montana," issued by the Montana Experiment Station.

A cure for cancer in animals has apparently been found. It was announced at the thirteenth International Psychological Congress at Harvard Medical School in late August. Doris Sokoloff is the discoverer. It has been used on 1,000 rats and mice, and 70 per cent of the animals were apparently cured.

A new hybrid plant called brotex from which valuable material for use in textile industries may be procured, has been developed, according to a cable from London. Its dead leaves produce more than two tons of commercial fiber per acre, its wood is considered first rate material for manufacture of paper, and its seed may be converted into valuable cattle feeding cake.

Transatlantic telephone service to Belfast, northern Ireland, Dublin, Irish Free State, and to the Isle of Man, is now available from Washington and other points in the United States.

During the first six months of 1929 candy sales in the United States totaled $158,200,000. This figure represents a 3.32 per cent increase as compared with the same period in 1928.

The proposed thirteen-month calendar has been approved by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde. The new calendar would have months of only 28 days.

SICK AT HIS STOMACH

"I WAS suffering from stomach trouble, in 1917," says Mr. C. K. Nelson, a railroad engineer living in Pulaski, Va. "I had a tightness in my chest, a shortness of breath. Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

SUBJECT: "CHRIST AT BETHSAIDA."

We are at Bethsaida on the Sea of Galilee. Stop and think with me of the fact that Christ spent two years of His public ministry around that sea. That is, on its shores, walking beside its sparkling water and walking on its water, calling people to follow Him.

Bethsaida was the home of Andrew, Peter, James, John, Phillip, Zebedee; the father of James and John lived there also. Christ had been through Gethsemane and its sorrows, and had gone to Calvary and died for our sins, had been buried and rose according to His own predictions on the morning of the third day. Undeniably He had appeared several times to His apostles and brethren. And now He is to appear to His apostles who were fishing on the Sea of Galilee at Bethsaida.

It was there after Jesus had dined with them He asked Peter the pointed question: "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me?" He asks us the same question today. "Do you love Me with all of your heart, your soul, your strength, and your mind?" Love for Jesus Christ will solve the many perplexing problems in our lives. Love for Jesus Christ expresses itself in a whole-hearted devotion to Him and to His blood-bought bride, the church. The reason we are at ease in Zion is because we do not put Christ first in the work of the church. We do not put Christ first in winning souls. We do not put Him first in our prayers. We do not put Christ first in reading our Bibles. We do not put Him first in giving of our substance to Him.

This is because we do not love Him enough. A man came to unite with our church not long ago. When asked the question, "Do you love Jesus?" his answer was, "I love Jesus, but I want to love Him more." We love Jesus because He first loved us. But the need of the Christian is to love Him more. His prayer should be, "More love to Thee, O Christ, more love to Thee: Hear Thou the prayer I make on bended knee. More love to Thee."

There used to be an elder in this church who took a great interest among the young people's work. Often in the Christian Endeavor Society he would ask everybody to bow their heads and sing the above song softly together. Everyone knew that Jesse loved Christ with all his heart. Love for Christ caused Henry Martin, a missionary to India to write, "I am going to India to burn out my life for Jesus Christ."

If we really love Christ we will not withhold anything from Him. The Bible teaches us that one tenth of our income should be donated to Christ. But my dear friends, when we truly love Christ, and when we look at the cross of Jesus Christ we are willing to gladly walk up to Him and humbly fall at His feet and say, "My Jesus, I love Thee. I know Thou art mine." We will not withhold anything from Him. Love for Jesus Christ causes me to go in the rain to minister to my fellow man. It causes me to sit up at night to help my fellow man. It causes me to rise at four o'clock in the morning to serve my fellowman.

The old Jew offered a dead lamb on the altar pointing to Christ the Lamb of God. But Christ tells me, "I beseech you therefore, brethren by the mercies of God that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable unto God which is your reasonable service." I am to present my body a living sacrifice to God. If I love Christ and wish to serve Him acceptably, which of course as I have already said I will, I will do what He wants me to do. I will gladly represent Christ wherever I am stationed.

"My life, my all I give to Thee,
Thou lamb of God who died for me.
O may I ever faithful be,
My Saviour, and my God."

Very often we sing, "O how I love Jesus," but when the test comes we refuse to go to prayer meeting. We let a little rain keep us away from church. We look for an excuse to stay away when we have no reason whatever to stay away. Some men say they don't go to church because their wives don't go. Some women don't go because like many men they are wrapped up in worldly things and don't love Jesus Christ. This teaches me that my love for Jesus Christ makes me put Him first in my life. It makes me love other people especially their souls. Sometimes we sing,

"I love Thy Kingdom, Lord, the church of thine abode," and maybe the very next Sunday we are absent from the services of God's house. I conducted a funeral awhile ago of a young man whose soul I feel sure is safe in the arms of Jesus. He had a dog, and when we started to the last resting place of his body, I saw his brother go and untie his dog and put him in the car and carry it along. When we reached Elmwood I saw him lead the dog into the cemetery. That brother no doubt wanted the dog to express his love for his deceased master, and the dog looked as if he wanted to express his love. He would have enjoyed being a pall bearer and singing a solo. Maybe he would have conducted the funeral better than I did. Animals express their love. Lion tamers stay close to the lions and many of them are never destroyed. They do not want to kill them or eat them up. The love of Christ for me should impel me to be faithful to Him. Think of His love for me when He shed great drops of blood in Gethsemane as He suffered untold grief and sorrow when He saw His disciples go to sleep while He needed them most. Come with me to Golgotha. There see this blessed Christ amid rending rocks and darkening skies bow His head and give up the ghost. That was the love He had for me. He loved me and gave Himself for me. He bore my sins in His sinless body on the accursed tree.

He was bruised for our iniquities, and wounded for our transgressions. If you will read the 21st chapter of John's Gospel you will conclude that when Jesus asked Peter if he loved Him it was not because Christ did not know that he loved Him, but because He needed somebody to say that they did love Him. Then when Peter said that he did love Him, Christ said, "Serve me then, feed my lambs, take care of my sheep. Go out and get these poor people to come unto me. Help those in need of your love and care." It is love that makes us rally to the church and systematically give one tenth of all we make to Christ. It makes us yearn to send Christ to the ends of the earth. It makes us give our last penny to Jesus Christ who loved us, and died for our sins.

THE P. M. S. S. S.

The Poplar-Maple Springs Singing Society met at Maple Springs Sunday afternoon, September 8. There was a nice crowd of people present to enjoy the splendid singing which took place.

Directors for the evening were: E. L. Powell, Emmett Wilson, O. L. Devaughn, W. F. Gilliland, Floyd Devaughn, Latham Wilson, and W. M. Devaughn. Pianists for the evening were Misses Grace Wilson and Louanna Jones Calloway. There were several good quartets rendered by the Wilson and Devaughn Quartets which were fine.

The society meets at Poplar Springs next fourth Sunday. Everybody come and bring your books.

Prof. W. M. Devaughn is expecting a shipment of 1930 books in the near future; perhaps he may have them by the fourth Sunday.

EDUCATION AND THE ELECTION

Editor Union-Banner:

I have not heard much about the election, important as it is to our children. I guess every voter will turn out to get this three-mill tax over as it is the only means for the advancement of education in Chilton County, and is paid largely by the corporations of our county, which lifts the burden off of the small man and gives him a chance to give his children the knowledge that they will need through life.

I feel like that there have been lots of men who have failed that would have been useful men had they had that training of the mind they ought to have had. The school is the place for this work, so let's keep it going.

We want better schools, better roads, better people and a better country to live in. To stop paying taxes to keep this up it would go down at this important age. We can't afford it!

So, let every voter go to the polls election day and let's put this over by a good majority.

Just think, to cut the school one half would mean nothing more than to stop the education of our boys and girls when so little would keep it going.

And they say that the school would be cut down to three months. Voters, please give this your best thought and let your conscience be your guide.

Let's all pull together for one common good—a better country to live in.

What do you think of the Opportunity schools? I know one fellow who was fifty years old who could not write his name, tell that he attended the summer Opportunity School and now he can write his name and he is the proudest fellow you ever saw. He wants everybody to know that he can write.

Yours for better schools.—J. K. Owen.

He (straightening up): "No, sir."

Night Watchman: "Here, then hold my lantern."

LETTER FROM "BATTLE AXE"

Editor Union-Banner:

In looking over the letters in last week's issue of your paper, I failed to see anything by the opposition to the three-mill school tax that indicated a desire to be useful in building up the cause of education. They offer no proposition for perpetuating the schools. Ignoramus clearly indicates that his rantings are a slap at Buford Lawrence. He would willingly see the hopes of our children jeopardized to do him spite. He tells you that he believes in education. How much does he believe in it? He positively refused to contribute to a fund to build a Jemison High school near his home. Why? Because he didn't like Lawrence. Any knocker can hatch up a flimsy excuse on such prejudice. Could any man with high aims hide behind such reasons. Mr. Ignoramus, you quoted Governor Graves's statement about there being adequate funds provided for. Did you know that those funds come to us conditionally, and that we must match those funds before we can get them? Can we vote down the three-mill tax and legally match them?

The State's methods may be tinged with wrong, but we can never have schools without funds. Taxation will solve this problem by placing the burden on those best able to bear it. Ignorance Drops is hurting over the two ladies salaries that are being paid through Mr. Lawrence's office. They are paid out of the Revolving Fund and the Attendance Fund which are state funds. They amount to $9,225.69. After the two clerks are paid, over $5,000, or more than half is left to the Chilton County school fund. This amount would not be available without the three-mill school tax to match it, but would become a part of the quota to other counties. These officers may not be necessary, but their salaries pale into insignificance when compared to the loss of state funds.

Let us get the means to educate with first, then adjust other matters.

I want to congratulate Ignorance Drops on having Ignoramus for a buddy in his fight to cripple the schools. These fellows have reached an age where their paunches have become highly developed, and they have that conquered feeling characteristic of that age. They realize their bellwether days are over. They are envious toward an active, intelligent and progressing world. G. F. P. or Wine of Cardui would be better than their own prescriptions. These medicines would give strength to the muscles of their brain and tighten the thought exits and thus prevent the pus known as ignorance drops from exuding from inside their craniums and becoming smeared on paper where it is liable to infest the brains of the mentally weak. Look yourselves over, Mr. Ignorance Drops and Ignoramus, and see if your troubles are not biological as well as mental. Be careful that you do not fall into the hands of quack medicine men and get robbed of your money. I expect you have already been using goat glands. It is said they make a man stink and you are already a stench in the nostrils of intelligent people. If you will try monkey glands no doubt they will help you. You seem to be close kin to them anyway. You have never evolved to a point where you can appriciate modern methods of education.—Sincerely, Battle Axe.

Boss: "If Mr. Jenks calls today tell him I'm out."

Salesman: "Yes, sir."

Boss: "But don't be doing any work or he won't believe you."

The L. & N. Railroad is a citizen of The South—a citizen of every city, every town, every community through which its lines run; and, as a citizen, this Railroad feels that it justly may share with all other citizens the obligations, the privileges, the progressive spirit, and the pride in local works and ways—because of its continuous contributions to the community welfare by:

1. Providing prompt and dependable service in transporting freight and passengers;
2. Paying its full share of taxes for the maintenance of Governmental, Municipal, and other institutions and activities—over $7,500,000 annually;
3. Sustaining large numbers of employes who likewise are citizens of the communities in which they live—over 48,000 in its system;
4. Co-operating through its Industrial Department in community development by giving free the practical advice of its experienced experts in matters of Agriculture, Fruit-raising, Dairying, Stock-raising, and other items of community development and individual endeavor;

5. Believing, with such well-grounded optimism, in the future of The South, that it has staked over 96% of its whole track mileage and nearly one-half billion dollars of its property investments on its confidence in the wonderful possibilities of Southern progressive development.

REPLIES TO IGNORANCE DROPS

Mr. Editor:

After reading the letter in the Union-Banner of August the 29th, which apparently the Editor failed to correct, headed, "Ignorance Drops Favors Egication," and noting its crude composition together with the numerous mispelled words he uses, in my humble judgment he should not only vote and use his influence on September the 17th, for the Three Mill County School Tax; but also should have attended the "Opportunity Schools" this summer, as I did.

I am of the opinion that all who read his letter of the 29th, agree with me, that this letter is the best evidence of all, that he should vote for the Three mill tax, as well as favor "Egication." I can't see how any one who favors education could vote against the continuation of this tax. This is not an additional tax, but we are only re-voting the same Three mill tax that we have had for the past ten years, without a raise.

We voters should be glad to have an opportunity to cast our vote in behalf of the children of Chilton County, and not for any political office. This Three Mill tax will benefit every school child in the county, and give them an opportunity, which apparently Ignorance Drops and I failed to get in the past.

Every county in Alabama is profiting by having voted in this tax, to help the youth of our country prepare themselves for the future; and I don't believe that the good people of Chilton County will go to the polls next Tuesday and vote against the tax. Let us not go to the polls next Tuesday and vote against the tax, for the reason, that possibly we do not like some of the school authorities of our county and jeopardize the interests of our children. On the other hand let all of us not only vote for this continuation of the Three Mill tax, but have our neighbor do likewise.—B. F. Edwards.

BRUCE WILL HAVE EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Mrs. S. E. Bruce is preparing to take a Chilton County exhibit to the State Fair at Birmingham again this year. She will leave in about two weeks to arrange her booth. If any one in the county has any product that would be suitable to put in the display Mrs. Bruce would appreciate it if you will send or bring it to her.

Mrs. Bruce has been going to the Fair every year for a long time. Her exhibits have won many prizes. She deserves the help of everybody in her efforts to show up the fine things our county produces.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Mr. Grady Martin and Mr. Lawrence Peters motored to Childersburg Sunday and was accompanied back by the latters parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Peters. Mr. Peters is an old Chilton County citizen, being here several years ago. He is 75 years old. They would be glad for as many of his old friends as possible to stop by and have a chat with him. He will be at his son's home, Lawrence Peters, for several days—A reader.

LEGAL NOTICE

State of Alaabma, Chilton County.

Notice is hereby given that I, J. D. Collins, Sheriff of said County, have taken up as lost property one Chandler automobile, motor number 95405, which car was taken up by me on the Birmingham-Montgomery paved highway about one mile north of Mt. Creek, in Chilton County;

Also one 1929 Model Chevrolet automobile, motor number 5449154, tag number 5-444A Ala., which car was taken up by me about two miles north of Clanton on the Birmingham-Montgomery paved highway;

And after reasonable diligence the owners of said automobiles can not be ascertained, and the charges upon said automobiles amounting to more than two-thirds of their value, I will therefore proceed to sell said automobiles at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash at the courthouse door of Chilton County, Alabama, within the legal hours of sale, on Monday, the 14th day of October, 1929.

This, the 10th day of September, 1929.

ABOUT THE THREE-MILL TAX

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me to say a few words about the three-mill tax. As I am not committed either for or against I feel that I can speak without prejudice.

First, I am in favor of the three-mill tax because it is supposed to lighten the burden of the poor man. We have in this county Lock 12, Mitchell Dam and two railroads, the L. & N., and some of the M. & O. When we collect or rather use three mills from every dolalr collected for school purposes, it doesn't take a college graduate to figure that it saves the poor man. But there is another side to this question. I haven't seen a single man who opposed the tax on account of the dollars and cents he has to pay.

But rather the way it is managed. The more money we pay the less we get in return. For instance the 1927 legislature of Alabama voted something over four million dollars for schools. The 1928-29 term of school was the shortest we've had. To bring the matter closer home. Since I've lived in Verbena I have seen the school grow from a one-teacher school to an accredited high school. That might be attributed to the three-mill tax. But the point I am making is this: We first voted the three-mill tax in the county on the promise that it would stop the supplement business. Later we voted a special district tax of one mill on the same promise. Then we were told that as soon as Mitchell Dam began to pay tax we would have a free school.

But the truth is the expense of the school has gone higher and higher every year. Last year it was the highest ever and the shortest term of school. This year it has been reduced a little, but is still outrageous. That, Mr. Editor, is why old Man People are sore.

The average patron hasn't sense enough to know what he wants. All he knows is to vote more taxes when he is told to do so. All the power and the brains are vested in the county Superintendent. He is the whole thing, so far as this county is concerned. Now, these are some of the reasons why so many people oppose the three-mill tax.

But after taking everything into consideration, after studying the question from both sides, I am convinced that in spite of all the lordship of the Superintendent, and in spite of the fact that the patrons of the school have absolutely no say so whatever only to furnish the money, we must in justice to our children, support the three-mill tax. We can't afford to cut off our own nose to spite our face. I believe if every patron in the county will lay down his prejudice and look the facts in the face from both sides, we will all vote for a continuation of the three-mill tax.

Thanking you for your patience, I am yours truly.—Q. C. Meroney.

CHICKENS SHIPPED TO CENTRAL AMERICA

Mr. F. E. Mastin, of Thorsby, one of Chilton County's most successful poultry raisers, tells us that he shipped a dozen White Leghorn pullets to Walter T. Burn in the British Honduras, Central America last week.

Mr. Mastin also reports to us that he has some pullets raised this year that laid 28 and 29 eggs each the past month. One of his hens laid 46 eggs in succesison.

An evangelist was exhorting his hearers to flee the wrath to come.

"I warned you," he thundered, "that there will be weeping, and wailing and gnashing of teeth."

At this point an old lady in the gallery stood up.

"Sir," she shouted, "I have no teeth."

"Madam," roared the evangelist, "teeth will be provided."

T. L. Lowery, Manager Clanton, Alabama

FROM W. A. REYNOLDS

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 11, 1929.
Editor Union-Banner:

I am requested by several prominent citizens and taxpayers of this county to call a citizens' meeting at the Court House on next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, September 14, to discuss and determine the best thing to do in the coming election on the 17th of this month, whether to continue the three-mill tax for another ten years or discontinue same by casting our votes against same.

I want to say that I believe we live in the greatest country by far that there is on this globe, although there are governments in existence that are two or three thousand years old and ours is barely 150 years old. Now there is a reason for this great government, when our fore fathers began to cast about to form this government they were surrounded by uninhabited mountains and valleys and nature radiating with her splendid beauty gave them great liberality of thought and in this way aided them to formulate the greatest, and most liberal government the world has ever known; a government where the multi-millionaire serves his term in the Pen for his wrong doing, just the same as the countryman does for making his home brew. This is made possible because the poor man has the right to make these laws. But I have been watching the drift of things pretty closely for a number of years and most particularly the drift of the school system. I remember quite well when there would be a school meeting called, and all the good citizens would come together and each supplement what little public fund there was, and the Trustees would employ a teacher, one that would teach from early in the morning until late in the evening, and now you can meet the school children coming home on your way to work at noon.

No one can ever make me believe that a school teacher can do a days' work in 5 or 6 hours any more than a farmer can do a days work in 6 hours, and all you farmers well know how soon you would be on your way to the poor house if you worked this way.

I remember an old school teacher who taught one of the first 9 months schools in this county, his salary was $100.00 per month, he had over 100 pupils from the A B C's to rhetoric, Latin, and higher mathematics, and many of his students advanced from a low grade to finish geography, spelling, grammar and higher mathematics in 9 months, and a number of the boys now are the leading citizens of this and other states; some are holding leading pulpits of the land. He also taught thrift, honesty and patriotism, but he did not teach by the six-hour system. Why is all this? Because we voters have failed to keep a watch on our school laws, and let some school teacher politician write the school laws until we have just about lost every right we had along this line except to vote a tax and then pay it, while I know we have the same laws over the state, it does seem to me it has been our misfortune to have imposed on us a county superintendent of education that has the most money and the least schools of any county in the state. It reminds me of the old woman who went to Texas on a visit, and on her return was asked by a friend to tell them something about Texas, her reply was that she could see the furtherest and see the least, and saw more cows and the least milk of any place in her whole life.

Several weeks or months before our Superintendent was re-elected I took it on myself to call on most all the members of the Board of Education and see if they would not put in a new man, and two members were very anxious for this to be done, but it was so well known that the other three were going to re-elect Prof. Lawrence until no one would ever make an application for the place. Several with myself were present at this board meeting to try to get the board to consider waiting longer, and put in some man who would command the loyal support of the whole county, but I believe that these three members would have elected Prof. Lawrence if they had closed every school house door in the county, and I believe that the taxpayers will see it will almost do it, for I can't believe they (taxpayers) are going to vote a continuation of this tax with Prof. Lawrence at its head.

I have had audiences with our Governor, with Presidents of railroad companies, and men of great authority, but I have never felt my insignificance so keenly or been treated as though I was a contemptible wretch, as I was by this board. They as good as said, "What are you doing here, what business is this of yours, it is your duty to vote us here, and then you insignificant wretch, you get out of here and wait until it is time to vote again and then come and vote for us, Lords of All. I am sorry these conditions prevail. I believe the State of Alabama is one of the greatest states in the whole nation; I believe Chilton County one of the most favored spots on earth in many ways, we have the best and most progressive farmers that are in the State, good roads and good citizens, good churches and plenty of good school houses that seem to be losing their usefulness.

I have been an advocate of good schools all my life, I have voted for every school tax, and worked for their passage and tried to uphold and support its teachers until about 6 or 7 years ago, I went to a High School opening here in Clanton, and was not allowed to enter, was turned back and told parents would not be admitted, and since then my interest in School openings has been below par. I believe the County Superintendent should be elected by a vote of the people. I am advised that this State has so much money until this administration has added hundreds, yea, thousands to its pay-rolls, and many hundred automobiles now owned and operated by our State. Our taxes in the last ten years have advanced from less than 20 million dollars to 48 million; our public debt from 8 million to near 70 million dollars in the same period of time, and during the same period of time our National Government has continually reduced our taxes, and has reduced our public debt from 25 billion to 16 billion dollars. Get your Birmingham News of June and read where thousands of good citizens have had their homes sold for taxes. Some of the world's best writers say our school and colleges are failing to function, they are getting top-heavy with sports. I am advised when Prof. Bean was Superintendent of Education that he had around 40 thousand dollars and now we have the plump sum of near two hundred thousand dollars, and with so much money our present superintendent has to have a horde of assistants and supervisors to help spend, NO help count the money, all he seems to need to make the whole thing complete is a supervisor to supervise the supervisor.

I was in Jemison a few days ago and I talked with at least 25 or 30 good citizens and they were all against this tax. I asked them why. They all say they would not vote a tax for school while B. Lawrence was at the head of our school, and many other citizens over the county have said the same thing. You ask me if I am against this tax, yes, a thousand times, yes, under these present conditions, but if you voters that are for this can come here and convince me I am wrong, then I will vote for it. I am always ready to do the best thing for our boys and girls for in them lies the future of our country. Now in conclusion I am going to especially request the School Board and Mr. Lawrence to be present next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 and explain to the people just how this great sum of money will be used should it be voted in. I want to urge all the people that are interested in the welfare of the educational interests of our County to be sure and come to the Courthouse next Saturday afternoon and let's meet the Superintendent and School Board and have a heart to heart talk with the people and see if some conclusion can not be reached that will save our County from the awful calamity that is about to befall us. Come whether you or for or against the three-mill school tax. We will have no long speeches from anyone imported into the County to tell you how to vote, but we will have an expression from all our old citizens.—Respectfully, W. A. Reynolds.

A Change of Policy

Having had several years experience in the mercantile business and observing the business policies of hundreds of different customers, we have come to the conclusion that the credit business is bad business, and works hardships on both the merchant and the consumer doing such business. The expense of doing business on the credit plan is almost double that of paying cash without the loss of any accounts whatever. Besides we find that it is just as much of a habit as it is of necessity and after studying the matter over carefully we have decided to adopt the plan of strictly cash and carry beginning on October the first.

We will open no new accounts between now and October the first, and will discontinue all those we have at present on that date.

We know that we can give you better values and better service at a strictly cash and carry proposition. Our advertisements will appear in the county papers from time to time.

We invite you to visit us when in Clanton. We operate two stores adjoining each other in our grocery department. We are members of the I. G. A., Independent Grocers Alliance of America which already has a membership of over twelve thousand stores, and is growing by leaps and bounds daily. We guarantee everything in this department to be of the highest quality and at the lowest prices possible. In our Dry Goods and Shoe Department we carry well known factory lines and everything is guaranteed satisfactory from a needle to a suit of clothes. It will pay you to visit our store and examine our merchandise and prices. Our Grocery Department is in charge of O. D. Deloach and the Dry Goods Department is in charge of Jesse Baker. Both are well known for their straight-forward honest business policies and also have years of experience in their lines.

If Chilton County fails to vote a majority for the three-mill tax on September 17, it will be the first time any county in Alabama has ever turned down the tax after once putting it on. That would be a distinction which our county ought not to have.

Some say they are against the three-mill tax because they are against Buford Lawrence for superintendent of education. Such notionos are utter folly. It will not hurt Mr. Lawrence personally for the tax to fail, any more than it will hurt any other man with children to educate. Officially it will not hurt him at all. He will be superintendent just the same whether we have the three-mill tax or not. There is but one class of people in our County who will be hurt if the three-mill tax fails. That is our children who will be our citizens of the future.

Some say they are against the three-mill tax because they do not like the way our state department of education is conducted. How will it affect the state department of education for Chilton County to cut out the three-mill tax? It will not make a speck of difference to the state. The policies and plans of the state department of education will not be changed one bit because Chilton County votes against the three-mill tax. The only effect such a course can have is to completely cripple our own schools for our own children here in our own county.

WE PAY OUR OWN DEBT

Occasionally we still get from the Williamstown conference and other seats of the kind of learning that "aint so," suggestions that the United States ought to cancel the European debt. True it is that the suggestions are now becoming halfhearted as the liberal brethren here and abroad, liberal at least when it comes to spending other people's money, begin to realize that it is the purpose of the United States government to collect the amount owing us so far as it is possible to do so, through the debt agreements.

Although the charge is not made so frequently of late we still hear it occasionally, to the effect that Uncle Sam is the world's Shylock and that he is seeking to recover his war debts from poor downtrodden Europe. In view of all of this it is interesting to examine the figures on the war debts recently compiled by the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Fourteen nations have agreed to liquidate their war debts to the United States. The only one which has failed to make an agreement is Soviet Russia, and most Americans believe that any agreement made by Russia, as at present constituted, would not be worth much more than the paper it is written on. The fourteen countries have agreed to pay us eventually the sum of something like eleven and a half billion dollars on the war debts representing principal and interest up to the time of the settlements. But the present war debt of Uncle Sam is something over sixteen billions and at its peak it was more than twenty-five billions. The reduction from the peak has been made possible by the wise fiscal policy of the United States government, and money has come from American taxpayers and not from Europe.

It will be seen therefore that Uncle Sam is not paying his war debts from money collected from any European "chattel slaves." But this is not all. In the fiscal year 1928 the total payments from the fourteen paying nations on war accounts amounted to something like $207,000,000, while the interest in 1928 on Uncle Sam's national debt was about $640,000,000. It will be seen therefore that the money we received last year from our European debtors amounted to less than one third of the interest charges on Uncle Sam's war debts.

Of course as the years go by and our national debt is reduced further by our economic policies the interest on our public debt will be reduced to the point where the payments from Europe, if still coming in, will take care of it. But this will be some years yet and in the meantime Uncle Sam will continue, as in the past, to pay off his debts through money saved and earned at home. All of which makes the outcry about our grinding down Europe to pay our war debts sound like a lot of "horse-feathers" to say the least.

Everybody used to take a tonic in the spring but now it is only the pedestrians who have that run down feeling.

Over in Europe they are stewing about reparations and other things, but over in the United States, since we kept out of the League of Nations all we have to worry about is whether the Athletics or the Cubs are going to win the World Series.

The mean man who used to starve his horse nearly to death and still make it work, has found that he can't do the same thing to his automoblie.

Wouldn't you like to be young enough again, just for a day, to get a kick out of the shows along the midway at the county fair this fall?

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

As the weeks pass it becomes more and more probable that an agreement can be finally reached between Great Britain and the United States, the two foremost naval powers, on the question of naval limitation. Ramsay MacDonald, according to present plans, is coming to the United States in the fall, and many of our more optimistic statesmen are predicting that his visit will mark the consummation of the negotiations. It will not do to become too optimistic, of course, as there are still a freat many rivers to cross before a satisfactory compromise is reached, but it does seem probable at this time, that a conference can be arranged that will have much greater chances for success than the ill-fated meeting at Geneva two years ago.

It will not do to say, however, that the conference at Geneva was entirely a failure. True it is, that it did not do anything toward reducing the number of ships in the two larger navies, but it did accomplish one thing—it opened the eyes of the American people to the real difficulties of naval limitation and convinced them that it would be the height of folly to take anything except a safe and fair agreement that would give us ample protection for our foreign trade and our merchant marine in case of another European war. The conference at Geneva was one in which sentiment was not permitted to overshadow sound diplomatic sense, from an American standpoint, and as a result we are now in better position to get real naval parity than we have ever been, by negotiation at least.

It is of course realized that absolute parity in number of ships and size of ships in each class is almost impossible. It will be necessary for the United States to give in in some instances and to take in others. But if the final figures reach real parity between the navies of the two countries, and if the United States has enough of the kind of ships necessary to maintain our position as a naval power second to none, then it can be fairly said that real equality has been reached. What the American people expect is not an absolute matching of ships ton for ton, but an agreement in which Uncle Sam will not be asked to do all the sacrificing, but will be given the best of it as often as he is compelled to take the worst of it. This was not the case in the Geneva conference where the British diplomats expected us to sacrifice the kind of cruisers we needed and build the kind that were especially suited to the British navy but of small value to us. As the Chicago Tribune recently well put it, in commenting on the Geneva meeting:

"Our difference with the representatives of the government of which Mr. Churchill was a very important member arose from its proposal that there should be a rigid limitation upon the type of cruiser needed by us at a parity with Great Britain, and a pleasant elasticity—in fact, no limitation at all—upon the types of little value to us and of great value to the British Empire. The effort of the Conservative government to induce our representatives at the Geneva conference of 1927 to accept a plan on the formula of heads we win, tails you lose was plausible enough in view of the inefficiency of our diplomacy in recent years, but it brought about a sharp and wholesome change in this country except, of course, among the apologetic Americans, and we are confident our present representatives are as little likely to sacrifice away American interests as our able representatives of 1927."

Here was the real value of the failing Geneva conference. It crystallized public sentiment at home on the naval question and brought us to a realization of what we really need in the way of a navy. The rights of the United States are not going to be bartered away by sentiment this year nor the next. We will go as far as any other nation but no farther.

The more we see of these modern "sex novels" and "confessions magazines" the better we understand why the general public is turning to murder and mystery stories.

Judging by his diplomatic rough work at The Hague, Mr. Snowden does not propose to be snowed in, or perhaps we should say, snowed under.

CHILD WELFARE

One subject in which every American, no matter what his race, creed or politics may be, is vitally interested in the subject of "child welfare." This is as it should be and it is therefore fitting that the first citizen of the land, the President of the United States, should in characteristic fashion launch a program, comprehensive in scope, calling for the cooperation of the federal government and the various states in furthering this important work.

President Hoover, like all good Americans, has always been interested in children. His calling of a child welfare conference next year, to determine how the national and local governments can help in this important subject was a cause for general satisfaction. Mr. Hoover does not suggest that the question of child training is one which can be fit to any particular theory nor that it is a problem which the federal government ought to take over for solution. The President has long been interested in child welfare from a humanitarian standpoint as his work in Europe during and after the war proved an dit is assuring to learn that he does not believe that the question is one for solution by the federal government alone. On the other hand, he declares that "major progress in this direction must be made by voluntary action and by the activities of local government." The President is undoubtedly right in this and it is to be hoped that the recommendations made by the national conference can be worked out through the state and local authorities with the cooperation, wherever possible, of the federal government. In touching on this phase of the work the Chicago Post well says:

"The proposed gathering will avoid one of the evils attendant on other relief agencies which have been suggested in that it will involve no increase in federal authority or machinery dealing with a subject of primary importance to the individual states. There are many agencies eager to engage in relief enterprises if the federal government will authorize generous appropriations. The iniquitous federal aid scheme has been exploited to the limit, and public sentiment opposes further treasury drains in that direction.

"President Hoover's plan will test the unselfishness of those who participate. It asks the cooperation of representative citizens and officials interested in this important subject. There will be no appropriations to divide. Eagerness to be of service alone will determine the cooperation of those whom the President has invited to aid in this splendid enterprise."

Some understanding of the President's motive may be gathered from the statement which he made two years ago on the subject of a national health program, when he declared:

"The ideal to which we should strive is that there shall be no child in America that has not been born under proper conditions, that does not live in hygienic surroundings, that ever esuffers from undernutrition, that does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection, that does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health; that there shall be no child that has not the complete birthright of a sound mind in a sound body and the encouragement to express in fullest measure the spirit within which is the final endowment of every human being."

Certainly the entire nation will have nothing but the best wishes for President Hoover's child welfare conference. The conference is being started on the proper lines. After all it is up to Mr. Citizen in his daily life and through his local government to look after the rising generation so far as possible. The cooperation of the national government will of course not be lacking, under the plan as Mr. Hoover visualizes it, and his plan if carried out will be ap ractical demonstration of how the federal govrenment can help in a problem which comes directly under the supervision of the state governments, without creating a new bureaucratic factor at Washington.

Of course these round the world flights are all right but we expect, within ten years, to read of one which is put over by some modern flapper advertising a popular brand of cigarettes.

COMPARE ALABAMA AND IOWA

A Bulletin of Thorsby Institute has come into our hands. We find in it some facts about education which we believe of value to our readers at this time. A comparison of the states of Alabama and Iowa is particularly impressive.

Alabama was admitted to the Union 110 years ago, Iowa about 80 years ago. They are very nearly the same size and of very nearly the same population.

The average wealth of the people of Iowa exceeds that of Alabama more than two to one. Alabama has more mineral in her hills, more water power in her rivers. Iowa's soil is probably richer on the average, but that advantage is more than offset by Alabama's milder climate, her longer growing season, and the greater variety of crops she can raise.

How do the states compare on matters of education?

By almost every educational standard Iowa ranks as one of the first five states of the Union. By the same standards Alabama's rank is among the last five states of the Union. Iowa spends for the education of her children more than three times as much as Alabama spends for that purpose.

The fact that Iowa has devoted herself for the past forty years to the development of her greatest resource, her children, through her schools, while Alabama has not done so to any such extent, explains more than anything else, more than everything else, the present difference between the wealth of the two states.

If Alabama and Iowa should exchange their policies as to the education of their children, what effect may we believe it would have upon the wealth of each?

Allow 30 years, or one generatiion, for the results of the changes in policy to be effective, and Alabama's people would become richer than those of Iowa.

On the average, the Alabama man or woman who has completed the eighth grade in school is worth twice as much to the community in which he lives as the man or woman who never went to school.

And likewise the man or woman who has a high school education is worth twice as much to his community as the man or woman who never went to high school.

Now if we follow the advice of those who would have us vote against the three-mill tax on September 17, we would put Chilton County's school back where no boy or girl could even finish the eighth grade in our public schools, and there would not be a public high school of any kind in the county.

All we could have in the way of public schools without the three-mill tax would be a little more than two months term of the six-grade common schools.

Honestly, then, do you believe our children can afford to do without the three-mill tax? This question means much more to our children than it does to the taxpayers.

As a general rule when they start going over the books of a missing cashier they find he didn't miss much. —Canton Daily News.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

"I am so happy
..that the last pimple is gone"

EVERY evening thousands enjoy themselves at dinner-parties, dances, theatres, games, clubs. Many thousands more are denied the joy of such merriment and happiness.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

Take S.S.S. at meal-time. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

You may be happy, too!

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

TIME TO PLANT WINTER LEGUMES

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 10.—Vetch or Austrian winter peas should be planted the last half of September or the first half of October, according to members of the agronomy department at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Director M. J. Funchess of the Experiment Station and J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, point out that years of weather records show that, on the average, there is some rainfall during the last of September. Furthermore, they say that earlier plantings, that is in September or early October, enable the crops to form a root system and become established before winter. Many failures have been due to late plantings.

Workers here are elated over the amount of winter legumes that are to be lpanted in Alabama this fall. A resume of August reports from county agents reveals that there is to be a large increase over last year. Nearly all the county workers record that local farm bureaus are prepared to deliver more seed than they delivered last season.

At the same time Prof. Funchess says that the acreage to be planted is only a very small part of that which should be used for growing legumes in winter. Planting peas and vetch is the best way to enrich Alabama soils, and a god soil is the foundation of good farming. Either of these crops turned under in the spring should double the yield of cotton or corn following.

In discussing details of planting they declare that not less than 20 pounds of hairy vetch seed should be sowed to the acre. Austrian winter peas should be drilled at the rate of not less than 30 pounds per acre.

They explain that for best results the legumes should have a liberal application of phosphate at planting time. Superphosphate at the rate of 400 pounds per acre or its equivalent in basic slag is recommended. However, they say that if previous crops have been heavily fertilized with phosphate, the planting application may be omitted in south Alabama.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Bunched carrots, turnips and beets, formerly humble vegetables of the home garden, have become of large commercial importance in recent years, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The carrot, for example, regarded heretofore largely as a tid-bit for city houses and a soup ingredient has jumped from 3,184,000 bushels in 1923 to 6,628,000 in 1928.

LET'S HAVE BETTER FALL GARDENS

By JULIAN BROWN, Extension Horticulturist

Conditions this month give us an opportunity to make renewed plantings of many of the vegetables we planted in the spring. In fact, September should be the busy month in fall gardening just as March is in the spring. Many still fail to appreciate the opportunities offered at this time for having a large variety of vegetables just as we have in the spring. Of course, we experience a little more difficulty in getting the seed to germinate at this time due to a lack of moisture. In this connection I am reminedd of the saying that "A well prepared seed bed is half of the job." We should lose no time in thoroughly preparing the seed bed and then if the soil is dry at planting time, run a roller over the top of the bed or walk on it after planting so as to pack the soil around the seed. Then it will only be necessary to cultivate as weeds appear. All cultivations of growing vegetables at this season should be shallow. By cultivating deep you are likely to tear up the feed roots of the plants and thus do more harm than good.

If your garden plot is on high ground, is is of light soil which is ordinarily dry in the fall, it is suggested that you make most of your fall plantings, especially such vegetables as turnips, on some nearby branch bottom or piece of ground near the creek. There is no reason why such crops should not be planted on low corn land since they are not so exacting as to harvesting.

Where space will permit it is suggested that vetch or Austrian peas be planted in that section of your garden not needed for fall or early spring plantings. Such a crop turned under in the spring will greatly enrich the soil and provides an excellent place for summer and fall plantings. See if you can't arrange such a system for improving your garden plot and follow it out each year.

The following vegetables may be planted during September and most of them should be planted in every garden in order to have a wide variety. Bush snap beans, beets, Brussel sprouts, Swiss chard, carrots, kohl rabi, lettuce, mustard, onion plants, parsnips, peas, turnips and spinach. If you have a good crop of New Zealand spinach this will continue to supply fresh greens until December in most sections if the weeds are kept down and the spinach cut properly. If you do not have a good crop of this you should plant either the Bloomsdale or King of Denamrk variety, the cool weather spinach.

Those who do not have a few rows of strawberries in the garden should by no means let this fall pass without setting out some plants. By setting the plants in September, or as early as there is sufficient moisture in the ground, you may expect a fair crop of berries next spring. The Klondyke, Missionary, and Aroma varieties are best. The latter seems especially adapted to the northern part of the State.

Do not let the plant lice destroy your fall turnips. They can be controlled by dusting with nicotine dust. Since thees insects attack the underside of the leaves ,this dust must be applied with an angle nozzle dust gun in order to get the materials on the insect. Unless this material is applied directly on the insect it will not give control.

PLANT VEGETABLES FOR FALL GARDENS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 10.—September should be the busy month in fall gardening, just as March is in the spring, says Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

He names a number of vegetables that may be planted during September, and urges that most of them should be planted in every garden in order to have a wide variety. They are bush snap beans, beets, Brussels sprouts, Swiss chard, carrots, kohl rabi, lettuce, mustard, onion plants, parsnips, peas, turnips, and spinach.

He says that those who have a good crop of New Zealand spinach should continue to get fresh greens until December in most section if weeds are kept down and spinach cut properly. Those who do not have a good crop should plant either the Bloomsdale or King of Denmark variety.

"Those who do not have a few rows of strawberries," Mr. Brown continued, 'should not let the fall pass without setting out plants. By setting in September, or as early as there is sufficient moisture in the ground, one may expect a fair crop of berries next spring. The Klondyke, Missionary, and Aroma varieties are best. The Aroma seems to be especially well adapted to the northern part of the State."

In giving suggestions about details of planting, Mr. Brown emphasized the importance of a well prepared seedbed. Where soil is dry at planting time he advises running a roller over the top of the bed or walking on it after planting to pack the soil around the seed.

The Auburn specialist warns gardeners of the danger from plant lice, and cautions them not to allow this pest to destroy fal turnips. This insect may be controlled by dusting with nicotine dust. Dust must be applied to the under side of the leaves,

CORLEY FAVORS 3-MILL TAX

Editor Union-Banner:

I feel impelled to express to "you boys" my sincere congratulations for the fair and non-partisan manner in which you have explained to your readers the plain and unvarnished facts in regard to the three-mill tax issue that is to be voted on in our county on the 17th of this month.

Your publication of the official facts and figures, as put out by both our county and state school superintendents, seems to me to place the matter so clearly before the people that everyone can certainly see what our school situation is now, and what it will be in case the three-mill tax is defeated.

Ten years ago before we had this tax in force there were a few little schoolhouses and log cabins scattered about over the county where children went to school for perhaps three months a year, provided their parents were able to cough up incidental fees and supplement sufficient to finance the schools that long.

Make a survey of the county now and see what you have bought in property alone with your little three-mill tax. You will find a large number of splendid, commodious, and sanitary buildings, fitted up for comfort and convenience. In every populated community you find a school building (not a log cabin) and you will see school busses that are a credit to any county, fitted up for comfort, rain or shine, cold or hot, that convey the scholars to and from school every day for a distance of several miles surrounding each schoolhouse.

Then count up the high schools we have, and the junior high schools, the vocational schools, and the agricultural schools. Then last year and again this year Prof. Harris put on about six weeks of the most wonderful educational enterprise that I ever heard of. I refer to the opportunity schools. These schools took care of about 700 of those people who grew up under the old system. Honest and honorable men and women who failed to get any schooling back in the dark days of their childhood, who could neither read nor write. They had to touch the pen staff while the banker signed their checks or the merchant signed their notes. Many of these same good people now walk up boldly and write their own names on the dotted line. That old humiliation is gone, and they can read and sign whatever they please.

There are at least a hundred more good reasons for voting for this tax, and none that I can see for voting against it.

There are two more thoughts I want to suggest briefly. Perhaps the present school system is not managed to suit you. Well, you can't do a thing to it nor any of its managers by voting against this three-mill tax. That can not cost any man connected with the school system a penny, neither can it affect his job. He will go right on, draw the same pay, and perhaps do less than half the work he now does.

The school law is state-wide. We vote for representatives and send them to Montgomery to make our laws. The only way you can get to them is in a general state election. Personally, it is a matter of supreme indifference to them whether we have a three-mill tax or not. The only people you can hit by killing the three-mill tax is the children of Chilton County. They will suffer severely and for life.

The corporations of our county pay more than half of the three-mill tax. Of course, in making their price to you for their services, these taxes are all added in, and you have to pay in the long run. They are not going to cut their price to you to balance the tax saving you make to them by abolishing this three-mill tax. They will collect this three-mill tax out of you in their charges for service rates the same as now. But instead of paying that sum back into our school funds, they will dump it into their own pockets and laugh at us for being so ignorant we can't count our own money.

Freight, passenger, express, light, and power rates will not be reduced three mills because you kill this tax. Not on your life. You will pay the corporations right on, but the county will have no way to get it back for the schools.—W. B. Corley, Clanton.

BURIED WITH SADNESS

Alpine community was much grieved on September 2, 1929, over the loss of our dear sister, Mrs. J. C. Walker, after a long period of illness and confinement. The dear Lord saw fit to call her home. She was laid to rest in Alpine cemetery September 3, at 3:30 o'clock.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. E. Moore. She is survived by her husband, six children, a host of relatives and friends. All was done that hands could do for her recovery. She has been an active member of Alpine church these many years, and always ready to lend a helping hand in trying to serve her Master. Weep not, dear father and children, she is our loss and heaven's gain. Let us all live a Christian life that we, too, may see her smiling face once more. God is only beckoning us now to submit to His blessed will.—Those Who Loved her, W. M. S.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space to say a few words about this place. Everybody is busy picking their cotton.

Our Sunday school is getting along nicely. We ask everyone to come and help us make this school one of the best. There will be a singing at this place next Sunday afternoon, September 15. The Pilgrim Class will be with us, and also the Liberty Class. We invite all good singers to come and the ones who can't sing come also. As we are expecting some good singing.

We are sorry to learn Mr. Will Anderson has been very ill, but hope him a speedy recovery.

We have a very good B. Y. P. U. at this place every Sunday night.—A Reader.

CLANTON QUARTET AT BILLINGSLEY

The Clanton Quartet will render a musical concert at the public school building at Billingsley on Friday night, September 13, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The program will consist of a varied selection of sacred, spiritual, and popular songs.

The singers will appear under auspices of the Billingsley parent-teacher association. Everybody is invited to attend.

ON THE THREE-MILL TAX

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give us space for a few words about the three-mill school tax. We wish to say that we are heartily in favor of the tax because it will give us long terms of school, and give our boys and girls a chance to get an education, so as to fit them for better citizens. And if it is defeated it will give us shorter term schools and Ignorance.

Before the three-mill tax came into effect we fathers had to pay one dollar per month for each pupil as supplement, and had a four-months school. Since the tax came into effect we have longer terms of school. And we have no supplement to pay. Just a small incidental fee for wood, light, etc., which no sensible person objects to. Still we have a precious few persons in this county who will try to keep you from voting this tax on simply because they object to the County Superintendent of Education or some of the County Board or something of that kind.

Now voters, let us lay aside all malice and cast our votes in favor of our boys and girls. The future citizens of our dear old county. Let us not heed the advice of Old Ignoramus and the Doc. Scott, but look to the future and cast our vote for better school buildings, better schools, longer terms, and better qualified teachers. All of which we will have if we vote for the three-mill tax on September 17th. If we do not vote for the tax we will have short terms, shabby school houses, and Ignorance. Now, voters, let us turn out on the 17th, and carry the tax by the largest majority that has ever been voted in Chilton County.

And in regard to Ignoramus and Dr. Scott, may we hear the school boys and girls sing: Show Pity, Lord; Oh, Lord, forgive!—Respectfully, Just a Voter.

CLANTON QUARTET WILL GO VISITING

The Clanton Quartet has two engagements for next Sunday which will take them to Montgomery and Prattville. Sunday morning they will sing at the Clayton Street Baptist Church in Montgomery. Sunday afternoon they will attend a singing in Prattville.

MRS. TOM MIMS DIED

Mrs. Tom J. Mims, age 48, of the Pinedale community, died last Wednesday night at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton. She had been suffering with cancer for a long time.

Undertaker J. Mell Martin prepared the body for burial and carried it to Mountain Springs where the funeral was held Thursday. The deceased lady is survived by her husband and several children.

Arthur Johnson, Jr., will leave on September 15th, to attend school at Anniston Military Institute again this session.

MR. SIMS HAS BOUGHT SWIMMING POOL

Mr. W. J. Hardy has sold the Reynolds Swimming pool property to Mr. Jack Sims of Birmingham. The new owner is moving in this week. Mr. Hardy is returning to his former home at Ensley. Upon leaving here Mr. Hardy expresses his thanks to the people of this section for the patronage accorded him and his place during the summer.

We are told that Mr. Sims will spend several hundred dollars in improving the property. It is stated that he plans to erect several cottages to be used as a tourist camp; also a nice lunch room where the best of eatables may be secured. The swimming pool will be improved and put in first class condition for next season.

Mr. Hardy gives his successor a mighty fine recommendation, saying that he is a fine man and will make a valuable citizen of our county.

How to Raise Poultry

DON'T LAUNDER YOUR EGGS

Old mother Jones was a character of the type once common enough, but now almost extinct—a genuine "befo' the wah" reactionary to whom all new fangled ideas were works of the devil designed solely to corrupt God's children on earth. She eked out a slender existence with all sorts of odd jobs but derived her principal income from a flock of nondescript fowls that certainly did lay eggs whatever else might be said of them.

So long as the old order presisted in Northville, she got along famously. Then the antiquated general store gave way to a shiny, spic and span chain store, the old barter and trade system became a thing of the past, and a "creamery" of the new era became her outlet for the chief product of her little establishment.

Imagine, if you can, her dismay when the white-aproned young man behind the counter appraised her first offering of eggs at several cents below the current market price. The impertinient young pup actually had the temerity to suggest that if her eggs were not soiled they would command as good prices as anyone else's.

After much vain argument and no little show of resentment, she finally accepted the proffered sum and departed sincerely convinced that there was some sort of vile plot in operation against her. A few days later she returned with another batch of eggs. This time all were as imaculately clean as a schoolboys face the first time he goes out with a girl—and quite as abviously scrubbed. She gave the basket a vindictive shove across the counter, "There, young man," she challenged belligerently, "I reckon them eggs is clean enough to suit you."

"Yes, Mrs. Jones," he replied soothingly. "They certainly are nice and clean, but I'm sorry to say I can't give you the full market price for them."

Her suspicions were confirmed. It was a plot—nothing less. She determined to get to the bottom of it.

"Why not," she demanded explosively, literally trembling with indignation.

"Well, you see," patiently explained her involuntary tormentor, "they have been washed."

"Washed? Yes, of course they have. I spent hours tidyn' 'em up because you didn't want 'em dirty and now you don't want 'em clean. What in tarnation do you want?"

It would take too long to continue the dialogue any further. So let it suffice to say that only after a long and impassioned debate was Mother Jones finally made to understand that washing eggs reduces their keeping qualities to an almost unbelievable extent. It is an actual fact that washed eggs come out of even a brief stay in cold storage as much as 50 per cent inferior to unwashed eggs. That puts the owner of soiled eggs between "the devil and the deep blue sea" to be sure, but there is really no excuse for having dirty eggs in any great numbers.

The solution is a simple one and really much easier of accomplishment than the washing of eggs. First of all, nests should be placed in a dark place so that hens will only go to them when they wish to lay, and they should be protected from above so that they can not be befouled by droppings. Two-inch mesh wire netting should be tacked onto the lower side of the roosts to keep the hens off the droppings board which will prevent soiling of the eggs with their dirty feet. Eggs should be gathered once or twice a day and all dirty or soiled eggs should be used at home.

Furthermore, the nests should be thoroughly cleaned out frequently and all soiled straw or whatever is used replaced with new material that is fresh and clean. If these simple precautions are observed and hens are kept confined during muddy weather there will be little necessity either for washing eggs or for accepting a lower price for dirty eggs.

Washing destroys the gelatinous coating which nature puts around an egg to protect the contents. When it is washed off or otherwise removed the spores of mold and the bacteria of decay enter easily through the porous shell and evaporation is appreciably accelerated. Storing for any length of time becomes impossible thereafter, so it is no wonder that the up-to-date dealer is willing to accept washed eggs only at a discount which will protect him against loss if he can not turn his stock quickly.

It is the old, old story—"an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure"—only in this case washing can hardly be accurately called a cure. Cleanliness is still next to godliness. but so far as eggs are concerned, a lot depends on how the cleanliness is brought about.

ALABAMA MARINES ARE HOME ON FURLOUGH

During this period of the year a large number of Alabama Marines are home on furlough, visiting their parents and relatives. Some of these Mariens are stationed in the home land, some in foreign countries and some at sea, on Uncle Sam's largest ships.

One recruit from the training station, Marine barracks, Parris Island, S. C., made the following statement: "I think the training there is the best a young man can receive; the food there is the best that can be served, the barracks are clean and comfortable, and the old time Marines are a fine bunch of fellows. I only regret one thing—that I did not enlist in the Marine Corps sooner, for a four-year hitch."

All young men of good character, and within the required age limit are urged to call at the Marine Corps recruiting station, 1927 1-2 Second Avenue, Birmingham, Alabama, as early as possible to take advantage of this opportunity.

Lesson for September 15

TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

GOLDEN TEXT—The entrance of thy words giveth light.

LESSON TEXT—Nehemiah 8:1-18.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Studying God's Word.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Studying God's Word.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding Joy in God's Word.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Call for Trained Teachers.

This lesson is a fine illustration of the rightful place of God's Word in the life of a nation. The only certain cure for national ills is a return to God and obedience to His Word

I. The Word of God Being Read (vv. 1-3).

1. The eager assembly (v. 1).

The people gathered themselves together and requested Ezra to bring the book of the law.

2. A representative assembly (v. 2)

It was made up of men, women and children. The men did not leave the spiritual affairs to the women, neither were the children left at home The Spirit of God can speak through God's Word to the whole family sitting in the pew.

The lesson lasted for five or six hours, from morning until midday.

II. The People's Attitude Toward God's Word (vv. 4-6).

1. Due reverence shown (vv. 4, 5)

When Ezra opened the law, all the people stood up out of respect for God's Word.

2. They joined heartily in the prayer (v. 6).

As Ezra led them in prayer, they joined heartily in saying, "Amen Amen," bowing their faces to the ground.

III. God's Word Being Interpreted (vv. 7, 8).

The attitude of the people toward God's Word largely depends upon the minister. Proper dignity and solemnity should be manifested by the minister when reading the Holy Scriptures.

1. He stood up where the people could see him (v. 5).

2. He read distinctly (v. 8).

3. He caused the people to understand the reading (v. 8).

IV. The Effect of Applying God's Word to the Life of the People (vv. 9-18).

1. Conviction of sin (v. 9).

The Word of God is quick and powerful (Heb. 4:12). It brings conviction of sin (Acts 2:37). The divine method of convicting men of sin is to have God's Word applied by the Holy Ghost.

2. Weeping turned into joy (vv. 10-12).

When sins have been perceived and confessed, there is forgiveness. God desires forgiven sinners to enter into the joy of forgiveness. Continued mourning will not atone for sins that are past, unfits one for present tasks and dishonors a pardoning God. Besides, joy has a salutary effect on one's entire being. "The joy of the Lord is your strength" (v. 10).

3. Blessings were shared with others (vv. 10-12).

True joy manifests itself in giving to others; pure religion goes out to minister to the poor (Jas. 1:27).

4. The people obeyed (vv. 13-18)

From the reading of the Scriptures they found that the Feast of Tabernacles had long been neglected. They proceeded to keep this sacred feast in a way that had not been observed since the days of Joshua (v. 17) In the keeping of this feast they dwelt in booths, thus typifying their pilgrim character and bringing to remembrance the days of their wilderness journey.

V. Separation from the Ungodly (Neh. 13:1-3).

As soon as they had heard the Word of God, they separated themselves from the mixed multitude.

VI. The House of Worship Was Cleared and Order Restored (Neh 13:4-14).

No nation or people can be strong which neglects the worship of the true God.

VII. Restoration of the Sabbath (Neh. 13:15-22).

Israel had long violated the Sabbath. To ignore the essential law of the Sabbath is national suicide. Unnumbered evils follow in the wake of the desecration of God's Holy day.

VIII. Restoration of God's Law of Marriage (Neh. 13:23-31).

When those who had intermarried with the heathen were brought face to face with their sin, they separated themselves from their ungodly companions.

Magnetic Power of God

God's word of old, given through His prophet Isaiah, was for the multitudes without the gate, and remained now as ever: "I am found of them that sought me not." Strait is the gate indeed, but it is ever an open gate; and the Heaven behind is too full of love divine for any barrier to constrain it. Many an erring human soul has been drawn to the gate unawares, despite its folly of blindness, by the sheer magnetic force of God's unfailing love within.

Hogs—Steers—Sheep Say:
"The Purina Pound Is Cheapest"

IT'S not what we say about Purina Chows that counts—it's what the animals say. Through 2,413 feeding records from all leading hog raising centers, 90,247 hogs shout, "Purina makes pork at $6.50 per hundred," while 16,890 steers add, "and makes beef at $10.08." At the same time 33,399 sheep say, "$9.98 per cwt. gain." No wonder Purina feeders are making money—more money than by any other plan of feeding. No wonder we became enthusiastic about Purina and decided to become the local authorized distributor of the Checkerboard line.

You'll be an enthusiastic booster, too, once you've fed Purina to your poultry and live stock. Why not phone us for a supply—or drop in.

STATE CAPITOL News

Alabama loses one of its outstanding educators with the resignation, effective October 1, of Dr. R. E. Tidwell, State superintendent of education, who has accepted a position with Columbia University. He will be connected with the field forces of the University, engaged in making surveys of the educational systems of the various states.

Dr. Tidwell, after serving as assistant state superintendent of education, was elected superintendent in 1926 without opposition. He came to the head of the department of education at the moment that a great forward movement in education was launched by the state, and measured up to his responsibilities in a manner which has won him high praise. Working in cooperation with the Governor and progressive legislative and educational leaders, he had a prominent part in putting across the greatly expanded educational program made possible by the 1927 legislature.

Dr. Tidwell will be succeeded as state superintendent by Dr. A. F. Harman, head of the division of school administration of the department of education, Governor Graves having announced his decision to appoint Dr. Harman. The new state superintendent was formerly county superintendent of Montgomery County, where he did much to build up the model school system which has made this county famous over the country.

Judge C. E. Thomas tendered his resignation as state superintendent of banks September 5, to Governor Graves, who appointed D. F. Green as his successor. At the time of Judge Thomas's resignation, impeachment charges were pending against him, having been voted on several grounds by the Jefferson County grand jury following the closing of several banks in that county. The resignation of Judge Thomas ends the impeachment case, which was being prepared for submission to the Supreme Court by Attorney General McCall, and which would probably have been heard in October. In submitting his resignation, Judge Thomas reiterated his innocence of any wrong-doing, but stated that he felt that his resignation was for the best interest to the department.

D. F. Green, the new superintendent of banks, served in that capacity during parts of the administrations of Governors Henderson and Kilby, resigning to become secretary of the State Baptist board, a position which he held until recently, when he was appointed acting superintendent of banks after Judge Thomas had been granted leave of absence pending disposition of the impeachment charges.

Governor Graves has decided not to call a special session of the legislature, his decision being announced in a recent letter to heads of the mayors association and association of county commisisoners of the state, who were interested in securing an extra session.

Although there has been considerable agitation in some quarters for an extra session to submit another road bond issue, there can not be said to have been any statewide demand for convening the Solons on the part of citizens generally, and the Governor's decision is expected to meet with very general approval. When Governor Graves was a candidate he advocated a road bond issue of $25,000,000 to be spent during his administration, such a bond issue was voted by the people in accordance with the Governor's wishes early in his administration, and most of the proceeds therefrom have already been used for roadbuilding work, which has been carried on under the present regime on a greater scale than ever before witnessed.

In his letter announcing decision not to call the legislature into session, Governor Graves said:

"I have given most careful consideration to the joint request made by the organization of which you gentlemen are the executive heads that I convene the Legislature in extraordinary session for the consideration of the further issuance of road bonds. The views expressed by you gentlemen on the occasion of that request are weighty indeed, and have received the careful thought that is due not only to the views expressed, but to the proponents of those views. It is my conclusion that at this time there is no such an extraordinary emergency as is contemplated by the Constitution of Alabama as a basis for an extraordinary session. Therefore, I have decided not to call the Legislature into extra session."

"Yesterday I saw five men standing under one umbrella and not one of them got a drop of water on himself."

"Big umbrella?"

"No. It wasn't raining."—College Humor.

One evening, thinking to test my small boy's knowledge of arithmetic, I asked:

"If our next-door neighbor has a wife and baby, how many are there in the family?"

Johnny thought for a while, then answered: "I know. There are two and one to carry."

Old man: "Yes, when my mother used to cut my hair, I often wished I might be bald headed."

JUST FROM SHOULTS

Boys take warning while you are young and tender, by so doing you will often remember, boys take warning.

It's hard times living in jail, living in jail no living at all. The little bugs may be walking the wall, you ask them for biscuit, they give you corn bread. This will lay on your stomach as heavy as lead. Boys take warning, it's hard times living in jail.

You lay down at night on rags and rugs, get up in the morning and it's chinches and bugs. It's hard times living in jail. Boys take warning, it's hard times living in jail.

The jailer comes round about 9 in the night, in one hand he will carry a light, rap at your door, give you a hale, to see if you are safe in the jail. Boys, take warning.

Your mother at home dreaming all the night, Oh, if I only knew where my sweet boy is tonight. It's hard times living in jail. Boys, take warning.

No doubt in my mind your mother sobbed and prayed all the while, Oh, if I could only see my boy, give one sweet smile. Boys, take warning, it's hard times living in jail.

Your father was a good man. It is true he joined your mother, praying for you. Boys, take warning, it's hard times living in jail.

They prayed for you once, they prayed for you twice, but like other boys, you wouldn't take advice, it's hard times living in jail, boys, take warning.—Uncle Remus.

1. Song, "Saviour More Than Life to Me."
2. Scripture Lesson, Mary McSwain.
3. Prayer.
4. Effect of Faith on the Personality of Jesus," Bill Simpson.
5. Duet, Miss Nell Wells and Miss Edith Simms.
6. Faith Enriches our Personality by Ridding us of Fear," Lanier Moore.
7. Song, "Faith of Our Fathers."
8. Faith Determines the Very Nature of our Lives," Ruth Prince.
9. Song, "He's A Wonderful Saviour To Me."
10. Announcements.
11. League Benediction.

If you were not at League last Sunday, we missed you; if you were there, we are looking for you again. —Vernie Teel, President of League; Mrs. Childs and Mrs. Broadhead, violins; Mrs. Washington, Pianist.

Sheriff Collins went to Marion in Perry County Tuesday to answer a summons before the grand jury there. Upon his return he reports that there was a good rain Tuesday afternoon all the way from Clanton to Maplesville and Stanton.

The Clean-Up

Published in the interest of the people of Chilton County by CLANTON LAUNDRY & CLEANING CO. Leo Thompson, Editor

VOL. I. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1929 NO. 10

A friend, who's wife claims is a go-getter, is an individual who eats at a cafeteria.

She: I'm so sorry to disappoint you. I became engaged to Tom last night.

He: All right, how about next week?

Often the washing of clothes wears them more than the wearer does in constant use, but that is because clothes are often subjected to strong soaps and hard water which work injury to the fibers in the cloth. We use absolutely soft water, and that means that it is free from discolorations and impurities, but that it is also free from ANY minerals that would keep the soap from lathering quickly and doing its job of removing the dirt geatly and in the shortest possible time. Not only that but we make our washing and cleaning processes just right for the particular kind of garment you send us. You can trust us to launder or dry clean any garment you may have. We assure you it will be cleaned with the least possible wear and tear.

Mother, I want to get married.

No, my dear, you are not wise enough.

When shall I be wise enough?

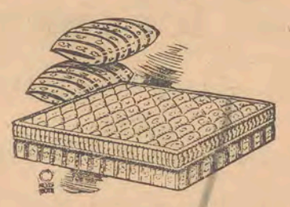
When you get over the idea that you want to get married.

Remember the laundry does it best, and we also invite you to call 119 when you have anything that needs cleaning or laundering and use our service to save you trouble.

My dear, she gushed. I nearly died when I was in the country last summer.

Were you ill?

Was I ill? It was awful. I gained five pounds.



If a man will talk, you can size him up quickly.

Milt Tolbert's The Show with a Million Friends, is showing in Clanton this week. It is always a delight to the people of this community when this show comes to town, and large crowds are in attendance this time. DR. G. C. ROPER DIED TUESDAY

Death Is The Result of Gunshot Wounds Received At Boothton, Ala.

Dr. G. Clarence Roper, age about 35, died at a Birmingham hospital Tuesday night, following gunshot wounds in the abdomen, received at Boothton Sunday night.

The dead man is a son of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Roper of Clanton, and a brother of Mrs. J. D. Armstrong and Royal M. Roper, also of Clanton. He went to Boothton about ten years ago, as mine physician for the Southern Coal & Coke Co., upon his graduation from medical college.

C. C. White, storekeeper at the mining town, was arrested shortly before daylight Monday in connection with an investigation into the shooting. He is being held without bond in the Shelby County jail.

Explanation of the shooting has been withheld by authorities, although officers reported that White said "the shooting could not be avoided."

Dr. Roper is survived by his wife.

Advices from Birmingham Wednesday morning said that Dr. Roper will be buried in Clanton Cemetery Thursday, with funeral services at 2 p. m. at the Clanton Methodist Church. Undertaker Mell Martin went to Birmingham Wednesday to take charge of the body and bring it to Clanton.

Clarence Roper was born and reared in Clanton. He went to school here, after which he went to Birmingham Medical College and prepared himself for the practice of medicine.

His many friends in Clanton and Chilton County will learn of his tragic death with the deepest sorrow.

Standard Oil Co. To Mark Airway

Will Paint Roof of Their Plant Here To Mark B'ham-Mobile Air Route

Announcement has just been made by Mr. W. E. Smith, President of the Standard Oil Company Incorporated in Kentucky, that his company will promptly proceed with the work of Airway Marking on the roofs of their plants in the states of Kentucky, Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi.

These markings will be in accordance with the final rulings for Airway Marking on roofs as established by the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce and shall be followed as regards type of lettering, coloring, field classifications and symbols.

Roof marking shall include generally arrow with the letter "N" pointing due North, and the name of the town in large letters. If a designated landing field is within a radius of twelve miles from the point of marking, the classification of field shall be given if correct information is available.

Clanton is on the Birmingham to Mobile Airway. The name "Clanton" in large letters on the roof of the Standard Oil plant will be a splendid advertisement for this community to the scores of planes and their passengers that pass along this airway daily. Similar markings of this airway will appear on the roofs of the Standard Oil plants at Birmingham, Selma, Tuscaloosa, Greenville, Evergreen, Brewton, Atmore, Bay Minette, Demopolis, Thomasville, Jackson and Mobile, and will be of valuable assistance in keeping pilots on the direct route.

In addition to the Birmingham to Mobile Airway, the Louisville to Lexington, Louisville to Cincinnati, Louisville to Evansville, Memphis to New Orleans, Birmingham to Vicksburg, Louisville to Memphis, Jacksonville to Atlanta, Atlanta to Birmingham, Tampa to Jacksonville, Miami to Jacksonville and Jacksonville to New Orleans air routes are being marked by the painting of the roofs of over one hundred Standard Oil Company plants.

Ginning $4 A Bale

The farmers of this county will be interested, and no doubt greatly pleased to see the announcement in this issue of the county papers that the gins at Clanton, Thorsby, and Jemison will gin cotton at $4 a bale up to 500 pounds, and 1 cent a pound for all over 500 pounds.

This new scale of prices for ginning will go into effect today, Thursday, September 19.

The decision of the ginners to make this price for ginning will meet a popular demand among the farmers of the county.

There has been considerable dissatisfaction with the high prices formerly charged for ginning.

BROADUS CONNATSER BACK IN CLANTON

Mr. Broadus Connatser has returned to Clanton for the winter. All the past summer he has been playing baseball for the amusement of the folks at Jackson, Miss., and other cities in the Cotton States Baseball League. Now he will devote a few months to business for the amusement of his uncle, Daddy Fox.

We are glad to welcome Mr. Connatser back home. He is one of Clanton's favorite young men, and we are proud that he chooses to keep up his business connections here when not engaged in the great pastime of baseball.

A REAL SALE IN CLANTON

The W. W. Fox Furniture and Hardware Store announces in this issue of the County Paper what he hopes to be his greatest sale. The price of every article in his store has been reduced 25 percent. enabling anyone who wishes to purchase $1.00 worth of merchandise for the greatly reduced price of 75 cents.

Mr. Fox thinks this will be his greatest sale for two reasons: First, He has the largest stock of furniture, hardware, and general necessities of any merchant in Central Alabama, and what the people want. Second, The Price is actually reduced 25 percent. on every piece, and every piece absolutely new, clean and up-to-date stock, the most of which has been recently opened from new shipments from various manufacturers.

When the people find out that this sale is really a sale where price is reduced and quality sustained they will tell their friends and neighbors.

Some of the very best of merchandise are included in this stock such as, Pan American Furniture, Diamond Edge Tools, John Lucas Paint products, Crescent beds, Diamond Edge knives and cutlery, and so on throughout the entire stock.

The thing to do is to make it a point to visit his store the first time you are in town and select the things you are going to need, because these goods are not going to remain there at the advertised prices. They are Real Bargains.

For you to appreciate this sale you must come to his store and let his assistants show you the real honest-to-goodness values and bargains that are to be had.

J. P. CRUMPTON JR. GOING TO MITCHELL DAM

Mr. J. P. Crumpton, Jr., salesman at Hill Grocery Company in Clanton, has accepted a position with Alabama Power Company at Mitchell Dam. He will take up his duties there next week.

"Red" has been with the Hill store since the business first opened in Clanton. He has made hundreds of friends who will miss him. He has the best wishes of everybody as he takes up his new job. His untiring diligence and attention to business duties assures him success wherever he goes.

MRS. TOM TAYLOR REPORTED BETTER

Mrs. Alla Taylor, wife of Mr. Tom Taylor, well known business man of Clanton, was carried to South Highlands Infirmary in Birmingham for an operation during the past week.

Her condition at first was thought to be somewhat critical. Late news from the hospital, however, brings the pleasing information that she is showing signs of considerable improvement.

JUDGE REYNOLDS ANSWERS CRITICS ON CONDUCT OF COUNTY AFFAIRS

Editorial In Chilton County News Draws Lengthy Discussion From Probate Judge

Editor Union-Banner:

I hate to have to appear in print so much, but I cannot afford to let pass unnoticed such insinuations and falsehoods as appeared in the Chilton County News last week. The Chilton County News, in its editorial column, asked the commissioners court for its views upon the three-mill school tax, and the court gave this paper its views, and then Atkinson drags the three mill tax into politics, as he generally drags everything, and goes aside the issue and tirades through four columns of his paper on everything against me and the things that I have been connected with. I want the people to distinctly understand that I never mentioned his name through the columns of the paper except in answer to his slurs and insinuations and if anyone is to blame for filling the columns of the paper with this controversy I want the blame to be placed where it is due. The issue started with the three mill school tax and from reading his paper it is impossible for me to say whether he was attempting to defeat the tax or pass it, and I am unable to say whether his paper has harmed or helped the tax. This is his usual colors.

To begin with it always seems that the surplus is what worries Atkinson. I think the surplus in the county treasury is grating upon his nerves and he spends practically all his time maneuvering out some way to get his hands upon this surplus. He refers to bonds that the county owes. This debt was created by Judge Deason for the highway built through the county, and those bonds were issued to take up county warrants, most of which were drawing 8% and the bonds drew 5%. You can figure the difference we save in interest. On $200,000.00 per year the saving is $6,000, or twelve years the age of these bonds would be $72,000.00 We have already taken up $35,000.00 worth of the bonds and we are taking these bonds up just as fast as we can get them and expect to take up $50,000.00 more this year. If we cannot take up these bonds we expect to set aside all we can spare next year and put it on interest, if this can legally be done. It is unnecessary to rehash the condition of Chilton County when these bonds were floated, but it will be recalled that the county was practically bankrupt, and in deciding to make the bonds due in 1947 the conference was had with leading Democrats of the county and it was decided by the advice of all parties that this would be the only salvation for the financial condition of the county.

Again the surplus seems to worry Atkinson and he says that "if Honorable L. F. Gerald was managing the county affairs that he would put the surplus out on interest," and I might add that if Honorable L. F. Gerald was managing the county affairs that Honorable J. B. Atkinson would be assisting, and if these two Honorable gentlemen were managing the county affairs there would be no surplus to put out, except that it would be put outside the people where nobody could ever find it and it would take another bond issue thirty years off to save the wrecks. He states further that if the commissioners court had taken the advice of Mr. Gerald in the past they would have saved the county several hundred dollars in Attorney fees paid to the law firm of Reynolds & Reynolds and other Attorneys, and also Mr. Atkinson states that if the commissioners court had taken his advice in the matters that much money would have been saved. I will take thees two matters up together. In the first place it is my opinion that 90% of the cases wherein Chilton County has had to employ Attorneys that this has been brought about through the efforts of you two men, and 90% of appeals from road condemnation cases you have filed. As a matter of fact, Gerald and Atkinson know that one of their main criticisms with the commissioners court is because the commissioners court has fought the cases brought

CLANTON CASH STORE MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

The dry goods department of the Clanton Cash Store has put on a considerable change in appearance during the last week with the arrangement of a new system of display counters and other new and up-to-date fixtures. The store looks so much better that it hardly seems like the same place when you walk inside .

Mrs. Lonza Robinson is in charge of the ladies department of the store. She is a very popular saleswoman and is thoroughly famailiar with all the fads of merchandise of interest to her lady friends and customers.

The men who trade at the Clanton Cash Store will find the old reliable Jess Baker to help them out with their problems of shoes, clothing, shirts, ties and socks.

AN ENJOYABLE DAY IS PLANNED FOR MULBERRY

The fourth Sunday in this month is our regular preaching day.

There will be Sunday School at ten o'clock a. m. Prof. J. D. Griffin, superintendent.

At 11:00 o'clock our pastor, Bro. G. G. Williams, will bring us a message.

Everybody then goes home for lunch, and invites his friends.

Promptly at 2:00 o'clock p. m. return to the church. At this time the Clanton Quartet will be with us and sing. Other good singers have also promised to be with us, and we are expecting the most enjoyable day of the season for Mulberry.

All singers, lovers of music, and everyone is cordially invited to be with us and take part.—S. J. M. Webb.

COTTON REPORT

According to W. M. Stuart, director, the report of cotton ginned in Chilton County prior to Septembr 1, is as follows:

There were 1,192 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, ginned in Chilton County, from the crop of 1929 prior to September 1, 1929.

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

The last preaching service this associational year will be held at Friendship church next Sunday and Sunday night. Rev. A. L. Foshee, the pastor, will de the preaching at both services, at eleven o'clock and at seven thirty.

The members of our church are asked to meet at seven o'clock Sunday evening for the purpose of going into conference and electing a pastor and officers of the church and Sunday school for the coming year. Please be there promptly at seven o'clock as it will require 30 minutes to attend to this matter.

There will be singing at two o'clock Sunday afternoon. All singers and lovers of music are invited to come and help.

MRS. HATHCOCK DIED SUDDENLY THURSDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Nettie (Ware) Hathcock died suddenly at her home at Coxheath in Wilcox County last Thursday night. Death was unexpected, caused by heart trouble.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. A. J. Ware of Sweetwater, and a sister of Mrs. W. W. Fox and Mrs. Will Reynolds, of Clanton. She is survived by her husband and three children.

Funeral and burial was held Saturday near Sweetwater. Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Reynolds and other relatives from Clanton attended the funeral.

KIWANIS CLUB VISIT BESSEMER

Interesting Entertainment Provided At Inter-Club Meeting Last Friday Night

Twenty members of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton went to Bessemer last Friday night to attend an inter-club meeting as guests of the Kiwanis Club of Bessemer. It was a most delightful occasion for our fellows, because the Bessemer Kiwanians really made the Clanton visitors feel welcome.

Talks were made by Bill Schantz, secretary of the Bessemer Club and Mack Wyatt, secretary of the Clanton Club, on "My Club."

Mayor Eric Hart, of Clanton, and Julian Erlick of Bessemer, delivered addresses on "My Town."

A real Kiwanis Address was made by Rev. Matthews, member of the Bessemer Club, and pastor of the First Methodist Church of Bessemer. Rev. Matthews is a most forceful speaker, and his discussion of the subject, "Is Kiwanis an Adequate Instrument of Community Service," was among the best we ever listened to.

Percy Pitts came in for his usual role of singer. His first number was "Old Man River." His audience called him back with a prolonged encore and he sang the Kiwanis song, "Builder We." At the conclusion of the latter number he was joined in the chorus by the entire audience of about 100 men, and the walls of the Gary Hotel vibrated with real Kiwanis feeling as expressed in this wonderful song.

Mr. Donald, the beloved President of Bessemer Club, presided at the meeting. Gordon Vail, official entertainer for the Bessemer Club, was on the job leading the songs and otherwise engaging himself in making everybody have a good time.

County Officials Visit State Capitol

Report of Interview Is Made By Atticus Mullin In The Advertiser

The emblem of the party to which Judge Louis Reynolds of Chilton belongs is the traditional G. O. P. elephant. He is what might be termed a 101 per cent Republican in comparison with the new Republicans in Alabama whose signboard is an animal with an elephant's head, tusks, trunk and front quarters and a jackass's hind quarters and tail.

Judge Reynolds has been a Republican so long that he can't remember when he started out under the shadow of the elephant. He manages to be elected probate judge of his county because he is a straight out and out Republican and in addition to that gives his people, with the assistance of his county board, modern schools and well constructed highways.

Judge Reynolds and County Commissioners A. P. Vinson, J. L. Burnett, J. P. Bean, and T. A. Maddox, were in Montgomery Monday. They came to take part in the county conference relative to a joint almshouse and Judge Reynolds and his county board entered into the plan adopted and Chilton will be one of the five counties that will share in the joint almshouse to be built in Montgomery. Judge Reynolds likes Montgomery, has always been partial to her people and comes here often.—Atticus Mullin in Montgomery Advertiser.

CLANTON QUARTET SANG AT MONTGOMERY

The Clanton Quartet filled their engagement to sing at the Clayton Street Baptist Church in Montgomery last Sunday morning. Their reception was very pleasing to the singers.

Before they could get away the congregation of the church had pressed them into another engagement to sing at a banquet of the church on Tuesday night, September 24th.

Are you in easy reach of your friends?

WHEN friends are planning an evening's bridge, a party for the show, or any one of the dozens of other delightful affairs that make life so pleasant, can they reach you easily and quickly---by telephone?

Without a telephone in your home you'll never know how many impromptu gatherings you are missing. Often planned on the spur of the moment, there is too little time to get in touch with the person who doesn't have a telephone.

You can enjoy all the advantages of a telephone of your own at a surprisingly low cost. For its installation call the company business office, or see any telephone employe.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 22

MALACHI FORETELLS A NEW DAY

GOLDEN TEXT—Behold, I send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me.

LESSON TEXT—Malachi 3:1-12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Promise of God's Blessing.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Promise of God's Blessing

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Part in Bringing in a Better Day.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Preparing the Way of the Lord.

The subject of today's lesson is broader than the printed text. In order to teach this lesson effectively the entire book should be surveyed. The prophet pointed out the sins of a corrupt priesthood, mixed marriages, and failure to pay tithes.

I. The Base Ingratitude of Israel (1:1-5).

God approached them with the tender affirmation, "I have loved you." It was the burden of the prophet to declare this fact unto them (v. 1). So worldly were the people that they failed to discern God's good hand upon them. Israel's attitude toward God is shown in the skeptical question, "Wherein hast thou loved us" (v. 2)? Malachi answers this question by showing God's choice of Jacob and his passing by of Esau, his destruction of Edom and his saving of Israel.

II. God's Severe Indictment (1:6-2:17; 3:7-15)

1. Against the priests (1:6-2:9).

They were guilty of:

(1) Profanity (1:6). Their profanity consisted in despising the name of God. To fail to honor God is to be profane. To use His name in any unreal way is to be thus guilty.

(2) Sacrilege (1:7, 8).

Their sacrilegious act was in offering polluted bread and blemished sacrifices. To bring such offerings to an earthly ruler would be a gross insult.

(3) Greed (1:10).

They were not willing to open the doors of God's house without pay.

(4) Weariness (1:12, 13). Because of the absence of love, the routine of priestly duties became irksome. God threatened them with severe punishment unless they would take His rebukes to heart.

(5) Not teaching the law to the people (2:1-9). Those set apart to teach God's law to the people have a great responsibility and God will most assuredly demand an accounting.

2. Against the people (2:10-17; 3:7-15).

(1) For ungodly marriages (2:11-12). God's purpose in the prohibition of mixed marriages was that He might raise up a holy seed (v. 15). The marriage of the believer with the unbeliever today brings confusion into the fold of God and turns aside His purpose.

(2) For divorce (2:13-16). Divorce in Israel was the source of great sorrow—even the tears of the wronged women covering the altar (v. 13).

(3) Public wrongs (3:5, 6).

a. Sorcery—magic arts. This includes the practice of occult sciences.

b. Adultery. This is a sin of wider extent than to the parties directly concerned. It is a canker which gnaws at the very heart of society. Unfaithfulness to the marriage relation should be regarded as a public sin.

c. False swearing.

d. Oppression of the hireling, widow and fatherless.

e. Turning aside the stranger from his rights.

(4) Withholding tithes (3:7-12). Failure to pay tithes is robbery of God. His claim upon Israel was the tenth, plus free-will offerings. Our responsibility is to give as God prospers us (I Cor. 16:1).

(5) Blasphemy (3:13-15). They openly spoke against God, saying that it was profitless to serve Him.

III. The Awful Judgment Which Shall Befall the Nation (3:1-5; 4:1-6)

1. By whom executed (v. 1).

It is to be done by the Lord. All judgment has been committed unto the Son of God (Jno. 5:22, 30, cf. Acts 17:30, 31). When Christ comes in power and glory to render judgment, He will distinguish between the righteous and the wicked, rewarding them according to their deeds.

2. The time of (3:2-4:1).

It will be at the second coming of Christ. John the Baptist was the forerunner of His first coming. Elijah will be the forerunner of His second coming.

3. The result (3:3, 4, 16-18; 4:1, 2).

For the righteous it will be a day of healing and salvation; for the wicked a day of burning and destruction.

More Sorrow, More Joy

The more sorrow the more joy. If we have loads of sorrow, then the Lord's power will turn them into tons of joy. Then the bitterer the trouble the sweeter the pleasures; the swinging of the pendulum far to the left will cause it to go all the farther to the right. The remembrance of the grief shall heighten the flavor to the delight: and the brilliance of the diamond shall be the more clearly seen because of the black foil behind it.—Spurgeon.

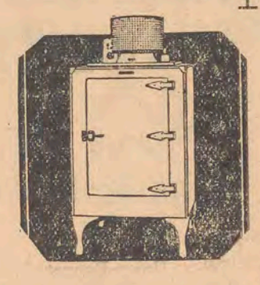
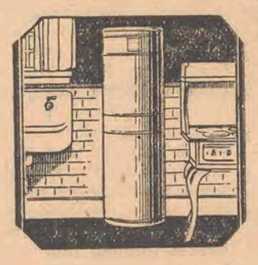
Are You expecting a Baby?



THOUSANDS of expectant mothers are now cheerful and happy. Their waiting months have been made comfortable and they will be better prepared when the great moment of childbirth arrives. This has also been true of countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years who have used "Mother's Friend," that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician.



Mother's Friend lessens pain.

You, too, may enjoy the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Free Book "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 12, Atlanta, Ga.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

NEED TAPEWORMS TAKE THE MEASURE OF YOUR FLOCK?

Tapeworms are probably among the worst offenders of the thirty-six or more species or varieties of worms that find parking space in a fowl's intestines. They may cause serious loss in any flock once they get started, so it is well to know what are the signs of their presence and what are the best measures for getting rid of them.

Tapeworms are very common in poultry and some varieties do not seem to cause any particular trouble. There are at least two kinds, however, that will cause plenty of trouble if allowed to gain headway. These worms are small, seldom being over five inches long. They bury their heads in the walls of the fowl's intestines, but apparently, only to anchor themselves. The greatest damage they do is deprive the bird of its natural nourishment by absorbing all or most of it themselves. The chickens eat as much as they ever did, or more, but it does little good. A careful observer will see that his fowls are gradually losing weight and get pale from no apparent cause.

The only sure way to detect tapeworm is to kill one or more of the fowls most seriously affected and conduct a post-mortem examination, or "post" any that die. Cut open the ones selected for examination and slit the intestines from end to end. If the intestines are held under water it will be easier to detect the worms if any are present. Tapeworms are easily recognized, being flat, made up of jointed segments. They are white or gray in color. There may also be round worms present. Round worms are a serious enough problem to be featured in an independent article which I have written for separate publication.

Tapeworms must have an intermediate host, or they can not spread to other fowls. Tapeworms eggs will not hatch in the intestines of chickens. The eggs of tapeworms are passed with the droppings of infected chickens and may be eaten by flies or earth worms. They hatch inside the fly or earth worm, and then chickens eat them and the worms will develop and grow in the chicken. Flies are the most common hosts. If, therefore, fowls are confined to yards which are kept free of droppings and decayed matter, there will be less trouble from tapeworms. If all such materials are removed some distance from the poultry runs, flies will be attracted elsewhere.

Kamala is known to be the most effective remedy against tapeworms in poultry, and is recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. It is best given in the form in individual dose pills—one gram being a dose for an adult chicken. This medicine is very convenient as no fasting is necessary before giving it. Caution should be used, however, as some cases of poisoning have resulted from giving Kamala. The usual practice is to try it on a few of the less valuable birds about 48 hours before the rest of the flock. If the test fowls show favorable results, the rest may be treated with reasonable assurance of safety.

In the case of tapeworm infection, as with most other poultry diseases, sanitary measures are of prime importance. Clean up runs and houses and keep them clean and well disinfected with a good dip and disinfectant. Remove all droppings or other fly attracting material every morning and remove it to a safe distance. Cover all runs with a heavy coating of hydrated lime, which should be plowed or spaded under often, and a quick growing grain planted.

FARM RADIO SERVICE THROUGH COUNTY AGENTS

Another strong link was added to the rural radio chain last week, when the State Board of Agriculture joined hands with Auburn Polytechnic Institute in a project to place radio receiving sets in each county having a county agent.

This decision was made following a state wide survey of radio reception made jointly by the above organizations. It was found that daytime reception from WAPI was uniformly good over more than 3-4 of Alabama counties. Farmers have reported satisfaction at receiving daily market and weather reports and the flood warnings, advance notices of storms, stages of rivers, prices of cotton and all ordinary farmproducts in Alabama, have been of inestimable value coming from the Department of Agriculture.

Daily 30 minute programs from Auburn of farm news, music and general agricultural information at noon, followed by a similar period from Montgomery, after which the State Department of Agriculture continues with a half hour.

Sets are to be installed in counties making application for them and agreeing to pay one-fourth the cost, provided an easily accessible public place, to post and otherwise make public the market news each day is provided, and the set is maintained in working order. Should a County fail to furnish their part of the service, or upkeep, the receiving set is to be the property of the State Department of Agriculture.

The desire of the above cooperating parties is to increase the efficiency and value of the daily service to farmers and citizens of Alabama. The Station WAPI is located at Birmingham from which point all broadcasting is put on the air. Studios through which broadcasting is carried on are located at Montgomery, Department of Agriculture, Auburn, Polytechnic Institute, and at the Alabama College at Montevallo and the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa.

The Union-Banner is $1.50 a year.

CLEAN FARROWING FOR HEALTHY PIGS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 15.—Alabama farmers are preparing now for the fall pig farrowing season. The season will begin about the middle of September.

Sanitation is the cardinal principle of good farrowing, according to Prof. W. M. Sewell, of the animal husbandry department at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Farmers will be well paid for giving their sows clean enviroment for farrowing. In this connection he says:

"A new-born pig is an attractive thing. Imagine his plump little body encased in a shiny, pliable, sleek coat, and his pink mouth declaring to the world in a hearty squeal that nature has given him a perfect animal mechanism whose various organs leap with the cleanliness and harmony of new-born life.

"Allow the pig to be born to a dirty sow in a dirty lot that has penned hogs for years and see the pig six weeks after he is born. Mange mites have produced a gnarled head and ears and turned the pliable skin of his neat sides into a leathery hide studded with knotty scabs. A yellowish excrement indicates that microbes have dug at his intestines until they are inflamed with enteritis. Worms have sieved through his lungs and liver until his vital organs are seriously damaged. To complete the picture glutted lice suck continuously at the tough skin which hides the bare bones from view. The pig is a runt.

"Allow the pig to be born to a mother made clean by a good bath and in a clean house on green sod where other hogs have never tramped. In the pink of health he arrives in a clean friendly world to grow on a well-fed mother's milk. He is always a joy to the eye and a booster for the bank account."

RURAL REMINDERS

External and internal parasites in nearly all cases are the greatest factor in determining profit or loss in the poultry industry.

After it has been dyed, silk, cotton, or rayon should be rinsed in one warm water and then in cold water until all excess dye is removed.

"Now is the time to re-queen. Colonies should have a new queen if for some reason the old queen did not build up a strong colony which produced a good crop of honey, if the queen is two years or more old, or if the hive swarmed this year. Buy select, untested queens. They are selling for about 50 cents."—W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist at Auburn.

"An efficient kitchen is one so arranged that all work is reduced to the fewest possible movements."—Nell Pickens, home management specialist, Auburn.

"The small towns comprise our new industrial frontier."—Martin J. Insull.

In the United States 17,345 livestock owners use purebred sires only, four counties are entirely free from grade and scrub bulls, and two other counties are free from scrub and grade dairy bulls, according to a Federal report.

Information for the ordinary planter who wants to propagate fruit trees and shrubs by any of the artificial means is contained in Farmers Bulletin 1567-F, Propagation of Trees and Shrubs, just issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Ohio State University is about to enter its third year's test on September-hatched chicks. Its object is to complete the cycle of all-year broiler, pullet and egg production. While the station makes no prediction about mature results it has met no difficulty with fall hatching or brooding.

Present prospects are that the total production of grapes in 1929 will be about one-fifth less than that in either 1927 or 1928 and nearly 200,000 tons below the five-year average, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The estimate is for 2,060,788 tons for the country as a whole.

Cornstalk gas to light and heat small cities was announced at the American Chemical Society's seventy-eighth meeting at Minneapolis. Ordinary sewerage an dplain cornstalks are combined in a cheap, simple method which produces results like those of Alladin's lamp.

A "census of distribution" will be taken in connection with the 1930 census. In addition to the usual data the government investigators will collect information as to the methods and channels through which the American people buy the enormous total of seventy billion dollars worth of goods each year. The new census will attempt to discover how products move in distribution.

It is said that there is a strong possibility that Postmaster General Brown will find it necessary to recommend to the regular session of Congress in December an increase in the first-class mail rate to either 2 1-2 or 3 cents.

FARMERS BUYING WINTER LEGUMES

By L. O. Bracken

Present indications are that farmers of Alabama will this year plant more winter legume seed than ever before, according to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, who said that the state farm bureau has already sold 483,000 pounds of vetch seed and 539,000 of Austrian winter peas, making a total of 1,122,000 pounds.

President O'Neal said that farm bureau officials and extension workers are now in the midst of winter legume campaign. They are urging that every farmer of Alabama plant more vetch and Austrian peas in order to enrich their land in the most economical way yet found.

A similar winter legume campaign was conducted last year with the result that farmers planted over 1,500,000 pounds. If farmers continue to book seed as they have during the past few weeks the amount of seed planted will be much larger than that planted last season.

Vetch or Austrian winter peas should be planted the last half of September or the first half of October, according to members of the agronomy department at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Director M. J. Funchess of the Experiment Station and J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, point out that years of weather records show that, on the average, there is some rain fall during the last of September. Furthermore, they say that earlier plantings, that is in September or early October, enable the crops to form a root system and become established before winter. Many failures have been due to late plantings.

COTTON SELLS ON LOW GRADE BASIS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 16.—In many instances where Alabama cotton is sold in local markets, farmers are paid for cotton of a lower grade than the cotton would actually be classed according to government standards. This fact was revealed by a thorough investigation conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the department of agricultural economics of the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn.

In reporting results of the investigation J. D. Pope, head of the department at Auburn, said that it is not unusual for farmers to be paid on a basis of one grade below what their cotton actually grades. Some are graded two or more grades, but one grade is nearer the average. However, there is frequently very little grading done by local buyers, but an average is struck.

The report was made not as a criticism but as a statement of the practices and conditions. Under present regulations as to grade and staple of cotton, trained men are needed for accurate grading and stapling. Where there is doubt, cotton is graded low for the protection of the buyer; and the grower is penalized accordingly. On the other hand farmers usually receive no discount for cotton of extra short untenderable staple and sometimes receive more than the true value of their cotton. It seems that an improvement in the marketing system would be to make the price strictly in accordance with the government classification, the report said.

Mr. Pope declared that where cotton is sold cooperatively farmers are paid on a basis of actual grades and staples. The farmer having a bale of middling is paid for a bale of this grade and those having lower or higher grades are paid accordingly.

On the basis of present methods of marketing Mr. Pope explained that cotton growers of Alabama not only at times suffer losses but do not get the encouragement to improve the quality of their cotton that more scientific price-making methods would give.

S. E. NORTON, Manager

The Lutheran Ladies Aid will meet this week Thursday with Mrs. M. J. Soberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins and son, Claud, spent Sunday visiting relatives in Birmingham.

Mrs. M. Pierson, daughter, Clementine, and Mrs. S. C. Wood visited Dr. Pierson's niece, Edwina Jordan at Montevallo College Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Herbert Adams of Birmingham visited Miss Ruth Martin last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith and Mrs. Bentley and children took dinner Monday night with Mrs. Bentley's father, T. W. Robinson, in Calera.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Howard were visitors in Montgomery Monday. We are glad to report their little daughter, Marion Joyce, is improving.

Miss Jennye Robinson left Monday night to take up training at St. Vincent Hospital in Birmingham.

Mr. Earl Mead of Birmingham was a visitor in Thorsby Tuesday. His father, E. F. Mead, accompanied him back to the city.

Miss May Whilley of Birmingham who has been spending a week visiting with relatives in Thorsby returned to her home Monday night.

Mr. W. D. Wharton of Ensley has moved his family onto the old Maynard farm, north of Frank Nelson's.

Mrs. Ed Piper and Elizabeth shopped in Clanton Monday afternoon.

Andrew Davis's mules got frightened Tuesday morning and ran into the plate glass window at the I. G. A. Store, breaking it.

The house in East Thorsby formerly occupied by Flem Martin has been purchased by Ed Piper and is being papered and wired and will be occupied soon by Mrs. Christ of Birmingham.

Mrs. Mary Stange celebrated her 75th birthday last Sunday.

Mr. Fred Howard, daughter, Lucile, and Mr. Andrew Franzen visited at Mineral Springs Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Sarber of Elmore were visitors in Thorsby Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Yancey Kelly and little daughter, Audrey, of West End, Birmingham were visitors here Sunday at the home of E. W. Butler.

Miss Louise Crocker of Ensley visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Piper from Saturday until Tuesday. Miss Dovie Tatum accompanied her home for a week's visit.

Mr. Herbert Vines and mother of Ensley spent the week end in Thorsby visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. Theron South and Robert Ward of Birmingham were week end visitors in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raybon welcomed a baby daughter into their home last Wedensday, September 11.

Thorsby Institute opened on September 11th with a larger enrollment than last year and more have enrolled since.

At the opening exercises Rev. E. W. Butler, Treasurer of the Institute, offered the opening prayer. This was followed by words of welcome by the vice president of the Trustees, Rev. Jos. E. Each. Miss Jenkins, the principal, gave a short talk after which she introduced as speakers, Miss Stoddard, who taught at the Institute for several years and is again teaching here; Mr. Sutlive, formerly Junior High School Principal at Damascus, Georgia for three years, now teacher and athletic coach. Mr. Butler and Mr. Maddox, the Registrar both made short talks. The teachers who had not spoken were introduced and the exercises closed by the Alma Mater and benediction.

New classes at the Institute this year are Mechanical drawing and history and appreciation of music.

If there are any wishing to take piano under Miss Thoroman whose musical education was secured largely at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, and who has had several years experience in teaching, it would be well to apply as soon as possible. There will be room for some not regularly enrolled at the Institute.

There are sixteen Seniors and one more is expected.

Saturday night the Dormitory folks and Mrs. Gerald's family had a picnic and games on the lawn by one of the boy's cottages.

Miss Fairbank is again in charge of the Institute Library. Two years ago she took a course at the University of Wisconsin and this summer studied library work at the University of North Carolina. Thorsby Institute has one of the best high school libraries in the state. It is open free to the public and the people may draw out any of its twenty-four current magazines or books.

The Ladies Guild will give a reception in the auditorium of Helen Jenkins Hall next Friday evening, September 20, at 7:30. The teachers, pupils and their parents, former students, the trustees and wives, the Ladies Guild and their husbands and all patrons and contributing friends of the school are invited to attend.

Messrs. I. S. Gerald, Lester Padgette and Ruth Gerald spent the week end in Thorsby with the home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell spent Sunday with friends in Birmingham and worshipped in their home church.

Mrs. Each, Mrs. C. C. Petersen and Jack, and Mrs. Robert Johnson visited Caroline Skinner at Mineral Springs Sunday afternoon.

Rev. J. E. Each returned home Tuesday night from Chicago where he has been in a convention with ministers from many different states. He was much pleased to find our Rev. James W. Davenport among the pastors in attendance.

Mr. Henry Robinson left last Saturday night for Texas where he will enter school. His mother, Mrs. T. W. Robinson, accompanied him as far as New Orleans.

Mr. Cecil Each spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Miss Margaret Butler of Birmingham spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler.

Mrs. J. M. Bosworth, children, Christine and Leonard, and Miss Naemi Turnquist were visitors in Birmingham Saturday night and Sunday.

W. T. BAKER'S STORE CLOSED THURSDAY

The store of the W. T. Baker Dry Goods Company in Clanton was closed last Thursday under orders of M. Hugh Stuart, receiver in Bankruptcy.

The Baker Store has been in operation here for the past two years. It has been one of the finest dry goods establishments in the county, and it is with general regret that the public accepts the verdict which pronounces the business unable to further operate in account of financial obstacles.

Mr. W. T. Baker, proprietor of the store, is one of Clanton's most popular business men. He has made a reputation for honesty and fairness since coming here two years ago. In acknowledgment of the high regard which our people have for him, he was elected a member of the town council at the last election, which position he now holds.

His many friends hope that he may be able to get himself back together and adjust his financial situation to the very best advantage as quickly as possible.

The room cooler has been found to lower the temperature of an average-size room ten degrees in thirty minutes and to bring about ten per cent decrease in humanity.—Arkansas paper.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION

Friday night, September 20, there will be a fiddlers convention at the Jemison high school auditorium. There will also be a quartet contest. All fiddlers and quartet singers of the county are invited to come and compete for the many valuable prizes. Everyone has an invitation. Admission will be 15c and 25c.

NATIONAL LEADERS SEE HELP FOR ORGANIZED FARMERS

Views of President Hoover, Chairman Legge, Dr. Knapp, Pres. O'Neal, Prof. Duncan, Gov. Graves and Mr. Northington

Farmers of Alabama and the Nation are assured help in marketing their products if they will organize. The government has promised assistance and it is now up to the farmers to take it or leave it. This fact is very clearly brought out by the statements by National leaders given below.

When delivering his first business address before the Federal Farm Board, President Hoover said, "To ceate permanent business institutions for marketing which, owned and controlled by farmers, should be so wisely devised and soundly founded and well managed that they be effecting economies and giving such stability will grow in strength in the years to come."

Later in the same message he declared, "If we are to succeed it will be by strengthening the foundations and the initiative which we already have in the farm organizations and building not for the present only but for the next year and the next decade."

Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, when speaking before the institution of cooperation, Baton Rouge, asserted, "The Farm Board will provide a contact between organized farmers and the government ,even though they may not come to the Board for the purpose of obtaining loans. Any organized group may come to the Board for the purpose of counsel, advise and assistance in meeting their problems."

Touching upon the $500,000,000 appropriated, Chairman Legge said, "In the first place we cannot lend money to individual farmers because this law seems to be a strictly cooperative marketing law; hence, we can only do business with cooperative organizations. For the individual farmer to get the benefit of this law he must work through a cooperative organization and the cooperative organization must be of a character conforming to the interpretation of the law.

"The funds entrusted to the care of the Board will be administered for the purpose of carrying out its program, of which the central thought will be the strengthening of the cooperative movement and the permanent betterment of agriculture."

Agricultural leaders of Alabama are agreed that to receive aid from the Federal Farm Board farmers of the state must organize. Dr. Bradford Knapp, President of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Honorable Bibb Graves, Governor of Alabama, Prof. L. N. Duncan, Director of Extension Service, Auburn, Edward A. O'Neal, President Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and Allen Northington, general manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, have expressed their desires of Alabama farmers availing themselves of the assistance offered by organizing and cooperating.

Dr. Knaap recently made the following statement to the Birmingham Rotary Club, "I want to say this—no longer can men sit on drygood boxes in town and advise farmers to stay out of the cooperative organizations; no longer can the influence of great business organizations be used against the organization of farmer-owned and farmer-controlled associations for marketing and handling farm products. Now such action would be against the policy of the government. The government has declared its policy and if we are to solve the problem justly we will place ourselves in line with the policy of the government which is to create farmer associations for marketing.

When addresing members of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation at Auburn, August 5-6 he said, "I have heard that old story time and time again that you can't organize farmers. Well, millions of them ought to be organized and the task isn't halm as simple as some think it would be."

Later in his address he declared, "I tell you that we are all bound up together and what any one of us does has its effect upon every one else and we cannot get away from it, the Federal Farm Board is going to deal, if it deals at all, through farm organizations, and we are 6,800,000 strong and only a portion of that group, a third of it, organized.

ZIEGFELD CHORUS BEAUTIES MUST HAVE CURVES, PRODUCER DECREES

Glorifier of American Girl Taboos Slat-Like Figure for Season's Productions

Gladys Glad—1930 Follies type.

Florenz Ziegfeld who has turned thumbs down on the undernourished type of chorus girl. Above—a line of typical Ziegfeld Beauties.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD, monarch of musical comedy, has decreed that this season's model chorus girl must possess a full quota of normal feminine curves. When the curtain rises this winter on the dancing, singing line of beauties that make up the Follies and other famous Ziegfeld productions, there will be no slat-like figures in their ranks. For, according to Mr. Ziegfeld, skeleton figures resulting from harmful reducing diets are not wanted by the American theatergoer.

Other producers have discovered that it is the thin, half-starved girl who fails to stand up under the rigors of a hard winter of matinees and evening performances and for that reason the official thumb has been turned down on her.

Mr. Ziegfeld further has a word of advice for the thousands of young women who would trip the boards on Broadway. Pep, charm, and beauty, he says, are not brought about by the elimination of sugar, sweets and other foods that fill nature's storehouse of energy.

"Rounded lines, well proportioned, with a certain amount of grace and dignity are my ideals," Mr. Ziegfeld said. "From the days when Dolores reigned the present, exemplified by Gladys Glad, the beauties of our shows have been carefully selected with an eye to beauty of form as well as face. The extreme, slender form possesses no beauty, nor does it find favor in my eyes or the eyes of a discriminating public.

Reducing Fads Taboo

"I have never approved of the wild fads for reducing that often seize the American miss and matron. The girl or woman who eliminates the needed elements of food from her diet, who starves herself by eating only those foods warranted to be non-fattening and who turns aside from good old-fashioned meals, banishing even dessert from her menu, must pay nature's toll in impaired health.

"Only the girl with abundant spirits and personal magnetism finds a place in the scheme of things today. The undernourished, underweight girl cannot hope to possess these attributes which make for success.

"Sunshine, fresh air exercise and an abundance of body building and energizing foods are the open secrets of beauty and no one can hope to remain beautiful who does not take deep draughts of all of these."

Mr. Ziegfeld has selected Gladys Glad as the ideal type of chorus girl whose curves would make any tired business man forget the butter and egg business for a few hours.

NICHOLS-DEVAUGHN MARRIAGE

A marriage of much interest last Sunday afternoon was that of Mr. Matthew Nichols to Miss Roma Lea Devaughn, the ceremony taking place at the home of W. M. Devaughn near Poplar Springs. Rev. A. L. Nichols performed the ceremony that made the young people man and wife.

Matthew Nichols is the son of Rev. A. L. Nichols of Adger, near Bessemer, and is very well known in Chilton County. He is attending Howard College, Birmingham. The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Devaughn, and is known widely in this section of the county and is held with the highest regard by all who know her.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols will make their home at East Lake, Birmingham, where the former will continue his studies at Howard College.

MR. WARE GONE BACK HOME

We understand that Mr. A. J. Ware, father of Mrs. W. W. Fox and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds, has left the hospital in Selma and returned to the home of his son at Sweetwater. He has been in the hospital for several months. It is reported that his condition grows gradually worse, and owing to his advanced age, there is little, if any hope for his recovery.

JAMES SIGN SHOP IS SELLING LUCAS PAINTS

The James Sign Shop, in Clanton, is now handling a full line of Lucas Paints, and Mr. James is anxious to furnish figures on supplying paint for any paint job that comes to hand. Our readers no doubt have already noticed the extensive campaign of advertising which Mr. James has been running about his paints.

The James Sign Shop is a heavy user of paints, and they have selected the Lucas Line for their own use as well as to sell to the trade. "We know Lucas Paints are the best," said Mr. James, "because we have used much paints first and last, and we find that Lucas is all right, and will meet every test that is demanded of a first class paint."

The James Sign Shop is a business that reflects credit on the town of Clanton. It is one of the most beautiful stores in our city. The extensive sign business which is conducted carries the name and fame of Clanton to all parts of Alabama. Clanton owes it to the James Sign Shop to give that business loyal support.

A LITTLE PESSIMISM

There is no doubt about it, the country is all wrong. One has but to read the find that out. Only about 30 per cent of the eligible voters vote. Writers of history text books are teaching our youth that Belleau Wood was a battle, whereas the official records class it as a local engagement. Eight million of our pianos are out of tune and are ruining our musical taste. Our medical education is all wrong, and so is all the rest of our education. Exposure of the human form, due to slavish subservience to style, is undermining our health, although it is saving many of us from pneumonia and tuberculosis. Three-quarters of us do not brush our teeth.

We have no great native music, and our theatres are all wrong. In art we are several thousand years behind the Hottentots. We are speed-mad, and devote far too much time to pleasure. A New York gentleman complains that when our athletes enter an international contest their sole aim is to win.

In spite of several score magazines of huge circulation devoted to the art of hanging curtains and making currant jelly, the American home is being destroyed. Wages are so high that we don't know what to do with our money, but the average American can't afford a doctor. We are losing our hair and our teeth and most of us have to wear glasses.

In short, we are in terrible shape, and there is no hope for us unless we walk six miles a day, drink lots of water between meals and take something for our halitosis.—Bangor Commercial.

WOOD FOR BASEBALL

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 16.—Without forests there would be no baseball games as they are now played, points out the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The bat that socks the ball in our national pastime has to be a mighty good piece of timber.

Baseball bats are made chiefly of ash, maple, beech and hickory. Only pieces of good quality can be used for this purpose. Michigan leads in the manufacture of bats, with New York, Tennessee and Illinois closely following.

Americans are an athletic people and the annual consumption of wood for sporting and athletic goods amounts to approximately twenty-one million board feet. In addition to baseball bats, bowling balls, dumbbells, fishing rods, golf clubs, Indian clubs, skis, snowshoes, tenpins, tennis rackets and various other types of athletic goods are made from these woods. In their manufacture, hickory and maple are about tied for first place, with elm, ash and oak ranking next in order. Other woods used to a considerable extent are birch, yellow pine, white pine and beech.

CARD OF THANKS

On August 30 our home was destroyed by fire and we thank our friends and neighbors for their good help they gave us. We thank them all so many times for the good deeds they have done for us. May God bless them in hours of trouble.—Mr. and Mrs. Rinzie Mims, and Children.

Don't let Rheumatism make an invalid of you—S.S.S. stands ready to knock it out.

THOSE muscular pains, commonly called rheumatism, are generally due to a run-down condition, with the number of red-blood-cells below the normal count.

S.S.S. aids the system in building up these red-blood-cells and in getting rid of the condition of which the rheumatism is but a symptom. The body becomes strong and disease-resistant, and the rheumatic pains go.

Pains in your muscles and joints make you miserable, less efficient, interfere with your working hours, ruin your sleep. If allowed to continue, as the years pass the danger increases.

But what a change with rich, red-blood-cells in your body—Nature's building material—making the flesh firm—giving strength to the vital organs.

You can't rub rheumatism out. It is deeper than that. It must be knocked out. And the sure way is by helping the fighting blood—the red-blood-cells!

Increase your army of "workers" (red-blood-cells), and those muscle and joint pains, commonly called rheumatism, vanish. S.S.S. has brought this change about for thousands. Why not for you?

"After suffering several years, six bottles of S.S.S. completely relieved me of rheumatism. It also cleared up a skin eruption and gave me a good appetite. I think S.S.S. is a wonderful medicine."—R. L. Busic, Southern Railway, Knoxville, Tenn.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test of over 100 years.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Writing in the London Spectator recently, Norman Angell advanced the thought that American progress and present American success in the economic field are not due so much to the superiority of our natural resources as to the fact that the United States is politically one united nation while Europe is divided into several political units. If the territory now embraced in the United States were divided into several nations, as is the case in Central and South America, Mr. Angell declares, "we should not now be talking about American power and its predominance in the world."

All of which is, of course, to a large extent the truth. Other nations have great natural resources, Russia and Mexico for example, but for obvious reasons they do not have a situation comparable with ours in the economic world. We have forty-eight states without customs barriers, with one language and similar ideals, and these commonwealths form the greatest market in the world, a market which has been fostered and preserved for American industry by wise national legislation.

Doubtless a United States of Europe would help that continent to regain a great deal of its lost prestige in a commercial way. But the creating of a United States of Europe at this late date presents a great number of difficulties. The stage was all set for the United States of America. The thirteen colonies were of the same tongue and the same race, in a general way. They had the same customs and the same ideals. And they were new to the country, without centuries old traditions of warfare and hatred toward one another. And yet, despite the favorable conditions, it took four years of dark and bloody civil war finally to unite us in one nation. Of course it is doubtful too, whether we could have remained or rather developed into one great nation had it not been for the fact that the railroad, the steamship, the telegraph and the telephone came along to make possible our political and economic unity. And in these later days we have the wireless, the airplane, the transcontinental highways and the automobile all tnednig to wipe out sectionalism and to bring north, south, east and west closer together. Because of these facilities we are more firmly united now than ever before.

The situation in Europe is different. We have many races and many languages. The races are not blended as in America, but for the most part in separate political units. And when they are to an extent intermingled, problems of submerged minorities arise which make the international problems more, rather than less, dangerous and complicated. The nations of Europe have traditions and feuds of long standing. The settling of Europe was a racial and tribal matter. There was war and conquest from the start as one wave of migration succeeded another and it will take a great deal of fine diplomatic work and much charitable loss of memory to weld Europe into a United States.

It is true of course that Europe has the same transportation facilities that we have but these came after the nations were developed and not during the period of growth. The railroads, for instance, were laid out not to bind the people of Europe into one nation, but for purposes of offensive and defensive warfare of one nation against another.

It is to be admitted that as Europe settles its quarrels and differences the nations may be brought closer together, at least to the point where most of the customs barriers can be lifted. It is true also that most of our recent wars have resulted from economic rivalries. But it must be admitted also that war over markets could not be waged unless there was national prejudice and hatred back of it.

The growth of a United States of Europe might be a desirable thing from the world viewpoint but it will be slow in coming. The recent quarreling of the great powers at The Hague over the division of the reparations is not at all an encouraging sign of the unification of Europe.

CONTACT DESIRED

Two girls met two young men and later compared notes after an evening out. One declared that her companion must have been a grocer, for he talked all the time about lard, butter, and so on.

"I think mine was a tram-conductor," said the other girl, "he kept telling me to 'sit a little closer, please.' "—Tit-Bits.

ALABAMA FARMERS SELLING COTTON CO-OPERATIVELY

By L. O. Bracken

Farmers of Alabama are this year selling more cotton cooperatively than ever before according to information received at the Chilton County Farm Bureau office from the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, Montgomery. A report from the Montgomery office Saturday, September 7, showed that the association had up to that time received 4,520 bales.

Receipts for the week of September 2, were 2,750 bales. This is the largest week's delivery this early in the season during the history of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, Allen Northington, general manager, said.

"Since the Federal Farm Relief Bill which has recently passed congress has recognized farmer-owned and farmer-controlled cooperative marketing associations as the best means of marketing farm commodities and the benefits under this bill will be available only through cooperative marketing associations we feel that we are in a better position than ever before to serve farmers of Alabama," Mr. Northington said in a letter to the local receivers in Chilton County.

"The action of the Federal Farm Board has made it possible for us to advance 75 per cent of the value of unhedged cotton at the time of delivery," declared Mr. Northington.

In a statement the board announced, last week, it had arranged for an additional 10 per cent loan to cotton cooperatives on unhedged cotton, pledged under loans not in excess of 65 per cent of its face value to the intermediate credit bank.

The supplemental loan will permit the cooperatives to advance to its members 75 per cent of the value of the unhedged cotton at the time of delivery. Chairman Alexander Legge said the bank expected to loan $20,000,000 in the next 90 days as a result.

As previously announced the Farm Board agreed to advance 25 per cent of the value of cotton to supplement the 65 per cent loan already made by intermediate credit banks which makes it possible for associations to borrow 90 per cent of the value of the cotton farmers place in the association and fix the price for immediate sale. This will aid the association to avoid forcing the cotton on the market and breaking the basis when mills are not in need of the cotton.

The two types of loans the board said, are "expected to meet every merchandising need of the southern cooperatives in their transaction with their membership, and should result in a very considerable increase in deliveries and in membership of the association themselves. The amount of money involved will be limited only by the demands of the cooperatives."

When marketing cotton through the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, each bale is sold on its own staple and grade at a minimum cost of $1.00 per bale direct to the mill. The $5.00 membership fee will no longer be taken out of cotton sales by the association.

"Every producer of cotton is eligible for membership in the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association," Mr. Northington said.

STATE CAPITOL News

Alabama's sales tax on cigars and cigarettes for the fiscal year which ends September 30, 1929, will produce revenue for the public schools to the tune of something over $1,200,000, net, after deducting all expenses for collection, according to the present indications. For the last fiscal year, ending September 30, 1928, the tax yielded $1,111,799.85, this being the net amount turned over to the department of education after deducting all collection costs, including percentage paid to wholesalers for collecting the tax, cost of auditing thousands of accounts, and office expense. For the first three quarters of the present fiscal year the net revenue produced is $926,970.60, indicating a revenue for the full year of over $1,200,000.

Alabama, it is stated, has the only successful tobacco tax law in existence, due to the fact that this state does not use the obnoxious stamp system in vogue in other states. Under the Alabama system, a working arrangement was made with wholesalers, who collect the tax when making sales to retailers and remit to the state. While in other states the tobacco tax has brought in less revenue than was anticipated. In Alabama the tax has produced more than was expected, and the revenue from this source is on the increase, as shown by the above figures. Before the Alabama law was enacted it was estimated that it would produce $900,000 per annum, while the figures given show that last year it produced not over $200,000 in excess of what was anticipated, and this year promises to exceed the estimate by some $300,000. In contrast with this, figures received from the Tobacco Merchants Association of the United States show that in Georgia the tax which was estimated to produce over $6,000,000 a year actually produced $678,000 for the year ending June 30, 1928, and is decreasing. Numerous inquiries have been received by the Alabama Tax Department on the workings of the tobacco tax law in this state, and the cost of enforcing it, considering the size of the job, is regarded by other states as very moderate. As some evidence of the work involved in handling the tobacco tax law, the Tax Commission has some 10,000 open accounts, and 10,000 merchants whose records are to be audited. That the department is getting results is indicated by the fact that the tax is bringing in more than was expected, and is increasing.

The importance of the tobacco tax revenue to the public school system, is perhaps not generally recognized. Some idea of what it means to the cause of education may be obtained when it is recalled that the last legislature made an additional appropriation of $900,000 per annum for the purpose of equalizing school terms, with the object of assuring to every county, however poor, a minimum school term of at least seven months. This was only one of many additional educational appropriations made by the last legislature and was regarded as a great forward step in developing the public school system. The tobacco tax, it will be seen, is giving to the schools enough revenue to take care of the equalization fund of $900,000 per annum, and also to give several hundred thousand dollars for other school purposes.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Sunday was our regular preaching day, but on account of sickness quite a number were absent. Two fine sermons were delivered by Bro. Nichols, our pastor. We elected officers and teachers in our Sunday school Sunday. We have some new ones and some just re-elected which we are sure will try to make this their best year. We have as our choirist for the next year a young man whom we have learned to love since he has been in our midst. He is Mr. Dolphus Harris. He is a young man who seems to be talented with music, and he is always at his post of duty. We want to cooperate with Mr. Harris and have some good singing at church and Sunday school.

Mr. J. G. Woods and family, Claude and J. W. Wood, attended the funeral of Mrs. Henry Chitty in Deatsville Sunday. Mrs. Chitty was Mrs. Wood's sister-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards spent Sunday with Joe Culp and wife.

Mr. Carl Boockholdt of Birmingham spent Sunday with Mrs. Boockholdt.

Mr. J. G. Wood spent last Thursday night at Lock 12 with his son, J. W.

We are sorry to report that Thomas Downs, son of Alph Downs, has been down sick. Hope for him a speedy recovery.

The president of the B. Y. P. U. urges that all members be present next Sunday for we are to elect our officers for the ensuing year. Be sure and come. All visitors are welcome any time.

TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

The principal wishes to announce that the training school will open on Monday, September 30, and it is his request that all students make special effort to get in school on the opening day. Those students who are conditional may come to the school and see the principal any day before the opening in order to get their classification.

Great care has been exercised this year in the selection of teachers. By aid of our county Supt., Mr. E. G. McGehee, supervisor of negro education, and the principal, we have been able to get a faculty that is fully able to do the type of work that the State and County may hope to have done. We are asking that all parents be present on opening day, and let us begin a term of work that will mean much to our boys and girls of the county.

The following is a list of the faculty: Lawrence C. Johnson, Principal and teacher of vocational agriculture; Robert E. Lee, mathematics and science; Misses Rosa V. Lee, Home Economics; Gussie L. Hardy, English and history; Blanche Mitchell, history and civics; Elizabeth E. Charles, 5th and 6th grades; Mattie G. Jones, music, and 3rd and 4th grades; Helel I. Andrews, 1st and 2nd grades.

SHILOH NEWS

The farmers of this place are busy picking cotton.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are progressing fairly well.

The singing met at this place Sunday afternoon and did some real good singing. Prof. F. I. Popwell sang two songs, while Misses Myra Moore and Ethel Mullins arranged a program for the afternoon. The directors were Misses Zula Nelson, Agnes Mullins, Myrtle Mullins, Elmae Williams, Mrs. Olen Bice, Messrs. T. W. Billingsley, Clem Billingsley, and Prof. R. M. Brigance. Each sang from one to three songs.

Organists for the afternoon were Miss Minnie Bice, Profs. R. M. Brigance and F. I. Popwell. We especially welcome all the visitors from Bethsalem and other places.

Quite a large crowd enjoyed the singing at Miss Minnie Bice's Saturday night.

"Experiment stations have reported encouraging results from the use of vaccines in controlling roup and pox in poultry. Definite recommendations may be ready in the near future. For further information see your county agent."—G. A. Trollope, extension poultryman, Auburn.

Mr. Briggs Crumpton was at home from Centreville Sunday. He is now selling cars for the Pratt Chevrolet Company, and will move his family to Centreville as soon as he can secure a house to live in.

If you buy Tires on Price, buy Buckeyes!

Buckeye tires are built by Kelly-Springfield to fit the pocket-book of the man who doesn't require the amount of mileage and service he would get in the regular Kelly. If you do not do much strenuous driving you will find Buckeyes a very satisfactory buy.

Buckeye tires are not made of cheap material. Everything that goes into a Buckeye is first class in every way. Buckeyes carry the Kelly name and are made by Kelly workmen. They give the same mileage in proportion to their cost as the regular Kellys do. If price is an object, try a Buckeye—it'll save you money.

The Place of Athletics In the High School

Athletics like many other activities in life, are a part of the instinctive game spirit of the individual. Its history runs back into remote times. The Olympian Games of Athens will forever hold a sacred and hallowed place in the minds and hearts of the Greeks. They have now become an international affair; and every four years athletes of every description from all over the world gather at Athens to measure their skills in the various feats that are to be carried out there.

The game spirit manifests itself almost daily in our relations with each other. It is even carried out in the business and social world. It is interesting to line up ahead of one's neighbor for tickets at a picture show, and there's some "kick" in getting one's tray first in line at a cafeteria. The extreme of course is reached when a fellow tries to pass another on the highway. These are but a few meager examples of the game spirit as it works out in life, but they are sufficient to illustrate the point.

As evidence of the fact that we recognize this instinctive spirit in our boys and girls, and also of the fact that we wish to foster and properly direct this spirit, there has been organized an athletic association among the fully accredited four-year senior high schools of our state. This association is known as the Alabama High School Athletic Association. Our own Chilton County High School is an honored unit enjoying membership of first class standing. The cost of this membership is $7.50 per year.

The system of organization used divides the state into ten districts. Each district is composed of a board of officers whose business it is to see that all schools in their respective districts are fully qualified in every respect for membership in the association. These officers are responsible to the General Board who meet at regular intervals for the purpose of auditing every high school in the state belonging to the association. This in brief will give you an idea of organized athletics in Alabama.

Chilton County High School is composed of our own boys and girls. We want it distinctly understood our sole purpose is not to win games solely, but to build characters of the highest type possible. This can be done on the football gridiron as easily as in the school room.

Our school doesn't have anything to do with the making of rules and regulations regarding the eligibility of pupils who play on our teams. These rules are made by the State Association who have the welfare of the student in mind in every rule made. For example, no pupil is eligible who doesn't make a passing mark in three of his courses during any semester. He is ineligible if he drops out of school without completing the semester's work. These are two samples of the laws and eligibility rules. We see clearly that the student throws himself off the list and not his school.

The following games have already been scheduled and contracts signed by principals of each respective school:

Sept. 30, Isabella, at Clanton.
Oct. 4, Centreville, at Clanton.
Oct. 18, Clanton at Lineville.
Oct. 25, Selma at Clanton.
Nov. 1, Clanton at Tallassee.
Nov. 8, Clanton at Wetumpka.
Nov. 22. Clanton at Ramer.

We have October 11, November 15, and possibly November 27 open. Dadeville, Columbiana, and Lafayette will likely be scheduled on these dates.

Our coach, Mr. W. M. Green, comes to Chilton County High School for his first time. He is practically a stranger among you. He is working with our boys every afternoon. He is responsive and human, and he will generously appreciate any encouragement and consideration you will give him. He is a four-year college graduate from Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn.

We respectfully solicit the cooperation of Clanton and surrounding community for their support in our athletic program for the season.

F. A. GULLEDGE RECALLS OLD-TIME WEDDINGS

Editor Union-Banner:

I attach hereto clipping from the Alabama Times, of the 7th instant, referring to the long past usage of weddings, and the attendance thereto, which I will ask you to publish in your next issue. You will note that it cites back to 1824, which was twenty five years before my time, yet I well remember to have heard, and on two occasions experienced somewhat the usage referred to: I helped put to bed Dick Vinson and Neely Harris, both marrying in the fall of 1868.

From my earliest boyhood, it was all the rage to chuck the young man into bed by the side of his beautiful spouse, which was greatly enjoyed by the attendants, and was not a joke, but an actual fact.

At my marriage, there was no one present to force me, but I did the act of my own volition, and I wish I could live it over again.—Yours truly, F. A. Gulledge.

A Centrury Old Wedding
By Mrs. Walter Ferguson

In an old tome written by Henry Howe about 1824 there is given a vivid picture of what went on in those stirring times. As this is the season of weddings, and as we so often hear criticism of medern festivities, let us see what he has to say upon the subject. Here is part of his account of a swell pioneer marriage:

"On the morning of the wedding day the groom and his attendants left the house early so as to get to the home of the bride before noon which was the time to celebrate the nuptials, which always took place before dinner. After the practice of making whisky began, at an early period, the following ceremony always took place on this journey. When the party was about a mile from its destination, the young men began to foot race for the bottle. The worse the path, the more logs, brush and hollows, the better. The bottle was always filled for this occasion and the first to reach the door got it for the prize. He passed it politely to the groom who took a good sized drink.

"After the wedding and dinner, dancing began and lasted until morning. Much drinking went on at this time. About 9 or 10 o'clock a deputation of young ladies stole the bride off and put her to bed. A little later a deputation of young men in like manner stole off the groom and placed him snugly by the side of his bride. The dancing continued and as seats were scarce every young man was obliged to offer his lap as a seat for one of the girls. Black Betty, which was the name given the bottle, was called for again and again, and pretty late at night someone would remind the company that the bride and groom must need refreshment and so Black Betty was taken in and they were obliged to drink. The regular toast to the bride was 'Here's health to the bride, thumping luck and big children.' The infare dinner took place next day. The feasting and dancing lasted for days, at the end of which the whole company were so exhausted that a week was often requisite to fit them to return to their ordinary labors."

Compared to this our shindigs look tame, do they not?

REFUGE

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space for a few words from this place.

Saturday and Sunday were our regular meeting days here. Our former pastor, Rev. M. J. Parrish, preached two masterful sermons. He has been our pastor for the past ten years, and to say that he has managed the work with great care would just be putting it mild, but he preached his farewell sermon Sunday for this associational year. So our new pastor will take up the work, who needs no introduction at this place, due to the fact that he has preached in the revival here for the past two years. Well, who is it? Bro. G. G. Williams.

Our singing society met at this place Sunday afternoon and enjoyed some good singing. Those directing were O. R. Robinson, chairman, S. L. Baker, S. V. Miller, R. M. Robinson, Floyd Little, Marion Easterling, J. E. Miner, M. Lockhart. Pianists were Mrs. Anne Robinson, Miss Lillie Mae Weldon.—O. R. Robinson, chairman, M. Lockhart, Secretary.

Mr. Leon Mullins of Dothan was a visitor to relatives and friends in Clanton this week. Mr. Mullins represents International Harvester Company in Southeast Alabama, with headquarters at Dothan.

LEWIS W. THOMAS BURIED HERE

The body of Lewis W. Thomas was shipped here from Bessemer Tuesday morning and buried in the Thomas Cemetery near Ramblers Rest. Mr. Thomas was 56 years old and was a former resident of this county.

He died Sunday night in the Bessemer Hospital; death was said to have resulted from burns which Mr. Thomas received while working in a tallow refining plant at Lipscomb—the Davis Refining Co.

Funeral services were conducted at the cemetery by Rev. W. W. Robinson. He is survived by his wife and several children. The burial was in charge of J. Mell Martin.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

SUBJECT: "PRAYER AS TAUGHT FROM THE LIPS OF JESUS."

In the 6th chapter of the Gospel according to Matthew we read these words from the lips of Christ spoken to His disciples at that time and to us today: "When thou prayest, ented into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." Those words Christ is speaking to you and to me this very minute. The Bible is just as good today as it was at the time Jesus spoke those words in person here on earth. It means just as much to us as it did to those eager disciples.

This is the scene. Christ was going to Capernaum. He passed a place called by the Arabs Mount Hatten (Hatten means a saddle, and as I saw it looks very much like the saddle our mothers used to ride on a donkey, mule or a horse) but we call it the Mount of Beatitudes or the Mount of Blessings which were pronounced by Christ. It is written that Jesus Christ led His disciples to that Mount and when He was set, He opened His mouth and taught them the words in the 5th, 6th, and 7th chapters of the Gospel according to Matthew.

The first beatitude is a blessing pronounced upon the poor in spirit; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. In this 5th chapter of Matthew's Gospel we read: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." O that every man, woman and child would hunger for a spiritual life. The reason people do not attend the stated and special services of the church is that they are not hungering after Christ. Jesus Christ taught us to pray, and praying is nothing less than hungering after righteousness. Then when we pray we are taught that we shall be filled.

A healthy child is hungry for the needed nourishment which his body calls for. In like manner a healthy Christian hungers after the things which his spiritual life calls for. It is spiritual potentialities for which his soul hungers. It was this for which the disciples were seeking when they said to Christ: "Lord, teach us how to pray, as John also taught his disciples to pray." No doubt John lived on Mount Quarantana. He went down into the wilderness of Judea to be in a school of prayer. I saw and rode through the desert of Judea. Truly it is a desert, barren, roseless, flowerless and wheatless.

Now John was so steeped in spiritual affairs evidently taught his disciples how to pray. So when they began to follow Christ and were maybe fifty miles from that place they requested that He teach them to pray. Then Jesus said when you pray do not use vain repetitions. That is, when you pray do not pray thinking of your words and the way people are going to approve of them. Do not pray to make a good impression on the world. Do not talk like the prophets of Baal. Go into your room and when you have shut the door pray to thy Father in secret, and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly. That picture of prayer is illustrated by the fact that people in the East lived in houses with a curtain or tent door which was pulled down at a certain evening hour when the cares of the day were over and the people had entered into their homes for quietude and rest from worldly cares. We must shut the world out of our lives when praying.

Our Father which seeth in secret will reward us openly, will give us a rally, more zeal in His kingdom. O what a precious Christ. But do you know I think we do not rally as we should to Him. We are undervaluing prayer when we pray so much for blessings upon ourselves. We are to have a great zeal in prayer for others. Henry Martin, the great missionary to Persia, said, "I am going to Persia to burn out my life for Jesus Christ in the salvation of those poor souls who know not of Him." We, too, must burn out our lives in the salvation of souls for Christ's sake.

Those old prophets of prayer, Moses, Elijah, Abraham never called God, Father. Hannah, a wonderful example of prayer, never called God-Father. But here comes Christ along in His fellowship and companionship with men and says, "When you pray say our Father which art in heaven." In the secret of our Father's presence we are rewarded. All of this evidently teaches us that the disciple is a child of God, and must have quiet, private, secret room prayer life. Jesus Christ Himself had this prayer life. Certainly if He needed an awakening, a revival of prayer in His sinless life we need it, O, so much more. We need a revival of talking to God.

In studying this I thought of the fast that Moses was taught to pray by his parents, Amram and Jocebed, there on the Tiber River. But even with all this training he was not prepared to undertake the biggest task God ever rolled over on man. Before he could lead the Israelites out of their capture in Egypt he had to go over to the back side of the Desert of Midian and remain there forty years in private prayer to God. There he got a job of caring for a flock of sheep, and while taking care of the sheep no doubt he learned the greatest lesson of his life. That is he learned the lesson of prayer to God. That is the greatest lesson any man ever learned.

There as Moses was praying to God one day, a bush began to burn. He walked up to the bush and found that it did not burn. But what he really found in the seemingly burning bush was God's call to him. God called him to another job. It is only when we are in real prayer to God that He calls us. The good old elders and deacons who taught us spiritual values certainly had it right when they said we must be on pleading terms with God. When Moses walked up to that bush God told him to go down into Egypt and bring those captured Hebrew children out of their bondage.

He assured Moses that He would go with his mouth and be with his tongue. That is the way the church is built up. God goes with us and helps us in our difficulties. He supplies the missing links if we only trust Him. We are always on safe ground of victory when Christ goes with us. You remember that Christ told Mary that He would go before His disciples into Galilee. Now when they came to Mount Tabor in Galilee they found Christ there waiting for them. If we are on pleading terms with Christ we will always find Him going before us. We will find that He has gone on to the church before us.

Moses' private, secret prayer life in the desert of Midian enabled him to go down into Egypt and bring those people out at God's command. We must have a private prayer life if we would serve Christ. There is no use of talking about serving humanity in Christ's name unless we have this prayer life. We can not afford either to talk about serving our neighbor in Cairo, China, Japan unless we are serving our neighbors at home. Many of us are cold and indifferent to those about us. This is because we are indifferent to Christ's command concerning this private prayer life.

As you ride along on the road by Jecob's well you come to a place called Shiloh. It is directly north of Ramah where lived a woman of great power in prayer. This was the home of Elkanah and Hannah, the parents of Samuel. It is written that Hannah spake out of her heart to God. Every year Elkanah and Hannah went up to the temple at Shiloh to worship. Hannah prayed to God and dedicated Samuel to God before he was born. You mothers and fathers who give your children to God before they are born do it only in private personal prayer life. The reason prayers are not answered is because we do not pray enough. If was ask amiss, but just keep on praying God will direct our prayers.

Think of the private prayer life in that Upper Room in Jerusalem. They were all with one accord in prayer, and they continued praying until the blessing came. That is the last time that Mary, the mother of Jesus, is mentioned. She is found to the very last in prayer to God, a wonderful prayer meeting. Don't you remember your mother taking the family Bible and reading a chapter or some certain passage to you and kneeling down and pouring out her heart to God in prayer for you? I can see my mother and father going into what was called the big room or parlor and picking up the Bible and kneeling down in prayer. Then why should the family altar be neglected today. The battle is certainly much greater today. That was only a skirmish in comparison with the battle before us.

The church is a spiritual body and must grow by this personal private prayer life. I can see that dear Christian woman who took a walk late in the evening down past the garden in a quiet secluded place and knelt on her knees in prayer to God. When she died this verse was found beneath her pillow:

"I love to steal awhile away
From every cumbering care,
And spend the hours of closing day
In humble, grateful prayer."

One Saturday afternoon while in the Holy Land the chauffeur drove me up to Tiberias, the only city left around the Lake of Galilee. It is a dirty, filthy, buggy loathsome place. Tradition says that Christ never went there. I don't believe that. I believe Christ went everywhere. The guide carried me to the second story of the only house there. I turned to my Bible and read about Christ going to the mountain sides in prayer. I looked out of the window upon those hills where He went to pray so often. There is no doubt He prayed all night. He arose early in the mornings and went there and prayed. O, how much more we need to pray than Christ did. If His human nature needed so much prayer, mine needs more than I can express. As I looked upon those hills I thought of the stanza:

"Cold mountain and midnight air witnessed the fervor of my Saviour's prayers.
The desert His temptations knew,
the hills and the valleys too."

ALABAMA STATE FAIR BEGINS SEPTEMBER 30, AT BIRMINGHAM

Alabama's annual show which pictorializes "in the flesh," or possibly "on the hoof," would be a better word, the advancement of the state agriculturally, industrially and educationally, will get going in Birmingham, Monday, September 30, to continue throughout the week. And advices from those who are in close touch with the program for this year, it is really to be bigger and better than ever before.

According to President Temple Tutwiler and Manager R. H. McIntosh, if money and planning will make for a bigger fair, this year's fair will far surpass anything ever attempted in the South before. They point with pride to the fact that $20,000 has been expended for free acts in front of the Grand stand this year, whereas the peak was reached last year in expenditures when the Fair Association made an outlay of $12,000 for this particular type of amusement.

The outlay of cash to bring the biggest and most spectacular fireworks display ever unleached on the air has also been doubled, and not only will the fair have straight fireworks this year, but will offer a big battle spectacle as well. Add to that three days of fireworks for the children and it may be seen just what a gigantic undertaking the Fair officials have made for the fireworks end of the show this year.

With Capt. Jack Richards Internationally known band of some thirty pieces and the vocal soloists this organization carries; with double the agricultural and live stock exhibits of other years already assured; with Dare-devil Weaver, stunting aeroplanists giving to those on the ground below new breath-taking thrillers, and with the motor cycle races which will bring together the champions of the world, and the automobile races on the last day attracting the dirt track headliners to Birmingham for the large purses offered, it really does seem as if Birmingham will make good its boast of giving to the thousands of Alabamians who will flock there during the week of the event, the greatest state fair they have ever seen.

Every exhibit will be in place Monday morning, September 30, and every day will be a special day from there on out. Wednesday has been set aside as Governor's Day and also as Children's Day when thousands of juveniles will flock there to hear an address by their Chief Executive, Bibb Graves.

Low rates have been granted on all railroads especially for the gala week in Birmingham.

SINGING AT PLEASANT HILL

There will be a singing at Pleasant Hill church Sunday afternoon, on the fourth Sunday in September. Everybody come and bring someone with you. There will also be preaching Saturday night and Sunday.

SPELLS OF BACKACHE

"I HAVE used Cardui at intervals for sixteen years, when I suffered from weakness, and it always helped me," says Mrs. J. W. Jinright, R. F. D. 2, Troy, Ala.

"Mostly I was afflicted with bad spells of backache. At times I felt as if my back would break. I would drag one foot after the other, in a helpless sort of a way, and once I got down in bed. My husband urged me to take Cardui, and I soon found what a fine medicine it really was.

"When my second child was little, I was in very bad health. I did not pick up as I should have. I was weak and sickly. I do not believe that I would have come through, but for Cardui."

JUDGE REYNOLDS ANSWERS CRITICS

by you, and I can state many instances, and will cite some, where you have made extortionate demands upon the court for your clients, and the court refused to pay and went before a jury to settle the question. I do not recall a single case but where the jury has reduced the amount asked by you and Gerald. Atkinson will recall the case of Dr. C. N. Parnell where a claim totaling approximately $2500.00 was made to the commissioners court, and the court "rejected the advice of Mr. Atkinson," refused to pay, and the testimony of Dr. Parnell totaled up several thousand dollars in damages which he claimed and the jury gave a verdict of $550.00. If we had taken the advice of Mr. Atkinson there would not have been quite so much surplus in the treasury now. Atkinson will also recall the Norrell cases, and I could cite many more, where the juries reduced from one-half to two-thirds the amount he was claiming. I recall several suits of Mr. Gerald, particularly one for $1500.00 in the Crumpton estate and this suit was settled for $506.00. I recall another one, a claim for $5,000, filed by Mr. Wright and the suits were settled for $500.00. I recall a suit for Buford Lawrence wherein he testified on page 66 of the transcript of the evidence, that his property had been damaged by the reason of the highway being placed through it approximately $3,000.00, and the jury gave him $650.00. I recall one instance where Mr. Atkinson advised the commissioners court to pay for certain paving around $3,000.00, and the Attorney-General of Alabama held that the county could not legally pay the same. I repeat Mr. Atkinson, that if the commissioners court had taken the advice of you and Gerald there would be no surplus.

Now I want the people to get this statement, and I imagine in your ears, if the truth will ring, and in Gerald's, that you will recognize the truth of it, and the statement is that you and Gerald are sore at the commissioners court because the commissioners, when you have made extortionate claims upon the court for the payment of rights-of-ways and other claims, that they would not take "your advice" and thus you have personally been deprived of high fees, which, if Honorable L. F. Gerald were managing the county affairs and you as his first assistant, would have been paid. This, Mr. Atkinson, is the secret of the county having a surplus. I have often wondered, and other people of Clanton have, what the surplus was in the Town of Clanton affairs which was legally managed by you and Mr. Gerald. I want to make you a proposition in order that this matter might be finally settled before the people, and it's this. We will run over the records together and add up the claims that you and Gerald have presented to the commissioners court and asked the court to pay, and if this does not greatly exceed what you finally got then I will pay the difference to the county myself, if you will agree to pay the difference that the county saved by not taking your advice. You speak of hot air in your argument. Now accept this proposition or the people will know who is blowing off the hot air.

I am willing to make you another proposition, that is, to submit the question of Attorneys fees paid to the bar of Clanton, except those that are interested in this proposition, and I will personally pay into the county treasury whatever amount these Attorneys say has been overpaid for Attorneys serivces.

Wouldn't it be interesting for the people to know what amount you derived out of the Town of Clanton when serving as Mayor and its legal advisor. Yes, if the county had taken the advice of Mr. Gerald and Mr. Atkinson several hundreds of dollars would have been saved in Attorneys fees, but several thousands of dollars would have been paid to you and Gerald, and therein lies the secret of your many articles in your paper. You mentioned another case in your article concerning a claim carried to the court of appeals of those guarding dipping vats. If you would be fair in your writings you would tell the people that there were many claims depending upon this one, and this was a question never before decided by the higher courts, and that it was a friendly suit to test the legality of the claims, and was finally decided by the court of appeals in a two to one decision. I might add that I discussed this question with the Attorney-General when it arose, and he advised a friendly suit to test the question. I have often wondered what would have been the condition of Chilton County if the commissioners court had always taken your advice. I would like to see some of your advice to the Town of Clanton while you were its Mayor. I recall your advice regarding the bond election the Town held. Either in that case you were ignorant of the law or else you were trying to mislead the people. You might state to me which it was, but the people will recall that the Town went to the expense of holding an election upon your advice and the bond election carried, but on account of the Town being so deep in debt and beyond the constitution of its limit the credit of the Town was not good enough upon which to float bonds. I wonder where the surplus was. I think a reward of $25.00 should be given to anyone knowing the whereabout of any surplus wherever you were connected with. I think this $25.00 would be saved. I wonder what kind of schools the Town of Clanton could have had upon such advice that you gave upon this election. You have praise now for the School Board, but I trust the members of the School Board have not forgotten that day in Montgomery when you and Gerald were doing all in your power to abolish the School Board and the office of the Superintendent of Education, and putting up the argument that they were incompetent, and I with many others, as usual, were on the opposite side trying to maintain the officials and offices elected by the people.

As to buying lumber from W. A. Reynolds, or any other of its financial transactions with him, I ask you to look up the record and I defy you to cite one instance where a single penny was paid to him except which was reasonable and proper. And if the school tax is defeated I think you are due your share of the blame for dragging into politics, as you have done the Methodist Church and everything else with which you have ever been connected.

I do not want to make this article unduly long, but I feel like, as I have said before, that it is my privilege and duty to reply to the Chilton County News and its publishers, Billy Smith and J. B. Atkinson, wherever they drag me and my record into print, and as long as The Union-Banner will give me the privilege I intend to reply to them and I intend to meet Atkinson on any issue he wishes to advance, as I believe my life and record will meet his upon any issue. I was sorry, however, that he left my prohibition record, as I intended to carry the public by print back over a little trip that he, as Mayor, and others took to sell the waterworks. However, I will have to save this if that issue should arise again.

It is no secret by this time among the people of Chilton County that there also arises up in Clanton one or more who seek to control the latch strings of the treasury. It will be vividly recalled that this was the case in the administration of Judge Deason, and the dire condition the county was left in is known to all. Anyone in reading this article in the Chilton County News will see again that this person arose up in that of J. B. Atkinson in Honorable L. F. Gerald. In seeking to get out of the county treasury large and unjustifiable sums of money for their respective clients. They have failed at this repeatedly. The commissioners court were elected by the people to take care of the county's finances. We are not infallable, we make errors of judgment just as all make errors of judgment, but we have sense enough to see that unjust demands have been made upon the treasury and the commissioners court by said two mentioned lawyers, and I venture to say that the county has several thousands of dollars more to its credit by not taking the advice of Gerald and Atkinson, and when J. B. Atkinson speaks of a surplus I trust that everyone knows what is worrying him about that surplus. He has striven every way, fair and unfair, to get charge of this surplus, and I am not saying but that there are many good men of the county can control and handle this surplus properly, but I do say that you will never hear any more argument about a surplus if J. B. Atkinson ever gets control of it. I speak this from the past history of the man himself, and I say further to you, Atkinson, that you, in any future cases you might have against Chilton County will be offered a reasonable amount, but this bluff you have put in your paper, if bluff it be, will not cause me to weaken in my diligence in guarding the latch strings of the treasury against your unjust demands. You might just as well let the surplus quit worrying you.

I could mention several other cases of advise coming from the officials of the Chilton County News that I have not taken, and I could also mention several other instances relating to prohibition transactions that the people might be interested in reading.

In conclusion, as I have stated, I do not intend to fill the columns of the paper with personal controversy between you and me, and I want the people to understand that I am only writing these articles in defense of the ones previously written by you.—Yours very truly, L. H. Reynolds.

LAMAR JEFFERS IS VISITOR HERE

Spoke To The Kiwanis Club About The Farm Relief Bill In Congress

Congressman Lamar Jeffers was a visitor to friends in Clanton last Thursday. He was a guest at the luncheon of Kiwanis Club at the Methodist Church at noon.

Mr. Jeffers made an interesting report of the work of the special session of Congress relative to the Farm Relief Bill. He expressed faith in the prospect of the present plan for relief in times of over production of farm crops, insisting upon the necessity of farmers being enlisted in a definite and responsible co-operative organization of some kind in order to secure recognition of their needs before the federal farm board.

Applied to the present situation with farmers in the South, the remarks of Major Jeffers may be taken as a most reasonable and forceful argument why Southern farmers should align themselves with the Farm Bureau.

Continuing his remarks, Mr. Jeffers very beautifully painted a picture of how our national government may be made to function through the coopeartion of community leaders with their representatives in the Congress.

His short address was most thoroughly enjoyed by everyone who had the pleasure of listening to him.

CLYDE DAVIS NOW LOCATED AT DOTHAN

A letter from Mr. Clyde J. Davis to The Union-Banner informs us that he is now located in Dothan, where he is manager of the office of Bradstreet's Commercial Agency.

Mr. Davis has been with Bradstreet's in Montgomery for several years, since he retired from the newspaper business in Clanton.

KIWANIS CLUB VISITORS

About 60 members of Montgomery Kiwanis Club with their ladies stopped in Clanton a few minutes Tuesday morning. They were on their way to Birmingham for a special inter-club meeting with the Birmingham Kiwanis Club.

The visitors were greeted here by a number of the members of Clanton Club.

SCHOOL BOARD FOR EQUAL TAX

Trustees Called To Meet At Courthouse On Friday, September 27th

Superintendent of Education, B. Lawrence, has addressed the following letter to the district school trustees of Chilton County:

To the Trustees of Chilton County:

Much has been said recently about the inequality in the distribution of district tax funds of the county. This is due to the way in which the districts were voted a few years ago. At the last meeting of the County Board of Education the Board went on record favoring a re-arrangement of these district lines in such a way as to equally divide the district wealth of the county.

The Board meets next Friday, September 27th, and this matter will be passed on at that time. I am writing to ask that the trustees meet us at the Courthouse Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock in order that we may decide on a plan which will be acceptable to the entire county. It would be all right for you to bring some of your friends although they are not district trustees, but certainly we are anxious to have every trustee present.

The result of the recent election was very encouraging. It shows that if we will work together in the future as we did in this election that we will put over an educational program in the county that every citizen will have cause to be proud of.

The foregoing letter brings up a subject of very great importance in connection with our county schools, and it is well that it be given careful consideration.

Two Captured At A Big Still

Federal, State And County Officers Make Raid On Huge Distillery

Goodwater, Ala., Sept. 19.—For Bud Blankenship, "Rabbitt" Mitchell and Arlin Dooley, distilling has a lure, and time trouble usually follows. Sheriff Snider, accompanied by H. P. Cromer, M. E. Murphy and Harve Foshee, state officers, and W. H. Gillespie, federal prohibition agent, raided a 100 gallon capacity copper still, in full operation, with 11 gallons of liquor just run off and 400 gallons of ripe beer and arrested Blankenship and Dooley, while Mitchell escaped. The two were carried to Rockford where they made bond. Dooley has just completed a sentence for violating the prohibition laws, and Blankenship and Mitchell will be tried next month on indictments returned last term of circuit court.

James Has Joined Sign Contractors

Mr. Frank P. James of the James Sign Shop, of Clanton, has become a member of the Associated Sign Contractors of North America. The motto of the association is "Keep Our Standards High."

In forming this affiliation, Mr. James places himself right up among the leaders of the sign business in this country, a place which we think he deserves. His record in establishing his business in Clanton has proven that he is a business man of much grit and determination. It is not every town in the country that has a sign business that is capable of forming a connection like membership in the Associated Sign Contractors of North America.

ALABAMA BOASTS LOWEST ELECTRIC RATE IN STATES

The approximately 85,000 residential current customers of the Alabama Power Company enjoy probably the lowest rate for such service in the United States, according to the testimony of Dr. John Bauer before the Alabama Public Service Commission Friday. Dr. Bauer is a director of the American Public Utilities Bureau of New York, an organization that concerns itself with the protection of the public against high electric rates throughout the country, and Dr. Bauer is said to be one of the foremost electrical rate experts in the world. Dr. Bauer's statement came as the result of questioning by Associate Commissioner Frank P. Morgan. The stenographic account of the sworn testimony of Dr. Bauer follows:

Sworn Testimony

Commissioner Morgan: "Have you ever compared the residential rate ordered into effect by this commission for the state of Alabama, or the most part of it at least, with the residential rate in effect in New York City?

Dr. Bauer: "I think your general residential rates that you have put into effect under your A-1 schedule are lower than in New York City at the present time, and considerably lower than the generality of rates throughout the State of New York."

Commissioner Morgan: 'Do you know of a state-wide rate in the United States as low?"

Dr. Bauer: "I don't know of any, nor have I made a comparison so that I could really answer; but as a statewide residential rate, taking into account the steps, I think it is probably a lower average residential rate than applies anywhere else. I don't know of any case where there is such complete unification in the same company; but my impression is that you have here in the residential rate probably the lowest general rate so far as the average person is concerned, in the country or very close to the lowest. And then you have a very low rate for promotional purposes."

The hearing before the commission Friday dealt principally with commercial lighting rates in Mobile but the residential lighting rate is a part of the case and Commissioner Morgan's question was directed to Mr. Bauer as an expert because Commissioner Morgan sought information as to whether any state in the Union had lower rates than those ordered into effect for residential lighting customers by the commision in the early part of 1929 and which rates are now in effect throughout the state including Mobile.

The hearing was concluded with oral argument of Vincent Kilborn, city attorney of Mobile, who contended that the direct current rate charged in Mobile, which is 20 per cent. higher than the alternating current rate for commercial customers is too high.

Rev. M. W. Mims At Maplesville

Rev. Marion W. Mims has moved back to Maplesville, after having been connected with the school at Eldridge, in North Alabama, the past year.

Mr. Mims will teach this winter at Sardis, and will live at Maplesville. He says he would be glad to have the pastorate of some churches in reach of Maplesville for the next year.

EVENING SCHOOL FOR THE FARMER

J. D. Sutley Tells About His Experience In The Growing Of Strawberries

The vocational teachers of the Jemison High School have started a joint evening school at Freeman Schoolhouse. The first meeting last Thursday evening was attended by a nice crowd and there was a large enrollment of farmers and their wives.

Miss Newell outlined a course in cooking for the farm women and girls, and enrolled 24 for the classes.

The men will have a course in farm management, featuring strawberries, poultry, and milch cows.

J. D. Sutley, a strawberry grower who is second to none in the county in that line, told farmers how to plant, cultivate and harvest strawberries. The farmers manifested an interest as shown by the questions asked Mr. Sutley.

The past season Mr. Sutley made 400 crates of strawberries on two acres, all grade A berries, and shipped in car lots. After paying for all fertilizer and picking he had left over $600.

The farmers of Freeman and adjoining communities are invited to attend this school.

MUSICAL CONCERT AT ISABELLA

There will be a musical concert at Isabella Public School Building Thursday night, October 3, at 7:30 o'clock by the Clanton Quartet. The Quartet will render a varied program of sacred, spiritual and popualr songs, under auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association. Everybody is cordially invited to attend. Admission 20 and 35 cents.

A Tale Of Two Dogs Found In A Well

Rescued After Three Week's Confinement And Are Nearly Starved

Charley Ward and George Foshee of the Baker settlement each have a dog. The dogs are pals. Charley's dog is a possum and squirrel dog and George's dog is a fox hound. However, as all good pals do, these dogs frequently help each other with their work and play.

On Sunday night, September the first, these two dogs were heard trailing something in the woods. That was the last sign of them for exactly three weeks. Mr. Ward and Mr. Foshee combed the county, but could find no trace of their dogs. They had made a complete disappearance.

Last Sunday Lee and Pink Jones were in the woods near the home of the former. They heard a dog howl faintly again and again. The sound indicated that the dog was close to them, yet it was a faint sound. They began to search the woods and soon came to an old well.

They looked in and beheld two dogs at the bottom about twelve feet below the surface of the ground. Four anxious pleadnig eyes looked up to the men and begged for rescue.

Hastily they formed a ladder and brought the dogs out of the well. Lee Jones at once recognized them as the dogs of Charley Ward and George Foshee.

The animals were almost starved to death. Their rescuers gave them water and milk, and as soon as they were able to travel brought them safely home to their owners.

It is supposed that whatever they were chasing on that Sunday night ran into the old well, and the dogs plunged in after it.

Roy Lifsey, President of the Montgomery Kiwanis Club, passed through Clanton Tuesday on his way to Birmingham to attend a joint meeting with the Birmingham Kiwanis Club.

Baker School Opens Oct. 2

The Baker Junior High School will open on Wednesday, October 2, at eight o'clock. All parents and others interested in the school are urgently requested to attend the opening exercises. An interesting speaker will be present to deliver an opening address. It is also very important that the P.-T. A. be set in working order at this time. Come and let us get started right.—W. E. Martin, Prin.

INDIAN MISSIONARY VISITS HERE

Service Held At Foursquare Gospel Lighthouse In Clanton

A missions service was held at the Foursquare Lighthouse last Thursday night. The service was advertised for Wednesday night, but due to bad roads, the Indian Missionary did not reach Clanton until Thursday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl E. Linden, Foursquare missionaries to India, were here, and gave an interesting stereopticon lecture on their work in India. As Mrs. Linden flashed the pictures on the screen Rev. Linden explained them to the audience. Views of the natives of India were shown as they performed the rites of their faith. Some were shown sitting on spikes, some searing their flesh by fire, and like cruelties, in trying, as they think, to appease the spirits which abound in the air and everywhere to torment them. After some of these were shown then scenes of the Christian work were shown; groups of Indian children who are being cared for by misionaries, native converts explaining the Bible to their people, and like scenes.

Rev. and Mrs. Linden are touring the United States, visiting the several Lighthouses, before returning to their work in India. They are sent out by International Foursquare Lighthouses, which has for its head Aimee Semple McPherson, at Angelus Temple, Los Angeles, Calif. They expect to sail early in October, and left Clanton Friday morning to visit one of the Lighthouses in southern Illinois.

Both Rev. Linden and his wife are likable people, and made a good impression with those in attendance at the service.

Fresh Water Fishing Contest In October

Prizes For Best Catch Will Be Given By Commissioner I. T. Quinn

The Department of Game and Fisheries has inaugurated a Fresh Water Fishing Contest open to all citizens of the State during the month of October.

In order to secure prizes for the winners in this contest it was felt necessary to make a charge of one dollar ($1.00) for each person participating in the October event.

I am happy to announce, however, that cooperation on the part of sporting goods stores, handlers and manufacturers of fishing tackle, in contributing prizes to be awarded at the close of the contest makes it unnecessary for a fee to be charged. The contest, therefore, is open without charge to all citizens.

Blank affidavits on which your prize catch is to be reported to the Commissioner of Game and Fisheries at Montgomery may be secured from your District Game Warden, your Judge of Probate, or sporting goods stores in your town or county. All affidavits must be in the hands of the Commissioner at his office at the State Capitol in Montgomery not later than five o'clock P. M. November 5, 1929.—I. T. Quinn, Commissioner.

BOSWELL HOME BURNED ON LAST SATURDAY

The home of Mr. Amie O. Boswell was burned last Saturday morning at an early hour and the contents were a complete loss. Scarcely anything was saved from the flames.

It is understood that this loss leaves Mr. Boswell and his family in destitute circumstances. His friends were taking up a free will offering for him in town Saturday.

He has asked The Banner to say that he will greatly appreciate the assistance of all who may wish to help him.

Walker Died At Goodwater

Father Of Mr. Grover C. Walker Passed Away At home Monday Afternoon

Goodwater, Ala., Sept 24.—W. R. Walker, 71, after an illness of several weeks, passed away at his home here Monday afternoon. He is survived by his widow, three sons and three daughters, Grover C. Walker, attorney, of Clanton; Adie Walker, Eutaw, Ala., and Glenn Walker of Selma, and Mrs. Wallory Rowe, of Birmingham; Mrs. Lewis Bentley of Birmingham, and Mrs. A. E. Neighbors, of Goodwater.

Mr. Walker was a member of the Baptist church and held office of sheriff for two terms and was representative from Coosa County from 1911 to 1915.

Burial took place in Goodwater cemetery Tuesday, the Rev. J. E. Franks, pastor of Goodwater Baptist church, conducted the funeral.

J. D. Sessions Died At Abanda Home

Mr. J. D. Sessions, age 78 years, died September 14, at his home at Abanda, in Chambers County. He was buried September 15th. The funeral was held at the Abanda Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. Hunt of the Christian Church, Rev. Sides of the Methodist Church, and Rev. Layton of the Baptist Church.

Masonic honors were accorded Mr. Sessions in his burial rites. He had been a member of the Masons for over 40 years.

He is survived by his wife and three sons and seven daughters, all of whom are of age. One of his sons is Mr. Ben J. Sesisons of Clanton.

The deceased was well known by many people of Chilton County who formerly lived in Chambers County.

HUDDLESTON-ROBINSON WEDDING ANNOUNCED

The Birmingham News one day this week carried an attractive picture of Miss Alma Robinson, of Clanton, announcing her approaching marriage to Mr. William Eugene Huddleston, Jr., of Clanton.

The wedding will take place at the Clanton Baptist Church on Friday, November 15th.

Miss Robinson is the lovely and attractive daughter of Mrs. W. C. Robinson, of Clanton. She graduated at Judson College last year.

Mr. Huddleston is a young business man of great promise. He is connected with the Texas Company here. Before coming to Clanton he lived at Tuskegee.

TAKING EXHIBIT TO FAIR

Mr. Ed Bruce informs us that he and Mrs. Bruce will leave Clanton to-day with their exhibit to be shown at the Birmingham State Fair. "Nobody has said a word or sent us a thing, but we are going just the same," said Mr. Bruce. "We will do our best to make a creditable showing of things from Chilton County."

TIFFIN-KLINNER FURNITURE STORE

The Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company of Clanton is coming to the front with their attractive offerings in furniture and home furnishings. Theirs is a new place opened during the past summer. They are located in the new Mullins Building on the Highway next to the Exchange Hotel.

In this issue of The Unoin-Banner our readers will find a big advertisement telling about some of the things they are offering in their store at the present time.

They have a very large stock of everything in the furniture line, both new and second hand goods. They sell at attractive prices both for cash and on insallments.

LIQUOR SERVING ON OCEAN LINER IS NOW ABANDONED

Leviathan Discontinues Selling on Eastbouund Voyages

New York, Sept. 24—The New York Herald-Tribune Tuesday says the United States liner Leviathan has abandoned the practice of selling liquor on eastbound voyages.

According to the crew, the smoke room and dining room stewards served liquor openly on only one eastward vyage. After protests had followed publication of the story of the wet voyage, the sale of liquor while en route to Europe was abandoned.

JEMISON FARMERS FERTILIZING

The Jemison Fruit and Truck Growers Association has delivered fertilizer to their berry growers for fall application. Quite a bit of interest has been shown in the fall fertilization of berry fields in the Jemison territory.

The rate advised for fall planting was 600 pounds of 8-4-4. Most of the Jemison farmers have bought about as recommended by the association.

DR. ROPER BURIED HERE THURSDAY

Funeral Services Conducted By Dr. J. A. Bryan of Birmingham

The funeral of Dr. G. C. Roper was held at the Clanton Methodist church at two o'clock last Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. A. Bryan, of Birmingham.

The burial at Clanton Cemetery was in charge of Mell Martin. The Masonic fraternity officiated at the funeral with the usual fraternal rites. A long line of Masons marched in procession ahead of the hearse from the church to the cemetery.

A great gathering of friends of the deceased physician were in attendance. Many people came from Boothton and Montevallo to pay their last respects to the man who had served them as their physician for the past twelve years.

Clarence Roper was universally loved in Clanton. Here he was born and reared. He was one of the promising young men who had gone out from our town to make for himself a place in the world. That he should be so suddenly snatched from life has brought sorrow to his family and the great number of friends and acquaintances who loved him.

RED MEN TO MEET AGAIN

All members of Waxahatchie Tribe No. 9, Improved Order of Red Men, are reminded of the special meeting of the Tribe which is to be held on next Tuesday night, October the first, at Red Men Hall in Clanton. The hour of the meeting will be 7:30.

Every member of the Tribe and all former members who will are asked to come and take part in the important business that will come up for consideration.

RESULT OF TAX ELECTION HAS A MEANING

A careful analysis of the result of the three mill tax election of last week, and the incidents leading up to the election, reveals some interesting things concerning our schools.

First, we would say that it is encouraging to note that a big majority of those who expressed themselves at the polls are in favor of continuing to support our public schools.

The vote on the proposition was 1,535 for the three mill tax and 643 against it.

After all was said and done in the somewhat mild campaign preceding the casting of ballots, the fact remains undisputed that the three mill tax meant the very life of the schools of this county. Therefore, the big question is: Why should 643 out of 2178 people in Chilton County vote to cripple the schools?

We believe practically all of the 643 who voted against the tax were acting honestly. There might have been a few who were prompted by selfish motives, but not very many.

There is undoubtedly something wrong somewhere to cause so many people to use their votes in a manner that would have resulted so disastrously to the children of our county, had their view been the view of a majority of our people.

We fear there has been mixed in with our school business too much of personal animosity or favor; too much politics; too much this and that and the other.

Our people ought to have more confidence in the lofty purposes which our school management must have in administering the great business of our schools. Our school officials should exercise every ounce of their ability to re-make and re-establish confidence in the minds of those whose confidence has been destroyed.

Those who appear to be somewhat in disagreement over various things differences without mixing them up with our schools. If they can't get together and help one another, they can at least let one another alone and not hinder the welfare of our schools.

We people of Chilton County are for progress. We are for better schools. We are not in favor of going backward. But many of us are not able to see through a tangled mess of schools, personalities, politics, and what not.

Give us our school business straight and unadulterated by those other things, and you will see the people of Chilton County stand right behind our schools until we shall have the best school system in the State of Alabama.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

It can be taken as an encouraging sign of the political future of the country that men like Claudius H. Huston of Chattanooga, will turn aside from their business interests to render political service to the nation by assuming charge of the affairs of our great political organizations. That was exactly what happened when Mr. Huston, a business man of nation-wide reputation, assumed the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee at Washington. That the political leaders of the party realized this is indicated by the fact that Mr. Huston was chosen unanimously for the post and that the meeting called to elect a chairman turned in one of the most satisfactory love-feasts in the history of the party.

Mr. Huston's selection is taken to mean that the Republican party will soon be girding its loins for the struggle of 1930. The Democrats have been busy on the job for several weeks but those who know Mr. Hutson well are confident that he will soon catch up with the opposition, so far as organization and activity are concerned. It may be said in passing that Mr. Huston is a resident of Tennessee of years standing but that he was born on a farm in Harrison County, Indiana, along the Ohio River. His father was a Presbyterian minister and his mother a native of North Carolina. The father died when Huston attended a rural district school which is still known to the community as "Swamp College" because it was located near a swamp. Later he became a country school teacher at $30 a month, the term being five months a year. Out of his meager pay, however, coupled with wages received for farm work in the summer time, he saved enough money to attend Valparaiso University in northern Indiana. While there he earned his board by ringing the school bell, waiting table, sweeping the dormitory floors and the doctor's office.

After leaving school Mr. Huston went to Chattanooga, Tenn., and later his cousin, Dr. H. M. Evans, who had been a teacher at Valparaiso, started the Chattanooga Normal School, now merged with Chattanooga University. Huston was an employe of the normal school before its merger and later bought a small business college.

In obtaining employment for his business course pupils Mr. Huston came in contact with business men and manufacturers and these contacts eventually took him into the manufacturing business. He steadily forged ahead as a business man and eventually he became a member of the directing board of a number of large business and financial institutions of Chattanooga. While there Mr. Huston also served as president of the Chamber of Commerce, president of the Y. M. C. A., president of the Dixie Highway Association and was identified with various other civic enterprises.

Mr. Huston first took an interest in local and state Republican campaigns and then in national politics. He was one of the directing forces in Tennessee in 1920 when the state was carried by a Republican presidential candidate for the first time, an event which attracted wide attention. When Mr. Hoover was appointed Secretary of Commerce by President Harding he sought Mr. Huston for Assistant Secretary of Commerce and the latter agreed to serve for one year. Later he agreed to remain for several additional months. In March, 1923, he resigned and re-entered the business field. He became chairman of the board of directors of the Transcontinental Oil Company, resigning last April when his task of refinancing the company was completed.

For the past two years Mr. Huston also has had the general management of all the corporate properties, including banks in seven large cities, owned by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The labor organization had sought Huston's services because of his experience as a financier. Mr. Huston is still the president of the "Brotherhood Management Corporation" which directs the management of the labor union's banks at Cleveland, Boston, Minneapolis, Portland, Ore.; San Francisco and Seattle, and real estate property which includes two large business blocks at Cleveland.

Huston's career is not unlike that of Mr. Hoover's in that he came up from the ranks, worked his way thru school and gained success through ability, hard work and a fundamental integrity which inspired confidence in all those who came to know him.

This summer we have been interested in sun backs, but now that the schools are opening it won't be long until we are interested in half backs once more.

Wonder what the jackrabbits thought when they saw the Graf Zeppelin go zooming through the Texas clouds?

Who remembers the good old days when a red hot game of croquet was regarded as the last word in exciting outdoor entertainment?

SIX MONTHS OF HOOVER

President Hoover has completed the first six months of his administration and there seems to be justification for the statement made by members of the Republican National Committee who met in Washington recently to the effect that because of the record of the administration so far, Mr. Hoover enjoys the confidence and support of the American people, regardless of party, in even a greater degree than on election day last November.

Six months is of course a comparatively short time in the history of a nation, but even in this brief period things of importance have been accomplished by the administration. Foremost among these, perhaps, has been the passage of the farm relief law embodying ideas outlined by the President during the campaign and after. The Farm Board is now functioning and the future of the farmer in America seems brighter than for some time past. The passage of the tariff bill with increased farm schedules will doubtless accelerate his economic recovery.

Much progress has also been made on the question of further naval limitation. In this respect the President has instituted conversations with Great Britain which bid fair ultimately to result in a general naval reduction agreement. At the same time the administration has let it be known that America will make no undue sacrifices in naval disarmament but will insist on a navy as good as the best.

The President has also named a non-partisan commission, made up of men of national reputation, to study the question of law enforcement, has put another commission at work upon the problem of improving conditions under which the American child is reared.

Other things have been accomplished, too. The President has asked Congress for legislation designed to put the prohibition enforcement agencies all in one department, has put under way a plan to reorganize the government and diplomatic corps of the country, and has called for decreased expenditures under which it is hoped there may be further reduction in income taxes.

And best of all, it may be said, with all the processes of reorganization going on, the government has functioned smoothly and efficiently and in a most business-like manner, as was anticipated by those who knew Mr. Hoover best before he took office. The President's cabinet compares favorably with those of previous administrations and the appointments made by the President in various branches of the government service have met with general public approval.

With six months passed, it may be said that the Hoover administration is now fairly under way and that greater things may be anticipated in the future. Business is generally good over the country and there is no reason to feel that we will be called on to confront anything but peace and prosperity during the next few years.

Umpires in the big leagues are beginning to wear mivrophones which enable their decisions to be heard by spectators all over the ball park. They could add much interest and zest to the game by also broadcasting what they say when they get red in the face and order an offending player out of the park for kicking on a decision.

Nothing is quite so amusing as reading the stories written by the political dopesters these days telling us what is going to happen in the election a year from next November.

Commissioner Grover Whalen of New York City says that 8,000 more policemen are needed in the metropolish at once. Of course this is campaign year.

Over in Russia the proletariat walks and when a man has a couple of horses he is placed in the hated bourgeois class. To show you how far we are behind the communist state, here in America the proletariat drive fours and sixes and a man has to have an eight cylinder car and a rumble seat roadster before he can break into the middle class.

The Doukobhors are parading naked again in Canada. The Canadian Mounted Police could probably handle this with a couple of good wasp nests.

Has it ever occurred to Senator Pat Harrison that the way to ruin the Republican Party in 1930 is to let the Republicans pass their wicked tariff bill, in which case, if Pat's predictions are correct, the cost of living will go to such a point that the people will revolt at the polls? Sometimes one wonders if Pat really has the courage of his predictions.

The world is making progress. An international conference has been held in Europe which did not result in some more suggestions as to how more of the European war costs could be shouldered on Uncle Sam.

STATE FOREST NURSERY HAS LARGE NUMBER TREES

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 23.—Approximately a million and a quarter forest tree seedlings from the State Forest Nursery will be available to Alabama farmers for planting vacant land during the fall planting season, says the State Commission of Forestry. These seedlings range from four inches to thirty inches in height depending upon the species.

The seedlings comprise approximately 790,000 Black Locust, 212,000 Slash Pine, 85,000 Loblolly Pine, 82,000 Black Walnut, 21,000 Japanese Red Pine, 16,000 Long-Leaf Pine, 9,000 Persimmon, 7,000 Bald Cypress, 7,000 Water Oak, 6,000 Pitch Pine and 5,000 Japanese Black Pine, while the balance is made up of miscellaneous species.

Seedlings up to 600 in number will be issued free to farmers upon assurance that they will be properly planted and cared for. Any quantity above this number will be sold at cost. In all cases the planter will pay for the postage or express charges on the seedlings.

JACKSON CHAPEL

There will be a school meeting at this place next Friday night, September the 27th. We hope to have every patron out with us as we have some business to attend to. The incidental fees are a great question with some, so we ask all the patrons to come and help us assess them. We will also let out the fuel contract.—Trustees.

One reassuring thing we gather from the papers is that the League of Nations will discuss the Palestine situation at its next meeting.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

The sure way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

FOX BIRTHDAY PARTY SUNDAY

Last Sunday was the birthday of Mr. J. W. Fox, prominent farmer who lives in the Mulberry community. For this occasion his good wife prepared a wonderfully fine dinner and invited a number of the family friends to come and enjoy the day with them.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Fox of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Ware and children, March Lee, Joe, and Katherine, of Clanton; Mrs. Martha Large and son, John; Mr. and Mrs. Earle Bray; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fox; Jimmie Fox and Harry Fox.

The birthday cake which was prepared by Mrs. Fox, held 72 candles indicating the age of Mr. Fox.

J. W. Fox is one of the leading farmers of this county. He was born in Polk County, Tennessee, and came to this county from Huntsville, in 1911. He is a brother of Mr. W. W. Fox, the well known Hardware and Furntiure merchant, of Clanton.

Rev. A. C. Nelson and family motored to Eclectic Saturday where he filled his regular appointment there Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Nelson of Deatsville are spending the week with their son, Rev. A. C. Nelson, and family this week.

It will be interesting to know that the road crew has begun the work on the fill at the ends of the East View bridge.

This bridge has been uncrossable since early spring and the farmers have had to haul their cotton to gin through a bad ford.

The teacher of the Bible class in our Sunday school was not present Sunday on account of a death of a near relative.

Don't forget to bring the children to Sunday school. When father and mother sit at home and read the papers and insist that son and daughter go to church school it doesn't carry much weight. The father and mother who say to son and daughter "Come" has some influence. The ones who say "go" have considerably less influence. If you have children especially you had better go to church. Why not start now?

MR. FOX'S SALE

It is not only surprising his good customers, but is surprising himself as well.

The surprise to his customers is when they go into his store they are sold first class merchandise at an actual reduction of 25 per cent.

That they are highly pleased is verified in the fact that many kinspeople and friends of his customers are told of the money saving values: consequently, they, in turn are coming to buy for themselves.

These new friends he is making are doubly surprised in the low price and also the large first class lines they have to select from.

Mr. Fox is highly pleased in the progress of the Sale and is very glad that so many of his friends are taking advantage of it. He invites all those back who have been and those who have not been he invites and assures them of a big surprise.

Jasper R. Robinson of Verbena was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

Charley Bowles brought to the Banner office last week a sweet potato that weighed 8 pounds. This is the biggest tater of the year so far as we have seen or heard.

ISABELLA SCHOOL NOTES

The Senior class at Isabella High, very conscious of its importance and dignity, has remained rather quiet since they became sole possessors of that dignity four weeks ago; but the other day in their American democracy class they fought out a heated argument on the qualities of a good school teacher. They disregarded personal feelings, discussed good and bad teachers, and finally decided that a teacher who is a teacher at all ought to measure up to these qualifications or at least make a determined effort to measure up to these standards. Their points were so good that we want to pass them on to you. Score yourselves, teachers:

I. Pleasing personality.
a. Kind to pupils.
b. Friendly to everyone.
c. Cheerful.
d. Polite.
e. Sympathetic—not too hard-boiled.

II. Cooperation with and interest shown in:
a. School activities.
b. Pupil activities.
c. Community, social and religious activities.

III. Educated and refined—never too loud.

IV. Spotless character—absolutely essential these students say.

V. Specialist in his or her subjects.

VI. Never slack in discipline—control firmly, but kindly.

VII. Use of clean speech at all times.

VIII. Especial interest in backward or retarded pupils.

IX. Habit of dressing neatly, simply, and tastefully with attention to these details:
a. Variety in dresses or suits worn.
b. Dresses of wash materials.
c. Up-to-date clothes for both men and women, but no extreme styles.
d. No gaudy colors such as solid reds in either women's or men's dress.
e. Medium length of dresses—neither extreme.
f. Slight rouge when necessary; otherwise none at all.
g. Well pressed clothes, especially in regard to men's suits.
h. Clean finger nails, especially important for men who are usually more careless than women.
X. High ideals for self.
XI. Good sport in the true sense of the word.
XII. Popular among pupils and faculty.

The Home Economics students of Isabella High School are planning to do great things this year. They have already begun work on their home projects, and a Home Economics Club has been organized.

The students have as their goal in their home economics club to put on programs, plays, etc., to foster high ideals of home life and to develop desirable personality traits. The club hopes to accomplish much during the year in arousing new interests related to home economics, by increasing fun and developing leadership.

The football team has high hopes of many victories this year. The boys believe they have prospects of a good team. In fact they know that under the coaching of Ellis Paulk they can't do anything but win. Let's give them our support!

INCIDENTAL FEES MUST BE PAID

All patrons of the Baker School are notified that all incidental fees must be paid before a pupil may be enrolled and classified. Please attend to this matter on the first day. Trustees.

Mrs. Kate Anderson gave a birthday party for little Katherine Ware last Thursday afternoon. The little folks who attended were Mary Lee Maddox, J. Lee Smith, and Sister, Billie Johnson, Nell Jones, and Mary Lou DeLoach. Many games were played. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Hoyt Reynolds of Selma spent last Sunday in Clanton with his mother, Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

Mrs. Guy Roberts spent the past week end in Birmingham with her sister, Mrs. Sam Box.

Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds went to Birmingham last Thursday.

VOL. I. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1929 NO. 12

One of the latest additions to our town is the new Presbyterian church located on the corner where Middleton Street intersects the Selma Highway. This beautiful church is almost completed, and is one of the prettiest buildings in Clanton. We are always glad to see progress of this kind in our community. It reflects credit to the entire community. We congratulate the Presbyterian citizens of Clanton upon their splendid accomplishment.

Bob told me I was the eighth wonder of the world.
What did you say?
I told him not to let me catch him out with any of the other seven.

Father (to youngster just put to bed: Now, what are you crying for?
Child: I wanna drink.
Father: So do I. Go to sleep.

Laundry cleaned garments wear longer and look better because they are cleaned scientifically.
It IS important that many different kinds of garments made up of different materials be handled differently in the cleaning process. Dainty clothes have to be handled carefully, and each kind demands a particular process to insure against any injury to the garment while being cleaned. To always be safe call 119. It's a mighty good clothes line.

Everything works out well in the end, said a young woman as her lusty youngster swallowed a saftey pin.

You're scared to fight.
I ain't; but me mother'll lick me.
An' how'll she know?
She'll see the doctor going to your house.

And a wasp can lift a man three feet off the ground without the least trouble.—Florida Times-Union.

Today, Monday, while we are writing this advertisement, it is some rainy day, and it occurs to us that there will be many rainy days this fall and winter. Very likely some of these will be wash day. May we suggest that you let us do your laundry. You won't need to worry about the rainy days then.

Automobile radiators will soon be laying in their supply of Christmas alcohol.

MACEDONIA

Hey! folks, how do you like this fall weather? I think it is fine for when it rains we can rest.

Mr. W. H. Mills of Montgomery made a business trip to Clanton Sunday.

Mrs. W. A. Calloway and her attractive daughter, Clara Ellen, and Miss Lurline Miner of Montgomery were the guests of Miss Glennie Mahan Sunday.

Mr. Harvey Traywick of Maplesville was home Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Traywick.

A marriage of much interest was that of Mr. Clinton Smith and Miss Gertie Mae Mims. We wish them a long, happy and prosperous life. They are going to make their home at the father of the groom, Mr. Lee Smith, for a while.

We are sorry to learn of Mr. Olin Ellison's illness. We hope him a speedy recovery.

Miss Glennie Mahan has returned after a trip to Montgomery, Luverne and other towns on her vacation.

Miss Maud Mahan was at home Saturday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Matt Mahan.

Mr. E. I. Robinson has gone to Montgomery to visit his sister, Mrs. W. A. Calloway.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mahan have returned from his vacation and he is on his job again. They visited relatives in Selma, Speigner, and Montgomery.

The second Sunday in November is our regular preaching day. Everybody is invited to come and bring your friends. We had an election Sunday night, and we have as our pastor Rev. Aaron Parker for another year, and we are glad to have him with us.

County Agent C. E. Stapp went to Birmingham Tuesday night to attend the birthday party of Mr. Erskine Ramsay.

Doings At Mulberry

By GUY H. De SHAZO

Howdy, Folks:

Been a long time since we had any news from this neck o' the woods in the paper.

Generally the people of this community are very busy picking cotton.

The High School seems to be making good progress.

Regular monthly services at the Baptist church were held Sunday morning and Sunday night, with Rev. Grady Williams, the pastor, in charge.

The Clanton Quartet sang at the Baptist church in the afternoon, a goodly crowd enjoying the good music furnished by these people. The writer has been informed that the Quartet will give a concert at Isabella High School auditorium some time in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Whitehead, of Franklin County, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hedden and family, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cantrell.

Mr. J. C. DeShazo, of Birmingham, is spending some time in the community.

Mr. O. L. Hedden made a business trip to Maplesville Saturday morning.

W. F. DeShazo was a business visitor to Clanton on Saturday afternoon.

The B. Y. P. U. at Mulberry church continues to grow both in attendance and interest. Visitors are always welcome. Prof. Paulk has been elected Bible Quiz Leader, to fill the place vacated by Miss Imogene Griffin, who is a student at Livingston Normal school at Livingston, Ala.

Messrs. C. C. Williams and William Williams attended to business in Maplesville Saturday.

The Alabama Power Company has completed the first unit of their distribution system in this community and those who subscribed for power are enjoying the conveniences of lights and electric cooking.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Tucker and family were the guests of Mrs. Tucker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lecroy, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Tucker and family, of Birmingham, were Sunday guests of Mr. D. O. Manning and family, motoring down for breakfast.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Spivey, of East Thomas, in the Birmingham district, spent some time Sunday morning with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. DeShazo, while en route to Burnsville, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bowden and family of Birmingham, accompanied by Mrs. J. C. DeShazo, attended the singing at Mulberry Sunday afternoon.

Miss Glois Manning, of Birmingham, was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. DeShazo were the guests of Mr. W. H. Harris and family, of Plantersville, recently.

Mr. T. G. Mooney, of Wauchula, Fla., was a visitor in this community a few days ago. Tom recently went to Florida to engage in the saw mill business, and reports that he has purchased a nice lot of timber and will begin operations in the near future.

J. C. Edwards was attending to business matters in Maplesville Saturday morning.

Lesson for September 29

REVIEW: SIGNIFICANCE OF THE EXILE AND THE RESTORATION

GOLDEN TEXT—The mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, and his righteousness unto children's children.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories Retold.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Stories Retold.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Some Great Men of the Period

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Providence in the Exile and the Restoration.

The grade of the class, the aptitude of the scholars and the genius of the teacher are factors which determine the method of review. For adult classes the following suggestions are made:

I.

Study the lessons of the quarter as illustrating the philosophy of history in God's dealings with His people in their captivity and restoration. Assignment of topics should be made at least one week in advance. Only adult scholars should be expected to use this method. The following subjects might be assigned:

Why God Permitted Israel to Go into Exile.

What Changed Views of Life Resulted from the Exile.

The Bearing of the Exile Upon Prophecy.

The Relationship of Divine Chastening to Divine Love.

II. Character Study.

Assign the outstanding heroes of the quarter's lessons to members of the class to have them report. This assignment should be made at least a week in advance. Some of the outstanding characters for consideration are: Ezekiel, Daniel, Nehemiah, Ezra, Zerubbabel and Malachi.

III. Summary of Contents.

This method is usable at all times and can be adapted to most of the grades. The following suggestions are made for carrying out this method:

Lesson for July 7—Before Ezekiel was commissioned as a prophet he was given a vision of the Almighty. After this vision he was given an experimental knowledge of God's Word.

Lesson for July 14—Ezekiel sets forth personal responsibility as bearing on the prophet and upon the people to whom he ministered. Ezekiel's responsibility was to hear God's Word and sound the warning. The people's responsibility was to hear and obey.

Lesson for July 21—Ezekiel is the prophet of hope. He ministered to Israel in captivity. God sent him to show to Israel the fullness of His plan for the world through them.

Lesson for July 28—Because Daniel made the Lord the arbiter of his life, he was able to make known the king's dream, with its interpretation.

Lesson for Aug. 4—While Belshazzar and his lords were engaged in drunken revelry, a mysterious hand recorded divine judgment.

Lesson for Aug. 11—Because of jealousy certain wicked men plotted Daniel's downfall. They trumped up a charge against him on the ground of his foreign religion. Though the foolish decree of the king was executed, Daniel was delivered and his accusers were cast to the lions and destroyed.

Lesson for Aug. 18—Though Israel went into captivity as a chastisement of the Lord, later He restored them.

Lesson for Aug. 25—In the restoration of the people to their own land, the first thing necessary was the provision of a place for the worship of God. As soon as this work was done, violent opposition was in evidence. That which God sets out to do shall be completed.

Lesson for Sept. 1—Through Zerubbabel the people were brought back and established in their own land, but they had gone far away from God. There was now need of a religious leader. Ezra was moved by the Spirit to lead them back to fellowship.

Lesson for Sept. 8—When Nehemiah heard of the distress of his brethren in Jerusalem he took the matter to the Lord in prayer. The Lord gave him favor with the king, who permitted him to go back and build the walls.

Lesson for Sept. 15—The method used in bringing back the people to God was God's Word. Because the Word was made plain, the people repented of their sins.

Lesson for Sept. 22—Malachi as an aid to Nehemiah in effecting reforms pointed out the sins of the people, namely, base ingratitude, a corrupt priesthood, mixed marriages, and robbing God by withholding tithes. He pointed to a Day of Judgment when righteous retribution would be meted out to the wicked and rewards would be given to the faithful.

Jesus Prophesieth His Death

And Jesus went before them. And he took again the 12, and began to tell them what things should happen unto him, saying, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests, and the scribes; and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him unto the Gentiles: and they shall mock him, and shall scourge him, and shall spit upon him, and shall kill him; and the third day he shall rise again.—Mark 10, 32 to 34.

ANTIOCH NEWS

Please give me a space for a few words from this place. The farmers of this place are busy picking cotton.

Our Sunday school is progressing fairly well. Sunday was our regular preaching day. Rev. Limbrick preached a nice sermon.

Mr. Arthur Klinner from Detroit, Mich., spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Klinner.

Mrs. Ruby Walker from Birmingham is spending a few weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. Alvin Deramus.

Mr. Parnell Ratliff spent Saturday night with his sister, Mrs. Thula Cox.

Mrs. Lou Jones and children spent last Sunday with her brother, Mr. W. L. Williams.

Mr. Ernest Ratliff and family were visitors to this place Sunday.

Miss Emmett White from Selma spent Saturday night and Sunday with Misses Willie T. and Laradean Chambers.—A Reader.

Rev. Buford Lawrence went to Montgomery Tuesday in the interest of the school business.

Mr. Tom Sims has returned from Georgia where he has been for a few days on business for the Dixie Construction Company.

DRAWING THE "COLOR LINE" ON EGGS

Color of Eggs Has a Decided Influence on Their Market Value in Some Parts of Country.

There are no doubt very few who would care to take literally the oft-quoted assertion of a well known writer that gentlemen prefer blondes. Most certainly some gentlemen do prefer blondes, but there are others who have a decided preference for brunettes. No man who favors either the lighter or the darker tresses would dare to say that the color of his choice carried with it any superior virtue, grace, or distinction. He just likes what he likes and that's all there is to it. A very similar situation exists in the egg market, strange as it may seem to many of us. In some parts of the country, brown eggs are almost unsalable, with white ones at a premium, while in other places the exact reverse is true.

Just why certain sections of the country should be so thoroughly prejudiced in favor of one color or the other is something that requires a lot more explaining than the space allotted to this article will permit. No one has yet been able to discover that the color of an egg shell has any connection with the food value of its contents. On the contrary, it seems to be well established that if hens laying brown eggs are fed the same materials and cared for in the same way as those laying white ones, the products of both will be absolutely equal in food values. Nevertheless, these strange local prejudices must be considered just as certain merchants must reckon with the fact that women in certain parts of the country will accept nothing but Clark's thread, while Coat's thread, spun on the same spindles from identical raw materials is the only brand others will have.

This peculiar state of affairs is of little interest to poultrymen whose entire output is consumed locally. He knows the preference of his own neighborhood, and, if wise, will cater to it. It is the poultryman or egg buyer whose output is too great for local consumption who must face the blonde-brunette problem when sending his product out to market.

The great center for marketing of brown eggs is and always was Boston and surrounding communities. There the preference seems to date back to the days of the earliest settlers. The reason it has persisted for so long doubtless lies in the fact that most of the American class breeds—all brown egg layers—originated there.

The owner of "brown-egg" fowls has the advantage when it comes to supplying dressed fowls for family use. As for capons, these breeds are ideal. The capons rival turkeys for size and weight with flesh of such tenderness and delicious flavor it would take an expert to decide if anything on earth could equal them.

Nevertheless, many poultrymen whose chief concern is egg production, hold the white egg laying breeds in high esteem. They are undoubtedly wonderful layers and the various strains have been greatly improved of late years. Their eggs now compare quite favorably in size with the average run from brown egg laying breeds and it con no longer be said that the so-called "all-egg" breeds are less productive than the general purpose or brown egg breeds during the fall and winter months. There are certain localities where white eggs are in great demand, whatever the reason may be. That, after all, is sufficient reason for raising the kind of fowls that supply them.

Public preference sometimes changes. The situation in New York is a good illustration of what can happen. There, brown eggs were at one time all but a drug on the market. Early in November, 1927, white egg prices began to decline and the brown eggs forged ahead until the latter were soon enjoying a price advantage of 8c a dozen. Since then, there has been considerable fluctuation. In many other markets similar changes in one direction or the other have been noted.

Such changes as this are of no little significance to poultrymen everywhere. No matter how large or small your flock may be, if you produce eggs to sell, you want to be on the right side. Be prepared to swing with the tide of public desire. It may not be the most heroic measure, but aside from Lindbergh's case, whoever heard of heroism that paid dividends?

STATE CAPITOL News

Only five of the 67 counties of Alabama remain without county child welfare organizations, according to figures recently furnished by the State Child Welfare Department. Child welfare work in Alabama received a great impetus as a result of the increased appropriation for the work by the 1927 legislature, and various counties are manifesting increasing interest in this activity. Six new counties have been recently organized, bringing the total number of organized counties, with the county child welfare superintendents who will serve them, are: Sumter, Miss Epsie Gilchrist; Macon, Miss Eunice Mills; Bibb, Miss Willard Stovall; Wilcox, Mrs. Anne Ervin; Cullman, Miss Mattie Carter; and Green, Mrs. Henry Eatman, Jr. The five counties which so far have not set up child welfare units are: Barbour, Blount, Clay, Geneva, and Russell.

Governor Bibb Graves recently reappointed three members of the State Board of Education, whose terms had expired, A. H. Carmichael of Tuscumbia, J. C. Inzer of Gadsden, and Jack Thorington of Montgomery. The Governor also reappointed R. J. Goode of Gastonburg as a member of the State Board of Agriculture.

Montgomery has been awarded the 1930 convention of the Alabama Educational Association, to be held in April, by the executive committee of the association. The convention will bring some 4,000 educators to the capital city.

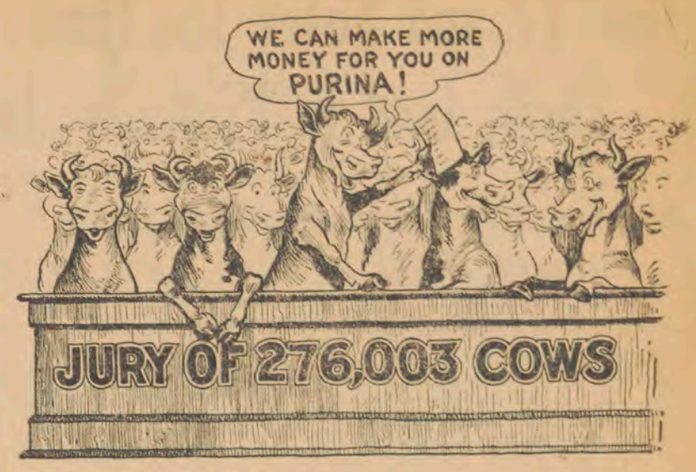
The Department of Game and Fisheries is working actively on plans for Alabama's First Annual Fresh Water Fishing Contest, which will be held during the month of October. Commissioner Quinn expects to make this contest an even more outstanding event than the Deep Sea Rodeo, which gave so much pleasure to participants and secured national publicity for the State.

The Fresh Water Fishing Contest will be held during the entire month of October and every person in Alabama who registers may compete, non residents being eligible only in case they have proper non resident licenses. Handsome prizes and trophies will be awarded to successful contenders.

There will be no central gathering place, which will relieve entrants from the expense and time necessary for a trip. The only expense therefore, will be the registration fee of $1.00, which will be used to defray incidental expenses and to add prizes. Prizes will be given for the largest fishes caught, and not for the greatest number.

Registrations must be in the office of the Department of Game and Fisheries by the first day of October, and those interested in entering the contest should write to Commissioner I. T. Quinn at Montgomery immediately. Judging from the interest which is being manifested, the fresh water fishing contest will prove even more popular than the Rodeo.

Preparing and printing a report of over one thousand pages, mostly of figures, is no small task, but in fact represents a great volume of work. The report of State Auditor S. H. Blan, telling of all of the State's financial matters during the year ending September 30th, 1928, contains over one thousand pages. The State's business is growing so fast that the Auditor's report is larger and larger each year. To save extra pages and to save extra expense, State Auditor Blan has for the past two years reduced the size of the type in which the report is printed. He is now giving thought for further simplifying the report so that it may be easily understood by everyone who examines it and also to so arranging the report for this year so that it may be kept within one volume.



Mr. Blan wrote a bill, which was passed by the last Legislature, authorizing any officer who is required by law to publish a report to cut down the number of these reports to not under 500 copies or what he believed actually needed. Heretofore about 1500 copies were required by law to be printed. This law has already saved the State thousands of dollars and is saving several thousand dollars a year. Under the old law there were several hundred copies of the reports not needed and were stored away each year, thereby becoming useless junk and a burden on the State.

Dr. J. W. Maddox of Birmingham and Dave Norris of Mt. Creek were in Clanton last Friday looking after some business matters in connection with the property of the Alabama Mica Co., east of Clanton.

The Verdict of 276,003 Cows

"AMAZING," say feeders when shown the results of the eight months' dairy profits survey conducted by the Purina Mills. Figures were obtained on 276,003 cows fed hand mixtures, Purina, and 55 other commercial rations. Here's what they showed:

Yearly Profit per Cow:
Average on hand mixed rations $124.10
Average on 55 commercial rations 138.70
Average on Purina Cow Chow 164.25

The average Purina profit was $19.80 per ton of feed more than on other commercial rations and $27.04 more than on hand mixed rations.

Frankly, Purina results are the one big reason why we decided to handle Purina Chows—because we know they'll make you more money. Come in and let us help you with your feeding problems — or phone us.

ALABAMA STATE FAIR

Under new management and new ownership the Alabama State Fair, long recognized as the biggest educational and amusement enterprise in the state, will get going for a week's run Monday, September 30, continuing for six days of thrillers and for six days and nights of educational display. When the new organization came and when prominent men boasting unlimited civic pride took hold of the Fair the past summer they pledged that the state's annual show would not be run for profit and that they would expend twice as much money as had been expended in the past to make it a success.

How well they are carrying out their promises may be seen by the fact that they doubled the outlay of money for free acts in front of the grand stand this year, and then followed on the heels of that by doubling the amount formerly spent for a fireworks display. This year's display will be of straight fireworks with a gigantic spectacle added as an event extraordinary. The management has also booked daylight fireworks for three days during the Fair this year.

Speed demons of the auto dirt track will gather in Birmingham from all over America to compete for the huge purses offered at the annual speed show on the last day, while the world's champion motor cyclists will also vie for honors and purses earlier in the week.

With more exhibits than ever before, many more counties entered in the Four-H event between the boys from over the state, and with the only real industrial show ever attempted in Birmingham President Temple Tutwiler and Manager R. H. McIntosh are planning to break the crowd record for all time.

MAPLE SPRINGS

The Deacons of Maple Springs church are asking each and every member of Maple Springs Church to meet us at the church on next Sunday, September the 29, at ten o'clock, for the purpose of making some definite plans that we may be ready to cooperate with the other churches in regard to our pastor. Now this is a very important matter to come before the church, and we do hope that all the church members will be on hand. So, don't fail to be there. We haven't got but a very short time to work if we get our preacher. Come and hear what the committee will tell you, and hear a full discussion of it. Let us all do what we can in a cooperative way to make our community better. Don't forget the day, and don't fail to come.—Respectfully, J. L. Dupree, Chairman of Board of Deacons.

Boy 17 and Sister 15, Hunt Thrill; land in Prattville Jail

Montgomery Youths Steal Car, Drive to Marbury, Break In Store, Land In Jail

By GEO. L. DAVIS in Montgomery Advertiser

Tired of home, tired of their parents, and tired of everything but what they believed a good time, a brother and sister Monday night joined hands and embarked on a career of crime and before daybreak yesterday found themselves in jail and only 16 miles from home.

It was near midnight Monday when Ernest Greer, 17, and his sister, Juanita, 15, quietly slipped from their rooms on the second floor of their home, 8 Japan Avenue, Montgomery.

Together they tiptoed into the bathroom and through the window made their way to the ground by a ladder which Ernest had placed there after their parents had retired.

A few blocks away a new Stutz automobile, the property of Chief Pilot Eugene R. Klose, of the Montgomery School of Aeronautics, was parked in his garage at 1917 1-2 Madison Avenue.

Stealthily the brother and sister made their way. It was all over now. No more work. No more rebukes and no more lectures from their parents. They were free.

Elements Cooperate

Even the elements had conspired to aid their escape. The skies were overcast and black darkness, cut only by the horizontal glare of lamps at street intersections, imbued them with a sense of security.

They came to the car. Again luck was with them. Pilot Klose had left the machine unlocked. They entered and sped away with Ernest at the wheel. Their first crime and a clean get-away.

Morning and the police at headquarters browsed around waiting for 7 o'clock, the hour when the "dog" shift leaves and the day force begins its duties. The telephone tinkled.

It was Pilot Klose and he wanted to report the theft of an automobile. It was a Stutz and it bore a Nebraska license plate. The motor number was thus and so, and it had been stolen from the private garage at his residence.

The desk sergeant jotted down the data and slipped the report in a box for the day force to read.

Afternoon arrived. Desk Sergeant Jack Phenix answered the phone. It was Sheriff Weeks, of Autauga County and into the ear of Sergt. Phenix was poured the remainder of the story of the runaway thrill seekers.

With the Stutz purring softly and the miles vanishing under them when the elation of their first adventure had subsided the runaways took counsel. Soon the gasoline would be gone and there was no money. Moreover they would need food and the breakfast that had been forthcoming daily rain or shine was to be theirs now only through their own efforts.

There ahead of them was a little town. "Marbury," the depot sign read. And nearby was a store with a large plate glass window. No trouble at all it was easy to break the window and inside they helped themselves. It was 3 a. m. and all was quiet.

Suddenly there was a loud and alternate clang of a bell. They had touched off the burglar alarm. Down the street a light flashed in a window and there was the sound of people running.

Try For Getaway

Quickly and with a package in their hands, the runaways slipped through the window as the advance guard of the crowd approached. Within another moment they were in the car and were off.

Just then an automobile driven by W. R. Warwick, a cousin of Walter Warwick, of Montgomery, drove up in front of the store. Warwick was armed.

"Quick-" cried a bystander. "They went that way."

Warwick stepped on the gas with the speedometer standing at the 60 mark he pursued the fleeing car gaining at intervals through his knowledge of the roads and bridges. Soon within the searchlights he spied the large machine as it careened along the road at a reckless rate. It was clear that the driver of the fleeing car was not familiar with the machine. He came nearer.

Then leaning far out of the machine he fired. Again he fired and again. His last shot was rewarded by an explosion of the rear tire of the fleeing car.

It was all over.

Mr. Warwick took the truant brother and sister and turned them over to Sheriff Weeks at Prattville and a few minutes later the heavy iron doors opened to receive them.

Thus ended another career of crime as the dawn of another day was breaking.

It was about 6 o'clock at police headquarters. Capt. Sutcliff secretary of the department, sat at his desk. A man of past middle age with deep lines in his face appeared in the door. He fumbled his hat nervously.

His name, he said, was J. E. Greer. He was anxious about the welfare of his son, Ernest and daughter, Juanita. They did not appear for breakfast yesterday morning in fact they had left during the night by using a ladder. He would be glad if the police could help find them and he was afraid they might get into trouble.

Capt. Sutcliffe tried to be gentle. But there was little to tell him except that his son was charged with burglary and grand larceny and that his daughter was in the custody of the juvenile authorities for accessory to the crime.

For a moment the elderly man was silent. The lines in his face grew deeper. His head dropped and he blinked back the tears.

It was a hard blow. Since early childhood the boy had been unruly and saucy. He often sulled and other children were afraid of him. The daughter too, was incorrigible at times. She had a fierce temper, was disobedient and read confession magazines. They had never been arrested before. It would go mighty hard with her mother.

"And I told them," he said, "that if they didn't do better they wouldn't come to a good end."

"And this is the end."

HUNDREDS SHARE CELEBRATION OF RAMSAY'S BIRTHDAY

Birmingham's most famous birthday party was held Tuesday night when Erskine Ramsay was host to his thousands of Birmingham and Alabama friends.

It was the occasion of Mr. Ramsay's sixty-fifth birthday and between 1,500 and 2,500 friends and relatives gathered at his home to congratulate him and to wish him continued happiness and success.

The party began offically at 7 o'clock but for nearly an hour before the appointed opening, hundreds of automobiles climbed laborously up the side of Red Mountain to stop at the nearest parking spaces and to allow the occupants to walk from one to 10 blocks to the scene of the festivities.

Roads Choked

By 7 o'clock, every road leading to and from the Ramsay home was choked with automobiles and pedestrians.

A big barbecue was first on the program, four mammoth tables being placed at the side of the house. These tables were laden with all kinds of barbecued meats and other delicacies which go to make up a great outdoor dinner.

And no one wanted for anything to eat for all day long, chefs and maids had been busy preparing the meats and setting the tables for the feast.

Host Is Greeted

Then there was music by an orchestra and, perhaps best of all for those assembled guests, greetings and congratulations to their hosts and pleasantries for each other.

In addition, there was a big birthday cake given to Mr. Ramsay by the children of Birmingham schools. The cake was cut soon after the barbecue dinner.

Mr. Ramsay also opened his home to the guests present and all evening long these visitors passed thru the house.

There have been other birthday parties like this given by Mr. Ramsay but all who were present unanimously agreed that Tuesday's party was one of the best of them all.

KIWANIANS PLEDGE AID TO AERO DEVELOPMENT

Birmingham and Montgomery Clubs Adopt Resolution to Foster Aviation In State

The development of aeronautics in Alabama was given a forward impetus Tuesday when resolutions were adopted at a joint meeting of the Montgomery and Birmingham Kiwanis Clubs endorsing cooperation of the two cities in promoting the development of aviation in the state.

Approximately 75 members of the Montgomery club attended the meeting, which was held in the Tutwiler Hotel ballroom with the Birmingham Club acting as hosts at a luncheon.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, only one plane was flown from Montgomery to take part in an "aeronautical parade" which had been planned for the occasion. L. G. Mason, in charge of the Montgomery School of Aeronautics, piloted the plane.

Roy Lifsey, president of the Montgomery Club, was presented by President Walter Henley, of the Birmingham Kiwanis Club. The meeting was then turned over to George Wheeler, of Montgomery, who was chairman of the program committee.

NATIONAL LEADERS SEE HELP FOR ORGANIZED FARMERS

One thousand farmers and farm women heard Gov. Bibb Graves declare that, "Agriculture is the foundation of civilization. That is what feeds and keeps the world going. If the farmers would recognize the strength that comes from unity, would recognize that this is a day of cooperation, — Ah, I am proud of the man who is head of the Agricultue and Industry Department of Alabama . I am proud of the slogan that he is carrying throughout the state, — cooperation. That is what we need, men and women. We need to get together with the spirit of one for all, and all for one. If we can cooperate, as he said, if you had the voice of four million farmers it matters not whether in Alabama, in Washington or Montgomery or New Olreans, if they knocked they would open to them and say gladly, "What do you want?"

Prof. Duncan told farmers and farm women assembled at the same meeting that, "The biggest thing we need to do in tackling these problems that confront us is to build sound, wise, farmer-owned and farmer-controled marketing organizations. I wish I had time to emphasize that phase of the question; that is, that these things must be officered and managed under the control of the farmer himself. Don't forget that. That is very important."

"Congress and the President have given us a farm marketng bill, a national agricultural policy", cooperative marketing, said Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, when addressing members of the Birmingham Kiwanis Club last month. A farm board with the broadcast power and authority to carry out these policies has also been appointed. We farmers have waited 100 years for this. It is the foundation for the stabilization of agriculture."

Mr. Northington addressed a letter to members of the Farm Bureau Cotton Association in which he wrote:

"For a long number of years agricultural leaders have been working to get the government to give the farmers help. The passage of the recent farm relief bill and the appointment of the Federal Farm Board was the results of this long fight. The President and Congress have agreed to help farmers, if we will do one thing, that is organize. This being true we feel that we are justified in urging each member to not only sell his products cooperatively but to encourage his neighbors in joining forces in selling their products cooperatively.

If we expect to receive assistance from the Federal Farm Board it is necessary for us to do our part. In other words, the Board has put the proposition up to us and now we can take it or leave it, but if we do not take advantage of it we will not only be unable to receive aid now, but getting Congress to recognize the farmers needs in the future will be much harder than it has in the past."

OBJECTIVES OF FARM BOARD

C. E. Stapp, county agent Chilton County, is today calling Chilton County farmers' attention to five objectives of the Federal Farm Board as outlined by James C. Stone, vice-chairman of the Board. Some of the objectives of the Farm Board as described by Mr. Stone are:

1. The strengthening and expansion of existing cooperatives through assistance in developing sound managerial and financing policies. In this way unorganized farmers, it was hoped, would be afforded a practical demonstration of what can be done through united effort.

2. Bringing the coordination of efforts on the part of cooperatives in various commodity groups, thus effecting merchandising economies, the net result of which would be to give the farmer a better return for his commodity without consequent injury to the consumer.

3. The assistance of growers in unorganized areas to develope sound plans and procedure for cooperative organizations.

4. The assisance of coopertives in developing better business relationships with manufacturers, mills, processors and other users of farm commodities.

5. The assistance of the Department of Agriculture, State Agricultural Colleges, the extension service and other State and Federal agencies in developing an effective educational program in cooperative marketing, thus informing not only the farmer-producers but the city consumer of benefits both are expected to enjoy from more efficient merchandising of the products of the farm.

Mr. Stone emphasized that the program of the Board can be effectively carried out only through producer-owned and producer-controlled marketing associations. Under the law the Board must deal with such associations, not with the individual farmers. The Board can and is anxious to assist in the formulation of sound programs and policies for cooperatives but the responsibility of organization and management rests with the producer himself. The Board can move only as fast as the farmers themselves are willing to go.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

COUNTY AGENTS TO HAVE RADIO

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 23.—For the public reception of market news and other information broadcast over radio Station WAPI the State Department of Agriculture and Industries, Montgomery, and the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, have entered into an agreement for the installation and operation of first-class radio receiving sets in the offices of the county demonstration agents of Alabama. It was signed by Dr. Bradford Knapp and Commissioner Seth P. Storrs.

This agreement was made after a State-wide survey of the signal strength and reception of Station WAPI. A representative of the station was sent to each county of the State. He found that the day-time signal strength is good in 60 of the 67 counties. Due to local disturbance reception in a few counties was not satisfactory but the causes of these local disturbances can be removed, he reported. The survey was made during summer which is the season when reception is poorest.

The agreement provides that the State Department of Agriculture pay three-fourths of the purchase price up to a maximum of $100 for each county. The remaining 25 per cent or more is to be raised in the county. Each set must be located in the office of the county agent or in some other public place where it will render maximum service. County agents will keep records and make reports.

With the agreement in operation Alabama will have an extensive system for broadcasting market news and other information and also for the reception of the same. A plan of this kind was suggested several months ago by Governor Graves but arrangements were not made until investigation showed that it is feasible and that it will render efficient service. It was found also that people throughout the state are enthusiastic about the market news broadcast daily by the Department of Agriculture as well as other educational and entertainment features broadcast from Station WAPI.

NEWS IN BRIEF

There is a strong possibility that "large and beautiful" diamonds can be made by man. Prediction of this was made at the September meeting of the American Chemical Society. Prof. J. Willard Hershey laid a tiny glass crystal, the size of a grain of sand, before the chemists. It was made from pure table sugar, subjected to pressure estimated at 10 tons per square inch. He cited tests to prove the diamond real.

Reports from Washington County show that the cattle tick is practically eradicated, and that the farmers of the county are now in better position than ever before to introduce purebred cattle.

CONTROL THE PEACH BORER WITH PARADICHLOROBENZINE

Mr. C. E. Stapp,
County Agent, Chilton County.
Dear Mr. Stapp:

The peach borer is causing far more damage in Alabama peach orchards than is generally realized. This damage usually goes unnoticed due to the fact that the injury generally occurs below the surface of the soil. Paradichlorobenzine, applied at the proper time, will give almost 100 per cent control, and the cost of this material should not be more than 2 or 3 cents per tree.

Age Of Trees

The use of this material is not recommended on trees under four years of age. In the South the bark of younger trees is usually not sufficiently tough to withstand the effects of this gas. It has been successfully used on two and three year old trees, but some damage is likely to occur under adverse weather conditions, and it is considered best to remove the borers from these young trees by aid of a small knife or wire.

Size of Dose

For trees four years of age three-fourths of an ounce should be used. For trees five years old and older one ounce is the proper dose. One and one-quarter ounces should be used on old and very large trees.

Time To Apply

In north Alabama it should be applied October 1 to 10; in central Alabama October 5 to 15; and in south Alabama October 10 to 20. It is very important that the application be made at the proper time.

Applying The Material

Prepare and level the ground around the base of the tree by clearing off the weeds and trash for a distance of about fifteen inches from the tree. Care should be taken not to dig up the soil more than is actually necessary, leaving a firm flat surface upon which to place the material. Apply the proper dose evenly on the ground in a circular band entirely around the tree. The inner part of the band should be about two inches away from the trunk of the tree. The material should be spread out into a band about two inches wide. Then cover the paradichlorobenzine carefully with a few shovelfuls of dirt and pack it down with the back of the shovel, making a cone shaped mound around the tree. When used on four and five year old trees the mounds should be torn down in about 28 days. On older trees it is advisable to remove the mounds in about six weeks.—Yours very truly, Julian Brown, Extension Horticulturist.

ALABAMA FARM NEWS

Tuscaloosa County reports especially good yields of soybeans and velvet beans. Farmers of the county expect to have plenty of feed.

Farmers of St. Clair County are planting approximately 800 acres to vetch and Austrian winter peas in an effort to improve their soils.

More than 20 Auburn-type laying houses have been built by farmers of Randolph County to help the fine crop of white leghorn pullets that are now beginning to lay.

J. C. Haynie, Pickens County, has produced a fine crop of lespedeza on a 10-acre field that has never produced a profitable crop of anything else because it is low and wet. He expects to cut 1 1-2 tons of hay per acre.

Having experienced favorable results from poisoning cotton for boll weevils this year, farmers of Wilcox County are planning to buy their poison when they plant their cotton next spring. They will buy a certain amount per acre, upon recommendation of County Agent W. A. Cammack.

The banks of Dadeville and Camp Hill are helping County Agent F. G. Wrenn in his efforts to encourage the planting of winter legumes and other soil improvement practices in Tallapoosa County. They are furnishing publicity through the local press, and intend to purchase certain equipment, such as farm levels, which the agent will need.

Ramie is a fiber-yielding plant, now cultivated commercially only in China and Japan, which might prove a desirable crop for the southern United States if it were possible to perfect a decorticating machine that would strip the fibers from the plant more economically than by the hand methods used in the Orient. This fact is revealed by a U. S. Department of Agriculture circular, "A Fiber-Yielding Plant," which has just been issued.

DISEASES OF CHICKENS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 23.—Roup and pox are two of the most dreaded poultry diseases at this season of the year according to G. A. Trollope, extension poultryman at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

These diseases cause little mortality, he says, but are dangerous because they infect birds and reduce egg production just when the market is approaching its peak.

There is considerable difference of opinion regarding the specific cause of these diseases, but the Auburn specialist points out that any factor which tends to lower the vitality or resistance of the fowl may be considered an indirect cause. He mentions chilling, worm infestations, and improper feeding, and urges that precautions be taken to prevent these disturbances.

"These diseases are transmitted from sick birds to healthy ones," Mr. Trollope continues, "and sick birds should be isolated for individual treatment. Or, if seriously infected should be killed and burned.

"Clean and disinfect houses, yards, hoppers, nests, and drinking vessels. A lye solution, two tablespoons to a gallon of water, is effective for a spray. A 20% solution of argyrol is a good antiseptic for the eyes and nostrils. Cankers should be removed from the throat and mouth and painted with iodine, mercurochrome, or powdered alum. In case of pox, grease the affected combs and head parts with a paste made of equal parts of vaseline and iodine. Lard may be substituted for vaseline. Supply plenty of green feed and milk. A crumbly moist mash once daily will encourage greater feed consumption."

The Kansas State Agricultural College is making tests to determine the effect of grass upon the coloring of beef.

On September 1 this year the cold-storage holdings of practically all the agricultural commodities that are held in storage were larger than on September 1 last year, the only important exception being case eggs, the holdings of which were 8,540,000 cases this year as compared to 9,944,000 cases last year says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Since 1920 population has increased about 9 per cent in the United States. This rate of increase is becoming less and less from year to year. On the basis of population trends for the past several years, the United States would have about 187,000,000 people by 2,000. These estimates are printed in a North Dakota Agricultural College bulletin.

CEDAR GROVE NEWS

For the first time in about three months the singing society met at Cedar Grove last Sunday afternoon in its monthly session. The crowd was not so large but there was good singing just the same.

We began the program by singing a song that will be in the new Showalter books, "The Rock of My Salvation." Those directing were Prof. J. W. Lowery, Hiram Littlejohn, Kermit Lowery and D. T. Mims. Organists were Mrs. Zelma Littlejohn and Miss Lela Melton. That beautiful old song, "The Church in the Wildwood," was sung as a male quartet. There were several visitors from other places that were welcomed and invited to come again. After announcing that we would meet at Liberty Hill, expecting the Sardis people to meet with us, the second Sunday in October we were dismissed by our chaplain, Bro. D. T. Melton.

We are hoping to meet at Cedar Grove next fourth Sunday with a larger crowd and more interest shown. Lay aside all excuses and come on.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphus Littlejohn spent a little while with Alphus's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Littlejohn, last Sunday.

Mrs. Houson Lowery's mother, Mrs. Lee Pate, was visiting her last Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Littlejohn had an enjoyable visit from Miss Mattie Payton last Sunday.

Mr. Leslie Thornton and Houston Melton had a delightful time together last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Lela Melton enjoyed a visit from Miss Rosa Lee Collins last Sunday.

Rev. Lynch filled his regular appointment here last Sunday and preached a sermon that was worth listening to.—Secretary.

Childbirth

a happy event

"Mother's Friend relieved me of the strain and the pain that came from the stretching of the skin and tissues," writes a young mother. "I did not suffer as I have heard other women say they did. My doctor recommended Mother's Friend to me."

Countless thousands of expectant mothers have had the same experience with "Mother's Friend." Naturally, mothers have recommended it to their daughters.

"Mother's Friend" is a scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever. It originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician, and has been in use for 60 years.

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Free Book "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 14, Atlanta, Ga.

REV. A. L. FOSHEE CHOSEN AS FRIENDSHIP PASTOR AGAIN

At a special called conference last Sunday night Rev. A. L. Foshee of Liberty Hill was chosen, without opposition, as pastor of the Friendship church.

Other officers of the church and Sunday School were: Church clerk, T. E. Wyatt; superintendent of Sunday School, T. E. Wyatt; secretary of Sunday school, Zebbie Gray; delegates to the association: T. G. Wyatt, W. J. Miner, J. D. Collins Sr., H. F. McCary, and alternate H. V. Honeycutt. A collection was raised for associational purposes.

As it was rather late when the business was all finished, the pastor decided not to preach but dismissed after the conference was finished.

On Sunday, September 15th, H. F. McCary and Ottis Miller were chosen to represent the Sunday school at the convention last Sunday at Sardis, but it is understood that neither attended.

Bro. Foshee says that he is going to appoint a committee among the members at Friendship, whose duty it will be to do some personal work the coming year in the community in the way of trying to boost the attendance at the church and Sunday school. We think that this is a noble idea and believe that it will work to great advantage.

FAIR VISITORS TO SEE AUBURN BOOTHS

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 24.—One of the features of the Alabama State Fair in Birmingham, September 30 to October 5, will be an educational exhibit by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. The committee arranging the exhibit is composed of J. T. High, J. C. Lowery, T. A. Sims, Miss May I. Cureton, Miss Bess Fleming, Otto Brown, and W. H. Gregory.

The exhibit arranged by this committee will occupy 304 feet of space, and will be arranged to instruct visitors in farm practices and home management.

Miss Cureton and Miss Fleming will be in charge of a series of demonstrations by 4-H club girls and farm women in cooking, basketry, rug making, and glove and leather work. There will also be botths showing what the farm women of Alaabma have done in earning incomes, canning fruit, and making baskets for sale. A similar exhibit will demonstrate the work done by 4-H club girls in making their own clothes.

Two booths prepared by W. H. Gregory will show the advantages of terracing and the value of two-horse cultivators. Julian Brown will have an exhibit picturing the advantages of spraying and pruning. A miniature model farm home showing outbuildings properly located and the grounds properly landscaped will be exhibited by S. F. Brewster.

J. D. Moore and J. B. Sylvest will prepare a miniature electric train illustrating the route traveled from producer to consumer by products sold cooperatively.

The value of winter legumes will be illustrated in a booth prepared by J. C. Lowery. How forest fires may be prevented is part of the lesson to be taught in an exhibition by Otto Brown. A plant disease exhibit by Dr. J. L. Seal will deal with the damage done to Alabama cotton by anthracnose, and point out control measures.

A 4-H boy's club exhibit is being prepared under the direction of T. A. Sims; a poultry exhibit by G. A. Trollope; and a 32-foot booth illustrating the work of Jefferson County home demonstration club women.

Mr. Howard L. Foshee, formerly superintendent of education of Chilton County, was a visitor to Clanton Monday. Mr. Foshee is now owner and manager of the Alabama School Supply Co., of Montgomery.

IN MEMORY

The Death Angel visited the home of Jim Wyatt and took him to a better world. He was a loving father and will greatly be missed in his home and community. He leaves a vacant place that no one can fill. He was not a Christian man but for a short time, altho he had felt it his duty for several years. But by some cause he did not render himself until a short time back.

He was seventy-four years of age when he was called to a better world. His death was not at all a surprise. He has been in poor health for several months. Since he has been suffering he said that he felt that he would be at ease when this life left him.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, three daughters and two sons, Mrs. F. M. Franklin, Mrs. George Sett, Miss Mary Lizza Wyatt, Mr. Emmett Wyatt, Mr. Tom Wyatt, and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren, four sisters and one brother, also a number of other close relatives and friends.

The funeral was conducted at Shiloh Baptist Church Sunday at the eleven o'clock hour, Rev. T. J. Deason officiating.—A Cousin.

Mr. J. A. Baker of Verbena Route 2, was among the visitors to Clanton Tuesday.

SHILOH

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. is still progressing nicely.

We are planning to put on an extra program next Sunday night and one interesting event to be give is the playlet, "What God Would Have To Happen."

Quite a large crowd from here attended the singing Saturday night given at the home of Miss Beulah Deason.

Mr. J. A. Dobbs and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dennis and Miss Ida Ray spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dobbs.

Misses Esther Ray and Minnie Bice spent Sunday with Misses Zula and Emma Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mullins and Mr. George Hayes and family spent Sunday at Mr. J. D. Mullins.

Miss Odes Dobbs was the guest of Misses Etta and Ethel Mullins Sunday.

Mr. Greeley Powell was the guest of Mr. Julius Mullins Sunday.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS

The sixth national egg-laying contest at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will open November 1, 1929, and continue for 11 months. Manager C. T. Bailey reports that entries are coming in faster than in past years. Birds from all parts of the United States are being entered.

The Marion County Farm Bureau has received 42,000 pounds of vetch and 4,000 pounds of Austrian winter peas which will be used for soil building.

Madison County farmers have purchased one carload of basic slag and two carloads of lime to use on land where winter legumes are to be planted.

Over 49,000 pounds of live poultry has been shipped from Escambia County this year. This represents rapid progress, since only 7,000 pounds was shipped two years ago.

The Sick Need the Physician

And it came to pass, as Jesus sat at meat in the house, behold, many publicans and sinners came and sat down with him and his disciples. And when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, Why eateth your Master with publicans and sinners? But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.—Matthew 10 to 13.

From BARN to BATH TUB

A farmer friend who owns two General Motors cars went to the city the other day and stopped in to see some cousins. They showed him around their new roof garden apartment, eighteen floors above the street, and proudly pointed out their Frigidaire in the pantry.

"Well," chuckled our farmer friend, "Mother has a garden full of old-fashioned flowers that she'd never trade for theirs . . . and as for the refrigerator, we have a bigger Frigidaire than they have!"

He also mentioned his Delco-Light power system and his DL water pump, which give him every other city convenience. As he often says himself, his farm is "General Motorized from barn to bath tub!"

It is perfectly true that General Motors, through its various units, offers even more to the farm family than to the city family. By applying methods of automobile production to home electric lighting and power plants, water pumping systems, and automatic refrigerators, General Motors can make the reliable kind of product that a farmer wants, at a price he can afford.

"A car for every purse and purpose"

HOW TO SAVE GASOLINE

Chevrolet Officials Tell How Motorists Could Save Much Gas By Attention To Details

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 25.—Millions of dollars could be saved annually by the automobile owning public thru a more strict observance of the factors that control the gasoline mileage offered by the average automobile, it was revealed in a survey on fuel economy completed today by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

A gain of from two to five miles on the gallon of gas could be effected, on the average, it was shown, if the motorist paid strict attention to the elements that govern fuel consumption.

The matter of economy has always been a factor of the uppermost importance with Chevrolet in the designing of its cars. Having brought the mileage to the highest point ever offered in a six cylinder car, Chevrolet sought to corral in this survey, the many seemingly unimportant details, which through carelessness or indifference on the part of the driver cut down the mileage that might be obtained through more intelligent handling of the car.

Manufacturers have been doing their utmost to make gains in the direction of greater mileage and now it is felt that with greater cooperation from the driver, motorists may ride millions of miles yearly at no extra fuel cost if the matter of watchfulness can make a sufficiently strong appeal.

Just how this attention to fuel economy brings its reward is illustrated in records of performances coming in to the company's offices, which show that although the Chevrolet six is expected to run approximately 20 miles to the gallon, motorists in various sections of the country are getting 23, 24 and 25 miles through just a little added attention to the matter.

The majority of items to be watched are rather obvious to the average automobile owner, but through an inadequate appreciation of their importance are commonly overlooked.

The survey sets down specifically a number of factors, which, if observed, should increase your mileage two to five miles to the gallon. They are:

1. When standing or waiting for the light to change, don't race your motor.
2. When you are to make a stop of more than a minute, turn off your motor.
3. Don't drive at excessive speeds unless the occasion demands. High speed travelling burns more gas.
4. Remember that the faster you drive the more gas you consume. So when you find that you are about out of gas and are heading for a gas station, take it slowly and your chances for negotiating the distance will be greater.
5. When starting watch the choke. Don't drive with the choke out a moment more than necessary.
6. Be sure that your brakes are not dragging. This cuts down your mileage. Get your brakes inspected frequently.
7. Have your valves ground when they need it.
7. See that the idling adjustment on your carburetor is set at the proper point so that the mixture is not too rich. If it is not at the proper point it gives you inefficient idling performance and wastes gas.
9. Don't fill your gas tank full to the cap, some will escape through the vent in the cap.
10. Don't ride the clutch.
11. Watch gas line for leaks at joints. Check it periodically to see that fittings are tight.
12. Be sure that spark is in fully advanced position.
13. Avoid excessive use of brakes in traffic.

Observance of these suggestions, the survey points out, will save money for the motorist and, add considerable mileage to your driving and reduce the number of necessary stops at the gasoline station.

B'HAM-SOUTHERN NEWS

Birmingham, Sept. 25.—Birmingham-Southern College leads 26 colleges of the M. E. Church, South, in enrollment, in the number of Methodist students, in the value of the campus property and in instructor's salaries, according to figures of the Yearbook number of the Christian Education Magazine published by the Church.

Birmingham-Southern has in the regular liberal arts department 975 students, Randolph Macon Woman's College is second and Central College is third. Birmingham-Southern also leads in the total number of students including Summer school and extension which is 2,109. In this grand total Centennary College is second and Central College third.

With 125 acres on a lofty ridge in the midst of the Birmingham industrial district, Birmingham-Southern has a campus valued at $1,000,000, three times the value of the property of any of the 26 colleges of the church.

Birmingham-Southern pays more for instructor's salaries than any of the Methodist colleges, according to the Yearbook figures. This is said by college authorities to indicate the quality of training of the instructors.

President Guy E. Snavely of Birmingham-Southern is president of the American Association of Colleges and of the national professional fraternity in education, Kappa Phi Kappa.

Tuscaloosa has been named a port of call for the newly established Delta Air Service. Planes will make a 10-minute stop daily at Druid City.

A campaign to obtain clothing for needy children of Tuscaloosa County has been started by Miss Mary Lee Gunter, charity organization head.

Gov. Bibb Graves has accepted the resignation of Judge C. E. Thomas as state superintendent of banks and indicated that he would appoint D. F. Green.

F. F. A. OF ISABELLA

The F. F. A. boys of Isabella met September 24, 1929 and held their regular meeting. Oliver Manning, our president, read to the boys that were not members, the constitution and by-laws, for them to go by, to see whether they were eligible to join the F. F. A. boys or not. We received the application of Oswald Mims and Hyman Atchison, and elected them in as members after they have took the initiation. After a short business meeting they adjourned. Mr. Earle Thomas, our teacher, gave us a little talk on some of our work to do in the future.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

SUBJECT: "CALVARY."

Near unto Jerusalem, just outside the city gate, just outside the northern walls of the city is a hill, and was a hill. That hill seems bare, and as you walk up it you can't help but be silent, still. It does not make any difference who owns the land. The Mohammedans own it. But you and I must look to the person who amid rending rocks and darkening skies died a lonely, forsaken life for your sins and for my sins.

There is the hill, and as you and I approach it we note that it has the resemblance of a human skull more than anything else. In the Hebrew it is called Golgotha, but in the Latin it is called Calvary which means bald. It certainly looks like a bald human skull. That must be the place because it most assuredly confirms three statements of the Bible: "Near to the city of Jerusalem, just outside its gate, just outside its walls." Right along by Calvary which we are now viewing the old road which leads there continues on down by Bethany and down to Jericho.

It is the road along which the people tried to spit on Christ. It is the road along which the angry mob walked to the scene of the crucifixion and cried out to Christ: "If thou art the Son of God come down from thy cross. We will see if Elijah will come and take you down. He saved others, Himself He can not save." Along this road walked the indifferent multitude who stood beholding Christ as He was crucified. Along this road we see a man about thrity-three years of age, weary, worn, tired, hungry, and rejected and refused. He staggers and falls beneath the load of a great olive wooden cross, and the load of your sins and my sins, the representative of the whole world's salvation.

Now here comes along a representative of Cyrenia, Simon the Cyrenian. He lifts up the cross, and places it upon his shoulders and walks up that hill. The cross is laid on the ground. Jesus Christ is outstretched upon it, and great spikes are driven through His hands and feet. Then the cross is uplifted in haste and thrown down into a hole dug for the purpose. O how it must have sent the most horrible pangs of suffering through His already suffering body. Words can not express the suffering of the Saviour with His broken heart.

But in all that suffering Christ amid the click of the Gentile hammer uttered the greatest words of all His life. In His great sacrifice for humanity He said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Jesus had taught His disciples to pray, "Our Father," and right on the cross He says, "Just forgive them, Father, for they know not what they do." You know I hear a great deal about prayer bands nowa-days, but I never see any of its members going into the Sunday School room, or visiting with the teachers in prayer. Jesus taught us to pray to our Father in heaven.

There the cross is uplifted. Christ says, I, if I be lifted up from the earth will draw all men unto me. As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up." Uplifting the bloody Christ on that cross must have sent thrills of agony through His broken heart. You know to be crucified was to torture to death. Two thieves who deserved punishment were taken along and placed on a cross, one on His right side and one on His left. One said to Christ, "Lord, remember me when thou art in paradise." Jesus said to him, "Today thou shalt be with me in paradise." That is how Christ treated that poor man.

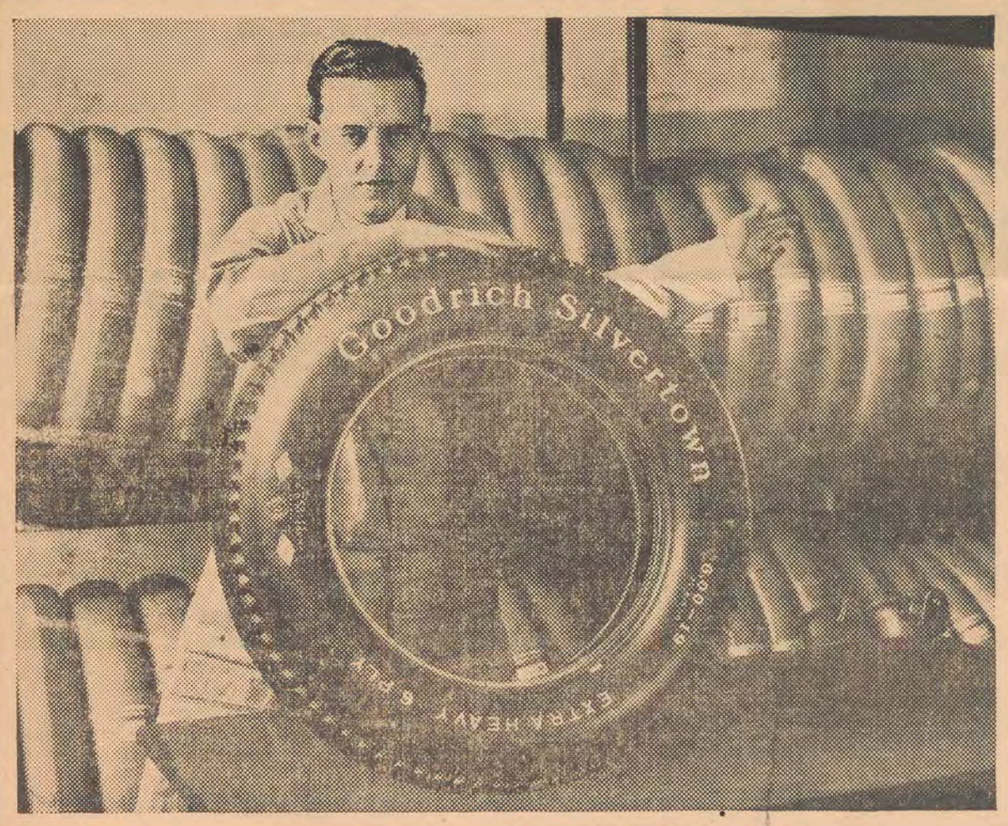
I see humble, helpless men and women every day. What would Christ do when He comes in contact with them? He is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother to them. Did you know that friendship is the holiest relationship of life? Now there stood by the cross of Jesus His mother. Jesus looking upon His mother and the disciple whom He loved, saith to His mother, "Woman, behold thy son!" Then to John, "Behold thy mother!" O how her heart was broken for her son's awful suffering there. The Greek interpretation of the word "woman" has a deeper, more tender meaning than any other title. There Jesus addressed His mother with that tender word "woman," expressing the tenderest love for her.

Christ had eaten nothing for three days. No doubt He prayed all day before standing at the judgment hall of Pontius Pilate. Thorns cut thru His forehead from the crown of thorns which the enemy placed upon Him to present Him in mockery before Pontius Pilate. No doubt that crown of thorns cut through the flesh and scraped the bones. All of this shows how human, and yet how divine was this Jesus of Calvary. He was in the Father's will. We must be in the Father's will for Christ to dwell in us. We must have the spirit of Christ dwelling richly in us.

There on the cross the enemy gave or offered Christ a stimulant. It might have been alcohol. But Christ refused it, settling the plan whereby we are made free in Christ. That was the cup Christ drank for our salvation from sin. There is nothing in this world which forgives and washes away our sins but the blood of Jesus Christ which was spilled there on Calvary. The great thing we must do is to get the spirit which Christ had there on that rough and rugged cross of suffering and submission. The next thing which Christ spoke there on the cross was, "Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani?" or "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" O, how hard it all seemed as God veiled His face from His only begotten Son in His great suffering.

As I stood on Calvary's hill I thought of the fact that it was not the hill I wished to see, but it was Christ I was seeking to see. I wanted to see the Christ who died there of a broken heart for you and for me. I wanted to see the Christ who settled it in drops of blood as sweat upon His brow in Gethsemane as He prayed, "Father, if it be possible let this cup pass from me, nevertheless not my will, but Thine be done." There it was settled in that prayer. Men are not saved unless they are daily looking to this bloody Christ of Calvary.

CANE CREEK



Our singing society met here Sunday afternoon. The chairman, Mr. E. C. Traywick, sung the opening song. Prayer was offered by P. C. Weldon. Then a committee was appointed, Floyd Little, J. D. Collins Jr., and Curtis Parrish to arrange the program. The following are the ones who sang from one to two songs each: Mr. W. L. Sanders, S. L. Baker, Floyd Little, Tommie Mims, Joe Clackler, Mrs. Zula Retherford, Misses Virgie Giles, Delene Lambert, Annie Cleckler, Lillie Mae Weldon, Weston Littlefield, Mr. Royal Coggins, and Jasper Oaks. Organists were Mrs. Annie Robinson, Mr. Tommie Mims, Miss Vergie Giles and Lillie Mae Weldon. This was the last singing we will have in the 1929 song book and it was the best we have had this year. It seemed that everybody came in the spirit to sing and that is just what was done. We thank all the visitors who came and helped us and invite you back again on the fourth Sunday afternoon in each month. We are going to get song books for the society to have to use this next year. That is one thing we have been failing to do, and we want to make the singing better. We will have the new books here next Sunday morning, and we want to meet a little early to sing some before Sunday school. The Sunday school is at 10 o'clock, so we want to try to meet at 9:30. Visitors are always welcome.

BIG BOX SUPPER

There will be a big box supper at Mt. Pisgah church on Saturday night, September 28. There will also be a pretty girl's cake and a free entertainment. All the girls are urged to come and bring boxes and the boys bring money. Everybody is invited and a good time is assured everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. Payne Bryan and Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Webb stopped off to visit Miss Elizabeth Stalling at the dormitory Saturday evening.

The Ladies Guild gave their annual reception to the students and teachers last Friday night. After a short but interesting program was give the rest of the evening was given over to games and getting acquainted. Delicious refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cookies and punch were served late in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Townsend were visitors in Birmingham last Saturday.

As there will be Teacher's Institute in Clanton next Monday and Tuesday there will be no school at the Public School those days.

Mr. Howard Garrick's mother is spending the week here this week.

Grandma Williams, mother of Mr. C. M. Williams, met with a painful accident last Friday when she was sitting in the porch swing. One of the screws broke and let the swing and herself down onto her foot. It was thought no bones were broken and we trust she will soon be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton returned from a seven weeks visit with their son, Sereno, at Brunswick, Ga.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen returned home last Wedensday after spending a couple of weeks visiting her son's families, A. P. Villadsen of Tuscaloosa, and Reno Villadsen of Aldridge, Ala.

Miss Anna Nelson left Monday for Jacksonville where she will attend the State Normal school.

Encourage Child Talent Advises Famous Singer

Evelyn Wilson Denies That Prodigies Are Unhappy

New York City.—"It is never too early to begin encouraging talented children," declares Evelyn Wilson, well-known singer and dancer. Miss Wilson scoffs at the theory that infant prodigies should be discouraged until they have enjoyed a "happy, normal childhood."

"I know that many modern child psychologists believe that children should be made to take an equal interest in everything, that their health and welfare are imperilled if they are permitted to begin developing natural talent in music or the arts at too early an age," she admits.

"Well, I hate to think of what my chance for a 'happy normal childhood' would have been if my parents had accepted this theory. I know that I wanted to sing as soon as I began to make noises of any kind. Recognizing what talent I had, my mother and father encouraged it. At five, I appeared on the stage of a nickelodeon in Chicago. But I did not, despite the theorists, from that moment become a spoiled, precocious child.

"This childish glimpse of the use to which I could put my talent, this sight of the pleasures it might give others, was an inspiration for hard study.

"Talented children of today are fortunate in that modern American songs provide themes suitable for singers of all ages. There are plenty of gay, rollicksome songs that any parent would endorse whole-heartedly, for instance, 'My Dear,' a waltz ballad which is really good music with well written lyrics, yet very popular. The field of songs is now so broad that one can get a good song any day."

JAKE BENZIGER GONE TO GEORGIA

For 16 Years He Has Been With Ala. Power Co. In Charge Coosa Plants

After more than 16 years with Alabama Power Company, J. U. (Jake) Benziger has resigned his position and taken up work with Georgia Power Company.

In his resignation, Alabama Power Company loses one of its oldest and most valued employees. But it loses more than that, for "Jake," as he is known to hundreds of friends thruout the organization, is an institution, almost as much a part of the Company as one of its plants and every bit as substantial.

For 16 years he has stood for absolute dependability, fidelity to duty, his employers and friends, and the highest character of service. Never in the long years of his connection with the Company has Jake failed to "deliver the goods" and in this period he has faced many trying situations.

Second only to the high character of his personal service has been his development in the plants under his supervision of an efficient operating staff, imbued with his ideals of service.

Career Is Interesting

As interesting as his record with the Power Company is his career before entering its employ. He spent his boyhood days at Knoxville, Tenn., where he received his education. At the age of 23, he started work with the Knoxville Railway and Light Company where he met J. Link, a forceful and interesting character who is known to many of our readers. It is a common idea that engineers in general lack "color" but this would never be said of Mr. Link or Mr. Benziger by any who know them.

In 1906, his restless energy carried Jake out of Knoxville and into the employ of General Electric Company. He must have made a very favorable impression as he was immediately sent to Havana, Cuba, where he remained until the latter part of 1907. Leaving Havana, he took up work with the Guiline & Company at Bahia, Brazil. It is easy to surmise that the work on the frontier, so far as engineering activity and progress are concerned, developed in him the latent resourcefulness and confidence which are two of his strong characteristics.

While in Bahia, Mr. Benziger made a trip to Rio Janeiro, putting a new plant there into operation.

With General Electric

In 1909, Mr. Benziger returned to the United States with General Electric Company and remained with them as an erection engineer until 1912. During this time he had very valuable experience, returning to Havana, Cuba and making a trip to Canada, and also doing considerable work in Mexico, part of the time in the Northern section and later down below Vera Cruz. But we were somewhat surprised to find that Mr. Benziger had sea going experience, having traveled as observer on one of the United Fruit Company boats.

Terminating his work with the General Electric Company in 1912, Jake took up work with the Canadian Locomotive Company at Kingston, Ontario, Canada, where he had charge of the power generating plant and all of the motor and other electrical equipment in the manufacturing plant.

Mr. Benziger came to Alabama Power Company directly from Canada and immediately demonstrated his ability to operate and maintain power plant equipment. His first job with the Company was the completion of Gadsden steam plant from which he went to Lock 12 on January 1, 1914.

His wide experience in erecting, operating and maintaining equipment made his opinions on questions of design of high value and he was often called into consultation with the Engineering Department.

Was Consulted Often

His wide contact with men developed an understanding and appreciation of men which is of high value to an executive.

Jake has long had a record as a good host and scores of letters came to him from visitors entertained by him when visiting our system. The host of friends among the employees of the Company and throughout the State wish him the best of success in his new job. They will miss him at Mitchell Dam and his frequent visits to the Birmingham office, but are happy that he continues with the big family here in the Southeast.

Georgia Power Company is to be highly congratulated on securing so energetic, loyal and highly efficient an employee.—Powergrams.

Husband Took Wife Away From Father

A man from Montgomery, whose name we could not learn, went to Birmingham last Sunday and took his daughter, Louise, away from Charles A. Mooney, the man whom she had married.

As they were returning to Montgomery they stopped their car down in South Clanton. When the father got out for something and left the car a short distance, Mr. Mooney came up in another car and it is said forced the woman to get into his car. Whereupon he turned back toward Birmingham with his wife in the car.

When the father found what had happened he phoned to the police in Clanton to hold the man and woman. They came through town at high speed and the officers took after them.

They chased the speeding car up the highway this side of Thorsby until it stopped. The officers ran by and turned around as quick as they could and came back to the car, but the man and woman had vanished through a corn field and have not been seen since.

The officers brought the car back to Clanton where it is being held for further developments. It is said that the car which Mooney had was a stolen car, but that story has not yet been verified.

Mrs. Ed Bruce At Fair This Week

Mr. Ed Bruce reports that Mrs. Bruce got to Birmingham with her Chilton County exhibit and had it ready for the opening of the Fair Monday morning.

"We invite everybody from Chilton County who attends the Fair to go around and see the Chilton County exhibit. We received a lot of mighty fine things in the last few days, and we believe we have the best showing that Chilton County has ever had."

Mrs. Bruce has had years of experience in the exhibition of agricultural and home products. She has been a prize winner with her Chilton County exhibit for many years. Her efforts in this work have done much to bring our county to the attention of the State of Alabama. We hope she brings down a nice lot of prizes again this year.

Short Course For Farmers Wanted

Kiwanis Club Makes Application To Harvester Company For Two Day Event

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton has made application to the International Harvester Company to have them include Clanton in one of the Agricultural Extension Short Courses for farmers this fall.

In response to the invitation it is expected that an advance man for the Harvester Company will be here soon to lay out plans for preliminary arrangements for this meeting.

The plan of the company is to send a corps of its expert and experienced workers and lecturers here for two days, during which time the farmers and their wives and families will be invited to a series of very valuable and instructive meetings.

More complete details of the proposition will be given as the plans progress further. But we desire to say to our farm readers that we hope they will look out for this program and be prepared to take it in from first to last. The International Harvester Company is prepared to do and is doing a great work along the line of agricultural extension. The course which they will bring to Chilton County farmers will be worth a great deal if properly utilized by our people.

Kin Vinson Gone To Milledgeville

Mr. Kin Vinson has been called back into service with Dixie Construction Company. He left last week to take up his duties at Milledgeville, Georgia, where the Dixie Company is beginning to build a huge hydro-electric plant on the Oconee River.

During the past summer Mr. Vinson has been on leave of absence from Dixie Construction Company and has been passing the time away by selling Fords for Clanton Motors. He expects to take his family to live in Milledgeville as soon as he gets things straightened out over there.

J. U. BENZIGER

JOHN L. HOLLIS

In the removal of Mr. Benziger to Georgia, Chilton County loses a man who for many years, while discharging faithfully and without fault, his duties with the Alabama Power Company, has at the same time been a potent factor in the progress of this section of Alabama. With all his busy work with the Power Company, Mr. Benziger has found time to devote himself unselfishly toward the upbuilding of Chilton County. He has taken an active interest in civic affairs and industrial development of this community. As a member of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, he has made his vision and influence felt in many ways toward furthering the many ideals and objectives that are the first concern of Kiwanis Club activity.

Mr. Hollis, who takes the place of Mr. Benziger at Mitchell Dam, is a man of great promise. He has demonstrated his power to rise and meet greater responsibilities. His many friends in this section of Alabama are glad that he has been so distinctly recognized by his company.

Clanton Wins Over Isabella First Tilt

Centreville Team Will Play Here Friday Afternoon Of This Week

Beginning the season with a smashing victory Clanton got off to a good start in the football season Monday, September 30. It was a cloudy, rainy afternoon, but despite this some real good work was done. Isabella kicked off and R. J. Jones got the first tackle of the season. Benson Sims showed up well as quarterback. Retherford will come out into great form when he meets real competition as is expected Friday. Rufus Brown is expected to show up exceptionally well at end. Brown can really hit 'em hard. Clanton ran wild over Isabella. However, in spite of the local team running wild they showed good early season form that will serve them well when they meet stiffer competition. The rain slowed the game up somewhat. Clanton realizes that quite a bit of rounding out is needed before a real teamwork is shown. The line averages about 160 pounds and the backfield about 140. The final score in this game was 32 to 0 in favor of Clanton.

On next Friday afternoon Centerville will venture out on the local field. Centerville is bringing a strong team to Clanton and will give Clanton a real scrap. This game is expected to be one of the hardest games of the season. Centerville will be one of the strongest teams in this district and will certainly do her best to take the game, but the Clanton boys say they are going to hold Centerville.

Everybody turn out and see a real game. Let's everybody support the team. Admisison 20 and 35 cents.

CLANTON MEN WILL VISIT PRATTVILLE

At the request of the Prattville Chamber of Commerce, County Agent C. E. Stapp, accompanied by J. N. Dennis, W. T. Bean, and H. G. Boyd, will attend a meeting there to-night (Thursday) in the interest of the strawberry business.

For the past year or two Prattville has been seeking to develop a strawberry shipping center, and it is in furtherance of this movement that they have asked a number of our experienced growers to meet with them on this occasion.

UNCLE MACK DUNCAN BURIED AT NEW SALEM TUESDAY A. M.

Andrew Jackson (Mack) Duncan, age 80, died at his home on the old highway north of town Monday morning of this week. The remains were buried by Martin at New Salem Tuesday morning. Rev. W. P. Lowery conducted the funeral services.

Mr. Duncan is survived by his second wife, one son, Joe Duncan of Lomax, and one daughter, Mrs. Oscar Culp of Birmingham. He was the father of John Duncan who died here ten or twelve years ago.

Prominent Planter Will Give A Party

Lee Wilson of Arkansas Invites Editor of The Union-Banner To Barbecue

On Thursday, October 10, R. E. Lee Wilson of Wilson, Arkansas, expects to have a farmer's "Get-Together-Barbecue" for the purpose of visiting his properties and inspecting his system of cotton farming, as practiced by him on 20,000 acres of Mississippi County Arkansas' rich alluvial land. Mr. Wilson gave a barbecue similar to this one last year, at which were present about 3000 guests, which included farmers, agricultural experts and business men from the States of Missouri, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Arkansas and the Carolinas. This year plans are being made to entertain possibly 5000 guests from the same territory.

Special reduced rates on nearly all railroads will be offered to this event and great preparations are under way at Wilson to take care of the crowd which seems certain will be present.

The object of the barbecue is to give farmers, all over the South, an opportunity of observing the methods of breeding and growing Wilson Type Big Boll cotton and the manner of handling the planting seed of this variety in the very extensive warehouses at Wilson.

Mr. Wilson's cotton breeding work is handled by M. W. H. Collins, who is the plant breeder in charge. Mr. Collins has extensive experiments under way on his well equipped experiment field and will have a great deal of interesting breeding work to show the visitors. It will be well worth the time of any cotton grower in the South to attend this meeting; not only to see this variety of cotton in its home but to inspect the operation of this mammoth plantation at first hand, and at a time when all of its people will be taking a day off just especially to explain things to the visitors.

WALTER PETERSON ON HIS WAY HOME

The Union-Banner has received a card from Walter L. Peterson at Salt Lake City, Utah, saying that he is en route Los Angeles, Detroit, Thorsby. The card he sent has attached to it a cute little sack of salt from the Great Salt Lake.

Mr. Peterson has been with the U. S. Navy in Pacific waters for a couple of years past. We presume he is to come home on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson, at Thorsby.

REVIVAL AT JEMISON BEGINS NEXT SUNDAY

Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the Jemison Baptist church, announces that a series of revival meetings will begin there next Sunday. The pastor will be assisted in the meeting by Rev. R. F. Stuckey of Tarrant, Ala.

Everybody is accorded a welcome.

John Hollis Gets Mitchell Dam Plant

John L. Hollis, Superintendent at Mitchell Dam, has been placed in full charge of the Mitchell hydro- plant since J. U. Benziger, Superintendent of Coosa River plants, has resigned to take up work with Georgia Power Company.

Mr. Hollis has moved up steadily in the organization since he began work with Dixie Construction Company on Mitchell Dam on November 14, 1921. On the completion of Mitchell, he entered the service of the Production Department there as a mechanic on September 1, 1923, being promoted a number of times, finally reaching the posts of Assistant Superintendent and Superintendent.

John Hollis' record with the Company is a tribute to his "sticktoitiveness." He is a man of great mechanical skill and in handling successfully the many problems incident to his various positions, he has demonstrated dependability under all conditions. Excellent service while on loan to affiliated companies is also to his credit. While he is a man of few words, he has a very warm nature which is so well exemplified in his family life.

Mr. Hollis, Superintendent of Mitchell Dam, S. R. Powers, Superintendent of Lock 12, and H. B. Cox, Superintendent of Jordan Dam, will each report directly to the Birmingham office in the future, the Production Department announces.—Powergrams.

Wreck Here Sunday

A bunch of college boys on their way back to Auburn, happened to a wreck on the highway above town Sunday afternoon in which one of the party who lives at Ashland, was hurt, and the old Ford in which they were traveling was pretty badly demolished.

The boys had stopped their car alongside the highway for something just north of the bridge above town. While they were parked, a new Ford coming south swiped into them. Both cars were seriously injured and had to be put in the repair shop. The father of the injured boy came after him Monday and carried him back to his home at Ashland.

Trustees Favor Re-Districting County

Proposed Plan Would Put Equal Funds Back of Every School Child

At the meeting of county school trustees last Friday those in attendance at the meeting voted unanimously in favor of the proposal of the county school board to form the whole of Chilton County into two school districts.

Under the proposal District C. will remain the same as it now is in the extreme northwest part of the county. All the balance of the county will be included in district A.

Following the unanimous action of the school trustees in endorsing the proposal, the county board of education passed a resolution asking the commissioners court to order an election at which the people of the county will have a chance to pass on the question of the new arrangement of districts.

Superintendent Lawrence points out that the proposal for redistricting the county is based upon a definite calculation of school funds whereby there would be exactly the same number of dollars available for every school child in the county, no matter where he or she may live.

Aged Negro Man Killed By Auto

Old Uncle Dave Ziegler, a grizzly old negro of 80 years, was killed by an automobile near Mt. Creek last Friday afternoon. His home was at Marbury, and he was well known by lots of folks in the southern part of this county.

Reports say that Uncle Dave was walking along the edge of the cement and a car overtook him and stopped to pick him up. About the time the car came to a standstill two other cars attempted to meet right at this point. One of the cars swerved around the car that was stopped and struck the old negro, killing him almost instantly. A negro woman was with him, and she was injured rather severely.

The remains of the old darkey were buried at Lilly Hill cemetery 4 miles out from Verbena, Saturday afternoon.

170 TEACHERS HERE THIS WEEK

Every Teacher In County Was Present At The Institute Monday and Tuesday

The school teachers of Chilton County registered 100 per cent attendance at the Institute held at the Chilton County High School Monday and Tuesday of this week. The full number of teachers who will teach in the county this year, 170, were present.

Superintendent Buford Lawrence expresses pleasure at the spirit of enthusiasm which was evident in the minds of the teachers. "Every one seemed thoroughly interested in the work," said he, "and I predict that those teachers who constitute our personnel for the county this year are going to give us the best that is in them, and that means good school work, for we have a corps of the best teachers."

Miss Norma Smith of the State Department of Education at Montgomery was present throughout the Institute as director in charge of the work.

Dr. J. S. Thomas, of the University of Alabama was with the teachers Monday morning. He delivered a wonderful inspirational address dealing with the readjustment of our school system to meet the swiftly changing economic conditions.

Tuesday Frank L. Grove, Secretary of the Alabama Education Association delivered the principal address of the day. The teachers of the county enrolled 100 per cent as members of the Alabama Education Association.

Throughout the sessions of the meeting regular routine methods of school work were gone over with the teachers, with special emphasis placed upon getting acquainted with some new phases of the work which will be introduced this year.

The teachers completed their work on Tuesday afternoon, and departed for their respective places with everything ready for the schools to open Wednesday morning.

JAPANESE PERSIMMONS FROM THORSBY, ALABAMA

Mr. Fred Howard of Thorsby has brought to The Union-Banner a few samples of fine Japanese Persimmons which grew in his orchard. The fruit is much larger than the old-fashioned piney woods variety, or 'possum 'simmons.

If a 'possum should find one of Mr. Howard's persimmons on a tree, he would doubtless have a fit. About one or two of them would make him so fat he couldn't walk.

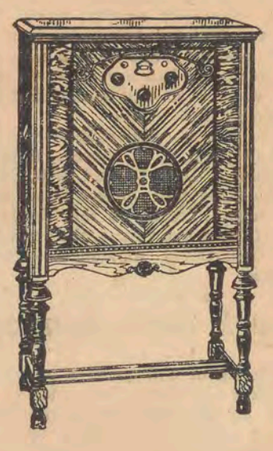
ATWATER KENT SCREEN-GRID RADIO



Listen to the WORLD SERIES!

Hear all the big sport events

TONE so clear and sharp that you can hear the crack of the bat—the roar of the crowd—and know it's a homer before the announcer speaks.

There's never been a set like this one—and there isn't another like it now. Listening will show you how it's better—and we'll be glad to tell you why. Let us—today!

ATWATER KENT RADIO is nearly seven years old. For twenty years before radio came we were making electrical instruments by methods of precision. Every Atwater Kent set is the product of long experience in making things that work and keep on working.

The public's liking for such things has compelled us to double the size of our factory. It was already the largest radio factory in the world—covering nearly fifteen acres of floor space; now its floor space covers thirty two acres. This is a greater area than would be covered by three Yale Bowls or twenty-eight football fields.

BETTER MARKETING NEEDED SAYS KNAPP

Montgomery, Ala., October 1.—"If agriculture as a whole is to succeed there must be a better management of agricultural affairs, particularily along the line of marketing," Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, recently said to a group of farmers and business men of Alabama assembled at Atmore. He added that "one of the main advantages promised by the Federal Farm Board is better distribution and more efficient marketing of farm products and that this Board is endeavoring to give maximum service to the farmers of the nation through their cooperative organization."

Continuing he said, "I wish that business men and farmers as well, realized that the only way yet designated by Congress and the thinking people of this country to help agriculture come back to an era of prosperity is through cooperative marketing on a large scale. The president of the United States, the Congress, the Federal Farm Board and farmer organizations representing millions of farmers believe that this is the case. Indeed, they know it is true.

"In the past there has been a very lukewarm attitude on the part of many business men towards cooperative organizations among farmers. If the farmers of Alabama and of the United States are to get full benefits from this act it is perfectly apparent that the membership in cooperative organizations must increase and the volume of business handled by such organizations augmented."—L. O. Brackeen.

$1,000,000 PROFIT BY WINTER LEGUMES

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 1.—Alabama farmers are now planting a crop of winter legumes which will under favorable conditions make them a profit of nearly $1,000,000. They are planting 1,260,000 pounds of hairy vetch seed and Austrian Winter peas which they purchased cooperatively from the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. These seed will plant 50,000 acres of winter legumes.

The estimated profit given above is based on figures released by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, Auburn, who has made a study of how much farmers can expect to profit by growing winter legumes. He says:

"Winter legumes have increased in popularity because farmers have made greatly increased corn yields following these crops. A survey was made in 1927 to determine the increase farmers were getting from vetch or Austrian winter peas. This survey covered every section of the state. The results show that they made an average increase of 22 bushels of corn per acre. The experiment station said a fifteen to eighteen bushel yield of corn would be doubled by turning under vetch.

"Suppose a sack of vetch is planted at the rate of 20 pounds per acre. This means ten acres in vetch, or 220 bushels of corn increase from one sack of vetch. This will be worth around $220. The bag of vetch seed will cost about $25 including inoculation. Two tons of slag needed as a supply of phosphate will cost about $18 or a total cost of $43 for seeding one bag with an increase of $220 worth of corn leaving a profit of $177."

If ten acres will make a profit of $177, then a little figuring will show one acre making a profit of $17.70. Fifty thousand acres will show a profit to farmers of $885,000.—L. O. Brackeen.

BUREAU GIVES LIFE INSURANCE POLICY

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 1.—Plans have been completed for the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation to give its members a life insurance policy after November 1, 1929. These plans are now being presented by the district agents and state farm bureau officials to county farm bureau officials for ratification. Several county farm bureaus have already ratified the plan. Members living in the counties accepting the proposition will be automatically insured after November 1 this year.

Size of the policy to be given each member depends on their age. If a member is 45 years of age and under he will get a policy for $200. Members 46 to 50 years of age will receive a $160 policy; 51 to 55 years $160; 56 to 60 years $80; 61 to 65 years $60; and 66 and up $40.

It is recognized that the above amounts, while providing a substantial benefit in the case of death, or total and permanent disability, are wholly inadequate for the insurance needs of the average farmer. Hence the purpose of the Bureau in providing these minimum policies of life insurance is to make possible the purchase of additional insurance by its members at the very lowest rate obtainable.

Members may apply for additional insurance in amounts of $600 to $3,000, depending on his age, at the lowest group rate. The policy provides that the member will be paid the face amount if he is permanently and totally disabled. It is automatically cancelled upon withdrawal of the member from the Farm Bureau.

The insurance will be carried in the Protective Life Insurance Company, and will be old line legal reserve life insurance. Each member will have a certificate of insurance with that company in accordance with the above plan and all of the insurance is secured by the deposit of approved securities with the State Treasurer of Alabama.—L. O. Brackeen.

The purchase of a combine harvester for harvesting soybeans is advisable only when the job of threshing per season is at least 100 acres of soybeans or 100 acres of soybeans and small grains.

Dairy herd improvement associations are becoming more popular in Alabama. Dairymen are learning that the only way they can really know their cows is to make accurate tests.

Motherhood

massage brings comfort

Complete relaxation and comfort is very necessary to the expectant mother's well being. Nervousness, discomfort and pain exhausts that strength so vital at this particular time.

Thousands and thousands of expectant mothers have passed through this period in their lives with the aid of "Mother's Friend," that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician.

Mother's Friend lessens pain

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is not a drug to be taken. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Free Book "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 10, Atlanta, Ga.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

EXPERTS NAME SMALL GRAINS FOR PASTURE

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 1.—Pointing out that the most economical feed for Alabama livestock is supplied by pasture, F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, and J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, say that for pasturage during late winter and early spring three of the small grains, oats, rye, and barley, are very valuable.

They suggest a practice that many farmers have found practicable. It is to sow a large acreage in oats and graze heavily until the first week in March. At that time part of the field may be fenced off, top-dressed with nitrate of soda, and allowed to mature grain. The mature oats will furnish grazing during a period when it is very difficult to have other grazing crops.

They warn farmers to keep stock off the grain until the nitrate of soda is taken up by the plants.

Another valuable practice they advocate is to have a field of oats and a field of rye and alternate the grazing from week to week. In this way too long and too close grazing is prevented. They recommend sowing two to three bushels per acre of either the Rust Proof or Winter Turf varieties of oats in September or October. Winter Turf is the safest variety for north Alabama. Handled right under average Alabama conditions oats will furnish grazing from September to May.

Rye is a hardy plant and will stand much abuse. The spscialists suggest drilling three to four pecks per acre of Abruzzi rye in September or October. Rye will furnish grazing earlier than oats.

Barley may be grown on good soil. The drilling of Tennessee Winter barley in September or early October at the rate of two bushels per acre is recommended. The usual grazing period for barley is from September to May.

The Auburn workers urge farmers to consult their county agents for information about these crops.

BROILER RAISERS MAY GET PROFIT

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 1.—Opportunity of making an income from $50 to $100 by raising 500 broilers for carlot or express shipment in January when the market is expected to reach its peak is being suggested to Alabama poutlrymen by county agents and G. A. Trollope, extension poultryman at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Eight counties have already made plans to produce a carload of broilers. Others are expected to follow suit. Twelve more counties have begun work toward producing large express shipments. Covington, Butler, Lamar, Macon, Geneva, Randolph, Marion, and Fayette are the eight counties that are making preparations to ship a carload.

In the counties named 40 poultrymen have agreed to purchase 500 chicks cooperatively about November 1 from Alabama accredited hatcheries. Assuming that 12 per cent of the chicks die the 40 poultrymen will raise 17,600 chicks, which will be enough for a carlot shipment. In counties where too few broilers for a carload are produced they will be handled by express or sold locally.

Chicks hatched about November 1 will be ready for the high broiler market of January or February, and should range between 35 cents and 40 cents per pound. At 35 cents the 440 broilers which a poultryman can expect to raise if he starts with 500 would bring $231.00. The chicks will cost about 13 cents each or $65. Feed for the 9-week period would amount to about $75. Other costs, that is for brooding, green feed, house, depreciation, interest, and the like are estimated at $10.00 This makes the broilers cost a total of $150.00, which leaves a profitable return for the labor of $81.00 on the 500-chick unit.

These figures are given by Mr. Trollope. He says that they represent a conservative average and indicate the actual result that may be expected.

FARM BRIEFS

For best production from pullets put them in the laying house before production starts.

A good pasture increase the "content" in contented cows. Now is the time to plant small grain pastures.

A cheap bull is about the most expensive investment a livestock man can make.

Flower beds and borders should be cleaned out in the fall to destroy disease fungi which live over winter in plant residues.

There is enough difference between good and poor seed to determine whether the farmer produces at a profit or at a loss. Select good seed corn in the field.

Contrary to popular belief, azaleas and rhododendrons can be started from seed. This fact has been proved by B. Y. Morrison, federal research worker. He tells of his success in Circular 68-C, just published for free distribution by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington.

WHY EGGS ARE GOOD TO EAT

Whenever I have occasion to discuss the food value of eggs, I am reminded of a story told me some years ago by a New York social service worker. A group of children from the congested Bowery District were making their first visit to the country. One typical little gamin was asked how he liked the nice country eggs. "Aw, dey ain't no good," was the reply.

"Why, what's wrong with them?" he was asked.

"Well," explained the youngster, "dey ain't got no smell and dey ain't got no taste!"

However desirable those two elements may be in most foods, most of us will be perfectly willing to dispense with them in eggs. There are, however, numerous other qualities of such value that we cannot afford to be without them. Practically all the elements which contribute to the building up and maintaining a healthy condition of the human body are present in eggs. Statistics show that the American people consume but little over one-half an egg each per day per capita for all users. This is not nearly enough. We should eat and use more eggs.

Compare them with beefsteak, for instance. At 40c a dozen, twelve eggs give you more food value, penny for penny, than a pound of steak at 45c, and don't forget there are no bones in the eggs. On a weight basis, eggs compete successfully with meat in almost every report. They have at least as great protein content, and are more valuable sources of iron than any meat except perhaps liver.

As for those much discussed but little understood food elements, the vitamines, eggs compare most favorably with other fods. Nobody knows what vitamines are, but what they can do is fairly well understood. Weight for weight, eggs contain ten times as much vitamine A as milk. While it is true we use much more milk at a time than we do eggs, their great vitamine A content makes them a valuable addition to milk. As vitamine A is credited by competent investigators with helping to prevent diseases of the lungs, the importance of eggs in the diet is readily appreciated. Eggs and milk have long played an important part in the diet of tubercular patients.

Eggs are quite as rich as milk in vitamine B. This member of that mysterious family is the one which aids bodily growth and gives protection against neuritic disorders. Getting on down the vitamine alphabet we find eggs comparatively rich in vitamine D, the one which prevents rickets. Generaly speaking, they have less value in this particular than cod liver oil. They contain quite enough of this element, however, to make them valuable substitutes for the oil for people whose stomachs refuse to retain it. A daily ration of egg yolks will prevent rickets and, in many cases, heal rickets that have already started.

Having justified our title in one sense by showing the value of eggs as food, it would not be amiss to show that eggs are good to eat in still another sense. While few of us would care for the racy tang demanded by the youngster quoted at the beginning, it can not be denied that eggs are ever popular because they have a most agreeable flavor all their own. Served in the simplest manner, they are always acceptable. As a garnish for various vegetables, salads and other dishes, they are both attractive and palatable. But what would we do for cakes, pies, pastries, of all kinds, and other dishes were it not for eggs?

Thus in hundreds of ways the egg insinuates its health giving and body building values into our daily menu. Unlike other foods that are good for us, the egg is something that can appear in some form or other at every meal without making us tire of it. This is good, for the egg is one of the most valuable of all the many things used for human food. We can hardly eat too many eggs. Let us, therefore, endeavor to make every week an "eat more eggs week" by finding more attractive ways and a greater variety of ways to serve these valuable and ever tasty food products.

ALABAMA COLLEGE HAS INCREASED ENROLLMENT

Montevallo, Ala., Oct. 1.—The final figures on the total enrollment at Alabama College, the state college for women at Montevallo, show an increase of 12 per cent over last year's enrollment, and for the freshman class alone, an increase of 33.5 per cent.

The total enrollment this year is 851, as against 759 at the opening of last year's session. The freshman class opened last year with 277, whereas this year it numbers 369. A larger number could not be admitted, and applications were denied, because of inadequate facilities.

This increase in student enrollment, which obtains generally in the state institutions this year, indicates at least two things, according to an opinion expressed by Dean T. H. Napier: a measure of prosperity, and a measure of proof that the general system of education as it has been worked out by the state authorities is effective.

Lesson for October 6

RECOGNIZING OUR DEBTS TO OTHERS

GOLDEN TEXT—Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:28-34, James 2:14-17

PRIMARY TOPIC—Helping One Another.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Helping One Another.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Do We Owe to Others?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Fulfilling Our Obligation to Others

The sum total of human duty as set forth by Christ in Matthew 22:34-40 is love to God and one's neighbor. This comprehends every conceivable relationship and responsibility of life. The measure of love to God is the whole capacity of man to love. The measure of love to one's neighbor is one's love for himself.

I. Loving God (Mark 12:28-30).

Man's first duty is to God. The word which sums up his duty to God is love. By loving is meant a sincere desire for and a delight in the welfare of the one loved, and a willingness to do everything possible to further it. Love is not a sentimental emotion, but an ardent passion which absolutely sways the one who loves. When one is swayed by the passion to please, honor and glorify God, he is loving Him with his whole heart, strength and mind. To fail to render full obedience to this the first and great commandment, is to be guilty of committing the greatest sin. By this test we can readily estimate our freedom from sin. Determined by this standard, all are guilty before God. We should put God first in all of life's relationships.

II. Loving Our Neighbor (Mk. 12:31-34).

This obligation is like unto the obligation to God in that it centers in love. The measure of love is not the same. The measure of love to God is the absolute limit of human capacity. That unto our neighbor is "as thyself." Our neighbor is a finite being, therefore the love is not absolute. Who is my neighbor? This is answered by the story of the good samaritan in Luke 10:30-37. Our neighbor is one who is in need of our help. It is not a question of where he lives, but of his need of help. Some of the ways we can love our neighbor, as suggested by the texts selected by the lesson committee, are:

1. By co-operation (Neh. 4:15-23).

The walls of Jerusalem needed to be rebuilt. The task was great and the enemies strong. Nehemiah could not have done it alone, though working all the days of his life, but "every one unto his work" made the walls a reality i a short time. Racial solidarity is a reality. "No man liveth unto himself," therefore human life is lived at its best in co-operation with one another.

2. By the strong bearing the infirmities of the weak (Rom. 15:1-7).

By this means we build up each other. We are given strength, not to use for ourselves, but that we may help sustain the weak. We are not to please ourselves. Our supreme example in this is Jesus Christ. If He had pleased Himself, He never would have come down to earth, taken our nature and suffered the shame of the cross. The rich are to help the poor. Indeed, some are made rich in order that they may intelligently render helpful service to the poor.

3. By rendering lowly service (Phil. 2:1-9).

The supreme business of life is to serve, not to be served. Christ came not to be ministered unto, but to minister (Mark 10:45). Christ, though equal with God, humbled Himself to become the servant of men. The human mind is naturally selfish, therefore the only way man can possibly render lowly service to others is to have the mind of Christ. The only way this mind can be in us is as Christ is in us, the Lord of our lives.

4. By rendering justice to everyone (Col. 3:12; 4:1).

All our fellows have rights which must be recognized to accomplish which the elect of God must put on a mind of mercy and kindness (Col. 3:12). This kind of treatment finds illustration in our home relationships—wives and husbands, parents and children, masters and servants. Failure to render justice is a source of discord and confusion.

5. By giving to others (Jas. 2:14-17).

Christianity shows itself in practical living and charitable giving. To profess to have faith and be destitute of practical deeds is to give the lie to our profession.

Brothers All

During the World war a desperately wounded German and an equally desperately wounded Englishman were lying on the field side by side. They heard each other murmur "Mutter" and "Mother," and through ignorant of each other's language they found in "mother" a word that made them brothers. They made each other feel that they must pray together, and together they prayed "Unser Vater der bist im Himmel!" and "Our Father which art in heaven."

STATE CAPITOL News

Judge L. H. Reynolds of Chilton County was a visitor to the Capitol for a while one day last week, and talked enthusiastically about the progress his county is making, and the great good that is coming to Chilton Countians as a result of the good roads that have been and are being constructed. The Judge cited the case of one farmer, living a short distance from Clanton, who plants two acres in watermelons each year. Before the highway to Birmingham was built this farmer hauled his melons to Clanton and shipped them to Birmingham; the most he ever realized this way was around one hundred dollars for his crop. Since the highway has been built he has been hauling his melons to Birmingham, and his crop has been netting him around four hundred dollars a year. Judge Reynolds says there are no large land holdings syndicates and foreign corporations in his county, and the citizenship is made up of home-owning, home-loving people.

According to information obtained from the Highway Department, the longest stretch of road unprovided for in the building plans of the near future between county seats, is that between Centreville and Prattville. This road when built will shorten the distance between the State Capitol and the State University at Tuscaloosa several miles.

Revenue from the gasoline tax for the current fiscal year will amount to over seven million dollars. One-half of this amount, or more than fifty thousand dollars has been sent to each of the sixty-seven counties to be used on the county roads. The income from the 1923 gasoline act to each of the counties in the State has grown from $627.80 in March 1923 to over five thousand dollars in September, 1929, making a grand total received by each of the sixty-seven counties since the gasoline tax became effective in March, 1923, of over two hundred and fift-two thousand dollars.

The automobile tag division of the State Tax Commission has received many complaints during the past year from the license inspectors of the State in regard to irregularities in the use of dealers tags. These tags are issued to automobile salesmen for use only in demonstrating cars, but license inspectors have found them on chicken peddler's cars, watermelon trucks, and almost every other kind of motor vehicle. Unless the dealers make an effort to correct the abuse of this privilege, it is liable to be withdrawn altogether.

There is a lot of talk around the Capitol these days about "putting up the bars" and "letting down the bars" by the State Democratic Committee when it meets in January, but nobody seems to know definitely just what the Committee is going to do when it meets—and most likely at this time the Committee does not know itself.

REYNOLDS POINTS OUT ERROR IN FIGURES MADE BY J. B. ATKINSON

Canton, Ala., October 2, 1929.
Editor Union-Banner:

The Chilton County News had an editorial last week headed "Reynolds' figures do not agree with Treasurers report.". There seems to be two conditions in this editorial—one is why $200,000.00 bonds were issued for the purpose of taking up an outstanding indebtedness of the county when the indebtedness appeared to be $190,242.95. This is explained by the fact, as has often been explained to Atkinson before, that the outstanding warrants as shown by the records total $190,242.95, however, there were many claims against the county for which no warrants had been issued, and there were many claims against the county which had not been filed and could not possibly have been known to the officials. I suppose also it is clear to Mr. Atkinson that this indebtedness he speaks about was created by a Democrat in office.

It does seem that Atkinson enjoys misstating figures. I recall an instance where he stated that the roads were costing Chilton County approximately $420.00 per mile, and when his own figures showed approximately $42.00 per mile; and you recall Mr. Atkinson at that time that little mistake of approximately $400 per mile you made. You now come along with another one of your usual mistakes in figures, and I want you to follow this closely and see if you can uunderstand your error. You state that there is a balance of $180,000.00 of the road and bridge bonds now outstanding, and you state that I was wrong in my assertion that $35,000.00 has been taken up, and you guess that there is outstanding $180,000.00 of these bonds. I guess you are wrong again as usual and you have got to "guess" again. I stated to you in my other article that $35,000.00 of these bonds had been cancelled and destroyed, leaving $165,000.00 outstanding, exactly as I stated before. If you had wanted to be fair and state facts and figures you could examine the commissioners court records since the Treasurer's report in June, and you could have easily seen where $15,000.00 more of these bonds have been retired.

I do not ask you to accept my word, but I have secured a certificate from the Treasurer of Chilton County, which is printed at the end of my article, and it proves that you have "guessed" wrong again. In other words, just another little error of $15,000.00 on your part. I wonder whether your statements were made on ignorance or willful misstatements of the truth, or just the careless and reckless statement of figures you know nothing about.

If you had also wanted to be fair and state figures and facts as they are in offsetting the indebtedness of the county of $165,000.00 you should certainly have subtracted from this the surplus which the county has in the treasury, and which surplus has seemed to worry you so much.

It is all right to jump from one issue to another, and whatever issue you have I will be glad to discuss with you, but I think the people of the county would enjoy a little change in this controversy and discuss the issues against you for a while. I have had some interesting information lately regarding a certain "water wagon" trip that you made while mayor of the Town of Clanton. This would be interesting to lay before your friends and admirers, and it would also be interesting in connection with the prohibition record you were discussing.

In speaking of your "advice" that you state the commissioners court would not accept, explain how your advice to the Town Council that one of the Councilmen could sell the town gas and oil and other merchandise in violation of the criminal law of Alabama.

I trust that you will peruse the certificate carefully of the Treasurer, and in counting the bonds retired you will count 35, and 35 from 200 will leave 165 instead of 180 as you "guessed."

I wonder if you will do me the courtesy to acknowledge your error as publicly as you placed your editorial.

Yours very truly,
L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

State of Alabama, Chilton County.

I, Gertrude P. Calloway, Treasurer of Chilton County, Alabama, hereby certify that the records in my office show that prior to January 15, 1929, 12 Chilton County Funding Road and Bridge Bonds of $1,000 each, had been redeemed and that since that time the following have been redeemed:

WHY BOYS WALK HOME

Chief of Police, Boockholdt, received a call from Montgomery Sunday afternoon, asking him to take charge of an automobile coming up the highway occupied by two girls. It was stated to the officer that the two girls and two boys were coming out of Montgomery going to Birmingham, and when the boys went into a road shop to get some drinks or something, the girls cranked up the car and left their escorts high and dry.

Mr. Boockholdt stopped the girls when they arrived in Clanton. Upon questioning them, they stated that they did not intend to steal the automobile. They said the boys were treating them so rough that they took advantage of the first opportunity to get away from them.

The officer released the girls upon their statement, and they proceeded toward Birmingham. When the boys reached Clanton they were given their automobile.

MRS. LOCKHART HURT IN WRECK SUNDAY

Mrs. Truman Lockhart of Montgomery was brought to Central Alabama Hospital late Sunday evening suffering from injuries received in an automobile wreck near Thorsby. The car was driven by her husband, a former Montgomery policeman.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Please give me a space in the Dear Old Banner to say our Sunday school is doing fine, all except we can't get the old folks out to help us. We are doing our part at this place to make our Sunday school the best, and why can't the old folks come and help us out? Listen, folks, don't only send your children, please come and bring them. I believe it will do the children good and you too, and I know it will help the Sunday school. Next Sunday we will elect new teachers for the next quarter and we will have new books. We want everybody who will to come and take part in our Sunday school to come next Sunday and get you a new book and help us out. We will work hard until Christmas, then we will make our Sunday school a standard Sunday school. And then I am sure you all will like it. Our Sunday school starts at ten o'clock. Be there on time and don't forget that next Sunday is our regular singing Sunday afternoon. We want to see a big crowd out and help us out. We want to make the singing good as same as the Sunday school. Friends and loved ones are always welcome.—A Reader.

IN MEMORY OF J. M. WYATT

On Saturday morning, September 21, the death angel came and took away our dear loving father and grandfather, Mr. Jim Wyatt, to a better land where there is no more sorrow or tears. He had been in bad health for several months. It seems so hard to give him up. We will miss him so much, but God knows best and we should all be submissive to His will, for we feel that our loss is heaven's gain.

He was 74 years old. He leaves his wife and five children to mourn his loss. They are Mrs. F. M. Franklin, Mrs. George Lett, Miss Mary Liza Wyatt, Mr. Emmett Wyatt and Mr. Tom Wyatt, and fifteen grandchildren, and eleven great-grandchildren, also four sisters and one brother. May God bless and comfort his loved ones and keep them in the hollow of His hand until the summons comes to them. May we be found ready and waiting to go join him where there will be no more sad parting, but joy and gladness forever.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. J. Deason at Shiloh Baptist church where he was a member.

Gone, but not forgotten.
A precious one from us has gone.
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled.

BARTON—JOHNSON

The marriage of Miss Mary Pearl Johnson to Mr. L. B. Johnson which occurred at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. B. Caton, in Montgomery, on September 8, will be of interest to her many friends in this county.

Miss Johnson is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Johnson of Verbena and is a graduate of Chilton County High School, class of 1924. Since her graduation she has been in the employ of the State Tax Commission at the capitol.

Mr. Barton is a rising young business man of Montgomery. He is a trusted employee of one of the largest firms, and is also prominently identified with the civic and religious life of the city.

Her many friends in this county wish them much happiness and success.

HOOVER SAVES THE PELICAN

The pelican, picturesquely ugly bird, is to be saved from utter extinction by presidential decree. President Hoover has set three of the Florida keys, Snake Key, Deak Man or Bird Key, and North Key, (know collectively as Cedar Key) as a bird refuge. This territory is a nesting place for pelicans, as well as for numerous species of herons and cormorants, and many other water fowl. Some of these species, notably the pelican, are becoming rarer all the time, so it has been decided to aid in their propagation by reserving this ground for them.

Restrictions governing the keys are numerous and rigid, and they forbid almost any conceivable action that might result in injury to the birds or to their eggs.

JOHNSON INFIRMARY

Mr. Ulyses Courtney had his tonsils removed last week.

Mrs. Asberry Sandlin had her tonsils removed last week.

Mrs. Ocie Rushing had her tonsils removed a few days ago.

Miss Elizabeth Stanley had her tonsils removed last week.

Miss Gertie Bearden of Stanton had her tonsils removed a few days ago.

Mr. Sam Foshee was in the Infirmary this week for an operation on his hand.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Don't forget the singing Sunday afternoon beginning at two o'clock, October 6. Everybody invited to come and help sing. Those who can't sing come and listen. You are always welcome at Mineral Springs.—Secretary.

SAMARIA

Our reporter failed to get in our news last week. We are always glad to find it in the paper, and when we don't find it we sure do miss it.

Our Sunday school is not as good now as it has been. Quite a number are absent on account of sickness. Next Sunday our new officers and teachers take charge. Let us all cooperate with them and make it the best year in the history of Samaria. Not only is our Sunday school doing good work, our B. Y. P. U. is doing some fine work. We have elected new officers and they begin their work next Sunday night. We feel like we are going to accomplish more this year than we have in the past year.

We were favored Sunday night by two quartets by Messrs. J. Z. Mims, Dock Harris, Orville Popwell and Leonard Culp.

Mr. Carl Boockholdt spent the week end with his wife in Clanton.

Miss Nora Wood spent the week end with Mrs. A. G. Littlejohn of Liberty Hill community.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wood spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wood.

Miss Louise and Mr. Bill Boockholdt spent Monday and Tuesday at Enterprise with Mr. and Mrs. John Yeargans.

Mr. Irby Wood of Lock 12 spent Monday and Tuesday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wood.

We were sure sorry to hear of the sickness of Mr. J. F. Armstrong's father. We hope he will soon be back at his usual health.

Misses Georgia and Sallie B. Wood spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Culp of South Clanton.

Miss Nora Wood attended the Teacher's Institute in Clanton Monday and Tuesday. She will take up her work as principal at Mt. Pisgah school Wednesday, with Miss Evelyn Littlejohn of Jemison as assistant.

We wish to announce that we have changed the time of meeting for B. Y. P. U. to 6:30. Don't misunderstand the time. Come and bring someone with you.

Prof. and Mrs. J. P. Montgomery of Jemison were visitors to Clanton Tuesday.

School Books at Upchurch's. Also the best line of school supplies in Chilton County.

Jemison and Clanton Will Cooperate

At a joint meeting of the boards of directors of the Jemison Fruit, Truck and Produce Association and the Clanton Berry Growers Association, the directors of the two associations agreed to co-operate in the selling of berries next spring. It is pointed out that this arrangement will make a saving to the two associations in that there will be no duplications in various items of selling expenses, such as telephone calls, telegrams, etc.

An additional benefit that will come to Jemison growers in particular through this arrangement is that they will get the advice and co-operation of an older and very highly successful selling organization.

At the meeting above mentioned, some very valuable points on fertilization of strawberries were brought out by the experienced growers present. It seems to be the prevailing opinion that neither nitrate of soda nor barnyard manure should be used to fertilize strawberries, both hoving a tendency to soften the fruit.

It takes expert salesmanship to sell berries; but the job of the farmer is to produce the fruit, and the associations will get the best market prices for their members.

County Agent Stapp related the experience of Mr. E. J. Vinson, an experienced grower in the Clanton association, concerning a test on fertilizing berries. Mr. Vinson tested on two rows each 79 yards long. On one row he used fertilizer in the fall and again fertilizer in the spring. From this row he picked 208 quarts.

On a row by the side of it he did not put any fertilizer in the fall, but used the same on both rows in the spring. From the latter he picked 115 quarts.

From the row which was fertilized in the fall he picked 73 quarts before he got any from the row which was not fertilized in the fall.

The total increase due to fall fertilization, taken on an acre basis was 107 crates per acre.

The associations recommend 600 pounds of 8-4-4 per acre in the fall and 1200 pounds of 10-3-10 per acre in the spring, February or March.

At the joint meeting of the two associations the following officers were present: Representing Clanton, J. N. Dennis, L. E. Diefenderfer, E. D. Headley, John Popwell; representing Jemison, L. G. Posey, J. D. Sutley, C. C. Cofer, E. Conway, J. P. Montgomery.

STATE CONFEDERATE REUNION AT DOTHAN, OCTOBER 15-17

Dothan, Ala., Sept. 30, 1929.

To The People of Alabama:

The Confederate Veterans of Alabama will convene for their Annual Reunion at Dothan on October 15th and continue through October 16th and 17th next. The citizens of Dothan are making ready to entertain them in royal style. An interesting and entertaining program for their sessions has been arranged by the Committee on Program and Entertainment, while socially these grand old men are to be lionized from the moment they set foot in our city until the last farewell is said.

As this is an event of statewide significance, we urge all who can come, from whatever part of the State, to be with us and take part in paying tribute to the few remaining of the martyred defenders of our homes in the dark days. "The thin grey line" is rapidly getting thinner, and, in the natural course of events, must soon disappear entirely. While Dothan is to have the rare privilege of having them as her guests, yet they belong to the entire State, and we trust that as many citizens from all parts of the State as can do so, will come and be with us and help entertain them.

We wish every Confederate Veteran in the State could be here, but we know that a great many will not be able to attend because of their advanced age. Others will not be able to pay expenses of transportation, and we appeal to their respective communities to make up funds for that purpose. A small contribution from a few citizens in each community would serve to meet the needs in this particular. I can think of no better expression of one's patriotism than to contribute to the small amount necessary to defray the traveling expenses of a Confederate Veteran to this Reunion and give him the pleasure of mingling with his Comrades once more—possibly the last time before he shall "cross over the river and rest in the shade of the trees." If his community will send him, Dothan will receive him as her royal guest and he will have no expense while here.

Those other than Veterans who will come and take part in this momentous occasion and Veterans who may so desire may have hotel reservations made for them if they will write Mr. A. D. Ussery, Chairman of Hotel Committee, Confederate Reunion, Dothan, Alabama.—J. J. Speight, General Chairman, Committee on Arrangements, Annual Reunion United Confederate Veterans, Alabama Division, Dothan, Ala, 1929.

ASSOCIATIONAL B. Y. P. U.

The Associational B. Y. P. U. of Chilton County will meet at Shiloh Church on Sunday, October 6, at two o'clock in the afternoon.

A very fine program has been prepared, and all B. Y. P. U. members are especially urged to attend this meeting.

Everything the school boy or girl needs can be found at Upchurch's, where you get school books.

Mrs. Percy Pitts and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds were in Birmingham on a shopping expedition Tuesday.

Prof. G. C. Weldon of Enterprise school, was here this week attending the teachers institute.

Mrs. Sam Box (Dedie Reynolds) and Mrs. Reuben Reynolds of Birmingham, were here last Thursday visiting Mrs. W. A. Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Reynolds were visitors to Montgomery Monday.

Mrs. Earle Gowan and Mrs. Horsley White, with their children, were visitors to Montgomery Monday.

Run-Down

"About seven years ago, I was all run-down, worn-out and never felt good," says Mrs. Harry Cantrell, of Cape Girardeau, Mo. "A chair would be more welcome any time than my work.

"I was so tired when I would arise in the morning. Instead of being rested, I felt terrible.

"At last, mother told me to take Cardui, and I did. After the first bottle, I could tell a difference, and when I had taken five bottles the tired feeling was all gone. I felt like a different person, thanks to Cardui. I hope that other mothers will try Cardui. I have been wonderfully benefited by it."

TOUGH ON HUSBANDS

If marriage is decreasing, look to our colleges as a cause. Here is a Penn State professor who says a husband of the future must be expert in care of children, plumbing, electrical wiring, general repair work and must be able "to sell to advantage old clothes and furniture." This seems to mean that only Edison's bright young man should marry.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

The free traders in Congress are anxious to find out from income tax returns how much American manufacturers are making, but we will wait and see whether they are just as much concerned with the profits of the New York importers, who get rich buying cheaply made goods abroad and selling them at big profits here at the expense of the American producers.

H. H. Armstrong of Beat 14 was a visitor to The Union-Banner office last Thursday. He had with him his little grandson, George Smoot Cofer. He has another grandson named Henry Harding Cofer. "I named my grandsons after three great men, President Harding, Judge Smoot, and Henry Armstrong," he said with a chuckle.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Political theories and contentions change almost as frequently as the styles in clothing. Even arguments proposed by the free traders and their allies against the protective tariff system are revamped occasionally. A year or so ago it was maintained that with a protective tariff our foreign trade would fall off because the nations of Europe could not buy from us since they would be unable to sell to us. This theory has been thoroughly exploded by the figures of our domestic and foreign trade. We still have our tariff, and we continue to be prosperous and to pile up foreign trade. So the arguments of the friends of the importers had to be remade.

The latest efforts against the protective principle make the assertion that protection to certain industries is wrong because these industries are making "enormous profits." For some reason or other the average free trader is opposed to big profits which do not fall into the hands of the importers in New York or the manufacturing barons of Europe who grind the last ounce of energy out of their workmen at the lowest possible living wage. These "enormous profits" are now being paraded before the eyes of the people of the United States, especially the farmers, and they are being told that this is the result of the iniquitous tariff and that if the new tariff bill passes they will be even worse.

It will be a little difficult to prove the contention, however, that the tariff alone makes profits. For it is well known to everyone that other elements enter into the picture. Profits of course depend on a ready market and big production, and the ready market for American goods is furnished by the protective policy. But a concern must have something beside a market to pile up profits. First there must be efficient management, and progressive business policies. There must be great production, too, and the product must be worthy of public confidence so that the public will want it. If the tariff were responsible for profits then every concern in a given industry would roll up "tremendous profits." Yet we know that such a case is not true. In the manufacturing world some units are profitable and others are not. The same thing is true in business and on the farm. To reduce the tariff on a certain commodity because some of the producers of that commodity had made profits would be just as reasonable as to increase the tax on all furniture stores in the town because the biggest one was making "too much money." The tariff alone can not make enormous profits for any industry. It can protect the industry from cheap foreign labor and preserve the greatest market in the world for American industry. The rest of it is up to American business and the American business man is usually able to deliver the goods when given a fair chance.

The free traders and their allies however are not bothered with such mundane things as actual conditions. Their home is in intellectual clouds where they can theorize to their hearts content. If a certain industry makes lots of money they blame it on to the tariff, no matter whether this particular industry is protected by a tariff or not.

It is not to be believed that the attack on the tariff because of the "enormous profits" it produces will be any more effective than that which charged that protection meant the drying up of our foreign trade. Granting the charge that protection means swollen profits, it follows that the way to deflate these profits is to lower the tariff and let in a flood of foreign goods. This, of course, would destroy profit by curtailing business but it is the American worker who would suffer in the long run, and the buying public would receive little or no benefit. suffering as it would in the general business decline that would be sure to follow. Anyhow, it is a poor policy to tear down a building because you may think that too much money has been spent on the frescoing of the ceiling.

WHAT CHILDREN SHOULD GET

As the common schools begin another year, we reiterate our belief that their true purpose is to make children masters of the common branches of knowledge, reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic, geography and grammar. If they learn these they have something when they leave school. If they do not, they are handicapped all the rest of their lives. As schools have been conducted, there is constant interference with their most important functions.—W. G. Sibley in Chicago Journal of Commerce.

CHARLIE M'CALL IS OUT FOR GOVERNOR

Alabama's famous Attorney General, Charlie McCall, has given definite expression to his high ambition by announcing his candidacy for Governor of our State. With his formal declaration as a gubernatorial candidate, he gives the following statement of his position on some things he favors:

1. Impartial enforcement of the law.
2. Free text books in the public schools of the State in the elementary grades as a beginning.
3. Allowing the counties to retain their present proportionate share of the original two cent gasoline tax now being collected.
4. No increase of the regular motor vehicle tax or the present two cent gasoline tax coming to the State.
5. The submission to the people of the State of Alabama in 1931 of a proposed Constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of not to exceed twenty-five million dollars of bonds, equitably distributed to the several counties and securely safeguarded in the use thereof, for the continuance of road building and the completion of roads.
6. Putting all the available convicts on the public roads and opposing the return of the convict lease system.
7. Opposing any increase of ad valorem taxes.
8. A continuation of progress in child welfare, public education and public health.

The Democratic party of Alabama will go into the coming state campaign under conditions never before experienced in politics. The ship of Democracy must make a voyage upon uncharted political waters, even without a compass.

It will be a curious situation, and much interest will be attracted to the manner in which the political navigators get across.

PATRIOTISM PLUS PATRONAGE

There is but one true measure of American interest in American ships. That measure is not found in editorials or in spoken or printed words. It is found in the extent of our own patronage of our own ships. Every time an American citizen buys a ticket on an American ship for overseas travel, to just that extent the cause of our merchant marine is advanced and every time an American citizen buys a ticket on a foreign ship to just that extent the progress of our American merchant marine is retarded.—T. C. O'Connor, Chairman, of United States Shipping Board.

Food companies have lagged behind others in relative profits recently, proving that there are a lot of things the American people would rather do than eat.—Charleston, S. C., Evening Post.

Rabbi Stephen Wise, the New York "liberal" who makes the welkin ring with his protesting outcry every time "imperialistic" Uncle Sam sends some marines to protect American life and property abroad, is making it ring again with the demand that Great Britain send enough machine guns to Palestine to settle the Arabs.

UNIVERSITY "HOME COMING"

University, Ala., Oct. 1.—The Annual "Home Coming" scheduled for Saturday, October 5, at the University of Alabama will have a new meaning this year. The occasion will not only witness a football game between the University of Mississippi and the University of Alabama, but will mark the dedication of the first unit of the new Denny Stadium.

Governor Bibb Graves will present the stadium to president Geo. H. Denny on behalf of the state, and Dr. Denny will accept it for the University. In addition to other celebrities, Governor Bilbo of Mississippi will be a guest of honor and will occupy a seat of honor among the Mississippi fans.

The first unit just completed has a seating capacity of 12,000, contains one of the most modern press boxes in the country, and is said to be one of the finest units erected in the South in recent years. University officials have announced that the three remaining units will be completed as soon as funds are available. When completed, the stadium will have a seating capacity of 60,000.

The game scheduled between Alabama and Mississippi is doped to be more than a practice game for the Crimson Tidesmen, Mississippi bringing to Tuscaloosa one of the best teams put out by that institution in several years.

A dance has been scheduled Saturday night for returning alumni, Dr. Denny will make his annual report to the Board of Trustees, and many other events have combined to bring back to Alabama one of the largest crowds ever expected at the institution.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

Judge Locke Scores Reckless Motorists

Birmingham Man Makes Stirring Speech Before National Safety Congress, Chicago

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 1.—The speed demon, road hog and willful reckless driver is a fit subject for the rogue's gallery, Judge Hugh A. Locke, of Birmingham, declared here Monday before the Eighteenth Annual National Safety Congress in a speech in which he said no appreciable progress will be made in street and highway accident prevention until the public comes to regard serious traffic violations as seriously as it does violations involving moral turpitude.

"The situation demands immediate attention of legislatures and calls for vigorous action of governors thruout the country," he stated.

Judge Locke, who is chairman of the law enforcement committee of the Birmingham Safety Council, was featured at the opening session of the congress, which is being attended by approximately 7,000 persons from practically every section of the United States.

"Twenty-seven thousand five hundred men, women and children were killed in the United States in 1928 in motor vehicle accidents, and 950,000 others received non-fatal injuries," Judge Locke said. "These figures show that lawlessness on the highways, the subject which was assigned me, is a major problem, demanding the best efforts of our lawmakers.

"Lawlessness on the highway is a new crime. People instinctively know that murder, theft and similar age-old crimes are wrong. They despise the murderer and loathe the thief. But the traffic law violator seems to be different.

"If you tell a man he stole a nickel, he'll either hit you, or call you names, but if you tell him he violated the traffic law, he'll laugh. And that, you see, is the margin of difference between lawlessness on the highway and law observance.

"Among these new arrivals, unfortunately, is the speed demon, the road hog and the willful reckless driver. This trio got most of the victims last year in cases where the driver was to blame, and of the three the speed demon is probably the worst, for speed, it has been found, is a contributory cause to nearly all bad accidents and the chief cause in a great many.

"Around the speed demon, strange to say, is a certain glamour—until some golden-haired girl or clear-eyed boy is dragged from beneath his wheels. And some 5,000 of the 27,500 motor car victims last year were boys and girls—dragged from under the wheels.

"Thus it goes, with each getting his quota, and what we must do is strip them of their glamour and place them in the despicable light they deserve.

"In order to do this we must change our whole attitude of mind toward traffic law violations and at the same time make our laws uniform in the various states. Our attitude is changing, but it must undergo a greater change—until we come to brand the willful, wanton, reckless driver as we do the crook.

"Uniformity of law is coming, I believe, through the Uniform Vehicle Code which was worked out by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety. This conference rendered a real service to the country and the adoption of the code by all the states of the union will decrease accidents and save thousands of lives."

In this connection, the uniform code is especially desirable as a means of protecting rural communities, Judge Locke said. "Cities are fairly well protected, with their regulations and police officers, but rural sections are virtually helpless," he declared. "There is little or no machinery for safeguarding them, and until we make provisions for handling the situation there we are not making a thorough job of our public safety work."

Cities, too, need the strengthening hands of a uniform code, he said. "No city, however progressive, can cope with all of the many phases of the public accident problem without strong state backing," he stated.

Discussing the code further, he declared that he believed a conference of governors would be one of the next logical steps, and urged the congress to continue its efforts toward uniformity "in the knowledge and assurance that it is sound, logical and necessary."

The congress is being attended by 16 representatives from the Birmingham Safety Council and a large number of other persons from over the state. It will continue in session through Friday.

KILL DREADED PEACH BORERS WITH P. D. B.

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 1.—Due to the fact that his ravages are made below the soil and usually go unnoticed the peach tree borer is causing far more damage in Alabama peach orchards than is generally realized, warns Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He says that paradichlorobenzene, commonly called P. D. B., applied at the proper time will give almost 100 per cent control, and that the cost of this material should not be more than 2 or 3 cents per tree.

He does not recommend use of P. D. B. on trees under four years of age. It has been used successfully on trees two and three years old, but some damage is likely to occur if weather is bad, and it is considered best to remove the borers from the young trees by use of a small knife or wire.

For trees four years of age three-fourths of an ounce should be used. For trees five years old and older one ounce is the proper dose. One and one-quarter ounces should be used on older and very large trees.

In north Alabama it should be applied October 1 to 10; in central Alabama, October 5 to 15; and in south Alabama, October 10 to 20. In mentioning these dates Mr. Brown emphasized the importance of making the application at the right time.

He gave directions for applying the material as follows: "Prepare and level the ground around the base of the tree by clearing off weeds and trash for a distance of about 15 inches. Care should be taken not to dig up the soil more than is necessary. Leave a firm flat surface upon which to place the material.

"Apply the proper dose evenly on the ground in circular band entirely around the tree. The inner part of the band should be about two inches away from the trunk of the tree, and the band should be about two inches wide.

"Cover the material with a few shovelfuls of dirt, and pack it down with the back of the shovel, making a cone-shaped mound around the tree. When used on four and five year old trees the mounds should be torn down in about 28 days. On older trees it is advisable to remove the mounds in about six weeks."

TRUSTEE-FACULTY BANQUET AT BIRMINGHAM-SOUTHERN

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 1.—Fred M. Jackson, Birmingham capitalist and philanthropist, will speak at the annual Birmingham-Southern faculty-trustee banquet on the campus at 6 p. m. Friday, October 4, President Guy E. Snavely, has announced.

Mr. Jackson, for many years treasurer of the board, will represent the trustees in speaking of the problems connected with college development. Dr. Poor will contribute the viewpoint of the faculty, as the first number of the departments of science to appear on the annual program.

The trustee-faculty banquet is a novel institution at Birmingham-Southern, designed for mutual acquaintance, sympathy, and cooperation between the two groups. In past years the trustee speakers have been Dr. A. M. Freeman, Mr. John W. Frazer, now chairman of the board, Dr. Robert Echols, and Dr. L. C. Branscomb. The faculty has been represented by President Snavely, Dean Gilbert W. Mead, and Prof. C. C. Alexander, former head of the department of Bible and religious education.

The banquet has been announced for 6 p. m. this year to enable completion of the prigram in time for the night game with Spring Hill at Legion Field.

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 13

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give a small space in the columns of your most valuable paper to say a few words regarding this place.

The health of this community is very good at present, and the people are getting along very nicely with their gathering, and are making great efforts for another year's harvest, especially in the way of sowing small grain, soil-building by sowing winter legumes such as vetches, Austrian winter peas, etc., and we certainl admire the interest taken regrading same. I certainly congratulate our County Demonstration Agent, Mr. C. E. Stapp, for the interest that he is putting forth along this line.

Well, I must not forget to say a few words regarding our church work at this place. Our Sunday school is progressing very nicely with a gradual increase. We are boasting of an Evergreen Sunday school for five years at least. Our B. Y. P. U. is making a very rapid progress under the management of Mr. Berl Martin, president.

And, too, we are planning for an all-day singing service in the late books at this place the second Sunday, October 13th. We are planning to make this day a great success if our Master is willing. We cordially invite all lovers of music, and especially directors and quartet classes to come and be with us and share a part by singing praises in honor and glory to God from whom all blessings flow, and let's make the second Sunday, October 13th, a great day, long to be remembered and never forgotten. Just bring the books of your choice. Don't forget the date. With best wishes to The Union-Banner and its many readers. —W. F. Thompson.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Miss Effie Champion and Carl Dawson spent Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Franklin of Thorsby Route.

Emmett Miskelley and Arey Miskelley were in Clanton last Tuesday on business.

Mrs. Matt Wilson is visiting Mrs. Ragland of Brent.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion and sons, Dalton and Sanders, were Birmingham visitors Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Dovie Dawson and Misses Dulcie and Delia Champion, and Messrs. Carl Dawson and Arey Miskelley motored to Belle Ellen Wednesday, returning Thursday. Mrs. Dawson remained a few days with her sister, Mrs. Will Kellum.

The stork paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Euell Dawson Saturday afternoon leaving a fine baby boy.

The singing society met Sunday afternoon. Mr. Spivey took charge in the absence of the president, Mr. Euell Dawson. Mr. J. S. Wright led in the opening prayer. The following were the leaders for the afternoon: Carl Dawson, Miss Nora Franklin, Miss Viva Davis, Mrs. Bonnie Davenport, Mr. Tommie Zuber, Misses Willie C. and Gwendolyn Clements. Mrs. Evie Childress and Gwendolyn Clements did the playing.

A large crowd attended preaching Sunday and Sunday night. We were glad to have so many visitors with us. Rev. J. T. Browder did the preaching. He has been called to serve the church for the coming year. The preaching day has been changed from the third Sunday to the fourth Sunday.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Our Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely.

Our B. Y. P. U. met Sunday night at six thirty o'clock with a large crowd present and a fine and interesting program was rendered by Group I, Mrs. Everee Dukes in charge. The subject was, "Missions in the Mind of Jesus." After the B. Y. P. U. Rev. Malcolm Lockhart delivered a wonderful message on the "Power of Prayer." All who missed this message missed a treat. We hope to have Bro. Lockhart with us again.

We finished our B. Y. P. U. study course Sunday afternoon. We sure thank Mr. and Mrs. Goss and also Miss Cobern for their help. May God bless them is our prayer.

Miss Irene Traywick spent Saturday night with Mrs. Everee Dukes.

Miss Ora Devaughn attended the birthday party of Miss Lottie Scarbrough's Friday night and reported a nice time.

Mr. Dewey Driver, Mr. J. A. and Curtis Dykes spent Sunday in Prattville.

Miss Ruby Patterson spent Saturday night with Miss Lena Traywick.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Traywick dined with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Traywick Sunday.

Miss Ora Devaughn visited Miss Lena Vinson Sunday afternoon.

We hope to have our absentees from Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. back at work with us next Sunday.

We want to extend to every one a hearty welcome to come to our church and worship with us in our services.

Mrs. W. J. Armstrong has been seriously sick at her home in Clanton for the past week. She is reported better now.

Ernest Moore has taken charge of the cafe on Main Street in the old Jim Higgins Building.

Announceemnt of a new vetch drill has been received by Prof. M. L. Nichols, head of the agricultural engineering department at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. He says that the drill is something which farmers and agricultural workers have been needing for a long time. The drill is in the form of an attachment for a one-row planter. It plants two rows at a time, and costs about the same as a one-row planter.

He sipped the nectar from her lips
As 'neath the moon they sat,
And wondered if a man ever before
Had drunk from a mug like that!

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

CHRIST SHOULD NOT HAVE SECOND PLACE

The night was cool and moonly. The devil never fought any harder in his life than he did that night. Christ crossed over the brook Kidron into that beautiful garden of about an acre of ground where stood great olive trees then and some are standing there to-day. Christ left eight men outside the gate yonder, and took three who were nearer to him within. Eight men outside the garden gate and three men inside the garden.

Christ walks over there in the corner of that garden by a great rock which is still there. He kneels on the ground by this rock. There on the frosty ground he prays until great drops of blood come out on his forehead as great drops of sweat. There as we would say he sweated great drops of blood, he said, "My soul is exceedingly sorrowful unto death." That was death without dying. His heart was so burdened, so crushed that he suffered the agonies even unto death.

Now look out on that hill one fourth of a mile away and watch the scene there. See the innocent Saviour there and hear the shrieks, "Crucify him, crucify him." If he be the son of God let him come down from the cross and save himself. If he saved others, then let him save himself. Let us see if Elijah will come and take him from the cross. But in it all, I hear him say, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Then I hear him again as he turns in tender compassion to that poor dying thief at his side and says, "This day shalt thou be with me in paradise." Then he turns and looks down to John, his beloved disciple and says in the greatest tenderness, "Son, behold thy mother." Again I hear him as he cries aloud to his Heavenly Father who in this great trying hour has veiled his face from him, "Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani?" "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Then Christ looked up to his father and said, "It is finished, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit."

He meant by those last words that God's plan of salvation from sin was finished, that redemption was purchased through his carrying out God's plan for it. He died there amid rocks and darkening skies, suffering the tortures of crucifixion to reconcile us to God, that we might be justified in his sight. I see men hovering around together on the hill side near the cross. Some are sitting down and playing craps. I see them as they gamble over his coat. "And they parted his raiment, and cast lots."

Back to the garden of Gethsemane I see love there as he sweated the great drops of blood. It was God's love on the cross, and it was God's love in the garden of Gethsemane:

"It was on that dark, that doleful night when the powers of hell and earth arose against the Son of God's delight; And men betrayed him to his foes."

O my dear friends, how many of us are betraying Christ to his foes to-day? How can we betray Christ who loved us so that he laid down his life for us, suffering the most painful death that could be administered? He commands us to love one another as he has loved us. How much more we should love him. He says, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." But God commendth his love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us. Oh while I was a sinner he gave himself for my salvation. O how he loves us to-night.

O if I could only convince men of Christ's love for them. If I could only show them that his love for them is for greater than the human mind can conceive. If people were convinced of God's love for them there would be no use of issuing invitations to church. They would respond to his love by worshipping him in the beauty of his holiness. They would shed abroad the light of his great love. They would wrestle with the world to gain the supremacy of Christ's Kingdom among men.

We are now going to leave Judea and go back to Galilee, Sweet Galilee. "O Galilee, Sweet Galilee, 'Twas there my Saviour lived for me."

We need to pray all night too, just as our Saviour did there. O if we woud pray all night, and by so doing God would show men their lost condition, that they are standing on the very brink of hell to the extent that they could smell the very brimstone.

The sea of Galilee lies quiet and still. No one fishes in daytime in its clear sparkling waters, but they fish by seins at night. Some of the disciples were fishing here one night. They had fished all night long but caught nothing because Jesus did not help them. The reason the church does nothing is because Jesus is not helping as a result of not being wanted to help. A closed church door on Sunday night is ruling Jesus Christ out of it. We cannot work without his help. Do you remember that old hymn we used to sing:

"Must Jesus bear the cross alone, and all the world go free? No there's a cross for every one, and there's a cross for me.. Sure I must fight if I would win, increase my courage Lord. I'll bear the cross, endure the pain, supported by thy word."

The mornings are strange to the pilgrim on the sea of Galilee. Very early the sun is gazing over the eastern hills. At evening the sun lingers with its bright rays over this lake long after it has passed out of sight. It seems that the sun is wrestling both morning and evening for supremacy in shedding its beautiful golden glowing rays over that beautiful sea of Galilee. John the beloved disciple of Jesus looked out on the shore and saw Christ coming and said, "That is the Lord coming." Peter who was anxious to see him, obeyed Christ's voice by casting a net in with the other disciples and bringing forth a great haul of fish, one hundred and fifty-three. Jesus prepared their breakfast on the shore, of the very fish which they caught and had it ready for them when they came back to the shore.

Did you ever think about the fact that there Christ cooked a resurrection breakfast on a resurrection shore. I believe in the power of Christ so much that if it were neccessary he would turn those stone steps out there into bread. If we prayed enough he would change every heart in this city to a life in him. If we prayed and worked hard enough for him he would destroy every place of vice and evil in this city. There would be no scandalous picture shows and dance halls. There would not be a minute of time wasted with the devil if we only pray enough. I am only speaking of these evils because I feel it is my duty to Christ my Lord and my King to try to save your boys and girls.

There on that shore Jesus said to Simon, "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these?" He said that not that he did not know that Simon loved him, but because he wanted to hear someone express their love for him. He was hungering to have someone tell him they loved him, just like many people are to-day. I know by experience. Peter turned and said, "Lord, thou knowest that I love thee." Then Jesus said, "If you love me, work for me. Feed my lambs, feed my lambs." O what a blessed thing it would be if we worked for Jesus to the very best of our ability.

This question Christ asked of Peter three times, and Peter felt mighty bad. Old Peter was just chasing fish, and not men. And no doubt his conscience hurt him as Christ besought a higher and deeper spiritual life in him. Now Peter, you just go and get all these men, women, boys and girls who don't attend prayer meeting and come here and hold a prayer meeting with them on this shore. It will not hurt them, but will give them spiritual insight. It will strengthen their spiritual life in me." Many times we think we are working for him when if we would just take inventory we would find that we are sitting down on the roadside, or have gone to sleep in Gethsemane because Christ certainly needs us so much to work to-day. Nothing is going to win this world for Christ but love for him with all of our hearts and unceasing prayers. Let us pray to love him with all our hearts, and if we love him thus we will do his will.

Your Complexion is always Lovely!

This is the story of a clear skin that comes from a strong, healthy body and the right number of rich, red-blood-cells

BEAUTIFUL is the companionship that abounds in contentment, joy and happiness.

It is no wonder, then, that good health plays an important part in the affairs of people. Good health is the way to attract, hold interest, and above all inspire deeper love.

Take the skin, for example. Pimples, boils, eczema and sallow complexion are usually but symptoms of a deeper—a more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

These outward troubles are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Steal away joy and happiness—and sometimes love.

A lovely—clear skin — is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered.

You, too, may have a lovely complexion, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Without plenty of rich, red-blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy beautiful women.

Rich, red-blood, is the means of giving you an appetite, firm flesh, strength, sound sleep, steady nerves, a smooth, clear skin.

When you take S.S.S. to get rid of these outside blemishes, you are building up the system to ward off the graver diseases of which these blemishes are Nature's warning.

Thousands of users have testified to the benefits of S.S.S. in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful ecord of over 100 years back of it.

Take S.S.S. at meal-time. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effects.

All good Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

FARM BOARD BEHIND CO-OPS.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 1.—What a wonderful opportunity the Federal Farm Board has given us farmers to stabilize our marketing system thru our co-ops, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, vice-president and chairman of the legislative committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation, declared when speaking to farmers, farm women, boys and girls, and business men of Limestone and Tuscaloosa Counties, Friday and Saturday.

President O'Neal continued by declaring that "it is inconceivable to me why any thinking farmer would hesitate to join with his neighbors and with the Federal government to help him solve his problems. I feel that if we farmers will cooperate with organizations in selling our cotton this year that the board will work out a plan with the thirteen cotton co-ops to set up a national marketing agency to handle all our cotton. Then our dreams would come true, and we could get the real value and stabilize our cotton production and marketing."

"Mr. Carl Williams, a cotton member of the Board, has this to say to men in a letter: 'The board feels that every farmer should belong to a co-operative marketing association handling his product, which he raises if there is one in his neighborhood, and if there is none, the farmer should help to organize one on a sound conservative basis. The board further feels that it is to the interest of farmers to belong to, work in and use for many purposes other than co-operative marketing, and the general farm organization in his territory whose leadership and purposes are for the best interests of the farmers of that territory.."—L. O. Brackeen.

KNAPP TO ADDRESS FARMERS RALLIES

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, will be the principal speaker at three state-wide farmer rallies to be held at Selma, October 2nd; Dothan, October 7th; Decatur, October 9th. R. G. Arnold, J. T. High and Emmett Sizemore, district agents of the Extension Service, arranged for and called the meetings, which will be attended by county agents, farm leaders, and business men of Alabama.

Dr. Knapp is enthusiastic over the meeting and desires that a large number attend each meeting. He is not only tremendously interested in the development of a good strong organization spirit among farmers and business men of Alabama, but he has added wealth of valuable experiences in the active organizations of various farm commodity groups thruout the United States and has studied farm organizations at first hand in several European countries where the most successful cooperatives have been doing business for years and he is fitted in an extraordinary way to discuss cooperation and offer suggestions on plans of a practical nature to Alabama farmers.

Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of extension service, Auburn, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, will also attend the meeting and aid in making plans for an intensive farm bureau membership campaign to be held following the meeting, the district agents declared.—L. O. Brackeen.

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 16

Editor Union-Banner:

With your permission I will say a few words through your paper.

Health of our community is good at present, and our Sunday School is doing nicely at present. We had with us last Sunday Bro. E. A. Norris and he preached us some good Gospel truths. We welcome him back at any time, and I want to say that the first Sunday and Saturday before are our regular preaching days and it is time for us to finish our year's work. We want to finish our pastor's salary and our mission collection. We would be glad for all our members to come and help who can. If you can't come please send your contribution by someone, and we will give you credit for the same, as this is the last chance before the Association.—R. M. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lucas, Mrs. Walter Perry and Miss May Wood, all of West Blocton, visited their sister, Mrs. Ed Piper, last Sunday.

The W. M. S. is to give a dollar social at the home of Rev. J. W. Jones and wife next Friday evening.

The Christian Endeavor will have a social at the home of Mrs. Each next Friday night. You will spend a whole week in one night if you come.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Davenport went to Selma Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Davenport's uncle.

Miss Agnes Leary was a visitor in Birmingham over the week end.

Mrs. Harry Petersen and children, Christine and Carl, spent several days here last week, returning to their home in Millbrook Monday morning. Mr. Petersen spent Sunday with his family here.

Mr. Theron South of Birmingham was a week end visitor in Thorsby.

Mrs. Ed Piper went to West Blocton Sunday and after visiting there will spend a few days in Birmingham before returning home.

Mrs. Harper is spending several days in Birmingham.

Mrs. Burt Higgins has her haughter, Mrs. Higgins of Deatsville, as a visitor for several days.

The B. Y. P. U. is planning on a picnic at Lock 12 next Friday night, leaving here about four o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dyrhovd, Julian and Gail, and Mrs. T. M. Bakke and daughters, Catherine and Evangeline, spent Friday of last week in Montgomery.

At an annual meeting of the P.-T. A. last Friday held at the Public Schoolhouse the following officers were elected: Mrs. C. S. Howard, President; Mrs. J. E. Each, Vice President; Mrs. Raybon, Secretary; and Mrs. J. M. Bosworth, Treasurer. They also voted $100 on the new electric pump and fountains that have been installed at the school at the beginning of this year.

P.-T. A. TO PRESENT PLAY "WALK THIS WAY" AT COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Grammar School of Clanton are sponsoring a play, "Walk This Way" which they wil present at the High School auditorium October 11.

The characters in this play will be composed entirely of local talent.

The P.-T. A. has been sponsoring a play here each year for the past few years, and they have won an enviable reputation for putting on high class plays. Those who have attended the plays in the past—and most of the people in this community have—know that these plays in the past have been exceptionally fine for amateur players. Present indications are that this play will be fully up to the usual standards.

The P.-T. A. cordially invites you to make preparations to attend this play and assures you that you will be given an evening of first class entertainment.

COUNTY BRIEFS

Mrs. W. W. Fox will go to Sweetwater one day this week to see her father, Mr. A. J. Ware, who continues seriously ill.

CHILTON HIGH LOST TO BIBB

Centreville Took Our Second Game of Season By A Score of 12 to 0

Chilton County High School lost the second game of the season to Bibb Cunty High on the local field last Friday afternoon, 12 to 0. The Bibb team scored early in the first quarter, and put over another touchdown on the first play of the second quarter, which ended the scoring for the afternoon.

For three quarters of the game, spectators saw a light Chilton eleven fighting its heart out against a heavier, more experienced Bibb squad. Followers of the sport had nothing but praise for the great fight waged by Chilton's "Tigers". They certainly lived up to the name.

Stunned by the loss of Simms, captain and quarterback, and Melton, the best line plunger to show up at Chilton in years, Chilton was rushed off its feet in the early stages of the game. News of the loss of these two valuable men, holdovers from last years' eleven, which was made known on the eve of the battle, took the heart out of the remainder of the squad. With the loss of these two, predictions ran as high as 50 to 0 against the skeleton team which took the field for Chilton, yet the youngsters, most of them getting their first baptism of fire, behaved like veterans.

Retherford, Brown and Cox, the remaining letter men, behaved in excellent fashion, as was to be expected of them. Wagoner, who played on the Chilton eleven all of last year, showed up well. Retherford is the equal of any center that has ever worn the orange and blue. Sumner, the two Foshees, Robinson, and others of the new men, performed wonderfully.

Outweighed at least five pounds to the man, inexperienced in actual battle, the Chilton line was impregnable, stopping Bibb cold at the line of scrimmage most of the time, and at times going through to throw them for losses. Sumner's toe took the oval out of Chilton territory time and again. Jones is a ball hawk, recovering two fumbles.

It was the opinion of most of the spectators that, with the aid of Simms and Melton, Chilton would have about reversed the score. However, as the new men continue to pick up experience as the season progresses, Chilton should have a bunch of youngsters of which C. C. H. S. and Chilton County may well feel proud to have represent them on the gridiron.

With most of this year's team returning next year, Chilton should have a formidable array to shoot at opponents in next year's scraps.

Chilton meets Marbury High on the local field at 2:30 Friday afternoon. A good game is expected. Admission, 20c and 35c. Be there!

FLORENCE LEADERS FAVOR WRIGHT MUSCLE SHOALS BILL

Florence, Ala., Oct. 7.—In anticipation of the renewal of efforts for legislation concerning Muscle Shoals at the forthcoming regular session of Congress, the various civic bodies of Florence have gone on record as favoring the Wright bill, embodying the offer of the American Cyanimid Company.

Resolutions to that effect have been unanimously passed by the Florence Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary, Kiwanis, Exchange, Civitian and Pilot clubs, and similar action will shortly be taken by other local organizations.

After long study of the question, the citizens of Florence have become convinced that the Wright bill is not only the most desirable for Alabama and the South, but that it is the only measure now before Congress which would be approved by President Hoover. He would undoubtedly veto any government operation bill, as President Coolidge did, they believe, hence, they are asking the Alabama delegation in Congress to support the Wright bill.

Owing to a marked change in political conditions since the Muscle Shoals question was last before Congress, it is believed that with the united efforts of the people of Alabama the Wright bill may be enacted into law during the next session.

CLANTON QUARTET TO PUT ON PROGRAM AT BAKER SCHOOL

Mr. W. G. Culp, manager of the Clanton Quartet asks The Banner to announce that his group of singers will put on a varied program at the Baker Schoolhouse on Friday night of this week. It is being sponsored by the parent-teacher association of Baker school. The public has a cordial invitation to attend.

MR. BAZZ FOSHEE HURT BY AUTO SATURDAY

Last Saturday afternoon Mr. Bazz Foshee was hit by a passing automobile on the paved highway at South Clanton. His injuries were severe. The driver of the car, a Mr. Partridge, stopped and picked the injured man up, carrying him to the Central Alabama Hospital, for medical treatment.

It was thought at first that the injury might prove fatal, but close investigation of Mr. Foshee's condition, together with X-Ray pictures of his head, revealed that the skull was not fractured.

At this writing the patient's condition is reported favorable, and his recovery may be reasonably expected.

Mr. Foshee is a well-known farmer who lives south of Clanton. He is a brother of Joe and Charley Foshee.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. Curt Ingram was discharged last week.

Mrs. Paralee Holsomback will go home this week.

Mrs. H. G. Pate was operated on for appendicitis October 7.

Mr. J. Foshee was a patient at the hospital last week.

Miss Adie Roper is doing well following an appendix operation.

Mr. B. G. Foshee is in the hospital severely injured by being run down by a car on the highway.

Mrs. J. E. Dennis is in the hospital after an appendix operation.

Mrs. T. L. Kicker is in the hospital following an auto accident.

Little Joanne Atkinson was operated on last week.

Mr. J. S. Gay of Ashland was in the hospital last Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. Truman Lockhart was brought in last week suffering from an auto wreck.

Master Harold Mims was operated on Saturday.

JACK HAYES AT HOME FOR THE WINTER

The many friends and admirers of Jack Hayes greeted him on his return to Clanton Tuesday from Washington, where he has been playing third base for the Senators during the past season. He will spend the winter here at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes.

THE LEADER WILL BE CLOSED MONDAY

Mr. Maurice Lande, of The Leader, announces this week that his store will be closed next Monday in observance of Yom Kipper, the day of Atonement. This is a Jewish fast day of the Mosiac ritual which is observed annually by devout Jews throughout the world. The Jewish New Year 5690 began last Sunday.

500 Bales Of Cotton Lost In Fire Here

Goodgame's Warehouse And Gin Totally Destroyed Last Saturday Night

The gin and warehouse of Farmers Gin and Warehouse Co. No. 1, in the Gowan Addition, was destroyed by fire just after midnight last Saturday night. Something over 500 bales of cotton were lost in the fire.

The entire gin plant and warehouse was completely destroyed. It is said that the insurance carried will only partly cover the loss. Many farmers had from one to thirty bales in the fire and very few of them had any insurance.

The gin and warehouse was owned by Burns and Bill Goodgame, and was being operated by Burns. It was located on the old canning factory property.

The old Wade Gin in West End is owned by the same people and is being operated as Farmers Gin and Warehouse Co. No. 2.

AFTER PRAYER

(By Sara Henderson Hay)

LORD, I suspect you often look to earth,
Leaning from Heaven's gracious golden calm,
And hide a curve of rather goodly mirth,
Behind one kind, scarred palm—

At all the funny prayers we say to You,
And our so earnest scurryings to and fro,
As mothers smile at things their children do,
And never let them know.—

—The Churchman, New York.

CHILTON COUNTY CALF SHOW WILL BE IN CLANTON OCT. 17

Mr. Stapp announces that the calf club boys will exhibit their calves at Clanton October 17. Following the show at Clanton the boys will take their calves to the State Fair in Montgomery.

The biggest calf show ever held in Alabama was held in Birmingham last week when club boys and girls from eight counties exhibited their pure bred Jersey calves. Mr. Stapp states that the calves in Chilton County are looking good now and that he hopes that a large crowd will attend the show on the 18th.

A. J. WARE DIED MONDAY, OCT. 7

Deceased Was Father of Mrs. W. A. Reynolds and Mrs. W. W. Fox

After many months of suffering and affliction, the time-worn body of Albert Jackson Ware went the way of all things earthly, when his spirit made its flight to the realms of eternity on Monday, October 6th. His death occurred at the home of his son, W. A. Ware, at Sweetwater, in Perry County. Most of his children were at his bedside when the hour of parting came.

Mr. Ware was one of the noblest, sweetest men we have ever known. He was the embodiment of those finest traits of character which made him loved of all who knew him. In his advanced years he was calm, tranquil, and serene, typical of the quiet peaceful moments that always follow after the storm.

Albert Jackson Ware was born in Perry County 87 years ago. His wife was Miss Susan Elizabeth O'Neal, also of Perry County. She died forty years ago. The body of her husband was laid beside her grave on Tuesday in the presence of all the immediate members of the family, and a great host of friends who gathered to pay their last earthly tribute to one whom they loved and honored for the goodness of the life that had shown through his long years of residence among them.

Two of his daughters, Mrs. W. A. Reynolds and Mrs. W. W. Fox, live in Clanton. They were with their father when the final summons came.

HOOVER HAS SOUND IDEA FOR EFFECTIVE PROHIBITION

President Hoover in timely fashion points out the value of personal education in temperance. If the reform forces of the country will take up the campaign of education where it was left off ten years ago they will soon have a brighter picture to contemplate. The best way to help enforce the prohibition laws is to make the serving and drinking of illegal liquor unfashionable, and unpopular.

LOCAL BOYS WILL SING AT CONCERT AT HIGH SCHOOL OCT 18

The Clanton Quartet has been going all around over the State singing and putting on programs, and now they are coming home with their repertoire of sacred, comic and popular songs. This will be interesting news to the lovers of music in Clanton and vicinity. You have heard Stamps, Vaughan, and others, so now you will have the opportunity of hearing your own boys.

This concert is sponsored by the Woman's Missionary Union of the Clanton Baptist Church. Don't forget, it comes off Friday night of next week, October 18th.

WHEN TO HUNT DOVES

Editor Union-Banner:

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 3.—There seems to be some misunderstanding in reference to the open and closed season this year on doves.

The open season on all migratory birds is governed by Federal regulations under a treaty between this county and Canada, representing Great Britian.

In all counties in Alabama, under Federal regulations (the State Statute must conform to Government laws and regulations on migratory birds), except Mobile and Baldwin Counties, the open season on doves is during the month of September. After the last day of September the season closes and does not reopen until November 20th, and remains open until the last day of January, following.

In Mobile and Baldwin Counties there is no September open season on doves. In those two counties the season opens on November 1st and closes on January 31st, following.—Yours very truly, I. T. Quinn, Commissioner.

W. P. LAKEMAN HURT AT LOCK 12 LAST SATURDAY

Mr. W. P. Lakeman of Lock 12 was brought to Clanton last Saturday morning for treatment of an injured hand which he received while at his post of duty in the Lock 12 plant of the Alabama Power Company. His left hand got caught in one of the machines in the plant, severing two of his fingers, and crushing the other fingers so badly that the doctor had to take them off.

He remained at Doctor Napoleon Johnson's office until Sunday morning, when he was carried back home feeling fine.

J. J. ARMSTRONG DIED TUESDAY

Was One of The Landmarks Around Clanton. Buried at Concord Wedensday

James J. Armstrong, age 82 years, died about eight o'clock Tuesday night at the home of his son, Cleveland Armstrong, in Clanton, where he had made his home for some years past. About two weeks ago Mr. Armstrong was stricken nigh unto death, and he never recovered to any appreciable extent.

Mr. Armstrong was born in the year 1848 on Swift Creek in what was then Autauga County. Mr. Armstrong was one of the few remaining of our citizens who have lived in three different counties and have never changed their place of residence. Born in Autauga, later lived in Baker, and still later in Chilton.

Five sons survive Mr. Armstrong. They are Cleveland, John and Jim, and Cecil, of Clanton, and Mally, of Birmingham. Two sons dead were Rev. W. J. Armstrong and Grady Armstrong.

The funeral was held at Concord Church east of Clanton, at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Burial was in charge of Mell Martin.

PRESBYTERIANS OF STATE MEET

Opening Sermon Is Given By Dr. J. A. Bryan at Synod Session

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 8.—Appointment of a new moderator to succeed Judge Roger Snyder, of Birmingham, was the principal business before the opening session of the Alabama Synod of the Southern Presbyterian Church here Tuesday night.

Dr. J. A. Bryan, pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, delivered the opening sermon. He also presided over the committee on synod work which met Tuesday preliminary to convening of the synod.

More than 100 delegates, pastors and elders representing churches all over the state were here Tuesday night for the convention.

Wednesday's session will be featured by a communion service. Dr. W. R. Dobyns of Birmingham, moderator of the General Assembly, will deliver the principal address.

THE WORLD SERIES

The World Series promises to be one of the most interesting one in many seasons. Two strong teams will battle for the World's Baseball Crown and to the victor shall go the Glory.

To those who are interested, here in Clanton, it may be said that they can hear thees games in detail, called play by play directly from the field, at Mr. Fox's Store over his Radio.

The Radio is clear and distinct which makes each play enjoyable. Daddy Fox invites you to hear these games at his store.

UNITY ASSOCIATION HELD THIS WEEK

The Unity Baptist Association was held at Mt. Carmel Church near Pletcher, on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. J. Z. Mims is Moderator of the association, and Grady Harris is Clerk. The Unity organization is one of the oldest associations of Baptist churches in Alabama.

COTTON STOLEN MONDAY NIGHT

Mr. Ed Bruce reports that theives relieved him of a bale of cotton Monday night. He had it stored in his new house on the highway north of town, ready to bring to the gin. All the information Mr. Bruce has been able to gather about the transaction is that the person who got his cotton went north with it.

Mr. Brewer Glenn, who lives south of town reports that he has also lost some seed cotton. He says he had five bales weighed up to bring to the gin, and when he got there with it there were only four and a half bales.

MISS CORRINE POLK HONORED AT ATHENS COLLEGE

Miss Corrinne Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Polk, of Clanton, has been accorded a distinct honor at the hands of the student body of Athens College, where she has entered for the freshman year.

From a report in The Crow's Nest, the Athens College Paper, we read that Miss Polk has been elected to represent the Freshman Class on a committee to assist the president of the student body in drawing up a constitution, and to serve on the student council.

Self government for the student body was inaugurated on October 4th when a plan for the organization was presented by the vice president of the college.

"WALK THIS WAY"

Musical Show For The Benefit of The P.-T. A.

The charm of the play will be greatly added to by the good dancing of sixteen lovely Chorus Girls.

NEW EQUIPMENT AT ALABAMA SHOE SHOP

Mr. Jesse E. Teel, proprietor of the Alabama Harness and Shoe Shop in Clanton announces the installation of a new machine at his shop, which is especially designed for repairing of shoes for ladies and children.

This is a special line of repair work which demands something different in the way of equipment. Ladies and childrens shoes can not be repaired like mens shoes, because they are not made like mens shoes in the first place.

It is in order to meet this special demand that Mr. Teel has installed the special new machine. In addition to the special machine, this shop carries suitable stocks of leather and other materials needed for repairing of womens' shoes.

"This new equipment practically puts our shop in position to do fancy shoe work on a factory basis," said Mr. Teel.

Small Merchant Had Better Wake Up

Mail Order Houses Enjoying Biggest Business In Their History

The mail order houses are doing the biggest business they have ever done in the history of this country. Hundreds of dollars are going away from Chilton County every day—and some days we venture to say that the money order sales from all the post-offices of the county if totaled up would go a thousand dollars or more to the big mail order houses. And it is for goods that our little merchants have in their shelves for sale.

The mail order business is growing. They have worked out plans whereby they can just naturally pull the business out of people—they make their plans attractive and they get the business. They pay the postage on all goods shipped and even pay postage on the envelopes in which orders are sent in. Attractive advertising is sent out in the form of colored catalogs, circulars, etc., and all of it is done systematically.

And how can the local merchants combat this encroachment? They can do it in only one way, and that is by advertising and doing it systematically and effectively. And prices play a great part. A merchant can no longer hold a man up and get by with it; our people are intelligent and they cannot be fooled up. They demand fair treatment and they are going to get it one way or another. If they can't get full value for their money in Clanton they will send it to Atlanta or Chicago or New York. So, it is time our small merchants were waking up to this situation which is growing worse every day.

WORK STARTED ON NEW ROAD

Grading From Rockford to River Will Be Finished In About Sixty Days

Work began last week on the grading of the Chilton County slipe of the state road connecting Rockford with the cement highway between Verbena and Coopers. The grading was started on the west end of the road where it intersects the cement highway near the home of Mrs. Dock Jones about a mile south of Coopers, and will continue toward the river. This work is being done with free labor contracted to a Mr. Turner, an experienced road builder.

The grading of the Coosa county part of this road will be completed within about two months if the weather conditions do not interfere too much. An approach to the ferry landing is now being graded on the Coosa side. It is said that work of topsoiling the Coosa section of the road will be started just as soon as the grading over there is finished.

Mr. Turner is reported to have said that if the weather stays suitable he will finish the grading on the Chilton side by Christmas. There are seven miles of the road in Chilton County and 14 miles in Coosa County, making the total distance from Rockford to the cement highway 21 miles. The distance from Clanton to Rockford by the new road will be approximately 29 miles.

Mr. Charlie Wyatt is making application to the commissioners courts of Chilton and Coosa counties for a permit to operate a ferry across the river at the point where the road crosses, which is at the mouth of Fall Branch or about one-half mile below Mitchell Dam. Mr. Wyatt says that he sees no reason why the permit will not be granted him, and in case it is he will proceed immediately to put in a ferry adequate to take care of the traffic that will pass over the road. He will have his ferry going by the time traffic is permitted to pass over the new road.

The work of grading the Coosa part of the road was done with convict labor. Two steam shovels were used over there, and Mr. Turner says that he will use steam shovels on the Chilton side as soon as the grading gets well under way.

BIGGEST SINGING AND TALKING PICTURE AT ALABAMA THEATRE

Moran and Mack, "The Two Black Crows," the men who have made tens of millions laugh, are going to be in Birmingham shortly, not in person but just the same if not better, because these holders of all phonograph and radio popularity records, are going to be at the Alabama the week of October 14, in a new all-talking Paramount production, "Why Bring That Up."

It has been many years since Moran and Mack worked in what is known as a "production," that is a straight play and not until Paramount was able to obtain Octavus Roy Cohen, Alabama's greatest humorist, to do a story for them was it considered likely that they would ever do it again. But when they read the Cohen story, the story of two blackface stars who have spent their lives in unbroken friendship which in the end is threatened by a girl (and what a girl), Moran and Mack forget that their phonograph records are selling by the millions and that every radio station held an open microphone for them.

They started to work on the story, "Why Bring That Up," and the result of their story is one of the greatest comedies the screen has ever known. "Why Bring That Up," has just enough drama to carry the story along and anyone can imagine the laughs that will be found in that comedy when it is remembered that the Two Black Crows themselves, Roy Cohen, and half a dozen others of the most famous writers in Hollywood got to work on the dialogue.

Evelyn Brent is the girl in the case, a singing and dancing vaudevillian who threatens the separation of the minstrel men. And never has Miss Brent, who is one of the most popular stars of the day, had a better role than in this laugh riot. The remainder of the cast is up to the standard required for such famous stars as head the list.

"Why Bring That Up," is all of the comedy that the Two Black Crows have put out in years rolled into a glittering and gorgeous show.

T. L. McKee of Hot Springs, Ark. was in Clanton the first of this week looking after business matters. Mr. McKee is running a store where a big dam is being constructed near Hot Springs.

"Walk This Way" Friday night, at the high school auditorium. It will be a delightful play. Come.

EACH COUNTY PLANS A STRONG ORGANIZATION

Farm leaders of Alabama are making plans for an intensive state-wide farm organization membership drive during the first two weeks of November, according to R. G. Arnold, J. T. High, and Emmett Sizemore, extension district agents, who are working with county agents, county farm bureau officials, leading farmers and others in working out details. The purpose of this is to build a strong organization of farmers in each county.

Three state-wide meetings of county agents, farm leaders and business men have been held at Selma, Dothan and Decatur. These were called by the district agents and were discussed by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, who urged all present to spend every effort in getting Alabama farmers to organize in order to receive maximum aid from the newly created Federal Farm Board, which offers aid to organized farmers only.

Dr. Knapp declared that unorganized farmers are trying to do business on an ox cart basis in this day when the rest of the world has learned to travel 300 miles per hour by aeroplane. He said that the only answer he can give to the problem of orderly distribution and marketing of farmers' products in large groups or bodies so handled as to serve the public and return the savings or the profits as the case may be into the hands of producers.

Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of extension service, attended the meetings and pledged the support of the extension service staff in the organization membership drive. He said that one of the greatest services the extension service has rendered farmers of the state is the assistance it has given in the organization of a farmer-owned and farmer-controlled organization.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation also attended and explained that the Farm Bureau has recently added life insurance for each member of the organization. He feels that this feature alone will justify farmers of the state in becoming members of their farm organization. Many other services are rendered.—L. O. Brackeen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porch and little daughter, Harriet Kate, and Mr. and Mrs. Jean Wyatt and little daughter, Eugenia Inez, attended the State Fair at Birmingham Friday afternoon.

The cling-vine type of girl is said to be scarce now, but she is frequently seen winding her tendrils around the automobile driver.—Newark Advocate.

Being led into temptation seems to be a popular pastime with a lot of people.—Bloomington Plantagraph.

"RIDE 'IM, COWBOY!" AND THERE ARE ALL SORTS WHO DO ON 101 RANCH

Yip! Whoopee! Ride 'im, cowboy!" Although there are 600 horses—and many outlaws among them—with Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Real Wild West and Circus, coming with Jack Hoxie, famous western film star, in person and a great street parade on the forenoon of exhibition day, to Selma Saturday, October 12, for two performances, afternoon and night, at the Range Line road circus grounds, there are plenty of star cowboys to ride the most vicious bronchos, cayuses, buckers, renegades and man-killers. All look alike to the cowhands with the biggest of all wild west shows, and to many of the cowgirls, too.

And among the foreign contingents there are scores of riders, who also know the tricks of the west in handling the meanest of four-footed hurricanes. For among the 1,100 people with the big 101 Ranch show is a veritable congress of the rought riders of the world.

Jealousy among the riders with a wild west show? Hardly—not with the Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch. It's just keen rivalry. The cowboys and cowgirls refuse to permit the European cavalrymen, the Cossacks, the Indians or the vaqueros to top them in any manner of riding—rough, high jumping, fancy, trick or in fashions native to the various contingents with the big troupe. Hence, there never before was such a gathering of reckless riders. One sees the cowboys doing Cossack tricks on their racing ponies, and the Cossacks coming back at them with the favorite stunts of corral or round-up. And, just for good measure, the European riders will be seen clamped on the pitching outlaws of the "busters." You'll see them all, and lots more, in the arena and the brand new street parade when the 101 Ranch Wild West comes to town.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court in Equity, No. 824.
A. J. Bullard, Complainant, vs. Aurrie Belvie Bullard, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and postoffice address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affaint, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years;

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Aurrie Belvie Bullard, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 10th day of November, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 5th day of October, 1929.

10-10-4t W. D. SPIGENER, Register.

REPORT OF COTTON GINNED

There were 5,351 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County prior to September 16 of this year, as compared with 1,854 bales ginned prior to the same date last year.

The totals of ginning for the state this year prior to September 16 were 347,673, and for last year 79,970.

PLANT OATS NOW FOR CHEAP FEED

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 5.—Plant oats in the fall for cheap feed is the recommendation of the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. In making this recommendation Director M. J. Funchess and others of his staff quote data on experiments conducted by the experiment station over a period of 21 years, proving that for largest yields oats should be planted in the fall in Alabama.

During these 21 years fall oats beat spring oats 19 years and the average per-acre yield of fall oats was 34 bushels against 17 for spring oats.

As further evidence in favor of oats, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, presented figures showing that labor spent in making oats in Alabama was liberally rewarded. A recent survey revealed that an hour spent in making oats returned $1.00 as compared to 40 cents for corn and 45 cents for cotton.

Although oats are killed occasionally, framers' reports say that over a period of ten years no other crop has given a greater return than oats for feed at so small an outlay for seed, labor, and fertilizer. Lowery advises planting enough oats to make feed for work animals and cows.

October is the main month for planting oats. In the past late September and October oats have produced more than oats planted in November. Frequently the ratio was as great as two to one.

Fulghum and the red rustproof varieties are recommended as best for Alaabma. Red rustproof includes, Appler, Bancroft, Hastings 110-bushel, and Texas red.

To prevent smut, treatment with formaldehyde is recommended. This treatment consists o fmixing one pint of 40 per cent formaldehyde to ten gallons of water and wetting the seed thoroughly with this solution.

Pay of privates in the Japanese army has been raised from $1.00 to $1.50 a month.

Seizure of 557 pounds of anesthetic ether which failed to meet requirements of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia was made by Federal authorities in the last twenty days, according to officials of the Food, Drug, and Insecticide Administration, U. S. D. A. Seizures were made in San Francisco, Kansas City, Seattle, Hoboken, Minneapolis, and Chicago.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS

Greater demand for pecans may be expected in the next few years in the opinion of wholesalers and retailers interviewed in a marketing survey being made by the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Sellers in 22 cities declared that sales of pecans have increased steadily in recent years.

The Federal government reports that the farm mortgage debt has increased slightly. The total amount of farm mortgage indebtedness in the United States on January 1, 1928, was about $108,000,000, or about 1 per cent, greater than on January 1, 1925. Total on January 1, 1928, was $9,468,000,000.

Total yield of crops this year will run about 6 per cent below the 10-year average, on account of severe summer drought, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture in its October report on the agricultural situation.

Police authorities are trying to learn what becomes of more than 4,000 girls who mysteriously disappear from their homes in France every year. It is feared that many of these girls are victims of an international white slave traffic.

Chicks raised indoors and not in direct sunlight need cod liver oil in their ration. The material does not cause bowel trouble as many poultrymen seem to think.

Farmers and stockmen lose 20,000,000 dollars a year in the skin game, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. The skin game referred to is the production, curing and marketing of hides and skins of farm animals. The loss is due to wasteful methods in skinning animals and curing hides.

Terracing farm land in the fall as soon as possible after the previous crop has been harvested is a good practice. This prevents erosion, loss of soil fertility, and loss of money.

Farms having a large proportion of non-tillable land or wooded area suitable for grazing are especially adapted for dairy cows or for breed-adapted for dairy cows or for a breeding herd from which beef calves can be produced for fattening. Take stock.

AUBURN RADIO PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 7.—Valuable farm information gathered from the oldest agricultural experiments in the South will be given over Station WAPI from Auburn by R. Y. Bailey of the Alabama Experiment Station on the Thursday noon program, Oct. 10. Other features during the week will be of interest to farm women.

Because of the broadcasting of the World Series games on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 11 and 12, beginning at 12:00 o'clock, the Auburn broadcast on those days will be from 11:00 to 11:30 A. M. All other noon programs will be on the air as usual from 12:00 to 12:30.

Thursday, October 10

"Increasing the weight of turkeys during the finishing period also adds to the quality, and this often means about 5 cents more per pound. October 1 is not too early to begin feeding for the Thanksgiving market. It is not wise to confine turkeys for fattening."—G. A. Trollope, extension poultryman at Auburn.

If farm machinery lasts, gives good service, and pays a return for its cost, it must be stored in some place other than along the ditch bank or under trees.

CHARLEY BOWLES THANKS DR. GRAGG AND THE HOSPITAL

Edtor Union-Banner:

Please tell your many readers that I certainly appreciate the splendid treatment I received from Dr. Gragg and the nurses at the Central Alabama Hospital while and after I was operated on for appendicitis several weeks ago. I had a mighty close call, but through their care and vigilance I am now well on the road to recovery and am feeling fine. I wish to thank all of my friends for the encouragement offered me while I was so sorely in need of it.—Charley Bowles, Clanton Route 4.

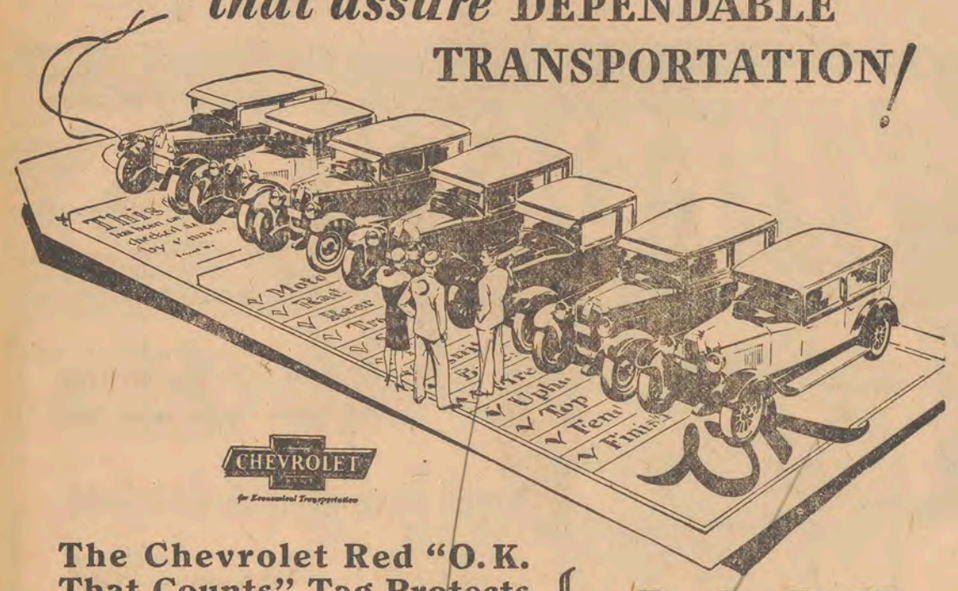
SINGERS USED NEW BOOKS AT CONCORD SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The regular first Sunday afternoon singing was held at Concord church last Sunday afternoon. A number of good singers from other communities as well as from Concord were present, and a very good singing was had. The new books—both Showalter and Stamps, were used. The chairman, Melvin Mims, was absent but Mr. S. L. Baker acted as chairman, and after opening the service called upon the following directors: O. L. Devaughn, L. T. Grant, T. E. Wyatt, W. M. Devaughn, Ralph Grant, Marion Easterling, and Jesse Baker. Before the last director a quartet was rendered by Messrs. W. M. Devaughn, L. T. Grant, O. L. Devaughn and Ralph Grant, with C. H. Robinson at the piano. Those who performed at the piano during the afternoon were C. H. Robinson and Ralph Grant.



Although the books were new, everyone enjoyed trying the new songs, and the singing was very good.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 13

KEEPING FIT FOR THE SAKE OF OTHERS

Temperance Lesson

LESSON TEXT—Dan. 1:8-20, I Cor. 9:19-27, I Tim. 4:7-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own, for ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Taking Care of Our Bodies.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Keeping Fit.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Self-control for the Common Good

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Temperance Essential to the Highest Usefulness.

In the use of this as a temperance lesson it must be borne in mind that it is temperance in the sense of self-mastery rather than indulgence in intoxicating liquors.

1. The Self-mastery of Daniel and His Companions (Dan. 1:5-20).

These young men were wrenched from their homes and country in the tender years of youth and carried away as captives to a strange land.

1. Their trials (vv. 5-7).

(1) The test of conscience (v. 5). By the appointment of the king, a portion of the king's meat and wine was provided daily for the captives. This being contrary to the Jewish customs, the young men could not conscientiously partake of them. Conscience is the groundwork of human character.

(2) Changed name (vv. 6, 7). Among the Hebrews, names were given to children which were most significant. Daniel means "God is my judge." The significance of this name was that all the problems of life were submitted to God for His decision. This was the secret of Daniel's successful life.

(3) Their religious life (v. 8). This involved their refusal to eat meat and to drink wine. In the case of Daniel at least, it also involved his praying three times a day. Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with this food and drink.

2. Their courtesy (vv. 8-13). Daniel seems to have been the spokesman for the company. Although his heart was fixed, he did not forget to be a gentleman. He requested that he be excused from this meat and drink in order not to be defiled.

3. Their triumph (vv. 14-21).

(1) Their physical health (vv. 14-16). A test was made for ten days which showed that they were fairer in countenance and fatter in flesh than those who indulged in the king's meat.

(2) Their mental growth (vv. 17-20). Daniel and his companions were found to be ten times better than their comrades in wisdom and understanding.

(3) Social and political preferment (v. 19). They stood before the king.

(4) Their temporal influence (v. 21). All were advanced to positions of influence, and Daniel became president of the college of wise men and the prime minister of the nation.

II. Paul Advises the Corinthians as to Self-control (I Cor. 9:19-27).

The Corinthians were an intemperate and a dissolute people. No city in the world perhaps exceeded them in vices of all kinds. The surest and most effective way to combat vice is to inculcate virtue.

1. Paul's own life and example (vv. 19-23). Though free from all men, he made himself servant unto all.

2. The Isthmian games (vv. 24-27). Paul uses these popular games to illustrate the need of self-control.

(1) Life is a race (vv. 24, 25). In order to win a prize there must be self-denial and definite exertion. The Christian obtains life by contact with Jesus Christ through faith (John 3:16; 3:36; 5:24). While he gets salvation (life) at the beginning, God places before him definite rewards as incentives to exertion. The Christian believes for life, but works for rewards.

(2) It is a fight (vv. 26, 27). The Christian's efforts are not mere beatings of the air. He has a deadly struggle with his carnal nature.

III. Paul's Advice to Timothy (I Tim. 4:7-12).

A minister needs to have control of himself. He is urged to exercise himself unto godliness. He needs to train himself for his work as a teacher and a minister.

RURAL HOMES TAKEN OUT OF DARKNESS

Lapine, Ala., Oct. 1.—This little farming community of less than fifty families was this week literally taken out of darkness, when the Alabama Power Company's rural division threw a switch and sent the company's silent force into thirty-five homes where for a century or more the tallow candle and the oil lamp had furnished the only source of illumination and man power had hewed the wood, pumped the water and performed the various chores "about the place." Now it is different. The new generation, fortunate indeed to live in this modern age of electricity, has conquered, through the generous spirit of the power company, these medieval contrivances which were permitted to extend their usefulness to this modern day.

And with the light came a greater happiness, for joy must of necessity reign supreme when the proverbial household drudgery, common to a greater degree in the rural home, goes to the discard in the wake of electric energy. The old wood stove, the dasher of the churn, the squeaking pump, the axe, the scrub-board, the hand-saw and all of the attendant backaches, waste of time, loss of money and telling strains on eyes and body will be no more once this mystifying, indefinable energy is put to the task in these thirty-five homes.

Lapine is one of many similar communities in Alabama to which the Alabama Power Company during recent years carried its service. These thirty-five Lapine homes are numbered among more than 15,000 which have been lifted out of darkness into light by an organization that, it is understood, is extending its lines into such communities and even into "byways and hedges," though this service does not return its cost at present to the company.

Truly a new day for this little village when the oil lamp bowed in submission to its conqueror; when drudgery in all of its forms yielded to its modern foe, a force which a few years ago was common only to the urban dweller. Now that it is slowly but surely reaching out to the remote places, farm life becomes more inviting, thereby placing it on a more equal basis with the other pursuits of life, lifting it to a higher plane of efficiency, comfort and remuneration.

It was only a few months ago that the proposal was made by the power company to extend a transmission line to Lapine and furnish lights for the business and residential section of the town. Highland Home and Ramer are also included in the newly lighted area, while other towns in this section of Montgomery County are soon to join the procession.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Willie Bean Jr., entertained Friday afternoon honoring her little daughter, Frances's sixth birthday.

Punch was served on the porch by Ruth Esco as the children arrived. Many games were played by the children, and they were then invited into the dining room where the Hallowe'en idea was carried out. The birthday cake holding six yellow candles, was banked with goldenrod and fern. Hallowe'en favors were given and ice cream was served to the following: Lillian Smith, Dempsey Atchinson, Bernice Lowe, Mary Frances and Joan Atkinson, James Carl Martin, Nell Rockett, Wilbur Prince, Gertrude Eubanks, Essie White, Paul Gowan, Mae Anice Polk, Ann Ross, Wendoll Parrish, Kenneth Thompson, Jr., Harold Foshee, Peggy Davis, John Franklin, Joyce Varden, Billie Bean, Ruth Esco, Margie Nell Jones, Ruth Jones, Edith Parrish, Kathleen Armstrong and others.

Miss Mary Clements, one of the teachers at the Jemison school, visited Mrs. Willie Bean last Tuesday.

FORESTRY REPORT ISSUED

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 7.—The report on forestry conditions in the state for the calendar year 1928 has recently been published by the State Commission of Forestry. While delivered in manuscript form to the Governor in April, printing of the Report was delayed for some months on account of lack of funds.

As published, the Annual Report is a neat and attractive pamphlet, well illustrated with cuts showing interesting phases of forestry. For the first time a summary of the forest land in each of the counties of the state is compiled and issued. This indicates a total of twenty-three million acres of land chiefly valuable, under current conditions for the production of timber. Of this more than half, or slightly more than twelve million acres, is included in organized forestry districts.

An interesting feature of the Report is the progress shown in forest planting. Two hundred sixteen landowners resorted to this system of reforestation during the year. The planting was done in thirty-one counties. Another noteworthy item is that indicating the reduction of the area burned over by fires. Prior to the initiation of the State's work in forestry, from thirty-five to fifty per cent of the forest land of the commonwealth was burned over annually. For the past three years, however, carefully compiled statistics show the proportion to have been reduced to approximately six percent.

Persons desiring copies of the Report may obtain them by writing to the State Forester, 500 Dexter Ave., Montgomery, Alabama.

SNAVELY WILL ATTEND EDUCATIONAL MEETINGS

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 7.—As president of the American College Association and member of the National Advisory Committee on Education, President Guy E. Snavely of Birmingham-Southern College will attend October 14-19 important educational meetings in Washington, Madison, N. J., and Spartanburg, S. C., according to college announcements.

Leaving October 13, Dr. Snavely will attend in Washington October 14-15 the meeting of the National Advisory Committee on Education, appointed by Dr. R. Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, to advise the government on arrangement of educational work in government departments. Other members of the committee from the South are President Denny of the University of Alabama, and President Chase of the University of North Carolina. President Snavely is also a member of the American Council on Education.

Dr. Snavely will represent the college and the American Association of Colleges and the Southern College Association as secretary, at the inauguration of Dr. Arlo A. Brown as president of Drew University at Madison, N. J. Dr. Brown was formerly president of the neighboring college, University of Chattanooga, (Tenn.) October 18-19, Dr. Snavely will represent Birmingham-Southern College and the two important educational associations at the seventy-fifth anniversary of Woffard College, Spartanburg, S. C.

CHEVROLET SMASHES PRODUCTION RECORD AGAIN

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5.—The Chevrolet Motor Company announced here today that more than 1,200,000 of the new six cylinder Chevrolet cars have been placed on the road since the first of the year.

This achievement accomplished in little over nine months, is three times the best showing of any other manufacturer of six cylinder cars in a calendar year and tops Chevrolet's record total for the entire year of 1928.

It is now certain that six cylinder production will set a world record this year, surpassing for the first time in the history of the industry the output of four cylinder cars. This leadership of the sixes will come about chiefly because of Chevrolet's record showing this year.

Chevrolet factory officials declare that the dominating reason back of the leadership of the six is the public preference for the advantages whch this type of construction affords. They point out too that the influence of great volume production, which has enabled the industry to get six cylinder prices down to the lowest on record and has made it possible for Chevrolet through maximum volume to offer six cylinder performance at a price that formerly bought only a four.

With a new yearly record already assured, Chevrolet factories are continuing on the biggest Fall production program ever undertaken by the company. Nine assembly plants and seven large manufacturing plants are facing the busiest final quarter that Chevrolet has ever known.

The heavy Fall factory program was made necessary, it was explained to bring production up to the level of the demand and make possible quicker deliveries to owners.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Location of the Black Belt agricultural experiment sub-station on the Muddhall property two miles north of Marion Junction in Dallas County was announced recently by the commission designated by the last legislature to select locations for five such sub-stations in various parts of the State.

The 1927 Legislature, in addition to its work in providing for a great expansion along educational and public health lines, also enacted progressive agricultural legislation of a practical nature for the benefit of the farmers of the State. Provision was made for establishment of five agricultural experiment sub-stations, one to be located each in the Tennessee Valley, the Sand Mountain section, the Wiregrass, the Black Belt, and the Gulf coast area. Experiments will be conducted at these substations to determine the best methods for economical production of crops adapted to the respective areas. Alaabma, it is stated, has over 200 different soil types, a greater variety than any other state. The state also has a great climatic range, extending north and south 330 miles and ranging from an elevation of 2,407 feet in Talladega County to sea level on the Gulf Coast. This great diversity of conditions makes it difficult to reach conclusions best adapted to the needs of the entire State from one central experiment station, and make highly desirable the establishment of these agricultural sub-stations on the main large soil types or provinces of the State. At these substations experiments will be carried on in crop fertilization and other phases of production, development of pastures, fruit and vegetable growing, etc. with a view to determining the methods which are best suited to the needs of each section. These farms will be operated under direct control of the central State experiment station at Auburn, which has already done much for the farmers of the State.

The commission to select locations for the sub-stations is composed of the commissioner of agriculture, S. P. Storrs, and the director of the State Experiment Station, M. J. Funchess, the legislature having provided that the men holding these two offices should serve on the commission, and a third member, R. J. Goode, of Gastonburg, who was appointed by the Governor as provided in the sub-station act. Mr. Goode is a prominent farmer and was chairman of the legislative recess committee on agriculture.

The Black Belt sub-station was the last to be located, the other four having been located as follows: the Gulf Coast sub-station near Fairhope in Baldwin County; the Wiregrass farm near Headland in Henry County; the Sand Mountain sub-station near Crossville in DeKalb County; and the Tennessee Valley farm at Belle Mina in Limestone County.

The Black Belt sub-station location of which was recently announced, comprises 1,116 acres of soils typical of the Black Belt. This acreage is sufficient to enable large scale experiments to be undertaken in pasturage, forest growth, hay growing, cereal production and a general diversity of fertilizer experiments together with other features connected with experiment work in the Black Belt.

According to the soil survey made by J. F. Stroud, the tract contains typical developments of all the great soils of this region. The red clays, or Oktibbeha soils are well developed, as are the grayish limey clays of the Sumter series. The Eutaw Clay, a black flat rather poorly drained type has a large acreage and it was explained that the Eutaw formed a large acreage in Alabama and its development and economic utilization was a matter of great importance.

The Bell clay is a benchlike type lying well above overflow on some of the larger streams. This black clay is very productive of hay although as in the case of the Eutaw clay, the question of drainage will have to be carefully considered and studied.

It was explained that since the coming of the weevil, cotton had not been widely grown on the black belt clays and that this great soil province had lagged behind in development of a type of farming adapted to its needs. Hence experimental work will be needed to show the best kinds of farming to be followed out.

ATWATER KENT
SCREEN-GRID RADIO

You needn't be an expert to see why it does what every radio would like to do

YOU may not know the first thing about the inside of a radio set—about the mysterious goings-on that change faint vibrations of the ether into music.

But you do know that in order to do a perfect job, a radio must be designed and built with more than ordinary skill.

Step into our store and look at an Atwater Kent Screen-Grid receiver, stripped for inspection. Look at it closely. It invites examination—glories in it.

You needn't be an expert to see that this is no ordinary radio. One glance tells the story. You know by the superb workmanship.

And what you see is a measure of the fineness of what you don't see. The hidden things in an Atwater Kent get just as careful attention as the visible things.

In the winding of miles of wire finer than a human hair—in adjustments as close as one-half of one-thousandth of an inch—in the sealing of parts that moisture might affect—in the attention lavished on every one of the 1705 parts of an Atwater Kent Set—in the 752 tests or inspections of each set before it can leave the factory—the Atwater Kent reputation is guarded as jealously as you would guard your own.

Does it count—this extra care, this almost unbelievable precision? Listen to an Atwater Kent Screen-Grid. Hear the answer in the unruffled purity of tone. Feel it in the surge of controlled power. See how the station you want is separated from others by needle-point selectivity. Find out how the miles between you and the broadcasting studios are erased by a radio that pulls in "distance" without half trying.

Of course, it counts! It has counted for twenty-seven years of Atwater Kent manufacture—seven years of radio. It counts more than ever today in the obvious all-round superiority of the new Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Set.

The radio that doesn't argue but proves— the radio that most people are buying—that sells by the tens of thousands*, because it's the radio that does what every radio would like to do.

*The number of Atwater Kents that have gone into the homes of the world is over 2,550,000.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

THE BOOK OF GENESIS

This is the greatest book ever written. It is the greatset of the sixty-six books of the Bible. It is one book in five called the Pentateuch, the book of the law. The word Genesis in the old Hebrew text means the head, the top, a beginning. Then this book of Genesis is the head, the beginning and introduction to the whole Bible. It is composed of events covering a period of 2315 years. It is so important that sixty of its quotations are given in seventeen books of the New Testament.

In the beginning this book teaches us that God created, that is made out of nothing, the heavens and the earth, the birds of the air, the fish of the sea, the animals, the firmament, light, etc. God made man out of the clay of the earth. The word Adam means "clay." Then God made man of the clay of the earth, and gave him a great distinction. He breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and he became a living soul with the great gift of a sense of God and the world to come. What a great distinction that we can think of God and the world to come.

Really this book is the only one that has any claim on history. These fifty chapters of Genesis were given their rightful place in the Bible centuries after they were written. It opens with the beginning of all things. In it we find the beginning of happiness, the beginning of sin, and the beginning of redemption from sin, the beginning of salvation. Sin or the corruption of the race, began in that beautiful Garden of Eden where happiness reigned supremely in the obedience to God's law. Then God gives in the book the promise of redemption by the seed of a woman.

This book should be one of serious consideration. In it we find God's covenants with his people. First we will think of the Adamic covenant. God said to Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, "Don't eat of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, and you shall live forever." This covenant they did not obey, and thus began sin, man's fall. But God said in his great covenant, "I now make this promise to you that the seed of a woman shall bruise the serpent's head." The promised seed of the woman was Christ, the coming Messiah, who would bruise the serpent's head, the devil.

Then we find another covenant which God made with Noah. He said to Noah, "If you will build an ark, and take two of every living thing therein and all your family I will save you from the great flood which I am sending because of the great wickedness of the world." No doubt this covenant was sealed with a slain lamb offered on the alter of sacrifice. Every covenant between God and man is sealed with Christ's precious blood. That is the reason we emphasize the Christian Endeavor pledge and the church vows. They are covenants, agreements between God and man.

Think of the Arabhamic covenant. God called Abram from Ur of Caldees, one of the most wicked, ungodly, idol-worshipping, places of that day and time. God called Abram from this country in Syria in these words; "Abram, get thee out of thy country, away from thy kin, into a land which I will show thee. And in thee show all the families of the earth be blessed, because I will make of thee a great nation." This covenant was fulfilled when Christ as the seed of Abraham came as a blessing to all the families of the earth.

Then there is a Palestian covenant. This palestinian Covenant we find in the fact that forty-one of the sixty-six books of the Bible were written in palestine. Next we have the Davidic covenant in which God promised to never fail in his kingly office, but would provide a man to sit on his throne. This covenant David sealed with a slain lamb offered on the alter of sacrifice. Every slain lamb pointed to Christ, the lamb of God who would be slain for the sins of the whole world on Calvary's shameful, accursed cross.

Christ comes and makes the covenant of the cross with you and me to-day in shedding his blood on the cross for our remission from sin upon the condition of our acceptance. As a commemorating seal of this covenant we are to partake of the elements of the sacrament; the bread representing his broken and sacrificed body: and the wine, representing his blood shed. "Now if you believe on me," says Christ, "trust, love, honor, and obey me, and I will reward you with a crown of life." Christ's supreme sacrifice, his blood of the new testament is a fulfillment of all those slain lambs of the old scriptures which pointed to him.

Now in the first twelve chapters of Genesis as I have already stated we have the fall of man, and the great Messianic promise of redemption. This great promise of redemption is given in Genesis 3:15, these words, "The seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head." Noah's ark in itself is a type of Christ. All who went therein at God's command were saved from the flood. I saw Mount Ararat on which the ark rested after the flood while I was in the holy land. Now all who accept Christ's covenant are saved by coming to him and trusting in him. This great Messianic promise gave hope to a lost, a corrupt world. And to-day with the acceptance of his atoning blood all may be saved. My heart and life is empty without it, and so is yours.

When Abram and Sarai left Ur of Caldee in Syria we find that Sarai had household idols which she did not get rid of. I wonder to-day how many women in this country have household idols? She carried them along with her and kept them hid. Are you trying to hide your household idols or gods? Abram, later Abraham was one of the greatest men of all Syria. He was faithful and true to God at all times. After he and Sarai had encamped the first thing he did was to build an altar and offer sacrifice, calling on the name of the Lord. Some men are very pious until they get married, and then they break their wife's heart by telling them that they are not interested in such things and are not going to church with them. But old Abraham was faithful to God and it was accounted unto him for righteousness.

When I was in Damascus I visited the home of Judas where I believed Annanias lived. I saw the place called Rimmon where Abraham would not go with the king to worship idols. I stood there and looked at the Lebanon mountains and that beautiful road with its grand scenery and could imagine seeing old Abram and Sarai passing along it. I thought of faithful Abraham and felt that I must be more faithful myself. I thought of Isaac who was born away down there at Hebron as the beloved only son.

Then I thought of Jacob and Esau the sons of Isaac and Rebekkah. I thought of how Jacob in his cunning and deceit shielded by his mother became a thief. But when Jesus Christ came into his heart at the brook Jabbok he became a blessing. I would not leave Joseph, the 11th son of Jacob and Rachel out. Certainly Joseph was a true type of Christ. He was carried down into Egypt as a slave, and we find him there being faithful to God even tho he is cast into a dark dungeon.

When Jacob, Joseph's father died he pronounced a blessing upon Judah in these words: "The scepter shall not from Judah, nor a law-giver from between his feet, until Shiloh come." Here he was referring to Christ, as the Shiloh, who would come down, be born in Bethlehem, the city of David; and would die for the salvation of the whole world. We notice in the 1st chapter of Genesis and the 1st verse these words: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Then in the last chapter of Genesis and the last verse we read these words: "So Joseph died, being an hundred and ten years old: and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt." There in the first chapter Christ is taught, and in the last chapter Joseph is taught as a great type of Christ in that he wanted to be buried with the people of God in his own country. He was carried back near Schechem and buried. I saw his tomb.

RIVALS IN THE AIR

The aid mail and passenger service from the United States to Beunos Aires is going to be a hot fight from now on between the company now operating out of Miami by way of Panama and the West Coast, and the rival company operating out of New York by way of Brazil.

The west coast line has just announced the opening of passenger service on its already established mail line, and the extension of both services to Beunos Aires on October 12th, which, being the anniversary of the discovery of America, is a date to conjure with in Latin American affairs.

The east coast service has already put two ships into service and before October first will send its first huge ship through from the United States to Beunos Aires. This service will carry passengers, it is calculated, from New York to Beunos Aires in seven days.

Beunos Aires already has an air and fast steamship service with Europe, via Brazil, and the same company not long ago established an air mail line between Buenos Aires and Santiago. In addition, preparations are being made to establish the long-planned Zeppelin service between Spain and Buenos Aires.

The little boy's definition may be right at that, when he intimated that "dictation" is what a man takes from his wife and gives to his stenographer.—Savannah News.

BIG TIRE SALE STARTS TODAY

JUST take a look at those figures! Yes, they're our prices on tires... cut, right now, to give you a special opportunity for Fall and Winter driving!

And on Goodrich Tires, too! Tires with such features as stretch-matched cord . . . curing by the famous Goodrich water-cure process . . . traction and ease of steering that have made Goodrich treads universally recognized for the scientific correctness of design!

And think what such prices mean.

Your tires probably are beginning to show the effects of a long summer of hard driving. Treads are no longer a fair match for the ice and snow and sleet that aren't so far away.

And if you've had them on your car for any great length of time, they'll surely be the first thing your car dealer picks on . . . if you plan to trade in your car next Spring.

On the other hand . . . Goodrich Silvertowns now mean safety and security through the winter. Peace of mind during bad weather. PLUS . . . the certainty of a better figure when you arrange trade-in terms.

Better come in to see us right away! Better check over your present rubber once again . . . carefully . . . and see how good it looks next to sound, new Goodrich Tires! Act now . . . for these prices can't last long.

DEFECTIVE SPEECH IN CHILDREN

The U. S. Public Health Service estimates that in the United States at least 1,000,000 persons have some form of speech disorder; and of these approximately 500,000 are school children who stammer or stutter. The Service, in its Health News, Washington, notes that uncorrected speech defects in childhood become a serious economic and social handicap in later life, because of their bearing on education and the ability to secure employment. Says this authority:

"Fortunately, the majority of speech defects are functional, not dependent on definite organic lesions, and can, therefore, be corrected. Most speech defects develop between the third and eighth year of life.

"The more common forms of speech defect observed in children are retarded speech, imperfect speech associated with partial deafness or caused by malformations of the organs of speech, and nervous speech disorders, such as stammering, stuttering, and nervous hesitation.

"The normal child learns to talk largely through imitation; and when this instinct is lacking, speech development is retarded and there exists a form of speech defect called by specialists 'dumbness without deafness,' which requires very careful attention and training. Other causes of retarded speech development are inattention, and, occasionally, strange as it may seem, lack of conversation in the home.

"The popular belief that children who do not learn to talk at the normal age are mentally defective is responsible for much unwarranted anxiety. While it is true that disordered speech may be an early symordered speech may be an early symptom of mental defect, speech development may be delayed as late as nine years of age in children otherwise perfectly normal.

"Partial deafness may also be the cause of speech defect. Most deafmutes have perfectly normal speech organs, but do not exercise them because of their inability to hear spoken words. Since imitation is a pronounced factor in the development of speech in children, careful tests should be made of all speech defectives for the discovery of partial deafness which may easily account for the imperfect speech. Such children should always be referred to an ear specialist for treatment; and if treatment is ineffective, lip reading should be taught.

"Imperfect speech may be caused by malformation of the speech-producing organs, such as harelip, very short upper lip, narrow palate, cleft palate, nasal obstruction, tongue-tie and very irregular teeth. Careful search should be made for the presence of malformations in order that prompt corrective treatment and speech education may be carried out.

"The most usual form of speech disorder is 'stammering' or 'stuttering.' From the standpoint of development there are two distinct types, one which commences with the development of speech and the other that begins after the child has learned to speak normally. The first form is the most difficult to correct.

"The underlying cause of stammering is purely mental. It is essentially due to emotional disturbance, and implies lessened ability to meet a difficult situation. It is most frequently observed in the so-called nervous, highly-strung children. As these children grow older they subconsciously fear that their speech organs will refuse to work and have the horror of being the object of ridicule. A sense of inferiority develops, establishing a vicious circle—the greater the dread, the more imperfect their speech.

"According to some observers, stammering is more or less common among left-handed children when they are taught to become right-handed writers. This opinion is largely responsible for the objection to educators attempting to train left-handed children to become right-handed. It is also believed to be more common among boys than girls.

"Parents should not be deluded by any expectation that the 'child will outgrow the defect.' Only the very mild cases developed through imitation may be said to be outgrown when the increasing mental development of the child enables him to recognize and correct his mistake. On the other hand, the nervous speech disorders, when well developed, are more difficult to correct, because they are curable only by special forms of re-education. Of late years, because of the growing demand for the treatment of nervous speech-defects, such as stammering and stuttering, a number of speech clinics have been established through the country, particularly by boards of education in the larger cities, for the correction of these clinics, or will otherwise give attention to the speech disorders of their children, in order to remove the handicap in life which these disorders impose."

JUDGE FREES WIFE WHO PHONES HUBBY 204 TIMES A DAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 8— A wife's 204 telephone calls a day to her husband apparently do not constitute disorderly conduct.

Magistrate Doyle, in Flushing Court, so ruled Tuesday in dismissing the charge brought by Dr. Liston Paine against his wife, Virgina.

Dr. Paine complained that he counted the telephone calls and 204 was about the daily average. In addition, he said, his wife interferred with his practice generaly, scratched the paint from his automobile and called him names.

Magistrate Doyle pondered the case five days and Tuesday dismissed the charge.

COTTON FORECAST RAISED 90,000 BALES IN ESTIMATE

U. S. Claims Increase Over Estimate In Forecast of Last Month

Washington, Oct. 8.—An increase of 90,000 bales was shown Tuesday in the Department of Agriculture's October cotton production forecast as compared with a month ago. The indicated crop was placed at 14,915,000 bales by the crop reportnig board as compared with 14,825,000 bales last month and 14,478,000 bales ginned last year.

Decreases in the indicated crop in the Carolinas, Texas and Oklahoma were more than offset by increases in the central portion of the belt from Georgia to Louisiana and Missouri, the board said. In Mississippi and the Delta portions of Arkansas and Louisiana, the board reported, the crop is turning out much better than was expected a month ago.

Misled By Weather

"Apparently (crop) reporters were misled by dry weather during August, which did not damage the crop as much as was anticipated," the board commented. "This is also true in Georgia and Alabama."

"Development of the crop in Texas and Oklahoma has brought to light the small size of open bolls, and also the small number of young bolls on the plants which could benefit from the showers that occurred during the first week of September.

Excessive Rainfall

"In the Carolinas rainfall was excessive, particularly during the closing days of the month, and caused some damage to open cotton. Picking has developed the fact that rotting of partially mature bolls will be more serious in these states and Northern Georgia.

The condition on October 1 and the indicated production for Alabama was: condition, 57; estimated production 1,300,000 bales.

"IN THE SPIRIT ON THE LORD'S DAY"

By L. E. BARTON, D. D., Andalusia

It has often been said that the spirit of men determines their usefulness much more than their ability or cleverness. Joubert said, "There is no light in souls in which there is no warmth." Lowell said of Poe, "He has written some things quite the best of their kind, but the heart somehow seems all squeezed out by the mind." Cicero said, "Friendship is based on morality." A wiser one than all these said, "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life."

Most of all do we need constantly to examine our spirit. The inside things and thoughts give form and color to the outside activities. Man's disposition has ever been to drift to forms and formalism and neglect the spirit. Then tendency of human nature is to think that God is worshipped with hands rather than with hearts. To be sure, the hands must serve and the feet must run in the pathway of the just, but they are directed and dominated by the affections. Paul said to the Ephesians, "The eyes of your heart being enlightened." The translation says "your understanding," but the apostle used the regular Greek word for "heart." The translation is not correct, but when you remember that we understand as much with our hearts as with our heads, "understanding" is not so far afield.

This same principle is true about attendance at worship and all religious services. The motivation of the heart is the big thing of all. Unless the soul gates are open no grain of truth will enter. Both the pulpit and the pew must behold with open face the glory of the Lord or no vision beatific and permanent will be seen. Hermetically sealed casks bring up no draughts from the well of living waters, neither do vessels that have the lid clapped tightly on catch any of the overflowing waters from the fountains of salvation.

But a bigger truth still is told here. We are not simply to have the right spirit but we must be in the Spirit. It is spelled with a capital S. It means the Holy Spirit. If we would have the right spirit we must be in the Spirit. Are we in the Spirit on the Lord's Day? We are more likely in the "Zeit Geist," the spirit of the time, as the Germans say. What we take away from the place of worship will depend largely, almost entirely on what spirit we take there. A youngster who had been coached by his seniors once impertinently said to me, "I don't get anything out of your preaching." I replied, "Of course you don't; you don't bring anything to put in." It was impossible for him to get anything out of my preaching or anyone else's. There were gracious souls who testified that they were greatly edified by the same preaching out of which he got nothing. Goethe said, "Let him who charges an author with obscurity look well to see if all is clear within. A very plain handwriting is illegible in the twilight." There are two reasons why many people are not more interested and instructed in religious services. There is entirely too much prosaic, bloodless, brainless preaching and then, too, many churchgoers are preoccupied with everything but the idea and purpose of worship. They come with the stunts and names of movie stars jingling in their ears and the vision of cards, and dollars marks, and pleasure gardens confusing and clouding their sight so that nothing short of an earthquake can arrest their attention that races with airplane velocity across the mind's horizon.

But what a great thing for a child of God to be in the Spirit on the Lord's Day. That means to be submerged in the Spirit, dominated by the Spirit, mastered by the Spirit, baptized in the Spirit. It means for the human personality to be lost in the divine personality, so that we come to see spiritual things with the Spirit's eyes, and to speak the Spirit's mind with Spirit's voice. There are other things that will result if we are in the Spirit, but look at three outstanding and overwhelming things that will inevitably eventuate from this blessed relationship. First, there will be a new understanding of spiritual things. The shallow conception and thinking on spiritual matters is appalling, and humiliating. The feeble grasp of divine things is distressing. The Spirit of God alone can lead us into great religious thinking. That does not mean sob stuff either. The Scripture says, "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God with thy mind." But no man can think straight unless the author of truth lead the way. Paul says, "The Spirit searcheth all things, yea the deep things of God."

When we are in the Spirit a new love is born; a larger compassion for men. The bias of human nature leads us to criticize and hate folks but only the Spirit and compassion of the Saviour can make us love unlovely people. We have to be in the Spirit in order to make us remember that very likely we ourselves are just as unlovely as those we dislike. J. Wilbur Chapman wrote of the blessed Sam Hadley, "When I went into a saloon and saw Sam Hadley throw his arms around an unkempt and filthy drunkard, and, with tears streaming down his saintly face, plead with that poor wretch to give himself to Christ a new passion for the lost was born in my soul." The Holy Spirit is the author of an act like that. No wonder Alabama Baptists care not that the whole world lieth in the wicked one. It is no surprise that the missionary contributions are steadily going down. How can the flame burn in our hearts when we are away from the fires of the Spirit? How can we love without loving contact with the source and power and person of all love? How can we have power when disconnected from the Spirit of power?

One other experience will result if we are in the Spirit. We will hear a voice. We are sailing over the seas of pleasure but have not sense enough, like Ulysses, to daub our ears with wax so that we can not hear the Siren voices which lure us unto destruction. We hear the clink of gold that falls on the counters of trade. We hear the seducing voices of ambition and striving for first place. We hear the strident and raucous clamor of war and strife and contest but the still small voice that speaks from out the holy of holies is drowned in the Babel of our own choosing. God can not speak to a heart that will not listen and be quiet. That voice told John things he needed to know about his Master. It said, "I am he that liveth and was dead, and behold, I am alive forevermore." It was a girdle of strength and comfort about the loins of the persecuted apostle. It revealed such a vision of the spirit world that John knew that these light afflictions which are but for a moment work out for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. It taught him not to mourn for the fate of his loved ones nor shrink from any sacrifice which Christ might call on him to make, for he who has the keys of death and hades hanging at his girdle will not forget to unlock the gates and open the doors to give deliverance to those who sleep in Jesus.

Yes, the Spirit said, "Write it in a book," for Alabama Baptists to read and ponder, but they have their "eyes in the ends of the earth like a fool," so that they can not see what the Saviour wants to show them about a lost world and His plan to save it.

Real Equality of Sexes Found In Radio Fields

MILDRED HUNT

So Says Popular Star of Air, Who Has Tested It

New York City.—Radio has opened a new professional and business field to women into which they may step as high, free and easy as any man.

So says Mildred Hunt, known as "Radio Sweetheart," and this is the message she brings to other women.

"In other professions, men had a head-start while women were still in the kitchen or engaged in such ladylike jobs as teaching," she declares. "In radio we started with an equal chance. The result is that today there are as many successful women radio singers and executives as men. And they've won their success without the aid of sex appeal, too."

According to Miss Hunt, there are twenty-five different branches of radio activity open equally to men and women, all high-paying positions. As a singer her salary is as much as that of a Metropolitan Opera star. The radio, she further claims, offers a golden opportunity to the girl who has a voice but cannot afford professional training.

"I never had a lesson in my life," she confesses. "Radio singing is a new technique, an art you must teach yourself. A girl's voice may, indeed, be her fortune today with no need of even small capital for initial training.

"You do the song in your own way and frequently the untutored singer gets the greatest amount of fan mail. I've had hundreds of letters about a song I do frequently, 'And Especially You,' a novelty foxtrot, in which I express myself as I please. Probably with much training I would not do it so naturally!"

EX-MARINES ARE INVITED TO ATTEND LEAGUE

The statistics show that there are men now serving in the United States Marine Corps, from practically every county in the State of Alabama; each county shows that there are a number of ex-marines, who have been honorably discharged from the marines since the World War.

The Marine Corps League, is an organization of Marines and ex-marines. A detachment is located here in Birmingham. A business and social meeting is held on the second floor of the Greenwood Cafe, at 6:30 p. m. on the last Thursday evening of each month. A free dinner is served. All ex-marines are invited to attend. All communications are required to be addressed to the Marine Corps recruiting station, at 1927 1-2 Second Ave., Birmingham, Alabama.

VICIOUS BABBOON IS KILLED IN BIRMINGHAM

Attempting to attack a man for the second time in two days, "Mike" the escaped baboon from the D. D. Murphy Shows at the Alabama State Fair, was shot and killed Tuesday afternoon by M. McBrayer, of 404 Ray Street, Fairview.

The baboon, at large since early Sunday morning when he escaped from his cage as the show was preparing to leave town, had been the object of searching parties since that time, residents of the district seeking to capture the animal and prevent possible attacks on children.

McBrayer shot the animal just as it attempted to attack him.

Previous to the attempted attack on McBrayer, the baboon Monday afternoon had attacked Cecil Powell, 18, of 2409 Warrior Road. Powell reported that the animal tore off his shirt, tore the seat out of his trousers and scratched his hands.

McBrayer said he shot twice at the animal in an attempt to frighten it away, hoping to capture the baboon alive and get a $150 reward which had been offered by its owners for its return.

When the shots failed to frighten the animal, McBrayer said he shot to kill, the third bullet taking effect in the baboon's head just as it jumped toward him.

SOME OCTOBER DATES IN U. S. HISTORY

1. American history began with the landing of Columbus, in the New World, October 12, 1492.

2. Two decisive events of the Revolution occurred in October, both favorable to the patriots. First was the victory at Saratoga followed by Burgoyne's surrender and the winning of the French to the American cause. Second, was Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown ending the war.

3. The Americans won two brilliant naval engagements in October in the War of 1812; the U. S. "Wasp" defeating the British "Frolic" and the U. S. Frigate "United States" worsting the British "Macedonie."

4. One of the greatest calamities in our history, the great Chicago fire, occurred in October, 1871.

5. American troops in the World War captured their first prisoners in October, 1917, and one year later won their brilliant victory in the Argonne forest.

6. John Brown's historic raid on Harper's Ferry occurred in October, 1859.

7. Edgar Allan Poe, great American writer, died in October, 1849.

8. Daniel Webster died in October, 1852, and Gen. Robert E. Lee in October, 1870.

ASHLAND KILLING PROBE IS NEAR END

Jury Expected To Report Soon In Student's Slaying

ASHLAND, Ala., Oct. 8— The Grand Jury investigation of the death of 18-year-old Clearence Bailey, who was shot to death during a prohibition raid Sept. 8, will be concluded Wednesday, Solicitor A. L. Hardegree announced Tuesday.

Cecil Guthrie, Clay County deputy sheriff, is under $5,000 bond on a charge of murder following his preliminary hearing in connection with the investigation of the high school lad's death.

At the preliminary hearing, when the bond was fixed, witnesses testified that Bailey was shot as he fled through a field about six miles from Ashland.

W. Z. Alexander, chief of police of Ashland, who accompanied Guthrie on the raid, testified that Guthrie fired twice at the fleeing lad, and that Guthrie stumpled in a hole, and that the third shot was fired as he stumbled. It was this shot which struck the lad, Alexander declared.

Several witnesses still remained to be heard, Hardigree said. The grand jury is expected to make its report Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Nichols of East Lake, Birmingham, were in Clanton Sunday and Monday visiting relatives and friends.

TEACHING TEMPERANCE

In his recent message to the International Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Indianapolis, President Hoover called attention to some facts which have been too often overlooked during the past ten years. The President said:

"I am daily impressed with the great need for extended work of education in the moral, physical and economic benefits of temperance. Since the adoption of the prohibition amendment too many people have come to rely wholly upon the strong arm of the law to enforce abstinence, forgetting that the cause of temperance has its strong foundations in the conviction of the individual of the personal value to himself of temperance in all things."

This is a paragraph well worth thinking over. Before the adoption of the national prohibition amendment to the Constitution, temperance sentiment was steadily growing in the United States. More states and more territory within the states were constantly abolishing the manufacture and sale of liquor. It was generally regarded as unfashionable to drink to excess and the use of alcohol was held to defeat a youth's chances even to get a proper start in the world. This feeling had been brought about by a steady and skillful campaign of education which was reaching the individual and teaching him the value of temperance.

When the Volstead act was passed following the adoption of the prohibition amendment, a great many good people sat back with the conviction that it was all over. The law would stop drinking, they evidently believed. The great educational temperance campaign was slowed up and public attention was centered on the enforcement of the law. Law enforcement is of course always a laudable purpose, but to have effective enforcement we must have with it the conviction that the law is a vital one. With the interruption of the temperance campaign and a new generation growing up, and with the post-war unsettlement of old standards, liquor drinking became fashionable again in many quarters where it had previously regarded as bad form. It was regarded as something smart to beat the prohibition law and enforcement of the law was consequently made much more difficult.

President Hoover in timely fashion points out the value of personal education in temperance. If the reform forces of the country will take up the campaign of education where it was left off ten years ago they will soon have a brighter picture to contemplate. The best way to help enforce the prohibition laws is to make the serving and drinking of illegal liquor unfashionable, and unpopular.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

FRANK P. LITSCHERT

In spite of occasional predictions from the timid and pessimistic and in spite of the ups and downs in the stock market, Uncle Sam continues to be prosperous, and the official reports from various parts of the country steadily bring out this fact. According to the current bulletin of the National Industrial Conference Board new production records were made during August in many lines of activity, and most noteworthy is the fact that the demand for automobiles continues to break the records for this season of the year. "Wholesale and retail demand," the report continues, "generally gives many indications of being greater than last year and fairly well sustained." the slight recession noted in July, which is seasonal, continues to remain slight. Quarterly reports of the earning of various corporations bear out this statement of the National Industrial Conference Board.

At present there is little reason to believe that the steady growth of our prosperity will not continue. This prosperity was built upon a sound foundation and has been furthered by wise and constructive legislation, and federal administration, as well as by sound business policies. There has been a tremendous development in American business as a whole, following the post-war slump, as every citizen of the country knows, and the noteworthy fact is that the trend is still upward after several years of steady and consistent recovery.

There is every assurance now that the national policies which have made this growth possible will be continued indefinitely. The danger of the disrupting influences of war seems further away now than ever before. The people and the nations are talking in terms of peace and in terms of the limitation of armament, and for the time being at least, thought of conflict has been pushed into the discard. The greatest economic danger perhaps, would be the return of the ancient and discredited doctrine of free trade, or at least unlimited foreign competition. But of this there is little or no liklihood. The country is thoroughly sold on the subject of protection, so thoroughly sold in fact that no political party in the last campaign would have dared offer to the people a tariff policy which would have subjected the American producer to the perils of European low-wage competition. It is true that there is a tariff fight on in Congress now, but the question is not one of the fundamental policy so much as of the rates. The few statesmen of the old time free trade school who are left in active political life are now confining their efforts not toward the destruction of the tariff as a whole, but toward obstructing revision by attacking the details of the proposed measure. This does not mean, of course, that all of the legislators who object to certain rates are obstructionists or free traders, but it is of course a fact that all free traders are either actively or passively in sympathy with the movement to slow up the bill or at least keep the rates as low as pissible.

The report referred to above tells us that the value of the exports in August, normally a low month, were less than one percent greater than the exports of August, 1928, but were the highest with one exception since 1920. The value of imports however tells a different story. Imports during August advanced six per cent over July and nine per cent over August of a year ago. Imports are usually accelerated during the months preceding the passage of a new tariff bill when it is anticipated that protection will be strengthened, but the steady increase in imports at least refutes the statement frequently made by free traders that we are selling abroad but not buying abroad.

It is to be hoped that Congress will get through with tariff revision as soon as possible so that business may go forward as usual. Then we need have no fear about the immediate economic future of the country.

FROM CHAISE TO AIRPLANE

One hundred years ago, a bride set out from Pottsville, Pa., on her wedding trip to Niagara Falls. Her diary, now in possession of a granddaughter living in Philadelphia, tells of the honeymoon by chaise over muddy roads, "the most thrilling journey of my life." Three weeks were required to travel to the falls and back.

The other day the granddaughter celebrated the 100th anniversary of her grandmother's wedding by traveling over the same route her grandmother followed as a bride in 1829. But the granddaughter traveled by air. She flew from Pottsville to the falls and back in eight hours.

From the chaise of 1829 to the plane that travels 100, 200 or, if a seaplane 360 miles an hour in 1929! It doesn't seem possible that the Philadelphian's diary, if she keeps one and has recorded in it her flight to Niagara Falls, will be as much out-dated in another hundred years. But one would hesitate to assert that. For all we know, we may be flying as fast as the bot fly in 2029.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

HOOVER'S CAMP HISTORIC SITE

When General Robert E. Lee wanted a post of observation during the Civil War, he chose Clark's Mountain overlooking the Rapidan River in Virginia. The banks of the river were the scene of the war itself. When President Hoover desired a fishing camp, he selected the upper waters of the Rapidan. It is reported that he may take Premier Ramsay MacDonald there to confer on a disarmament agreement looking toward permanent peace. One would never guess that the sunny country through which the Rapidan flows ever heard a cannon boom or a rifle crack.

There are other historical traditions connected with the famous stream. It is said that General Stonewall Jackson actually drew his sword in battle for the first time at Cedar Mountain near the Rapidan. The river was originally named for Queen Anne of England, the "Rapid Anne," but the Post Office Department, with an eye to practicality rather than romance, abbreviated the name to its present form. Other streams whose names are derived from the renowned Queen are the Northanna, the Southanna, the Fluvanna, and the Rivanna.

CREDIT SYSTEM CALLED CURSE

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 7.—Speaking over radio station WAPI at the studio in the state department of agriculture Wednesday, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, declared that the old credit system of the south is the greatest curse of agriculture in the cotton producing states. The condition under which most of the cotton is sold, he said, makes the producer the least important in the marketing system.

"This credit system is a curse to the landowner, tenant, merchant, and banker; it is holding our whole section back. The cotton market is glutted," O'Neal asserted.

Continuing he said: "The government reports that about 80 per cent of our cotton is sold in about 90 days of the harvest season. We farmers destroy the natural demand of the mills. They can't spin sawdust—they must have cotton and we force it on them. What a system! It is pauperizing our farm people!

A Way Out

"Is there a way out?" the speaker asked. "Yes, seven years ago the farmers, under an act of congress and the state legislature, set up their own farmer-owned and controlled marketing association, to assemble, grade and staple, warehouse, finance and market collectively their cotton. There are 16 of these associations and last year they handled 1,163,684 bales. They have handled 7,812,842 bales of cotton during the past eight years. They are in a better condition today to serve the cotton farmers than ever before," Mr. O'Neal said.

With the enactment of the federal agricultural marketing act and the coming of the federal farm board, with large and helping power, the era of the greatest growth and usefulness of our cotton co-operatives is just ahead," Mr. O'Neal assured.—L. O. Brackeen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Farley are the proud parents of a fine baby boy—Monday night, October 3rd.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Oaks, a bouncing baby boy Tuesday evening.

Married this week: J. W. Sharbutt and Miss Emma Davis, Will Ward and Miss Annie Jane Norwood, Clyde J. Moore and Miss Ida G. Reynolds, Wade Friday and Miss Lula Pierce.

Henry C. Payne, Postmaster General, died at Washington Tuesday night.

The theory that the United States has been running wild on navy building is rudely jolted by an examination of the figures covering construction of warships under Presidents Coolidge and Roosevelt. In the years 1924-27, inclusive, the expenditures of the government for naval construction totaled $103,847,583. In the years 1904-7, inclusive, under Roosevelt, the construction expenditures totaled $117,615,787. The cost of labor and materials has so greatly increased in twenty years that in dollars of equal value the naval construction expenditures under four years of Coolidge were not more than half the expenditures under four years of Roosevelt, although the population of the country had greatly increased during the twenty-year period, and the national wealth had more than doubled.

An exchange says that the 22,500,000 bags of coffee imported each year from Brazil helps to keep the percolators in the United States bubbling. It might be said with equal fairness that they keep prosperity bubbling in Brazil, too.

The sharpers in New York used to trim the hicks from the West when the hicks came to the city, but nowadays an ordinary western banker is able to get $500,000 from the boys in the big town without any difficulty. Showing that there is still opportunity for the young man who goes West.

If you still think there are no reds in America we respectfully suggest that you spend the week end in Gastonia.

There are getting to be an awful lot of bank mergers and if they keep on merging we are going to have a lot of vice presidents out of a job.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

MONTGOMERY STATE FAIR WILL OPEN OCTOBER 21ST

It won't be long now before all roads will lead to the State Fair of Alabama, which will open at Montgomery, October 21 and continue for a week with an outstanding educational program and extraordinary amusement features.

"It's going to be different this year," says Simon Roswald, manager of the State Fair, who is actually excited over the wonderful exhibits and features planned for the 1929 Fair, which promise to make it the very best Fair in the history of state fairs.

County agricultural exhibits for which substantial premiums are being offered will be more comprehensive this year than during previous years. All beef and dairy cattle exhibits must be Alabama owned. A large poultry show and tremendous array of farming implement machinery will be particularly interesting. Every boy and girl in the state is enthusiastic over the boys' and girls' calf club exhibit, which is another new feature, this year.

The Woman's Division known as the Department of Arts and Education under the direction of Mrs. C. R. Bricken, assistant manager of the Fair, embraces all the domestic arts and crafts, so dear to the heart of the housewife as well as fine arts. Prizes will be awarded in the various groups.

Johnny J. Jones exposition will furnish thrilling rides and exciting shows for the midway. There will be wonderful grand stand attractions. The Winter Garden Revue, scheduled for 8 o'clock each evening is the most brilliant and elaborate musical production ever seen in the open air. Strout's Military Hussar Band, "America's Finest" will furnish music. There will be 5 days of harness horse racing and 2 days of auto races.

MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

Our singing Sunday afternoon was real good to be new books. Opening song was sang by Royal Coggins. Those who sang three songs each were Enoch Traywick, Johnnie Minor, Lorenza Sanders, A. O. Boswell. Organists were Miss Lillie Mae Weldon, and Miss Mollie Thompson.

Our Sunday school was fine. Several were absent but those who were present came with a well-studied lesson which was enjoyed.

There were not many old people out, but the young people are so interested in their church work, and we sure do appreciate the young people. If each person would get up every Sunday morning with his mind made up to go to church to worship God instead of going some place else it would be wonderful. There are so many who do not attend Sunday school. It is wonderful to go to church and have so many young people and them interested in their work.

APPRECIATION

The Chilton County Child Welfare Department wishes to thank the ladies of the Jemison Presbyterian Church for their $10.00 check and Judge L. H. Reynolds for the $5.00 check paid toward the back house rent of a widowed mother with nine children, seven of whom are small and at home to feed, clothe and educate.

The Kiwanis Club deserves honorable mention for the $50.00 raised by a committee headed by J. Mell Martin, Ben Goltsman and Percy Pitts. This money was raised to go toward the expenses of Lillie Stroud's operation on her cripple foot.—Mrs. C. E. Stapp. 10-7-29

IF YOU ARE

A young man between the age of 18 and 30 years and not a member of some Sunday school class you have a special invitation to visit the Young Mens Class of the Clanton Baptist Church.

We have just begun our new Church year and of course as we lost Mr. Meeks who has been teaching the Young Mens Class until he left our city we now have a new teacher and being a member of the class I feel like we have the best teacher in the entire Sunday school. Mr. W. E. Martin is the new teacher and it is an inspiration to listen to him lecture on Sunday morning.

We are looking forward with genuine pleasure to the time when we can have all the old members back with us again. We should be very glad to have all young men who are visiting in our town on Sunday morning to meet with us.—Assistant Secretary, Baptist Young Mens Bible Class.

20TH CENTURY HIGH SCHOOLS

If high schools continue to add new subjects to their courses as fast as has been done in the past year or two, there will be little left for college years. Aviation, stagecraft and radio are a few of the newest additions.

However, as long as high schools disdain the teaching of such fundamental subjects as geography, and teach aviation to students who could not possibly name three American republics—and much less their capitals—there is little danger of turning out too many Lindberghs.

Alvin B. Foshee of the University of Alabama was at home this week to see his father, Bazz Foshee, who was seriously hurt in an automobile accident last Saturday.

SERVICES AT LIBERTY HILL

Our good friend, Zack Lowery of Liberty Hill, was in our office Tuesday morning, and asked us to announce that next Saturday and Sunday are the regular preaching days at his church. As these are the last services before the association, Mr. Lowery is very anxious that a full membership be present in order to wind up the business of the church for this associational year.

Mr. Lowery states that Rev. Holland of Tallassee, their pastor, has returned from his vacation in south Texas, and that he will be on hand at the meetings. Rev. Holland has been called as pastor at Liberty Hill for the coming year, and was called by the largest mapority he has ever been called before.

CHILDREN LABOR LONG HOURS

The life of the barefoot boy is not entirely one of fishing and roaming country lanes, judging from a statement recently issued by Miss Grace Abbott, Chief of the Children's Bureau in Washington. A study of 647,309 children between the ages of ten and fifteen who are engaged in agricultural work made by the bureau yields some interesting figures.

The majority of boys and girls were found working on home farms. If the count had been taken during harvest season, however, the number of hired child laborers would have been much larger, the statement says. At the height of the season in California, for instance, there are about 5,000 children employed in the fields as compared with 1,832 in January. Children in the beet fields of Colorado number about 6,800 during rush periods.

Long working hours are characteristic of farm work in which children are engaged. At harvest time, in order to get in the crop before it could be spoiled by frost, three-fourths of the Colorado children worked from 9 to 13 hours a day on their father's sugar beet acreage, sometimes pulling and topping by lantern light or the light of the moon.

VISITORS FROM ENSLEY

Visitors near Clanton last Sunday included Mrs. R. A. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey Black, and Mr. Gene Black, all of Ensley. They, with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Littlejohn of Baker community, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mims. Mrs. Hardy, wife of the late Robert A. Hardy, is a former Chilton County girl, although she has made her home in Birmingham for several years. They returned to their homes Sunday afternoon. While here Mrs. Hardy subscribed to The Union-Banner.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Mr. Monroe Smith spent the week end of September 29th with home folks. His son, Maurice, returned to Eufaula with him to go to work.

Mr. Tommie Zuber went to visit relatives in Birmingham Thursday, returning Saturday.

Messrs. Carl Dawson and James Wright and Miss Delia Champion and Edith motored to Centerville Monday.

Master Willard Franklin was ill with tonsilitis last week and was unable to attend school.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bean and children of Clanton spent last week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wright.

Miss Vincent of Birmingham is visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cofer and daughter, Florenee, attended the Fair Friday.

Mr. Carl Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Bud O'Neal and children spent the week end at Cox's.

Mrs. Bonnie Davenport spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Davenport of Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Price and family attended the Fair in Birmingham Saturday.

Once in the clutches of RHEUMATISM
now the joy of the home

Why Rheumatism can't be rubbed out

THOSE muscular pains, commonly called rheumatism, are generally due to a "run-down" condition, with the number of red-blood-cells below the normal count.

S.S.S. aids the system in building up these red-blood-cells and in getting rid of the condition of which the rheumatism is but a symptom. The body becomes strong and disease-resistant, and the rheumatic pains go.

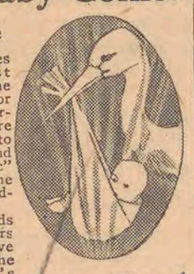
Pains in your muscles and joints make you miserable, less efficient, interfere with your working hours, ruin your sleep. If allowed to continue, as the years pass the danger increases.

But what a change with rich, red-blood-cells in your body — Nature's building material — making the flesh firm—giving strength to the vital organs.

You can't rub rheumatism out. It is deeper than that. It must be driven out. And the sure way is by helping the fighting blood—the red-blood-cells!

Increase your army of "workers" (red-blood-cells), and those muscle and joint pains, commonly called rheumatism, vanish. S.S.S. has brought this change about for thousands. Why not for you?

"I was very nervous; had hardly any appetite, and suffered with rheumatism. I tried many medicines, but S.S.S. is the one that did me the most good. I am now well, and feel like a new man."—William Osborne, 2406 Sloan Street, Flint, Mich.



S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

All good Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Before Baby Comes
comfort and ease

The muscles, tissues and nerves must "give" easily as the abdomen enlarges or much pain and suffering may result. More important still, is to have the tissues and muscles as "elastic" as possible when the great moment of childbirth arrives.

Countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years have been relieved by the use of "Mother's Friend" — that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician.

Mother's Friend lessens pain

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives during the waiting months. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is not a drug to be taken. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Free Book "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 15, Atlanta, Ga.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE FINE

Every school in the county has opened and the children are down to regular work. There are some children, however, that have not yet enrolled but owing to the recent heavy rains the following law has not been enforced strenously. Beginning with Monday, October 14th, every child in Chilton County is expected to be enrolled and attending school regularly or they will have to be dealt with according to the following law. If, for any reason, you have a child not in school, note the following exemptions and see if they apply in your case. If not, please make an effort to see the county superintendent of education or the child welfare superintendent who is also attendance officer. Mrs. Stapp, the welfare worker, will be in her office in the court house at Clanton every Saturday and Thursday.

Extracts From The Compulsory Attendance Law—Article XVL.

Age: Every child between the ages of seven and sixteen years shall be required to attend a school for the entire length of the school term in every scholastic year. (Sec. 301.)

Parent's Obligations: a. The parent or guardian who fails to have child enroll or attend school regularly during the school term or fails to compel child to properly conduct himself as a pupil, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than $100.00 and may also be sentenced to 90 days hard labor. (Sec. 305.)

b. The parent or guardian shall, as soon as practical, explain the cause of any absence of the child which was without permission of the teacher, and a failure to furnish such explanation shall be evidence of such child being a truant. (Sec. 308.)

c. When no valid reason for non-enrollment or non-attendance is given, the attendance officer shall give notice for attendance within three days. If child is not enrolled or not attending school within three days, criminal prosecution shall be brought against parent, guardian, or other person having control of the child. (Sec. 309.)

Child's Exemptions: a. A child whose physical or mental condition is such as to prevent or render inadvisable attendance at school or application to study, provided the county superintendent of education has issued a certificate of exemption. Before issuing such certificate of exemption, the county superintendent of education shall require a certificate from the child's practicing physician. (Sec. 304.)

b. A child 14 years of age who has completed the 8th grade. (Sec. 304.)

c. A child who has to walk over 2 1-2 miles to school or to the nearest public transportation. (Sec. 304.)

d. If child holds a Child Labor Law permit to work. (Sec. 304.)

Parent's Exemptions: a. If principal teacher in charge gives child permission to be absent. (Sec. 306.)

b. If parent or guardian is unable to buy books or clothes for child, and that such parent or guardian reported, prior to the opening of the school, such dependent condition to the Juvenile Court and offered to turn such dependent child over to the State Child Welfare Department. (Sec. 306.)

c. That parent or guardian has made a bona fide effort to control such child and is unable to do so and files a written statement on court files to that effect. (Sec. 306.)

d. That there exists a good cause or valid excuse for such absence. (Sec. 306.)

e. That parent has made a bona fide diligent effort to secure regular attendance and that absence was without his knowledge, connivance or consent. (Sec. 306.)

f. If child becomes a habitual truant, or because of irregular attendance or misconduct has become a menace to the best interests of the school, the parent or guardian should file a written statement in court saying that he is unable to control said child. The Court then decides upon the case. (Sec. 307.)

Leaders of Democrats Are not Expected to Aid Strategy of Republicans

Dissension Among Party Chiefs Is Being Fomented By Opposition—Southern States Given Greatly Increased Representation in Next Republican National Convention

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 5.—The state Democratic executive committee of Alabama is being bombarded from a number of directions with demands that democrats who did not vote for Smtih last year be punished. The demands range all the way from insistence that any man or woman who failed to vote for Smith last year be kept out of the state primary next year entirely to a modified form of punishment permitting the bolters to vote but preventing them from becoming candidates for office, thus creating two kinds of Democrats in Alabama, one of which will have only the right to vote and the other the right to both vote and hold office.

It is assumed that the state committee, however, will take no action on this matter without considering all angles and particularly the effect that such action as they may take will have on the party's future welfare and strength. If all anti-Smith voters are barred the Republican vote in the state will, of course, be swollen enormously in next year's general election. If anti-Smith men are barred only from running for office thousands of Democrats will no doubt stay away from the Democratic primary voluntarily in order that they may be free to act in the general election. In either case it means a greatly increased vote for the democratic party's opposition in Alabama.

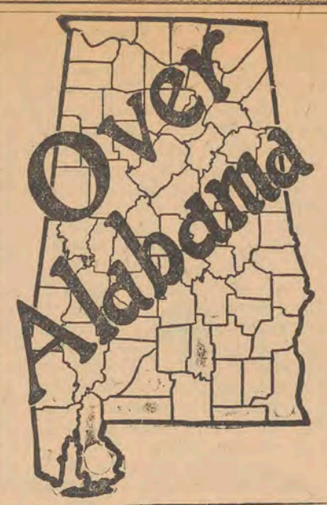
Republican Strategy

One of the things of which the committee will no doubt take note in its deliberations is the strategy of the national Republican party which seeks to hold and increase the gains made last year in the southern states. Republican leaders have already let it be known that their efforts to make still further gains in the south will be more aggressive than ever before. The state Democratic committee of Alabama inspired by the devotion to the Democratic party will therefore use care not to contribute aid to the Republicans in their efforts.

In the first place the Republicans have put a southern man in the place of national chairman, Claudius H. Huston, of Chattanooga, promises that special attention is to be given the south. Chairman Huston at the time of the meeting of the national committee in Washington last month was quoted as saying:

"The south has shown that it is gradually turning to the Republican party due to the growth of that region industrially and its dependence on protective principles. The Republican party will make extraordinary efforts to hold the gains made in Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia, Florida and Texas. I am of the opinion that many of these states will be found in the Republican column in 1932 and it behooves the Republicans of the south to continue their loyalty to the party. For my part, I will do all I can to strengthen the party machinery and make it effective for the next national election."

South's Big Gain



The south will be given a much greater voice and representation in the next Republican convention which will nominate a presidential candidate than it has ever had before. Because of the increased republican vote last year 12 southern states will have 53 more delegates than heretofore. In other words, in the 1928 Republican convention the 12 southern states had but 17.17 per cent of the total. In the 1932 convention they will have 22.04 per cent. In the Democratic convention last year these same 12 southern states had but 24.72 per cent of the total membership, so that under the new order of things the Republican voters of the south will have almost the Republican candidate for president as the Democrats of the south have in naming a Democratic candidate. The south's strength in the two conventions, and the gain in strength which is to be given southern Republicans are shown in the following figures:

	Dem. 1928	Rep. 1928	Rep. 1932
Alabama	24	15	21
Arkansas	18	11	11
Florida	12	10	14
Georgia	28	16	16
Louisiana	20	12	12
N. Carolina	24	20	26
Oklahoma	20	20	23
S. Carolina	18	11	11
Tennessee	24	19	26
Texas	40	26	42
Virginia	24	15	26
Total	272	187	240
Total convention strength	1000	1089	1089

In Democratic conventions two delegates are allowed for each congressional district and two for each United States senator. In the Republican convention, however, representation is based upon the vote cast, so that there is the constant incentive to increase the party vote. Two delegates are allowed for each senator and one for each congressman, but an additional delegate is allowed each congressional district casting 10,000 Republican votes in the last presidential election and three delegates at large for each state that goes Republican.

These are facts which the state Democratic committee will no doubt take into consideration when it is being urged to take action which will inevitably increase the Republican vote and contribute to the success of the Republican plans to hold its ground and make gains in the southern states. Instead of doing anything which will alienate large numbers from the party it will no doubt see the wisdom of taking some steps which will even win new converts to Democracy and thus reduce instead of increase the Republican vote in the state which will give southern Republicans increasing power in his national conventions.—C. M. Stanley in Mobile Register.

SELECT SEED CORN FROM THE STALKS

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 8.—One of the best things a farmer can do to increase corn yields is select seed from the stalks while they are still standing in the field. This recommendation is made by members of the agronomy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who mention careful seed selection as one of the principal ways farmers can increase the quality and yields of their corn.

In this connection D. G. Sturkie, associate professor of agronomy, points out that all the so-called leading varieties of corn were developed by actual farmers who were especially meticulous in selection and care of seed. Many leading varieties of other crops were developed by college specialists or professional seed breeders, but honor for improving the corn plants goes to the ordinary farmer.

Seed corn should be selected from standing stalks, he explains, because only in this way can a farmer see the kind of stalk that produced the seed he intends to plant. Selection in the field enables one to know the type of land which produced the ear, and how far the stalk on which it grew stood from other stalks. Often a banner ear is produced because the stalk stood far away from other stalks and had a better chance. But this kind of ear would not necessarily be good for seed, since it might be in the position and not the inherent quality of the corn that enabled the stalk to produce a good ear.

Only ears from strong stalks, which produce two ears should be selected, he continues. Experiments have shown that two-eared corn outyields one eared corn in Alabama. It is considered best for the ears to be about midway of the stalk.

The Auburn agronomist names the type of ear as a less important point, but advises a slightly tapering ear, of good size, with large, heavy, thick kernels, and smooth indentation.

Making the Southland a Neighborhood

For many years the great distances that separated the spacious plantations and the scattered cities of the Southland isolated the southern states from one another and from the rest of the world.

But no longer is the South isolated. Today it has taken the place it deserves in the nation's industry and commerce. Modern transportation by land, water and air carries the products of southern farms and factories to all parts of the world.

An important factor in this modern era is the telephone. Whether you depend on it to carry your voice around the corner, across the continent or over the Atlantic, you will find it ready to serve you—speedily, efficiently, economically.

This company is ever alert to reduce telephone distance, to make larger telephone neighborhoods. To that end we are spending over $30,000,000 during 1929 in the nine southeastern states that we serve.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

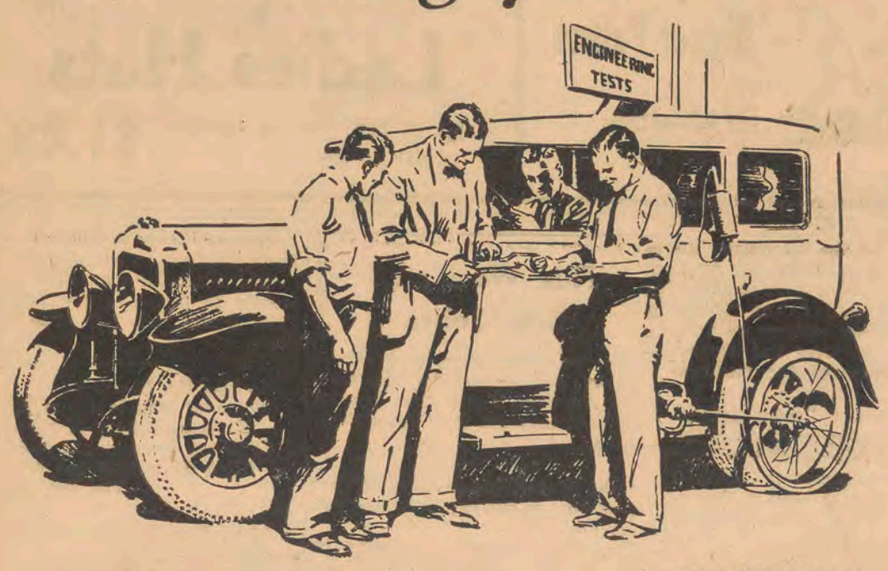
HOW ABOUT UNIONS FOR EGG PRODUCERS?

Mark Twain once said of the weather, that everybody talks about it but nobody does anything about it. Much the same thing might be said about co-operative marketing among poultry producers. To be sure, there are some co-operative organizations now working successfully in several sections of the country, notably in California and some of the central western states. The "Co-ops" of Canada, too, offer a notable example of what can be accomplished. Taking the whole situation by and large, however, it is almost literally true that much has been said about co-operative marketing, but little done about it.

To be sure, it is no simple problem to get a thing of this kind started. That very fact, however, is a most excellent reason why something should be started at once. Today, egg producers are in much the same position as were the workers of a few generations back. Without organization of any kind, they are at the mercy of those to whom they must sell. John Jones with ten or twelve dozen eggs to sell each week must take them to the nearest market and accept the price offered or tote them home again. A well organized association shipping carload lots of eggs each week suffers no such disadvantages.

With sufficiently large quantities to really mean something, the association is in a position to seek out the most favorable markets, and can regulate shipments into those markets in such a way that a higher average level of prices can be maintained than would otherwise be possible. Collective bargaining, the factor that has made possible the present high wage levels for workers, is also brought to the poultryman through co-operative marketing.

Other advantages no less important though not so often considered, are the possibilities of standardizing production methods, standardizing and improving the grade of the product and stabilizing production. It is a well established fact that in some sections of the country only white eggs find a ready sale at top prices, while in other sections brown eggs are the favorites. Let us suppose that a number of poultrymen whose natural market is a brown egg territory are producing only white eggs. They know they are not getting as good prices as they should, but they do not know why and have no way of finding out as they operate independently. As members of an effective association, they would be given the necessary information or, if their total volume was large enough, their separate lots could be pooled into larger units and shipped economically into some territory where they would find ready sale.



I cannot emphasize too strongly, however, the need for organization in the poutry business. Labor is organized, and look where wages are today. The fruit growers of California organized and boosted their profits millions of dollars annually. The walnut growers got together and sell carloads where they once sold bushels, and at higher profit, too. The poultrymen of Canada formed an association and realized twelve cents a dozen more for their eggs than they had ever been able to get before.

Here are just a few examples of what co-operative marketing has done and is doing for those engaged in it. The poultrymen of this country must come to it also, sooner or later, if they are ever to realize the full profit that is rightfully theirs. This is an age of big business done in a big way and we who live in this age must fall in line or watch the procession go marching on to a success in which we can not share. If you are not big enough to get into the procession single-handed, you can combine your resources with others like yourself and all march together for the common good.

I do not mean to imply that co-operative marketing is a King-Cure-All for every ill the poultry business is afflicted with; neither do I wish to give the impression that a simple club of poultrymen is enough. A co-operative association must be a well managed, commercial institution. It must be big enough to be truly representative of the territory in which it operates. It must be operated on the principle laid down by the Three Musketeers of Dumas' famous story, "All for one and one for all." The poultrymen must understand the management's problems, and the management must understand those of the poultryman. There must be harmony and concerted action in every part, or the whole thing will collapse of its own weight.

The thing to do is to study such organizations as are already successfully operating and adapt to your own local needs the principles and practices they have found successful. Shape a course that you know you can depend on to get you some place and then stick to it, but make your plans flexible enough to allow for really necessary changes in the future.

Men like these are testing your car

Types of the engineers at General Motors Proving Ground who are working for you. Drawn from a photograph. They are shown examining a specially devised instrument for measuring clutch pedal pressure.

It used to be the custom for a man who wanted to buy a car to take a mechanic with him.

Today, General Motors itself employs skilled automotive engineers to make it easy for you to select your new car. These men are working for you at its Proving Ground—the 1268-acre outdoor laboratory in Michigan where every kind of car is tested.

Before any General Motors car goes into production, a fleet of advance models is constructed and sent to the Proving Ground. There these advance cars must meet every test—tests far harder than you would make. Sometimes they are rebuilt, redesigned, retested many times until they are pronounced right, and ready to be put into production.

The tests involve speed, power, endurance, braking, riding comfort, handling ease; fuel and oil economy; body strength and safety—every phase of car construction and performance.

Buying a car is easy today—because these men at the Proving Ground are working for you to assure you of value when you select a General Motors car.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a short space for a few words from this place.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely, but we hope to get the mothers and fathers more interested in the future to bring their children instead of sending them.

We want to say that our birthday offering for this associational year has been remarkable. We are going to ask that those wishing to drop into the banks this associational year do so not later than next Sunday, October 13th, due to the fact that we are going to use the money for associational purposes, at least some of it. It is well known that the association will meet with us next Wednesday and Thursday, October 16 and 17. We are looking forward for a great spiritual blessing. Also we will close and adopt our associational letter next Sunday, and those wishing to contribute to the pastor are urged to be prepared Sunday. Those who have contributed to the birthday offerings Bank will hear their names called and the amount contributed, by the secretary, Bro. E. L. Mims, next Sunday, and you are especially requested to be present. Next Sunday will also be my last Sunday to serve you as superintendent. I would like to see your appreciation of my service by your presence next Sunday. The new superintendent will take charge the following Sunday with our new pastor, Rev. G. G. Williams, and our new Clerk also, Bro. W. M. Mims.—M. Lockhart, Supt.

THORSBY SECTION

S. E. NORTON, Manager

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen had as their dinner guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell.

Miss Esther Johnson of Birmingham was a week end visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson.

Miss Jennye Robinson, who is taking a nurse training course in Birmingham, was a Sunday visitor at her home in Thorsby.

William Each of Montgomery spent the week end with his home folks in Thorsby.

The Christian Endeavor Social was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each last Friday night.

Rev. E. W. Butler left Sunday evening for Jacksonville, Ill., where he will visit kinfolks for two weeks, incidentally he will attend a reunion of his class in Illinois College where he graduated many years ago.

Mrs. Ed Piper will entertain the Baptist ladies aid social on Thursday afternoon of this week, instead of Mrs. Harper as previously arranged.

Morning and evening services at Congregational church Sunday were well attended. At the morning hour seven adults were received into membership, and in the evening the house was filled to attend a stereoptican lecture by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Each, entitled, "Pioneer Sunday Schools." The lecture was interesting as it narrated the many obstacles surmounted in establishing and maintaining Sunday schols in mountain sections of the west and the pictures portrayed many scenes of natural grandeur.

Prof. C. M. Williams is temporarily employed as a salesman in an organization handling bankrupt stocks.

H. L. Thomason of Lock 12, a lineman in the employ of The Alabama Power Company, who recently married Miss Bernice Williams of Thorsby, had a narrow escape from death by being knocked off a high tension wire on which he was working. It is reported that the generator to which this line was connected was stopped for repairs and either forgetting or not knowing that men were working on the line, the generator was started and 2,000 volts of current turned on. Of course Thomason never got the full force of this current but he got enough to give him a mighty close call.

Thorsby Public School auditorium is having a new drop curtain painted and hung for the stage, which is also receiving other decorations, that will greatly improve its appearance.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin is the proud possessor of one of the latest models of a Ford sedan, having many new accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Primm are spending a week at Siluria visiting their son, H. R. Primm.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pate and daughter, Roma Lee, spent Sunday at Mt. Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin with their little daughter, Peggy Mims, and Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gray spent Monday in Birmingham.

Rev. Jones reports that he is holding well attended meetings at Jemison Baptist church, of which he is pastor. He also calls attention to the fact that next Sunday, October 13, is the time for holding regular morning and evening services at Thorsby Baptist church, in the Public School building.

Mrs. S. C. Wood and Mrs. MacDonald Pearson spent Monday shopping in Birmingham.

Dr. S. C. Wood carried Lila Campbell to Birmingham Sunday night for an operation.

Fred Howard has a big crop of Japanese persimmons of fine quality, as we know from our experience with them. They are Luscious!

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mr. and Mrs. William Billingsley spent Wednesday at Elmore as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Sarber.

The people of Thorsby will be glad to know that we again have a shoe repair shop in our midst. Mr. H. G. Jeffries of Jemison has opened a shop in the room at the rear of the Drug Store where he will spend part of each working day, say from 8 a. m. till 2 p. m. Mr. Jefferies is well known to many Thorsby folks as a man not likely to desert his place between two days, as one did recently.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Primm spent Sunday visiting Mr. Alred Sorrell of Calera.

Mr. Charles S. Howard and son, Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard and Charles Swanson, of Chicago, left Tuesday for Alebame Gulf Coast where they will spend several days visiting and fishing. Mr. Swanson made the trip from Chicago in his big new Packard car, while touring through Tennessee he got a bullet hole through his windshield. It happened to hit near the end opposite the wheel where he was driving. He was unable to find out the source of the missile, but presumed it to be a stray shot.

Howard Brothers report that they will begin shipping carnations this week.

Eric Sundeen Dead

The people of Thorsby were shocked Monday night to learn that Mr. Eric Sundeen, bachelor, age 73 years, living alone on his small farm 3-4 mile west of Thorsby, had been found dead in his bed. Marvin Davenport who works part of Mr. Sundeen's farm, remembered Monday that he had not seen him about the place and went to the house to see if he was all right. He found the door locked, called but got no answer. Becoming suspicious he reported the circumstance to E. R. Piper, Town Clerk, and C. E. Lucas, President of The Bank of Thorsby, who immediately drove out to the place and finding no other means of access, broke the door open and found Mr. Sundeen dead in his bed. As there were no indications of a struggle he had evidently passed away in his sleep, probably from heart failure.

Mell Martin, coroner and undertaker, was summoned. He took charge of the body. Funeral services were held at the cemtery. Burial was in the Lutheran cemetery at Thorsby. Rev. Peel officiated with the Lutheran burial service.

Mr. Sundeen came to Thorsby 11 years ago from Minneapolis, where it is understood he has a married sister with a family, but whose address he had lost.

Mr. Sundeen was a kindly, gentle man whom all who knew him respected for his lovable qualities. Efforts will be made to get in touch with his kinfolks, as it is understood that he had some property and money that will have to be administered.

Christian Endeavor News

The Christian Endeavor Society held a social Friday evening, October 4, at the home of Mrs. J. E. Each. They say that people are living fast today, but the Endeavorers probably broke a record when they crowded one week into a portion of one night.

The leader of the Christian Endeavor prayer meeting Sunday evening was Miss Helen Diefenderfer. The interesting subject was "Ideals That Count." New officers were installed at the meeting and several names were proposed for membership.

Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway delightfully entertained the members of the Thorsby Bridge Club at her home in Clanton Friday afternoon. Beautiful autumn flowers were used in the reception rooms where the three tables were placed for bridge.

After the game the high score prize was awarded to Mrs. McDonald Pearson, consolation prize, Mrs. Lee Pate. The guest prize was received by Mrs. Guy Higgins.

At the conclusion of the game a delicious salad plate with ice tea was served to the following: Mesdames S. C. Wood, McDonald, Pearson, Frank Thompson, Reese Franklin, Mack Gray, Lee Pate, Grover Bice. Guests Mrs. Guy Higgins, Mrs. Joe Higgins, Mrs. Loren Smith, and Mrs. Dowling.

Mrs. J. M. Bosworth and children, Christine and Leonard, and Martin Bakke motored to Mitchell Dam Sunday.

Miss Iola Gerald was a visitor in Columbiana Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper was called to Birmingham Sunday by the illness of their daughter. Mrs. Harper is remaining for several days.

Mr. Arnold Soberg of Birmingham was a week end visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg.

Mr. Sumner Gerald and sister, Ruth, visited their mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, for the week end.

Mr. Walter Petersen of the U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen, is at home for a visit.

Mr. Leonard Moody spent the week end in Thorsby.

Miss Jennie Robinson spent the week end in Thorsby with her mother, Mrs. T. W. Robinson. Miss Jennie has gone in training at St. Vincent's hospital.

Mr. Tom Robinson and family of Calera spent Sunday with Mrs. R. M. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Peterson and Mrs. D. H. Gentry and Mrs. R. M. Smith attended the Middle District Conference of the O. E. S. at Centerville Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Bentley and children took in the Fair at Birmingham last Thursday.

SHORT COURSE ON NOVEMBER 11-12

Local Farmers and Business Men Secure Important Meetings.

Negotiations that have been carried on by local farmers and business men with the Agricultural Extension Department of the International Harvester Company have been successful, and as the result a series of short course meetings in agriculture, horticulture, gardening and home economics will be held here.

Mr. F. J. Wolfe of the Harvester Company is here to outline the general plan of the short course and to render all assistance possible in making the preliminary arrangements.

The only purpose of the meetings will be to discuss, from a purely educational standpoint, important problems of the farm and home. Wherever they have been held, these meetings have been exceedingly helpful and inspiring to both town folks and farm folks.

The extension department of the Harvester Company constantly maintains a large force of experienced people who give all their time and efforts to instructive and helpful work among as large a number of people as they can reach in the hope of increasing prosperity on the farm, improving the general health of the people, making the work of the housewife easier and helping boys and girls to accomplish worthwhile achievements.

So successful has this work been during the past ten or twelve years that there is a constant and increasing demand for their short course meetings. So numerous are these requests that only a few towns in this state can be accomodated this year, and this community is indeed fortunate in securing these meetings.

Full details of the short course have not yet been worked out and cannot be announced until later, but it can be stated that a crew of speakers and demonstrators—all men and women of exceptional ability—will be sent here to conduct the meetings, which will virtually be a farmers' and housewives chautauqua. Much also will be provided that will be of great interest and help to the children. Large charts and many motion pictures will be used to illustrate the lectures.

Every meeting will be for everybody—men, women and children, farm folks and town folks—and everybody will be royally welcomed at every session. No admission charge of any kind will be made. Watch for further announcement, program and full particulars.

UNCLE BILL POWELL DIED LAST THURSDAY

Wm. L. Powell, age 57, died at his home three miles south of Clanton, last Thursday morning. He died suddenly. The remains were buried by Martin the following day at Thomas cemetery near Ramblers Rest. The funeral was conducted in the home by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

Mr. Powell is survived by his wife and two sons—Emmett C. Powell of Decatur and Ocie J. Powell of Clanton.

R. C. RIGGINS DEAD

Rufus C. Riggins, age 71, died at his home in Littlejohn community last Saturday morning. The remains were buried at Liberty Hill Sunday morning, Martin in charge.

It was the request of Mr. Riggins that the funeral be preached by Rev. R. M. Honeycutt; but Rev. Honeycutt being in Texas at the time, Mr. Martin, announced that the funeral services would be held upon the return home of Rev. Honeycutt.

Mr. Riggins is survived by his wife and one brother, Ben Riggins, of Birmingham.

OPENING SERVICE AT CLANTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

The first service in the new Presbyterian church of Clanton will be held next Sunday afternoon, Oct. 20, beginning at 3:00 o'clock. Dr. C. C. Anderson, of Montgomery, will have charge of the services, which will include a sermon by Dr. Anderson. The public has a cordial invitation to attend, especially the members of the other churches of Clanton.

The new church building is now completed with the exception of a few small fixture jobs. Sunday school has been being held in the building for the past several Sundays.

TWO YOUNG MEN ARRESTED FOR STEALING COTTON HERE

Two young men, Lafayette (Daddy) Watts and Austin Burnett, both of Thorsby were arrested Monday night just south of Lomax. They had 137 pounds of seed cotton in the back of a Chevrolet coupe, which they were alleged to have stolen from Billie Hand a short while before.

The officers tracked the car away from Mr. Hand's house and into the cement highway. The same track was seen to turn off the highway into the Country Club road just below Lomax; a short distance out this road the car was found parked and the two young men and the cotton were in the car. They were arrested and placed in jail, and have not made bond at the time this paper is printed.

Another cotton stealing occurred last week when nearly a bale of seed cotton was taken from a house of Ed Bruce only a short distance from the Billie Hand place. A thorough search for this cotton by Mr. Bruce revealed that the cotton had been sold in Selma. The man who bought the cotton also paid Mr. Bruce for it. Warrants are out for two men under this charge, but so far no trace has been found of them. Officers are on the watch-out.

Mr. John W. Williamson, age 75, died Wednesday of last week at his home a mile and a half north of Clanton. The remains were buried at Cane Creek Thursday afternoon, Rev. W. P. Lowery conducting the funeral. Mell Martin, undertaker, had charge of the body.

Whitmer Salesmen Hold Meeting Here

Met at Reynolds Swimming Pool; Interesting Program Was Rendered.

A meeting of the County and State agents of the H. C. Whitmer Co. was held in the hall at Reynolds Pond and the following program was rendered:

There was present S. W. Whitehouse, president of the H. C. Whitmer Co., of Columbus, Ind., B. F. Buckner, sales manager of District No. 2, from Columbus, Ind., G. E. Maxwell, field organizer, of Chattanooga, Tenn. Among the agents present there were W. E. Burkhalter, of Chilton County; W. A. Jones of Elmore County; Mr. Micks of Bibb County; W. T. Herrod and daughter, of Marengo County; W. L. Cherry of Chilton County; E. C. Forbes and family of Talladega County; J. W. Jones and family of Autauga County; M. L. Walker and family of Tuscaloosa County; W. M. Sealey of Marengo County.

At 12:30 a splendid barbecue dinner, together with chicken and all kinds of desserts was served, which everybody seemed to enjoy. After dinner was over Judge L. H. Reynolds was called upon to make a welcome address, which everybody seemed to enjoy. He mentioned the wonderful progress that our county was making along all lines and especially the agricultural interests. He said that just a few years ago the land where we were now holding this meeting was being plowed with an ox, and that they could look out and see for themselves the improvement that had been made. He gave all a hearty welcome to our county and invited them to come back whenever they had an opportunity. He said he knew that Col. Whitehouse would regret having to go back to Indiana to live after he had been here and got acquainted with such a great country as Chilton County.

Mr. S. W. Whitehouse made a wonderful speech instructing his agents on how to sell the products of his company. He told them how he had started out by going on foot with a small satchel with a few bottles of extracts, etc., in it and how he had walked from house to house selling his goods, but that he had never tried to sell anybody any goods that he did not think needed them, and that he felt like that in thirty-one years he had helped build a great business. He urged all his agents to treat their customers as they would like to be treated themselves. He said if they did not believe in the goods they were selling not to try to sell them. He said that no one could make a success of any business who did not believe and have confidence in the business themselves.

B. F. Buckner, G. E. Maxwell and others made talks in the interest of the business, which were well received by the crowd.

There were many ladies present, and everybody seemed to enjoy the day. Mrs. Simms, who prepared the dinner, was given the very highest praise for the splendid dinner and the pleasing manner in which the crowd was entertained.

ERRONEOUS REPORT OF LOCK 12 ACCIDENT

Upon investigating the facts in the case we find that the report given in our Thorsby Department last week concerning an accident at Lock 12 was in error. The report said that Mr. H. L. Thomason received an electric shock that was "enough to give him a mighty close call." The fact is that Mr. Thomason (T. L., not H. L.) only received a minor shock, a thing which is not out of the ordinary for men who are engaged in such work. The voltage was not enough to endanger his life as was intimated by our Thorsby correspondent.

The incident was given only minor consideration by Mr. Thomason, and is not of such importance as it was made to appear to the Thorsby correspondent.

ISABELLA SCHOOL DISTRICT FAIR

A Community Fair To Show Progress Along All Lines; Agriculture To Lead.

Editor Union-Banner:

The purpose of this article is to give the people of Chilton County some idea of what we are doing out here in an agricultural and educational way.

Someone has put out a report that Isabella's vocational work was not showing up satisfactorily. The one who made this report undoubtedly did not know whereof he was speaking.

First, I would say we have had vocational agriculture for six years. Any person should know that building a permanent agriculture can not be done over night. However, in the course of six years some marks of progress should be noticeable.

Mr. Thomas, the vocational teacher, works mostly with the boys in high school. I do not know just what the records show, but I do know several hundred projects on different phases of farming have been carried out under the supervision of the vocational teacher. Numbers of projects on cotton, corn and other field crops as well as our hogs, cattle, goats and poultry have been carried out with complete records kept on same. The boys also learn to do quite a bit of shop and cabinet work.

Mr. Thomas works also with the grown-ups. Almost everything pertaining to an all-round diversified farm program has been taught in the evening schools. Last winter we studied dairying and pasturing. This time we are taking poultry as our main subject. You would be surprised at the interest manifested in these evening schools.

In addition to vocational agriculture we have vocational home economics. This article would be too long to try to mention just a few of the many good things being done in this department. Will try to give some of these at a later date.

In Isabella community there were being operated 2 years ago more riding cultivators than in all the balance of the county put together. We are cultivating and pasturing all together something like 30 per cent more land than we were five years ago.

By the way our Annual Community Fair comes off Friday, October 18th. If you will come over that day I am sure you will be convinced that Isabella is making rapid progress and is showing signs of future prosperity. Come to our fair. We want to see you and just show you and tell you about what we are doing. We have electric lights now, so if you can not get off in daylight, then come that night and look everything over.

If this little article is apparently worthwhile, then I will try to give you another writing or so on the social activities of the vocational work of our school.

JOE CALLOWAY PURCHASES LUTHER FOSHEE'S INTEREST

Through a transaction consumated recently Mr. Joe Calloway becomes sole owner of what has been known as the Foshee-Calloway Motor Company of Clanton, the interest of Mr. Luther Foshee having been taken over by Mr. Calloway.

In the future the business will operate under the name of Calloway Motor Company. The business will be run in the future just as it has been, doing the same work and carrying the same kind of automobiles—Whippets and Willys-Knights.

Grannie Johnson, age 88, died Friday afternoon at the home of Rev. F. A. Gibson four or five miles out west of Clanton. The remains were buried Saturday at Pleasant Grove. The old lady had been living at the home of Rev. Gibson for about 20 years.

RETURN FROM FISHING TRIP AT MOBILE

Mr. Charlie Swanson of Chicago has been down at Thorsby visiting friends and relatives; so while here he went to Mobile on a fishing trip and was accompanied by Fred and Charlie Howard, their wives and Lloyd Howard of Thorsby.

The party returned Monday after fishing in the salt water two days. The catch consisted of 100 white trout, 40 ground mullets, 2 saltwater mud turtles, and 30 shark, 20 of them being small man-eating sharks.

The report was given The Banner by our veteran fishing friend, Fred Howard, and he said that the party had the time of their lives on the trip. Mr. Howard makes a trip to Alabama's gulf coast occasionally and spends a day or so catching salt water fish.

MANY ARRESTED THE PAST WEEK

Sheriff and Deputies Round Up Prohibition Law Violators.

During the past week Sheriff Collins and his deputies have been rounding up the prohibition violators of the county, and have taken into their net several men and boys under this charge.

Last Friday the Sheriff with Deputy Billie Foshee and Deputy Murrah made a swipe on the river below Lock 12, and got two stills and three men. One still was 200 gallons capacity and was filled with mash. There was no beer or whiskey but the outfit was complete and ready for operation. At the still were Robert Cleckler and Tommie Connell. A half mile lower down the river a 50-gallon still was found with two barrels of beer but no whiskey; two men were at this still. Tube Cleckler was caught but the other one got away. All three men were released on bond by the officers.

Saturday morning on the cement highway near the Shebly County line the officers searched the dwelling house of James Norris and found 5 gallons of home brew in a jar and 25 bottles of home brew. Norris was arrested and was released on bond.

Saturday night the officers arrested a negro named Dixie Varner near White City in Autauga County. He had a small quantity of whiskey in a bottle. Varner was brought to jail but was released on bond Sunday.

Rubye Chasteen was the victim Sunday morning. The officers searched his store 6 miles west of Clanton and found a small quantity of liquor. Chasteen was arrested and released on bond.

Sunday afternoon the officers blocked the road near the old home place of Uncle Mose Robinson in Beat 16. Buck Calloway came along with a quart of liquor. He was arrested and made bond.

The famous Steel Bridge section near the Shelby County line yielded two victims Monday morning, when the officers spied Carlson Patterson with a small quantity of liquor and Earnest Ray with 3 gallons in a 5-gallon can. They were walking along the public road carrying their merchandise in their hands. The two were arrested and were released on bond.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT HIGH SCHOOL ON OCTOBER THE 31ST

The Parent-Teacher Association will give its annual Hallowe-en party on the night of Thursday, October 31st. This announcement is hailed with joy as it means another gay night such as was never before experienced. Plans are being made for one of the most elaborate parties of the season. No expense will be spared by the P.-T. A. in making the setting ideal for the gay throng that will gather for the evening. Some of the attractions will be as follows: Fortune telling; fish pond; Punch and Judy Show; chamber of horrors; snappy side shows; hot dogs, drinks, candy and sandwiches. Fun begins at 6 o'clock p. m.

WRECK BELOW VERBENA

Late Sunday, between five and six o'clock two new Ford cars met in a head-on collision a short distance south of Verbena. The north bound car was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Smith of Wetumpka and the south bound car by a young man en route from Jasper to Troy. Mrs. Smith received a broken wrist, and several cuts and bruises. She was carried to Central Alabama Hospital where she remained a few days. Mr. Smith's lip was cut and he got a few bruises. The driver of the south bound car is said not to have been hurt. According to reports the south bound car attempted to pass a string of cars and saw the car meeting him too late.

YOUNG MENS CLASS OF B. S. S. ELECTS OFFICERS

Last Sunday morning at the regular Sunday School hour the Young Men's Class of the Baptist church elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Prof. Walker; 1st Vice President, Reedie Taylor;2nd Vice President, Samuel Martin; 3rd Vice President, Phillip Foshee; Secretary, Ira S. Crowe; Treasurer, Louie Smith; Reporter, Dovard Clackler.

The present officers are endeavoring to enlarge the class, and are requesting better attendance. There are several young men in this town who are not members of any Sunday school, whom we wish to enroll. Will you help us?

In Prof. W. E. Martin we think we have one of the very best teachers connected with the Sunday school or any other Sunday school in and around Clanton. He is a very friendly and likable man and the class is very proud of the services of such an able teacher. Let us show him our appreciation by being present next Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock. Come and bring a friend.

COTTON REPORT

The Department of Commerce, through the Bureau of the Census, announces the preliminary report on cotton ginned by counties, in Alabama, for the crops of 1929 and 1928. The total for the State was made public Tuesday, October 8.

The total for the state shows: 1929 578,273, 1928 335,969. For Chilton County the report shows: 1929 10,572, 1928 6,925.

Explanation Of Proposed Tax Districts

County Would Be Divided Into Two Districts Instead of Twelve.

In another place in this paper is to be found a notice of an election to be held on November 19th. This election is being held for the purpose of bringing about a more equitable distribution of the district school funds of the county. For sometime much dissatisfaction has been had over the fact that one district had much more money per child than another.

On September 27th the County Superintendent of schools called the trustees of the county together and they and the County Board of Education had a joint meeting. After quite a bit of discussion the trustees voted unanimously to recommend to the County Board of Education that an election be called with a view to putting the county into two tax districts instead of the 12 different tax districts which we have had heretofore. These two tax districts are to be known as districts "A" and "B". The lines for the districts were drawn after a study of the wealth of the county and the arrangement as now proposed will put the same number of dollars back of every child in the county. Certainly this is a forward move on the part of trustees and the County Board of Education together with the Superintendent and the matter now goes to the people of the county to be passed on by the voters.

Surely all people everywhere will be in favor of any move that has for its objective the bringing of equal educational opportunities to all the children of all the county. For a long time such a move has been on foot throughout the state and nation. The children of no community can compete with the children of another community unless they have had equal training and we feel that in a government such as we have that there should be equal rights for all. Let us give our support to the move of the County Board of Education in this instance and give them a chance to equalize the educational opportunities of the county. It is regretted that the state is not permitted to give equal opporunities to the children of this county with those of others in the state. This is due to the fact that this county has never qualified for participation in the Equalization program of the state but we feel that every district in the county will vote for a proposition that will bring equal opportunities for all the districts of the county.

Under the law governing the administration of our schools none of the district taxes can ever be spent for administration purposes. All of the district taxes must be spent in the schools of the districts in which they are located.

The only places where this will mean an increase in the amount of taxes paid are in those districts not having a district tax at the present time. In those districts already having a district tax it means a continuation of the present levy for a period of ten years ending September 30, 1939.

J. TOY WILLIAMS REACHES CHINA

Rev. Toy Williams and Family Arrived in Shanghai, and Report a Fine Trip.

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow me a little space in your good paper to say to our many friends in Chilton County that we have reached our home in Shanghai after a good trip across. We are now going through the famous Inland Sea of Japan and in about 36 hours should be in Shanghai, if all goes well. If you get this letter, you will know that we have landed in Shanghai. we have some time to spare while on the boat, so I am using a little of it to write home.

We had a wonderful trip across the United States. We got more out of the trip than any trip we ever had across the continent. One can see so much more by traveling by motor car than can be seen from the train. Thanks to our good friends in Clanton, we are able to pull the old car up on the steamer and it has almost reached China now.

To me one of the most interesting things as we crossed the continent was the different kinds of farming. as far as the back side of Texas the farming was much the same as in Alabama, but west of Texas the farming was very different.

The dry country out west where it rarely ever rains and where it is irrigated is very interesting country. One day over in Arizona about forty miles from Phoenix we were driving along, it was so hot and dry that it seemed that even the dirt would almost burn, if it caught on fire, all at once we came to an irrigation ditch and beyond it for about eighty miles the desert was literally blooming like a rose. Cotton, hay, cattle, many kinds of fruit, melons, dairy farms, in other words, one of the finest farming countries I ever saw. We didn't do a thing but stop and get a big watermelon and eat it.

While we were stopped on the side of the road eating dinner a man came along, saw our Ala. license tag and stopped to chat a bit. He was raised in Georgia and used to work in Birmingham. He spoke very highly of that farming country. Said he had a farm in alfalfa and had cut it off five times and would get two more cuttings before the season was over. After the war he was sent out there by the government to die, but had completely recovered and was making plenty of money farming. One fruit we saw growing there made us think of old times in the Bible lands, dates were growing in great abundance. Of course, some members of the family had to get some just to see what fresh dates are like. They were good.

Of course, that wonderful country in Southern California is enough to charm any living soul. Great fields of oranges were good to look upon. Thousands of acres planted in English walnuts lined the road for miles. We saw enough asparagus growing to fill all the cans in the country, it seemed. Miles of olive trees along the way made us think continually of picnics and big dinners in some fashionable homes. Grapes were in our lunch box for days and sometimes slacked our thirst along the way. We saw the first orange tree ever planted in California. But it would take too long to describe California. Perhaps, I shall write more of the trip later—J. Toy Williams.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SPECIALIST WILL BE HERE THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Dr. N. S. Johnson has a letter from Dr. Leroy W. Hubbard of Warm Springs, Ga., stating that he and his nurse, Miss Mahony, will be in Clanton Thursday afternoon of this week. Dr. Hubbard will be at Dr. N. S. Johnson's office, and he wishes to hold a clinic of all the doctors of Chilton County, and wishes all the late cases of infantile paralysis be brought before the clinic.

Dr. Hubbard is recognized as the best authority on infantile paralysis in the South and probably in the whole country. He practiced this profession in New York City for several years before moving to Warm Springs, Ga. The people of the county who have children with this disease should bring them to Dr. Hubbard and get his advice.

LITTLE DAUGHTER OF BENNIE MIMS BURIED AT TEMPLE FRI.

Lucile Mims, the 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Mims, died at the home near Temple church last Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock. The remains were buried at Temple cemetery Friday, Rev. S. J. Ezell conducting the funeral.

On Monday of this week $630.00 went away from Clanton to one mail order house. Most of this money was spent for goods that the merchants of Chilton County could have furnished. If it is not the prices and advertising that pulls this money away from the small home merchants, what is it?

GIVE BACK THE MANDATE!

The government has acted energetically in dealing with the Palestine riots.

The call for reinforcements was promptly met by the despatch of strong military and naval contingents from Egypt and the Mediterranean. It is believed that there are enough British soldiers, marines and aeroplanes in the country or within call to keep the angry factions from much further overt violence. We must of course preserve general order in the territory so long as we remain responsible for its control.

It is a responsibility of which we should relieve ourselves with the least possible delay. The opportunity is given to the government to reconsider the whole question of our Palestine mandate. The disturbances, which have to be suppressed by British armed forces at a considerable extra cost to the British taxpayer, emphasize the futility of the needless enterprise to which this country was committed by rash and unthinking statesmanship.

What has been occurring at Jerusalem and elsewhere in the Jordan Valley was foreseen from the first. The Daily Mail denounced the policy from the outset, and has constantly protested against it. The sanguinary voilence of the past fortnight is the result of a foolish experiment which can not succeed and should never have been attempted.

There is now no excuse for going on with it. We restore order only to be certain that sooner or later we shall be required to do this same troublesome and thankless work all over again. Why in the name of common sense should we be saddled with the liability? We want nothing in Palestine, and assuredly get nothing out of it but annoyance and expense. Let us get free of the whole entanglement. We should return our Palestine mandate to the League of Nations and recall our troops and civil officials. And we hope the government will lose no time in relieving this overloaded nation of a burden it should never have been asked to carry.—London Mail.

It is said that the cells in Sing Sing are now equipped with radio for 1,800 inmates. Dosent this come under the heading of cruel and unusual punishment?

Certain senators the other day heckled Chairman Legge of the Farm Board, asking why the farm problem hadn't been settled during the two months he had been in office. Inasmuch as Congress has been working on the problem for eight years, Mr. Legge ought to have had a snappy comeback.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

FRANK P. LITSCHERT

With the debate on the new tariff bill in full swing in the Senate the in the whole question of the tariff. It is interesting to note, too, that the stock arguments used by the free trade newspapers and their allies are the same that were employed when the present tariff law was up for consideration in the reconstruction period following the World War. Great advertisements were run in the metropolitan newspapers, especially the Washington newspapers, where these ads would meet the eye of the national legislators, to the effect that if the Fordney-McCumber bill were passed, the cost of living would go sky high. Clothing would become so expensive that there would n longer be any joy in picking out a new suit, and all of the other things mentioned in the tariff schedules would go up in a relative degree.

Congress, however, refused to pay any attention to these dire predictions. The tariff bill was passed. The cost of living did not increase to any extent. In fact in some lines affected by the tariff, costs are less than in the days preceding the enactment of the present tariff bill. While in other lines, where there is no protective tariff, prices have risen appreciably. Think of this the next time you attend a shirt sale or buy a pound of coffee. The greatest effect of the protective tariff bill passed a few years ago was to steady our industry following the post war deflation, and to set the national steering wheel for the greatest comeback on the part of Uncle Sam ever recorded in the history of this or any other nation.

Another of the arguments used by the free trade publications repeatedly in every tariff fight, concerns our foreign trade. It is admitted that we consume about nine tenths of our products in the home market. But the free trader, and his low tariff ally declare that we must look after the other ten per cent that goes into foreign channels and see that it is properly disposed of, for the reason that, if we raise the tariff and prohibit imports, the other nations cannot buy from us. As a result we will lose sale for the ten per cent of our products which go abroad, there will be a great surplus in our home market and we will stand a ruined nation. The unsoundness of this argument has been proved time and again. The argument was used against the Fordney-McCumber bill. But our imports have increased and our foreign trade has increased under production. It is to be remembered that a great many of our imports are not affected by the tariff at all, and that these imports come from countries which are among our best customers, nations which are constantly buying more and more from us. Foreign trade no longer depends on the simple exchange of commodities between two nations. It is now a complicated process involying a great many countries back and forth and crss-wise, and it is complicated further by tourist trade, foreign investments and many other things.

The free trader, however, keeps his eyes to the clouds. He is sure that we cannot keep that foreign market for ten per cent of our products unless we let in many times as many goods from abroad, he would remove the tariff barriers and throw open to cheap labor competition, the great home market which absorbs ninety per cent of our products. The protectionist would not do it that way. He would first prtect the great hme market and keep the wheels of industry humming and our producers fortified and prosperous so that they would be all the better prepared to engage in competition abroad. He kows that the well paid and well fed man has generally been able to accomplish more than the fellow who is "on his last legs" so to speak. He believes in foreign trade but he does not want to get it at the expense of placing the American wage earner up against European competition, conceding for the moment that it could be gotten that way, which is a more doubtful question.

THE CONQUEST OF AMERICA

Louis Loucheur, acting head of the French delegation to the League of Nations assembly, has proposed that the League undertake to ration the world's coal and sugar among the nations. Coal and sugar, he said, are essentials to which every nation is entitled regardless of where nature happened to place coal fields and sugar bearing lands.

The suggestion is of particular interest to Americans. It can not be read as the altruistic day-dream of an impractical or inconsequential individual. It is the considered program of a man who holds first rank in the industrial and political life of his country and of Europe. M. Loucheur is credited with being the wealthiest man in France. His opinions carry weight in any European assembly. It can not be doubted that his views are widely shared throughout Europe.

In league circles they are thinking of denationalizing wealth in credit as well as in natural resources. At the present session of the league assembly another proposal was put forward to make the international bank provided in the Young plan an agency of the League of Nations. The bank would furnish credits to any country found by the league to be the victim of aggression. The United States, which has become the world's most important pool of credit, would thereby become the principal banker of the league's champion in the next war to end war. It is significant that this proposal was not laughed out of the assembly, but will be discussed anew next year. Meanwhile the bank is to be organized and American money will be enlisted in founding it. The proposal may be expected to die only if the bank and league are divorced.

In all these schemes for international control of wealth the United States has nothing to gain and its high standard of living to lose. The effort to get the United States into the league is not motivated by a desire to obtain the advice of the United States in adjusting international quarrels, as is commonly presumed by league and court advocates in this country. Europe has plenty of intelligence and does not have to come to the United States for more. Europe does want American wealth. It had it once and lost it, but it has never outgrown the notion that America is, by right of discovery, the colony of Europe to be exploited in European interest. Europe can not recapture America by conquest, but it dreams of recapturing it by subterfuge.—Chicago Tribune.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

The world's longest newspaper route is in Yellowstone Park, is 160 miles long and absorbs between 600 and 800 pounds of newspapers daily between June and September.

It is a full day's work that confronts the driver, Bird Newell, when he steps on the starter of his Chevrolet Coupe, and sets about the day's business. Fast driving and knowledge of short cuts are necessary to complete the task before dusk.

Newell's subscribers number several hundred persons who reside each summer in the isolated camps and resort hotels of America's greatest natural park. Until 1928 these vacationists had no means of getting their home town newspapers. Since the route opened the Chevrolet Coupe has been in constant service, never missing a day.

The car has already travelled 42,000 miles and has never undergone any major repairs. Thus far the total cost of servicing the car has been only $58.50.

Newell receives his papers at the Gardiner entrance each day at 10:20 a. m. He makes four stops, about 45 minutes each, at the major camps, and returns to the bunk house at Mommoth Lodge at 6:20 p. m. To do this he must average 32 miles to the hour. His actual driving time is five hours.

L. E. Flint, publicity director of the park recently invited a reporter to accompany Newell over the route. It afforded the writer a splendid view of the park from trails forbidden the average tourist.

When the reporter got back to his office he wrote an enthusiastic description of the enchanting vistas that had been revealed to him. Nor did he forget the ability of the car which sweep him through the alluring landscape.

"I never enjoyed a more comfortable ride in a motor car," he wrote. "We traveled through this wonderland leisurely, despite the consistent speed that was maintained up-grade and down. The Chevrolet took hair pin turns without a perceptible slackening of speed, and the rutty roads never stopped the driver for a second."

What has become of the old-fashioned stage villain who always wore a black waxed moustache and shiny black riding boots and who always carried a riding crop?

Some of the anti-administration senators are complaining because President Hoover has kept silent on the tariff but it may be that the President thinks the Senate is doing enough talking on the subject for the entire country.

Are You expecting a Baby?

THOUSANDS of expectant mothers are now cheerful and happy. Their waiting months have been made comfortable and they will be better prepared when the great moment of childbirth arrives. This has also been true of countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years who have used "Mother's Friend," that time-tested, scientifically prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician.

Mother's Friend lessens pain.

You, too, may enjoy the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

"Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 12, Atlanta, Ga.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

TRUE FARM ELECTRIFICATION IS GROWING

Use of electricity on American farms is increasing at a steady rate. A thorough survey just completed by the United States bureau of the census shows that production of individual electric plants in 1927 was more than 7 per cent greater than 1925. Since the great bulk of electric plants are used on the farm, this is a positive indication of the steady spread of rural electrification thruout the country.

Dominance of the individual electric plant in farm electrification has resulted in an unheralded but important economic development in this field, the bureau of census figures show. Although production of electric plants was more than 7 per cent greater, the cost to the farmer-purchasers was a total of almost two and a half million dollars less. In other words, increased manufacture of individual electric plants under mass production made a saving for the farm buying public of two and a half million dollars.

Recent figures from the National Electric Light Association show a total of 454,100 farms receive electricity from transmission or "high lines." One manufacturer of individual electric plants has produced nearly 350,000 of these units, while the total of all electric plants is near the 475,000 mark. This reveals that the individual plant is an overwhelming factor in farm electrification.

The bureau of census figures reveal a decrease of 2,028 electric enterprises (central power station enterprises) in 1927, as compared with 1925. With the number of such enterprises decreasing while the number of individual electric plants is steadily increasing, farm electrification depends greatly on the individual electric light and power units which the farmer installs on his own place.

The true field of farm electrification—more farmers using electricity for light and every-day power applications, is steadily growing. This is the one important phase of farm electrification, rather than getting a comparatively few farmers to use more electricity.

MOVE TO REVAMP PARTY IS LAUNCHED

Washington, Oct. 15.—A movement to reorganize the southern G. O. P. in defiance of Postmaster General Brown, presidential secretary Newton and James C. Burke was launched here today by prominent Hoovercrats with E. E. Callaway, Florida state chairman, as their spokesman.

Callaway charges that Brown, Newton and Burke had used their patronage power to reinstate "the old forces which have commercialized the Republican party since before the Civil War."

He predicted that within a few months there would be created an organization which would deal directly with the president in all matters affecting present and future policies.

"I would like to say to Mr. Brown and the other two distinguished gentlemen that there are three things which cannot again be forced upon the South: first, the South cannot be bought with a postoffice; second, the new leadership which resulted in Mr. Hoover's candidacy cannot be overthrown, and the old order dominated by negroes, carpet baggers and scalawags restored; third, those men and women who broke away from the political bondage of half a century and voted their convictions will not return to the kind of Democratic leadership now in control."

The proposed organization, Callaway said, would be "lily white".

"It will be built," he said, "for the purpose of upholding the president's hands in all constructive measures and to prevent his enemies from destroying what we accomplished at the last election. At the same time it will be in a position to secure to the South that to which it is justly entitled.

"We will have within this organization more than 250 delegates to the next Republican national convention, and we will then be in a position to talk practical politics."

Callaway said the South was disappointed that it got no member in the cabinet or on the federal farm board.

WILD LIFE SCENES WILL BE FILMED

Hunting, fishing, and wild life scenes in Jefferson County are to filmed by Commissioner I. T. Quinn, of the state game and fisheries department, and his cameraman, Samuel J. Grosso.

The pictures will be used by the commissioner in an educational program which he is planning to conduct in public schools of the state and among public organizations during the winter.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I SUFFERED from indigestion—everything I ate gave me heartburn," says Mrs. Mattie Mullins, of Pound, Va.

"For months, I did not see a well day. I worried along, but never felt well.

"I got a package of Thedford's Black-Draught at the store and began taking it—a dose every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain. After I had taken Black-Draught, this pain entirely stopped. I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months I was feeling fine. My health was better than it had been in years.

"I keep Black-Draught in our home, and we all take it for constipation and upset stomach."

USEFUL WORK A CHRISTIAN DUTY

LESSON TEXT—Gen. 2:15, Ex. 20:9, John 5:17, John 9:4, Acts 20:33-35, II Thess. 3:10.

GOLDEN TEXT—This we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Doing Our Work Well.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Doing Our Work Well.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Honest Work Essential to Success.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gambling Spirit Hurtful to Business and Morals.

I. The First Man Set to Work (Gen. 2:15).

Work was God's primal thought for man. Even in the state of innocence man was to have useful employment. With the coming of sin, new burdens were added.

II. The Time to Work (Ex. 20:9).

"Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work." Six out of seven days should be devoted to work. Idleness on any of the six days is as great a sin before God as working on the seventh day. Let it never be forgotten that the fourth commandment is an ordinance of labor as well as rest; in fact, there can be no rest unless there has been work. The idler and the Sabbath breaker are equally guilty before God.

III. The Working of the Father and the Son (John 5:17).

The God of the Bible is a working God. It is true that God, when His creative work was done, rested; that is, desisted from creative work, but there is other work besides that of creation. There is no such thing as inactivity in the divine kingdom. God is in His ceaseless activity everywhere. To be godlike is to be active.

Jesus had healed an impotent man on the Sabbath day. The Jews sought to kill Him for this good deed, and when He linked Himself with God in this, they more earnestly sought to kill him, because He made Himself equal with God. The special points of equality with God were:

1. Giving life to the dead.

Only God had shown Himself able to raise one from the dead.

2. Judging mankind (John 5:22).

His claim to being the judge of all mankind was His supreme claim to Deity.

IV. Urgency of the Work (John 9:4).

"I must work the works of God while it is day; the night cometh when no man can work."

These words were uttered in connection with the appalling need of the man who was born blind. Delivering lost men and women from their sins is the work of God which must be done. The night is coming when no work can be done. The night therefore for the world is when Jesus is withdrawn from it.

V. Paul an Example of Working (Acts 20:33-35).

Paul did not work to hoard up money, but to support himself while preaching the gospel. A truly great preacher is the one who preaches not only in word but in deed.

VI. The Man Who Will Not Work Should Not Eat (II Thess. 3:10).

Growing out of Paul's teaching concerning the coming of the Lord, a tendency to idleness developed at Thessalonica. They reasoned that if the Lord's coming was so near, work was useless. The true teaching concerning the coming of the Lord is, "Occupy till I come." Earnest attention to present duty is the scriptural attitude toward the second coming of Christ. Those who will not work should not eat. This is the right principle upon which to base all works of charity. It is the efficient cure for pauperism. It exhibits the right economic order and should apply to all classes.

VII. The Object of Work (Eph. 4:28).

This text sets forth the only three ways by which to get money or possessions of any kind.

1. To steal.

Theft was common among the heathen. It is common today, even in civilized countries. Many ways of obtaining money can be designated by theft.

2. To receive as gifts.

3. To work for.

To have possessions which have been stolen is, of course, wrong. To have that which benefactors have given is right, even though it may not bring a blessing. To have that which we have earned is not only honorable, but gives personal satisfaction in that it has come through toil.

Master of the Situation

There is always the unknown quantity, always the equation we cannot solve. It would seem that it is not the will of God that we should in our toil for Him feel ourselves masters of the situation. It must be enough to know that He is Master of it.—P. C. Ainsworth.

God Always Answers

SAMARIA

We were sure sorry to find our space in your paper vacant last week. The farmers around in our community are all about through with their cotton picking.

Our Sunday school is doing fine with our new superintendent, J. Z. Mims. A large number were absent last Sunday on account of sickness and we hope to have them back with us next Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

Our B. Y. P. U. is coming forward with its work. We started our study course Friday night. We hope to reach the standard of an A-1 Union before the year is out. Group I, Paul Holley, Captain, rendered a fine program Sunday night. Mrs. Carl Boockholdt, our quiz leader, urges that all members read their Bibles daily.

Mr. J. Z. Mims, Mr. G. F. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Glenn and daughter, Nora, Mrs. Leila Williams and Miss Sallie B. Wood attended the Unity Association at Mount Carmel last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Nora Wood spent the week end with Miss Evelyn Littlejohn at Mount Pisgah community.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Mims spent Friday in Montgomery.

We sure were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Armstrong back with us last Sunday. They had been away on account of illness and death of Mr. Armstrong's father.

Mr. J. W. Wood and family spent Friday with his father, J. G. Wood.

We hate to report Mr. B. F. Foshee on the sick list. He received serious injuries when knocked down on the highway two weeks ago. We hope he will soon be at his usual health.

Misses Eunice and Julia Edwards spent Sunday with Marie Fraser.

Miss Icie Bell Cobern attended Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Mims spent Sunday with Mr. Bill Minor.

SOME MORE ON GENESIS

I wish by God's help to study some more on the book of Genesis. You remember that I told you last Sunday that the book of Genesis is the book of beginnings and begins with this verse: "In the beginning God created the earth and the heaven," and ends with this verse: "So Joseph died, being an hundred and ten years old: and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt." That is a great and remarkable thing in Bible history.

The book of Genesis is by far the greatest book in the Bible. The core of the other sixty-six books is taken from, or have their beginnings, in this book called Genesis. It is really the core of all Bible history, the source of everything. Starting at the very beginning of things we are led to the beginning of sin and then to the promise of salvation. Thoughtful and spiritual people read and study this book by characters. To-night I am going to bring before your mind's eye the characters of Adam, Noah, Seth, Enoch, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. These steps eventually center in the sons of Jacob.

The great outstanding characters numbered with the women are Eve, the mother of all living, Sarai, a name by which she was called in Ur of Caldee while a Gentile and when she became a Jew she was called Sarah which means princess. This name God gave her when he promised that she should be the mother of nations. This promise was fulfilled in her son Isaac, which means laughter a symbol of Sarah's laughter when this promise was made to her. Isaac is mentioned in the Bible as a "Well digger." Upon this trade his wealth depended. No doubt he dug all the wells of those old patriarchs, and was sent for far and near to dig wells.

Then we think of Rebekah whose name in the Syriac language means beautiful. She was the daughter of Bethuel and the wife of Isaac, the mother of Esau and Jacob. Then comes to my mind Rachel, the beautiful and favorite wife of Jacob which was proven by the fact that he worked double time to gain her hand and yet seven years' work for her seemed only a few days to him. She as the maternal ancestor of Ephraim and Manassah represents by personification the people of Israel as recorded in Jeremiah 31 chapter and the 15 and 16 verses.

I want you to read this Bible for yourself, and if I do not study it and preach it to you then the doors of this church should be closed. The first thing I want to bring before your mind to-night is the introduction to Christ which is found in this book called Genesis in the 3 chapter and the 15 verse. "The seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head." The seed of the woman meant Christ and the serpent meant the devil. Then again we think of the ark as a type of Christ. The people in the ark were saved, and those outside the ark were lost. Just so in Christ people are saved and out of him they are lost.

Now Sarai was of Ur of Caldee along with her husband Abraham. Ur of Caldee was really the "jumping off" place into hell, the seat of all idolatry. Really there was nothing more idolatrous than Sarai's household gods which she carried with her hiding them under her bed. But they were found and were buried there at Bethel. Now as to that hanging on to idolatry I wish to call your attention to Ahab and Jeroboam rulers who tried with a slick tongue to influence the good old God-worshipping Hebrew to worship idol gods at Bethel saying that it was too far for them to go away there to Jerusalem for worship. They insisted that they worship Baal at either Dan or Bethel.

The promise concerning the coming of Christ is clearly stated in the 12 chapter of Genesis when God said to Abraham, "In thee shall all the families of the earth be blessed." That promise made to a Gentile at that time meant that all families of Canaan, Ur of Caldee, and Jerusalem at which place on the day of Pentecost all nations of the earth were represented would be blessed in Abraham's seed which is Christ who was born of the virgin Mary, a descendent of Abraham. The next reference to which I call your mind is found in the 24 chapter of Nnmbers and the 17 verse: "There shall come a star out of Jacob." That star out of Jacob was he, Christ, to whom that miraculous star guided the wise men of the East. "A star out of Jacob" meant out of the tribe of Jacob, and the land where Jacob lived, prayed and studied most. Jacob was a man of a wonderful influence.

We find that Christ is called the "Bright and morning star." He is also called the "Dayspring from on High." Before the morning star appeared over Bethlehem's hills the angel announced the advent of this bright and morning star in David's city in a lowly manger. Another name which we read that he is called is found in this verse: "For unto us a child is given, and his name shall be called Wonderful Counsellor, Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." Isa. 9:6.

Now in the book of Genesis which begins telling us about God's creation and ends with Joseph being embalmed and put in a coffin in Egypt we find that Joseph is a true type of Christ. He was embalmed down there in Egypt where all those rulers and kings were mummied because he stood for God. Then we see him again as a type of Christ in that he was the only beloved son of his old father Jacob. Jesus Christ was the beloved son of his Heavenly Father. Again he is a type of Christ in that he was refused, rejected of his brothers and finally sold for thirty pieces of silver to be used as the Ishmaelites desired. In like manner Jesus Christ was rejected of his brethren, refused and cast out of the tabernacle in his home town of Nazareth, went down to Jerusalem and was rejected by many, and finally sold for thirty pieces of silver to the angry mob to do what they pleased with him.

Just to read of Joseph's life down there in Egypt as recorded in Genesis would make the devils in hell believe in God. His life there was written because it points out Christ as no other book. If I had only this one book of Genesis I could find Christ. In Exodus 23:23 we find Christ called mine angel. Then Zechariah looking down through the ages bearing Jerusalem's idolatry in mind writes these words: "In that day there shall be opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and uncleanness." This meant Christ who died out there on Calvary, his heart as a fountain pouring forth blood for redemption and cleansing of sin to the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the whole world.

Joseph was carried down into Egypt to escape death no doubt where he saved his father's house. Jesus Christ was also carried down into Egypt to escape Herod's cruel hand, and he saved his father's house, his bride, the church. Joseph married a Gentile wife. Jesus Christ comes along and adopts his bride, the church, adopting the Gentile world. Then Joseph died in Egypt and was carried back to his own land and burried with his own people. Jesus Christ died before Jews and Gentiles and was burried among his own in Joseph's tomb.

In the 49 chapter of Genesis I can see Jacob at an advanced age so weak that he cannot stand and his legs outstretched in stiffness, as he pronounces the blessing upon Judah in these words: "The sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh come; and unto him shall the gathering of the people be." Truly this was the Christ who would come. The word Shiloh means "one sent." When Christ would come there would be no use of a king or a crown, but he was to be crowned Ging. Are you willing to crown Christ as your King? Are you willing to fall on your knees and look up into his face and say, "I am ready to escape thee, I will crown thee as my King?"

A Real Public Servant

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad is owned by thousands of stockholders in various walks of private and public life. It is operated for the service of the public by officers chosen by these stockholders.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad gives employment to nearly 50,000 workers to whom it pays approximately $67,000,000 annually in wages, which are, in turn, spent or invested by these employes in various public enterprises.

For supplies bought from the public for its operation, the L. & N. Railroad pays out over $20,000,000 annually.

For improvements to its vast property devoted to public use, the L. & N. Railroad has appropriated an average of nearly $20,000,000 annually during the past ten years, to serve the public more efficiently.

For taxes alone, the L. & N. Railroad pays into public hands $7,600,000 per year, and, in interest and dividends on stocks, bonds, and other securities held by the public, it distributes nearly $19,000,000—thus making the total yearly disbursements in which the public has a direct interest upwards of $133,000,000.

Therefore, the L. & N. lines and their owners, the communities served, and the workers employed—all have the closest possible mutual interests. The better these interests are understood and furthered, the greater will be the degree of public service rendered.

To be a punctual, courteous, efficient, and dependable public servant in every phase of its operations and through the loyal co-operation of its multitude of employes, is the ideal and constant aim of the L. & N.

Splendid passenger service is maintained by the L. & N. for your comfort and convenience. Modern, all-steel, up-to-the-minute trains between principal points in the southeast and to and from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, etc. Many of these trains are provided with club cars, observation cars, shower baths, maid, valet, etc.

The principal trains offer dining-car service, for the unusual excellence of which the L. & N. is famous.

STATE CAPITOL News

The Alabama Real Estate Commission, which was created by act of the 1927 legislature to protect the public and the legitimate real estate man from the unscrupulous practices of a few persons engaged in the real estate business, is functioning in a manner which has won general approval among members of the profession over the state. The enactment of the law was sponsored by leading real estate men of the state, who realized the need of such a regulatory measure to promote the best interest of the real estate business. The commission, appointed by Governor Graves as provided by the act, is composed of F. E. Butler, Birmingham, Chairman, Robert A. Yarbrough, Montgomery and Alexander Foreman, Mobile, associate members. O. L. Haynes is secretary of the commission, with office at the capitol, and his handling of the many problems presented has been an important factor in the successful operation of the law.

Licenses are issued by the commission to real estate brokers, who are required to pass an examination with a grade of 70 or better in order to be eligible for license. The commission is now compiling a "primer" which will be an elementary book on the theory and practice of real estate, and which will also construe the various sections of the Alabama real estate act. The primer will cover the real estate subject by a series of questions and answers. It will be furnished to all applicants for broker's license coming up for examination, and will be available to others interested in the subject. It will be ready for distribution about January the first.

During 1928 the commission issued 789 brokers' licenses, and in 1929 to date has issued 748. Salesmens' licenses were issued in 1928 to the number of 1,478, and for 1929 so far, 1,291. The commission has revoked five licenses, of which three were brokers' and two salesmens', and has refused for cause to issue nine real estate licenses, and put on probation four brokers. The commission's work is showing results and a number of instances can be cited where the commission has acted effectively to prevent fraud with resultant loss to the public and to secure enforcement of the law. This work has the very general support and cooperation of real estate men over the state.

Governor Bibb Graves in a proclamation recently issued, designated the week of November 11-18 inclusive as "Education Week" in Alabama, and called on citizens of the state to observe the occasion by acquainting themselves with the accomplishments, the present condition and future needs of the schools.

The movement for observing a nationwide "Education Week" was launched by the American Legion, and has hmet with the cooperation of many other agencies, so that the week is now generally observed over the country. The objective of the week, in a general way, is to promote something like an "educational revival" and to arouse public interest in the state's educational system. A most interesting bulletin on the subject has been prepared by the Alabama Education Association and copies may be obtained by applying to the secretary of the association, Frank L. Grove, 417 First National Bank Building, Montgomery.

Plans for the observance of Education Week in Alabama were discussed at a recent meeting of leaders of educational, patriotic and civic organizations held in Montgomery. This meeting was addressed by Gov. Graves, A. F. Harman, the State Superintendent of Education, and George Grant of Troy, State Commander of the American Legion.

In his proclamation designating Education Week, Governor Graves said:—

"Whereas, in a democracy such as ours, its continued existence depends upon the education f all of the people, thus creating a public responsibility which can not be gainsaid nor evaded, and,

"Whereas, this responsibility can not be intelligently fulfilled without information concerning educational conditions and needs, and,

"Whereas, this opportunity to obtain accurate and adequate information concerning our educational conditions and needs is furnished thru the observance of Education Week, established some years ago by the joint efforts of the American Legion, the National Education Association and the United States Bureau of Education,

"New Therefore, I, Bibb Graves, as Governor of the State of Alabama, hereby proclaim and declare the week of November 11th to 18th, inclusive, as Education Week in Alabama and I urge and beseech all citizens of our state to observe said week and to take advantage of the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the accomplishments, the present status, and the needs of our schools, so that never again shall we witness the disgrace of our young men and women going forth illiterate and unprepared as in the fateful days of 1918, nor again behold them, because of ignorance, confounded in the days of peace. Observe this week, that we may know our duty and obligation to our youth and that our youth may be trained to love our State, to rightly understand the obligations to her and to unceasingly strive to develop her priceless resources of men and things for the increasing happiness of her future citizenship."

Mrs. J. W. Cagle of Mitchell Dam spent a few days last week with Mrs. Dan Parrish at Lock 18.

THORSBY SECTION

S. E. NORTON, Manager

Rasco A. Maddox, Cecil Each, Mrs. Each and Miss Odie Lee Arthur left Thorsby last Friday evening for Demorest, some 300 miles from Thorsby. Saturday they made a side trip to Franklin, North Carolina, a lovely ride among the mountains, now bedecked in all their gorgeous autumn finery. The return trip home was made Sunday night by moon light. They arrived during the small hours of Monday morning, tired and sleepy but happy over the success and joy of the trip.

Rev. J. E. Each left Wednesday morning to spend a month among Congregational churches in Wisconsin. He is a member of a team working under Congregational auspices carrying a message to the churches of that section regarding Home missionary work of the denomination in the Southeast, in which he represents Alabama.

Rev. James W. Davenport, a former pastor of Thorsby Congregational church, now located in Daisy, Tenn., is a member of another team working in Nebraska. He represents Tennessee in the same interest as Mr. Each.

Cecil Each left with his father to go as far as Chicago where he will enter Coyne Electrical School as a step towards becoming an electrical engineer. Since graduating from Thorsby Institute in 1928 he has been working at anything he could find to do and saving his money to help carry out his purpose. We wish him success.

Lloyd Howard left Sunday night for New Albany, Indiana, where he will be employed by one the largest florists in the Chicago district, having upwards of 10 acres under glass. If he and his employers agree that he is suited to that business he expects to remain for some time and learn the business as conducted by a modern large florist company.

Mr. and Mrs. Yancey M. Kelley, and small daughter, Audrey, of Birmingham were guests of the Norton's Sunday; Mrs. Kelley and the little girls will stay all this week.

Miss Edna Childress had as her guests last Sunday Misses Ruth and Marjorie Champion, Jessie and Lola Martin.

Dr. and Mrs. Wood motored to Birmingham Wednesday afternoon to attend a dinner at Fraternal Hospital. Master Frank Wood went to Montgomery last Friday to see a Florida and Auburn football game.

Mr. C. P. Turnquist is spending a week in Fairfield with his daughter, Mrs. Carl Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton entertained the teachers of Thorsby Institute Monday evening, the occasion being in celebration of Mr. Norton's 81st birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice and children, and Mrs. Bice's mother, Mrs. Walker, and Mr. W. L. Leary went fishing last Tuesday at Coosa river.

Horace Jones took the boys of his Sunday School class, boys 12 to 14, on a 'possum hunt Tuesday night.

Dr. Wood carried Mrs. John Bean and Mr. U. S. Dobbs to Birmingham Monday for operations.

On Friday night, Nov. 1st, the Y. W. A. will have a dollar social. All who do not bring a dollar will be measured waist and height at one cent per inch. Proceeds go to new church building fund.

Miss Iola Gerald spent the week end in Birmingham and Decatur.

Mrs. S. M. Connatser and Mrs. G. W. Leslie motored to Montgomery last Thursday.

Mrs. G. F. Harper returned from Birmingham last Saturday morning after a week spent in the city.

Miss Rachel Petersen arrived home Sunday evening after spending two weeks in Cullman.

Mr. Charles Swanson of Chicago, who owns a farm near Thorsby was a host to a fishing party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard, Mrs. C. S. Howard and son Lloyd. They left Thorsby early last week, went to Bayou Batre on the Alabama Gulf Coast, on a fishing trip. They caught about 100 white trout and ground mullet, and thirty small shark. Returning last Friday night. To Mr. Swanson it was a new experience and he got considerably excited on hauling in some of those embryo man eating sharks. The men fished from a small boat and the ladies stayed on the pier and their catch was mostly sea crabs.

Walter A. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson of Thorsby finished his enlistment term of four years in the U. S. Navy, and is at home for a brief visit before leaving to take up work in charge of milling machinery for grinding ore taken from a gold mine in which he is interested, to prepare it for the smelter. This mine is located in California, where he saw it in operation while on his way home. In an interview he gave a graphic desciption of the vessel on which he spent the last nine months of his service as an aviator, the U. S. Steamship Saratoga, the largest of any naval vessel in the world, 888 feet long nd 106 feet beam (wide) having a maximum speed of forty miles per hour, carrying 120 air planes equipped for flight, with 600 aviators and mechanics to man them, besodes a crew of 2200 officers and men and two and a half million gallons of fuel oil, truly a monster of the deep.

We were greatly interested to receive from a member of the Union Baptist church (colored) of Clanton, concerning a meeting of their district association, comprising 23 churches in Chilton County and Bibb County which met last week, Thursday and Friday at Shiloh Baptist Church, 8 miles west of Thorsby. Each church in the association is entitled to send two delegates to the association, and every church was represented with a written report.

Each active church member pays 25 cents each service, some have one a month, some have two, this goes for running expenses, pastors salaries and etc. Each member also pays 25 cents per year for Association expenses and benevolences, Selma University, (Their ministers school) missions etc. At this Association they collected $237.00

Thorsby Gin and Warehouse Co. at Thorsby, owned by Thompson Brothers have ginned 1245 bales to date this season as against 1296 last year. It is estimated that they will get about 100 more bales before the season is out. They wish to express their appreciation and thanks for the patronage of the growers in Thorsby section.

Prof. C. M. Williams has gone to Guntersville to accept a position on the faculty of the High School where Miss Agnes Gerald is employed.

A NATIONAL BANK

During the latter part of the Civil War the Federal Government realized that the banking system was inadequate to meet the needs of the country. A a result, THE NATIONAL BANK ACT was passed by Congress February 25th, 1863, whereby NATIONAL BANKS could be organized, meeting requirements specified, subject to examination, and supervision of the U. S. Treasury Department.

In 1913 the progress and development of this country required additional banking facilities and safeguards, and it was then that the FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS were established, thus creating the greatest central banking system in the world. The FIRST NATIONAL BANK is a member of the FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM organized under the National Bank Act supervised and examined by the United States Treasury Department.

The JACK-POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Being as this is the first of the JACK-POT, guess it would be O. K. for us to tell you what a JACK-POT is—or think it is—that is, if you don't know. Some gamblers say it is something to be WON. Others claim it is more often LOST. Take your pick. Your guess is as good as the next one.

Speaking of JACK-POTS, that leads us up to those on some slot machines. Guess that's the kind most often lost. Don't notice many being taken, do you?

And, speaking of slot machines—"roscoes"—(who invented the things, any way?) And, what makes people play 'em? Yep, that's right, go to the HEAD of the class—foolishness! There's a little streak of it in everybody, maybe.

Lots of "roscoes," you know. Different kinds. Not all of them have three spinning wheels, either. More of 'em have FOUR spinning wheels—plus a motor and fenders. How's that one?

Y' know, when a fellow puts his nickel in the slot and pulls the lever, it is always with the hope that he will draw the three bars—and, the JACK-POT. Well, with others, they "put" the money for gas 'n oil, and HOPES she stays in the rivet and no tires blow as she is steppin' along at 60 or 70 per.

Some "roscoes" don't have ANY wheels. Never saw one like that? How about when a farmer buries about 500 smackers worth of fertilizer, plows himself and ol' Beck until neither can hardly wiggle, and then draws a lemon when the weevils eat up most of his cotton. Maybe he'll get TWO LEMONS, and have the little bit the weevils left him, burned up—and AFTER IT IS GINNED!

NOW, THAT'S A BREAK FOR YOU. 'BOUT THE SAME, (MAYBE WORSE), AS PUTTIN' YOUR LAST TWO CHIPS IN "ROSCOE" AND GETTING A LEMON EACH TIME—OR MAYBE TWO LEMONS THE LAST TIME IN!

Guess that's enough about JACK-POTS. Now for the real business at hand. Somebody said "Some things go from bad to worse, others from good to better," so that's that. Maybe you can break the jinx.

****

By the way, have you driven over the new fill on the Higgins Ferry Road, east of town? That's a stem-winder, especially after a rain. Watching an automobile get across that bit of mud is for the world like watching a woman in high-heeled pumps as she makes her way over a slick footlog—she slides, first to one side and then the other. Lots of times she gets over but sometimes she slides a little too far to one side, and it's all over until someone lends a helping hand.

We intend to make this a bit funny, if possible, as we go on along, from time to time. Get off a good joke, the latest gag, and things like that. Any old thing to help you forget—well—whatever you want to forget.

Maybe it will all be funny to you—maybe crazy. If you like it, and happen to have something smart you would like to tell others, send it in and mention the "JACK-POT." We'll round it up for you.

THAT'LL DO FOR THIS TIME. NOW WE'RE GONNA TIE HER SKATES ON, GIVE HER A SHOVE, AND HOPE FOR THE BEST. (Funny, how that word skates occurred right at the last moment. SKATES—but that's a good one for next week.) S'long!—"JACK."

NOTICE OF HEARING OF PETITION TO SELL REAL ESTATE FOR DIVISION

State of Alabama, Chilton County, In Probate Court.

TO: Etta Harrison, a non-resident of the State of Alabama, but whose residence is unknown.

HOLDING TWO OFFICES ILLEGAL

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 15.—Assistant Attorney General James L. Screws ruled Monday that Ira Thompson of Luverne cannot hold the offices of chairman of the Alabama Athletic Commission and solicitor of Crenshaw County at the same time.

In his ruling the assistant attorney general stated in part that "the constitution forbids any person holding two offices of profit at one and the same time under the state of Alabama with the exception of justice of the peace, constables, notary publics, and commissioner of deeds."

The ruling was made after G. W. Wilson, an assistant state examiner of accounts had inquired whether the Crenshaw board of county commissioners was within its legal rights in paying the salary of the county solicitor after he had accepted appointment as chairman of the Athletic commission.

Nest Building Time

By LAURA R. MONTGOMERY

DORIS looked anxiously at the cheap alarm clock as she shrugged into the thin jacket: "I wonder," she blushed a little as she calculated the time required to walk to the park, if Dick will be waiting?"

Doris had felt much more at home in the crowded city since her chance meeting with her old friend. Dick had left the village years before she had made the plunge, and she felt sure that he had already gained success although he did not make any mention of it.

He dressed very well and had a competent, up-to-the-minute air of affluence. She recklessly squeezed the package of sandwiches she had made from the remnants of her hurried breakfast cooked over the gas flame. She would have hated to have Dick guess that she carried her luncheon with her.

"Oh, Miss Weeks," the landlady's voice hailed her as she opened the front door, "here's a letter I forgot to give you last night. Must have come while you were away."

Taking the letter she inserted her thumb under the flap as she went down the tall steps of the dingy, old-fashioned house. The envelope bore the name of Grisby & Son and her heart pounded as she read it; that was the firm that employed her. All the gayety left her face and the slim shoulders drooped as she slowly read and refolded the letter: "They will keep me on a week longer to give me time to look for something else," she murmured gloomily, "and every firm cutting down expenses and laying off people."

At the entrance to the park she stopped doubtfully. "I'd hate to have him know I've lost my job," she reflected, but she walked on again as she saw the familiar gray overcoat hurrying toward her.

"Hello, Doris! In a big hurry?"

She shook her head.

"Well, I'm not. I've thrown up my job. I only came out here on the chance of seeing you. Dad wants me back in Franklin and I'm going. There isn't anything to this city life. Gee, I'll be glad to taste some real food again. Remember those lemon layer cakes you used to make? All thick with white icing on top?"

"But I thought you were such a success!"

"I'll do better back home, but—" he paused and studied her downcast face. "I've been thinking of going back for some time, but when I found you were in town I kinda hated to go."

Doris did not feel the chill winter air. In her heart had sprung a delicious warmth. She knew now why she had awakened with such a gay zest for each workday; it was so she could reach the park in time for the daily chat before going on to her daily work.

And Dick, also, had been intrigued by the inconsequent chatter in the wide spaces of the windy park where the trees stretched bare. A fat sparrow alighted near them and in her bill she carried a bit of string.

Dick colored furiously: "See there, that sparrow thinks it's nesting time. She is a bit ahead of the season, but it's a good idea. Would you be satisfied to live back in Franklin? I'm going partners with dad."

"I'm thinking of going back." Her words came slowly.

Dick stood up very straight: "Is it Fred Miller? I thought that—that is, oh, of course, it is not my business," he ended coldly.

The brightness faded from the day, the chill of the winter and the lost job suddenly overwhelmed her. How had she so misunderstood him. "I have not seen Fred Miller for over a year. I must be getting on. I'll be—" she stopped. She could scarcely be late. Grisby's would not want to see her again.

"Don't let me keep you," his miserable young voice fell dully upon her ears. "Of course, you'll want to marry a city man—"

She had started to rise when the magical word "marry" stunned her with its unexpected entrance into their conversation.

She looked up at him, but he was staring at some late, shriveled leaves that were making ghostly progress over the frozen grass. She wished ardently that he would go on and propose properly, but, instead, he stood dejectedly and in silence. She could scarcely snatch at the magic word and urge him on, but all the time her heart ached with loneliness. She wanted to be back home where the houses wore familiar faces instead of the bleak city wilderness of bricks and granite.

Jumping up blindly because of the unwelcome tears that had suddenly blurred her vision she held out her hand in its much-mended glove: "Well, good—" At that inopportune moment her bag slipped and fell to the ground and burst open. She made a retrieving gesture toward it, then stepped backward in dismay. The soft, round package that she had mercilessly squeezed into it had fallen out, and the stale bread sandwiches, spread with lumpy butter because of the almost freezing temperature of her room, lay exposed for criticism.

"Why, Doris! Do you carry your luncheon? Then you would be willing to save and—" He had grasped both her hands and looked directly into her misty eyes. "Marry a poor man," he finished dominantly.

AT HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Editor Union-Banner:

In and through your paper I want to let the Kiwanis Club of Clanton and all my friends know that I am back at home from the Baptist Hospital of Birmingham. I am getting along just fine.

I want to invite each and every member of the Kiwanis Club out to see my new foot that I am hoping to have. It would be the joy of my life to meet each of you face to face and let me tell you how proud I am that I am going to soon have a straight good foot.

I want to thank the Kiwanis Club for their kindness in helping me.

I want to thank Mrs. C. E. Stapp for the kindness and helping hand of which she lent towards helping me get my foot straight.

I will never forget nor stop thanking the good people of Clanton.—Miss Lillie Stroud.

A young Negress, wearing almost nothing, came before the Municipal Court on a disorderly and drunk charge. His honor, having noticed her scanty clothing, suggested that she go home and put on some clothes.

"Judge, Ah spects Ah kin dress like Ah wants."

"You are fined five dollars for contempt of court."

Going to the clerk to pay her fine, she was asked what the fine was for. In a haughty voice, she replied:

"De court says dat Ah is fined five dollahs for temptin' de court."—Sour Owl.

HOOVER TO RUSH TARIFF PASSAGE

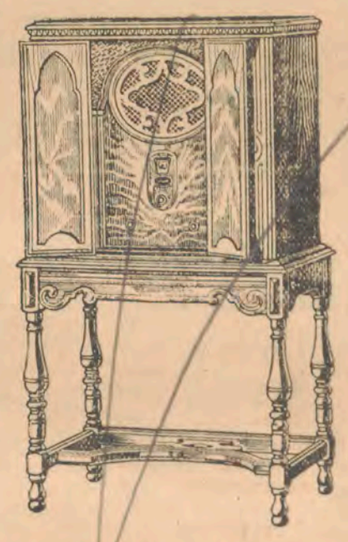
Washington, Oct. 15. — President Hoover is planning to lend a hand to help the administration forces in the senate with their tariff bill which is languishing midway in the special session while the senate is embarking on a series of investigations reminiscent of the Teapot Dome and Daugherty scandal inquiries.

Senatorial leaders have been informed a statement may be issued from the White House this week urging greater speed in consideration of the tariff bill. Various Republican senators are to be called in for conferences about the peculiar situation which has enveloped the situation, making its adoption this year seem unlikely.

Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee blames the Republican farm bloc group for what he considers a delay in passing the bill. He has absolved the Democrats of any charge of filibustering.

Senator Borah of Idaho, speaking for the bloc, has replied the bill can be passed in 10 days if Smoot will consent to revise it.

Smoot will meet with Democratic Floor Leader Robinson again today in an effort to work out some satisfactory arrangement for extending the daily debating period, but such an agreement will raise no hopes for enactment of the legislation by Nov. 20, as Smoot has said he desired. The rate sections of the bill will not be reached until the latter part of this week.



I've been under the doctor's care for thirthy-five years.

My goodness, what has been the matter with you?

I got very foolish when I was 19 and married a doctor.—Cornell Widow.

BUREAU SETS 25,000 MEMBERS AS GOAL

With 25,000 members as its goal, the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation in cooperation with the county farm bureaus and the extension service, Auburn, will conduct a state wide farm organization membership campaign during the month of November, according to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, who said that farmers are more anxious to organize than ever before.

The purpose of the drive is to build a strong farm organization in each county of Alabama, in order that Alabama farmers may reap maximum benefits offered by the Federal Farm Board and to enable county agents, home demnstration agents and others of the extension service to render greatest possible service. The drive will start November 4 and will continue until all progressive farmers have been asked to align themselves with their farm organization.

County farm bureau officials and leading farmers will be in charge of the campaign, Mr. O'Neal said. They have taken the lead in the movement with county agents, district agents and other agricultural leaders advising with them. A team of farmers in each community in the counties participating in the drive will ask their neighbors to join the county farm bureau and help in solving the great agricultural problems. Sixty county farm bureaus will participate.

Governor Bibb Graves, Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, L. N. Duncan, director of extension service, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, are urging farmers to organize and cooperate. They do this in order that farmers of Alabama may receive the greatest possible aid from the Federal Farm Board, which promises to aid only organized farmers.

Another reason for the campaign is the fact that the farm bureau has added another very important service for its members. It is that of life insurance. Each member will be given a policy. It is the desire of farm bureau officials that each farmer of the state get this insurance which gives him a right to take out a larger insurance policy at the lowest obtainable rate.—L. O. Brackeen.

HURRICANE DESTROYS A VALUABLE PINE

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 14.—A remarkable Long-leaf Pine tree growing in Covington County was blown down by the recent hurricane that invaded South Alabama from Florida. The especially interesting feature of this individual pine was that it bore a substantial yield of seed every year, whereas most trees of this species bear only once in from three to seven years.

The State Commission of Forestry had planned to gather the cones from this tree during the current fall season with view to extracting the seed and using the latter in experimental work to determine the possibility of developing a strain of frequently seeding Long-leaf Pine. Upon learning of the destruction of the tree the State Forester directed that all of its cones be gathered and sent to Montgomery.

The cones from the fallen tree are somewhat green, but it is hoped that they will nevertheless yield viable seed. In any event they will be dried and the seed given the best care and planted. The seedlings, if any result, will be set out in appropriate sites. The experiment will be watched with a great deal of interest.

ALABAMA FARMERS WILL GATHER BIGGER CROPS

Alabama is promised a good crop for 1929, according to F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician with the State Department of Agriculture, whose monthly report forecast this week, shows a marked improvement for most crops over 1928.

Alabama farmers will produce 1,300,000 bales of cotton, according to present forecasts. Already 578,000 bales have been ginned to October 1. The crop has improved since September 1. The increase in acreage and heavier application of fertilizer is doubtless responsible for much of the indicated yield of 166 pounds per acre, compared with 150 last year.

About 36,736,000 bushels of corn will be harvested, an increase of about 6 millions over the short crop of last year. Hay will yield about 1,700 pounds per acre for all classes and 501,000 tons is assured over 489,000 tons in 1928.

Sweet potatoes promise a yield of six and three quarters of a million bushels, or only 2.6 bushels per person in Alabama.

Cowpeas are holding their own, and soybeans promise better. About one-half of the cows are being milked and the average production per cow is 1.4 gallons.

Egg production followed the usual seasonal drop of 28 to 24 per cent. Farm labor is plentiful with a supply at 91 and demand at 90. Alabama received a heavy rainfall during September, but it was unevenly distributed with heavy rainfalls in South Alabama.

The report to be issued November 8 will more nearly conform to actual crop production in Alabama, and it will be given in greater detail .

Cotton picking is practically over with in South Alabama, although North Alabama has much of the crop to gather. On the whole Alabama farmers may expect greater crops this year than last, which, with good prices should mean measurably greater prosperity.

"Tendergreen, Swiss chard, Chinese cabbage, and spinach are leafy vegetables that may be planted in south Alabama in October. In North Alabama kale and rape maye be planted and collard plants set."—Julian Brown, extension horticulturist, Auburn.

It is penny wise, pound foolish, to slash farm timber ruthlessly to get a little ready cash.

HENS TO ENTER LAYING CONTEST

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 14.—The Sixth National Egg-Laying Contest at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will open November 1, 1929. It will continue 11 months, closing September 30, 1930. G. A. Trollope, head of the poultry department at Auburn, reports that 1,000 hens will participate in the contest, and that entries are being received rapidly.

The first national egg-laying contest at Auburn was held in 1924-25, under direction of the extension service and the poultry department. A demonstration has been held each year since then, and high records have been made.

In the past entries have been received from all parts of the nation as well as Alabama. This year L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service, is especially anxious to have at least one entry from each Alabama county.

He points out that the contest at Auburn is operated to strengthen and improve poultry work in Alabama, and that counties without entries are missing an opportunity.

He suggests that each county work out a regular, permanent, systematic plan to be represented. The county farm bureau, a chamber of commerce, some luncheon club, some good banker, or some other friend of agriculture in the county, he says, might be glad to pay the entrance fee.

"The county farm and home agent then could carefully select the pen of chickens," he continues. "It is not necessary for all of the chickens to come from the same flock. Several flocks might be represented, if one or two hens are carefully selected from each flock from different parts of the county."

He emphasized that this is a matter that should have immediate attention.

If 21 times the plant food used by crops goes down creeks from soil erosion, what is the value of terracing and other soil-saving methods?

One way to get the boll weevil's number next year is to get them in large numbers in fall and winter by cleaning up hibernating places.

Hens must be comfortably housed if they are to lay the maximum number of eggs. G. A. Trollope, Auburn, Alabama, will furnish free plans for the Auburn-Type House.

NEEDLE BASKETS BRING IN MONEY

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 14.—Starting three years ago with nothing but pine straw and a willingness to work, women and girls of Clay County have established themselves in the pine needle basket business and their sales to date exceed $30,000. This is reported by Mrs. J. E. S. Rudd, home demonstration agent, who has cooperated with the people of Clay County in establishing and operating the business.

It was during 1926 when Clay County women and girls heard about the possibilities of selling pine needle baskets. They began making and made them in a hurry without serious consideration as to quality or art. Just before Christmas, 1926, they assembled 1200 baskets and Mrs. Rudd went to Birmingham to sell them. She appealed to heads of big department stores and presidents of big corporations who bought from a charitable standpoint. They realized the defects of the baskets. One big department store (Loveman, Joseph and Loeb) purchased a large number of them but had difficulty in selling them and bought no more until recently when they became the exclusive distributor in Birmingham because of high quality and artistic beauty of baskets now being made.

Those early sales three years ago convinced Mrs. Rudd and the women and girls who are making baskets that a standardized basket of high quality and beauty was essential. They worked untiringly to attain this goal which they have done.

To handle this business the 4-H Basket Shoppe was organized and started. Merchants and bankers have cooperated in maintaning and operating it. At this Shoppe baskets are assembled and packed for shipment. Sales are made through merchants on a wholesale basis. During the three years a sales organization with representatives in practically every state has been established.

The test of the scrub hog comes when he meets up with the pork barrel.

Southern farmers lose $30,000,000 yearly by leaving cotton exposed to weather.

Through cooperation farmers can demand equal economic opportunity. They will get it in no other way.

Hastening daylight in the hen houses with electric lights makes the hens see their way clear to lay more eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett C. Powell and children of Decatur were in Clanton the latter part of last week on account of the death of the former's father, W. L. Powell.

"He'll ask me now—

every skin blemish is gone"

THERE is more than just the satisfaction of having a clear skin. Joys, yet to be realized, make it a requirement. Good society, in fact, demands it.

Skin troubles are a detriment to one's happiness. They embarrass. Hold you back—so to speak.

To have a clear skin, glowing complexion, energy, vitality and the blessing of good health, you must keep your blood in good condition. You owe it to yourself. Your friends expect it of you.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low, due generally to a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The sure way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

S.S.S.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm.

Take S.S.S. at mealtime. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect.

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 13

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow us a small space in your most valuable paper to say a few words regarding our singing at this place the second Sunday. We want to say that it was most assuredly a success. Our home county was pretty well represented by some of our best singers, almost too numerous to mention. But, however, we will try to recall a few of them. They were as follows: Prof. L. T. Grant, Amie Boswell, Akins Collins, Prof. A. H. Glasscock, Ralph Grant, I. D. Huett, W. J. Northcutt, E. L. Glasscock, also Prof. Wood of Calera. We were also mighty glad to have with us a goodly number of some very noted singers and directors from Jefferson Counyt. They were as follows: Prof. D. A. Robeson, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Freeman, Mr. Jerome Scott, Mr. Nichols and Mr. Bill Cofer. The ladies were Misses Ellen Sellers, Sadie Sellers, Vera, Glover, and Mrs. Wilmer Smith. The organists for the day were Miss Viola Martin, Miss Sadie Sellers, Mrs. Berdie Cofer, also the Grant Brothers, Amie Boswell and Prof. D. A. Roberson of Birmingham.

Some of the main features of the day were the beautiful quartets that were rendered by the famous Jefferson County Quartet classes. All who missed hearing those beautiful songs missed quite a treat indeed. Also we wish to say that every second Sunday evening is our regular singing evening, and we extend a cordial invitation to all singers and lovers of music to come and be with us.

We will ring off for this time with best wishes to The Union-Banner, and its many readers.—W. F. Thompson, Sec., and O. B. Martin.

A GOOD FOX RACE

The following met last Thursday night at Taylor's Camp and had a good supper, and a fine fox race. Mr. Gantt, as chief cook and bottle washer. There were present:

Messrs. J. E. Mims and Sam Pate with their dogs, Sampson, Pat and Kate, B. G. Gore with Sweety and Winnie, John Gore with Jane, J. E. Dorminey and his son, little Jim, with Big Boy and Tike, R. W. Taylor with Lucy, Jack, June and Skip, Mr. Gantt with Ball the Jack, Sr., and Ball the Jack, Jr., Mr. Mose and Lum Robinson with Buster, Scroudge, Whetstone and July, Harlem Bean with Old White July, Skrumer and Sweep, the Easterling boys with their dogs, but the writer doesn't know their names, G. W. Murrah with Pet and Morgan. There were several others present who didn't have any dogs.

We had supper about six o'clock, and it was a good one and plenty of good hot coffee, and you know about how a bunch of fox hunters can eat and drink coffee. All except John Gore, he couldn't drink, but six or seven cups of coffee, so he got sleepy before the race was over. So much for that.

Now I will tell you about the race. We turned the dogs loose at seven-thirty and at nine-thirty they had the old red fox going. We were at Ball Hill when we heard them coming from toward Frank Calloway's landing. They came close to us and went south toward Rob Peters out of hearing and came back around by Burns Goodgame's old saw mill, and back to Calloway's landing. They stayed in there for about one and a half hours, and came back out by us and back about the same round. They were running like wild fire. They ran on until five o'clock Friday morning when the old red had to go in. They treed him in a hole in the ground.

In anybody asks you if those dogs that come from Stumps Hill will run a red fox, you tell them, yes.

CANE CREEK

Don't forget the box supper at this place Friday night, October 18, beginning at seven o'clock. Be here on time. There will be contests and other entertainments. Proceeds go to school.—Zula Rutherford, Prin.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and death of our husband and father, J. W. Williamson, who died October 9th. We also thank Dr. N. S. Johnson for his faithful service.—Mrs. J. W. Williamson and Children.

Mrs. M. C. Harmon is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones in Clanton this week.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Amzi Gowan will be pleased to learn of the birth of a baby girl whom they have named Sarah Frances. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

Mr. E. A. Moore of the Kintray Farms, Verbena, brought in two large potatoes Tuesday morning. One of them weighed 9¼ pounds and one weighed 8¼ pounds.

L. BOHANNON ARRESTED LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

Night Marshal Loss Robinson was called to Frog Level last Saturday night about midnight, and took charge of L. Bohannon, who was said to be drunk, and was cursing and otherwise raising sand among the people of West End. A charge of disorderly conduct was lodged against Bohannon. He was brought to jail, but made bond and was released some time Sunday afternoon.

MOVING TO TEXAS

Mr. and Mrs. D. Enoch Easterling will leave within the next few days for La Feria, Texas, where they will make their home. They will be accomapnied by Miss Wilma Easterling who has been visiting in Chilton since the first of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Easterling will live near Mr. Andrew J. Easterling, who has been living in Texas for the past several years, and likes it fine. La Feria is only a few miles from Brownsville, Texas, and the Mexican border.

HAMMELL'S LEG BROKEN IN FOOTBALL GAME FRIDAY

A young man named Earnest Hammell, half-back on the Verbena High School's football team, suffered a broken leg in last Friday's game between Verbena and Holtville High Schools.

The young man was brought to Clanton, where Dr. N. S. Johnson gave medical assistance. Last reports were that the young man was doing fine.

CRUSADERS EXTEND INVITATION TO YOUNG PEOPLE

The Crusaders, young peoples' organization of the Foursquare Lighthouse in Clanton, extend to all an invitation to attend their meetings every Sunday evening at six o'clock.

A good program is always on tap for attendants. Young people are especially invited to attend and take part, while older people are heartily invited to attend and listen to the good singing and talks which are features at every meeting.

INSURANCE TAX TOTALS $1,034,783

Montgomery, Aal., Oct. 8— The state commission of insurance on Oct. 5 had certified to the state treasurer the sum of $1,034,783.80 in revenues collected for the calendar year 1929.

This sum represented an increase of $50,000 over the amount collected by the department in 1928 and of $100,000 over that for 1927, George H. Thigpen, state commissioner of insurance, said.

Total expenditures to date were listed at $24,000, leaving a net balance of $1,010,783.80.

RED CROSS NUTRITIONIST IN FLOOD FOLLOW-UP WORK

Washington, D. C., October 15.—A fourth member of the American Red Cross nutrition service has been engaged for follow-up work in the regions of Southern Aalbama which suffered last winter from floods. The new nutritionist is Miss Dorothy Alice Johnson, whose headquarters will be at Andalusia. Miss Johnson is a graduate of the Kansas Agricultural College, who, after a teaching experience, took advanced work in nutrition and social work at Teachers College, Kansas City. She has recently returned from China, where she was engaged in social work.

Other nutritionists sent by the Red Cross into this district are Miss Grace M. England, whose headquarters are at Geneva, Mrs. Grace Hood Sanders, working out from Elba, and Miss Helen Weems, who is under the Dallas County chapter at Selma.

Nutrition is taught in adult classes with a view to reducing the effects of pellagra and oher diseases, which had increased as a result of the flood.

Mr. L. F. Clackler and family of Mobile, is visiting relatives and friends around Clanton this week.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

WILL THEY LAY IN COLD DECEMBER AS THEY DID IN MAY

The famous painter, Whistler, was once asked how he mixed his paints to get such unusual effects. With more truth than good manners, he retorted curtly, "With brains, sir, with brains!" The same ingredient might very profitably be incorporated into the poultry feed of those who are frequently heard to complain bitterly because their hens "lie down on the job" instead of laying eggs in the nest when winter comes. Good luck has a habit of abiding with the man who studies the requirements of his flock, doing nothing without knowing definitely why he does so and what results to expect. First of all, he will learn the nature of different feeds and what they contribute to egg production or the upkeep of the fowl's own body. The flock should be approximately one-half well developed early hatched pullets, and the balance hens that have been closely culled and late molters.

A balanced ration is desirable at all times, but never more so than during the winter months. Then, natural forage foods, bugs, worms and green foods are no longer available, except in warm climates, so the lack must be made up in the mashes and scratch grains. The natural warmth of the sun is also seriously diminished and must be supplied by extra feedings of heat producing grains, especially corn. Mark this point well, that Nature must supply the necessary body warmth from within.

Green foods are very necessary because they supply those indispensable Vitamins A and D. Part of the hen's Vitamin A requirements may be supplied by feeding yellow corn in the scratch grains, but not enough. The necessary additional supply may be provided by means of sprouted oats, green food, or yellow carrots, if they are available, or from cod liver oil. I prefer the green stuff, however, as the hens find it more appetizing than any substitutes I have ever tried.

Vitamin D is the mysterious agency which enables a hen to manufacture egg shell from the oyster shell provided for that purpose. This essential vitamin is stored in the bodies of hens when exposed to direct sunlight. They should be allowed to run out, therefore, whenever the weather will permit. Vitamin D is also found in green vegetable matter that has been exposed to direct sunlight, and in cod liver oil. Since the former is not always obtainable in sufficient quantities, it may be advisable to include from 1-2 to 1 per cent cod liver oil in the winter ration.

During the summer, the grain ration may be reduced. As winter comes on, however, the proportion of grain should be gradually increased. Grains are the fat and heat producing foods, so it is natural that they should predominate during the winter. The mash which contains the protein elements such as meat scraps for making egg yolks should remain constant throughout the year.

A good winter ration is as follows, or buy ready mixed commercial scratch and mash feeds:

Scratch Feed

Yellow corn (shelled or cracked)	100 lbs.
Oats, wheat, kaffir or milo	50 lbs.

Mash

Bran	100 lbs.
Shorts	100 lbs.
Yellow cornmeal	100 lbs.
Heavy ground oats	100 lbs.
Meat scraps	100 lbs.
Salt	5 lbs.

The above ration should be supplemented by plenty of green food such as sprouted oats, green pasture, cabbage, mangel wurzel, grit, oyster shell, and clean fresh water. If green food is not available, mix 40 pounds of a good grade of alfalfa leaf meal with the above mash.

If you want a home mixed mash, be careful and buy ingredients of the very best quality only, and see that they are thoroughly mixed. If you can not do this, you had better buy a good commercial mash and use the grains grown on the farm, or buy commercial scratch grain. Commercial ready mixed feeds are made by expert millmen and although they may cost more, they usually pay.

Milk, either sweet or sour, or fresh buttermilk is one of the best poultry foods. It will greatly aid winter egg production. It should be put out in clean earthenware vessels set upon platforms, and protected so the fowls can not get into it with their feet. Let them drink all of it they will if you have it. If you feed plenty of milk you may have to reduce the amount of protein in the mash, as bowel trouble is likely to occur.

Water is, of course, as necessary in winter as at any other time. It must never be forgotten that eggs are 65 per cent water and that unless hens have a plentiful supply of good, clean water at all times, they can not be good layers. Extra precautions should be taken during freezing weather to keep the drinking fountains free from ice. Either give the fowls warm water at frequent intervals, or arrange to heat the water in some way.

Plenty of exercise is especially necessary for winter egg production. If hens can not roam the range as they do in summer, their scratch food should be given in a way that will make them exercise to get it. Feed grains rather lightly in the morning so the fowls will be quite hungry in the evening. Then scatter their grain in good clean deep litter and they will have to exercise to get it. This method of feeding will also compel the hens to eat more mash which they do not like nearly so well as the grain. In this way they are not only induced to take sufficient exercise, but are also persuaded to partake of a more evenly balanced diet. Incidentally, hens should never be premitted to go to roost hungry. See that their crops are well filled at night. Proper housing, culling, sanitation, protection from parasites and, above all, proper feeding, are necessary elements in successful winter egg production.

LIBERTY HILL

The Liberty Hill and Cedar Grove singing society met here Sunday afternoon with a very large crowd present. The president was absent and Mr. D. T. Melton acted as chairman. Prayer was offered by Rev. Deason of Sardis. We had with us the Sardis Class which was appreciated very much.

The directors were D. T. Melton, Hiram Littlejohn, Houston Melton, Misses Mae Sansom, Ara Ratcliff, Lillie Belle Golden, and Ellen Minor. Pianists were Misses Leila Melton, Ara Ratcliff and Meldie Sansom.

We thank the visitors for their help and invite them to come and be with us again. We insist on the members attending our society more than they have in the past. We are getting careless about our singing. Meet us at Cedar Grove the fourth Sunday afternoon.—Secretary.

ALBERT JACKSON WARE DIED MONDAY, OCTOBER 7TH

On the eve of the annual reunion of Confederate Vetrans, to be held in Dothan, death claimed one of the outstading veterans of South Alabama, Albert Jackson Ware, who died Monday afternoon, October 7 at 3:00 o'clock at the home of a son, W. A. Ware, at Sweetwater, Ala. He had been ill for three months, and was confined for two weeks to the Vaughn Memorial Hospital recently, which marked the first time he had been in the hospital since carried there as a prisoner during the Civil War, in which he served under Gen. E. W. Petus, of Selma.

Services were held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Fellowship Church, about 20 miles northwest of Selma. The body was brought through the country from Sweetwater by Kimbrough, of Thomasville, accompanied by a party from Sweetwater, which included Rev. Jones of Sweetwater, and Mr. Robert Lee of Plantersville. A large party of relatives and friends met this party in Selma and accompanied them to the church. Masons had charge of the services at the grave.

Mr. Ware on July 10 celebrated his 87th birthday at a family reunion at the home of his daughter in Sweetwater. Present at this were four daughters, four sons, more than 40 grandchildren, and 20 great-grandchilden. Although Mr. Ware was ill in bed and unable to mingle with his loved ones, he was placed beside the window, in his bed, where he could gaze ont upon the assembly.

Mr. Ware was born and reared in Perry County, and had been a member of the Masonic Lodge at Montevallo for 50 years. His connection with the Baptist Church dates back to his early years, and his life in every respect has been an example of the finest Christian character and conduct. When the Civil War broke out he was a youth but entered as a member of Company "A," 20th Allabama Regiment, under Lieu.-Col E. W. Pettus. His wife Susan Elizabeth O'Neil, died 40 years ago, and of this union four sons and four daughters survive.

The sons are: W. A. Ware, Sweetwater, Ala.; T. P. Ware, Akron, Ohio; J. L. Ware, Dallas Texas; and J. E. Ware, Brent, Ala.

The daughters are: Mrs. J. B. Cox, Pine Hill Ala.; Mrs. W. A. Reynolds, Clanton, Ala.; Mrs. T. J. Eddings, Ensley, Ala.; and Mrs. W. W. Fox, Clanton, Ala. Another daughter, Mrs. G. D. Hathcock, died only three weeks before her father.

Surviving is one sister, Mrs. Sudie Allen, of Birmingham, and no brothers.

Honorary pallbearers were his grandsons: Ruben Reynolds, Julius Reynolds, Hoyt B. Reynolds, Sam Cox, Ware Cox, J. B. Cox, Jr., Grady Hathcock, and Jack Ware.

Stage First Recognized Professional Equalitu

MARY MARLOWE

Sex Never Any Handicap in Theatre, Says Singer

New York City.—The theatrical profession can point with pride to the fact that its members were the first to try out complete professional equality between men and women. At least that is the opinion of Mary Marlowe, well-known dramatic singer.

"Long before the fight for woman suffrage began, indeed, from the earliest history of the theatre, the stage was recognizing professional equality of the sexes and using both in the mixing and making of good drama in productions," says the singer.

"Back in the old barn-storming days, the leading man and the leading woman commanded equal prestige, salary and professional recognition based on their individual talent," declares Miss Marlowe, "and the same thing is true of the stage today.

"The theatre is the one world which the woman has always been able to enter, assured that there will be no sex handicap. The stage calls for individuals and the ability tc interpret a type for the audience is all that really counts. Indeed, women have interpreted masculine roles often and received greater acclaim than men, Sarah Bernhardt for one.

"With songs it is the same. It is the individuality regardless of sex, that gets over. 'Blue Hawaii,' a waltz song that I have been singing the length and breadth of the United States this year, has been sung often by men on the same bill, but I have never known sex in either instance to influence the audience. The public want what they want, and are just as interested in my rendition of 'Blue Hawaii' as in that of their favorite male singer.

"This instance of the successful working out of professional equality between men and women makes me a strong advocate of all equal rights legislation that breaks down sex barriers in professions and businesses."

ISABELLA SCHOOL NEWS

The football team from here went to Centreville Friday, the 11th, and played a good game, but lost.

Let's everybody remember the fair Friday, October 18. There will be plenty of good things to eat. Lunch will be served by the Vocational girls. Dinner and supper will be served. All kinds of farm products and school exhibits will be shown. The pupils in history, English, health, agriculture, and home economics will have special exhibits. Dr. M. Gregory will be the speaker for the night. Physical education classes will present a program of stunts. There will be a lot of fun. Come! At 3:00 there will be a football game between Isabella and Verbena on Isabella's field. Jewel Foshee, Nellie Hayes, Kelley Seals, and Oliver Manning were elected cheer leaders, so everyone come out and help them back up our team by yelling.

The football season will soon be over. We are preparing for basket ball. The girls have begun practicing, and show prospects of a much better team than ever before. Mr. Paulk and Miss Griffin are very efficient instructors.

We are proud of our Senior class. It is the largest in the history of the school. We hope it will be the best, and we are making a strong effort to make it so. Seventeen expect to receive diplomas from this school this year. Officers are as follows:

President—Jewel Foshee.
Vice President—Myrtle Durbin.
Secretary—Oswald Mims.
Treasurer—Avoleen Webb.
Poet—Houston Deramus.
News reporter—Jewel Foshee.
Prophet—Myrtle Durbin.

The Home Economics Girls Club meets twice a month, and the programs are very interesting. We are doing a wonderful work. Our aim is to develop desirable personality traits. The name of our club is "Merry Home Makers". Officers:

President—Jewel Foshee.
Vice President—Myrtle Durbin.
Secretary—Dorothy Manning.

FALL'S TEAPOT DEAL ADMITTED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—Justice William Hitz today admitted in evidence at the bribery trial of Albert B. Fall, the story of Harry Sinclair's dealings with the former Secretary of the Interior.

Fall, while Secretary of the Interior received $100,000 from Doheny, and Doheny received a valuable oil lease. Fall received $250,500 in Liberty bonds from Sinclair, and Sinclair received the Teapot Dome lease.

The government contends these somewhat parallel transactions show Fall's guilty knowledge and intent.

Fall apparently is bearing up well under the strain of the court sessions, despite his attack of bronchial pneumonia.

HOOVER IS GIVEN BID TO VISIT BIRMINGHAM

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Dr. Snavely, president of Birmingham-Southern College, is in Washington to present President Hoover another invitation to be present at dedication of World War memorial in Birmingham on Nov. 23. Dr. Snavely, accompanied by Senators Black and Heflin, called at the White House Tuesday and urged the president to accept the invation first presented to him last summer by the entire delegation of Alabama members of senate and house. Since that time, it is understood, no intimation has been received from the White House as to whether the President could accept.

BUSY WEEK FOR COUNTY OFFICERS

Sheriff And Deputies Arrest Many On Varied Assortment of Charges

Charges placed against law violators during the past week by the Sheriff and his deputies are many and varied. The offenders are all the way from negro boys to old gray headed men, and the charges are as varied as the parties accused.

Last Thursday a raid was effected in Stumps Hills, and the capture consisted of one 50-gallon zinc still, 2 barrels of beer, 4 gallons of whiskey, and three men. The still was in full operation and was attended by Bernie Martin, Dock Horton and Nemrod Horton. All three men were arrested; the former two are now in jail while the latter has his bond.

Friday the officers were called to raid the home of Mrs. Balzora Payton (Sweetie Bryant) near Providence in Beat 16. A quart of liquor was found in the home and Mrs. Payton was placed under bond.

Late Friday afternoon Culp and Collins went out west of Jemison to levy on some corn. On reaching the scene some guns were heard down in the woods; so, while Culp levied on the corn Sheriff Collins went down in the woods and captured two squirrel hunters. Percy Crumpton and J. D. Dawson were placed under arrest; they came to town Saturday and plead guilty before Justice of the Peace J. L. Wilson and paid off the fine of about $20.00 each.

The officers were called to Maplesville early Saturday morning to investigate a burglary into the store of J. W. Foshee Friday night. The officers arrived on the scene at 8 o'clock and at 9:30 Wesley (Campbell) Gentry was arrested. Some of the stolen goods were found on Gentry and he admitted the crime. He was arrested and is now in jail here.

Sunday morning a negro boy at Mt. Creek was arrested for bastardy. He was brought to jail, and Monday he and the complainant in the case were married and the case was dismissed. The boy's name is Emuel Blair.

Sunday night the officers were called out west of Clanton near the Baker Schoolhouse, where a car was parked in the middle of the road. The car was found to be a Chevrolet coupe and in it was Elijah Easterling asleep, and nestled close by his side was a pint of that famous liquid which sometimes produces sleep but oftentimes has the opposite effect. Easterling was brought back to town and was released on making his bond.

Monday morning the officers went to South Calera and arrested Kiah Carter on two charges; one for carrying a concealed pistol and the other for assault and battery. Carter was placed in jail, where he now remains.

CHILTON WINS SECOND PRIZE AT MONTGOMERY STATE FAIR

Chilton County won a commendable place with its exhibits at the Alabama State Fair at Montgomery this week. Among the county exhibits we were accorded second place, of which we feel that Chilton County should and is proud. In order the first counties are: Macon, Chilton, Choctaw, Elmore, Lee, and Escambia.

For the best community exhibit in Chilton County Isabella Community was awared sixth place. For individual exhibits Mrs. S. E. Bruce won first place and Howard R. Oden fourth place.

This is a splendid showing for Chilton County and for the community and individual exhibits. It shows that some of our people at least are awake to the educational and industrial as well as agricultural advantages which may be derived from good exhibits at the State Fair. And too, the arrangement of these exhibits is no small job. Mr. Stapp says that it takes thirteen months in the year to fix up a county exhibit like it should be, and this is expressing it about right.

CLANTON QUARTET TO BE AT POPLAR SPRINGS 27TH

The Clanton Quartet will sing with the Poplar Springs Singing Society Sunday afternoon, the 27th. This will be our last engagement for Sunday singings for this season.

We hope to be ready for the spring and summer singings and conventions next year with a new and better program.—W. G. Culp, Mgr. of Clanton Quartet.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Willis have moved into their new home on First Avenue. This is one the the really beautiful homes of Clanton, and adds much to the appearance of the locality in which it is situated. Material was furnished by Dewey Rockett of Clanton Building Supply Company.

HALLOWE'EN FESTIVAL AT VERBENA SCHOOL

A Hallowe'en festival will be held at the Verbena High School, October 31, at 7:30 p. m. under the anspices of the P.-T. A. The committee under the direction of Mrs. Barnett Deramus is working hard, and this promises to be one of the most successful ventures ever undertaken by the Verbena P.-T. A.

A number of booths will be provided where one may purchase novelties, sandwiches, candy, peanuts, ice cream, coffee, cold drinks, etc.

Among the outstanding attractions are a yo-yo contest, suitcase race, mind reading, fortune telling, the Gold Dust Twins, the crazy house, the chamber of horrors, and others.

The public is cordially invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

RETURN FROM TRIP TO GULF

Steve Blalock of Cordey's Old Mill was in Clanton Saturday afternoon telling all his friends about his big fishing trip to The Gulf of Mexico. Mr. Blalock, together with R. K. Riggins and J. W. Riggins left Sunday, October 13th and went to the home of a friend near Loxley in Baldwin County. From there they went to Oyster Bay on a fishing trip; they also went down through Foley and on to the Gulf of Mexico.

Steve says that they had a most wonderful time and had plenty of fish to eat all the time. He was very much enthused over the beautiful farming country in Baldwin County. They returned Wednesday of last week.

NEW PINEDALE ROAD OPEN

Mr. Cleve Wyatt wishes the people of the county to know that the new road from Pinedale schoolhouse to the Lock 12 road is now open for traffic. Mr. Wyatt says that he has worked hard for the establishment of this road, and he wishes to thank the commissioners court and all others who have helped him in getting it through. This little strip of road was badly needed by the landowners near it.

MRS. HENRY CULVER BURIED AT LIBERTY HILL SUNDAY

The remains of Mrs. Henry Culver were buried at Liberty Hill cemetery last Sunday afternoon, Rev. S. J. Ezell of Clanton officiating. Martin, undertaker, was in charge.

Mrs. Culver died at the family home west of Clanton Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. She is survived by her husband and five children, three boys and two girls. The boys are Walter, Verge and Roy. Walter and Roy live in Birmingham. The girls are Mrs. Newt Askins and Mrs. Jim Tippett.

Mr. W. P. Lakeman of Lock 12 was in Clanton Wednesday. He is about recovered from injuries received a few weeks ago.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR LARGE TUBERCULOSIS SEAL SALE

With County Christmas seal chairmen in 60 Alabama counties perfecting their county organizations, plans have been completed for the largest tuberculosis seal sale in the history of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association, according to Richard F. Hudson, executive secretary of the Association.

The seal sale this year will start the day after Thanksgiving and on that day fifteen million seals will start their journey which will eventually find them on letters and gift packages of thousands of Alabamians who yearly aid in the work against tuberculosis.

Christmas seals bought five years ago are now reaping results. The death rate from tuberculosis in1927 was 87.1 per hundred thousand persons in Alabama. It has steadily declined since 1916 when it was 120 per hundred thousand persons. Another substantial drop in the death rate from the disease is expected in 1928 and 1929. But in 1928 this disease took 2,264 lives and more than 22,000 persons were suffering with the disease.

The intensive campaign against tuberculosis and the present educational campaign was started in 1922 when the Alabama Tuberculosis Association was formed which was an outgrowth of the Alabama Anti-Tuberculosis League, started by Dr. B. L. Wyman and others, in 1908.

Although Alabama has become conscious of the white plague which is daily making indoads in her productive power, the state is without a sanatoriom for the care and treatment of the tuberculosis sick. The time to check tuberculosis is in the early stages, it is pointed out and it is frequently the cause of sick and listless children. Its prevailence among children was especially shown by a recent study made in North Carolina where out of 39,494 average children examined, 8,377 or more than 21 per cent were found with the disease.

BRUCES WIN PRIZES AT FAIR

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Bruce announce that their exhibits at the Birmingham Fair took like wild fire. They received a total of $409.00 in prizes; this is besides the stuff which they sold at the close of the fair. All the stuff that could be replaced was sold.

They have exhibits at the Montgomery Fair this week, and expect to bring away several prizes from down there.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce are certainly to be commended for the interest they take in Chilton County exhibits at the State Fairs. This is a great help to the county from an educational and agricultural standpoint. The Chilton County section in the state fairs is always an outstanding place among the exhibits from the counties of the State, and it is due almost wholly to the efforts and interest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bruce.

AGED LADY BURIED AT LIBERTY

Mrs. Perditta Littlejohn, widow of the late Noah Littlejohn, died at the family home near Liberty Hill last Friday afternoon. She was 82 years old. The remains were buried Saturday afternoon at Liberty Hill, Rev. J. S. Hand conducting the funeral.

The deceased was preceded to the grave by her husband, Noah Littlejohn, a year and a half ago; he also died at the age of 82. She is survived by the following children: J. Wiley Littlejohn of Clanton, Rufus Littlejohn of Thorsby, Willie and Miss Verlula Littlejohn of Liberty community, Joe Littlejohn of Birmingham and Frank Littlejohn of Liberty Hill. Another son, Elbert Littlejohn, died four or five years ago.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Littlejohn was Miss Perditta Eiland. She is survived by only one brother, Rufus Eiland of Louisiana.

Goodyear Airship May Come Here

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, local dealer in Goodyear Tires, informs us that he is making a desperate effort to have one of the Goodyear-Zeppelins stop in Clanton on a Saturday in the near future.

There are a number of these big airships touring the country, and Mr. Diefenderfer is anxious to have one of them stop in Clanton and take a number of his friends to ride.

It is a big airship of the Zeppelin type, and can carry eight people as comfortably as a palace car. If arrangements can be made to have the big ship stop in Clanton, it will be a treat to everybody, as very few people hereabouts have ever had the opportunity of seeing an airship of this type.

Mr. Diefenderfer can not yet give the exact date when the Goodyear-Zeppelin will be here. Just as soon as he can complete arrangements with his company and find out exactly about the matter, he will advertise it widely so that everybody will have an opportunity to come and see it.

If you want to ride in the big airship, put in your application with Dief. He already has Red Wagoner booked for a ride, and he thinks Red will consent to perform the parachute stunt by jumping from the airship several thousand feet in the air and coming down right in the middle of Clanton.

Splendid Program Clanton Quartet

If we were to use the quotation "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country" regarding the appearance of the Clanton Quartet in concert here last Friday night, our readers would draw the idea that the people of Clanton did not express very great appreciation toward the efforts of the home boys. Well, if one should get this idea he would not be badly wrong. There were not many over a hundred people out to hear these boys in the first program they have attempted to put on in their home town, and we feel that they were deserving of more than that. Their program was as good as some we have heard put on here by imported quartets who commanded a crowded house. But this is not unusual and the Clanton Quartet should not get discouraged by it; the same thing happened back in biblical times and it has been happening ever since.

However, the program which these boys put on was splendid, and all those who attended it thoroughly enjoyed it. To those who did not attend we will say that you missed a real treat, and you are the only one who is the worse off by it. Mr. W. G. Culp is the manager, and the other members are H. W. Lowery, Jesse C. Jones, Renfroe Jones and Archie Devaughn. They are all to be commended for the splendid way in which they carried out their parts. The quartets and solos were real good and so were the monologues. We hope that the boys will arrange to appear here again soon, and we believe that next time more people will come out and hear them.

BAKER & DELOACH BUY OUT HUBBARD STOCK AT JEMISON

Announcement has recently been made of the purchase by Jesse Baker and Obe Deloach of the stock of goods of the late R. M. Hubbard at Jemison. Messrs. Baker and Deloach announce that they have added more goods to this stock and will continue to operate the business in the same stand next to the Jemison Bank.

Mr. Gerald Hubbard will continue to work in the store and will be assisted by Mr. Arthur Littlejohn, son of J. Wiley Littlejohn of Clanton. Both these young men are well experienced in this line of business, and the public may rest assured that they will be accorded the best of service and treatment at their hands. Messrs. Baker and Deloach are business men of long and tried standing, and Jemison is fortunate in having them locate in its midst.

SACRED HARP SINGING AT MONTGOMERY

The Capitol Sacred Harp Singing Conention will meet in semi-annual session at the court house in Montgomery on Sunday, October 27, at 9:30 o'clock.

W. B. Allgood, State Treasurer, who is secretary of the Association says that this will be the fifteenth semi-annual session, and he says that all singers in Central and South Alabama are urged to attend, and all others interested are invited. All singers are requested to bring their books, and those who can should bring their lunches.

There will be large attendance on this occasion and a great day is anticipated.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox, their son and daughter of Moultrie, Ga., came over last Saturday morning to spend the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Rountree. Upon their return the Coxes were accompanied by Mrs. Rountree and son, Ben.

Mr. Jake Rountree of Georgia is spending a few days this week with his brother, Mr. H. C. Rountree.

Mr. Hubert Farley has gone to Birmingham for medical treatment.

JOHNSON'S INFIRMARY

Guy Alred, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Alred, had his tonsils and adenoids removed last Friday.

Dan Alred had his tonsils and adenoids removed Friday.

Mr. John Cleckley had an operation of the nose last week.

MRS. ARVAZENIA CULP

Mrs. Arvazenia Culp, age 61, wife of J. C. Culp, died at the family home near Mt. Nebo Monday morning. The remains were buried at Mt. Nebo cemetery Tuesday morning, Martin in charge.

Mrs. Culp is survived by her husband, James C. Culp, and two sons, Grady and Aurelius Culp. The oldest son, Curry, died in 1910.

COTTON NOT BRINGING ITS REAL VALUE NOW

By forcing their cotton on the market faster than the mills need it, cotton farmers are now selling their cotton below its real value, according to Allen Northington, General manager of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, Montgomery, who said this can be avoided if farmers will sell their cotton orderly.

Mr. Northington has recently written a letter to the members of the cotton association in which he reviewed the fact that the official forecast of October 1 was 14,915,000 bales, and that best authorities are now saying that the consumption of American Cotton this year will be at least 15,250,000 bales or higher. "At the present rate of consumption the carry-over of American cotton will be reduced between 300,000 to 400,000 bales and they will have to go into the reserve of American cotton for the third consecutive year," he asserted.

"In the face of this situation," he added, "the market continues to decline. We feel that this decline is not due to any economic reason but due practically altogether to the anxiety of the producer to sell, regardless of the value of their cotton, faster than the mills need it.

"If the producers would have confidence in the value of their cotton and not sell it at present prices, which are at least 2c below the average price for last year, although the indicated supply of American cotton is 300,000 to 400,000 bales less, they would soon stop the decline in the market. Of course the world will buy our cotton at any price we are willing to sell it at and as long as we are willing to take any price that is offered we will never be able to stop the decline in the market and get value for our cotton."

Through October 19 farmers of Alabama had sold 30,000 bales of cotton through their cooperative cotton marketing association and were pooling from 800 to 1,400 bales daily.—L. O. Brackeen.

FURTHER PLANS OF SHORT COURSE

Committee Selects Dates For Meetings—Widely Known Speakers Are Secured

November 11th and 12 have been selected by the local committee as the dates for holding the two-day farmers' and housewives' chautauqua, which will be conducted with the co-operation of the Agricultural Extension Department of the International Harvester Company. The meetings will be held in the Chilton County High School Auditorium.

The program committee is engaged in preparing a program which will include musical and other numbers by some of our best local talent, and educational lectures and demonstrations by members of the short course crew furnished by the Harvester Co. These lectures will deal with the many problems of the farm, the orchard, the home and the community, and will be given by nationally known speakers.

The lecturers will include Mr. H. S. Mobley, Mrs. James L. Kraker and Miss Grace Marian Smith. Mr. Mobley is one of the most prominent lecturers on agricultural subjects in the country. He has been a member of the extension department for many years, and is superintendent of the Harvester Company's demonstration farm near Montgomery, Ala., where so much is being done to show the value of diversified farming, crop rotation and dairying.

Mr. Mobley long was active in farmers' organizations, of the legislative committee of which he was chairman at Washington during the time such bills as the Farm Loan Bank, Parcel Post and Smith-Lever bills were discussed and enacted. For many years he has been a practical and successful farmer and, looking at things from the farmers' viewpoint he is able to talk to farmers as few other lecturers can. As a result of his success as a live stock and alfalfa grower, and as a community builder, he has a fund of information, based upon experience, which makes his lectures on those subjects most interesting and helpful.

Mr. Kraker is a highly successful fruit grower and horticulturist, combining the technical knowledge gained as a graduate of the College of Agriculture, Cornell University, with the practical experience of owning and operating a large fruit farm in Michigan. He has had special training in the manufacture of fertilizers and as a bacteriologist in the manufacture of inoculation for legumes and in experimental work in the cross inoculation of legumes, as well as in the dehydration of vegetables for the U. S. Army during the World War. He also has done considerable extension work for the University of Michigan. For five years, also, he was a county agricultural agent.

Miss Smith grew to womanhood on a farm, taught in both rural schools and city schools and for a number of years has been an extension worker for the Harvester Company and for the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Her talks are always full of helpfulness and inspiration.

Large charts, lanter slides and motion pictures will be used to illustrate the lectures, and questions relating to matters discussed will be invited and will be conscientiously answered so far as possible.

Make a note of the date and let nothing prevent your attending every meeting.

STRAWBERRY GROWERS TO MEET AT VERBENA

There will be a meeting at Verbena Tuesday night, October 29th, at 7 p. m. in the interest of strawberry growing. All those interested in this matter please be present at this meeting. A number of experienced strawberry growers from Clanton will attend the meeting with Mr. Stapp.

BURIED AT NEW SALEM

James W. Littleton, age 25, died at his home in Bessemer last Friday. The remains were buried at New Salem cemetery Saturday, Rev. W. P. Lowery preaching the funeral. Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby assisted Rev. Lowery in the funeral services.

ORDER STRAWBERRY PLANTS

Anyone wanting strawberry plants should place their orders with J. N. Dennis or L. E. Diefenderfer. By so doing a saving of 50 cents a thousand may be made if enough orders are gotten together to make a total of 100 thousand. See Dief or Dennis at once.

Mr. Culver, of Moatts Market, recently made a trip to St. Louis. Mr. Culver is taking a vacation.

DECLINE OF THE WEST

A plant for the manufacture of spats has just been established in Kansas City, Mo.

We want this to sing in:

A plant for the manufacture of spats has just been established in Kansas City, Mo.!

And, as if that mere fact was not enough to flush the ears of all Missourians, it is stated on high authority that the concern's slogan is, "The Largest Spat Factory West of Chicago."

Does that throw any light on the decline of the agricultural West?—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

When some political historian begins a few years hence to set down the story of the present era he will doubtless call it the period of the decline and fall of party regularity. Certainly this deterioration of party regularity is the outstanding development of this generation. There are perhaps several causes for it. Most political students attribute its inception to the wave of primary election enthusiasm. With the passing of the political convention, party responsibility began to fade. Candidates went out on the stump to win preliminary support for their cause, and primary campaigns often degenerated into mere contests of political personalities, in which at times the real issues and fundamental party principles were obscured. This was true in both the Republican and Democratic political contests.

Perhaps the World War with its loosening of tradition hastened the decay of party responsibility and party regularity. At any rate the condition is here and the length of its duration will depend on future developments. The United States Senate, as it has been constituted for several years past, is a good example of the decline of party responsibility. Supposedly Republican in make-up, the margin between the so-called regular Republican and regular Democrats has generally been so slight that the balance of power has rested with a group of personally active senators upon whom the responsibilities of the party rest very lightly. Usually lining up with their original party in broad national campaigns they have after the excitement of the election has died down, sought to combine themselves with whichever faction in the Senate seemed destined to carry out their political wishes. And the party leaders have done nothing about it; perhaps they could do nothing. The senatorial appointments have been distributed, according to Senate custom, to regulars and irregulars alike, whether these irregulars were Republican or Democratic.

The present incident of the lobby investigation at Washington and the make-up of the subcommittee which is investigating lobbying activities, is a case in point. In the early days, with the Republican party in power, staunch Republicans would have had control of this committee. With the Democrats in power in the Senate, regular Democrats would have controlled it. The subcommittee was appointed by Chairman Norris, who himself is one of the most active of the so-called independent group. Senator Norris chose for the committee as chairman Senator Caraway, of Arkansa, author of the resolution and a staunch Democrat. With Chariman Caraway are Senator Walsh, another regular Democrat; Senator Borah, independent Republican; and Senator Blaine, who can only be classed as a Republican by a wide stretch of the imagination. Senator Blaine, classed as an independent Republican, favored Al Smith in the last campaign and yet certainly is not a Democrat. The only regular Republican on the committee is Senator Arthur Robinson of Indiana, one of the youngest solons in the Senate. The citing of the example of this committee is no reflection on the inquisitorial abilities of its membership. The example merely illustrates the decline of political regularity in the United States.

It is not to be asserted that only the so-called independents are finding the ties of party regularity irksome. Even some of the regulars have been jumping the fence of late. A case in point is the voting of certain otherwise staunch Democratic senators for protective schedules in the tariff bill. The principle of free trade can no longer be used to hold Democratic solons in line. In conclusion, we may ask, whither are we drifting and what will be the result? The tendency in politics now seems to be away from the primary and back to a modified convention system. Whether this will have the effect of again strengthening party discipline remains to be seen. Only the future can give us the solution of this problem.

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN NAVAL ACCORD

One type of mentality holds that it is possible to bring nations to agreement, even in the matter of peace, only through force. If, for example, there is to be real and effective operation of the Kellogg multilateral treaty renouncing war as a means of settling international disputes, there must be force back of it, "teeth" in it. It is the same kind of mentality that believes in a political League of Nations and an international police force. Nothing was further from the thought of the United States when it undertook to bring about the negotiation of the Kellogg treaty. It has been stated repeatedly that the treaty was to be entered into with the full understanding that each nation stood on its own bottom, and that there was to be no coercion, and that the pact would be observed because the individual nations had pledged themselves to observe it. Under any other circumstances the United States Senate would never have ratified the treaty.

The American and British governments, through their executive heads, have reached an understanding on naval strength. That understanding has been made possible largely because of the new situation created by the adherence, not only of these two nations, but of all the other powers, to the Kellogg treaty renouncing war. In some quarters there is a disposition now to say that Great Britain and the United States in their naval agreement propose to force the world to international peace. Probably nothing could be more inimical to a final naval limitation and reduction agreement with the other powers. France, Italy and Japan, regarded as great naval powers along with the United States and Great Britain, do not relish the thought that the English-speaking countries shall combine to force upon the rest of the world peace, or anything else particularly if the peace is the special brand of America and Britain, whatever that may be.

President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald have done all in their power during their conversations over naval limitation to make it clear that there is no question of an alliance, substantial or implied, between the two countries. Both have understood that the greatest danger to the success of the proposed five-power naval conference, to be held next January in London, lies in suspicions of the other powers that any form of alliance or special understanding exists between Britain and America, exclusive of all other nations. The Anglo-American naval accord, they have insisted, is but a prelude to an accord which will take in all the other nations.

The purpose of the two governments will be to work for world peace and ot help maintain it, but nothing could be more clear than the statement that the parts played by the British and American governments "will be different;" that the British will cooperate closely with theri neighbors on the continent, while America will continue to adhere to its traditional policy of not becoming entangled in European diplomacy. This does not smack of Anglo-American alliances, or implied alliances.

An Anglo-American alliance, if it had the effect of aligning all continental Europe against Britain and this country, might prove a very uncomfortable thing for Britain, and would scarcely have an appeal for the people of the United States.

The British government, through its prime minister, has definitely pledged itself to peace with the United States, to naval parity and thereby to a relinquishment of the old claim of British supremacy of the seas. But peace between Britain and America is a very different thing from an agreement of any kind between the two countries to force peace on the rest of the world.—Washington Star.

ABOUT THE THIRD REGIONAL CONFERENCE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The conference of the Third Region of the League of Women Voters, which will be held in Birmingham, October 28-30, promises to be an event of the utmost importance since it will call women from nine southern states and the District of Columbia, to sit in council on matters of vital importance to the League and to the country at large.

Of course all business meetings of the conference will be for League members only, but there are features which the open meetings present of great interest to those outside the organization as well as League members.

One of these will be an informal reception Monday evening at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel, Birmingham which will be the League headquarters during the conference. At this first affair the state and local board members will be hostesses. Another social event will be a luncheon on Tuesday. Mrs. J. D. Moore will preside. A very entertaining feature of this occasion will be "The Grand Slam," a membership skit.

Probably the feature of greatest interest, however, will be the public meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday. Mrs. Ida Blake Smedley will preside. Mrs. Smedley is the president of the Alabama League. The speakers will be Donald Randall Richberg, noted lawyer and author, and Judge Fieldleson.

At the luncheon on Wednesday, October 30, the College League will stage a pageant, "A Memorial to Anna Howard Shaw."

The various meetings will be presided over by League officers, state and local. Conference plans are complete. Committes have been named and are at work, letters and programs have been sent to all state presidents, and an almost one hundred per cent delegation is expected.

Miss Huldah Moorhead, national committee woman, is at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel, Birmingham, and will be glad to assist those intending to be at the conference, with information on matters relating to conference plans.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

BANDITS OF THE CHICKENYARD

As everybody knows who reads the newspapers, the criminals of our large cities run like the wolves their savage natures resemble, in packs or gangs. Singly they would do comparatively little damage and would soon be put out of business. Working together, however, they cause untold loss of life and property with a freedom from danger to themselves that is truly amazing. A rather striking parallel to this disease of society, the modern criminal "gang" is to be found in all to many poultry yards.

I refer to the alarming prevalence of worms in every section of the country, of which there are some 36 varieties known to veterinary science. Only three need be mentioned in this article. Of these, tapeworms will be treated in a separate article. The other two are the large Round worms which are found in the small intestines and the Small round worms or Pin worms which inhabit the Caeca or Blind Pouches. The former is from one to four and one-half inches long when full grown; the latter measure only one-fourth to three-fourths of an inch in length.

Both young and old birds are commonly affected. When very young chicks are wormy, growth is usually stopped. This is the most common cause of runtiness. Laying hens are sometimes infected to such a degree that laying falls off materially. There may be an unthrifty condition, dullness, drooping of wings, loss of weight—paleness of face, wattles and comb—and very often lameness. There are also many cases which show no external symptoms.

The only positive way to detect worms is by a post mortem examination. When fowls are killed for table use or marketing, the bowels may be examined by slitting them open from end to end. Any fowls that die should be examined in the same way. Then if worms are present proper treatment should be started at once.

The necessity for prompt effective treatment of wormy fowls can not be emphasized too strongly. Infection spreads from one bird to another quite rapidly and the longer the infected ones go without treatment the harder it is to restore them to normal condition.

Worms cause a twofold damage. First of all, they grow and thrive on food that should go to the birds' own growth and to make eggs. In addition to that they throw off a poisonous substance which pollutes the digested food matter and is absorbed with it into the blood. This causes digestive disorders, loss of flesh, lowered vitality and loss of ability to resist disease. I am convinced that directly or indirectly, at least 75 per cent of all diseases and losses among chickens are caused by worms.

The most practical, cheapest and most effective remedy I have been able to find is nicotine. It is most accurately and beneficially given to mature and nearly mature birds in the form of pills. Feeding powdered tobacco in the mash is no longer favored by most competent authorities as many of the fowls which need treatment worst refuse to eat it and the others may suffer from nicotine poisoning.

In the case of serious worm infection, as with most other poultry troubles, sanitation is a most effective weapon. The eggs or found worms are laid in great numbers and passed out with the droppings. Other fowls eat them with food and water, then they hatch and grow in the intestines. These eggs retain their ability to hatch for many months. Strictly sanitary conditions should be maintained in house and yard.

Lime should be spread over the yard, turned under, and a quick-growing grain planted each month. Houses should be thoroughly sprayed with a strong dip and disinfectant solution. Droppings should be removed every morning, or dropping boards should be protected with wire mesh. Feeding troughs and drinking vessels and the like should be arranged or protected in some way so fowls can not roost above them or get into them with their feet. Dampness and wet spots in the yards should be eliminated.

If possible, baby chicks should be raised on new ground or on ground where no chickens have run for two or three years. One of the chief benefits from raising chicks on floors of one-half inch wire mesh is the prevention of round worm infection. If they must be raised on old ground, they should be given some good poultry powder containing nicotine in the form of powdered tobacco after they are from four to six weeks old.

DOYLE RULE INACCURATE

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 21.—A number of southern states, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi, have made the Doyle log rule the legal standard. This rule is based on a formula which does not make proper allowance for slabs and is very inaccurate, indicating less lumber in small logs than can be actually sawed out.

The International log rule is much more accurate and should be used in all work where correct results are desired. The wide variation may be easily noted from the following: Under the Doyle rule, an eight inch log will actually saw out 162 per cent more lumber than the rule indicates, a twelve inch log 50 per cent more, a sixteen inch log 25 per cent more, a twenty inch log 15 per cent more and a twenty-four inch log 8 per cent more. These figures show that the Doyle rule on small logs underscales by a very wide margin. On the other hand, under the International rule, an eight inch log saws out only 4 per cent more lumber than the rule indicates, a twelve inch log 2 per cent while sixteen inch, twenty inch, and twenty-four inch logs saw out only 1 per cent more.

Another advantage of the International rule is that a flat percentage correction can be made for difference in the width of the strip removed by the saw. For instance, this rule figured for a quarter inch saw kerf may be used for saws taking an eighth inch kerf by merely increasing the scale by 10.4 per cent. Landowners selling timber by scale should always insist that the International rule be used.

STATE CAPITOL News

Under the heading of "Twelve Forward-Facing Facts" the Alabama Education Association in a recent bulletin listed twelve specific achievements along educational lines in Alabama in the last three years. While these do not by any means represent the total of achievements in education since the 1927 Legislature raised the revenue needed for advancement, they will give some idea of what has been done, and should be of interest to all Alabamians. The bulletin in which they are found was issued by the Alabama Education Association for Education Week, which is to be observed in Alabama, as throughout the nation, November 11-18. Copies of the bulletin, which contains a suggested program for use in the schools during Education Week, and much highly interesting educational data, may be obtained from Frank L. Grove, Secretary of the Alabama Education Association, whose office is in the First National Bank Building, Montgomery.

The Twelve Forward-Facing Facts listed by Secretary Grove are regarded as of such general interest that they are reproduced in the following statement from the bulletin:

Twelve Forward-Facing Facts

Prior to June, 1926, the State of Alabama provided $5,176,570 annually for maintaining its public schools. Between June, 1926, and June, 1928, the Emergency Fund ($600,000) and the first installment of monies appropriated by the 1927 Legislature, ($2,478,506) were released to supplement the revenue for education. (This amount does not include the monies provided for normal school and college training.) During these two years Alabama

Added 11 days to the school term (from 137 to 148.) The average for the United States for 1925-1926 was 169.3 days.

Added 42,885 to its school enrollment (from 590,405 to 633,290.)

Added 48,834 pupils to the number of students in average daily attendance (from 416,521 to 465, 355.)

Added 11,574,384 pupil-days to the aggregate attendance.

Increased the value of school property by $2,737,678.

Added 1,260 teachers to its teacher rolls (from 15,535 to 16,795.)

Provided training whereby 2,368 teachers improved their professional rating.

Decreased the number of low grade certificates by 1,118.

Increased the average teacher's salary by $70 (from $665 to $725).

The average for the United States for 1925-1926 was $1,277.

Increased its expenditures for day school instruction by $1,934,184.

Increased its expenditure for evening school instruction by $27,420.

Increased its expenditure for auxiliary services (libraries, health promotion, lunch facilities, playgrounds, and transportation) by $501,965.

REFUGE

Our singing society met at this place Sunday afternoon and enjoyed some real good singing in the 1930 Showalter Books. We were glad to have the splendid cooperation from the adjoining communities. Directors for the afternoon were John Cleckler, J. E. Mims, S. V. Miller, Marion Easterling, R. M. Robinson, G. C. Powell, M. Lockhart. The opening song was sung by O. R. Robinson. Prayer was led by M. Lockhart. Pianists for the afternoon were Mrs. O. R. Robinson, Marion Easterling, and C. H. Robinson.

By request the writer would like to say a few words about the birthday supper and singing which was held at the home of Mr. Cary Easterling a few nights ago in honor of his wife and daughter. Mrs. Easterling was 30, and her daughter, Cleedy, was 12. The number of cakes brought in by their neighbors and friends placed a real honor on the home of Mr. Easterling, to say the least of the occasion. The singing and cake cutting was enjoyed by a large number of friends and relatives.—A Reader.

The following named people from Birmingham spent Sunday in Thorsby: Mrs. George H. Dierlamn, Mr. and Mrs. Yancey M. Kelley and daughter, Audrey, Miss Esther Johnson, Miss Margaret Butler, Miss Ruth Gerald, Miss Betty Lakeman, Miss Ruth Petersen and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan and baby daughter, Miss Bertha Littleton and Leonard Moody, Mrs. Ellery Hansen and Miss Lois Primm, both from Lock 12.

The Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold their monthly social on Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. E. W. Butler.

An adpourned meeting of the board of trustees of Thorsby Institute will be held at the dormitory living room at 9:30 a. m. Thursday, Oct. 24.

The annual bazaar of Thorsby Ladies Guild will be held this year on the last Saturday in November, November 30. Details will be announced later.

Miss Iola Gerald spent Sunday afternoon with friends in Montevallo.

Mrs. Martin Dyrhovd has been on the sick list the past week.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen was a visitor in Birmingham Saturday.

Mrs. J. O. Johnson entertained a number of ladies last Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Yancey M. Kelley of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gray were visitors at Prattville Sunday.

Mrs. MacDonald Pearson went to Sylacauga Sunday to have her tonsils removed. She is expected home about the middle of the week.

Don't forget to remember that the Y. W. A. is preparing to hold a dollar social and measuring party in the nedar future, time and place to be announced later. The plan is to raise as much money as possible on their pledge of $250 for the new Baptist church. They want everybody to help it along.

The Womans Mission Study Course was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Jones.

Mr. Charley Swanson with Fred Howard and family spent Sunday at Sylacauga.

Mrs. O. P. Whitley of Birmingham spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cox spent Monday in Birmingham shopping.

Mrs. Mamie Smith of Clanton was a guest of Mrs. Ollie Tagg Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and their three boys, Carl, John and Robert, with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan, motored to Montgomery Sunday.

Mrs. Nels Petersen entertained a number of ladies last Friday afternoon. Refreshments were served and a plasant time enjoyed.

Mr. W. B. Scott and Miss Morgan of Montgomery visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott Sunday.

Mrs. Nels Petersen and children, Marie and Norman, spent the week end with Mrs. Petersen's cousins in Birmingham.

Mr. Alton Cox, our good friend at the I. G. A., and Miss Mary Roy of Prattville, were married last Friday evening. For the present the young couple will have rooms at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ward.

Thorsby Troop of Boy Scouts are coming along nicely, out of the present membership of fourteen, two patrols have been formed with Guy Higgins and young Richardson as leaders. This will open the way for the reception of new members to form another patrol.

The first meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute was held last Saturday night. Aubrey Taylor, the President, presided. Marie Eiland is the secretary. After the business session October poems were recited by Lois Thompson, Ralph Pate and Virginia Little. An essay on October was read by Byron Bean, son of the principal of the Thorsby Junior High School. L. C. Sims of Helena gave a talk on Herbert Hoover. The girls and boys chorus both sang. Edith Johnson played the first movement of Beethoven's Sonata, and Mildred Jeffries played a violin solo.

Marcelle Wilder, an alumnus of the Institute, gave the critic report.

The banner which had been on the Philomathic side of the Literary Society was moved to the Pushmataha side by Louise Gibbons, captain of the Pushmatahas.

The next meeting will be November 9. This will consist of an Operatta entitled "Lary Frances" and a radio comedy. Everyone is invited.

Miss Thoroman, the music teacher at Thorsby Institute plans most interesting programs for her chapel day. A week ago Tuesday, the Senior Quartet, Edith Johnson, soprano, Louise Gibbons, alto, Aubrey Taylor, tenor, Fred Boyd, bass, sang for the first time. Their voices blended very well. Edith Johnson and Louise Gibbons also sang a pleasing duet. The Sophomore and Junior boys also sang for the first time.

Walter Peterson gave a very interesting talk in chapel Friday on the Panama Canal. He is a brother of Willis Peterson, a junior in the Institute.

The Christian Endeavor Society met Sunday night at 6:30. The topic for discussion was "Taking Part in the Meeting, Why and How?" Brown Russell led the meeting. Next Sunday night the topic will be "What is Worship?" Eunice Williamson will lead. The program Sunday night was very interesting. It is hoped that more people will come out next Sunday night.

ALABAMA MAYOR SENDS TRIBUTE TO RED CROSS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21.—A tribute to Red Cross efficiency in disaster relief is contained in a telegram received here at the National Headquarters of the organization from Mayor M. H. Harper of Geneva, Alabama, which was flooded by the freshets of last spring. The message, which also urges public support of the Red Cross in the coming roll call, is as follows:

"That the annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross, November 11th to 28th, may meet with the highest degree of success is the sincere hope of our citizenship.

"No community, town or city is free from the possibility of experiencing a major disaster. Prior to March of this year (1929), Geneva, Alabama, had no thought of an approaching disaster, but at that time every inhabitant was rendered homeless by flood waters and it was the Red Cross that provided ample emergency relief, such as food, clothing and shelter. Likewise, it was a faithful and efficient corps of trained Red Cross workers which stayed on the job several months until homeless families were provided homes and furnishings. Out of an indescribable condition of destruction and devastation, the Red Cross brought orderly and permanent rehabilitation.

"My experience as a citizen and official of a stricken area convinces me that the American Red Cross is one of civilization's greatest blessings in times of dire need."

THE CHRISTIAN'S VIEW OF RECREATION

LESSON TEXT—Jer. 31:12, 13, Zech. 8:15, Mark 2:18-28, Mark 6:30-32, John 2:1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Right Way to Play.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Right Way to Play.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Play Does for Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Recreation in Community Life.

In the last lesson we saw that work was God's primal law for man. In work there is a certain breaking down of cells which needs constant repair; therefore, in order that work may continue there must be recreation. Recreation means re-creation. Failure to discern this truth has made of recreation dissipation. In this light let us view the salient points in the scripture selected.

I. The Coming Golden Age (Jer. 3:12, 13).

Though Jeremiah was the weeping prophet, and presented dark pictures of Israel's condition, God gave him a view of Israel's golden age. He made known how that through the mighty hand of God the chosen nation should be delivered from bondage and brought into their own land where peace, prosperity and gladness should prevail. The source of all real recreation is right relationship with God. God is the source of all joy. Nothing so powerfully affects the physical organism in its renewal as joy in God. In this coming age the streets of the city will be safe for old people and children (Zech. 8:4, 5).

II. The Christian's Relation to Fasting (Mark 2:18-23).

1. A question asked (v. 18).

The very joyfulness of the disciples of Christ in contrast with the disciples of John and the Pharisees, moved an inquiry as to the reason. The law of Moses only required fasting on the Day of Atonement. John the Baptist was in prison, therefore it is clear as to why his disciples were fasting.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 19, 20).

He declared that the children of the bride chamber could not fast as long as they had the bridegroom with them. The joy of present companionship with Christ prevented their fasting. This shows that Christ is the real source of joy. He recognized that when the bridegroom was absent, there was occasion for fasting. Christ is now away, therefore fasting is permissible. In times of great need the early church fasted. Before sending out the first missionaries they fasted and prayed (Acts 13:1, 2). More fasting and less feasting would be helpful today in the ordination of Christian workers.

III. The Christian's Relation to the Sabbath (Mark 2:24-28).

The disciples were charged with lawlessness because they plucked ears of corn as they walked through the fields on the Sabbath day. In Christ's defense against this charge, He

1. Cites a precedent (v. 26).

It was the case of David, their great king, who in time of need ate the shewbread which was only lawful for the priests. The principle set forth is that the higher law of human need warranted David in doing this which was out of the regular line of duty.

2. Showed the nature of the Sabbath law (v. 27).

The Sabbath was made for man, therefore its right use is determined by what it contributes to man's good. The Sabbath should not be man's cruel master, but his helpful servant.

3. Jesus is Lord of the Sabbath (v. 28).

It was He who instituted it when creation was finished; therefore He had the right to use it as it pleased Him for man's good.

IV. The Need of a Vacation (Mark 6:30-32).

The tragic death of John the Baptist had just occurred, and the disciples had just returned from a strenuous missionary tour. Christ, perceiving their need, invited them to come apart with Him for rest.

V. Jesus Attending a Wedding (John 2:1-11).

This is a striking sidelight on the spirit of Christ. A marriage feast was graced by His presence. In this act He set a mark of honor upon marriage, which is the most joyous of earth's occasions. In this act man's holy Redeemer lifted the holy ordinance of marriage into its dignity and beauty. In the course of the feast, when the wine was exhausted, He wrought His first miracle rather than have its festivities marred.

Glorious

Earth has not a spectacle more glorious or more fair to show than this—love tolerating intolerance: charity covering as with a veil even the sin of the lack of charity.—F. W. Robertson.

Overcoming Obstacles

An easy life is not likely to be a very valuable life to itself or to others. Strength comes by overcoming obstacles, and it is the strong life that can best help those about it.

FREE LANCE WHEAT

Cale Jones, of near Smith Center, Kan., decided last year that raising wheat for profit wasn't much of a way to get ahead in the world and concluded not to replant his 50-acre field. This spring an abundant crop of "volunteer" wheat sprang up on the patch and Mr. Jones decided not to interefere with the bounty of nature. HOOVER RESTS PARTY'S HOPE UPON SERVICE

Good Government, And Not Patronage, Is Aim, He Says

Washington, Oct. 22.—In his sharpest clash over patronage since he took office, President Hoover has served notice on G. O. P. politicians that "the success of the Republican party rests upon good government, and not patronage."

He also warned the wets in his party that he intends to appoint none but trie dand true believers in the dry laws when it comes to naming judges, district attorneys and other prosecuting officials.

The letter in which the president expounded his ideas dealt with the conflict over southern organization between the forces of Horace Mann, free-lance politician and the White House triumvirate of Postmaster General Brown, Secretary Newton, and National Chairman Huston.

Southern Hoovercrats recently protested against the program sponsored by the triumvirate, charging that it was permitting the old "commercialized" interests to gain control of the southern G. O. P.

Not Taking Sides

In his letter, addressed to Fred Britten, secretary of the Florida G. O. P. organization, the president made clear he did not intend to take sides in the fight, but demanded that the organization submit the names of men he considered capable for for public service.

"It is the natural desire of the administration," wrote the president, "to build up and strengthen the Republican party in Florida. That can be done in cooperation with the state organization if it presents candidates who measure up to my requirements of public service.

South Must Reform

"A first tenet in that program is that no longer shall the laws of the United States be flouted by federal officials; no longer shall public office be regarded as mere political patronage, but that it shall be public service.

The president reiterated his declaration that southern G. O. P. organizations must reform themselves if they expected him to recognize them, in emphatic terms.

The JACK-POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

WHO SAID SQUIRREL? (first). Officially, the squirrel season opens November 1, to continue through January 31. Of course, for some, it has been open for some weeks. Most any morning you can go "down the branch" a little ways and hear 'em barking, squirrels and guns. WHO SAID SQUIRREL? (first).

* * * * * * * * *

Lots of the squirrel hunting nowadays is done with rifles, especially at this time of the year. Several reasons for this, too. One is that it is much cheaper. Another is that the squirrels don't notice the report of a rifle so much—and, neither can the officers and law-abiding citizens hear a rifle shot as far as a shot-gun.

* * * * * * * * *

Hunters generally are classed as sportsmen. Most of the time that is right. But a before-season hunter is NOT a sportsman—he's a criminal!

* * * * * * * * *

It is the duty of any lawful citizen to report such goings on, and maybe killing a few $5.00 squirrels would help to break up the vicious practice.

* * * * * * * * *

The skating rink didn't leave so many black spots around here, but gee, how many blue ones? It seems to be great sport. Maybe that's because it feels good to rub the sore spots the morning after the night before.

* * * * * * * * *

Just from watching the learners, one would decide the skates were tied on the wrong place, or that another pair is needed—and that they be fastened just below the waist line, front and back. That's the lighting field you know. Skaters (learners, at any rate) have that much in common with airplanes—they both MUST have a landing place.

* * * * * * * * *

While some proficient in the art may stop standing up, yet learners almost invariably seem to prefer to come to a halt very abruptly, and in a sitting or prone position.

* * * * * * * * *

What're we gonna do for excitement, now? Baseball season all over, the main football games too far away, and the hunting season not yet in; but, then, we can always walk down the highway and try our hand at the art of dodging cars. And if you don't believe dodging ALL of them is an art, just try it one time.

* * * * * * * * *

A few hectic days for the old wallet, now, will be the order of the day. First, and foremost, of course, comes the buying of the new license tag for "Lizzie", then shoes, coats and what-nots for the whole family, then the taxes and other incidentals. After that the purse strings may have another long rest.

* * * * * * * * *

These are pleasant days, as you know, right now. Not too hot—not too cold. Heard a man wondering, the other day, why, that no matter where you go on Sundays and holidays, everybody else seems to be going the other way. One man says that, due to the pretty weather, the great traffic jams are caused by the country people going to the city meeting the city folks going to the country.

* * * * * * * * *

But, then, the grass always has been, is, and always will be greener in the other fellow's yard. 'S funny, like that, you know.

* * * * * * * * *

"Nothing succeeds like a successful man," but the man who jumped from the 10th story of a building the other day, trying to kill himself, is not dead—just broken up over the incident.

* * * * * * * * *

Somebody must've told the prohi officers it was open season last week for liquorites. Somebody wasn't far wrong, either, judging by results. Old King Korn opens a big field for the JACK-POT, but we'll save that to pull the cork from next week. Goo' day.—"Jack."

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY TO ADD 69 RURAL LINES

Sixty-nine additional rural electric lines to cost approximately $1,250,000 and serve 1,919 customers living in 40 counties have been authorized by officials of Alabama Power Company.

This large extension program will be carried out in 1930, at the end of which time Alabama will be more firmly entrenched among the first States of the Union in the matter of farm electrification, according to figures given out today by officials of the power company.

The 69 new lines and those projected and authorized for the remaining months of 1929 will extend for a total distance of 649 miles and will carry electric service into seven counties not now served. Including the extensions to be made in 1930, lines projected for completion at the end of the current year and lines now in operation, Alabama at the end of 1930 can boast of 442 strictly rural lines extending 1,446 miles and serving 9,841 customers in all but 9 of the 67 counties of the State.

The Company's statement further shows that the 1930 program will bring the total number of rural customers, including those served in small, unincorporated rural communities, to approximately 25,000 probably the largest number served in any State in the length of time Alabama has enjoyed service of this kind, according to information available.

Counties to get service under the 1930 program are Autauga, Baldwin, Barbour, Blount, Butler, Calhoun, Chambers, Clay, Colbert, Coosa, Cullman, DeKalk, Elmore, Escambia, Etowah, Fayette, Franklin, Geneva, Hale, Henry, Jackson, Jefferson, Lamar, Lauderdale, Lawrence, Lee, Limestone, Macon, Madison, Marengo, Mobile, Montgomery, St. Clair, Shelby, Sumter, Talladega, Tallapoosa, Tuscaloosa and Wilcox.

The seven counties scheduled to receive their first rural service between now and the end of next year are Clay, Cullman, DeKalk, Henry, Russell, Wilcox and Winston.

Here are some of the interesting facts brought out in the power company's report, all of which tend to show the increasing popularity of electricity in rural sections, how this modern force is removing farm home drudgery and what it is doing to make "farming an industry."

Jefferson County leads the State in number of customers and existing lines, having a total of 56 lines and 2,444 customers, while Mobile County is second in number of lines, having 28. Fourteen additional lines will be built in Jefferson between now and December 31, 1930, while Mobile County is scheduled to get four new lines during the same period of time.

Elmore County is second in point of customers, with a total of 353.

Three hundred and five cotton gins are electrified. Of this number, 92 are classed as strictly rural gins, while 213 are located in cities or small communities.

Thirty-five additional gins will be electrified in 1930, bringing the total to 340, which is probably the largest number in any cotton-growing State.

To determine the extent to which farm homes utilize electric service, the Company's Rural Division surveyed 3,031 customers and found twenty types of devices in use, including 86 churns, 392 fans, 2,089 irons, 442 ranges, 383 radios, 309 refrigerators, 59 sewing machines, 60 washing machines, 493 pumps, and 47 water heaters.

Other appliances in use are battery chargers, curling irons, dish washers, grills, hot plates, percolators, heaters, toasters, vocuum cleaners and waffle irons.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

"HIGH LIFE" WILL KILL CORN WEEVILS

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 21.—Throughout Alabama the corn weevil and other insects are beginning an attack against the corn crop which is being harvested. Each year these insects destroy thousands of bushels of grain. The pests are in the corn when it is harvested and are carried into the crib.

W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, says that weevils may be controlled by fumigation with carbon disulphide or "high life," a liquid which forms a gas heavier than air and is deadly to all forms of animal life, when sufficiently concentrated.

The gas is very inflammable, Mr. Ruffin warns, and will explode when brought in contact with fire. It can be safely used, however, if ordinary precautions are taken. It can be bought from local druggists for 35 cents per pound. It is cheaper in larger quantities.

"In especially tight cribs 10 to 15 pounds per 1,00 cubic feet is enough high life to use, but in ordinarily tight buildings 15 to 20 pounds will be safer," said Mr. Ruffin in giving directions for fumigation. "In cribs that have large cracks in both the floors and walls it is almost impossible to get the gas concentrated enough to give good control. The carbon disulphide should be placed in shallow pans on top of the corn and the bin tightly closed. The temperature must be 70 degrees Fahrenheit or above for satisfactory results.

"Since the gas is heavier than air it penetrates downward through the corn, killing the pests. The fumigation should last 36 to 48 hours, after which the building may be opened and the surplus gas allowed to escape."

Before storing corn old bins should be cleaned thoroughly is another point stressed by Mr. Ruffin.

He says that small amounts of seed may be treated by fumigating in a barrel, using about three ounces of carbon disulphide to a 60-gallon barrel. After applying cover the barrel with sacks weighted down with boards he advises.

FARM FACTS

The turnip webworm, which is doing much damage in Alabama gardens as present, may be controlled by dusting with a mixture of one pound of calcium arsenate and five pounds of hydrated lime.

SOIL SURVEY MAKES FARM DOLLAR BIGGER

That Alabama farmers will benefit through further surveys and studies in soils, was announced by Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries, Seth P. Storrs, today, following the appointment of two additional soil surveyors; also a soil chemist, in addition to the present force.

During the past week, J. F. Stroud, soil surveyor for the past 15 years, with W. W. Pate, recently appointed soil chemist, have been touring the coastal plain counties of Alabama, collecting typical soil samples for analysis and other tests.

The purpose of the analyses is to determine the most economical use of fertilizer, in accordance with the well known Auburn methods. Since every farmer averages using one hundred dollars worth of fertilizer each year, the ability to find a fertilizer best adapted to his soils should result in further savings.

According to figures made public by F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician, with the Department of Agriculture, Alabama farmers make more pounds of cotton per ton of fertilizer applied than any farmers i nthe South. This is in part due to the fact that the average percentage of plant food in Alabama fertilizers was 17.1 per cent in 1929.

An added reason why farmers make more cotton, is due to the fact that Alabama was one of the first states in the Union to raise its requirements to full 16 units of plant food, instead of 14 as was for many years the case.

Today, as a result of fertilizer laws enacted by the Department, together with state experimental work, the use of fertilizer brings a vastly greater rate of income to the farmer than was possible in former times.

Much water which flows between banks of farm streams should turn a profit through water and lighting plants and in other ways.

For chapped teats apply a hot, saturated solution of boric acid daily. Rub dry and apply vaseline.

Interesting home improvement work reported by Mrs. Victoria C. Lingo, home demonstration agent in Barbour County, includes a breakfast room cabinet made from an old dresser, and a beautiful electric table lamp fashioned from a kerosene lamp.

EXTENSION SERVICE FAVORS CO-OP WORK

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 21.—County agents, district agents, and specialists of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute will cooperate with the Farm Bureau officials and members in their membership work during the month of November. They will do so because a cooperative organization of farmers enables extension workers to render bigger and better service.

This was made known by Director L. N. Duncan, well-known leader in cooperative work among farmers. He explained that the extension service is in no way responsible for the business activities of the farm bureau but that through this organization the educational program of the extension service is made much more effective.

"Until we had an organization to buy seed we did very little with winter legumes although Director M. J. Funchess and others of the experiment station at Auburn were recommending that farmers plant them. Likewise the fertilizer recommendations of the experiment station amounted to very little until we had an organization to take them and put them into practice. The same is true of other forms of cooperative work sponsored by the Farm Bureau."

For many years Mr. Duncan has regarded organization and cooperation among farmers as indispensable for their advancement along economic lines. He declared that it is more important because of the work of the Federal Farm Board which has announced that its services to farmers will be extended only thru organizations. The membership goal of the Farm Bureau, as reported from the State headquarters at Montgomery, is 25,000 members by the end of the membership drive.

RURAL HOME NEWS

One landscaped lawn in every community is the goal set in home beautification work in Dale County. A large number of women are selecting both evergreen and flowering shrubs to set out in November.

Mrs. Mary W. Segars, home demonstration agent in Escambia County, is delighted with the large variety of vegetables club girls are planting in their gardens. Mrs. Segars is boosting the year-round garden.

After four home demonstration meetings held by Meta E. Grace, home demonstration agent in Tallapoosa County, 89 women promised to go home and rehang their pictures.

AUBURN GRADUATE POULTRY SUCCESS

Hope Hull, Ala., Oct. 21.—In six years John A. Reddoch, who lives near here, has increased his poultry flock from 12 hens and 1 rooster to 1,200 laying hens. He and his mother, Mrs. J. S. Reddoch, have worked together to develop their poultry business.

When they decided in 1923 to turn from cotton farming to chickens, they had only one 12 by 12 foot house, which was improperly constructed. Today they have one 400-hen and four 500-hen laying houses, built according to plans furnished by the poultry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn. Reddoch is a 1928 graduate of Auburn, where he studied poultry under Prof. John E. Ivey. While he was at Auburn in school his mother helped keep the business on a paying basis.

He is proud that every hen in his flock is an Auburn bird. He bought foundation stock from the college commercial plant at Auburn. For May, 1929, his layers produced an average of 22 eggs per bird. Flock average for 1928 was 198 eggs per bird.

Most of his eggs are sold on the curb market at Montgomery, though some are wholesaled. Prices received are high enough to leave him a good profit after feed cost, overhead expenses, and labor cost are deducted, he says.

Lem A. Edmondson, Montgomery County agent, said Reddoch's success with poultry is due largely to the fact that he has "grown into the business." Since beginning he has gradually increased the size of his plant. He has added more birds and built more house as profit would justify the expense.

More expansion is planned for this fall. Wiring and other equipment is being installed in his houses, preparatory to providing electric lights to lengthen the short days of fall and winter.

FARMERS ORGANIZING FOR GOVERNMENT AID

Farmers of the United States are realizing now as never before the importance of organizing in order to receive government aid, according to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, when he returned to Alabama Sunday after spending the past week in Washington conferring with members of the Federal Farm Board and representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Upon his return President O'Neal issued a statement to farmers of Alabama assuring them that the Federal Farm Board is doing all within its power to place agriculture on an equality with other industries and that the biggest need now is for farmers themselves to get behind their farm organization and give the board an opportunity to do more for agriculture. He said that farmers all over the United States are taking advantage of the assistance offered by the government and are joining their cooperatives by the thousands.

Mr. O'Neal reports that 8,000 farmers of six counties in Iowa joined their organization in September. Many other counties in the state exceeded the 1,000 mark. Telegrams and letters received at Chicago by the National Farm Bureau say that many counties of most states in the union have increased their membership 100 per cent during the last six weeks.

After reviewing the work that is being done in other states in the Union he turned his statements to Alabama when he said: November is the month of our state-wide membership campaign here in Alabama.

Our goal is 25,000 members and we have every reason to believe that we will get that number as farmers are more anxious to organize now than ever before."

Mr. O'Neal said that 62 county farm bureaus in the state have made plans to conduct a membership campaign beginning Nov. 4, and continuing until every progressive farmer of the state has been given an opportunity of aligning himself with his organization. He said that farmers themselves will be in charge of the campaign and that agricultural workers of the state are cooperating in order that each county may build a strong farm organization in each county. The extension service is cooperating in this drive for membership.

R. G. Arnold, J. T. High, and Emmett Sizemore, district agents, are at present concentrating their efforts in getting the machinery ready for the drive. They are sending out letters almost daily to the county agents urging them to cooperate with their county farm bureau officers in organizing farmers of their counties. —L. O. Brackeen.

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

"A STUDY IN EXODUS"

The book of Exodus is rightly called the Gospel of the blood of the Old Testament. It is a gospel according to Moses. Intelligent people do not doubt the fact that Moses wrote Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, books of the law, also called the Pentateuch. You say, "How do you know that Moses wrote these books?" We know it because certain writers use the same words and the same expressions. So in these books we find the words and expressions used by Moses.

Now this history begins when the children of Israel went down into Egypt, every man and his household with Jacob, the twelve tribes of the sons of Jacob, Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Zebulun, Dan, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. Nothing is mentioned about Joseph except that he was already in Egypt. At that time it is strange to say that they were called Jews or Hebrews in Egypt and Israelites in Palestine. So when they were permitted to return to Palestine with the sons of Joseph the twelve tribes were the descendants of the original twelve tribes in the sons of Jacob, and the country was divided into twelve districts belonging to the twelve different tribes. Today while visiting in the Holy Land one finds the divisions as made to the twelve tribes of Israel.

Now the book of Genesis is the beginning of all things which includes sin, and the punishment following sin. Now this book of Exodus dealing with the race of slaves in Egypt is typical of the fact that we are born salves of sin. "Ex" means out. Now God uses Moses to bring this race of slaves out of Egypt. He led them by a pillow of cloud by day and a pillow of fire by night with the angel of the covenant in it which was no other than Christ himself. The sprinkled blood on the door post for the preservation of the firstborn of every family is typical of the shed blood of Christ for the redemption of every man, woman and child on the face of the earth. Then we see that Moses as the great deliverer and leader of the people is a true type of the coming Messiah in God's plan of salvation.

You know salvation is not as easy as some people say it is. It does not save the soul to hear me preach God's word. It does not save you to give liberally to benevolent causes. Salvation comes only through the acceptance of the atoning blood of the Christ who guided the children of Israel forty years in the wilderness in a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night. Stephen, outside Stephen's gate in Jerusalem spoke of the church, the followers of Christ in such words as these: "This is he," that was in the church in the wilderness with the angel which spake to Moses in Mount Sinai, and with our fathers, who received the lively oracles to give unto us.

Moses writes of the rulership of the heartless King of Egypt. This king looked upon increasing population of the Israelites and became uneasy that they might become so much mightier and stronger than the Egyptians they might arise and whip the armies of Egypt and thus come into control. He could not see their true values of human worth as citizens and great possibilities as rulers. So today we look upon Engalnd with reverence because she has done everything that has been done for Egypt and Palestine since the time Jesus Christ was upon the earth. O how sad to think that man's inhumanity to man makes him forget the perishing millions in the homeland and foreign lands who are without Christ, the light of the World.

Moses was forty years in training in a school of meditation and prayer to God in the desert of Midian before God called him to go down into Egypt and deliver those Israelites who were over burdened with hard tasks in hard bondage. The king in his fear of their rulership had gone so far as to have the male babies destroyed. Think of how remarable it is that Moses was one of these babies, but his mother provided in her wise scheme to have his life preserved and he grows up and writes all about it himself.

Moses' life was preserved in God's plan for a great purpose. God entrusted him on Mount Sinai with ten commandments to give to the Israelites. I can see Moses in the desert of Midian caring for Jethro's flocks and God comes to him and says, "Moses, behold the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me, and I have already seem the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them. I want you to go down unto Pharoah and bring forth my people, the children of Israel out of Egypt." Moses looks up to God and says: "I am not the Hebrew to go down there because I am no speaker at all. If I go down there they will not believe me, and no doubt will kill me if they get a half a chance."

But God says to Moses, "I will go with thee and will take care of you. I will be with thy mouth." I see Moses as he goes down there with Aaron his brother as spokesman. I see Moses as he stands before Pharoah in the name of "I am that I am," and Paroah says, "What did you come down here for anyway, I would like to see some of your miraculous works, what is that stick you have in your hand for?" Then I see Moses throw it down and it becomes a serpent. I see in old Phaoah's countenance a look of dread and fear.

Someone says, "Well, I don't believe those things." If I did not believe them I would not believe the Bible and could not expect to be saved. It is God's word, and we cannot leave any of it out. Again I see Moses as he stands before them and places his hand in his bosom and then take it out white and leprous. I myself, believe in the power of God to the extent that he could change the stones of this church into bread.

Moses found Parcah so stubborn and self-willed that it took ten plagues before he permitted Moses to begin the journey with the Hebrew children out of their hard bondage. The last plague was that of the death angel passing thru Egypt and killing the firstborn of every home which did not have the blood of the sacrificed lamb sprinkled on the door posts. Was it not awful to think that it took their firstborn of every Egyptian household to end that long and trying contest.

Notice that God had the people of Israel select a lamb without blemish, a male of the first year. It was taken from the flock and kept until the fourteenth day of the same month. Then they were directed as to the preparation and eating of it as the Lord's Passover. The blood was sprinkled over the sides and top door posts of every Israelitish household, and the Lord passed over their household and they standing ready started on the long march before them.

This passover lamb was a type of Christ the coming Messiah who would save the world from sin. In other words it pointed to Christ the Lamb of God who without blemish died out there on Calvary, a sacrifice for your sins and for my sins, for the sins of the world. As the Israelites were to keep the ordinance of the passover in commemoration of God's goodness and deliverance of them in the land of Egypt so we are today to keep the sacraments of the Lord's Supper in commemoration of his shed blood on Calvary for our deliverance from sin.

CHEVROLET TEST CARS NEARING FIVE MILLION MARK

Chevrolet test cars at General Motors proving ground have already been driven upwards of five million miles, according to James M. Crawford, chief engineer of the company, who declared last week that use of this vast outdoor laboratory has been one of the principal reasons for Chevrolet's consistent success.

"An average of twelve test cars are in constant operation, purring up steep inclines, plowing through sand, mud and snow, driving into the teeth of heavy winds, testing speed and endurance on the track and subjecting themselves to every known performance trial," he said. These cars are not retired until they have been driven 30,000 or 50,000 miles.

"After an experimental model attains this mileage it goes to the experimental laboratory to be dismantled. Every part is inspected, all evidences of wear noted, if a detail is not as it should be, work starts immediately developing a new part or process to replace the old one.

The new feature is then built into an entirely new car or three new cars if the operation is vital and this in turn is subjected to the proving ground tests. This cycle continues until we have complete satisfaction. In the case of the new six, 100 different experimental models were tested over a period of four yars.

In addition to using the proving ground to develop new models and engine features, Chevrolet uses it constantly for checking production cars, and it is this phase of the work that is perhaps the most interesting to the public.

In order to get an unbiased opinion of these production jobs, they are selected at random from the shipping platform at Flint and put directly on the proving ground. Here they are given a general check before going on the regular schedule.

After every thousand miles for the first five thousand miles they are ridden by the engineers. After this they are ridden at only 5,000 mile intervals. Performance checks are carefully computed after 2,000, 5,000 and 20,000 miles. At the end of 20,000 miles they are completely dismantled and all parts thoroughly inspected.

In this way a chart is set up showing the progress made in design and manufacturing practice from month to month and year to year.

Follow up work on these production cars brings out forcibly the cooperation that exists between the manufacturing and engineering departments. Not only do the engineers have reports on these cars but the manfacturing division receives separate reports from its own organization inspecting these tests. Thus changes in manfacturing methods can be effected almost immediately.

MR. JOHN W. WILLIAMSON

The funeral of Mr. John W. Williamson was held at Cane Creek Church last Thursday, October 10th, at two o'clock. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery, and the burial was in charge of Undertaker Mell Martin.

The family certainly thanks the people for their kindness shown him through his sickness and death, and also for the many flowers.

The ones left to mourn his death are his wife and three sons, and four daughters, and five brothers and two sisters and many grandchildren and relatives and friends. He joined the Baptist church about eighteen years ago, and lived a Christian life. It was hard to give him up but God knows best in all things. Now, the only thing we can do is to prepare to meet him in that better world where there will be no more griefs nor pains to bear. We truly thank Dr. N. S. Johnson for his faithful service and also thank Mr. Martin.—Written by his daughter, Mrs. W. M. Headley.

BOX SUPPER

There is to be a box supper at the Cooper Junior High School building next Saturday night, October 26, for the benefit of the school. We wish the public to know of this and are asking you to place a notice in your paper. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

CARD OF THANKS

May we express our sincere thanks and appreciation to those who were so helpful and kind during the illness and death of our husband, father and grandfather, A. J. Duncan. May God bestow his richest blessings upon you.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express to my friends and neighbors my thanks to them for their kindness and sympathy shown me during the sickness and death of my beloved husband, Rufus C. Riggins. I also thank them for the flowers. Never will I forget Mr. Martin, the undertaker, for his service, sympathy and help. May the Lord bless each one of you is my prayer.—Mrs. Rufus C. Riggins, Clanton, Ala. R. 4.

SINGING AT COLLINS CHAPEL

The United Singing Society of Chilton County met at Collins Chapel church October 20, 1929.

The singing opened with Blessed Assurance. Prayer followed by Zac Appleton.

New officers were elected for the year: Mr. Akins Collins of Thorsby, Ala., President; Mr. Zac Appleton of Collins Chapel, Vice President; Mrs. Zac Appleton of Collins Chapel, Secretary.

The Crowning Hymns and the Showalter Hymnal Books were adopted for the year.

The following were directors for the afternoon: Mr. Akins Collins, Mr. Enoch Traywick, Mr. E. L. Glasscock, Mr. Lorenzo Sanders, Mr. Arch Glasscock, Mr. Akins Mims. The organists were Miss Genie Collins, Mrs. G. Hubbard, Miss Cubie Littleton.

Mr. E. L. Glasscock dismissed the singing with prayer.

The following communities were represented at Collins Chapel: Union Grove, Mineral Springs, Oak Hill, and Salem.

The society will visit Cane Creek next Sunday afternoon, October 27. Let every community be represented. Please come and prove to the leaders that you are behind them. Don't forget Cane Creek Sunday afternoon at one o'clock, October 27. Come one, come all.

Have you ever stopped to think how thankful we should be for this singing society? Other counties would gladly like to call these leaders to their county. Do you know how to keep them? Stand behind them, go where they go, sing when they sing. To make this the very best singing we must put all we have in it. You will sure get back every bit you put in. We will admit the singers have been very nice about going and helping. But what we want is to make it better. Let's ask ourselves this question: Am I satisfied with what I am giving this singing? If you can't sing you can fill a pew. The singing needs listeners. You can be a listener and a doer too by coming.

Some of the best singers in the State belong to this society. Have you heard them? Come to Cane Creek Sunday afternoon and you will hear them.—Mrs. Appleton.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Mr. and Mrs. Davenwood Freeman and daughter, Miss Eula, have moved to Cullman. They will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Freeman's daughter, Mrs. Anna Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Iva Childress of near Jemison have moved where the Freeman's did live.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion and J. N. Childress went to Birmingham Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Champion recently moved here from Birmingham.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fonza Hilyer are congratulating them on the arrival of a new girl at their home, born October 12. Mother and baby doing nicely.

Misses Nora Franklin, Velma Price, Mr. and Mrs. George Spivey, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Franklin, Messrs. James Franklin, Monroe Franklin, Carl Dawson, Tommie Zuber, Ershel Spivey and W. E. Miskelley all attended the association at Refuge last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Lenoir and baby of Birmingham visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lenoir, Sunday.

Mr. W. E. Miskelley was in Birmingham Thursday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus of Gorgas are visiting Mrs. Marcus's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright.

Miss Ruth Champion and Messrs. Clayborne Champion and Leo Spivey of Thorsby spent Sunday with the Misses Champion.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woods and little daughter, Mary Elizabeth, and Mr. and Mrs. Woodley of Mars Hill visited the Woodleys here Sunday.

There were quite a few visitors at the singing Sunday afternoon. We want to thank everyone for helping, and extend all a cordial invitation to be with us on our next singing Sunday. The following were the leaders for the afternoon: Mr. Euell Dawson, Mr. George Spivey, Mr. O. L. Devaughn, I. D. Huett, A. O. Boswell, and Mr. Wilson. The organists for the afternoon were Nora Franklin, A. O. Boswell, Mrs. Evie Childress and Violet Martin.

PAINS Went Away

"I WAS very much run-down in health. I had a dreadful ache across the middle of my back. I had a dull, tired feeling, and I dreaded the thought of having to do my household tasks. I was tired when I got up in the morning. I got no rest from my sleep, and I was sleepy all day long.

"My husband got a bottle of Cardui for me. It was not long before I began to show a decided improvement. My strength began to return and I felt much more like myself. The sleepy spells gradually quit and the pains in my back and sides disappeared.

"Cardui is a splendid tonic for women. I proved it for myself."—Mrs. J. E. Shelley, Box 22, R. F. D. 1, Electra, Texas.

Millions of Miles of Constant Testing to maintain the outstanding quality and dependability of

The Chevrolet Six

In spite of the fact that a million Chevrolet Sixes have already been placed in the hands of owners, and have proved their performance and stamina by billions of miles of service over every type of highway the nation affords—

—the Chevrolet Motor Company continues to take new Chevrolet Sixes from the assembly line at the factory and subject them to pitiless testing on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground!

This passion for proof—this consistent refusal to accept any tests as final—is one of the fundamental reasons for the overwhelming popularity of Chevrolet cars. For in no other way is it possible to make the Chevrolet Six so sound in design and materials—so dependable in performance—and so economical to operate!

If you are considering the purchase of an automobile, come in and see the new Chevrolet. You will find that it is more than a Six in the price range of the four. In every way it is a finer car than you ever thought possible in the low-price field!

Chilton County Well Represented At Ala. State Fair

Mr. Stapp states that the State Fair at Montgomery was one of the most educational he has ever attended. The exhibitors featured educational demonstrations and comparisons.

One of the interesting features of the Chilton County exhibit, which won second place, was the display showing our income from cotton, strawberries and watermelons.

Chilton County won second place among eleven county exhibits. Macon County won first place, and has done so for the past four years. Mrs. Lida Jones, home demonstration agent in Macon County and formerly of this county, had a very active part in the Macon County exhibit. Mr. Stapp and numerous others stated that if Chilton County had had a home demonstration agent to display the home improvement work, canning, etc., as did Mrs. Jones of Macon County, Chilton would very likely have been awarded first place. The Chilton County exhibit showed the largest variety and best quality agricultural products of any of the exhibits.

Mr. Stapp arranged with Mrs. S. E. Bruce to furnish most of the agricultural products this year. Among other contributors to the exhibit were: Rudolph Moatts, Charles Cooper, J. W. Hamilton, W. T. Bean, Mrs. Berdie McNeill, Mrs. Lawrence Gerald, Frank James of the James Sign Shop and Isabella community.

Mrs. S. E. Bruce received the sweepstakes cup for winning the largest number of blue ribbons on special exhibits. Mrs. Bruce not only won a goodly number of blue ribbons on her special entries, but she also won first place on her individual farm exhibit.

Chilton County was well represented by the county exhibit, the Isabella community exhibit, the individual farm exhibits, made by Mrs. S. E. Bruce and Mr. H. R. Oden, the numerous special exhibits by Mrs. Bruce and the 4-H Calf Club boys.

The calf club boys who showed calves were: Clyde Popwell, president of the Chilton County Calf Club, James Dennis, Secretary and Treasurer of the Calf Club, and Morris Popwell, Quinton Kelly and Morris Foshee. The boys won fourth place as the county exhibit of Jersey calves. They showed the little bull owned by Mr. E. P. Mims and won third place with him in a class of about twelve bulls. The boys won $72.50 on their calves and are very enthusiastic over the work for next year.

They did well this time considering the fact that they had only eight calves to select from, while the boys from Chambers County, who won most of the blue ribbons, had sixty-five calves to select from. Let's all give the Chilton boys a boost in their club work next year. The banks have agreed to help finance any good boy who shows interest in his work.

Mr. J. N. Dennis bought one of the fine young Aberdeen Angus bulls shown at the State Fair by McQueen-Smith Farming Company.

WIFE OF JODIE A. MIMS DEAD

Mrs. Sarah Adeline Mims, age 61, wife of Jodie A. Mims, died Saturday afternoon at the family home between Liberty and Highland. The remains were buried at Liberty Hill Sunday, the funeral being conducted by Rev. Homer Carroll. Martin had charge of the burial.

PROMINENT CITIZEN BURIED AT MT. CARMEL MONDAY

The remains of R. N. Roebuck were buried at Mt. Carmel, Adams Station, Monday afternoon. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. J. Ruddick, assisted by Rev. Mitchell.

Mr. Roebuck died at his home near Mulberry Saturday night. The body was prepared and buried by Mell Martin, undertaker.

JERSEY WHITE GIANTS

Dr. V. J. Gragg has secured from the Hill Crest Farm at Griffin, Georgia, a flock of high grade thoroughbred Jersey White Giant chickens, and will go in for some fancy chicken raising here.

The birds which he secured were bred under the supervision of A. E. Wright, one of the outstanding poultry men of this country. They are of the same type as the Jersey Black Giant, only solid white in color.

The main feature of the Jersey Giant chicken is its unusual size. The hens average about 10 to 12 pounds in weight and the roosters go as high as 15 pounds. One capon on the Hill Crest Farm weighs 17 pounds.

The Jersey White Giant is practically unknown among poultry raisers of this section, and unusual interest will be attached to the venture of Dr. Gragg with his flock.

Murder Charged To Mrs. Dave Cooley

Man Succumbs At Hospital From Wounds Received at Own Home

Mrs. David C. Cooley, 36, of Birmingham, was ordered held on a charge of murder by Coroner Russum Tuesday pending investigation in connection with the shooting of her husband at their home, 901 Ninth Avenue, South, Monday night.

Cooley, 58, died at 3 a. m. at St. Vincent's Hospital, where he was taken in a Johns ambulance following the shooting.

According to City Detectives W. B. Patterson and W. E. DeGroat, Mrs. Cooley admitted firing on her husband with a 12-guage shotgun, thinking he was a burglar, she said.

In a dying statement made by Cooley to the detectives, nurses and a doctor, he said a neighbor had called him from his work as night watchman to come home, "that something was wrong."

"I opened the front door with my key, knocked on the bedroom door and a man emerged. We scuffled on the floor and then my wife appeared and fired into my back," Cooley said, according to Patterson. All lights were on in the front part of the house, Patterson quoted Cooley as saying.

The charge entered Cooley's back under his right shoulder.

The man with whom he was struggling fled after Mrs. Cooley fired, police said.

Mrs. Cooley was hysterical for several hours after the shooting, the detectives said. She was taken to the city jail on a charge of assault with intent to murder. With the charge changed to murder, Mrs. Cooley was to be transferred to the county jail Tuesday. Fingerprints were to be made of the woman some time during the day.

When the detectives arrived at the Cooley home they found the house disarranged and a trail of blood from the door of the front bedroom, where Cooley was shot, to the front porch, where he had dragged himself and where neighbors found him, Patterson said.

In a moment of calm before she was taken to jail, Mrs. Cooley described the details of the shooting to the officers, they said.

?.d now is the time fo ral good men

W. E. Daugette was arrested Tuesday night in connection with the slaying of Cooley. Mrs. Cooley has stated that Daugette was the man who was at her home when her husband came home after being called and told that something was wrong at his house.

Funeral services were held for Mr. Cooley Wednesday at the home of his son. He is survived by his widow, one son, O. D. Cooley, one daughter, Miss Jessie Cooley, four sisters, Mrs. Laura Wade, of Birmingham, Mrs. Belle and Mrs. Sallie Maddox, of Clanton, Mrs. Anna Davis of Attalla; one brother, Howard Cooley, of Clanton.

Dave C. Cooley was a son of the late Jim Cooley, who was Sheriff of Chilton County several years ago.

REV. TRICE PREACHES AT FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

Rev. A. E. Trice preached at Friendship last Sunday at 11 o'clock in the stead of the pastor, Rev. A. L. Foshee, who could not be present on account of the death and burial of a relative at Liberty Hill. Rev. Trice preached a fine sermon which everyone enjoyed. Rev. Foshee was present Sunday night and filled the pulpit at that service. A committee of young girl members of the church has been appointed by Bro. Foshee to get everyone possible in the community to attend service next Fourth Sunday.

Also, everybody remember that the singing society will meet the fourth Sunday afternoon in November, and the Poplar-Maple Springs singers have agreed to meet with us. Everybody arrange to come.

"Uncle Dock" Wells Has Gone Home; Buried At Cedar Grove Saturday

Written by W. B. Corley, A Long-Time and Cherished Friend Of The Deceased

Late last Thursday night the name of "Uncle Dock" was called on the roster of Heaven and the weary, though ever faithful spirit, plumed its joyous flight to that beautiful city whose founder and builder was God.

Rev. Archibald C. Wells, known and loved all over this section as "Uncle Dock" was nearing the eigthy- fourth milestone on his journey down the highway of life. Early in life he was wedded to Miss Mollie Todd, of Macon County, and hand in hand they traveled together until some years ago the call came for her, and saddened and lonely, "Uncle Dock" bowed submissively with an humble "Thy will be done" and faced the bleak future bravely until his named was called Thursday night.

Nearly fifty years ago he entered the ministry and delivered his first sermon at Mountain Springs, a church about 6 miles east of Clanton, and since that hour he dedicated his life to the cause and has been daily and hourly faithful to the work in his Master's vineyard. He really believed in a living, personal God of mercy, who always had time to hear and answer every single supplication sent up to Him by His obedient children. "Uncle Dock" did more praying than anyone I ever knew, not for himself so much, but always burdened by the misfortunes of his friends and neighbors.

The effect of two prayers he made in a community not so very far from Clanton came within my personal observation and knowledge. A splendid good citizen, neighbor and prosperous farmer lived there. He made no pretentions towards Christianity himself. It was all kind of a joke to him. This man had a wife and two little boys. The wife was stricken with typhoid fever and the doctors fought a losing fight from the start. The lady was just hovering on the verge of the grave and all hope was abandoned. The tortured husband had done all he could do and must just stand by and see the darling wife of his bosom pass out of his life and home. Finally the husband thought of "Uncle Dock" and hastened to see him and ask him to come and pray for his wife. Of course "Uncle Dock" hastened to this stricken home. Upon his arrival he told the gentleman that he wanted the two little boys brought in and for him and them to kneel with him in that prayer. The boys came in and he had them to kneel on each side of him by the mother's bed. He then told the husband to also get down on his knees. He objected saying he did not feel worthy, but finally he was induced to comply and "Uncle Dock" took the dying mother and her little family to the Throne of Grace. When the prayer was finished he told the mother that the fever would leave her that night and that she would be much improved the next morning. It "happened" just that way and in a very short time she was up and well. Some of you might say that was only a coincidence. True enough but it occurred just as related.

Immediately after these events occurred another rather strange coincidence happened to this same family. The father owned an excellent farm and one of the finest grape vineyards you ever saw. The man made great quantities of wine and sold it. "Uncle Dock" remonstrated with him about this wine industry, but without result, so he told him finally that he was going to ask God to destroy the vineyard, all except a vine or so for the family. Soon after this the flowering vines began to wither and die, and all but three went to naught. That was another "coincidence" of course, but the vines were never reset, the wine business was abandoned and the land put in corn and cotton. Very soon after this this man united with the church and was a power for good in that community.

That is the sort of man "Uncle Dock" was. Kind to everyone, unassuming and humble in his sphere, but who can ever know what a power he wielded before the throne of grace.

He was only human and like all the balance of us he may have had his moments of human irritation, but the guiding compass that he steered by always pointed, like the magnetic needle true to the throne of grace.

The remains were buried by the side of his wife at Cedar Grove Saturday at high noon. Rev. Mr. Nelson preached his funeral at the Congregational church in Thorsby and was assisted in the services by Rev. E. W. Butler. One incident that deserves special mention was the fact that Judge Reynolds, for the first time in his life at an occasion of that kind, made a most touching talk at the grave that told how deeply he loved this aged pilgrim who was no more.

A large cortage followed the body to the grave and many beautiful floral offerings mutely whispered that a dearly loved friend had gone to his great reward.

The deceased left two sons, Henry and Keener and two daughters, Mrs. David Lodge and the other one Maggie, is married and in the far West, and her full name unknown to the writer. A large number of other relatives, and also bereaved and to these and the many friends, together with myself, can only say, "God's will be done."

A. & P. Store Coming to Clanton Soon

Will Open in W. T. Baker Place About December the First

The Union-Banner has authorative information that a store will be opened in Clanton by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company some time between November 15 and December 1st. The location of the store will be the Arthur Johnson Building, where the W. T. Baker business is now being closed out.

The Johnson Building has been leased by the V. J. Elmore 5c, 10c, and $1.00 Stores. Mr. Elmore states that he has subleased the front half of the building to the A & P Company, which will be used by them for a retail grocery store. The back part of the building will be retained by Mr. Elmore for use as a warehouse in connection with his nickel and dime store business.

It is stated that work will begin November the first to remodel the building to suit the requirements of the A & P Store. A new front will be arranged, and other alterations to suit the needs of the grocery store.

The Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company is said to be the largest retail distributors of groceries and food products in the world. They operate thousands of retail stores in every part of the United States.

MRS. BRUCE WINS SWEEPSTAKES AT THE STATE FAIR

Mrs. Ed Bruce carried off the highest honors for prizes at the State Fair at Montgomery last week.

Her hsuband came to The Union-Banner office Tuesday and showed us the ribbons which the exhibits of Mrs. Bruce won.

She was awarded second place for the best county exhibit, which was a cash premium of $300.

She won first prize for the best individual farm exhibit, which amounted to $150.

In one group she had 27 blue ribbons which she received for the best exhibits of 27 different individual agricultural products. Theses premiums ranged from 50 cents to $25 each.

In another group she had six red ribbons for second prize on six different agricultural products. These ranged from 50 cents to $10 each.

The Greil Brothers Cup for the best five stalks of cotton, the best lint and the best peck of cotton seed was awarded to Mrs. Bruce also.

Then to cap the climax, when the sweepstakes prize was awarded to the person who received the most blue ribbons at the fair, it was found that that honor was also coming to Mrs. Bruce.

We congratulate Mrs. Bruce upon her energy and intense interest in presenting the agricultural products of her home county to the outside world. She has been taking things to the state fairs for many years, but we believe she has had greater success this year than ever before. That speaks well for Mrs. Bruce and Chilton County.

RADIO INSTALLED IN FARM BUREAU OFFICE IN CLANTON

Mr. Marvin Carter of the Carter Electric Shop announces that he has just this week completed installation of a big new Atwater-Kent radio receiving set in the office of the county farm bureau here. We understand that the State organization had the set put in.

The purpose of this set in the farm bureau office is to give the farmers of the county, through this office, to keep in touch with the market quotations, weather forecasts and other things which would be of help and interest to the agricultural development of Chilton County. The radio will prove to be a great deal of help in this respect.

BAD HEAD-ON WRECK AT SOUTH CLANTON

Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock a Nash coach and a truck belonging to the White Packing Company had a head-on collision at South Clanton on the cement highway. Both the truck and the car were badly damaged, and two persons were hurt. A lady in the Nash, which belonged to some people from Birmingham, was cut and bruised up considerably and a man who was riding in the truck was pretty badly hurt. Both were carried to the hospital in Clanton by Martin's ambulance.

It is reported that the driver of the truck was drunk when he was picked up at the scene of the wreck. He was carried to the hospital, where he got all right as soon as he had time to sober up, reports say.

Dr. M. E. Lazenby, editor of the Alabama Christian Advocate, preached at the Methodist Church in Clanton last Sunday. He was accompanied on his trip from Birmingham by Hon. J. O. Middleton, assistant U. S. District Attorney.

Agricultural Short Course To Be Held At High School

At a recent meeting of representatives of the Kiwanis Club, Farm Bureau, and Department of Education held at County Agent Stapp's office, plans were laid for an agricultural short course to be held at Chilton County High School November 11th and 12th. Posters, circulars, etc., are now being distributed advertising the short course and large crowds are expected to attend the programs which will begin each day at 10 a. m., 1:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

At the meeting held at Mr. Stapp's office Mr. Stapp was made Executive Chairman of all committees and the following committees were named:

Reception Committee: J. Mell Martin, Chairman, Arthur Willis, S. J. Ezell.

Program Committee: C. E. Stapp, Chairman, J. C. Jones, W. L. Popwell.

School Committee: B. Lawrence, chairman, L. C. Warr, W. E. Martin, J. P .Montgomery, Earle Thomas, J. L. Wilson.

Arrangement Committee: L. C. Warr, Principal County High School, and C. C. H. S. boys.

Publicity and Invitation Committee: J. N. Dennis, chairman, W. M. Wyatt, Billy Smith, Mrs. C. E. Stapp, Miss Madge Scarborough, B. Lawrence, W. L. Parrish, J. O. Turner.

Finance Committee: J. C. Page, chairman, J. R. Mullins, H. G. Boyd.

Women's Committee: Mrs. J. Q. Wade, chairman, Mrs. D. O. Manning, Mrs. Arthur Willis, Mrs. C. N. Parnell, Mrs. Gerald Hubbard, Miss Lena Downs, Mrs. Will Gulledge, Miss Nolen Meroney, Mrs. C. S. Howard, Mrs. S. P. Shaw.

Speakers of national reputation will be present to speak and entertain at the short course. The short course will be of interest to every man, woman and child in Chilton County.

Mrs. Stapp and others will arrange to take care of the babies of any mothers who may wish to attend.

It is expected that a large number of school children will attend the first meeting, Monday, Nov. 11, and hear Mr. Mobley, a speaker of national reputation, speak on, "The Educational Use of Knowledge."

Watch next week issue of the papers for program for the entire short course, then arrange to attend every session that you possibly can.—J. N. Dennis, chairman Publicity com.

BRUCE McKEE DIED IN TEXAS

The body of James Bruce McKee arrived in Clanton Monday. It was shipped from Electra, Texas, where he died Friday, October 25th. The remains were buried Tuesday afternoon in the Clanton cemetery.

Mr. McKee was 44 years old and was a brother of Osce McKee of Clanton. He was married and is survived by his wife and several children. Martin had charge of the burial.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture annually reports on 80 field crops and 10 livestock commodities, giving crop conditions and market news.

LITTLEJOHN-FOSHEE WEDDING

The following announcement has been received with much interest by the many friends of the contracting parties:

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Foshee announce the marriage of their daughter, Grace, to Mr. Thomas Jefferson Littlejohn, on Sunday, October 27th, 1929, Clanton, Alabama."

Thomas Jefferson Littlejohn is the society way of saying Tom Littlejohn, the well-known and highly popular manager of Clanton Motors, local Ford Dealers in Clanton. He was formerly Sheriff of Chilton County, and more recently a candidate for Probate Judge of Chilton County.

His bride is a most lovely young lady who has been with Chicago Sales Company for some years.

Their many friends throughout the county will learn of their marriage with much interest, and all join in a shower of good wishes for their happiness together.

NEW FILLING STATION BEING STARTED

Excavation and foundation work has been started for a new automobile service station on the McSwain property at the northeast corner of the intersection of the Selma Highway with the Birmingham Highway in Clanton. The location may be otherwise given as the northeast corner of the crossing of Seventh Street and Fourth Avenue North.

We understand that the place will retail the Texas Company products which are being distributed in this territory by R. M. Howe, with the central distributing plant at Lomax. We have not yet learned who will be in charge of the new place.

CHEVROLET "SCHOOL"

At Flint, Michigan 50 picked youths between the ages of 16 and 19 years will soon begin an educational course in which books will be conspcious because of their total absence. They will attend class in overalls, and drafting boards, micrometers, wrenches and screw drivers will take the place of fountain pens, blackboards and note books. Salaries will supplant credits in this, the world's most novel educational plant.

It will be an institution endowed by Chevrolet Motor Company, and its faculty will be composed of hard-headed production men with years of factory experience. At the head of the school will be C. F. Barth, vice-president in charge of manufacturing one of whose life dreams will be realized when the first class is held.

Here it might be well to explain that this unique training place is not a school. The word "school" is one which Mr. Barth wants permanently dissociated from this newest Chevrolet undertaking. It is definitely a shop, operated under shop discipline, and maintaining shop hours. It is to be known officially as the Chevrolet Apprentice Shop.

There will be many features to this novel training place, but it is doubtful if any more interesting or more significant than the reason for its conception. And no one can make this more clear than Mr. Barth, himsilf:

"The Apprentice Shop is actually a necessity," he told his visitor last week. "Chevrolet Motor Company, like all other large manufacturers has for several years past noted a decrease in good all around mechanics. When the automobile industry started there was no such shortage. The founders of the industry were themselves super mechanics, and in every instance they surrounded themselves with competent all around men.

"The opportunities for training men in the early days were relatively easy. Shop forces were smaller and every ambitious worker had the opportunity of working at as many jobs as he chose.

"Then volume production came along and specialists were developed. In order to get sufficient cars to the public each man had to be master of one operation. Changes about were dangerous because precision workmanship such as Chevrolet employs can take no chances with the novice.

"Because of the scores of good mechanics who got their training in the pioneer days of the industry no shortage was actually felt until recently. Now it has grown quite apparent throughout the industry at large.

"Chevrolet by taking this step, has taken the bull by the horns. Because of the growth of aviation and the inspiration of Lindbergh the country has thousands of youths who have become intensely interested in mechanics.

"Our shop is seeking just this type of youth, and will cooperate with him in every way to make him a finished workman. Naturally Chevrolet expects to benefit by the move, yet there are no string attached to the course. If the youngster graduating from our shop feels that he wants to go elsewhere, the company will put no obstacles in his path.

"We feel, however, that we will be able to make a position with Chevrolet sufficiently attractive to keep the majority of these young men with us. But this is solely up to us.

No requirements other than that the apprentice have mechanical ability are necessary. Whether or not applicant has a high school education does not affect his chances for getting into the apprentice shop. It makes this difference, however, on the length of the course. Men who are not high school graduates will be required to complete 10,029 hours, approximately four years of training. High school graduates will be expected to complete the training in two thirds this time.

The apprentice will work 50 hours a week and will be paid from the outset with regular increases in salary until the course is completed. A new building is being constructed to house the undertaking. It is to be one story and be 60 by 160 feet in dimensions. Inasmuch as all the first applicants are Flint youths they will reside at their own homes.

Dr. V. J. Gragg and W. M. Wyatt made a trip by auto to Griffin, Ga., last Sunday.

The South's Highest Quality Flour

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for November 3

RESPECT FOR FIGHTFUL AUTHORITY

(World's Temperance Sunday)

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:13-17; Rom. 13:1-14, 1 Peter 2:13-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why We Have Laws.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Why We Have Laws.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Obeying the Law.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Making Effective the Will of the Community.

Though our citizenship is in heaven, we have obligation to the government under which we live.

I. Obligation to Pay Tribute (Mark 12:13-17).

This teaching concerning the tribute money came in answer to the question put to Jesus by representatives of the Pharisees and Herod. They would gladly have killed him, but they feared the people. Their only hope was to discredit him among the people.

1. Their question (v. 14).

Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar or not? The Pharisees contended that since God was the real king of Israel, it was not obligatory—yea, even sinful—to pay taxes to a heathen king. The Herodians were supporters of Herod. With flattery on their lips, they put this subtle question. For Christ to have answered "yes" would have discredited Him with the people, and to have said "no" would have made Him liable to arrest as an enemy of the government.

2. Jesus' reply (vv. 15-17).

He requested a coin to be brought and inquired as to whose image and superscription it bore, declaring that those who accept the coin of Caesar should pay taxes to Caesar. Thus the Lord escapes their trap and inculcates a principle which applies to all time and conditions as to the Christian's responsibility to civil government.

II. The Christian's Obligation to the State (Rom. 13:1-7).

The believer is a citizen as well as a Christian.

1. Obedience to rulers (vv. 1-4).

This obligation is upon all Christians. Civil government is ordained of God, and rulers are His representatives. To refuse obedience to civil authority is to resist God. This does not mean that a Christian at the behest of the state should do that which is inherently wrong. The same is true of the child in its responsibility to its parents. While obedience to parents is the will of God for children, this does not imply that the child is under obligation to do that which is morally wrong, at the command of the parents. Submission to authority is the law of the believer's life.

2. The spirit in which the Christian renders obedience to rulers (v. 5).

He should regard it as his obligation because it is morally right.

3. Methods of expressing this obedience (vv. 6, 7).

(1) In the payment of personal and property taxes. The citizen who enjoys the benefits of government is morally bound to support it.

(2) Payment of duty upon merchandise, and license fees. The business exchange between nations must be regulated. For such regulations, expense is incurred, for which benefit the citizen should pay.

(3) Veneration for magistrates—"Fear to whom fear."

Those who have the fear of God in their hearts will venerate their rulers, God's representatives.

(4) "Honor to whom honor." Civil officers should be honored because of the ministry they perform.

III. The Spirit of Loyalty to Authority (1 Pet. 2:13-17).

The loyalty of the Christian to right authority should be glad and free. The Christian recognizes the necessity of social order, and will graciously submit to the authority of rulers and faithfully perform his obligation as a citizen, not through cringing fear, but as the Lord's free man, for the Lord's sake. By means of this free submission as God's servant, he puts to silence the ignorance of foolish men (vv. 15, 16).

1. Honor all men (v. 17).

He will see in every man the image of God and therefore give honor to him. A Christian will attend to the proprieties of life among all classes and in all relations.

(2) Love the brotherhood (v. 17). The Christian has a peculiar love for those who are of the same household.

(3) Fear God (v. 17). This is filial, reverential fear.

(4) Honor the king (v. 17). This had a peculiar significance, for in all probability the wicked Nero was then the reigning monarch.

COLLEGE STUDENTS WILL BE HOSTESSES

Birmingham, Oct. 28.—Members of the Birmingham-Southern and Howard College Y. W. C. A. will be joint hostesses October 25-27 to the State Y. W. C. A. conference to be held at Camp Mary Munger, a few miles from Birmingham. Representatives from 12 colleges will be present at the meeting to assist in making plans and programs for the coming year.

June Sauls from Livingston Normal is president of the State Conference and Beatrice Newman, a student from Howard College is business manager. Miss Rosa Strickland will have charge of the devotional exercises during the conference and will also lead all discussion groups. Friday night will be "song and get-together night." Saturday morning the new officers and all business matters will be taken up. Saturday night, following a dinner, each of the twelve colleges will present a stunt.

CANE CREEK

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in The Union-Banner to say a few words about the singing last Sunday afternoon. It was one of the best ever had at this place. The house was called to order by our chairman, Mr. E. C. Traywick, who sung 164 in the Showalter song book. Prayer was offered by P. C. Weldon. Then the chairman appointed a committee composed of Mr. Jasper Oaks, Floyd Little, and Amie Boswell to arrange the program. The directors who sang two or three songs were Mr. Floyd Little, Lorenzo Sanders, Amie Boswell, Jasper Oaks, Sammie Yates, Johnnie Cleckler, Akins Mims, Akins Collins, Prof. Appleton, and Johnnie Minor. Organists were Mr. Amie Boswell, Miss Genie Collins and Lillie Mae Weldon.

We were sorry the Glass Brothers couldn't be with us on account of a death of a relative, but invite them and the United Singing Society and all other singing societies from other churches to cooperate with us in our singing for that is the only way to make a singing what it ought to be, for we only get out of a singing what we put into it. So come and let's try to make 1930 the best singing year in the history. There were several directors here whom we couldn't use for we didn't have the time, but come back the 4th Sunday in November and we will try to arrange to sing all the visitors any way if we don't our own people. Bro. Yates dismissed the crowd with prayer.

We have changed our preaching day from the 2nd Saturday and Sunday until the 1st Saturday and Sunday. Come next Saturday and Sunday at eleven o'clock and hear our pastor, Rev. A. E. Trice, and see what good he has to tell us. We also have Sunday school each Sunday morning at ten o'clock, and invite visitors to any of our services. We want everybody to feel welcome when they get to this place.

W. M. U. QUARTERLY MEETING

The Chilton County W. M. U. quarterly meeting was held with Chestnut Creek church on October 24, with our Supt., Mrs. W. J. Billingsley, in charge. We had a good representative from several of our churches, good program and good reports of much work for our Lord being done. The harvest is great, and the laborers are few, but those faithful few feel that they must keep pressing onward and upward in our Lord's work.

After Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Jones' talks, and several others, the Sardis ladies gave a playlet on "How to Kill a W. M. S." They told of many things that we let come first with us that surely will kill not only a womans' missionary society but our interest in the church in its many branches of its work. Dear W. M. S. member, let me beg you in the name of our Lord and Saviour to wake up and get about our Master's work. He needs you, we need you. Oh, how He needs true and faithful workers.—Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Secretary and Treasurer.

HAVE YOU AN UNMARKED GRAVE?

How unthoughtful is he who permits the remains of a loving Mother, Father, Sister, Brother or a little Child to rest in an unmarked grave with nothing to distinguish that hallowed spot from the commonplace surface of the earth, indifferently trampled by man and beast. Great comfort will be gained by consecrating the spot where sleeps the departed with a beautiful and lasting monument.

ISABELLA NEWS

Isabella foot ball boys played Verbena boys October 25th on Verbena's Court. The Isabella boys were defeated, but nevertheless we are still working to build a better team.

The Isabella team will go to West Blocton November 1, to play. We are encouraging our boys, and we feel sure of a victory.

Ruth and Cato Roebuck are absent from school on account of the death of their father, Mr. R. N. Roebuck. The family has our greatest sympathy.

Mr. D. O. Manning and family and Mr. J. D. Griffin and family attended the Fair at Montgomery.

Isabella won a $100 prize at the State Fair. We are very proud of our school.

Mr. Earl Thomas carried his agriculture boys to the State Fair Tuesday.

The Chorus Class entertained at Chapel last Thursday. There is a large chorus class and they add much to the entertainment of the school. Mrs. C. N. Parnell is the instructor.

Jewell Foshee was elected Captain of the basket ball team. We are looking forward to a successful basket ball team under the instruction of Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin.

The Senior Class ring have arrived. We have eighteen pupils enrolled in the Senior class now.—Jewell Foshee, news reporter.

The American Federation of Labor is going to make a drive to roganize the South. Since it won't have to worry about postoffice and internal revenue collector appointments it may have better luck than the Republicans.

FREE ADMISSION TO ALL SHORT COURSE LECTURES

No Charge of Any Kind to Be Made —All Are Invited

"Equal to any ever given on the chautauqua platform." That is the expressed opinion of many people who have heard the lectures that are to be given at the agricultural short course to be held in the Chilton County High School auditorium on November 11 and 12.

Despite the high standard of the lectures, demonstrations and motion pictures, no admission charge of any kind will be made at any of the meetings. The short course is to be held for no other purpose than to help the people solve their many problems of the farm, the home and the community—to not only interest them, but to encourage and inspire them as well—and everybody, men, women, boys and girls, from town and from country, will be cordially welcomed at every session.

New thoughts, new ideas based both upon scientific experiments and investigations conducted by many agricultural colleges, and upon practical experiences of "dirt farmers" everywhere, will be presented in the belief that they will be of help to us in meeting the difficulties that we are constantly encountering.

And these facts, important to all of us, will be presented by men and women who are numbered among the best agricultural lecturers and demonstrators in the country in a manner that is interesting, fascinating, gripping.

Local committees are preparing a program that will include discussions of the farm and home problems that are most common in this community, and the Agricultural Extension Department of the International Harvester Company, which is cooperating with our local people in conducting the short course, is doing, and will continue to do everything possible to make it of great and lasting benefit to all who attend.

The schools have been especially invited to cooperate in the meeting. Farmers and business men are urged to make this their short course. They will be benefited much more than they may now realize. All women—housewives, club women, teachers; the woman on the farm, the woman in town—will be greatly interested and greatly helped if they will attend as many of the meetings as possible.

They will be particularly benefited by hearing the talks of Miss Grace Marian Smith—farm girl, farm woman, rural teacher, city teacher, extension worker for the U. S. Department of Agriculture during the war and able lecturer and writer on household and other subjects relating to women's work.

H. S. Mobley and James L. Kraker will have prominent places on the program. Mr. Mobley is a practical farmer and a nationally recognized leader in agricultural progress. His talks on "The Educational Use of Knowledge" and "Communities Are Made of Folks" linger long in the memories of those who hear them.

Mr. Kraker is a prominent horticulturist and fruit grower whose talks are always helpful.

EN ROUTE EPISTLES

To receive a letter beginning "We are now flying above the State of So-and-So" is still a novel thrill to stay-at-homes. To scribble such an epistle is thrice as thrilling to the air passenger.

Air transportation companies have learned the value of catering to thrills of this sort. Passengers on the Colonial Air Transport line from Boston to New York are supplied with blue morocco leather portfolios embossed in gold, and white linen stationery with the company insignia, an airplane and the two significant words, "In Flight", upon it. On the Transcontinental Air Transport lines, a table is provided which hinges into the wall and fits down over the seat like a pullman table. Stationery bearing the TAT trademark and a drawing of an airplane in fleecy clouds is also furnished by the company.

The popularity of aerial correspondence is attested by the report from one transport line of a consumption of 6,000 sheets of notepaper and envelopes, and 9,000 postal cards in six months.

"NEVER TO BE ENTANGLED"

The joint statement of President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald contained one phrase so frank and so realistic that it deserves to be singled out and remembered. It honestly faced the differences in the American and British positions, saying "one will never consent to become entangled in European diplomacy and the other is resolved to pursue a policy of active cooperation with its European neighbors." This is another typical and most welcome example of that new attitude toward Anglo-American relations—an attitude which recognizes the differences and seeks to understand, rather than gloss them over.

A declaration by Prisedent Hoover that the United States "will never consent to become entangled in European diplomacy" is momentous at any time. If issued by itself it would go into front-page headlines. When issued at this moment of Anglo-American understanding it assumes even greater significance. It shows that, for all our limitless zeal to work for peace, we are still mindful of the advice of George Washington against entangling alliances and still determined to benefit the world by allowing our American system the most unhampered chances for its fullest development. Neither the President nor the Prime Minister could have said anything more appealing to American idealism or more satisfactory to American common sense.—New York Tribune.

HALLOWE'EN FESTIVAL AT VERBENA SCHOOL

A Hallowe'en festival will be held at the Verbena High School, October 31, at 7:30 p. m. under the auspices of the P.-T. A. The committee under the direction of Mrs. Barnett Deramus is working hard, and this promises to be one of the most successful ventures ever undertaken by the Verbena P.-T. A.

A number of booths will be provided where one may purchase novelties, sandwiches, candy, peanuts, ice cream, coffee, cold drinks, etc.

Among the outstanding attractions are a yo-yo contest, suitcase race, mind reading, fortune telling, the Gold Dust Twins, the crazy house, the chamber of horrors, and others.

The public is cordially invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

ORDER STRAWBERRY PLANTS

Anyone wanting strawberry plants should place their orders with J. N. Dennis or L. E. Diefenderfer. By so doing a saving of 50 cents a thousand may be made if enough orders are gotten together to make a total of 100 thousand. See Dief or Dennis at once.

ANTIOCH NEWS

Please give me a space in The Banner for a few words from this place.

Sunday was our regular preaching day. Rev. Limbrick preached a real nice sermon. It was his last sermon before the big conference at Montgomery, Wednesday, October 30. We hope to get him back for our pastor another year. Everybody seems to enjoy hearing him preach very much.

Our Sunday school at this place is progressing nicely. Everybody is taking an interest in our Sunday school and we hope to have a larger crowd next Sunday.

Mr. Clifton Crane and family from Maplesville spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Crane.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cox spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Ratliff.

Misses Hixie Mae and Lilla Belle Golden spent the day Sunday with Misses Annie and Rosa Ratliff.

Mr. Joe Davis and family from Stanton spent the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Ratliff.

Mr. Harry Walker from Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Deramus.

Mrs. Mollie Klinner from Burnsville spent the day Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Virge Klinner.

A crowd from this place attended the singing at Highland church Sunday afternoon.—A Reader.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Our Sunday School is doing fine and we want to see a big crowd out next Sunday.

Bro. Lockhart will preach next Saturday night and Sunday, and we want to see a large crowd out to hear him.

And don't forget that next Sunday afternoon is our regular singing afternoon, and we want all friends and lovers of music to come and help us out.—A Reader.

TACKY PARTY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the Tacky Party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Baker Saturday night, October 26, 1929. There was ice cream and other refreshments served to the crowd which contained about 100 people or more. Everybody seemed to behave and enjoy themselves very nicely. Miss Eugene Vinzant won the prize by being dressed the tackiest. There was about $10.00 or more made which went for the benefit of the new school building. Thanking everybody for their nice behavior.—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Connell, Clanton, Ala.

Kemmie Easterling and Pud Walker went to Cramton Bowl last Friday and attended Talladega Mutes vs. Pike Road football game.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY MET AT CANE CREEK

Chilton County singing society visited Cane Creek October 27, 1929. All the surrounding communities were represented. That is what we call a good spirit.

The Cane Creek people gave us a hearty welcome to come back. That means they really like to hear good singing.

Mineral Springs welcomes you to meet there and enjoy a good singing Sunday afternoon, November 3, 1929. They are expecting us so do not disappoint them.

COLLINS CHAPEL JUNIOR HIGH

Our enrollment is 204 pupils now. We are expecting to have another teacher in a few days which we will appreciate very much. This new teacher will make five teachers in all.

There were eighty present at New Salem at Sunday school Sunday. Both of the churches of this community are improving nicely. We have organized a B. Y. P. U. at New Salem. Everyone has an invitation to attend regular. There will be preaching at this place next Sunday and Sunday night. Everyone come.

There will be preaching at Collins Chapel church Sunday, November 17, and singing in the afternoon. Everyone is invited to come.—News Reporter of Collins Chapel Junior High School.

NOTICE—SINGING

There will be an all-day singing at Mars Hill church 4 miles west of Jemison next Sunday, in the old books. Everybody is invited to come and be with us and let us make it a great day. Those who are where it is convenient, bring along a well-filled box or basket of something to eat. Yours for a good singing.—J. N. Scott.

N. Duffee of Jemison was a visitor to Clanton last Monday.

HALLOWE'EN CARNIVAL

Everyone is cordially invited to the Hallowe'en Carnival at Jemison High School auditorium Friday night, November 1, at 7:30. This is given under the auspices of the P.-T. A.

Hot dogs, cold drinks, sandwiches, coffee, hot chocolate, peanuts and candy will be sold. Madame Bollesky will be there to tell your fortune. Also be sure to see "The Ball Game", take the "Trip Through Hades," and visit "The Fish Pond."

No general admission charged. Plenty of fun for everyone. Bring your nickels and follow the crowd.

EAST VIEW

Rev. A. C. Nelson was called to Thorsby Saturday to conduct a funeral service. The death angel visited the home of Mr. K. Wells and took away his aged father, Rev. A. C. Wells, "Uncle Dock Wells." He had been ill for a long time, and on last Thursday night passed to the sweet beyond. His last words were, "Thank the Lord."

He was 82 years of age. He gave his life for others. He has served as pastor of many churches in Chilton, Autauga and Elmore Counties. He was one of the greatest men of faith the writer has ever known.

Funeral services were held in the Congregational church at Thorsby. Rev. A. C. Nelson preached the funeral. Rev. E. W. Butler assisted Rev. A. C. Nelson in the funeral services. The pallbearers were four of his grandsons, as follows, Oscar Wells, Festus Wells, Arthur Eiland and Pyror Eiland. His remains were laid to rest at Cedar Grove cemetery.

He is not dead but sleepeth.

Rev. A. C. Nelson and family motored to Eclectic late Saturday afternoon where he filled his regular appointment there Saturday night and Sunday.

We are very glad to learn that Mr. J. A. Dobbs, our truck driver for the East View school, has got a new body for his truck.

Prof. Jimmie Williams and family of Enterprise were visitors at church Sunday night, but on account of much sickness in the community the congregation was very small.

Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Mamie Griffin and Mrs. Elna Mims are on the sick list. Many others are sick with colds.

Mrs. Beulah Smith was the guest of her mother, Mrs. M. A. Hutson, Sunday.

Mr. Leonard Rushing and wife visited Mr. and Brs. Bob Griffin Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Rushing and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Huett were visiting relatives in Elmore County Sunday.

Mr. J. A. Dobbs and family were the guests of Mr. Charlie Mims and family Sunday afternoon.

There will be Sunday school next Sunday at 10 a. m., at the Congregational church, and preaching at 11 a. m. at the Baptist church.

THE FAMILY NEXT DOOR

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

SUBJECT: "THE VICTORIOUS CHRISTIAN LIFE IN CHRIST JESUS."

This morning I beg you to pray and study with me on the victorious Christian life in Christ or through Christ by the help of Christ. For years the writer quoted the last part of the 15th chapter of 1st Corinthians which is very helpful, comforting, and uplifting. I repeated these words to try to cheer and comfort tired, bleeding hearts. The verse is this: "But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." For years I believed that verse meant only that Christ would have the victory over death and the grave. But, O, my friends, that verse means a great deal more than that to us. It means that we are to have victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Sometime ago someone put in my hands a little book by Dr. Trumbull, editor of the Sunday School Times. This book was written on the victorious Christian life in Christ Jesus. I don't remember a sentence in it, but the impression which it left upon my mind is that it is the privilege of the child of God, the Christian to live a victorious Christian life thru Jesus Christ, and to God be the honor, glory, power and dominion and the victory. Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. His right hand and holy arm giveth us the victory.

In speaking of this life someone has said that it is a higher life and our privilege to live it. Someone else has said that it is a spiritual life and we need a deeper spiritual life. Another person comes along and says that it is a holier life and we need that. Another friend says that it is a surrendered life. Another friend says it is a dedicated life. Another friend pauses and says it is a sanctified life. Not long ago I read a book on the Spirit-Filled Life and another one on the Upper-Room Life.

My friends, in the stillness of this beautiful morning which God hath given us in which to live and glorify Him I must confess that the victorious Christian life means to me all that has been mentioned, and certainly I need it all and perhaps you do. O how I feel the need of this victorious Christian life through Jesus Christ.

The victorious Christian life is one that must be lived in Jesus Christ. It must be a life of absolute dependence upon Jesus Christ for all that we have and are and hope to be. It is a life of absolute dependence upon Jesus Christ for victory. That is the greatest thought one ever had. Just listen to Christ's teachings through the apostle Paul in these encouraging words: "I can do all things thru Christ which strengtheneth me." Then we pause in our hungering and thirsting after this victorious life in Christ Jesus and listen again to Paul in his own experience writing to the Phillipian Christians and to us concerning his absolute dependence upon Jesus Christ; a reflection of Jesus's own words: "Without me ye can do nothing, but with me ye can do all things."

The victorious Christian life has another great characteristic. It is a life lived in God's plan. Is your life lived in God's plan? Is my life lived in God's plan? The very God whose eye is on the sparrow when it falls to the ground, the very God who has not only given you the hairs of your head, but also numbered them, the very God who has ordered your ways and directed your steps, the very God who controls the universe certainly is a God who plans your life and my life.

This life also means that I must live a life of submission to the will of a holy, just, loving, and care-taking Father. Is my life and is your life in submission to God's will? In the silence of this lovely morning I wish to say that the sweetest, the safest, and the holiest place for your life and for my life is in the Will of God. I love to sing and repeat these words:

"Have Thine own way, Lord, Have Thine own way; Thou art the potter, I am the clay."

O, to live in the Will of God which is lined with love, peace, and blessings.

There are some things which we must get rid of to have a victorious Christian life. First, I must get a victory over selfishness. I must not live for myself and pray for myself so much. I must not reach out for things just to satisfy my own desires. I must think of others, pray for others and reach out a helping hand to them. Listen to these words of Christ: "If any man (anyone) will come after me, let him deny himself (not live for himself) take up his cross, and follow me." That is, Christ meant that if we would follow Him we must deny ourselves and do for others; because in following Him we are following in the footsteps of a self-sacrificed life.

Paul in writing his experience in the inspired letter to the Galatian Christians and to us says, "I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me." Paul means the "I" life, the self-centered life is nailed to the cross with Christ. O, how I crave victory over a self-centered life this morning.

Another thing which we must get a victory over is an ungrateful life. An ungrateful life is an awful thing. It is so sinful to have an ungrateful life, not only to God, but also to men, women and little children. Visiting in the Holy Land from Mount Carmel to Nazareth the guide points out a place called Gannin for years. It is believed that it was here Christ cleansed ten lepers by reaching out His hand and touching them in His great compassion and saying, "I will, be thou clean." I see Jesus Christ standing at that spring on the old road leading to and from Nazareth, and only one of the ten turns and says to Him, "I thank Thee, Lord." He is a Samaritan. I see the nine ungrateful ones going up that hill toward Nazareth and Christ looks sadly and heartbroken upon them.

O, today, I want to adopt the friendship of the Samaritan who turned to give Christ thanks. I want to belong to the society of the one cleansed leper who turned to give Christ thanks. Often I think of those wonderful words written by Shakespeare:

"O, Ingratitude, thou marble-hearted fiend!
How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is
To have an ungrateful child."

We must also get a victory over complaining so much, over criticising others so much, and over selfish thoughts. We must get a victory over the neglect of plain duty. O, may we get a victory over these things! You ought to get a victory over your neglect of Christian duty at home. To live a victorious Christian life you must read the Bible at least twice a day and pray with your wife and children. We must also get a victory over a self-satisfied condition. "Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

"Stand up, stand up for Jesus,
Ye soldiers of the cross.
Lift high His royal banner,
It must not suffer loss.
From victory unto victory,
His army He shall lead

SICK AT HIS STOMACH

"I WAS suffering from stomach trouble, in 1917," says Mr. C. K. Nelson, a railroad engineer living in Pulaski, Va. "I had a tightness in my chest, a shortness of breath. There seemed to be a heavy weight in the pit of my stomach, and quite a bit of nausea, yet I couldn't vomit. I tried different remedies, yet suffered on just the same.

"When in West Virginia on a work train, I was in such a condition that I just gave up and came home. I couldn't stand to work, in my condition. Some one told me about Black-Draught. I started taking it in small doses after meals. It helped me, and I went back to work." E-183

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and relatives for the kindness shown during the illness and death of our beloved mother and grandmother, Mrs. J. C. Culp.

We also wish to thank each and everyone for the beautiful flower offerings.

We especially wish to thank Dr. Hayes, Mr. Martin, Brother Ezell and the Clanton Quartet for their services during our bereavement. May God bless each and every one.—The Husband, Children and Grandchildren of our departed mother and grandmother.

MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

Our Sunday school is doing nicely for the number and they are mostly young pupils, and I say they are coming for the benefit of the Sunday school and not just for a place to go. God gave us this day for worship to Him and we do as far as we know how.

Next Sunday is our singing afternoon. People, come and help us. You are at home when you are here and welcome if you want to be. So come everybody. If you can't sing come and listen. Akins Collins and Akins Mims are invited. Dear friends, down at Cane Creek Sunday you said that you were filled up except for the first Sunday, and wanted a first Sunday singing. Our evening is the first Sunday evening at Mountain Springs and we would be glad if you would make this your singing on the first. If this would suit you come over the mountain from Cane Creek. So come the first if you can.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court in Equity, No. 824.
A. J. Bullard, Complainant, vs. Aurrie Belvie Bullard, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and postoffice address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is of the age of twenty-one years;

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Aurrie Belvie Bullard, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 10th day of November, 1929, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 5th day of October, 1929.

10-10-4t W. D. SPIGENER, Register.

MINERAL SPRINGS

Don't forget next Sunday, November 3, is our regular singing afternoon. Everybody come and bring your new 1930 books.—Secretary.

CEDAR GROVE—LIBERTY HILL

The Cedar Grove-Liberty Hill singing society met at Cedar Grove last Sunday afternoon. There was only three directors present, but everybody appeared to be in such good singing spirits that the singing was as good, perhaps, as if there had been a large choir of singers. The directors were Messrs. Kermit Lowery, Zack Lowery and D. T. Melton. Organists were Mrs. Lucile Lowery and Miss Lela Melton.

Our president, Kermit Lowery, is going to see about getting the new books for the society. We are hoping all our members will get them a new book and bring it to the singings with them.

We meet down at Liberty Hill the second Sunday afternoon in November at two o'clock, to sing, elect new officers for the ensuing year, and to begin getting acquainted with the new Showalter books, if we get them by then. Don't wait to be invited personally, if you are a singer or lover of music, because we invite everybody who is interested in music to our singings. We are very glad to have people from other communities visit us. You may not hear as good singing as you have heard, possibly, but we will try to entertain you the best we know how. There is a hearty welcome to all. Don't forget to go to Liberty Hill the 2nd Sunday and Cedar Grove the fourth Sunday afternoons.—Secretary.

All sorts of methods are offered, but it's a good bet that one of the most potent factors in keeping the average woman looking young is the corner drug store.

While Ramsay MacDonald is away they are busy in London whitewashing the walls of the British foreign office. This ought to wipe out all of the past.

The JACK-POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

"Old King Cole was a merry old horn,
He surely knew how to make whoopee;
But he was a piker by the side of the guy
Who tanks up on Old King Korn."

* * * * * * * * *

Don't ye laff—that's the truth! Croesus, Jay Gould, nor any other of the guys with well-feathered nests ever looked on the future with more security of mind than the bird who has just wrapped himself around 'bout a pint of (we borrowed this) "sweet spirits of cats-a-fightin'."

* * * * * * * * *

And sincere? Bet your life! He'll turn his pockets wrong-side-out and offer to bet you the interest on the national war debt that what you most need is an introduction to a good mind-and-eye specialist if you so much as intimate he's a little top-heavy.

* * * * * * * * *

A little while ago we overheard a limber-legged bimbo bemoaning the sad trend of people's ideas. "Why," said he, "you might not believe it, but I can SHOW you folks who'll go so far as to pay their good money for such common things as flour and sugar—and not ONE drop of good hooch in the house! 'S truth!" Think we ought to keep that guy "lickered" up—he's got more sense—good sense—when drunk than when sober.

* * * * * * * * *

Ever meet one of the type who scrapes together half a dozen rotten apple cores, eats 'em, and then, tottering a bit, calls to you across the street to let your nose in on the secret that he holds no scruples against indulging a bit now an' then?

* * * * * * * * *

No apple cores for some, though. They take it raw. After seeing a brother sleep out in the rain and snow all night, seeming none the worse for it, you may come to the conclusion that maybe that old saying that "The Lord takes care of idiots and infants" is true. Right then, too, your eyes tell you that he's no baby—SO!

* * * * * * * * *

The "B" age is over. Then, the best bought it in barrels, drank it from the bung, and celebrated with a bang. Now it's the "P" age. The piker buys a pint, takes it through a pipe to save his teeth, pulls a party, and, after paying out, soon winds up in the padded cell or the pen.

* * * * * * * * *

That's enough about the high but hidden article. Heard a good one on the high-ups the other day. 'Tis said that just before the last presidential election, members of the law-making bodies at Washington were singing "What a time we'll have with Al." Lately, they have switched to "Herbie, dear, it's you we're after."

* * * * * * * * *

Farmers won't have to worry about dry weather any more. There's a way to get rain when crops need it. Several ways, in fact. One of 'em is to get one of the road machines to roach up some of the red clay roads. However, if you happen to live in a section where clay (slick mud) is not so common, you might try having your new sedan washed and simonized. Try both of the remedies if you need rain quick—one of 'em is BOUND to work—pronto!

* * * * * * * * *

We may not have land that wears all the watermelons out draggin' 'em around over the ground, the vine grows so fast—but—those broken ridges you see most everywhere were not caused by moles either. Them's " 'taters". Now we know what's been causing all those minor earthquaks lately. That was more "'taters". This must surely be the 'taterin'est land what is, if you judge by the samples being brought in almost every day.

* * * * * * * * *

If a potato don't weigh at least eight pounds, it's just "strings". They don't get to be real potatoes until they get up in the 12-pound class now-a-days.

* * * * * * * * *

AND THEY SAY THE 'POSSUM CROP IS GOOD, TOO! Yum-yum, and another couple of yums. Yet, you might say "yam-yam," or "yam-yum," or "yum-yam," whatever suits your own particular taste. 'Possum-'n-'taters, right on.

* * * * * * * * *

Gettin' so you can't hardly trust anybody any more. Usta, you could rest pretty sure that a tramp would come along and cut your wood for a good feed. "Them days is gone forever." A good, self-respectin' tramp wouldn't be caught trying to pick a ride anywhere but on a cement highway—or seen eating anywhere but in the best known dining salons—for worlds.

* * * * * * * * *

And that brings us back to the wood. Guess we'll have to go and cut it, after all the fancy dodgin'! Run along and play, now.—"Jack."

HALLOWE'EN AT MITCHELL DAM

By Marcelle Wilder

The Mitchell Dam Bridge Club Saturday night, October 26th, presented the most brilliant appearance that could be desired by the most fastidious of clubs.

The party was held at the Club House, overlooking beautiful Mitchell Lake. Genuine Hallowe'en sentiments prevailed. The Old Witch really rode the broomstick—for right over the beautiful new radio she was, glaring at everyone during the entire evening. Goblins, yes, strings of them, showed horrible teeth while the pumpkin place cards boiled in the kettle under the real Indian tripods. Corn shocks and hay stacks brought back to men of accomplishment reminiscences of boyhood days spent with father in the fields.

Sure, and old Autumn's rustic beauty was everywhere displayed; on every wall, table, in every corner and on the mantle. The huge old pumpkin with fiery eyes grinned sarcastically at Clanton's Bridge Shark when she gave her score—214—a disgrace to Mitchell's Bridge Club, but why worry? She got paid for it, for her reward was a real pumpkin to eat, and it was all painted up by the honoree himself. She endured, too, for Klondike Cosmos winked mischievously at her so she was glad to be the boob.

But we've passed the goodies. The business part of the program began promptly at eight o'clock with twenty-eight guests hungrily attacking a heap of chicken salad, (guaranteed delicious) surrounded and covered over with cakes, olives, crackers, hot coffee and the cutest little persimmons.

After the goodies several of the matrons cleared away the wreckage and the game began.

Mr. W. H. McManus from Jordan Dam received a beautiful silver cigar lighter as gentleman's high score prize. This he presented to Mr. J. U. Benziger with Jordan's compliments. Mrs. McManus also topped for which she received a lovely little silhouette, which is sure to be seen in Mrs. Benziger's new home near Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. Jno. L. Hollis, Mitchell Dam's new Superintendent, presented to Mr. and Mrs. Benziger for the Mitchell Dam Bridge Club a Sessions Banjo clock, finished in crackled green, with another silhouette within the pendulum door, which made the gift a really appreciable one.

We, of Mitchell Dam, who have been for years the happy and well-treated friends and employees of Mr. and Mrs. Benziger, were all but overjoyed at this opportunity to present to them this token of love and appreciation. We wish them a world of happiness and success in their new home and employment.

It would be unjust to conclude without recognition of Mrs. S. M. Carter, of Guntersville, Mrs. W. J. Creel, Pensacola, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Lakeman, Edmud Lakeman of Lock 12, Betty Lakeman, Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hance Alred of Clanton, Mrs. H. B. Cox, Mr. Harry Rook, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McManus of Jordan Dam, all of whom were the out-of-town guests of our club.

HOOVER TUNES IN ON WORLD

President Hoover should have no difficulty in "tuning in" on the world. He has the distinction among radio fans of possessing the longest radio aerial in Washington, perhaps the longest in the United States. From the roof of the White House to a tree at the west boundary of the surrounding plaza, a span of more than 400 feet, the new aerial spreads. It was ordered after the President had had some trouble in locating a distant program.

Three sets of radio serve the President. One is located in his private study at the White House, one in an upstairs parlor, while the third gladdens Presidential parties over the week end at the Rapidan fishing camp in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to thank our many friends for their kindness and floral offerings in our recent loss of our husband and father.—Mrs. R. N. Roebuck and Children.

UNCLE DOCK WELLS

Editor Union-Banner:

Uncle Dock Wells died October 25, at Thorsby, Ala., and was buried at Cedar Grove cemetery Saturday, October 26, with a host of friends present besides relatives. Nearly everyone in Chilton County knew Uncle Dock during his lifetime, and to know him was to love him and respect him. He was known thruout Chilton County as being a good man, one that never thought of himself, but gave his life trying to make others happy. He was kind hearted, always in a good humor, and never spoke evil of anyone; he did not care for money or wealth and his highest ambition was to serve his neighbors and lead others to a higher and better life.

Chilton County has lost a great and good man, one that will be missed by all who knew him, and we all agree that his place will be hard to fill in this County and community.

If we all would live a life of sacrifice, thinking of others as Uncle Dock did this would indeed be a wonderful place to live in. We can truly say that Uncle Dock was a good man and that he tried to make the world a better place to live in by his precepts and examples, and we know he has gone to a better world. He left the folowing children:

Mr. K. Wells and children, Oscar, Festus, Mary and Ruth; of Thorsby, Ala.; Mrs. D. A. Lodge and children, Grady, Pearl, Sydney, Dorothy, and Bill, of McCalla, Ala.; Mr. Henry Wells and children, Nona, Duaine, Lester, Barney, Molly, Dock, Ross, Jessie, and Frances; Mrs. J. T. Thomason and children, Clarence, Eugene, Burl, James, and Margaret; Mrs. F. M. Eiland, deceased, and children, Arthur, Annie, Linnie, Trion, Agnes, and Gladys.

Uncle Dock was born in Merryweather County, Georgia, February 29, 1848, and died October 25, 1929. He was 81 years old.—Respectfully, L. H. Reynolds.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

The Matrimonial Shopper

MY FRIEND, V. V. McNitt, head of a big syndicate, is himself of Scotch ancestry and he is responsible for this story of a man from the land of his forbears.

A young Scotchman, methodical, painstaking, and sincere, as so many of his race are, had been a bachelor of long standing. Since coming to this country he had saved his money until now he felt he was qualified properly to support a domestic establishment. One day he went to a friend.

"I've about decided to get married," he said. "In fact, I'm looking around now for a wife."

"Where are you looking?" asked his friend.

"I'll tell you," said the Scot. "It's my belief that the girls who work as clerks in the big department stores here in New York are mighty fine types. As a rule, they are well dressed and tidy and good looking and have nice ways. They must be self-reliant or they wouldn't be working. They have to be intelligent or they couldn't hold their jobs. They know how to make a dollar go a long distance or they couldn't dress as well as they do on the modest wages most of them get.

My notion is this: On pretext of wanting to buy something, I am going to tour the big shops until I see a girl behind a counter who seems to fill my requirements. Then I'm going to find out her name and make private inquiries as to her character and disposition, and if she answers all the requirements I'll secure an introduction to her and if she seems to like me I'm going to ask her to marry me."

Six months went by. The cautious Scot and the man to whom he had confided his plan of campaign met again. The latter thought his friend looker rather careworn and unhappy

"How are you getting along?"

"Well," said the Scot, "I'm a married man, if that's what you mean."

"Well, did you follow the scheme you had in mind—I mean the one you told me about the last time I saw you?"

"Yes, I married a girl that worked at Macy's."

"Congratulations. How's everything getting along?"

The Scot fetched a small sigh.

"Sometimes," he said, "I can't help thinking that maybe I might have done better at Gimbel's."

EFFECT OF M'DONALD'S VISIT

Ramsay MacDonald, departing from the United States, left a very favorable impression behind him. The American people liked his direct statement in his speech to Congress to the effect that Great Britain was ready and willing to grant full and complete parity to the United States in the matter of naval defense. The American people are in favor of the limitation of naval armament but they want it to be with the understanding that Uncle Sam will have a navy equal to and as good as the best.

But in speaking of the favorable impression Mr. MacDonald made here it might also be called to mind that the British premier has helped himself in Great Britain by his trip to America, and the success of his trip here, even the sentiment part of it, will go a long way toward bolstering Mr. MacDonald and the Labor Party at home. After the failure of the Geneva conference there was a growing suspicion and distrust between the United States and Great Britain. Mr. MacDonald's visit has gone some distance toward dispelling this, temporarily at least, and the effect may well become permanent if the principle of parity is carried out in the next naval conference and it ends in success.

In addition, if Great Britain's naval expenses are reduced this will mean a reduction in the budget and a reduction in taxation and this will not be unpopular in England which of late years has been a country of high taxes. It is true of course that Great Britain has its big navy party which is very powerful, but the prospect of lower taxes is bound to have a popular appeal in England just as it always does in America.

The British Labor Party has its work cut out for it. In the campaign it made the promise of many domestic reforms and among other things it promised to solve the unemployment problem. This will be a big task and it might well develop that the party's domestic policies would at times be full of dynamite. With this situation in mind the success which Mr. MacDonald won for himself in the United States may stand him in good stead when a political crisis comes. Mr. MacDonald is not without his political acumen as his visit to Uncle Sam's country shows.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Despite the progress which has been made toward the limitation of naval armament, and despite the signatures to the Kellogg peace pact, it is not to be forgotten that there are still danger spots in Europe. These dangers are, however, for the most part continental and need not concern the United States so long as we continue our present policy of avoiding all foreign entanglements and commitment.

Some time ago it was announced in cable dispatches from Prague that a secret treaty binding Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia, had been perfected at the last conference of the nations of the so-called Little Entente which was held at Belgrade early in the year. The treaty, it was declared, is military and binding, and unites into a formidable military combination the three Middle European nations mentioned above with a strength in army effectives of around 400,000 men.

Only the other day it was announced in Paris that about $100,000,00 would be spent in the next five years on "defensive fortifications" on the French frontiers, with special attention to the northern and eastern boundaries and the Alps. Evidently France is not wholly convinced that the pact of Locarno and the Kellogg treaty will eliminate war on the continent. And perhaps the most significant feature of the defense plan is that for the first time in modern history France will devote nearly as much money toward strengthening her Alpine defenses against possible Italian attack as her Rhine defenses which are calculated to hold back another attempt at a German invasion. Evidently the government of Mussolini is still causing grave misgivings in France despite the peace treaties. Although great secrecy is being maintained as to the extent of the French defensive works it was announced in the French parliament in response to a question that "when our plans are completely finished the Alps will be safe."

Of course it may be argued that the military pact of the three nations mentioned above is not offensive but defensive and designed to protect the nations against possible invasion by Germany or Italy. And it may also be maintained that the French fortifications are purely defensive and not designed for offensive warfare. All of which may, of course, be true, but the fact remains that the preparations mentioned will be regarded in the United States as a not altogether encouraging feature in the world peace program.

These are matters over which the United States has no control and desires no control. We are interested in peace and in the past ten years have inaugurated nearly all of the movements which have looked toward permanent peace. The Kellogg pact and the conferences between Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover are the most recent examples. Of course if naval limitation can be effected a big step toward insuring peace will have been taken. But so far as the plots and counterplots looking toward diplomatic or military victories on the continent are concerned, these are things which will have to take care of themselves so far as Uncle Sam is concerned. From the foundation of the republic we have consistently taken a stand against foreign alliances and foreign entanglements of every kind. This is still the foreign policy of the United States government and there is little prospect that it will be changed in the near future. And the average American who reads of secret treaties and military alliances among the European nations will feel that he has real cause to be thankful that Uncle Sam has avoided membership in the League of Nations and in purely European diplomatic problems.

One half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives but is convinced anyhow that the other half can't afford to live the way it does.

REAL WAR MUST BE WAGED ON INSECTS

Uncle Sam, and in fact the whole human race, is constantly confronted with a war menace which can not be eliminated by treaties or agreements and according to Dr. C. L. Marlatt, Chief of the Bureau of Entomology, U. S. Department of Agriculture, the enemy in this instance is the pestiferous insect. Dr. Marlatt writes entertainingly on the subject in the current issue of the National Republic. The struggle between man and insect is becoming more acute since man is increasing his scientific production of foodstuffs.

Among the greatest insect dangers according to Dr. Marlatt, are those which come to America from abroad and these have been arriving at intervals in America since colonial days. In dwelling on this phase of the insect pest, Dr. Marlatt says in part:

"Perhaps the most important phase of applied entomoligy in recent years has been the effort of various countries of the world to prevent the entry from other regions of new pest hazards—insect and plant disease. The United States was laggard in this field in spite of the general realization of the fact that our more important pests are of foreign origin. A stream of such plant and animal hazards had been coming into North American beginning with colonial settlement. The latch string was out and these undesirable immigrants took full advantage of the situation. We have thus received many, but fortunately not all, of the numerous crop, household and animal enemies which have developed in older civilizations. At least one hundred of these are major pests. It is conservatively estimated that such imported farm pests now cause losses of upwards of a billion dollars a year.

"Most of the older importations have become so thoroughly established and so commonplace that they are not now matters of great public interest, except for the farmer or other person directly concerned. Among such are the Hessian fly of wheat which entered this country in colonial days with straw brought in by Hessian troops; the San Jose scale, an important enemy of all decidious fruits, coming to us about fifty years ago with imported ornamentals from China, and a hundred others which could be mentioned, all of which are continuing charges on our agriculture.

"The more recent importations which have now the greatest news value include the European corn borer; the Japanese beetle, which has now spread as far west as the District of Columbia and to the border of Virginia and, therefore, has a modest local interest to the capital of the United States; and the Oriental fruit worm, rapidly becoming one of the most serious of deciduous fruit pests, imported with the flowering Japanese cherry less than twenty years ago. These and some four other similarly important pests gained entry during the short period of four years when the last and ultimately successful effort was made to get national legislation to check such entry. This is mentioned to stress merely the rapidity of entry of such important pests into the United States just prior to the passage of the Plant Quarantie Act in 1912.

"The enforcement of this act for some fifteen years under the Federal Horticultural Board is now directed by a new office of the department, entitled the Plant Quarantine and Control Administration. It has become one of the big regulatory activities of the department."

A New York specialist says that heart ills are often imaginary. This is especially true of the ones we contract while sitting under the June moon with a blond flapper at the seashore.

Over in Russia the communists are now advocating the adoption of a three-day week for workers. This will give four days for propagandising.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

In spite of seasonal let-downs in certain industries the industries of the United States taken as a whole show gains over the production of last year. This is the conclusion arrived at by the National Association of Manufacturers and the conclusion is derived from the answers to a questionaire which was sent out some time ago by the association. The questionaire covered present trade, prospects for the winter, comparison with last fall, production, sales qualities, employment, wages and labor conditions.

Taking the industries as a whole, of the companies reporting, 19 per cent class their present business as excellent; 45 per cent good; 31% fair, and 5 per cent poor. Last year they were classified, 17 per cent excellent; 43 per cent good; 34 per cent fair; 6 per cent poor. Prospects for the winter are regarded as excellent by 12 per cent; good by 54 per cent; fair by 30 per cent; poor by 4 per cent; while last year 14 per cent reported excellent; 43 per cent good; 36 per cent fair, and 6 per cent poor.

Comparing the business done up to this fall with the same period last year, 53 per cent report better returns; 17 per cent less and 30 per cent find no change. A year ago the report was 50 per cent better; 25 per cent less; 25 per cent no change.

Production as compared with last fall is reported increased by 74 per cent of the companies as against 65 per cent last year; decreased by 26 per cent; increased sales quantities are reported by 73 per cent as against 65 per cent last year; increased sales values by 64 per cent as against 52 per cent last year. Depleted stocks are reported by 14 per cent this year as against 16 per cent last year; normal by 78 per cent this year as against 74 per cent last year; and over by 8 per cent this year as against 10 per cent last year.

Increased employment is reported by 69 per cent of the companies, decreased by 31 per cent; increased wages are reported by 91 per cent, decreased by 9 per cent, while 23 percent of the companies report a shortage in skilled workers. One healthful thing is that labor troubles have been practically eliminated, the percentage of companies reporting no strikes being 99.74 and of those reporting strikes .26—less than one-fourth of one percent.

Among the industries reporting gains are clothing, electrical, farm products, foodstuffs, glass, crockery and porcelain, hardware, tools, iron foundries, machine shops, jewelry, leather, machinery, paper, stationery and printing. The industries showing a slight decrease in business were auto accessories, chemicals, furniture, iron and steel, lumber, paints, oils, varnishes and rubber.

In spite of the fact that 1928 was a campaign year business was at a high water mark during the year. That 1929 is comparing favorably with 1928 is the best evidence that we are still doing business as usual in America.

You may think that football is the dangerous game but we read the other day where some fellow out West had been killed in a game of bridge.

Motherhood
massage brings comfort

Complete relaxation and comfort is very necessary to the expectant mother's well being. Nervousness, discomfort and pain exhausts that strength so vital at this particular time.

Thousands and thousands of expectant mothers have passed through this period in their lives with the aid of "Mother's Friend," that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician.

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is not a drug to be taken. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Mother's Friend lessens pain

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

THE CONSTITUTION IN THE DAILY LIFE OF THE INDIVIDUAL

By E. M. FRIEND, Jr., 730 South 34th St., Phillips High School, Birmingham, Alabama

Since the beginning of civilization the human heart has yearned for justice and equality. To trace the progress of the human race is to trace the struggle of the human mind. Man has been willing to date the perils of revolution and to endure the uncertainties of a chaoti government even after the revolution, in order to free himself from injustice.

When the tyranny of the French Kings became unbearable even to the lowest serf, and when the teachings of Rousseau bore fruit, the Frenchman by a sweeping revolution secured for himself liberty, equality, and fraternity. Less spectacular, but not less resolute, were our English fathers. When they could indure no longer the tyranny of the Stuarts they followed Cromwell's lead to stern Puritan freedom. Again, more than a hundred years later, men of the same blood, in a New England far across the seas, after six years of revolution and seven years of loose, irresponsible government, under the articles of confederation took still another step to freedom by the adoption of the Constitution of the United States.

Even as the British clung to the Magna Carta because it protected them from the tyranny of kings, even as the Pilgrims clung to the Mayflower Compact because it too, offered security, so Americans have cherished the Constitution of the United States. It has lived because it serves the need of the individual for protection.

When the body of immortal men met in Philadelphia they came in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity. Their primary motives were to provide for the defense because they were just recovering from our war of Independence, and to provide for the domestic tranquility because of the unsettled conditions of the times. They all realized that the best way to secure these blessings was to insure the rights and privileges of the citizens, for only when the citizen is happy and prosperous will the nation flourish.

For the common defense they provided for the establishment of armies and navies. They had in mind no such army as lifted military France in 1800, "To crimson glory and undying fame," no such army as was the foundation of autocratic Prussia in 1867. They intended an army made up of the citizens solely for the defense of the nation. Yet our army and navy have so protected the individual that he has had a chance to ply his daily labors without fear of foreign invasion. They have made the stars and stripes so respected among the nations that our country has been able to shield the weaker republics in South America and to turn the tide of European autocracy in the World War.

Equal rights were insured to the citizens of every state by the establishment of a house of representativs, based upon population, and the senate, composed of two delegates from every state. To protect the individual from the possibility of the legislative and executive departments becoming too powerful, the judiciary was established with the sole right to interpret the laws made by the legislative and enforced by the executive department. To provide still further for the rights of the individual a great dual form of government was established, to protect the citizen and the states from the encroaching of the national government. In this original system we find a strong central government balanced by equally strong soverign states.

Since the rights of the individual were foremost in the minds of the framers, it is natural that their masterpiece, the Constitution, guarantee protection for the individual.

With axtraordinary sagacity the founders realized "New occasions teach new duties," so they gave to posterity the right to amend the Constitution. They made it flexible because amendments could be made, but strong, because the way to amendment is so difficult. By virtue of this ability to add amendments the Constitution can advance with the times for it is subject to the will of the people.

Therefore, the future of our political system rests with us. As Washington warned our fathers, "The very idea of power and the right of people to established government pre-supposes the duty of every citizen to support the established government," so now ex-president Coolidge warns us, "The Constitution is not self perpetuating. If it is to survive it will be because it has public support." Shall we remain indifferent to our dearly bought privileges? Shall we allow corrupt politicians to control our country and even to undermine our very constitution?

Surely a government which offers so much is deserving of our respect and support. We must not only use our privileges of voting but to make our votes valuable we must learn to vote intelligently.

Yet the real danger of our present situation lies not only in the indiffeence of the voter, but we are confronted with the reluctance and many times, the absolute refusal of the right man to run for public office.

Oh! Can we not emulate the noble Washington who sacrificed his leisure, time and health for his country? Jefferson, the apostle of liberty, who strove to give to the individual feedom in every form, Lincoln, the martyr who preserved the union at such terrific cost, and Wilson, the statesman, who sacrificed all to make the world safe for democracy?

Fellow Americans, the farmers, merchants and the retired business men who made up that memorable fifty-five worked not for the good of a few but for the good of a nation made up of individuals. Roosevelt who devoted his enormous moral and physical energies to the need of his nation, my country, our country calls for not a life of ease but for a life of strenuous endeavor. If we shrink from the hard contest where men must win at the hazard of their lives and at the risk of all they hold dear, then the bolder and stronger people will pass by us. The twentieth looms before us big with the fate of many nations.

Three decades have passed since these prophetic words ushered in a century of progress 'greater than that of any previous time, and ten years since the name of Theodore Roosevelt was added to the list of our immortals. Throughout the world this has been a period of revolution and readjustment, during that time we have witnessed the upheaval of Europe and the destruction of the last vestige of autocratic power in the onward march of civilization. We stand today at the peak of our nation's history in an era of great political and industrial development. A period that calls for the manhood of our nation to aid in the perpetuation of our institution and the upholding of our laws.

Across the centuries comes the call from those founders of our government, a challenge to you and to me, and to every patriotic American to measure our responsibilities by the records of the past and by giving ourselves to the service of our country to keep alive the vital principals of the Constitution.

CITRUS FRUITS AS A GOITRE PREVENTIVE

Convinced that Florida oranges and grapefruit contain an appreciable quantity of natural iodine, essential in the cure and prevention of goitre, leading officials and representative citizens of the state are now actively planning reasearch work that promises to be of interest to the entire world.

The state's first important "iodine conference" was held in Bradenton on October 23, and was attended by leading state executives, as well as many representative citrus fruit growers and physicians.

Preliminary tests have already indicated that certain of Florida's important vegetables contain iodine in sufficient quantities to give them medical importance. Recently South Carolina made an appropriation to capitalize the established iodine content of its vegetables, and this peculiar merit of its produce is now being widely advertised.

The soils of Florida and South Carolina have been impregnated with the remains of fish since prehistoric times, and it is this condition which gives the produce of these states a high iodine content.

Sea fish, and particularly oysters, are the best known foods for supplying the system with iodine. Oyster shippers were the first to advertise the value of this chemical in food.

Iodine is the best known remedy for the prevention and cure of goitre and is absolutely essential to insure normal health, although it should never be taken internally in its commercila form without the advice of a physician. The fact that this disease, a morbid enlargement of the thygroid gland, is the result of iodine deficiency has long been established by medical science.

According to a U. S. Government bulletin on goitre statistics an examination of 2,500,000 men for war service showed that Florida had a rate of 0.25 which was the lowest rate of any state. Idaho showed the highest rate with 26. In other words, the statistics indicated that there are 100 times as many goitre sufferers in Idaho as there are in Florida.

The disease is more common in women than in men, although it is comparatively rare among women in Florida and South Carolina. Medical scientists have attributed this to the natural iodine found in the vegetable produce of these two states.

If it is found, after due and authoritative research, that Florida grapefruit and oranges contain sufficient quantities of iodine to give additional medicinal value to these fruits, the findings will be featured in a national advertising campaign. Although Florida vegetables, in which the iodine content is known to be present in valuable quantities, are shipped into many states, citrus fruits are Florida's most widely distributed products. More than 16,000,000 boxes will be shipped from the peninsular state this season.

CAPITOL News

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

The tremendous development of the automobile industry in the last fifteen years is brought out vividly in figures just announced by the State Tax Commission, showing motor vehicle registration in Alabama for the fiscal year 1928-29 and for previous years back to 1913-14. The total registration of all classes of motor vehicles for 1928-29 was 291,834, while in 1913-14 the figure was 9,108, only a little over three percent of the present figure. The statistics show that regardless of good years or bad years, good, bad or indifferent business conditions, war, boll weevil, influenza, the price of cotton and the cost of living, the acquisition of automobiles by the people of Alabama has gone merrily along, each year showing a substantial increase over the one before.

The registration figures for 1928-29 showed 246,041 private cars, of which 213,384 were Class A, 28,920 class B, 3,717 class C, and 20 class D. Other classifications of licenses issued included 37,812 trucks, of which 9,557 were class HI, 26,361 H2, 1,570 H3, 310 H4, seven H5, and seven H6; 409 hearses and ambulances, 1,237 taxicabs and busses, 704 motorcycles and 4,719 dealers' licenses. In addition to the motor vehicle registrations, 3,024 trailer's licenses and 2,714 chauffeur's licenses were issued. The only classification of motor vehicles which showed a decline for 1928-29 as compared with 1927-28 were taxicabs and busses, which decreased by 153, and tractor licenses which were six less.

As was to be expected, the counties of Jefferson, Mobile and Montgomery showed the heaviest registration, in the order named: Jefferson county's registration, 61,977, was more than one-fifth of the grand total for the state; Mobile was second with 17,635 and Montgomery third with 11,981. No other county reached the 10,000 mark. Etowah was in fourth place with 7,414 and Madison a close fifth with 7,382. Chilton's registration was 2,826.

POPLAR AND MAPLE SPRINGS SINGERS MEET AT POPLAR SPRINGS ON SUNDAY P. M.

The regular afternoon singing was held at Poplar Springs last Sunday afternoon. A number of visitors from other communities were there and they together with the home folks from Poplar and Maple Springs did some real good singing. The new Showalter books were used.

Directors were: W. F. Gilliland, O. L. Devaughn, R. M. Robinson, M. Lockhart, T. E. Wyatt, J. R. Robinson, Emmett Wilson and R. T. Grant. Miss Grace Wilson acted as pianist for all the directors. The songs were of course nearly all new to everybody, but notwithstanding this fact, the singing was exceedingly good. Everyone especially enjoyed the lesson directed by Mr. Bob Grant.

At the conclusion of the singing Prof. O. L. Devaughn, who acted as chairman, put before the society the proposition of calling in their singing next Fourth Sunday and the singers meet with Friendship society. The matter, after some discussion, was put to a vote and carried.

The plan of holding singing at each of eight different churches in this vicinity only once every two months was spoken of by O. L. Devaughn, and T. E. Wyatt; and R. T. Grant also voiced his opposition to the movement. The matter was only introduced at Poplar Springs, and in the near future it will be heard from some more at different churches near by.

So, the members of Poplar-Maple Springs society will please remember that they will not meet at Poplar Springs the fourth Sunday in November, but instead will meet with the Friendship class.

OAK GROVE

There will be singing at this place next Sunday evening, November 3. Everybody come and bring your new books.—W. J. Northcutt.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

NAMES NITROGEN AS AID TO VEGETABLES

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 28.—"Leafy vegetables should receive a side application of quick-acting nitrogen unless they are growing on very rich soil and have already received liberal amounts of nitrogenous fertilizers," said Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in giving November suggestions to fall gardeners.

He points out that nitrogen is the most important fertilizer element for leafy vegetables. This is particularly true at this season of the year, he says, because it is important to rush many of them to edible size before cold weather stops development.

"Lettuce," he continued, "should receive liberal amounts of nitrogen during the early stages of growth if good sized plants are to be produced. It is best to apply all the nitrogen early, as late applications tend to encourage leafy growth instead of head formation."

At the same time Mr. Brown mentioned the importance of every gardener having a hotbed and coldframe in order to extend the period of some vegetables, to produce out-of-season crops, or to aid in starting others for early spring planting. Lettuce, radish, beets, and onions can be brought to a size fitting them for use by means of a hotbed and coldframe, he said.

"Profitable production of vegetables by this method," he continued, "can be accomplished by interplanting such relatively long-growing crops as lettuce with radish or some other quick-growing crops. In using this method the lettuce may be followed with beets without interefering with the lettuce crop."

MANY LONG-LEAF SEED

This year the Long-leaf Pines of Alabama have borne a large crop of seed, states the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The last good seed year in south Alabama was in 1927.

Even on young trees the cone crop is especially abundant. In Monroe County from one small tree nine inches in diameter at breast height, over two bushels of cones were collected. These two bushels contain over 9,000 seeds.

Thus far this season over 627 bushels of Long-leaf cones have been sent to the State Forest Nursery where the seed will be extracted from the cones and planted in nursery beds. A total of 1,200 bushels of Long-leaf cones are to be collected this year. The young Long-leaf trees will be ready for distribution to the forest planters of Alabama during the fall of 1930.

Landowners in the Long-leaf Pine belt are making strenuous efforts to protect their lands from burning, since even a light fire will destroy the seed or kill the tender newly sprouted seedlings. However, after this species reaches a diameter of six of seven inches it is rarely directly killed by fire, but its growth is retarded and after being burned is more susceptible to insect attack.

ALABAMA FARM NEWS

Lack of a local market impeded progress of dairying in Conecuh County. Bankers and merchants of Evergreen cooperated with County Agent P. R. Pettis and a cream station was opened in early October. Now cream is weighed, tested, and paid for at the door of the station in Evergreen.

The Geneva County Hog Growers Association bought 600 feeder pigs from Tennessee to sell to farmers who lost hogs in the flood last March. A saving of $400 due to cooperative purchasing is reported.

Autauga County rural people plan to beautify their homes. The county farm bureau has placed orders for 1,000 pounds of Italian rye grass for sowing on lawns.

Best pigs from 56 Duroc Jersey sows will be shown at the hog show and county fair at Frisco City, Monroe County, November 15. The sows were bought by farmers last December, and fed according to Auburn recommendations.

Alabama Man Will Manage New Hotel

C. MACK ELLIS

Mr. Ellis, widely known Alabama hotel man, has been selected as the new manager of the Thomas Jefferson Hotel, in Birmingham, the first hostelry of the Baker chain in Alabama. Mr. Ellis was formerly at the Gay Teague in Montgomery, The Statler in St. Louis and Detroit, the St. Charles at New Orleans and the Baker at Dallas and Texas at Forth Worth of the Baker Corporation. Mr. Ellis is a native of Troy, Alabama.

PLANTS 22 ACRES OATS IN ONE DAY

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 21.—By operating with modern farm machinery one man has been planting 22 acres of oats in one day on the farm of the animal industry group at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. With machinery ordinarily used on Alabama farms it would have required 14 mules and eight men to plant the same acreage of oats in one day.

To do such rapid work, J. R. Brown, manager of the animal industry farm, used a 26-horsepower tractor, a six foot cylinder disk plow, and a six foot, eight-disk drill. Ordinarily Alabama farmers use two horse turning plows and two horse drills. "If Mr. Brown had used the ordinary equipment," John W. Randolph, associate professor of farm machinery, explained, "it would have required eight men and 14 mules to do as much work as he did." The tractor employed used only 20 gallons of gas in planting the oats. The planting was done on hill-side, sandy and rocky land.

Machinery is being used on the farm at Auburn to cut costs. Ten years ago there was no improved machinery on the station farm. Under the leadership of Prof. M. L. Nichols, head of the agricultural engineering department, Prof. Randolph, and other farm machinery workers the most improved machinery has been added and is now in use. No Georgia stocks are used in making crops on the agronomy department's general farm.

Next spring the oats planted last Thursday will be cut for hay and cowpeas planted on the land. All of this will be done in one operation by the use of a binder which will cut and bundle the oats, a disk plow to break the land, and a drill to seed the cowpeas. All three of these machines will be pulled with one tractor.

"The big problem on Alabama farms," Prof. Nichols declares, "is the production of roughage. We have solved this problem at Auburn by the use of the tractor and other improved machines and farmers who operate on a sufficiently large basis can do likewise."

Marshall County has made steady progress in planting winter legumes. In 1924, 2,000 pounds of seed were planted, in 1925, 3,000 pounds, in 1926, 5,000 pounds, in 1927, 8,000 pounds, in 1928, 11,000 pounds, and this year 20,000 pounds will be planted, according to County Agent Eric Alsobrook. About 40,000 pounds of winter legume seed will be or have already been planted in Chilton County this fall.

FARM BOARD MEMBER TO SPEAK IN ALABAMA

Carl Williams, cotton representative of the Federal Farm Board is coming to Alabama to tell business men, farm leaders and farmers about the policies of the farm board and "The Agricultural Marketing Act."

Mr. Williams will speak to county agents, farm leaders, business men and farmers at the Alabama Farm Bureau Auditorium at 11 o'clock, on Thursday, November 7. All are invited to attend.

At 7 P. M. on November 7 he will address a select group of leaders and business men at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel in Birmingham, Ala. On November 8 at 11 o'clock he will address an audience at the courthouse at Decatur, Ala. All are invited to attend the Decatur meeting.

Announcement stating that Mr. Williams will be in Alabama was made today by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and Allen Northington, general manager of the Cotton Association.—L. O. Brackeen.

TO ALL COUNTY AGENTS

Subject: Carl Williams' Meeting in Montgomery Thursday, November 7th

Dear Sir:

This is your authorization to attend the big state-wide meeting in Montgomery, Thursday, November 7, for the purpose of hearing Carl Williams, Southern Representative of the Federal Farm Board.

We are quite fortunate in having the opportunity to hear our cotton member of this giant Federal Farm Board, and I am requesting that you get just as many of your farmers to drive up that morning as possible. Speaking will begin about 11 o'clock at the State Farm Bureau Building.

In your campaign for membership kindly stress the importance of everybody coming to hear Mr. Williams.

The recent move made by the Federal Farm Board in behalf of the cotton farmers should be a regular knockout in our campaign for membership since this is the first time in the history of the United States that the Federal Government has ever taken definite steps to assist the cotton farmers of the South to get a fair and profitable price for their cotton.—Emmett Sizemore, District Agent.

ALABAMA WILL SHARE IN AID

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 28.—Organized farmers of Alabama will receive, through increased advances on their cotton, their share of the $100,000,000 which the Federal Farm Board offers to loan to Coperative Cotton Marketing Associations, according to Edward A. O'Neal, President of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

President O'Neal said that the move of the Farm Board is one of the greatest things ever done for the cotton farmers of the south. He was in Washington last week and upon returning to Alabama issued a statement urging cotton farmers to market their cotton cooperatively in order to ge the greatest benefit from the Federal Farm Board, as this is the only way they can expect to receive aid from the government.

By selling their cotton through their Cooperative Marketing Association farmers will be able to draw 15.65 cents per pound on their cotton with the privilege of calling a sale at a later date, Mr. O'Neal said. When explaining what this means to Alabama farmers he quoted Allen Northington, Manager of the Farm Bureau Cotton Association when he said:

"This means that a member will pool his cotton with the Association for sale at a later date, and will draw the regular advance of 15c when it is pooled, and as soon as the cotton is graded and stapled we can get an additional loan through the Federal Farm Board where it will enable us to advance the member up to 15.64 cents for middling 7-8 to 1 inch cotton.

"This will relieve any necessity for the cooperatives to sell hedges against cotton they have from the members."

After explaining that farmers can receive the aid offered only through cooperatives, President O'Neal read from a telegram sent to the Alabama Cotton Association from Carl Williams, Cotton Representative of the Federal Farm Board which said in part:

"The Farm Board recognizes commercial banks as primary in the same way it now recognizes intermediate credit banks." Later Mr. Williams said in his telegram: "The action by Board designed increased cotton deliveries, decrease hedging pressure, encourage delayed selling on part of farmers generally and strengthen the market."—L. O. Brackeen.

A MEMORIAL TO WASHINGTON

As you walk down Pennsylvania Avenue towards the Capitol on the East side of the street between Sixth and Seventh Streets you will see an immense foundation, covering a whole city block. At first you gain the impression that it is an uncompleted stadium the Government is erecting as a part of its great building program on the Mall. A closer inspection removes this suspicion from your mind, and your curiosity aroused, you ask a watchman:

"What building is going up here?"

"The George Washington Memorial," he replies.

And sure enough, that is what it is; for on this spot will be erected before 1932 the great National Memorial that will commemorate the bicentenary of the birth of the Father of his Country.

In order to get the ground for it and retain it, the Memorial Association had to put down the foundation, and its first money was used for that purpose and to pay some of the architect's fees.

The women of the country are back of this Memorial, and are making drives everywhere for the money with which to erect it. They have before them the ghastly failure the Washington Monument Association made of raising funds for the stately obelisk known to all the world as the Washington Monument, and they are working like beavers towards their goal.

This memorial will be a great national auditorium in which conventions of every sort can assemble. There will be the most commodious hall in Washington, and from the plans approved by the Government not the least beautiful one on the Mall.

The Union-Banner is $1.50 a year

"My! you look lovely to-night"

SHE knew the compliment to be true—for the last pimple had vanished.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you must realize that the logical cause may come from the blood.

A clear, smooth, velvety skin bespeaks loveliness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. Hope, joy, happiness, and even love, may depend on the possession of a clear, unblemished skin.

On the other hand—skin eruptions are outward evidences of the condition within. Authorities state it is an indication that the body's power of resistance to disease and infection is low. Meaning, that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish let-down feeling, loss of appetite, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and you sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to diseases.

S.S.S. is Nature's own tonic for improving the appetite, building strength, and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles, by increasing the red-cells of the blood.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test of over 100 years.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

A program of stunts was enjoyed by everyone attending the Fair Friday night. The physical education class put on some stunts. Stunts by Mr. Ellis Paulk, Jim Burnett, Van Williams, Wilbert Conway, Claude Conway and Bill Jones. Dressing race by Mr. J. D. Griffin and Miss Ethel Mize. Cracker race by Dr. Parnell, Claude Conway and Mr. Lawrence. A play without words by Misses Jewell Foshee, Sammy Durbin, Bonnie Clyde Griffin, Ethel Mize, Mrs. A. J. Lecroy, Mr. Earl Thomas, Ellis Paulk, J. D. Griffin and Mr. Lawrence. Marshmallow race by Claude Conway, Herman Lecroy, and Houston DeRamus. The chorus class sang a number of songs.

The Parent-Teacher Association met for its regular meeting October 22. The following program was rendered:

Topic: Reading that Educates, by Miss Cora Bell Maddox.

How to create a taste for reading, Mrs. Earle Thomas.

The society of good books, Mrs. J. D. Griffin.

Is this true of your library, Mrs. A. J. Lecroy.

Reading as adult's education, Mrs. C. C. Williams.

Intelligent reading, the basis of an education, Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin.

Children's reading, Miss Alma Sexton.

Refreshments were served by the social committee.

The Isabella school and community Fair was a glorious success last Friday. The community was divided into groups. Each group put on very fine exhibits. These contained canned fruits, field products and handwork. An exhibit of very unusual interest was a miniature model kitchen arranged by the home economics department. Clifford Manning exhibited a very beautiful farmstead. He had the house, barn, silo, chicken house, fish pond, electric lights, shrubbery, shade trees and children's amusements. The health classes put on good posters, an ideal school rest room, good and bad school lunches. Lunch was served by the Vocational Home Economics Classes.

Part of the fun at the Fair at Isabella was the football game played by Isabella and Verbena played on Isabella's court. The score was 7-7. Both of the teams showed unusual ability in their playing. The Isabella boys made their score the first quarter, Verbena the last quarter. Isabella is proud of her boys. Mims and Burnett were the star players.

Next Friday afternoon at three o'clock Isabella will play Verbena on Verbena's court. Isabella is planning to roll up a high score on Verbena. Everyone come out and yell for them.

The High School Supervisor came last Tuesday. He complimented the school very highly.

W. L. Martin was out of school on account of illness.

Misses Cora Bell Maddox, Dot Manning, Ruth and Glynder Oden, and Messrs. Earle Thomas, H. R. Oden, Claude Conway, Herman Lecroy and Lum Williams carried the exhibits to the Fair at Montgomery. Isabella's exhibits compared favorably with the other exhibits.

Ethel Mullins is back in school after being out on account of slight injuries received in the wreck of the Fairview school truck.

Miss Allie Walker was a pleasant caller to Isabella school.

We are very proud of our janitors. They are Sonn, Mae, Baz, Polly and Ruby. They are improving very rapidly.

Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin spent the week end with Helen Gilbert in Marbury.

Mr. Thomas took his vocational classes to the State Fair Tuesday.

To keep Cook cotton seed they bought last spring pure, farmers of Covington County held three gin days. Enough seed to plant about 1,000 acres was ginned out.

John T. Ellis has sold two lots across the street in front of the new Presbyterian church to Mr. Charley Ward. Mr. Ward is a prominent farmer of the Liberty Hill community. We understand he will build a home on his recently acquired property and move to town.

We can save you money on a High Grade Piano, Radio or Phonograph. Get our prices and terms.—MOORE'S.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

COCCIDIOSIS CAN BE CONQUERED

"No matter how you slice it, it's boloney," runs the refrain of a song recently popular, and no matter how you pronounce it, Coccidosis is still the same menace to the health of your growing chicks. It might help some, so far as pronunciation is concerned to adopt the suggestion of one writer and call the disease Coxy. It will require something more drastic than a change of name however, to stamp out this disease if it once gets a started in your flock.

"Coxy" is one of the most widely spread and fatal diseases of baby chicks there is at the present time. Baby chicks from three to eight weeks are the ones that usually have the disease. It often runs a rapid course and may kill a large percentage of a flock in a short time. Many chicks that survive are permanently affected, stunted in growth and of little value.

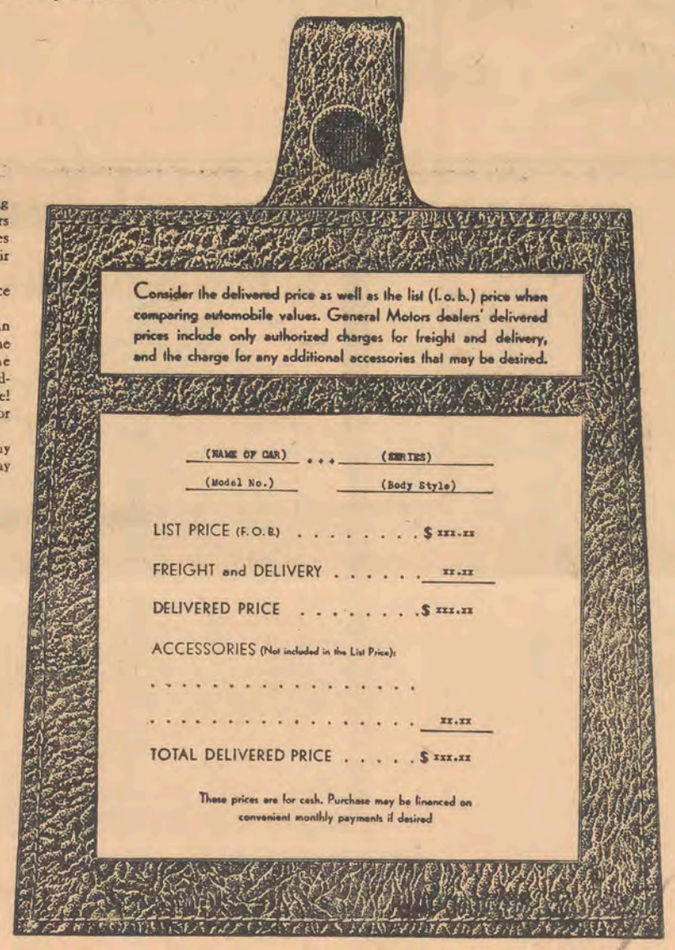
The disease is caused by tiny parasites which during a certain stage in their development bury themselves in the intestinal walls of infected chicks. The irritation and damage to the intestines cause the chicks to become droopy and dispirited; their feathers appear ruffled and dull; they huddle together, lose interest in food and sometimes cease eating altogether. They grow light, walk unsteadily and the droppings are frequently, but not always, tinged with blood.

If chicks showing such symptoms really have coccidosis, a post mortem examination of the blind guts will usually reveal them considerably enlarged and full of a bloody material of cheesy consistency.

While the disease is most common among chicks, it is sometimes contracted in chronic form by older birds usually from four to eight months old. In such cases, it develops slowly and may affect only a few fowls. The symptoms of chronic coccidiosis are much like those caused by worms, lice and other parasites or by nutritional diseases.

If the disease is found in your flock, immediate steps should be taken to conquer it. A milk diet and sanitation and isolation of infected birds are your most effective weapons. Then keep an untiring campaign of sanitation. Your advantage lies in the fact that germs are expelled with the dropping during their inactive period and must develop outside the bidy which requires about 4 days' time. Droppings should be removed from the chicken houses every day, and the yards swept and cleaned every 3 or 4 days. All feeding and drinking vessels should be protected so the chicks can not roost above them and befoul them with droppings. Where chicks can be raised on wire floors such as is seen in battery brooders this disease is seldom seen.

It is also a good idea to cover the floors of the houses where infected chicks are kept with several layers of paper. Remove one layer each day and burn it. Spray every nook and cranny of every house with a strong dip and disinfectant solution often and allow no one who has been working among the diseased chicks to go among healthy ones until their shoes have been disinfected.



Lactose in milk is deadly to the tiny parasites that cause the disease. Remove all water and either give the chicks all the fresh buttermilk, semi-solid buttermilk or fresh clabber milk they will drink in clean vessels or mix from 20 to 40 per cent. powdered milk in mash feed which contains ni meat scraps and let them eat all of it they will. Give plenty of green food and feed lightly of grain for a few days.

After all trace of the disease has vanished, which should take from one to two weeks, gradually reduce the amount of milk and increase the mash and grain until normal feeding is resumed. Do not make the mistake of thinking that a milk diet alone will give results. The most important part of your campaign is the sanitary measures and these should be continued after the disease has run its course. With the right kind of feeding and sanitation, Coccidiosis can be conquered.

BUYERS OF NEW CARS

FROM time to time General Motors has devoted its messages in this paper to giving facts which help the car-buyer get full value for his automobile dollar.

In keeping with that policy of frankness, this message gives facts about the prices of new cars which every one should know.

THIS is the standard price tag used by General Motors dealers to show what makes up the delivered prices of their new cars.

List Price. The f. o. b. price advertised by the factory.

Freight and Delivery. An authorized amount to cover the freight charges paid by the dealer and the cost of unloading, inspecting, supplying fuel and oil — preparing the car for delivery to you.

Accessories. A charge for any additional accessories that may be purchased.

WHEN you buy a new automobile, it is the delivered price that you actually pay.

The delivered price consists of the list price of the car—the f. o. b. price advertised by the manufacturers—plus certain other charges which the dealer makes.

You should know exactly what those charges are and what each one is for.

There is no mystery about the charges added by General Motors dealers. They have adopted this standard price tag, which tells you everything. Nothing is hidden. There is no extra charge to permit a seemingly better trade-in offer. No extra charge to cover advertising or any other item. You know exactly what makes up the difference between the list price and the delivered price. Each charge made by the dealer is fair and reasonable.

Use this tag for reference. Make it your guide in comparing automobile values. For the delivered price is the price you really pay.

Below is given the range of list prices for each General Motors car. They are just as low as General Motors' vast production, centralized purchasing and reasonable profit per car can make them. General Motors dealers maintain this value in their delivered prices of these cars and show you every item on the standard price tag. Look over the General Motors line. Then clip the coupon.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. J. C. CULP

On Monday morning, October 21, the death angel visited the home of Mr. J. C. Culp and took from him his loving wife, formerly Miss Arvazenia Foshee.

Mrs. Culp was 61 years of age and has been a devoted wife for 41 years. She was ill only a short time, although she had not been well for many years.

She had lived such a life as to be ready to meet her maker. Sunday night she asked the people to pray for her. She asked them not to pray that she might live, but that she might get ease.

Oh! how we miss her tender care.
But now her life sun has sunk
And the paths of life no more she'll trod.
But we know her name in gold is written
On the autograph of God.

She is survived by a faithful husband, two sons, Grady and Aurelius Culp, granddaughters, Curry Lee Culp of Birmingham, Lloyd, Mathe Lee, Mary Pearl and Gertie Mae Culp of Clanton. Two grandsons, Carl and Bernice Culp, also of Clanton, one brother, Albert Foshee, and one sister, Mrs. R. C. Riggins, both of Clanton.

Funeral services were held at Mt. Nebo, conducted by Rev. Ezell, Martin in charge.

IN MEMORY OF A. C. WELLS

The Death Angel visited the home of K. Wells of Thorsby, and took away our dear father and grandfather, Thursday, October 24, at ten minutes after seven. He was a loving father and grandfather. He suffered so much the last few weeks. But God saw fit to take him to a land where there is no more suffering; no more trials and afflictions. He is dead but his memory lingers ever. And we hope and trust that when we come to leave this world that people will say of us as they did of him, "He lived unspotted from the world," and that we will meet him in that land where there are no more sad farewells:

For he is not dead,
But he is sleeping,
And we've given him
Into God's keeping.
And we hope to meet
Him on that shore
Where we'll have to part no more.

—One who loves him, his granddaughter, Mary Wells.

We wish to thank the people of Thorsby and the surrounding community and also of Clanton, for their kindness, help and sympathy during the long sickness and death of our dear father and grandfather, Rev. A. C. Wells. May God's richest blessings rest with each one of them is our prayer. We also thank Mr. Mell Martin and also Mr. Ocie Blackmon for their help, and the people for the beautiful flowers. And Rev. A. C. Nelson for the beautiful way he conducted the funeral service.—His Children and Grandchildren, K. Wells and Family, D. A. Lodge and Family, F. M. Eiland and Family.

UNCLE DOCK WELLS DIES

Archibald Campbell Wells (affectionately known all over central Alabama as "Uncle Dock") died Thursday, October 24th, at the home of his son, Keener Wells, near Thorsby. Four children, 29 grandchildren, and a host of great grandchildren survive him. Mr. Wells was nearly 82 years old, and for more than fifty years had been actively in the ministry, most of it as a Congregationalist. At the time of his death, and for several years past he had been a member of the Congregational church at Thorsby where the funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Saturday, October 26th, conducted by Rev. A. C. Nelson, assisted by Rev. E. W. Butler, Rev. J. E. Each, pastor of this church being absent from Thorsby. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns. Rev. Nelson spoke briefly but with much feeling of his intimate relations with Brother Wells ever since he (Nelson) was a child. Mr. Butler also spoke of his assosiation with Uncle Dock in their ministerial relations for many years. Miss Odie Lee Arthur sang with expression, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and Miss Kathryn Foss sang beautifully, "Fade, Fade, Each Earthly Joy." The congregation sang, "How Firm a Foundation." The wishes of Brother Wells, often expressed while living, that he wanted no professional undertaker to manage his funeral, were observed. His kinfolks were pall bearers and Chas. A. Peterson was in charge of details.

When the cortege arrived at Cedar Grove cemetery they found so many friends of Brother Wells assembled that it was thought best to open the casket and give them an opportunity to once more look on the face of their friend as he lay at rest. He was of a kindly and courteous disposition, greatly beloved by all who knew him.

Mrs. Astro Wright has been appointed as the sixth teacher on our public school faculty, besides Principal Bean, and took up the duties of the position this week Monday morning. Mrs. Wright is a young woman of a pleasing personality, a graduate of Jacksonville Normal school, a teacher of experience holding a 1st grade certificate, and will no doubt be a very desirable addition to our public school faculty.

Thorsby Institute Lyceum Course

Arrangements have been made to have a very interesting course of three entertainments during the season between now and spring.

Season tickets for the course will be for adults $1.25, and for school students 95c. Single admission for adults 50c and students 35c.

The first number will be given at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, November 14. The attraction will be Charles Crawford Gorst, widely known as "The Bird Man," noted naturalist, lecturer and bird imitator, who has been delightfully entertaining and instructing audiences in all parts of the United States and in Canada for the past sixteen years. His bird language, calls and songs are unique and varied. Due notice will be given of the date and character of other numbers in the course. It is hoped that there will be a liberal purchase of season tickets at the low prices offered.

Next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock Rev. Jesse Morgan, president of Alabama Methodist Conference will preach at Thorsby Congregational church, and also in the evening at 7:15. Mr. Morgan is well and favorably known all over the state and will have something to say worth hearing. Everybody is invited.

Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers are building a substantial addition to their office and warehouse building on Jones Street. The structure is of concrete blocks and more than double the size of the present office and warehouse.

The P.-T. A. will meet on Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. Leonard Lowery.

Monday morning of this week the children of a section northeast of Thorsby were given facilities for getting to Thorsby public school by truck. It is evident that there was need for it as the truck comes in loaded to capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Amundsen of Chicago, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Davidson, arrived in Thorsby last Tuesday. Mrs. Davidson returned on Thursday. Her father and mother expect to remain here thru the winter. They have rooms at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg where they will be glad to welcome their Thorsby friends.

Mrs. Brink of Chicago has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sorensen, for the past two weeks. Last week Mr. Brink arrived with their twin grown sons, Einar and Arnold, to spend a few days. Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Schive were entertained at dinner by the Sorensens. After dinner Mr. and Mrs. Sorensen and Mr. and Mrs. Schive were guests of the Brinks for a trip to Mitchell Dam which they greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Sorensen has been an invalid for several years and it is a long time since she has been away from home.

The Y. W. A. Dollar and Measuring social will be held at the home of Mrs. Ed Piper on Friday evening of this week. The proceeds will go for the building fund of the new Baptist church.

Master Frank Wood spent the week end in Birmingham.

Mrs. Ida Fowler of Cullman, Ala. spent a few days with her daughter, Mrs. MacDonald Pearson, last week. Mrs. Fowler also attended a meeting of the Grand Chapter of O. E. S. in Montgomery.

Mrs. Burt Higgins visited her son and daughter in Deatsville last week and then attended the Grand Chapter O. E. S. in Montgomery.

Mr. Olin Williams of Billingsley, a former T. I. graduate, was a visitor in Thorsby the past week end. He also visited the Misses Lessley at Jemison.

Miss Bernice Honeycutt of Birmingham spent the week end with Miss Edna Childress. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marcus and Edna Childress accompanied her home Sunday afternoon.

The Misses Pauline, Nora Lee and Irene Lessley of Oak Grove, Estelle Lessley of Calera, and Olin Williams of Billingsley, visited Miss Mattie Scott Sunday.

Mr. C. P. Turnquist returned from a two weeks visit with his daughter, Mrs. Karl R. Peterson, at Fairfield.

Mr. J. H. Goddard was quite ill Saturday and Sunday, but not too ill to welcome his grandson and wife of Ohio who will visit here a few days.

Miss Margaret Peterson, a student at T. I., spent the week end in Birmingham with her mother, Mrs. George Peterson.

Miss Thoroman of T. I. faculty, spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl R. Peterson, of Fairfield, spent Sunday with relatives in Thorsby.

Mrs. Martin Petersen was a guest of Mrs. J. E. Each Monday, as a member of her neighborly quilting party during the afternoon.

Lester Pate of Wetumpka visited home folks Sunday.

Mrs. Anna Phalin and son, Thomas, accompanied by Mrs. Kane and two daughters, all of Tuscaloosa, spent Saturday night and Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Howard. Mr. and Mrs. Howard also entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Louis Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard and family and Mr. Charles Swanson.

Mr. J. W. Primm of Weogufka visited his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Primm, last Sunday.

Word comes from Prof. C. M. Williams who is now at Guntersville, that he is enjoying his work there in the school, that he likes the people very much, everything is satisfactory, but that he is lonesome for his family.

Rev. J. E. Each was at Park Falls, Wisconsin last Sunday. From there he expects to go to Minneapolis. He spoke in a German church the next day in a Scandinavin home where the Ladies Aid of the church was assembled, who served coffee and sandwiches, which he said, of course reminded him of Thorsby.

Cecil Each who is attending the Coyne Electrical School, Chicago, writes that in some things, kindness, courtesy and neatness this school reminds him of Thorsby Institute. He was happy to meet Beatrice and Bertha Kirkland up there.

Last Saturday night Miss Fairbank and Mrs. Sutlive entertained the students and teachers of the Boarding Department of Thorsby Institute with a very pleasant part at the North Cottage where they live. Various games were played after which sandwiches and cocoa were served.

A letter has been received recently from Mr. R. M. Dickson, a former teacher at Thorsby Institute. He is temporarily Principal of "The Dutch Malay English School" at Summatra, which is one of the countries of the Dutch East India colonies. The school has 500 pupils. After December he expects to be transferred to Singapore. He is learning the native tongue which is Malay, and which he says is very easy. He expects soon to begin the study of Mandarin Chinese.

Mr. Dickson's address is 15 Ilir, No. 128, Palembang, Sumatra.

On Wednesday the afternoon bridge club met with Mrs. Mack Gray. The home was beautifully decorated with dahlias of varied hues. After a series of games were played, high score was captured by Mrs. Lee Pate. Miss Agnes Leary consolation prize. The guest prize was received by Mrs. A. C. Dowling. Mrs. Gray in her most charming manner served delightful refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Pick Franklin. The Hallowe'en scheme was carried out in orange and black. Club members present. Honor guest Mrs. A. C. Dowling, Mrs. Lorane Smith, Miss Agnes Leary, Mrs. Alton Cox.

Messrs. Palmer Lefstead and Robert Ward of Birmingham were visitors here Sunday.

Master Lawrence Gerald Jr., of Clanton spent the week end with his grandmother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth and children, Christine and Leonard, spent Saturday in Montgomery taking in the Fair.

Misses Olen Mims and Iola Gerald were visitors in Clanton last Saturday.

Miss Agnes Gerald, who is teaching in Guntersville, spent the week end at home in Thorsby.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen spent several days in Birmingham over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gray and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin were visitors in Montgomery last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade were visitors in Calera Sunday.

Mrs. Martin Dyrhovd is still on the sick list.

"THE HOLLYWOOD REVUE" AT THE ALABAMA NOW

An unparalleled combination of stars, the greatest collection of songs and dances, the most spectacular combination of comedy, thrills, music and color that has ever been known in one entertainment is the promise of the management of The Alabama this week when "The Hollywood Revue" is presented in Birmingham.

With 30 stars of the screen and stage, 200 beautiful dancing girls and numerous players of lesser rank making merry in skits and dances and singing the songs and tripping to the music of 30 composers, "The Hollywood Revue" will bring to the Alabama two hours of entertainment that has been impossible in the history of the theatre until the talking screen came into being.

Imagine John Gilbert, Norma Shearer, William Haines, Joan Crawford, Conrad Nagel, Marion Davies, Buster Keaton, Bessie Love, Charles King, Anite Page, Jack Benny, Gus Edwards, Gwen Lee, Natacha Natova, Karl Dane, George K. Arthur, Marie Dressler, Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy, the Brox Sisters, Beth Laemmle and Polly Moran all in one show.

All of them are in "The Hollywood Revue" and everyone of them has something important to do. For a living background for the great extravagance are 200 of the most beautiful girls Hollywood can produce and the most beautiful girls in the world are gathered at the film capital. In this 200 is the largest Albertina Rasch ballet that has ever danced together and the Rasch dancers are rated as the best in the world.

These are the players who will put on the scores of numbers of "The Hollywood Revue." Tinkling tunes, graceful dances, great scenes in natural colors, clever skits and playlets —all have been combined into a show that would put to shame the combined efforts of George White, Florenze Ziegfield and Earl Carroll if they tried it on the stage.

All of these stars and all of this entertainment will be at the Alabama for the entire week, starting Monday, October 28, and at the usual Alabama prices.

LOCK 12 WILL BE NAMED "LAY DAM" ON SATURDAY, NOV. 23

Elaborate Dedication Program Is Being Prepared; 5,000 People Will Attend

Honor Will Be Paid To Pioneer In Hydro-Electric Power Development

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 4.—Captain William Patrick Lay, of Gadsden, founder and first president of Alabama Power Company, will be signally honored when the Lock 12 hydro-electric development on Coosa River will be officially designated as "Lay Dam." Elaborate exercises have been arranged for the epochal occasion, which will be celebrated on Saturday, November 23rd. Captain Lay will be present in person to accept the honor his associates and friends have arranged for him.

Arrangements have been made at the dam for the accommodation of several thousand guests, including several notables in the power industry. Among these will be Matthew S. Sloan, a native son of Alabama, who has achieved great distinction in the business world, being now president of the New York Edison Company and of the National Electric Light Association.

Governor Bibb Graves will take part in the ceremony and Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company, will officially dedicate the development. Other features in the program will include selections by the Birmingham Police Band and a Southern-style barbecue.

The Lock 12 Dam was conceived by Captain Lay and it was with his own hands that the development was actually placed under construction. His pioneering in behalf of the development of Alabama's latent water power and his vision of navigation and harnessed electric energy for the benefit of his fellow men led to and actually put into motion the present system of electric enterprises which places Alabama today in third place among the nations in hydro-electric power development. Power Company executives are of the opinion that had Captain Lay's perseverance failed Alabama would have been delayed by years in reaching its present stage of power development. His pioneering back in the early '90's encountered many obstacles, principally a lack of interest in his "dream," and the timidity of money with which to carry on. His undaunted spirit, determination and foresight, backed by a will-to-do, made possible an achievement in a span of time short enough to permit him to live on to see a work well done. The dedication of the Power Company's first Dam will be a fitting tribute to the man and his untiring labors.

Arrangements have been made to carry some of the Alabama guests on special Louisville and Nashville trains to be operated out of Montgomery and Birmingham, to Clanton, departing from the former city at 8:30 a. m. and from the latter at 8:30 a. m. on the day of dedication, and thence by bus to the site of the Lock 12 Plant. In view of the easy accessibility of the plant by auto it is expected, however, that those invited will principally go by auto.

The exercises will begin at 11 a.m. and conclude in time to allow those who make the trip in automobiles to reach their homes during the early evening hours.

Dr. Arthur Johnson left Sunday for Chicago where he will take a post graduate course in eye, ear, and throat, and Hemorrhoids and Pellagra. Dr. Johnson will be gone for three or four weeks. His office will be open during that time.

LEON EVANS TO BE MARRIED ON NOV. 9

The following wedding invitation has been received by some friends of Mr. Leon Evans in Clanton:

"Mr. and Mrs. William Serat Swift request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Ann Elizabeth, to Mr. William Leon Evans, Friday, the 29th of November, at eight-thiry in the evening, Central Presbyterian Church, Kansas City, Missouri."

Mr. Evans is a son of Mrs. J. E. Evans, of Clanton. Some years ago the young man left here and went to Birmingham, where he readily established himself with profitable business connections. For the past few months he has been living in Kansas City.

The many friends of the young man in Clanton will learn of his approaching marriage to Miss Swift with much interest, at the same time voicing their hearty good wishes for his continued success and happiness.

H. S. MOBLEY

Mr. Mobley is on the program for a number of addresses at the Short Course here next Monday and Tuesday. He has lectured to the people of this county on several occasions in the past, and his ability as a speaker is well known. "Communities Are Made of Folks," is one of his subjects, and we wish that every man and woman, boy and girl in Chilton County might hear this address.

Helpfulness Only Aim of Farmers' Short Course

No Selfish Motives of Any Kind Are Involved In The Plan of Holding The Short Course Meetings Here

Before arranging for the agricultural Short Course, which is to be held in Clanton, at the Chilton County High School Auditorium on next Monday and Tuesday, November 11 and 12, in co-operation with the Agricultural Extension Department of the International Harvester Company, local committees sponsoring the meetings satisfied themselves that the lectures and motion pictures will be entirely educational in nature and not advertise the Harvester Company or any of its products.

This fact is amply substantiated by thousands of people and scores of newspapers in the many places where the meetings have been held. As indicating the value and purpose of the meetings, we quote the following from the Bamberg, S. C. Herald:

"Nothing has ever been held or shown in Bamberg which has been of more general instruction and information to the people of the county than the lectures and motion pictures presented here through the courtesy of the International Harvester Company's extension service. Hundreds of people attended the meetings during the two days, and it is safe to say that not a single person went away feeling that his or her time had not been well spent.

"Any of the several lectures given by the experts was worth a liberal admission fee to hear. In fact, there are few of us who have not paid well to hear something containing not a fraction of the information and inspiration these speakers gave to the people of Bamberg entirely without charge.

"The motion pictures shown are not to be confused with advertising films frequently exhibited, but were animated depictions of life on the farm and in the home. Special attention was given to modern methods, thrift, beautiful and attractive premises, as well as showing how these much-to-be-desired things may be obtained on any farm whose owner is ambitious to live better. Folks were made to feel like going home and taking a new start in life—real life in God's free air, where the possibilities for expansion, for elevation and for prosperity are endless and without limit.

"The work being done by the I H C extension service is one to be appreciated by the people. Covering, as it does, all phases of home and farm activities, it is a genuine uplift service.

"The speakers easily class with any high-priced chautauqua lecturers ever heard here, and the messages they brought to the people surpassed anything else along this line that Bamberg has ever enjoyed.

"Throughout the course no mention was made of I H C products, the only benefit accruing to the Company being that which is derived by all business concerns when communities are made more prosperous, healthier and happier."

MOTION PICTURES WILL FEATURE AGRICULTURAL SHORT COURSE

Meetings Will Be Held at County High School Next Monday and Tuesday

JAMES L. KRAKER

The practical side of farming will be dealt with in a number of speeches by Mr. Kraker at the Short Course here next Monday and Tuesday. We are all concerned in the problems of the farm. Business—all business—depends directly upon the agricultural development of our community. Every citizen of our county should join in by attending every session of the Short Course next week. It will prove the best effort we have ever made for farm advancement.

Instructive Reels Depicting Various Subjects To Be A Big Feature

This is the age of motion pictures. If they are clean and interesting we all like them. If, in addition, they are helpful to us, we like them still more.

Most movies are made simply to amuse or entertain people, but the Agricultural Extension Department of the International Harvester Company has taken advantage of the great possibilities of motion pictures and is using them, not only to entertain, but to educate and instruct.

The department has prepared 21 reels, illustrating important subjects touching upon town and country problems. Judges of movies have declared they are the best reels on these subjects ever prepared.

Many of the reels will be shown during the agricultural short course, to be held in the Chilton County High School Auditorium, at Clanton, on November 11th and 12th.

Two of the reels, entitled "Farm Inconveniences," illustrate the foolishness of doing some things and the carelessness of not doing others.

"Cherryland" graphically pictures the world's greatest cherry orchard and vividly demonstrates the good use of knowledge.

"Power in the Farm Home" illustrates how to do away with the drudgery of many of the housewife's everyday tasks, and "Household Conveniences" shows how, in other ways, we can make mother's work easier.

"Home Canning" illustrates the various steps in canning fruits and vegetables, and two reels show how to make money from farm poultry. One of these reels, "Producing Paying Pullets," shows the modern methods of hatching and culling chicks, and the other reel, "Business Management of Business Hens," depicts culling, housing, and managing the layers.

"Milk, Nature's Perfect Food" demonstrates the value of milk as food and ho wto produce it profitably. A companion reel, "Greater Profit from Milk," shows how to get the most value out of milk, after it is produced, while still another reel, "The Making of a Good Cow," most interestingly illustrates the value of good breeding and good feeding.

"Take Care of Your Orchard" is a reel that will greatly interest those who have no orchard, as well as those who have. It demonstrates the spraying, cultivating, mulching and marketing of fruit.

"Hog Health Makes Hog Wealth" shows how to prevent hog worms and diseases, and four reels deal with corn. These reels are "Gather Seed Corn Early," "Test Every Ear of Seed Corn," "Growing the Corn Crop," and "Harvesting the Corn Crop." The subject matter covered by each reel is described by its title.

"Sheep for Mutton, Wool and Money," pictures the raising, shearing and care of sheep.

One reel, "Alfalfa," shows how to grow America's greatest hay crop, and another reel, "Soybeans," has to do with that valuable legume crop.

Another interesting reel, "The Power Behind the Orange," illustrates the growing, harvesting and shipping of oranges.

Postoffice Will Be In Chandler Building

Location on South Side of Main Street Near The L. & N. Railroad Crossing

On and after the Fourth Day of next May the Clanton Postoffice will be located in new quarters in the old Chandler Building, on the south side of Second Avenue, near the railroad crossing.

Dr. Napoleon S. Johnson and H. G. Boyd, owners of the building, were the successful bidders for the contract to provide quarters for the postoffice. They have been notified of the acceptance of the proposal by the postoffice department.

Mr. Boyd states that the building will undergo extensive repairs to meet the requirements of the postoffice department, and when completed, it will be one of the nicest postoffice plants in Alabama.

The location which has been accepted by the department is a suitable one for the postoffice. Its central location makes it equally accessible from all parts of the city. It is close to the railroad, another advantage in its favor. It is directly across the street from the place where the postoffice was located for many years prior to its removal to the Hayes Building ten years ago.

GRACE MARIAN SMITH

The Short Course here next Monday and Tuesday will have a special appeal to the women of Chilton County. Grace Marian Smith is the person selected to present the subjects for the women. The helpful information that the speaker will bring to our women will be of lasting benefit to the community.

Leonard P. Martin, of Birmingham, formerly deputy sheriff of Chilton County, was here Wednesday attending Circuit Court.

E. M. HILYER WINS COTTON PRIZE

Mr. E. M. Hilyer of Clanton Route 5 has won a prize from the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation which was awarded to him for growing the sixteenth best stalk of cotton in the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia and Florida in the year 1929.

The amount of the cash prize was $10, which has been sent to Mr. Hilyer by the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. With the prize also was sent to Mr. Hilyer a nice letter of commendation. The letter says to Mr. Hilyer, "In addition to the money, you have won a national reputation as a producer of quality cotton which is, as you realize, a signal honor."

Mr. Hilyer conducts a farm on the place of Mr. S. H. Hilyer, Clanton Route 5. His prize was won with a stalk of Cook's Wilt Resistant Cotton.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

A STUDY OF PALESTINE

On my rounds in the Land of Palestine I wish to tell responsively to eager searching hearts that God's help with his word in my mind and heart and at the same time praying to grasp the great truths connected with this sacred land I found that seven out of ten people and events which I saw confirmed the teachings of the Bible. This does not include the places of which I can truthfully say that most every place I saw is connected with God's word and confirms the teachings thereof.

The land of Palestine is about the size of the state of Maryland or New Jersey or Wales, in Great Britian. To be more accurate it is about 200 miles in length and 67 miles wide in the widest places. The entire length of the country from Dan in the extreme northern part to Beersheba in the extreme southern part is 139 miles in an air-line. Its width at the northern extremity is about thirty miles, and at the southern, about forty miles. The whole area west of the Jordan is about six thousand square miles. The territory of the tribes which dwelt east of the Jordan was not so long nor so wide. It lies eastward of the northern end of the Sea of Galilee, a distance of about one hundred miles and its average width is not more than twenty-five miles.

Palestine is divided into five political divisions: Judea, Samaria, Galilee, Perea, Bashan. In Luke 3:1 we find that Bashan is referred to as "Philip's Tetrarchy", it is divided from Perea by the river Hieronax which flows into the Jordan River directly south of the Lake of Galilee. Galilee lies between the Sea of Galilee and the Great Sea, the Mediterrenean Sea, and extends a good distance in a straight course along the western shore of the Jordan River. Samaria lies south of Galilee, between that province and the province of Judea. It embraced the ancient territory of Ephraim and West-Manasseh, and was fertile and populous. Judea embraces the southernmost province of Palestine west of the Jordan River and the Dead Sea and Perea, the southernmost part east of the Jordan River and the Dead Sea. Even the devil could not intelligently deny the location of these places.

It has been called Canaan from the word "lowland" referring to the Canaanites who dwelt in that section between the Jordan and the Mediterrenean Sea. It is called Israel because of its conquest by Joshua and the children of Israel. Judea is also another name given it after the Babylonian captivity, and as I have already stated it is the name of the most important province of the land in which is located the chief city, Jerusalem. This city is about thirty-two miles from the sea and eighteen miles from the Jordan. Palestine is the name taken from the word "Philistine" the name of a tribe of people who occupied its southwest border at one time. This name has been handed down to us since the time of Christ.

Palestine has been, is, and will be the greatest land on the face of the earth because the greatest events of the world's history have taken place, is taking place, and will take place in that land. We think of this land as the home of those faithful old patriarchs and prophets. I see faithful Abraham as he travels from his home and kindred in Ur of Chaldea to Mesopotamia, and from thence across the Euphrates River, and in a southerly direction along the old road on the side of the Lebanon mountains by Damascus in Syria which was the capital of Syria and is the capital today. I see him in obedience to God and in God's plan as he first encamps at Shechem just below the mount of blessing, Gerizim, and the mount of cursing, Ebal, upon which the blessings and warnings were read when the Israelites were entering the promised land. Mount Gerizim is known also as the mount of the temple of the Samaritan worship in their rebellion after the release from the Babylonian captivity.

Wearily and no doubt very tired as they traveled below snow capped mountains where the temperature then and now ranges to 112 degrees in heat. Below I see Abraham uncomplainingly plodding along leading a donkey upon which Sarai is riding. God had called them to get out of that wicked country and they were responding to his call. I see them as they pass along by Lake Merom, called Lake Huleh by the Arabs today, lying between the hills of Galilee on the west and the lower projections of Hermon on the east. It is right here we trace the source of the Jordan to three springs which rise up in Mount Hermon and flow down into Lake Merom and thence into the Sea of Galilee and on down into the Jordan. Here on the shores of Lake Merom Joshua conquered the northern Canaanites.

Now back to Damascus which is no doubt the oldest city in the world. Damascus was built by a grandson of Noah. It was a very beautiful and important city, and was held in succession by the Egyptians, Babylonians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, Mohammedans, but it was not captured as much as was Jerusalem. It was famous as a city of the manufacture of blades. Many times we read in the Bible of the Damascus blades and wares. This is still a source of trade. One striking thing is that Eliezer, Abraham's servant was of Damascus. He was a Syrian. Remember that Abraham was a Syrian before he was a Jew.

We come to Baalbec, in Syria, this was the seat of Baal worshippers. I met a man while visiting in the holy land who had thirteen relatives killed there by the Turks, but he is still there preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ. He is burning out his life for Jesus Christ. Along this caravan road Naaman, the great Syrian general traveled down to see Elisha in Samaria and then down to the Jordan River where he dipped seven times and was cleansed of his leprosy. Right along this road Rachel and Jacob traveled going back to the promised land to meet and make restitution to his brother for his wicked schemes which had driven him from his homeland. It was along this road Abraham sent Eliezer, his servant back to the house of Laban to select his son Isaac a wife because he did not want him to marry a flapper of heathen worship.

Going to Damascus I wrote down thirty-two facts which are mentioned in the Bible. The first thing which impressed me as to the Scripture was an unmuzzled ox driven by a woman around a stone foundation tramping out the wheat. You think of that verse in the Scripture: "Thou shalt not muzzle the ox which treadeth out the wheat." Then I saw the shepherd leading his sheep into the fold at evening. The shepherd did not enter the fold, but there was the porter who stood inside of the door of the fold and separeted the sheep from the goats, placing the sheep on the right and the goats on the left. So fulfiling that verse: "The sheep shall be separated from the goats, the sheep to the right and the goats to the left." The shepherd called the sheep by their names and they knew his voice and followed him to the fold where the porter opened the door and let him in.

Then as I passed along this way I saw two women sitting by some flat round stones placed one on top of the other and one would push the stone in one direction while the other would quickly push it the opposite direction, grinding wheat. I thought of this verse of Scripture: "Two women shall be grinding at the mill, the one shall be taken and the other left." As you ride along you see the tiniest sparrows, and you hear their sweet chirps. It was of these sparrows Jesus was thinking when he said, "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? And one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father's notice." There on the Sea of Galilee's sacred shores we watchced the sun go down. It reminded me of one of the minor prophets writing in these words: "At eventide the sun goeth down."

Now the Sea of Galilee is one of the greatest confirmations of the Bible. It is in the shape of an egg from whence it takes its name Galilee. It has been called Chinnereth. Christ spent two years of his public ministry around this sea. The people who sat in darkness, as we are told by one of the prophets of the Old Testament, saw a great light. The Plain of Geneseret is where Christ preached all day. The disciples came to him in the evening desiring that the multitude be fed. The best orthodoxic view of the number fed was thirteen thousand. This was done by Christ's miracle of loaves and fishes.

RELIEF that is REFRESHING

"We have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years in our family. I can highly recommend it for many ailments. We take it for colds and for constipation.

"I have four children, and I give it to them. When my little girl gets bilious, or complains of headache, I give her a treatment of Black-Draught, and she is all right in a day or two.

"Sometimes when I have indigestion from improper eating, I have headache. Then I take Black-Draught. I always feel fresh and have more energy after I have taken it."—Mrs. E. Reich, 2215 East First Street, Austin, Texas.

COTTON PRICES TOO LOW SAYS FEDERAL FARM BOARD

The Federal Farm Board believes that the present prevailing prices for cotton are too low. The total supply of American cotton is less than last year, consumption continues at a world rate equal to that of last year, unfilled orders and actual sales of cotton goods are more and stocks are smaller than last year, yet the price of the raw product is less. The Board believes that this unsatisfactory price level is chiefly due to the open fall weather which, in most of the southern states, has led to exceptionally rapid marketing by producers in awounts much greater than the markets of the world can temporarily obsorb. This, in turn, has led to lack of confidence in cotton values.

The Board believes that the remedy lies in more orderly marketing. In order to assist cotton farmers to hold back their crop and at the same time have money with which to pay their obligations, the Board proposes to lend to cotton cooperatives, qualified as borrowers under the Capper-Volstead Act, sums sufficient to bring the total amount borrowed from all sources by such associations to 16 cents per pound on graded and classed cotton, basis middling 7-8 inch staple, less proper deductions to cover freight to port concentration points.

With respect to the ten designated southern spot markets the loan per pound will be approximately as follows: Norfolk, Va., 16.54 cents; Augusta, Ga., 16.35 cents; Savannah, Ga., 16.28 cents; Montgomery, Ala., 15.64 cents; New Orleans, La., 16.59 cents; Memphis, Tenn., 15.39 cents; Little Rock, Ark., 15.41 cents; Dallas, Texas, 15.34 cents; ouston, Texas, 16.19 cents; Galveston, Texas, 16.39 cents; and at all other concentration points on the same basis, less proper freight and other expense adjustments.

The cotton cooperatives are now borrowing certain sums for advances to members from commercial banks, the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, and the Federal Farm Board. The Board will make supplemental loans to the cooperatives in amounts sufficient to make the average total loan, with differentials as stated, 16 cents a pound for the entire cotton belt.

In many sections of the South the Board believes that the net advances which cotton cooperatives can make to their members under this loan plan will almost if not quite equal the amounts which are being paid by speculators and others on actual purchases from farmers.

There is a cotton cooperative in every state. It is open to the membership of every cotton farmer. The farmer may join, ship his cotton to a designated concentration point where it will be graded and classed, and draw his advance. The cooperative will market the cotton in orderly fashion through the year, and will finally settle with the farmer on the basis of the final price obtained.

The Board is confident that, considering the soundness of underlying conditions which affect the price of cotton, the plan described above furnishes a completely safe basis for the making of loans from the Board's revolving fund. The Board places no limit on the amount of Government money to be loaned. Nearly $100,000,000 is available for the purpose, and if necessary, the Board will ask Congress to appropriate more.

FALL OATS ARE PROFITABLE

By C. E. STAPP, County Agent.

According to reports from Mr. J. C. Lowery, Extension Agronowist of Auburn, oat demonstrations run by farmers in different parts of the state showed that oats planted last fall proved profitable crops at harvest time.

The average planting date was in October. The average rate of seeding was 2 to 3 bushels per acre, of either Texas Red Rust proof or Fulghum oats. The demonstrators applied 200 pounds of Nitrate of Soda as a top dressing the first week in March. The plots receiving the 200 pounds of soda made an average yield of 49.2 bushels of oats per acre. The plots that did not get soda averaged 21 bushels per acre. The average increase for 200 pounds of soda was 28.2 bushels per acre.

Mr. R. M. Butler of Sylacauga was in Clanton on business Monday. Mr. Butler is now at work on the night shift at Eva Jane Mills, and says he is getting along fine.

State Examiner's Report On Commissioners Court

Following is a copy of the report of Hon. W. J. Coker, Assistant State Examiner, covering the business of the Commissioners Court of Chilton County from July 1, 1924 to June 30, 1929. This report was filed with Governor Graves at the conclusion of the examination recently made by Mr. Coker.

Montgomery, Alabama, October 28th, 1929.

Hon. Bibb Graves,
Governor of Alabama,
Montgomery, Alabama.

In obedience to the instructions received from the Executive Office, through the Hon. Chas. E. McCall, Chief Examiner of Accounts, I have examined the books, accounts, and vouchers of the Court of Commissioners of Chilton County, Alabama, for a period beginning the 1st of July 1924, ending the 30th of June, 1929, and respectfully submit the following report:

The members of the Court during the above period are given below:

Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate, Ex-Officio Chairman, Clanton, Alabama.
District No. 1 Hon. T. J. Dorminey, Commissioner, to January 17, 1927.
District No. 1 Hon. J. P. Bean, Commissioner, Clanton, Ala., R. F. D.
District No. 2 Hon. J. M. Mims, Commissioner, to January 17, 1927.
District No. 2 Hon. T. A. Maddox, Commissioner, Clanton, Ala., R. F. D.
District No. 3 Hon. C. T. Walker, Commissioner, to January, 1925.
District No. 3 Hon. J. L. Burnett, Commissioner, Maplesville, Ala.
District No. 4 Hon. J. Wiley Littlejohn, Commissioner, to January, 1925.
District No. 4 Hon. A. P. Vinson, Commissioner, Clanton, Ala., R. F. D.

I have examined something over sixteen thousand claims, that have been ordered paid by the Court during this period, all itemized, sworn to and entered on the minutes. I also compared the stubs or copies of warrants issued in payment of the above named claims, and found them all issued for the correct amounts.

By way of explanation of the unusual number of claims filed during this period, for a county of this size, will state that this Commissioners Court requires every individual who does any work for the County to file a claim showing service performed, or in other words, no overseer, foreman, or supervisor, can file a claim for himself and the men working under him jointly, and then have the privilege of settling with his men. The foreman, overseer, or supervisor files his claim and each man working under him file their own claims, and warrants are issued accordingly.

While this plan very materially increases the work of an Examiner, yet this Court of Commissioners are to be commended for following this plan. As a matter of fact, this is the only real way to comply with the code of Alabama in transacting this kind of business, yet in my experience as an Assistant Examiner of Public Accounts I have not found a board of Revenue or Commissioners Court who were quite as strict in complying with the law in this respect as this Court.

I found that the following claims had been paid, that were not legal charge against the county:

T. J. Littlejohn, Ex-Sheriff, Excess charges for attending the Courts	$104.00
T. J. Littlejohn, Ex-Sheriff, premium on bond for two years	$ 50.00
J. D. Collins, Sheriff, Excess charges for attending the courts	$ 69.00
J. T. Rockett, Tax Collector, premium on bond for two years	$330.00
W. D. Spigener, Register, premium on bond for four years	$100.00
J. Z. Mims, Circuit Clerk, Premium on Bond for four years	$ 40.00
J. Z. Mims, Circuit Clerk, Services as hard labor agent 1927 and 1928	$ 50.00

The above accounts have been charged to these officers, and will appear as having been paid in the reports of the examination of their accounts. The charges against T. J. Littlejohn, J. D. Collins, and J. Z. Mims, were given by me to the Hon. A. D. Teel, Assistant Examiner of Accounts, who made the examination of their accounts, and were paid to the County through him. The charges against Mr. Rockett, and Mr. Spigener, are shown as having been paid in the reports filed by me.

The assessed valuation for 1928, less the allowance for insolvents and errors, as shown by the assessor's and Collector's books is	$15,024,833.00
Constitutional debt limit, 3½ per cent of assessed valuation	$ 526,869.15
Total amount of indebtedness of the county as shown by the Treasurer's books:
Interest bearing warrants at the rate of 6 per cent:
W. T. Taylor 2 for $500.00 each due 1931	$ 1,000.00
W. T. Taylor 8 for $500.00 each due 1933	4,000.00
W. T. Taylor 2 for $500.00 each due 1939	1,000.00
Road Bond Issue bearing interest at the rate of 5%:
Balance on the first of July, 1929	$180,000.00
Total	$186,000.00
Cash on hand with the Treasurer July 1st, 1929	$113,159.39

The Bond Issue mentioned above was originally for $200,000.00, thereto being 200 bonds of $1,000.00 each, serial numbers from 1 to 200 inclusive, and while they are not due, the Commissioners Court have been buying them whenever they could find them for sale, giving this as a reason for not creating a Sinking Fund as provided by the code of Alabama 1923, out of the surplus funds in the Treasurer's hands for the purpose of retiring this bond issue when due. As you see from the above $20,000.00 had been retired by the 1st of July of this year, and more has been retired since that time, but of course could not appear in this report.

Respectfully submitted,
W. J. COKER, Assistant Examiner of Accounts.

Subscribed and Sworn to before me this the 28th day of October, 1929.
D. C. LEATHERWOOD, Clerk of the Circuit Court.

A statement from the County Treasurer says that the Commissioners Court passed on a total of $720,309.75 during the period covered by this examination. In this amount, as shown by the report of Mr. Coker, the claims that were not legal amounted to $743.00, all of which has been paid back to the county by the parties to which they were paid.

KING COTTON STANDS FIRM IN PRICE

Alabama farmers should take heart over the actions of the cotton market during the past week. They should view this year's crop prices and possibilities of improvement with favorable minds.

During the past week the New York Stock market has witnessed the greatest loss in values of any period in the World's History. While this paper loss has been reflected to some degree in every state in the Union, Alabama has been largely spared any financial reverses thereby.

Prices of every kind of farm produce dealt with on stock exchanges dropped largely in sympathy with the slaughter of stocks. To this statement, one marked and prominent exception should be made: the cotton market.

Through all this local panic in the World's greatest market, King Cotton wavered less than one cent per pound, and the week closed with a strong market, which had withstood all assaults.

This giantlike strength of cotton leads well informed students of values to believe that cotton is bound to be much higher than present prices before another crop is planted.

One of the main reasons why the price of cotton could not be moved, lay in the fact that the Federal Farm Board had agreed to advance nearly 16 cents per pound on stored cotton, middling basis. Again, the stock of last year's cotton is small and the foreign demand is good, together with the prospects of a fairly good crop in prospect.

This makes what might be called a strong statistical position for cotton and has resulted in holding the market to a high level and has enabled it to withstand the terrible onslaughts of financial values which crumbled in hundreds of first class securities.

REPORT OF STATE EXAMINER ON COUNTY TREASURER

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 28, 1929.
Hon. Bibb Graves,
Governor of Alabama,
Montgomery, Alabama.

Dear Sir:—

In obedience to the instructions received from the Executive Office, through the Hon. Chas. E. McCall, Chief Examiner of accounts, I have examined the accounts, books and vouchers of Mrs. Gertrude Calloway, Treasurer of Chilton County for a period beginning January 15th, 1929, and ending June 30th, 1929, and respectfully submit the following report:

I have prepared statements showing the amount received from her predecessor, Miss Genie Collins, the amount of receipts and disbursements for the period of this examination and also the balance on hand to the credit of Chilton County at the close of this period, which are as follows:

General County	$87745.70
Special Road	508.71
Gasoline Fund	20015.60
Fine & Forfeiture Fund	4548.00
Land Redemption	336.38
	$113154.39

This amount balances with account of Mrs. Calloway as County Treasurer at the Bank.

Mrs. Calloway not only assisted me in examining her accounts, but worked with me all the time I was at work in the Treasurer's Office, for which I thank her.

Respectfully submitted,
W. J. COKER,
Assistant Examiner of Accounts.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this the 28 day of October, 1929.

SAMARIA

Sunday being such a bad day, we didn't have as many at Sunday school as we usually do. Some are not afraid of bad weather. Some were absent on account of sickness.

The B. Y. P. U. met at the regular hour, six o'clock, Sunday night. A fine program was rendered by Group II. Group I will render the program next Sunday night. We have a fine Quiz leader and she knows just how to quiz us. We have just completed our study course, and will take examination Friday night. We hope to reach the standard of an A-1 Union before this quarter is out.

We regret very much to hear of the epidemic of sickness that Mr. J. P. Parrish and family are going through. We hope they will soon be back to their usual health. The members of Samaria Sunday School extend to them their deepest sympathy.

Miss Georgia Wood was sick the first day of the week with an attack of acute indigestion.

Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Edwards and family leave Thursday to make their home in Inglenook. Mr. Edwards was transferred there by the L. & N. Railroad officials. They will be missed by the entire community.

Misses Mamie and Flora Jones attended the box supper at Mt. Pisgah Saturday night.

Miss Icie Belle Cobern spent the week end at home in Mt. Creek.

Miss Louise and Mr. Bill Boockholdt spent the week end with their sister at Enterprise.

CLANTON LIBRARY

The Clanton Library is making a drive for books during Education Week November 11-18. We are soliciting books from organizations as well as individuals, and will publish the list of books as well as the donors from time to time. We all realize what a good library means to every community, and the far-reaching effects of good literature, and in this spirit we are begging each and every individual to make it a personal affair and lend your best effort to this praiseworthy undertaking in your midst. Leave your book and name at the Chilton County News or The Union-Banner. We thank you.

The library will be open every Tuesday and Saturday afternoon from 2:30 until 4:00 p. m., for a while.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Van Smith of South Clanton was buried by Martin at Samaria Wednesday afternoon. The child lived only 14 hours.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Rev. Browder filled his regular appointment the fourth Sunday. He came down Thursday and visited most of the people on his charge, returning to Birmingham Sunday night after services.

Group II of the B. Y. P. U. delightfully entertained Group Saturday night, October 26, with a Hallowe'en social, at the home of Mrs. O'Neal. The house was beautifully decorated with the Hallowe'en colors, using warigolds for the flowers. At ten o'clock hot chocolate and cake was served to about fifty guests.

Mr. Walter Huebner of Route 1, Jemison, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley last week.

Mr. Monroe Smith spent the week end of October 26th with his family.

Master Nolen Miller is out of school this week on account of being poisoned while 'possum hunting, with poison oak.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright and son, James, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus visited relatives in Prattville and Montgomery last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Marcus left the following Tuesday for Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miskelley and Arey Miskelley spent the week end in Birmingham with Mrs. Ida Bellenger and family.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

HOW THE COUNTY FARM BUREAU SERVES OUR FARMERS IS POINTED OUT BY PRESIDENT W. L. POPWELL

In the Chilton County Farm Bureau farmers of the county have in their midst a cooperative organization which renders them annual service in economic production of farm products and in disposing of these products cooperatively at prices in line with leading markets of the county, according to W. L. Popwell, president of the county organization.

Briefly a few of the services the county farm bureau offers its members during the year are outlined by Mr. Popwell.

1. Marketing Poultry. Farmers are given the opportunity of selling their poultry cooperatively. Last year farmers of Alabama sold 1,376,972 pounds for which they received $350,000.00. Farmers of this county sold 45,000 pounds for which they received $11,250.00. The cars were scheduled to come through the county by the marketing specialists of the extension service of Auburn and were loaded by County Agent Stapp and the county farm bureau. Cash was paid for the birds at the car doors and in each case farmers were paid good prices. Those who brought chickens to the cars seemed to be well pleased with this service which the bureau is giving them.

2. Fertilizer. By supplying growers with separate ingredients for home-mixing, the County Farm Bureau has aided in making it possible for them to increase their production and income per acre. These ingredients are being mixed according to recommendations of the Experiment Station of Auburn. Agricultural leaders in the county have joined in the movement in advising farmers of the county to follow the "Auburn Plan" in fertilizing their crops.

Last year the Chilton County Farm Bureau handled 1,000 tons. All bureaus of the state handled 86,000 tons. The Farm Bureau has put the "Auburn Method" of fertilization on the map in Alabama which returns more lint cotton per pound of fertilizer used than any other state using commercial fertilizers.

3. Winter Legumes. The farm bureau, the experiment station and extension service have made Alabama the leading state in planting vetch and Austrian Winter Peas. This year farmers purchased copoeratively 1,270,000 pounds of seed. The Chilton County Farm Bureau handled 52,000 pounds of these seed.

4. Distributing Feeds. Cooperating with the State Farm Bureau the county organization has made arrangements for supplying dairymen and poultrymen with feeds manufactured on the open formulas recommended by the Experiment Station of Auburn. Eight feeds are now being distributed to bureau members. Five of these are poultry feeds and three are dairy feeds. Farmers in all parts of the county have been feeding these feeds and report good results, Mr. Popwell said.

5. Seeds. Improved cotton seed, seed corn, millet, peas, soy beans, velvet beans, and in general all kinds of farm seed are distributed by the county organization. These seed are of the best varieties. The bureau has not only aided in getting better seed, but it has aided the growers in disposing of seeds. Surplus seeds were disposed of through the organization this year.

6. Fruit Trees and Ornamentals. Several farmers of the county have manifested their interest in growing their own fruits and in beautifying their home and home grounds. The County Farm Bureau has aided in getting fruit trees and shrubbery.

7. Credit. Through the Alabama Farm Bureau Credit Corporation the county farm bureau is able to offer loans to farmers of the county.

8. Cotton. Farm Bureau members are given the opportunity of selling their cotton through the cotton association. This cotton is handled through either a special pool—the member selling it when he sees fit—or through the annual pool—the management selling the cotton at the time it thinks best.

9. Spray Materials. To aid in fighting insects which destroy their crops and fruits, the county farm bureau has made it possible for the growers to obtain the spray material recommended by the Experiment Station of Auburn.

These are a few of the services which the farm bureau offers farmers of Chilton County. In all of its activities the county organization is guided by the recommendations of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. The bureau aids in carrying out the extension program of work in the county.

RURAL BRIEFS

Cotton exposed to weather rots, and there is no sale for rotten cotton.

Destroying cotton stalks after harvesting is one way to fight the boll weevil.

Those who keep a few cows and produce cream, have skimmilk for pigs and chickens, as well as a cash income throughout the year.

Winter cover crops conserve plant food, prevent erosion, provide organic matter, add nitrogen to the soil, and serve for winter grazing.

Four-H club boys planning to do calf club work in 1930 should select heifers this fall. The price of the animals will be $25 to $50 higher next spring.

"Sows should farrow in September and March. To get pigs in March it is necessary to breed in November."—F. W. Burns, livestock specialist, Auburn.

Marion County Alabama is now producing $85,000.00 worth of cream annually. The first can of cream was shipped from that county in 1923. Since then the cotton acreage has remained the same and production of cotton has increased.

COUNTY AGENT STAPP CALLING FOR CLUB BOYS' REPORTS

Calling For Reports From More Than 300 Club Boys on Their Project For This Year

Mr. Stapp feels that more than 500 boys will take part in club work in Chilton County next year.

Many of the boys who had cotton projects this year are arranging to buy pure bred Jersey calves with the money made from their cotton project this year.

Mr. Stapp requests that other boys desiring to get pure bred Jersey calves get intouch with him at an early date, as the calves can be bought for less money this fall than next spring.

FARM BUREAU MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

With 500 members as their goal, the Chilton County Farm Bureau officers and directors, working with members of the farm bureau, will conduct a farm organization membership campaign beginning next week and continuing until every progressive farmer of the county has been given the opportunity of aligning himself with his cooperative buying and selling organization. Mr. W. L. Popwell, president, will be in charge.

Officers and directors who will work with Mr. Popwell in making the drive a success are: T. F. Patterson, J. S. Weldon, H. R. Oden, Judson Strock, Ellis Mims, L. G. Posey, E. R. Piper, J. L. Smith, J. N. Dennis, I. M. Deason, R. M. Foshee, and H. G. Boyd.

These officers working with C. E. Stapp, county agent, are selecting farmers as leaders in each community of the county.

Membership teams are being selected to work with each leader. These teams will make a house-to-house canvas of the county asking their neighbors and friends to become members of the farm bureau.

This campaign is being conducted with the view of building a strong farm organization in this county in order that the Federal Farm Board and the county agents may be of greater help to the farmers of the county and state. The intensive drive will begin November 11th and continue through November 30th.

GRIFFITH WINS AT FOUR-H CLUB SHOW

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 4.—The star of the beef cattle show by 4-H club boys at the State Fair at Montgomery was John Griffith, a ten-year-old lad of Old Spring Hill in Marengo County. His Hereford calf was the winner in his class and also the grand champion club steer.

After the show John's calf was sold at auction for 23 cents per pound. He was 16 months old and weighed 915 pounds.

John was one of ten Marengo County boys to start beef calf club work last February. Each of these ten boys bought a Hereford calf selected by County Agent E. E. Hale. On February 1 John's calf weighed only 360 pounds. Eight months later on October 1, he weighed 555 pounds. He was fed as recommended by Mr. Hale.

The winner in the class of 4-H calves dropped after October 1, 1928, was Gene Davis of Hale County. His calf was a heifer which was a cross between an Angus and a shorthorn. She was dropped January 15, 1929; and weighed 725 pounds at the fair. She sold for 20 cents per pound.

Second prize in the class of calves dropped between May 1 and October 1, 1928, was won by Woody Allston of Linden, Marengo County. His was a Hereford steer. In addition to having his calf win the prize, Woody was the best judge of beef cattle in the 4-H judging contest. He was presented a purebred Hereford heifer by the Union Stock Yards, Montgomery. Other winners in the class of calves dropped after October 1, 1928, were Frances Hearn, Hugh Davis, and George Willis.

IN MEMORY

On October 9th at 12 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jones and took from us our beloved father, John W. Williamson. His death was not a surprise, as he had been in ill health for several years.

You know he has done what we all have to do and he bore his suffering with patience. Papa was endowed with an unusually cheerful disposition, having always a word of cheer for everyone. He never refused to help a friend in need, and was always willing to assist and offer a word of cheer to those in trouble. It is in the home, however, where papa will be missed the most. He was always a comfort to his family, everyone of whom returned his love and affection.

His deeds were kindness,
His words were love,
His spirit humble—
He rests above.

He was buried at Cane Creek cemetery October 10, at two o'clock, with J. Mell Martin in charge.

His age was 75 years, 1 month, at the time of his death.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their many deeds of kindness and sympathy shown us during the sickness and death of our father, and for the beautiful floral offerings. Especially do we thank Dr. N. S. Johnson and Mr. Martin.—Written by one who loved him, his daughter, Adelle.

CULLMAN COUNTY EXPECTS TO HAVE BIG FARM BUREAU

Cullman, Ala., Nov. 4.—With 823 farmers who have joined the farm bureau within the past three weeks without solicitation, Cullman County Farm Bureau will launch into the Alabama farm organization membership campaign Monday with the determination of becoming the biggest and best county farm bureau in the United States. The strongest county organization in the country has about 1800 members says J. S. Hyatt, secretary-manager of the Cullman County Farm Bureau, who expects at least that many in Cullman county before the end of November.

W. J. Winzel, president of the Cullman bureau today said that Cullman County Farm Bureau is now one of the strongest county organizations in Alabama and that it has more paid-up members than any other organization in the state. In 1927, he said, there were 427 members who transacted a cash business of $98,716.26. In 1928 this increased to a membership of 598 members who did a business of $151,319.96. This year the membership was 767 and the business amounted to $238,620.28.

Mr. Winzel said that the membership is now larger than it has ever been and that farmers are more anxious to organize now to help in placing agriculture on a substantial basis than they have been in the past.

The officers of Cullman County Farm Bureau are: A. J. Winzel, president, S. Y. Styles, vice president, J. S. Hyatt, manager, C. H. Bedingfield, county agent, Annie Paul Rounds, home agent, J. R. Brown, J. M. Calvert, Mrs. J. H. Smith, W. A. Miller, directors.

ALABAMA FARM NEWS

With 1,000 hens competing, the Sixth Alabama National Egg-Laying contest at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, began November 1. It will continue 11 months. The fifth contest closed October 23, with an average production per bird for the 1,000 hens of 197 eggs. The hens competed 357 days.

County farm bureaus throughout Alabama are now engaged in a membership campaign. It was started November 4 and will continue until each farmer who should belong to the farm bureau is given an opportunity to join. Reports from State Farm Bureau headquarters in Montgomery say that the campaign is succeeding in a big way.

"The farmer who can raise his own feed and provide pasture will find a few good dairy cows a profitable adjunct to his cotton enterprise."—J. C. Grimes, animal husbandman, Auburn.

FARM BUREAU OFFERS AID TO LIVESTOCK PRODUCERS

Alabama farmers can now sell their livestock cooperatively through the farm bureau direct to the best markets of the country at the very best prices possible.

This announcement was made Friday by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, who said that a cooperative commission concern known as the Alabama Farm Bureau Mutual Supply Association—Livestock Commission Department has been established at the Stock Yards of Montgomery.

"The purpose of the new agricultural endeavor," says President O'Neal, "is to aid farmers to get better prices for their livestock."

This means that farmers will take their livestock through their cooperative organization, direct to the best markets of the country.

J. B. Sylvest and J. D. Moore, marketing specialists of the Extension Service, will supervise and direct in an advisory way the livestock operations and contact livestock shipping association shippers and county agents.

When commenting upon the new service which the Farm Bureau is to render livestock producers of the State, President O'Neal said:

"The Farm Bureau believes that the greatest returns from livestock is gotten through assembly of large volumes of livestock, which gives the seller more bargaining power. To this end special stress will be put on the organization of small shipping associations in communities where individual car load shipping is not already in progress.

"It will be the obligation of this new firm to maintain the highest price level possible. Mr. J. H. Botts, a long experienced salesman on leading livestock markets of the country, has been employed to handle the sales. He will be assisted by a corps of efficient assistants, which will assure the farmer at all times of getting quick returns on his livestock.

"It will also be a non-speculative organization striving at all times to take livestock direct from the producer to the best markets. The standard commission will be charged and periodically dividends will be paid to shippers. The department is ready to handle livestock at present."

W. W. Pate has returned to Alabama from Tela, Honduras, to make a study of the physical and chemical properties and fertilizer responses of the various types of Alabama soils. His work is being sponsored by the State Department of Agriculture, Montgomery, and the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

To date this fall Alabama farmers have purchased 1,253,225 pounds of winter legume seed to use in soil improvement. This includes 737,170 pounds of vetch seed and 516,055 pounds of Austrian winter pea seed. Farmers bought cooperatively thru the Farm Bureau.

CHEVROLET

-have you driven a Chevrolet Six?

A Ride tells a Wonderful Story!

Have you felt the thrill of its six-cylinder performance—so smooth, quiet and vibrationless that you almost forget there's a motor?

Have you known the satisfaction of its six-cylinder reserve power—ready to shoot you ahead at the traffic light, to carry you over the steepest hills, or to speed you along the highway?

And do you know that anyone who can afford any car can own a Chevrolet Six?

If you have never driven a six-cylinder car, it is impossible for you to form any idea of Chevrolet performance from your imagination alone.

Smoothness! No rumble in the body—no tremble in the steering wheel—no vibration to loosen windows and doors!

Flexibility! Power that flows in a silken stream—and never a trace of "lugging"!

Quiet! Hardly a whisper from the motor. You can drive it for hours without the slightest noise fatigue!

But why try to tell you the story when only a ride can give you the facts? Come in. There's a car waiting for you . . Now!

FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS WITH CHRISTMANS SEALS

Every four hours in Alabama one dies from Tuberculosis and the average victim had been ill, unable to work, for 300 days before his death.

These statistics compiled by the Alabama Tuberculosis Association show that the fight against the disease is still in its infancy, although much has been done toward educating Alabamians to the damage yearly wrought by the white plague.

The Christmas Seal Sale, conducted yearly for funds to fight tuberculosis in Alabama, will be conducted by welfare workers in more than 60 counties with unusual vigor, says Richard F. Hudson, executive secretary of the association.

In purchasing Christmas seals for packages and letters Alabama can do her bit to aid in combating the plague. The damage this disease does, makes it the duty of every citizen to assist, Mr. Hudson points out. In 1928 2,254 persons died from tuberculosis.

Few people remember that from 1908 to 1912 in Alabama women's clubs conducted sales. Out of this grew larger sales and later the Alabama Tuberculosis Association. It is the women's clubs that planted the seed for the great work now being conducted.

Welfare workers claim that tuberculosis attacks in the most productive age of life. Of all the persons who died from tuberculosis in Alabama 60 per cent died before 40 years of age and 59 per cent of all the tuberculosis deaths occur between the ages of 15 and 40 years, which are certainly the best years of life from an earning standpoint.

Alabamians will purchase approximately 15,000,000 of the seals, which the day after Thanksgiving will start their trip to thinking persons in Alabama.

Civic spirited Alabama people know that tuberculosis is the third cause of death in Alabama and fifth in the United States and that tuberculosis can be prevented, and cured in its early stages although the longer the disease is allowed to go untreated the harder it is to cure.

WOOD USES MAINTAINED

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 4.—Wood is again being used for automobile body construction, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. In the bodies made by one large company there are no fewer than two hundred wood parts. One of the greatest body manufacturing organizations in the world states that "Wood is the only shock and sound absorbing material which combines great strength with resiliency, and resiliency is necessary to automobile body construction."

In the past there was much talk of wood substitutes and various other materials were used to replace wood in certain kinds of construction work. However, in such cases, among others, as in bridge and home construction, furniture, posts, railroad ties, telephone and telegraph poles, piling and flooring it has been found that when substitutes are used the costs go up, the length of service is reduced and comfort and utility are sacrificed. In many cases the attempt to replace wood in construction has led the substituter to transgress the bounds of good judgment, good engineering and good manufacturing with the result that the modified output was decidedly inferior to that made partly or wholly of wood.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 10

WORLD PEACE THROUGH MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING

LESSON TEXT—Isa. 2:2-4; 11:6-10; 19:23-25; Acts 17:22-28; John 4:20, 21.

GOLDEN TEXT—They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain, for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Friends the World Around.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Friends the World Around.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Working for World Peace.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Share in Promoting International Understanding.

The lesson title is somewhat misleading. It is not world peace through mutual understanding, but through the actual coming of Jesus Christ, the Messiah, and the establishment of His kingdom on the earth.

I. Messiah's Kingdom Established (Isa. 2:2-4).

By "mountain" in the Scriptures is meant a kingdom (Dan. 2:35, Rev. 13:1, 17:9-11).

1. Its position (v. 2).

It shall be in a place of supremacy. The kingdoms of the world shall then become the kingdom of Christ (Rev. 11:15).

2. The restored kingdom the teacher of the gentiles (v. 3).

God called Israel and made her the priestly nation in order that she might make known His name among other nations. Now, after many centuries of apostasy and rebellion, the chosen nation comes into its own. God's favor will be so outstanding as to gain the attention of the whole world.

3. The Divine Judge (v. 4).

The problems of the world which are so beyond man's capacity to solve will be adjudicated by the One who is all wise, and He shall then rebuke many people. Because of this rebuke, they shall convert their implements of war into implements of husbandry, and shall learn war no more.

II. Description of His Reign (Isa. 11:6-10).

Universal peace between men and animals will prevail. In this picture each animal is coupled with that one upon which it naturally preys.

1. The wolf shall dwell with the lamb.
2. The leopard shall lie down with the kid.
3. The calf, the young lion and the fatling shall lie down together.
4. A little child shall lead them.
5. The cow and bear shall feed together.
6. The lion shall eat straw like the ox.
7. The sucking child shall play upon the hole of the asp.
8. The weaned child shall put its hand upon the den of the cockatrice.

The coming of Christ will have a regenerating effect upon the whole creation. The only peace for the earth will be when Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, shall reign.

III. Peace Among the Nations by Means of the Knowledge of God (Acts 17:22-28).

The way to bring peace among the nations is to make God known. Paul began his discourse on Mars' hill by referring to one of their inscriptions, "To the unknown God," and declared that it was his purpose to make known this God unto them. By using this as his point of contact he made declarations about God and man which if recognized will tend to the unity of the nations.

1. Declaration concerning God (vv 24, 25).

(1) The Creator of the universe. (2) Lord of heaven and earth. Being essentially spirit, He demands heart worship, and being Creator He cannot be confined to an earthly temple. (3) His active providence. He declared that in Him we live and move and have our being.

2. Declaration concerning man (vv. 26-31).

(1) We are the offspring of God (v. 28). (2) Nations have their place by God's purpose. (3) Men should seek God. The truth thus declared concerning God and man, if received, will remove national and racial barriers.

IV. The Basis of National Union (John 4:20, 21).

The coming union of nations will not be in forms or symbols, but in spirit. The union of the race must be around Jesus Christ. Being united to Him as head, men are brought into fellowship with God. The Christian church is the supreme unifier of nations (Eph. 4:3-6). If we would hasten world peace, let us with diligence and enthusiasm endeavor to induce men to give allegiance to Jesus Christ.

WEST CHILTON

November, which the poet describes as the "Melancholy days," has come. But it is not all melancholy, because the beautiful autumnal tints linger with us. It is the time of the ripened harvest. The time of vigor and rush, when the year's labor is being garnered. Even the harbingers of the festive holidays are being seen and heard.

Mr. T. J. Hubbard is off on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Ward, at Hamburg, Ala.

Homer Atchison of Cox is located on the John S. Waldrop farm.

The expensive cotton crop is gathered in this section. But the profits are not very large. However it is all that can be done, so we can look forward with hope, regardless of insects, droughts and other hindrances.

Mr. J. M. Nix has sold his farm to some parties in Birmingham. We do not know where Mr. Nix is going.

Died last week near Free Springs, the little child of Mr. and Mrs. Robie Crumpton. Scarlet fever was the cause of death. The burial was at Union Springs cemetery, funeral services conducted by Rev. Dyer of Randolph. We sympathize with the sorrowing parents. Their loss is serious, but the bow of hope spans the grave of their little one. It will ultimately return from the land of the enemy, which has become the burial ground of all our ancestors. But the ransom price has been paid for the liberation of man from death. Hence, there is hope. This little girl will live again. "Refrain thy voice from weeping, and thine eyes from tears." She now sleeps in death's domain, but will come again to the broken family circle. "I will ransom them from the power of the grave."

Mr. Isaac Waldrop who has been here for two weeks returned to his home in southern Illinois on the 26th of October. He likes his home in the North quite well. He says they have Sunday singings there like we have here in the old books.

Mr. D. H. Hodgens has sold his home to Mr. Hatcher of Dry Valley. Mr. Hodgens will move to Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Drue of Barnegat, New Jersey, are visiting their father, Mr. John F. Armstrong. Mr. Armstrong has been sick nearly all the year with heart trouble. Mrs. Drue was formerly Miss Dora Armstrong of Randolph. They came through in a car.

Miss Modene Waldrop, the efficient sales lady of Beat 2, is still in the mercantile business with John S. Waldrop.

Mr. Hughes will move from the Crumpton farm to the E. Z. Nix farm.

Mr. Howard Henson and family of Cox visited Oscar Dobbs last Sunday.

Married last Sunday by Rev. J. N. Scott, Mr. Julius Smith and Miss Mary Scroggins.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

On Thursday night, Hallowe'en, the members of the Junior Sunday school class of Pleasant Valley church were entertained at the home of Mrs. Effie Vinson, our teacher.

The pear orchard was lighted with Jack-'o-Lanterns and bonfires, for the party. Interesting games were played throughout the evening.

Light into our future lives was given by tall Betsy (witches).

Weiners were roasted by the following: Francis Lee Silas, Kate Courtney, Emmett Courtney, Libby Ruth Vinson, Lucille Griffin, Nolan Gray, Clark Burkhalter, Samuel Burkhalter, Euell Vance, Burnard Stroud, Elbert Chandler, Turner Girffin, Mrs. Effie Vinson. We regret very much that several were absent on account of the weather. Everybody had an enjoyable time.

Let us go to Sunday school every Sunday and make our class the best in the school.—Secretary.

Up in Chicago they are equipping new schools with garages, and now the parents never will get to use the car.—Dayton News.

While the eighteen-day diet fad is at its height it would seem to be a good time to invite the dieters to visit for a couple of weeks.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FARMERS POOLING COTTON

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 4.—With 50,000 bales of the 1929 crop of cotton pooled Alabama Farmers are still pooling from 1500 to 2000 bales of cotton each day with the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, according to Allen Northington, general manager, today.

Farmers are more hopeful than for sometime, said Northington, that they will see a sustained advance in the price of cotton. He issued a statement urging all producers to quit selling their cotton and take advantage of the advance they can get through the cooperatives and let the cotton be marketed orderly.

Mr. Northington said that plans are rapidly being completed for the association to increase its advances up to 15.64 cents middling basis. This, he said is being made possible by the action of the Federal Farm Board.

THORSBY SECTION

S. E. NORTON, Manager

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Addington and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hambright of Birmingham were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Petersen Sunday.

Mr. Charley Swanson of Chicago who has been spending a month in Thorsby left for his home Tuesday morning.

Mrs. W. A. Johnson who lived north of Thorsby and has been ill for several months, died last Saturday and was buried in Thorsby cemetery on Monday.

The Misses Willadean Bean and Marguerite Melton of Tallassee were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Goddard who have visited their grandfather, Mr. J. H. Goddard, for the past week, left for their home in Ohio last Friday.

The Congregational Ladies Aid social will be held on Thursday of this week at the home of Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

The Annual Bazaar given by the Ladies Guild of Thorsby will be held November 30th at the Town Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Bentley and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Robinson who spent a week at Foley, have returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewie Self and Mrs. Bennet Forsman and three children of Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Edwards and Miss Esther Johnson of Birmingham called on Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Roy Johnson of Ensley was a visitor at the J. O. Johnson home on Sunday.

William Each of Montgomery spent Saturday and Sunday with homefolks in Thorsby.

A letter from Cecil Each who is in Chicago says Verner Carlson called on him and invited Cecil to spend Sunday with him. He also said that Robert Carlson, a brother of Verner, was intending to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Carlson, at their home in Thorsby, and Cecil wished he was coming along.

Mrs. Each entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin and was herself invited to spend the day Tuesday, with Mrs. C. C. Petersen.

Mrs. W. H. Raybon is spending a few days with friends in Birmingham.

Mr. J. C. Addington has come from Mississippi and opened a restaurant in Bob Martin's building, the only vacant storeroom in town. He has been liberal in the use of paint and the place looks bright and cheerful when you are hungry go see him.

Miss Elinor Powell has been engaged as assistant in Astro Wright's Store.

The second open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute will be held on Saturday night of this week at 7:30. An Operetta entitled "Lady Frances" and a short play "Joe's Radio" will be given. Admission is fifteen cents. Everyone is invited.

A week from Thursday night, on November 14, the first Lyceum number will be given at the Institute. Mr. Charles Gorst, renowned naturalist, who can imitate birds perfectly will be the first attraction. There has never been anyone here before like him. Those who have heard him elsewhere pronounce him as a wonderful entertainer. Season tickets for the three Lyceum numbers are $1.25 for adults and 95c for students. The second number will be a Scottish Concert Company who will play on their bag-pipes and sing and do various stunts.

Last Friday night in the auditorium of Helen Jenkins Hall the Boy Scouts under the direction of Mr. H. R. Maddox, their Scout leader, gave a very pleasant costume party to the parents of the Scouts, the boarding students and the faculty of the Institute and a few boys who are prospective Scouts. The Scouts represented various characters and were introduced by Assistant Scout Master, Mr. Roy Raybon. After the introduction various games were played after which cake and lemonade were served. Everyone had a fine time.

Miss Helen Jenkins, Principal of Thorsby Institute, left Tuesday afternoon for Charleston, South Carolina to attend a meeting of the South-Eastern Advisory Board of the Congregational Church. She will return on Saturday.

BURGLARIES AT JEMISON AND THORSBY

Burglars seem to be on the rampage in country places recently. Last Thursday night Donald Merchants store was entered by smashing the glass in the front door, the combination of the safe broken off and an attempt made to get into it thru the bottom, without success. The marauders then turned their attention to the stock and gathered about $200 worth of miscellaneous goods, dumped a sack of oats and another of sugar on the floor to get the bag to hold their loot. They also entered Thorsby Drug Company store in the same manner, but were either frightened off or satisfied with much less plunder. So far no clue to the pepetrators has been found.

Sunday night Atkinson's store in Jemison was entered and we have not heard just how much they got there.

Another Sunday night raid at Shannon, further up the road proved far more serious. There a store kept by a son-in-law of Doctor Hyman was broken open and pretty much everything of value carried off. The loss is estimated at between $1700 and $1800.

One is simply amazed at the assurance with which these things are done. Breaking glass and pounding on metal make considerable noise. The fellows must have had a flashlight to see anything, but still they carry on their nefarious work, growing bolder and more reckless until they try it once too often and are run down by the authorities.

Australian Bushmen to Hear Strains of "Honey"

LUCILLE BENSTEAD

Native Singer Will Take Back Popular Tunes

New York City.—When Lucille Benstead, head-line vaudeville artist, returns to her native Australian bush country to introduce modern American melodies into the somber one-tune musical world of that isolated region, she will be remember as the little girl in pig-tails who won her way to Paris, professional training and fame by singing for her supper and her railroad fare at mining camps.

Born at Alice Springs, Northern Territory, Southern Australia, Miss Benstead is the daughter of an explorer whose family is the only white one in the bush country for miles around.

"Dame Clara Butt toured Australia when I was fifteen years old, and I had the good fortune to secure an audience before her," says Miss Benstead. "She told me that when I was ready to come to Paris, she would give me vocal lessons. I was ready then, all except the fare and money to eat on while I studied. I earned that the same year by singing at mining camps, often traveling hundreds of miles to reach my rough but appreciative audiences."

In Paris, Miss Benstead studied with Dame Butt and Massenet, creating the original role in Massenet's opera "Le Cid." Discovering that the greatest number of people are interested in popular music, this adaptable genius has now turned her talents in this direction and has again succeeded. She will re-visit Australia, taking the life and color of modern American music into the bush country.

Says she: "'Honey,' which is heard as often as 'Ramona' is a popular song that any operatic star would do well to learn. It has the melody and rhythm with which Americans have set the world to dancing and it has technique of a very high quality. Best of all, it bridges the gap between primitive and intellectual music and can be understood by my bushmen as well as by an audience of opera fans."

HILL'S SALE CONTINUED

Mr. McEathern at Hill Grocery Company asks The Union-Banner to carry the announcement this week that his 3-Can Sale which was launched last week has been continued through Saturday of this week. He speaks very favorably of the results received from the sale last week, and says that he believes there are still others who wish to take advantage of these specials on groceries, and for this reason, he is extending the time limit of the sale through Saturday of this week.

ROWLAND W. TAYLOR IS VERY SICK THIS WEEK

Mr. Rowland W. Taylor of Clanton has been confined to his home for two weeks with a liver and heart trouble. For the past few days his condition has been considered dangerous, and at the time we go to press there does not seem to be much change in him.

FIDDLERS' CONVENTION

Annual Fiddlers' Convention And Beauty Contest at Baker Junior High Thanksgiving Night

The Annual Fiddlers' Convention and Beauty Contest will be held at the Baker Junior High School on Thanksgiving night. These entertainments have formerly brought out an overflowing crowd. The building is now lighted and will be much more comfortable than at the former conventions.

In connection with this convention there will be a Beauty Contest. Each community in the county is invited to enter their best looking girl. Those placed in nomination will be announced later.

WORK ON NEW A & P STORE

Workmen were busily engaged Monday morning starting the job of remodeling the Johnson Building for the new Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Store, which will be opened as soon as the building can be prepared. This is the building formerly occupied by W. T. Baker Dry Gods Co.

It is said that the A & P Store will open for business here sometime between November 15 and December 1st.

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Outside of Christmas and New Year's Day, next Monday is just about the biggest day of this year. At least, it is a holiday that comes about as near being a universal one as you can imagine. With about nine out of every ten nations of the world, these including all the largest and those most densely populated, celebrating Armistice Day, there should be SOME celebration.

* * * * * * * *

And the whole world, even those nations who were not in the great World War, have cause to come along and help in the big hoop-la proceedings. If things had rocked along to the present time like they were doing some eleven years ago, the nations not in then would possibly have been in and starved and beaten to a frazzle by now.

* * * * * * * *

Anyway, we ALL have just cause to join with the "doughboys" who were "over there" to throw a little fit of appreciation that times are so much better than they were then.

* * * * * * * *

But, while we feel so much joy on this occasion, let all join for a while at least with the fathers and mothers of those who made the great sacrifice that America and her allies might be able to hold up their heads in majesty at the termination of that insane orgy of blood. Let all who celebrate the great success also bow in sorrow with those whose illustrous sons left their several walks of life to give their all in closing the jaws of the autocratic war dog. As we celebrate, let all remember, "the heroes that sleep beneath the poppies that blow—in Flanders fields."

* * * * * * * *

And not only those who SLEEP must we remember with reverence, but others returned—with flapping, empty sleeves, halting steps, and scarred bodies. In fact, we might say that we have more for which to feel sorrow than for which to feel glad. We join with the revelers that it is all over, with the greater bitterness forgotten, in part, at least—yet we endeavor to share, also, any sorrow with those who sorrow, and any pride with those who feel proud of the bright chapter written at this time in America's history of heroism and bravery, than which there is none brighter.

* * * * * * * *

"It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo'." Who said that? Say, if we didn't have the rainbow to make us remember a promise made some few days ago that this old world would never again be flooded, a feller couldn't be blamed for inquiring the price of gopher wood with which to build an ark, what with the way the rain has been coming down. Even with that, we've had so few chances to have enough sunshine to help in making up a rainbow during the last week or so, that we're not so sure about that flood business after all. People forget pretty quick, you know.

* * * * * * * *

Fords came down (so we read) the other day, but that ain't gonna help so much if it keeps raining. What we'll be wanting to hear of is where we can get a good, safe, waterproof boat in which to do our moochin' around. They haven't taught Fords to swim—yet. However, if the worst comes to the worst, trust Uncle Henry to find some way out of the difficulty for his many disciples of Ford-ism. Maybe they'll equip 'em with pontoons.

* * * * * * * *

Maybe the weather conditions have had something to do about the great popularity of the song, "Singing In The Rain." You can't keep some people from singing, no matter what happens—guess they decided they'd have to sing in the rain or quit singing, so they just took it good-natured like and kept on "Singing In The Rain."

* * * * * * * *

Honest, it's gettin' serious—we can't dig them "taters" we talked about last week if it KEEPS ON raining, and they just gotta be dug—that's all!

* * * * * * * *

Just thought. Somebody must've tried that trick we told you about last week to get rain. Everybody must've tried it. Did it work? Huh?

* * * * * * * *

Woke up pretty early last Friday morning, and, at first, decided it was Christmas. No stockings by the fire-place, though. Then we woke up good. Just the squirrel season opened up—and boy, oh boy, what an opening. The lid of an event is usually spoken of as being pried off. Not the lid of the hunting season though. No, no, Rollo! That lid POPPED off—lots of times, too. We heard it.

* * * * * * * *

Just noticed in The Grocers Journal a new recipe for making home brew. It's so good (the recipe) that we must just pass it on to you. Maybe you thought you knew how to make home brew. Wow! Jusht lishen t'thish!

"Chase bullfrog for a mile and gather up hops. Boil for one hour with bushel of cactus and one pound of gravel. Add a good-sized cabbage to bring it to a head. Mix with concrete, let rest for a week, then strain through a doughboy's used sock. Put a large grasshopper in each bottle to give it a little kick."

* * * * * * * *

Say! Somebody said silence is golden, and another that silence gives consent. Consent to what? Anyway, we haven't heard any comment on this JACK-POT racket. Does the silence give consent to let bad enough alone, or is it just plain old unmentionable? Just like to know?—"Jack."

STATE EXAMINER'S REPORT ON JUDGE REYNOLDS

Assistant State Examiner, Hon. W. J. Coker, has completed his examination of the office of Probate Judge, L. H. Reynolds. His investigation of the business transactions was perhaps the most searching of any examination ever made of this office. While his examination was very strict, yet Judge Reynolds says that Mr. Coker was absolutely fair in his examination.

Following is a copy of the first page, or summary of the report made to Governor Graves upon completion of his examination:

Montgomery, Ala., October 28th, 1929.

Hon. Bibb Graves,
Governor of Alabama,
Montgomery, Alabama.

Dear Sir:—

In obedience to instructions received from the Executive Office, through the Hon. Chas. E. McCall, Chief Examiner of Public accounts, I have examined the books, accounts, and Vouchers of the Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, for a period beginning the 1st of January, 1927, ending the 30th day of June, 1929, and respectfully submit the following report:

I have prepared and hereto attached statements of all collections for the State of Alabama, and remittances made on same during this period. These statements are found on pages 1 to 6 inclusive of this report, and on page 6 is a recapitulation of the small accounts that I found to be due the state by Judge Reynolds, which are as follows:

Mortgage Privilege Tax	$ 1.10
Deed Privilege Tax	10.51
Motor Vehicle License Tax	4.06
Charter Fees	1.12
Hunters License Tax	13.85
Total	$30.64

I have filed with this report a check from Judge Reynolds made payable to Hon. W. B. Allgood, State Treasurer, for the above amount.

I have also prepared statements which are shown on pages 7 to 12 inclusive of this report showing all collections for Chilton County, and the Towns in and for the period of this examination, also remittances made by Judge Reynolds on these several accounts, and the statements show that he was due the County as follows:

Deed Privilege Tax	$4.94
Motor Vehicle License Tax	2.21
Total	$7.15

And he had over paid County as follows:

Mortgage Privilege Tax	$68.13
License Tax	1.00
Total	$69.13

I have hereto attached a receipt from the County Treasurer, showing that Judge Reynolds has paid the amount charged to him, and I certified to a claim to be filed with the Commissioners Court for the amount of over payment on the Mortgage Tax and License accounts.

I found that the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, levy what they call a Road Exemption Tax, and authorize the Judge of Probate to collect this tax, and on page 12 of this report you will find a statement of the collections on this account for the period of this examination, the total amount being $18457.50. Judge Reynolds keeps a very accurate record of his collection of this tax, and I had no trouble in checking this account. This is the first account of Road Exemption Tax that I have found for some time that I could examine.

Pages 13 and 14 of the report show the Fiduciary Funds in Judge Reynolds Office on the 30th day of June, 1929.

In conclusion I wish to thank Judge Reynolds and the clerks in his office, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Arant, for their courtesy and assistance to me while making this examination.

Respectfully submitted,
W. J. COKER, Assistant Examiner of Accounts.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this the 28, of October, 1929.
D. C. LEATHERWOOD, Clerk Circuit Court.

The detailed report of Mr. Coker covering all financial transactions of Judge Reynolds' office for the period stated contains 14 pages giving an itemized account of each and every fund that came through the office. The following amounts are shown as the total collections for the period under examination:

State Mortgage Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	$ 6,507.20
State Deed Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	1,650.74
State License Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	12,645.00
State Motor Vehicle Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	58,027.26
State Forestry Lic. Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	1,092.50
State Hunters Lic. Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	2,701.00
State Charter Fees from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	29.00
Collections for County from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929:
Mortgage Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	3,253.60
Deed Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	825.46
License from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	6,117.63
Forestry Fund from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	546.25
Motor Vehicle from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	10,258.20
Collections for Towns from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929:
Thorsby Vehicle Tax, Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	578.73
Clanton Vehicle Tax, Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	3,138.80
Jemison Vehicle Tax, Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	501.86
Fiduciary Fund from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	3,222.96
Road Tax from Jan. 1, 1927 to July 1, 1929	18,457.50
Total collections	$129,553.69

Mortgage Tax was collected in amounts from .05c up. Deed Tax was collected in amounts from .50c up. Settlement made the first of each month.

As shown on page one of the Report, the final summary of the examination showed the following as the financial status of Judge Reynolds for the period:

County due L. H. Reynolds over payment	$69.13
L. H. Reynolds due State and County	37.79
Total due L. H. Reynolds	$31.34

Therefore, this conclusion: In handling $129,553.69 of the county business, Judge Reynolds lacked $37.79 in paying to the State and County what was due in certain funds shown by the detailed report of the examiner. While on the other hand the report shows that in other certain details Judge Reynolds paid to the county $69.13 more than he was due to pay. This it is seen in the final squaring off of the business for the period, Judge Reynolds had $31.34 coming back to him.

We commend this report to the people of Chilton County as being sufficient evidence that the office of Judge Reynolds is well-managed. Especially do we call this report to the attention of those who perpetually seek to prove that the business of Judge Reynolds' office is not managed according to law.

A Complete Change of Climate

IN A country as large as ours, distances are purely relative things. It all depends on one's point of view I think of two cases in point, dissimilar in locale and setting, but both illustrative.

A cow-hand, on a ranch in the Staked Plains country down near El Paso, took a vacation. He decided to travel to far ports, so he went all the way to Texarkana, clear across in the northeastern corner of the state. If the reader is a Texan, or if he ever has toured Texas, he will appreciate that this is quite a journey. Upon the traveler's return, some of his friends asked him how he had enjoyed himself.

"Oh, pretty good," he said, "but so fur as I'm concerned, I'll be satisfied to stay down South here, in God's country, where I belong. The way I feel now, I won't never go visitin' again away up yonder in the North. I don't care much for them Yankees."

Here's a companion piece:

A New Yorker was fishing in the upper peninsula of Michigan His guide was a typical woodsman. One night by the campfire he regaled the New Yorker with accounts of the severity of the winters in those parts—how deep the snowdrifts were and how biting the winds from off Lake Superior and how thick the ice was and how low the thermometer fell and how long the cold weather lasted.

"Well," said the Easterner, when the native had halted for breath, "we have some pretty bad cold snaps along the seabord but nothing to match what you describe. How do you manage to stand such conditions?"

"Me?" said the guide, "I don't try to stand 'em Before it freezes up solid I pack up and git out of here and go south fur the winter."

"To Florida, I suppose?" hazarded the New Yorker.

"Nope," said the native, "Grand Rapids."

PIES AND PIES

There are so many pies from which to choose that it is a simple matter, indeed, to have a great variety. Apple pie is always a great favorite together with lemon, butterscotch, chocolate and raisin tagging right after. Individual pies with latticed tops are most attractive.

Pies made from soft wheat self-rising flour are delicious as are pies made from self-rising flour. Soft wheat flour will not stand hard kneading and of course we know from all our cookery rules that pastry should never be kneaded but be handled as deftly and carefully as possible.

The recipe for standard self-rising flour pastry is:

½ cup fat
2 cups self-rising flour
Cold water to make a stiff dough

Cut or rub the fat into the flour until the mixture is thoroughly blended; add the water a little at a time until a stiff dough is formed. Do not handle more than necessary. Roll the pastry thin. The pastry is then ready for any desired pie. A rather unusual and excellent tasting pie is called Kocoro pie and is made as follows:

Individual Pies With Latticed Tops Are Most Attractive.

Kocoro Pie.

2 tbsp. soft wheat flour
½ cup sugar
¼ tbsp. butter
3 tbsp. milk or water
3 eggs
⅔ cup corn sirup
1 tsp. vanilla
¾ tsp. almond extract
¼ cup grated coconut

Directions:

Blend flour with sugar and cream with butter. Add all other ingredients except extracts and coconut. Beat until thoroughly mixed, and cook over hot water until the consistency of thick cream. Add flavoring. Turn into a baked but unbrowned pastry shell. Cover with coconut, and cook in moderate oven until custard is firm and brown.

WALKER WINS IN NEW YORK

The funeral will be held at 10:30 o'clock today (Thursday) at Isabella church and interment will be made in the Isabella Cemetery.

Mr. Grooms was about 65 or 70 years old; he is survived by his third wife and three sons, Ernest, O. D. and Curtis Grooms.

HUGH LOCKE FOR GOVERNOR

Judge Hugh A. Locke of Birmingham has officially announced as a candidate for Governor of Alabama. It is conjectured as to whether Mr. Locke will be a candidate in the Democratic primary or otherwise. He was the manager of the Anti-Smith campaign in Alabama last year.

But whether they let him run in the Democratic primary or not, he will run just the same. It is considered that his chances of being Alabama's next Governor are good.

FOUND BIG RATTLER

When a fellow goes squirrel hunting he sometimes finds something other than squirrels. One day last week Rev. W. W. Robinson and Lorenzo Payton were in the woods hunting squirrels. Mr. Payton stepped over a long and was standing beside a tree trying to persuade a squirrel to "turn." He felt something pounding on his leg. Looking down he found that he was standing right on a big rattlesnake. He changed his location promptly without being told to move.

Mr. Payton's first impulse after moving was to kill the snake, which he did by the use of his shotgun. His next thought was concerning what a bad fix he was in being snake bit by such an ugly rattler. His leg was already hurting very badly.

He rolled up the leg of his trousers and Mr. Robinson took a look at the place where the snake had struck him. He looked again and again. But very happily he could not find the least bit of sign of a snake bite.

That was about as close a call as we ever heard of a fellow having. Only the imagination can approach the extremity to which Mr. Payton was frightened. The rattler had 16 rattles and a button.

DEMOCRAT WINS IN VIRGINIA

John Garland Pollard, regular Democrat, was elected Governor of Virginia Tuesday. He was opposed by William Mosely Brown, candidate of Anti-Smith Democrats and Republicans. Pollard will perhaps have a lead of two to one in the final tabulation of voters. Republican hopes faltered as the Old Dominion rejoined the fold of solid Democracy. Hoover carried Virginia last year.

STATE EXAMINER REPORTS ON COUNTY OFFICERS

For the satisfaction of the friends (and enemies)' of Judge Reynolds and the Commissioners of Chilton County, we publish in this issue of The Union-Banner a condensed copy of the report of State Examiner, Hon. W. J. Coker, who has just completed a lengthy and detailed investigation into the official transactions of these officers.

A reading of what the Examiner reports will prove that the office of Judge Reynolds and the County Commissioners has been well managed. There are doubtless some who believed that the examination would turn up some irregularities in the finances of the county. But there were not many who expected this to happen.

By far the majority of people in Chilton County have already learned that the business of the Probate Judge and Commissioners Court is well attended to, always in a legal and constitutional manner. This in spite of the contentions of some political enemies to the contrary.

As an answer to all criticism of his official acts and the official acts of the County Commissioners, Judge Reynolds is glad to point to the report of Examiner Coker. We have seen no clearer vindication of a public officer than is embodied in this report.

While the examinations of Mr. Coker was very rigid and searching, yet we find that all of the county officials declare him absolutely fair and courteous in his work.

The North Wind Doth Blow!

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

An event of real and far reaching importance was celebrated recently in the Ohio Valley, and this was the opening up of navigation on the Ohio River all the year 'round with a nine foot stage of water. The United States Government has completed this great work with the construction of a series of locks and dams that assure a navigable river all the year 'round. It has taken many years to complete the job and an expenditure of many hundreds of millions of dollars.

Yet the average American who has studied the subject will feel that the result is well worth the time and effort. At that the completion of the work on the Ohio is only the forging of another link in the chain of our inland waterways system which will be of great importance to us in the years to come. President Hoover in his address at Louisville, well said, "With the completion of our national job on the Ohio we can well turn our minds toward the other great jobs in waterway improvement which lie before us. The Ohio is but one segment of the national inland waterways with which providence has endowed us. We have completed the modernization of but one other of the great segments of this system—the lower Mississippi."

The President then went on to say that he favored as a general and a broad policy "the modernizing of every part of our waterways which will show economic justification in aid to our farming and industries." Mr. Hoover expressed the belief that a nine foot depth should be established in our water trunk system, and said that he believed the entire Mississippi system should be completed within the next five years, so that we shall have "a great north and south trunk waterway entirely across our country from the Gulf to the northern boundaries, and a great east and west route half way across the United States."

In conclusion the President said:

"To carry forward all these great works is not a dream of the visionaries—it is the march of the nation. We are reopening the great trade routes upon which our continent developed. This development is but an interpretation of the needs and pressures of population, of industry and civilization. They are threads in that invisible web which knits our national life. They are not local in their benefits. They are universal in promoting the prosperity of the nation. It is our duty as statesmen to respond to these needs, to direct them with intelligence, with skill, with economy, with courage.

"A nation makes no loss by devotion of some of its current income to the improvement of its estate. That is an obligation we owe to our children and our grandchildren. I do not measure the future of America in terms of our lifetime. God has truly blessed us with great resources. It is our duty to make them available to our people."

With this statement every thinking American will be in agreement. Our country is not yet fully developed. As it continues to fill up with population and as our trade and industry continue to increase it will be increasingly necessary that we have a fine inland waterways system developed to help our railroads. There should not of course be injurious competition, but constructive cooperation between rail and water lines. There is a great deal of heavy freight which does not require speed in the handling, and which can be moved on our rivers at a greatly less expense. The farmer, the manufacturer and the consumer will benefit as a result. Nothing seems of greater importance this time than the steady improvement of our great system of inland waterways to the point where the traffic can move all the year 'round.

CUTTING EXPENSES

It is indeed encouraging to note that under the present policy of the U. S. Shipping Board the budget is being reduced and the affairs of the Merchant Fleet Corporation are being put in a constantly improving condition. The report made public recently by Mr. T. V. O'Connor, president of the corporation to the Shipping Board gives satisfactory evidence in the improvement of the situation.

The improvement has been chiefly brought about by the sale of government ships and the gradual reduction of the size of the government owned fleet. The liquidation of the fleet has of course made it possible to consolidate certain departments and to reduce expenses all along the line, and a reduction of four million dollars is announced in the next budget. The report announces also that during the next few months the reduction of expenses will be continued and it is set out in detail how this will be accomplished. Among other things it is said the sale of Hog Island, near Philadelphia, will be recommended.

Among other things, the report says:

"Our payroll has been reduced upward of 20 per cent during the past year, and not including the sale of the United States lines or the P. and I. agency, which when included produces a 35 per cent personnel reduction for the year. In addition there has been a reduction in the reserve fleet of $217,711 in salaries.

"Two hundred individual vessels were sold during the year, including five established ship lines. Delivery of all these vessels has been accomplished except the Gulf-Brazil-River Plate Line.

"The number of commercial bank accounts has been reduced to 150, and our accounts receivable have been reduced to $36,594,815.59, or 189 accounts as of September 30, 1929.

"It is proposed to bring about a material reduction in personnel during the next six months, especially in the districts where the overhead is entirely out of proportion with the requirements.

"It is proposed to consolidate our Bureau of Statistics with another department and eliminate excess personnel.

"It is proposed to put into effect the lump sum agreement satisfactory to the board on the remaining lines which will enable us to reduce immediately our supervisory personnel in the fleet corporation by over $1,000,000 and at the same time protect the government's interest and bring about more efficient operation by increasing the incentive and responsibility of the managing agent."

The American public will be pleased to hear of this improvement in the condition of one important department at Washington. One of America's principal needs is an active merchant marine, privately owned if possible, with such aid as the government may legitimately furnish. The putting of the affairs of the Merchant Fleet Corporation into excellent shape, with constant improvements, will destroy one of the arguments of the internationalists against our merchant marine. They used to point with simulated horror at the great expense of our governmental ship operations and to cite this as one reason why America could not have a successful merchant fleet. This argument is rapidly being destroyed, and of this the report quoted above gives some convincing evidence.

Before Baby Comes

comfort and ease

The muscles, tissues and nerves must "give" easily as the abdomen enlarges or much pain and suffering may result. More important still, is to have the tissues and muscles as "elastic" as possible when the great moment of childbirth arrives.

Countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years have been relieved by the use of "Mother's Friend" — that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician.

Mother's Friend lessens pain

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives during the waiting months. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is not a drug to be taken. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Free Book "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 15, Atlanta, Ga.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

Every Woman Hear These Fine Lectures

Miss Grace Marian Smith, Talented Woman, To Give Addresses at Short Course

Every woman, and for that matter, every man, should hear the addresses to be given by Miss Grace Marian Smith at the farmers' and housewives' chautauqua to be held in the Chilton County High School Auditorium at Clanton, on November 11th and 12th.

As a farm girl and farm woman, teacher in country and city schools, extension worker for the International Harvester Company for many years, as well as for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, writer and lecturer on subjects relating to women's work, including the home, health, school lunches, nutrition, canning, kitchen equipment and similar topics, Miss Smith has had a whole lot of experience which makes her talks and demonstrations exceedingly helpful, not only to housewives, club women and teachers, but to every woman, every man, and every boy and girl.

During the World War, when the Government was using every effort to conserve food stuffs, save waste and increase agricultural production, Miss Smith served her country well, doing extension work among women, and boys' and girls' club work for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

She is a gifted and pleasing lecturer and a most successful instructor and demonstrator. She discusses her subjects in so clear and practical a manner as to make her talks of great interest to both men and women.

The other speakers being furnished for the short course by the Harvester Company are Mr. H. S. Mobley and Mr. James L. Kraker. Both of these men are able lecturers who have the happy faculty of presenting in an unusually comprehensive and concise manner, valuable suggestions for solving many of our farm and orchard problems.

It should be borne in mind that, despite the high standard of the lectures, admission to all sessions will be absolutely free and every man, woman and child is extended a most cordial invitation to attend every meeting. Regardless of your age, your occupation or where you live, you will hear and see much of interest and helpfulness. Mothers, do not let your children keep you at home. Bring them with you.

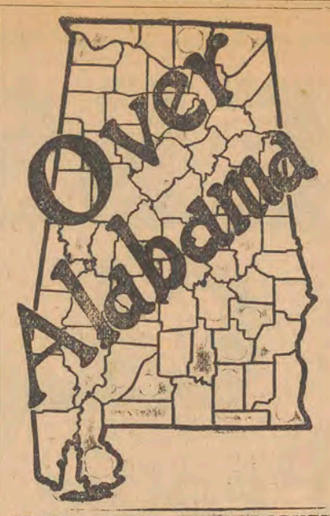
STATE CAPITOL News

The great industrial expansion now under way in Alabama, and the state's tremendous progress along educational and public health lines was eloquently portrayed by Governor Bibb Graves in an address which the State's chief executive recently delivered over radio from New York City. The program on this occasion was dedicated to broadcasting station WAPI, Birmingham, the "Voice of Alabama," by the National Broadcasting Company, and Governor Graves went to New York in response to an invitation to deliver the address which was the feature of the program. His speech carried home to radio listeners over the country the message of Alabama progress and the many advantages which this state possesses for modern industrial development.

The text of the Governor's address, which embodied information of interest to Alabamians as well as to outsiders, is as follows:

"Friends, the National Broadcasting Company has dedicated this hour to W. A. P. I., "The Voice of Alabama." For this compliment to our State, to all its people, I gratefully express our appreciation to Mr. Aynsworth, its President, and to all those associated with him.

"Alabama brings greetings to her Sister State and is glad to bring the glad tidings that all is well. Her message is "No longer Westward, but henceforth Southward, the course of Empire takes its way."



"These are Alabama's foundation building years. She is first conserving and developing her human resources. She stands first State in the Union in Public Health Service—not only does her all-time Health Service cover all the cities, but it covers a greater percentage of the rural population than does that of any other state. The Census Bureau at Washington publishes the vital statistics of the country and in these is the proof of the efficiency of Alabama's Health Machinery. In the figures given out near the end of last year, it is shown but two states have a lower death rate than ours, and only four states have a lower white death rate, and, mark you, everyone of those four lies west of the Mississippi. So last year we had the lowest white death rate of any normally populated state.

"Our Legislature meets one time in every four years so all regular appropriations are made quadriennially. You can realize what Alabama is doing educationally when I tell you that her appropriations for education for this four-year period is 333.6 per cent of what it was for the last like period, and you will understand the statement of Commissioner Butterfield of New Hampshire made to the Administrative Section of the Department of Superintendence at the Meeting of the National Educational Association in Boston last year that the most significant progress educationally had been made first by Alabama, then Vermont and North Carolina.

"First in health, first in educational progress, also proportionately first in adding transportational facilities including railroad building, highway and bridge building and port building, Alabama is laying the firm foundations on which intelligent home-makers build the best citizenship and the most effective man power, the same foundations on which intelligent captains of industry build permanent, prosperous enterprises.

"As the 'world rings down the grooves of change' she is spinning into a new age—into an 'electric, chemical, iron age.' The industrial workshop of that new age is now building in Alabama, for there in super-abundance are the ingredients for its making and for its maintenance. There in a mild climate is a fertile soil producing the greatest variety of agricultural products of any State. There is the home for the God-fearing, human-loving people—happy, healthy, energetic and strong. American to the core; a human soil in which no sea of Sovietism will ever take root. In such a people and its children's children rest the greatest surety for long-time investments and for permanent, prosperous enterprises. That you may know that we are still on our way in the building of that industrial workshop of this new age, last year there were 360,000 new cotton spindles put in the South—160,00, or nearly half of the whole, were put in Alabama. The last year gave us more new major industries than the whole twenty years before, including a Goodyear Rubber Plant, a Pullman Car Plant, two big paper mills, a copper mill, and lesser things galore. Last year Alabama was the fourth state in the development of Hydro-Electric Power. We call this "white coal"—California was first, New York second, Washington third, and we a close fourth, but, mark you, none of our white coal superiors have any black coal. Last year we were fourth in coke—and mark you, none of our coke superiors have any white coal. Last year we were third in iron ore; Minnesota and Michigan alone surpassed us. And mark you, neither of them had either the white coal or the black coal with which to work the ore or the iron.

"Hence, Alabama's message to the world—'Southward the course of empire is taking its way'—building the workshop of this new age in Alabama—in the very heart of Dixie."

PURE BRED BULL SHOWN

Aberdeen Angus Bull Owned by J. N. Dennis Was Shown at County Agent's Office Saturday

At the request of County Agent Stapp, Mr. Dennis placed the Aberdeen Angus bull bought at the State Fair on exhibit at the Farm Bureau office last Saturday. It was estimated that more than 150 people went into the office to see the bull.

Mr. Stapp called attention to the fact that farmers raising calves that they expect to sell for beef should breed their cows to good purebred bulls of beef breed, and that farmers who expect to raise calves for milk and butterfat production should breed to only good registered bulls.

The Angus bull owned by Mr. Dennis is a splendid representative of the beef breed and will be on exhibit at the county agent's office again Saturday.

Other farmers of the county who have bought good bulls of the beef breeds the past two years are: Dr. C. N. Parnell, (Hereford bull); Geo. McCain, (Hereford bull; W. M. D. O'Neal, (Hereford bull); Chas. C. Gay, (Hereford bull); Arthur Martin, (Hereford bull); Mr. Abney, north of Maplesville, (Aberdeen Angus bull).

Mr. Stapp requests that every farmer in the county owning a pure bred bull send in his name and state kind of bull he has. Mr. Stapp wishes to see every scrub bull replaced with a good pure bred bull.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Neeley Baker of Route 3, died Wednesday of last week, and was buried Thursday by Martin at Macedonia on the River.

FARMERS JOINING CO-OPS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 4.—Within the past week 1600 Alabama farmers have aligned themselves with their farm organization in order to aid in placing agriculture on an equal basis with other industries, according to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

These farmers, said Mr. O'Neal, have seen the necessity of farmers organizing and working together, therefore, they became members of their organization. They did this when preparations were being made for a state-wide membership campaign during November.

Cullman with 823 members is leading all other counties, Mr. O'Neal asserted. Other counties have reported as follows: Marion 112, Clarke 103, Walker 99, Fayette 85, Hale 55, Autauga 50, Dallas 36, Greene 27, Colbert 17, Coosa-Tallapoosa 17, Tallapoosa 17, Elmore 13, Lowndes 15, Franklin 15, Shelby 11 and Tuscaloosa 8. All these went to the county farm bureau office and became members without solicitation. Other counties are reporting daily, he said.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

THE WHITE PLAGUE IN THE POULTRY YARD

I do not wish to be considered an alarmist yet I do not hesitate to say that the menace of tuberculosis among poultry flocks in certain parts of the U. S. is an extremely serious matter. In many states the disease is practically unknown, while in others it is very common, there being as high as 15 per cent of all flocks affected.

T. B. may be divided into three principal types: The one affecting man, known as the human type; that affecting principally cattle, known as the bovine type; and that affecting fowls, as the Avian type. Hogs may become affected with either the bovine or Avian type.

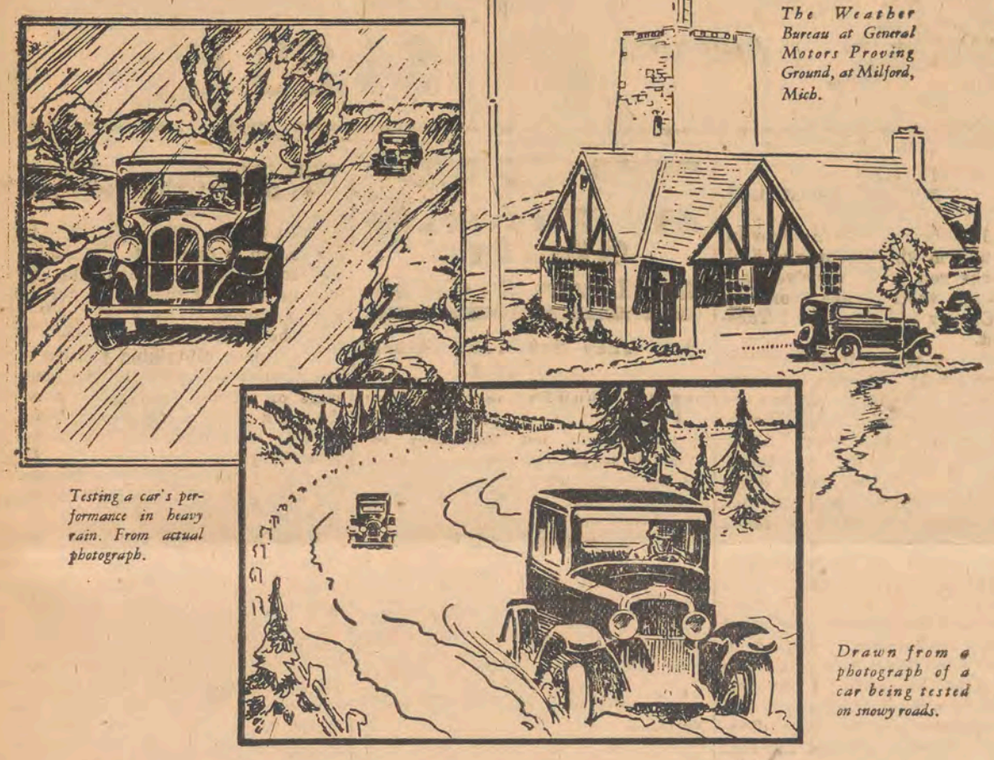
The annual loss through the havoc wrought in poultry flocks from Avian Tuberculosis is enormous. Add to that the loss from hogs which contract the disease from contact with chickens and the total will run well up into the millions of dollars annually.

Unfortunately, the disease is not easily recognized in its earlier stages, and the tuberculin test is the only sure way of determining which of the apparently healthy fowls in a flock are affected. After T. B. has secured a good grip on a bird, however, there are certain signs which can be recognized with a fair degree of ease. It is a slow developing disease; therefore, is never seen in young fowls.

Birds in advanced stages show a rapid loss of weight; wasting away of breast muscles; pale comb, wattles and head; rough, lusterless feathers; and, very often, lameness in one or both legs. Fowls so afflicted usually have normal, sometimes voracious appetites but gain no wieght.

Whenever these symptoms are noticed in any flock several of the more seriously affected birds should be killed and examined. If they have tuberculosis numerous round yellow spots varying from the size of a pinhead to that of a pea will be found in the liver and spleen. There will be whitish or grayish intestines in be whitish or grayish nodules on the intestines or the membrane which holds the intestines in place. These nodules vary in size from that of a pea to as large as a walnut. The yellow spots or lesions as they are called may also appear in the kidneys and lungs.

Once you have definite proof of T. B. in your flock take immediate steps to put an end to it. If the birds are of no particular value it may be advisable to kill the lot of them; burn the ones that are noticeably underweight. Those that are up to standard weight may be used for food or marketed, as cooking destroys the germs. The next step is a thorough cleanup, burning of all rubbish, droppings and litter, and a thorough disinfecting of all houses and poultry runs with a good dip and disinfectant. All houses where such fowls have been should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected each week for several weeks. Plow the runs often and plant to some quick-growing grain.



If you should decide to restock at once, chicks may be secured from healthy flocks but should be raised in quarters well removed from those of the former flocks and on new ground. In making such a start, it is not necessary to kill off the old birds at once if they are yarded and the new broods are also confined.

If your flock is sufficiently valuable to justify the extra work and expense, you may, after destroying the birds that are plainly affected, subject the remaining ones to the tuberculin test. Birds that prove to be entirely free from infection should be put to themselves on clean, fresh range where they can not come in contact with the infected birds.

Remove droppings frequently and dispose of them at some point remote from the quarters. Burn the carcasses of all fowls that have died of any kind of disease or bury them deeply. Since it can only be spread by the passage of germs from one bird to another, it is easy to see how the danger of infection is greatly reduced by eliminating those affected.

If you bring in breeding stock from some other flock, and it is not practical to have them tuberculin tested, do not put them at once with the other chickens. Carelessness of some breeders in sending out infected stock is believed to be largely responsible for much of the gain in tuberculosis which has been noted in late years.

"What! A weather bureau?"

The Weather Bureau at General Motors Proving Ground, at Milford, Mich.

Testing a car's performance in heavy rain. From actual photograph.

Drawn from a photograph of a car being tested on snowy roads.

VISITORS to General Motors' 1268-acre Proving Ground marvel at the sight of a complete weather bureau and ask what it is for.

The answer is that in the testing of cars every possible factor that might affect a car's performance is considered by General Motors' engineers.

So precise are some of the tests that even the difference between a sunny day and a partly cloudy day—or between a north breeze and a south breeze—is considered.

With each day's record of the mechanical tests applied to a car on the roads and hills of the Proving Ground is included a report of the exact weather conditions prevailing. The engineers then can know how weather affects performance, and can have a comparable record so that every car tested is given an equal opportunity to prove itself under exactly the same conditions.

Advance models of all the cars listed below were proved at the Proving Ground before they were introduced to the public. Read about them; then clip and send the coupon.

COLD WEATHER DRIVING CAN BE MADE EASIER

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—To many automobile owners, "cold weather driving," and "hard starting" are synonymous.

It is true that an engine does not start as easily in Winter as in Summer, but a little care on part of the owner will go a long ways toward minimizing the difficulty, Chevrolet Motor Company engineers point out.

Since the inception of the Chevrolet car more than eighteen years ago, company engineers have been applying themselves to the problem of easier starting.

Making use of the "cold room" facilities of the General Motors Research laboratories and working for hundreds of days in zero weather at the General Motors Proving Ground, Chevrolet technical men have been attacking the "cold motor" problem for many years.

In considering the case of the car that is difficult to start in cold weather, Chevrolet engineers call attention first to the rather obvious fact that an engine in good condition will perform all its functions, including starting, more satisfactorily than one that is out of adjustment.

The principal parts which have a direct bearing on the starting of an engine are: Battery, starting motor, carburetor, spark plugs, ignition system and valves.

As the efficiency of the battery is materially reduced in cold weather, it should be given great consideration. If the electrical system is weak, complete combustion can not be obtained, therefore, before the start of winter, it is good preventive insurance to have some reputable electrical service station check over the battery, spark plugs and entire ignition system.

The starting motor very seldom causes trouble.

The carburetor must be adjusted properly for the winter and choke and throttle controls connected properly.

The spark plugs are equipped with two electrodes set in such a manner that the electric current must jump across a small gap from one to the other. In making this jump, a spark occurs. It is this spark that ignites the mixture of gasoline and air in the combustion chamber of the cylinder. The size of the gap between the electrodes affects the type of spark produced. It is, therefore, important that this gap should be inspected for proper adjustment.

Obviously the spark plugs should be cleaned; and the terminals of the spark plug wires firmly attached. If the plugs have been in use 10,000 miles they should be replaced.

The ignition system, including all wiring and terminals should be checked at the beginning of winter, particular attention being paid to the distributor timing and to condition of the contact points.

If the valves do not seat properly, a leakage of compression occurs resulting in incomplete combustion which hinders starting and also tends to foul the spark plugs.

Attention to these suggestions will eliminate your starting troubles this winter and cut down the wear and tear on your nerves as well, according to the Chevrolet engineering division.

the JOY of LIVING

is founded on Good Health

Your blood should contain 5 million red-cells to every cubic millimeter.

Your joy may depend upon rich, red-blood-cells

A HEALTHY body is vigorous, strong and sound. It is man and woman's greatest asset. It demands that the red-blood-cells shall not be decreased in number.

The red-blood-cells are its workers—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. It is dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It promotes healthy body building. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. It is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and is easy to assimilate. Pleasant to take. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

THREE WHITE MEN ESCAPE FROM JAIL

Dock Horton and Bernie Martin, charged with making liquor, and Kiah Carter, charged with abusive language, made their escape from the Chilton County jail about dark Tuesday night.

Effie Duke, negro janitor at the jail, went up to the cells to carry supper to the prisoners. He had the keys in one hand and carried a heavy tray of food with the other. As he unlocked the door to a compartment he stepped in to set the waiter down and intended to turn back to lock the door. The keys were in reach of the men one of whom got the keys and locked the negro inside. They then proceeded to unlock their way out of jail.

When they reached the big front door down stairs they unlocked it, threw the keys down and ran. The alarm raised by Effie Duke was heard by Courtland Retherford and Dovard Cleckler at The Union-Banner offfce. They answered the call, found the keys inside the jail door and turned the negro out.

By this time the three men had fled to the swamp. Deputies went in search of them, but no trace could be found.

TREES FACE STARVATION

Kent., O., Nov. 6.—Millions of trees are facing starvation and premature death as a result of the unusual weather conditions which prevailed during the past eight months in many sections of the country, according to Martin L. Davey, president of the Davey Tree Expert Co.

"Trees manufacture their food in their leaves," Davey said. "It is a slow process and months are required to produce enough food to keep the tree healthy throughout the year.

"Last spring was unusually cold and the leaves were about a month late in coming out. The food manufacturing process was retarded. Then came the drought—there was no rain to speak of in many sections for over two months. Without water, minerals from the soil and nitrogen from the air could not be converted into foods vital for plant life.

"Because of the drought, the leaves withered and fell this fall much earlier than usual.

"As a net result of the late spring, the drought, and the early falling of the leaves, the trees were able to store up only a fraction of the food required. Their vitality has been lowered; many have been so weakened that it is doubtful whether they can pull through next summer."

The effects of the bad season can be counteracted, Davey said, by properly fertilizing the trees. This should be done before the ground freezes or as soon as it thaws in the spring, he stated.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

And They Say That Figures Don't Lie!

"MR. DOOLEY" once said that the Irish might be shy on mathematicians but that they excelled in poets. Without taking issue on the latter part of the statement I maintain that there is, in this story, proof that the race likewise produces its sons who understand the science of figures.

Three patricians of the coal yards fared forth on mercy bent, each in his great black chariot. Their overlord, the yard superintendent, had bade them deliver to seven families a total of twenty-eight tons of coal equally divided whilst he went on his vacation.

Well out of the yards, each with his first load, Kelly and Burke and Shea paused to discuss the problem of equal distribution—how much coal should each family get?

"'Tis this way," argued Burke. "'Tis but a bit of mathematics. If there are 7 families an' 28 tons o' coal ye divide 28 by 7, which is done as follows: Seven into 8 is 1, 7 into 21 is 3, which makes 13."

He triumphantly exhibited his figures made with a stubby pencil on a bit of grimy paper:

7/28/13
21
21
00

The figures were impressive but Shea was not wholly convinced. "There's a easy way o' provin' that," he declared. "Ye add 13 seven times," and he made his column of figures according to his own formula. Then starting from the bottom of the 3 column, he reached the top with a total of 21 and climbed down the column of 1s, thus: "3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28. Burke is right," he announced with finality. "D'ye see the figures to prove it?"

This was Shea's exhibit:

"There is still some doubt in me mind," said Kelly. "Let me demonstrate in me own way. If ye multiply the 13 by 7 and get 28, then 13 is right." He produced a bit of stub by pencil and soiled paper. "'Tis done in this way," he said. "Seven times 3 is 21; 7 times 1 is 7, which makes 28. 'Tis thus shown that 13 is the right figure and ye're both right. Would ye see the figures?"

Kelly's feat in mathematics was displayed as follows:

13

28

"There is no more argyment," the three agreed, so they delivered thirteen tons of coal to each family.

"THE COVERED WAGON" OF THE TALKING SCREEN

"The Covered Wagon" of the talking screen is coming to the Alabama Theatre Monday, when the most famous story of the West ever written or staged, "The Virginian," will hold the interest of audiences. The first outdoor all-talking picture ever made, with a quartet of the leading stars of filmdom, and with a story that has been a classic of pioneer America for almost half a century, "The Virginian" has leaped into fame as one of the biggest hits Broadway has recorded since the camera began to talk.

Gary Cooper, himself a son of the West, reared in the saddle on the plains and in the hills of Montana, is the ever famous, lovable Virginian. Walter Huston, the greatest contribution the stage has ever made to the films, is the evil Trampas. Mary Brian, whose tender beauty has graced many successes, plays Molly Wood, while Richard Arlen is Steve, the Virginian's pal.

Around this quartet of great players has been assembled a cast worthy of the stars. It includes Chester Conklin, Eugene Pallette, E. H. Calvert, Helen Ware, Victor Potel and Charles Stevens.

No story of the West ever written has been read by as many millions as Owen Wister's "The Virginian." For years it held the stage as one of the most successful of all plays. Now Paramount has made it into an all-talking, all-outdoor drama that brings the West as Wister wrote it and the men and women who lived its stirring times as it has never ben possible to do before.

PEOPLE OF THIS COUNTY INVITED TO BIG BARBECUE

Dedication of Lock 12 Plant As "Lay Dam" Will Take Place Saturday, November 23

ALABAMA POWER CO. WILL FURNISH EATS

The people of Chilton County have been extended a very cordial invitation by officials of the Alabama Power Company to attend the barbecue and celebration on Saturday, November 23, when Lock 12 will be formally christened and dedicated as Lay Dam, in honor of Captain W. P. Lay, founder of the Alabama Power Company.

Mr. Thomas W. Bragg, vice-president of Alabama Power Company, was in Clanton last Friday arranging for a number of details in connection with the event. While here he gave to the newspapers the following statement:

Feeling that Lock 12 dam is very largely a Chilton County industry, and mindful of the splendid co-operation the citizenship of the county has always accorded the company, the officials and employees would feel honored in having the citizens of the county as special guests at the dedication of the dam on November 23rd. This announcement was made by vice-president Thomas Bragg, who came in person to Clanton for the express purpose of extending a general invitation to the people to be present. Mr. Bragg stated that it would be impossible to send a formal invitation to everyone in the county, and expressed the hope that the general invitation would be received and that a hearty response would be given to it.

The Company has planned a sumptuous barbecue for the occasion. The Birmingham Police Band of 42 pieces will furnish music, Matthew S. Sloan, a native Alabamian and president of New York Edison Company, Governor Bibb Graves and Mr. Thomas W. Martin, president of Alabama Power Company, will deliver the principal addresses. Captain W. P. Lay, for whom the dam will be named, will be present in person to accept the honor his associates and friends have arranged for him.

The exercises will begin promptly at 10:30 a.m., instead of 11 o'clock, as originally planned.

The people of Chilton County appreciate the cordiality of the Power Company in extending them such an invitation upon this most notable occasion. We are sure that many hundreds of our people will make their arrangements to be present at Lock 12, or Lay Dam, on Saturday, November 23rd.

Everyone may go with the full assurance that the officials of the Power Company have made every preparation necessary to show their guests a good time. All who plan to go are asked to remember that the exercises begin promptly at 10:30 in the morning.

R. W. TAYLOR IMPROVING

We are pleased to report this week that Roland W. Taylor, who has been very sick for the past several days, is now improving. From present idications Mr. Taylor will be up again now before long unless he suffers a relapse of some kind.

REV. HOLLAND HERE

Rev. J. S. Holland of Tallassee was in Clanton last Saturday and Sunday to fill his monthly appointments at Liberty Hill church.

This is Rev. Holland's first visit here since he returned from his vacation trip down into south Texas. Rev. Holland made the trip with his wife and children in their Ford car, and he says that they certainly had a pleasant outing.

While up here Rev. Holland delivered three sermons at his church, preaching an extra sermon Saturday night. He will do the same at his December apointment next second Sunday. He is doing this of his own accord to make up for two sermons which he missed recently. Rev. Holland wishes everyone to remember the services on Saturday night before the second Sunday in December, and try and have a full house.

The Union-Banner wishes to say in parenthesis that no one will lose the time if they slip out to Liberty Hill and hear this man of God preach. Rev. Holland is as homely as they make, but he is just as consecrated and full of the spirit as he is homely. Try and make it a point to go out to Liberty and hear Rev. Holland.

CRUSADERS REORGANIZATION HELD SUNDAY NIGHT

The Crusaders (Young People's Union) of the Foursquare Lighthouse of Clanton, elected new officers last Sunday night, at a special meeting at the end of the regular program.

In the past, programs have consisted mainly of songs, talks, etc., but hereafter, the programs will be more varied. A special Program Committee was appointed which will see that a good program is in store for every Sunday night.

In addition to electing new officers, the body went further with its organization, selecting representative colors, motto, flower, etc. The new organization is as follows:

President: Marion W. Easterling.
Sec'y-Treas.: Paul C. Mims.
Choir Director: Girthie Easterling.
Pianist: Marion Easterling; alt. Mrs. Rubie Minor.
Program Committee: Marion Easterling, Paul C. Mims, Mrs. Paul C. Mims.
Flower Committee: Dewey Easterling, Mrs. Ruth Plier, Mrs. Rubie Minor.
Utility Committee: (1) William Rhodes, Jr., Arthur Minor; (2) Preston Easterling, Velma Payton, Hazel Johnson.
Flower: White Rose.
Motto: "Others".
Colors: Purple and Gold.

A record of all programs will be kept. The organization has been working nicely for some time, but some real worth-while work is expected from the new order in which the Union has been set.

Meetings are held each Sunday night at 6:30 at the church. Everyone is invited. We will be glad to have you anytime.—Crusaders.

STAPP SPEAKS

County Agent Stapp attended and spoke to a splendid meeting of farmers at Freeman schoolhouse last Friday night.

The principal question discussed was that of the Farm Bureau membership campaign now under way all over the State of Alabama. Mr. L. G. Posey was selected as leader of a committee to call on the farmers of his community. Similar committees are being formed all over the county in an effort to reach very good citizen of Chilton County.

Mr. R. T. Arnold, District Agent, from Auburn, in an address at the Chilton County High School Tuesday night stated that the Farm Bureau should have the support of every good citizen of Chilton County as we are all more or less dependent upon the farming industry of the county.

Mr. H. S. Mobley, in one of his splendid addresses given during the Short Course, called our attention to the fact that we need each other; that one group is as important as the other. The farmer needs the merchant, the banker, the lawyer, the doctor, the public service man, etc., but Mr. Mobley said, "let these fellows not forget that they need the farmer too." They must have customers. Very few people can live to themselves. Every farmer of Chilton County needs the support and good will of every other man and woman in the county.

CHILTON COUNTY GETS FAVORABLE PUBLICITY OVER W. A. P. I. STATION

Tuesday at 12:35 p. m., Howard C. Smith, chief of Division of Information, State Department of Agriculture and Montgomery office announcer over WAPI and his assistant, Mr. Silsby McNeil, formerly of Jemison, Ala., paid high tribute to the cooperative spirit prevailing in Chilton County. Special mention was made of the splendid cooperation of the Kiwanis Club, the Farm Bureau, Board of Education, newspapers, bankers, merchants, professional men, farmers and citizenship in general, and the International Harvester Company in holding a most important Short Course at Clanton the 11th and 12th of this month.

Mr. Smith called our attention to the fact that we have a wonderful county here. He quoted statistics showing that Chilton County ranks 19th place among the 67 counties in income per farm. Mr. Smith praised the work of County Agent Stapp and all other forces in the county working for the further progress and development in Chilton County.

In an interview later with County Agent Stapp, Mr. Stapp stated that he is anxious to see Chilton rank higher than the 19th place in income per farm, and that if more farmers will plant more soil building crops, use the right kind of fertilizer properly, plant more acres to strawberries, give more cows and chickens the proper feed and attention, do their best at other undertakings, cooperate with each other and with the business and professional men of our towns and in turn get their cooperation and support, Chilton will really gain the place in the minds of our people here and elsewhere she deserves. Let's all work together for a greater Chilton County.

Honoring Captain Lay

With hearty accord the people of Chilton County should join hands with officials and employees of the Alabama Power Company on Saturday, November 23, to do a well deserved honor to Captain William Patrick Lay, founder and early promoter of the Alabama Power Company.

As one of the chief beneficiaries of the fruition of Captain Lay's life work, Chilton County holds a justifiable pride in the industrial and commercial importance of Alabama Power Company in this greatest commonwealth of the South.

This occasion on the 23rd of this month ought to be declared a holiday for the whole of Chilton County, and every citizen should go to Lock 12 for the ceremony which will dedicate that marvelous hydro-electric plant to the everlasting memory of the man whose dream is the mother of the development.

We feel that it is in order to suggest that the business houses of Clanton close their doors from 10 o'clock to 3 o'clock on that day so that everyexecutive, manager, and employee will have a chance to take his family to Lock 12.

The invitation of the Alabama Power Company is extended to every person in the county to be there as a guest on that occasion. We hope that the response of our people to that invitation will demonstrate to the officials of the Power Company something of the friendliness that exists for that great industry here.

Another suggestion: There will be hundreds of visitors from all over Alabama who will come to Clanton on that day. It will be a fine opportunity for our town to show those strangers many courtesies that will give them a lasting good impression of Clanton.

Clanton people should take this matter under consideration and promptly make plans to show our visitors due consideration as they pass through here on their way to and from Lock 12.

The streets and business houses of the town should be appropriately decorated for the occasion. The town and county officials should lead the citizenship in the accomplishment of this phase of the program.

A few banners and placards expressing the appreciation of the town ofClanton and Chilton County for the Alabama Power Company and Captain Lay, and hailing our visitors welcome would be well in order.

As we have said many times before, Alabama Power Company has meant more to the advancement of our county industrially and commercially than anything that has ever happened in the history of the county.

Captain Lay is the man who formulated the ideas—dreamed the dreams—that have grown into the wonderful industrial system that is now Alabama Power Company.

Lock 12 was the first development on the list of Alabama Power Company's hydro-electric units. Chilton County is really the home of Alabama Power Company developments, for it was here that Captain Lay first came to pick a place to lay the foundation stone.

Considering all these things and many more that could be mentioned in the same relationship to us, we feel that Chilton County should throw open her heart on November 23 and show to the world how we appreciate William Patrick Lay and his wonderful dream-child, the Alabama Power Company.

Some High Points in Mobley's Community Talk

This is not your town or my town, it is our town.

To have a real town we must have a community spirit.

There are two elements in everything that involves human life—production and distribution.

The country cannot live without the town; the town cannot live without the country. Both, by uniting what they have of production and distribution, can create a real community of human beings.

Communities are made of folks, not of houses and farms and factories.

The difference between this community today and what it was when the Indians lived here, is the difference between the people who are here now and those who were here then.

Do you know the things in your town that should be boosted and those that should be corrected? Study your community.

The greatest page in history is the open page of everyday life.

A stubborn, selfish, unreasonable person is never of much use to a community. He never works with anybody else or will let anyone else work with him.

It is a good thing to get acquainted with our neighbors, but it is equally important to get acquainted with our neighborhood.

Towns are building men and women and exporting them to other communities. If they had instilled in them an appreciation of their own town they would have stayed.

JEMISON BERRY GROWERS TO MEET NEXT SATURDAY

The strawberry growers of the Jemison association are requested to meet at the Jemison high school on next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All members and prospective members of the association are urged to be present and hear the directors of the Jemison association, and Mr. J. N. Dennis and Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer of the Clanton association outline a co-operative method of selling berries. This method will be of much benefit, especially to the Jemison growers.

All growers are urged to come and get first hand information about this arrangement. Everything will be fully explained.

TO PHONE HOLDERS OF THE PEOPLES TELEPHONE CO.

We want everyone who owns a phone to pay central fee this year for 1930, which wil be from Nov. 15, 1929 to Nov. 15, 1930. We want everyone on each line to pay their central fee to their line director on the line for one-half year at a time, which will be $2.50 in the country, $3.00 in town; all that have two phones, $3.50.

Central service will be rendered to all who pay for so much of the year 1930 as the funds of the company will permit operation of the central.

All central fees must be paid by the first of December. The present funds of the company are exhausted and those who can should pay again at once. The secretary-treasurer can be found at the Union-Banner office to receive all central fees.

G. O. FOSHEE, Sec'y-Treas.

GRAND JURY REPORTED LAST WEDNESDAY P. M.

The same Grand Jury which was empaneled for the July term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, served in that capacity here last week. W. T. Paterson was foreman of the Grand Jury.

Their report was made Wednesday afternoon. 21 indictments were returned, which involved 23 people.

ROLIFEE BATES

Rolifee F. Bates, age 63, died at his home near Lock 12 last Thursday afternoon. He died suddenly. The remains were buried at New Salem Sunday, the Masonic fraternity in charge. The funeral was preached by Rev. W. P. Lowery; Martin in charge.

Mr. Bates was among the most prominent citizens of his community and county. He is survived by wife, one son, E. D. Bates of Tallassee, and eight daughters.

HUDDLESTON - ROBINSON WEDDING PLANS GIVEN

When Miss Alma Robinson, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson of this place, becames the bride of Mr. William Eugene Huddleston Jr. of Clanton, tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock at the Clanton Baptist church. Miss Minnie Brown Hurt of Marion will be maid of honor, with Misses Florence Corcoran and Jenny Chalmers of Uniontown as attendants. Mr. John Curtis of Greenville will be best man and Messrs. Jack Hayes of Clanton and Charles Curtis, brother of the best man, will act as ushers.

Dr. Samuel J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church will perform the ceremony, and the bride will be given in marriage by her brother, Gaston Robinson of Marion Institute. Mrs. Percy M. Pitts of Clanton will be in charge of the music, being assisted by Mrs. Grady Broadhead, violinist and Mrs. R. M. Howe of Tuskegee, sister of the groom, as soloist.

DR. KNAPP WILL SPEAK TO KIWANIS AT CLANTON

Dr. Bradford Knapp, President of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, will speak to the Clanton Kiwanis Club next Thursday at the noon luncheon at Clanton Methodist church. In addition to the members of the club, there will be a number of representative farmers and business men of the county to hear this notable educator.

SHERIFF COLLINS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

The grand jury of Chilton County, in session last week, rendered to the Circuit Court an indictment against Sheriff J. D. Collins, charging him with neglect of duty in connection with the escape of three prisoners from the Chilton County jail last week.

The three men made they escape by taking the keys of the jail from a negro porter when he came into the jail to fed the prisoners.

SUPT. EXPLAINS DISTRICT SCHOOL TAX PROPOSITION

Equal Educational Opportunities Will Be Provided Every Child in The County

ELECTION ON TAX TO BE TUESDAY, NOV. 19

Perhaps one of the most important moves in the way of equalizing educational opportunities for the children of Chilton County is before us at this time. We are all aware of the fact that much dissatisfaction has been had over the fact that one tax district had more money than another. Realinzing the justness of such criticism the County Board of Education and I decided to call the trustees of the county together in a joint meeting to discuss a plan which would remedy this inequality of school funds. At the meeting referred to above it was unanimously voted by the trustees to recommend to the County Board of Education that two tax districts be had and that an election be held on November 19th at which time the people of the county could have an opportunity to accept or reject such a plan.

The object of this election which will be held on November 19th is to vote two tax districts, one to be known as District "A" and the other to be known as District "B". It does not mean a raise in taxes except in those districts which have not already voted the district tax. No doubt those districts would have long ago voted a district tax if in so doing they could have had part of the total county district taxes.

At the time the trustees met with the County Board and recommended the two tax districts it was understood at that time that a high pressure campaign would not be put on but the responsibility for carrying the tax district election was left with the people of the local school districts. It is simply an opportunity for all districts to share alike if they wish. Let each trustee of each school district see to it that his people are informed of the facts and for the sake of the children of the respective school districts I certainly trust that no community will carry a majority against the proposition. —B. Lawrence, County Superintendent of Education.

COTTON GINNED IN CHILTON

On November 8, 1929 the Department of Commerce, bureau of Census at Washington, reported that 17,392 bales of cotton had been ginned in Chilton County from the 1929 crop prior to November 1st, as compared with 13,458 bales ginned to the same date in 1928.

This information is furnished The Union-Banner by Mr. Robert J. Jones of Clanton Route 3.

"KING OF KINGS" AT VERBENA

The people of Verbena and surrounding vicinity will have the opportunity of seeing tonight, Thursday, at 7:30 p. m., one of the greatest pictures known to the screen. "King of Kings" is a classic moving picture portraying the life and times of Christ in full colors. Verbena High School is to be congratulated upon securing this picture to offer its patrons. It is the same picture for which millions have paid from 50c to $2.00 to see when it first came out. It will be offered to the patrons and friends of Verbena High School at the admission price of 30c for adults, and 20c for school children and children not in school.

This picture is an all-color picture, and if you want to see the greatest drama of all ages—the life of Christ portrayed—come to see this picture. No better or more beautiful or greater picture has been shown in this county.

Don't forget the time and place, Thursday night, November 14, 7:30 p. m., at the Verbena High School Auditorium.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AND BEAUTY CONTEST

At Baker Junior High School, on Thanksgiving Night.

The annual fiddlers convention will be held at the Baker Junior High School on Thanksgiving night. All good fiddlers from Chilton and surrounding counties are invited. We are putting forth every effort to make this the best one yet.

The following young ladies have been enrolled in the beauty contest: Gladys Thomas, Gertha Headley, Myrtle Durbin, Sallie Thompson.

THIRD LARGEST COTTON CROP SINCE BOLL WEEVIL CAME

Alabama farmers will probably gather a crop of 1,335,000 bales worth at middling prices better than 100 million dollars, according to a report released on November 8 by F. W. Gist, federal statistician for the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics and for the State Department of Agriculture.

In this report issued from Montgomery, Mr. Gist states further, that the yield this year will probably average 170 pounds of lint, as compared with 150 pounds last year; 180 in 1927; and 196 in 1926.

The crop of 1928, amounting to 1,109,000 bales, is smaller compared with 1,192,000 bales in 1927, and 1,498,000 bales in 1926. This year's crop is the third largest since the coming of the weevil in 195, and is exceeded only by the crops of 1925 and 1926.

The State is divided into 10 sections for convenience in statistical work, and Mr. Gist reports that every section will make more cotton than in 1928.

The cotton crop has again demonstrated the fact, that in spite of weevil ravages which naturally reduce yields, improved methods of cultivation and the intelligent use of high grade fertilizers, will produce good crops; also, dry weather usually gives a false impression of damage to cotton.

The total crop in the United States is forecast at 15,009,000 bales, which is 94,000 above the October forecast. This total indicated crop of November 1, compares with 14,478,000 in 1928, and 12,955,000 in 1927. Ginnings to November 1 were 10,208,000 bales, in other words, 5 out of every 7 bales of cotton has already been ginned up to November 1. The final cotton report will be issued December 9 and will be broadcast at 12:30 from the Department of Agriculture Studio over Station WAPI.

Pumpkins may be saved for meals later in the year by canning, candying, or preserving.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

A JOURNEY IN THE HOLY LAND

To begin I must say that the Bible is a guide to the Holy Land and the Holy Land is a guide to the Bible. Galilee is the northern country of Palestine, Samaria and also Perea are the central countries, and Judea is the southern country. Galilee west of the Lake of Galilee and also bordering it was the district most honored with the presence of our Saviour. It extends from this lake to the Mediterrenean Sea and comprised the towns of Tiberias, Chorazin, Bethsaida, Nazareth, Cana, Capernaum, Nain, Cesarea of Palestine, and Ptolemais.

The Lake of Galilee is about twelve miles long and six miles wide. Its Old Testament name is the Sea of Chinnereth. In the New Testament it is called Sea of Galilee, the Sea of Tiberias, nad the Lake of Gennesaret, and sometimes simply sea. Its shape resembles an egg, with the large end to the north. The most rearkable physical fact about it is its depression which is estimated at 680 feet below the level of the Mediterrenean. But its depression is far exceeded by that of the Dead Sea many miles to the south. This sea is the lowest down place on the earth.

Truly its shores are the scenes of more incidents and teachings than any other section of the Holy Land. He had many eager and anxious audiences on these shores. We read of his crossing the lake twice. Once he wished to escape the crowds and crossed near the northern end, noly to find the people awaiting him on day the other side. At the close of the day he sent his desciples back in a boat, but as often happens because of the sweeping winds encircling the anti-Lebanus Mountains at the foot of Mount Hermon along the side of these high mountains down the gorges of the hills into the low basin of the Sea of Galilee, a great storm arose, and Jesus appeared to them by the boat and calmed the storm.

Capernauh is located on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee, near the border between the tribes of Zebulun and Naphtali. This city is a great factor in studving Palestine because it was Christ's "Own city." In this city he lived with his family and wrought a number of miracles, and taught in the synagogue. Simon Peter and Andrew lived in this city, and no doubt Philip and Matthew. We know that Matthew was called by Christ from the receipt of custom to become his disciple. While we call it Capernaum, the Bible name for it, the Arabs call it Telum.

Out just a short distance from the location of the town of Capernaum is the Plain of Gennesaret. It was here that Jesus preached all day, and no doubt praved all night. It was here that Jesus took the lunch of a mere lad which consisted of five barley loaves something like five ordinary biscuits and two small fish just like sahrines in this country, because I saw and ate of the fish from this sea, and multiplied it to feed the hungry multitude. By the way in passing I wish to say that the sea is so clear that they do not fish in the day time, but at night. And don't forget that they do not fish on Sunday, breaking God's Sabbath law as people in this country. They observe and keep the Sabbath better than many people here do.

This country does not need greater prosperity, but it does need more conscientious Bible reading and Bible studying. We have been blessed in materialism, but we fall far short in the study of God's word. If the poor, ignorant, unlearned Arab observes God's laws better than we do, do you not think it is time we were awaking to a sense of our duty and responsibility?

Capernaum was a Roman Garrison. A Roman and Italian built that magnificent synagogue. A proof of this one finds in the ruins of this synagogue. An eagle on one of the stone steps which is a symbol of the Gentile. As one stands and views the ruins of this once beautiful and thriving city in the time of Jesus Christ a feeling of his great foreknowledge and fulfilment lingers in your mind and you think of his words over and over, "Woe unto thee, Capernaum, which art exalted unto heaven, for thou shalt be brought down to hell: for if the mighty works which have been done in thee had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day." It was exalted to heaven in privileges, just as are the cities of this country, yet it continued, as I fear many of our cities are, impenitent, and unbelieving.

It was at Capernaum that Simon the pharisee invited Christ to go home with him and dine. While there a poor woman sought to see Christ, but Simon who could not be bothered with poor and ignorant people cast her away from his door. But she came back and Christ let her in. She fell at his feet bathing them with her penitent tears and wiping them with the hairs of her head. Christ forgave her sins, and placed her on the road to heaven.

It was here at Capernaum that Simon Peter lived and was so kind to his wife's mother. God bless the man who is kind to his wife's mother, his mother in law. He invited Jesus into his home and while there he cooled the parching fever of his wife's mother. At another time we read that Christ was in Peter's home and a great multitude came to him. Four men on the outside become so deeply interested in their poor paralyzed friend out in the country that they went to him and brought him and placed him at the feet of Christ where he was healed.

Right around this lake Christ took many Galilean journeys, healing and forgiving the needy. Remeber that his power to heal and forgive sins went hand in hand. He clearly expressed this power in response to untrained minds as to his healing of the paralyzed man in Simon's house when he said, "That ye may know the son of man hath power to forgive sin, I said unto the man, thy sins are forgiven thee, arise, take up thy bed and walk." That is just what Christ does for men today if they only believe and trust him.

We remember that here on the shores of this lake the poor people brought their little babies and children to Christ. Many said, "Go on away with the children and don't bother Christ." But Christ responded by saying, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Certainly that was parental solicitude rightly expressed. It was to the poor tired multitudes that Christ delighted to minister unto. It was here that Jesus said, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." He means to tell us he did those tired, wearied people that if we are laboring hard, and are burdened with responsibilities and cares if we will only come unto him he will give us rest, and truly there is no rest but rest in Christ.

We come on down to Magdala. We know this place in connection with Mary of Magdala, out of whom Christ cast seven devils. There is no inference in the Bible which would lead one to believe that she was a woman of stained character. The seven devils which possessed her might have been such as envy, pride, vanity, selfishness. I don't know anyone who is not devil possessed. We have to fight the devil daily. After she was saved she placed her wealth along with her mental talents at the disposal of Jesus. I wonder how many of us are giving our all to Jesus.

It was Mary of Magdala who was last at the cross and first at the sepulcher. Christ told her to go and tell his disciples that he would go before them into Galilee. So when they reached Mount Tabor Christ was there before them. I left Christ here at the church today at 12 o'clock, and when I returned at 2:30 I found him right here before me. It was on Mount Tabor that Christ said to his disciples and to us, "Go ye therefore into all the world and teach all nations, teaching them to observe all things whatsoI have comanded you. and lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the ages."

You travel a little farther north and look up on the side of a hill and see a city called Sapphir where the poor ignorant of Christ Arabs envy the Jews today. You think of Christ's words, "A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid." Now we come to Mount Hatten. I said to the guide, "I am looking for the Mount of Beatitudes." He said well this is it. We call it Mount Hatten. It is composed of several horns of mountain peaks and is in the shape of a woman's saddle for riding horses. It is often referred to among the Arabs as the Horns of Hatten. We call it the "Mount of Beatitudes or the Mount of Blessings. It was there Christ spoke the constitution of his kingdom found in the 5th, 6th, and 7th chapters of the Gospel according to Matthew. He said, "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness for they shall be filled."

YOUTHFULNESS and BEAUTY are dependent upon a strong body— firm flesh— a clear skin

NOTHING is more beautiful, more inspiring, more glorified than the supreme manifestation of Nature in the human body. Those sparkling eyes, that clear skin, that firm flesh, and that vigor of action denoting vitality, bespeak loveliness and internal healthfulness.

The why of a clear skin

A clear, smooth, lovely skin speaks of rich, red blood within. It is Nature's outward reflection of internal healthfulness.

Men and women, both, justly covet admiration and all may expect such satisfaction to its fullest extent if they are the possessors of a clear, unblemished skin.

If you are unfortunate in this respect you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

More important still, strong healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

S.S.S. THE GREAT BLOOD TONIC SINCE 1826

Loss of strength flabby flesh and skin eruptions are but a few of the symptoms of a deeper and more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

And so, is it not our birthright to be masters over our own bodies? To be sure not much is said openly about personal handicaps—skin blemishes—sallow complexion—poor health—but secretly they influence many important affairs.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin blemishes, lack of appetite, flabby flesh and loss of energy as an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

This is why so many thousands, seeking youthfulness and beauty, have taken a course of S.S.S. It helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Without plenty of rich, red-blood-cells there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men or beautiful, healthy women.

How S.S.S BUILDS STURDY HEALTH

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been helping people regain and retain their strength and charm. It promotes healthy body building. It increases the number of red-blood-cells. All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. © S.S.S. Co.

SPELLS OF BACKACHE

"I HAVE used Cardui at intervals for sixteen years, when I suffered from weakness, and it always helped me," says Mrs. J. W. Jinright, R. F. D. 2, Troy, Ala.

"Mostly I was afflicted with bad spells of backache. At times I felt as if my back would break. I would drag one foot after the other, in a helpless sort of a way, and once I got down in bed. My husband urged me to take Cardui, and I soon found what a fine medicine it really was.

"When my second child was little, I was in very bad health. I did not pick up as I should have. I was weak and sickly. I do not believe that I would have come through, but for Cardui."

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S., St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and lecturer.

IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF BEN WEBSTER

Every owner of a fair sized poultry flock should either belong to a co-operative marketing association or be interested in the story of Mr. Ben Webster. Ben is a hustling, likeable young chap who purchased a run-down farm, stocked it with chickens, and is now attempting to make it pay by establishing a "direct to the user" egg business. Of course, he'll make a go of it for the story runs true to the old Horatio Alger "Work and Win" formula. Nevertheless, if Ben were a real flesh and blood egg farmer, I am quite sure he would get there just the same.

I have observed a number of actual parallels to the popular Ben Webster story. None of them encountered such trials as Ben has had to overcome, but without exception, they found the egg route a profitable venture. And why not? If you take your eggs in one lot to one of the egg buyers or to some retail dealer, you know they are going to be resold at a profit of several cents a dozen over what you received from them. You cannot only have the profit for your own but you can actually demand a premium of from three to 5 cents a dozen over curent store prices as a rule. It is being done by many egg farmers in various parts of the country and there is no reason why the plan will not work anywhere.

You can offer your customers at least three advantages over the ordinary farm run of eggs such as are usually got at grocery stores. First you can guarantee that your eggs are infertile as no roosters are kept with your laying flock, hence your eggs will keep fresh much longer. Second, you can assure them that eggs are gathered twice a day so they are sure to be perefctly fresh. The third advantage is that you can keep your hens penned up so that there is no doubt about what eggs were laid. Eggs collected from hay lofts or here and there about a farm may have been laid recently or they may not.

Should any patron object to paying the price, provided, of course, that it is not out of reason, you may safely offer to let them try store eggs for a while. As a rule, your willingness to have them make this comparison will overcome their obections right then and there. Eggs produced under the conditions outlined above are bound to be better than those purchased through the stores.

Before starting a business of this kind, be sure you have sufficient hens to make sure of having a year 'round supply of eggs for your year 'round customers. Not to have a constant supply at all times for your regular trade will hurt your business very much.

In addition to the egg business with its very acceptable extra profit feature, there are also dressed fowls to be reckoned with. They too will bring you a much higher price if sold over your route than if marketed in the usual manner. Here again the assurance of a fresh product makes your offering more acceptable than that of the ordinary retailer. You will kill and dress fowls just before you start out to deliver them so they are sure to be in prime condition when delivered.

You have a very good medium for disposing of your extra cockrels and cull female stock and you do so at a profit considerably in excess of what you would realize by any other means. Just how much the increase will be depends on a number of conditions. I should consider it a conservative estimate, however, to say that as prices are at present, dressed birds sold in this way should bring you 25 to 35 cents more each than if sold in any other way.

It is therefore quite easy to see that, even though the egg route does entail more work than somply taking the week's collection to some retail dealer, the extra profit is more than likely to be worth the effort necessary to get it.

It would be an unusual community where plenty of customers could not be found. The chances are that a little investigation will reveal plenty of potential customers who will be glad to have you serve them. You may not be able to dispose of your entire output on your route at first, but by consistently offering a better service than others and a superior product, you will gradually build up a thriving business of satisfactory proportions.

MT. PLEASANT NEWS

Prepared by English Classes of Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School.

The Mt. Pleasant boys have been busy building a new basket ball court. New athletic equipment has been purchased and the boys will soon be primed up for match games. At this writing there is fair prospects for another strong team, by the enrollment of several new boys.

Any Junior High School wishing games, please get in touch with R. B. Johnson, principal.

The school of Mt. Pleasant regrets the loss of three of its school and class mates by the removal of Mr. V. B. Edwards to Birmingham. We send with them our well wishes for a great school year in the Jefferson County schools.

Miss Olys Bean spent the week end at home.

Miss Hester Hall spent the week end in Clanton with her sister, Mrs. E. P. Cooper.

There was revival services held at Liberty Hill church last Saturday morning at 11:00 o'clock; Saturday night at 7:30 and Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Holland, the pastor, did the preaching.

There was singing at Liberty Hill Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. W. G. Culp and Mr. Herbert Lowery of Clanton and Miss Ethel Gentry, teacher at Mt. Pleasant, were visitors at the singing. Also Mr. L. V. Riggins from Birmingham was there. We were very glad to have them and invite them back again.

There will be preaching at Liberty Hill on the second Sunday in December at 10:30 o'clock, and on Saturday morning and night before. There wil be singing in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. We invite everyone who can to be with us.

There will be preaching at Cedar Grove church on every fourth Sunday and singing in the afternoon.

New oficers were elected for the singing society Sunday afternoon. Mr. K. V. Lowery was elected for chairman, and Mr. Hiram Littlejohn vice-chairman.

Mrs. Pearl Wyatt from Sylacauga is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones.

Miss Gracie Cooper of Clanton spent a while at her home Saturday night.

On November 8th,1929 the death angel visited the home of Mr. R. F. Bates and carried his spirit home to rest. Mr. Bates was 63 years old and a member of the Baptist church. He leaves a wife and nine children to mourn his loss; eight girls and one boy. His remains were laid to rest in New Salem cemetery Sunday, November 10th.

Mrs. J. J. Askins and children of Selma were the guesas of Mrs. G. H. Massey Sunday night and Monday.

Almost all the boys of Mt. Pleasant are absent from school this week; they are attending the program at the Chilton County High School.

CARD OF THANKS

To Our Friends:

We wish to acknowledge with sincere thanks your help, kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Edna Adams. May God reward each of you.—J. T. B. Adams and Children.

SAMARIA

Our Sunday school was rather small Sunday on account of the roads being so bad, and too, there was lots of sickness in our community.

Our B. Y. P. U. met at six o'clock and a fine program was rendered by Group I. We are sure having some good quiz leading. Mrs. Carl Boockholdt urges that all the members be present next Sunday and to do their daily Bible reading.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Williams of Decatur spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wood.

Miss Pearl Vinson spent Sunday with Miss Gladys Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Boockholdt spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wood.

Messrs. Buster A. Foshee and Raymond Mims of the University of Alabama spent the week end with their home folks. We are glad to see these young men take such advantages as to train themselves for life's work.

Miss Gertie Mae Foshee was able to be back with us last Sunday after being absent for some time on account of the sickness of her father.

Mr. G. F. Harris attended the funeral of Mr. Bates at New Salem last Sunday.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day and we hope to have a large crowd out Sunday and Sunday night.

The B. Y. P. U. plans to have a real interesting program next Sunday night. Come and be with us. Visitors are always welcome.

CHESTNUT CREEK

Rev. Homer Carroll will preach here Sunday, November 17, at 11 o'clock. All members of this church are especially invited to be present, and visitors have a cordial invitation.

CHEVROLET SIX ECONOMICAL

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 12.—Paying high tribute to the economy and performance of the low-priced automobile, especially as a means of long distance travel, the Rev. G. W. Gasque, Rector of the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation, today recited some of the accomplishments of his new six cylinder Chevrolet coach on a recent 10,618 mile loop tour of the western half of the United States, during which he averaged 22.3 miles to the gallon of gas.

Accompanying Dr. Gasque on the seven weeks adventure were Mrs. Gasque and their young daughter, Anna Lee.

The long trip was made on schedule time so that the minister could fill speaking engagements in prominent Episcopal churches along the way. The route led from Atlanta to Chicago, by way of Nashville, Evansville, and Indianapolis, thence across the northwestern states to Seattle, down the Pacific Coast through Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles and back home across the desert country of Arizona and New Mexico.

A highlight was the climb of Pike's Peak over a tortuous roadway that stretches 13 miles along the mountain side. Dr. Gasque reports that the car carried its party to the summit without faltering and without heating the motor. Many other cars attempting the climb were forced to halt along the roadway to cool off before continuing, he said.

Dr. Gasque kept an expense book of the trip, which discloses interesting facts about the performance of the car. Having been newly purchased when the trip began, the car was not extended during the first 500 miles of driving. During this period it averaged 18 miles to the gallon, the book showed.

When the car was broken in, however, the gas mileage was greatly improved. For the entire 10,618 miles, which included driving in cities and in open country, the Chevrolet consumed 476 gallons of fuel, an average of 22.3 miles to the gallon. The gas bill on the trip was $107.18. Sixteen and one half gallons of lubricant were used, costing $22.25. The minister's book showed no expenditures for mechanical repairs.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

A birthday dinner was given in honor of Mrs. R. A. Barnett, on her 57th birthday, on Sunday, November 10th. Those who enjoyed this dinner with her were her sisters, Mrs. Leila Gayle and children of Tuscaloosa, Mrs. J. B. Northcutt and daughter, Leila of Jemison and a friend, Miss Ruth Glass of Jemison. Those of her children that were present were Mr. and Mrs. Ornie Martin and little daughter, Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Grant and son, James of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Barnett of Birmingham and two sons who were not present were Clarence Barnett of Stuart, Fla., and Austin Barnett and family of Jemison; also her friends Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Martin and little son, Whitman.

A wonderful dinner was enjoyed by all who were present and she received many nice presents. We all enjoyed the afternoon laughing and talking until the parting hour came. All went home wishing her many many more birthdays and another good dinner.

MAPLE SPRINGS

This is to notify all who were not present at Maple Springs last Sunday that our regular preaching time has been changed to the third Saturday at 11 o'clock, and third Sunday evening at three o'clock. Bro. A. L. Nichols will be with us next Saturday, the 16th. Everybody come out and be with us and help us in the work.—Respectfully, J. L. Dupree.

SHORT COURSE WELL ATTENDED BY FOLKS HERE

In Spite of Bad Weather Every Meeting Was Given a Full House of Farmers

MOBLEY'S TALK WAS BEST OF THE PROGRAM

From every standpoint the Agricultural Short Course held here on Monday and Tuesday of this week may be declared a complete success. In spite of the extremely bad weather, the attendance was good. At every meeting the auditorium of the Chilton County High School was filled.

The speakers who appeared on the program were greeted with intense interest by the audiences. Every subject was handled in a masterful way, and carried a message of untold value to the people who make up this community.

The address of Mr. Mobley on "Communities are Made of Folks," was perhaps the outstanding feature of the program, if we might say that any one of the addresses had any more special appeal to this community than the others.

Mr. H. S. Mobley, in beginning his talk on "Communities are Made of Folks" pointed out that this town of ours, "is not your town, or my town, but our town." It is something in common to all of us living in it—a community proposition, and to have a real town we must have a community spirit, not a one-man spirit.

"To many of us," he said, "the word 'town' means a group of buildings separated by streets and alleys, containing some stores, some factories, some banks, some residences, a few churches and school houses, but that is not the proper idea of a town. It is in accordance with the dictionary definition of the word, but it is not in accordance with a community idea of a town.

"There are two elements in anything that involves human life under civilized conditions." he explained. "They are production and distribution. Some people must labor to produce; others must labor to buy and sell. The two are essential; either, alone, is a weakness, in fact, impossible.

"The place we usually call a town is merely a business district or trade center. Around it are the farms, or the mines, or the fisheries, where men labor to produce and from where they come to this business district to sell and buy and transact the business end of their labor. I have heard it said that the town and country are separate; that their interests are not mutual. This is a great mistake. Each depends upon the other. Each is as necessary as the other. The country can not live without the town; neither can the town live without the country, but the town and country, by uniting what they have of production and distribution, can create such a condition of comfort and happiness as will constitute a real community of human beings."

Mr. Mobley declared he was not under-estimating the physical phases of man's life, but was striving to emphasize the human side.

"Communities are made of folks," he said, "and not of houses and of farms and factories. The houses, farms, mines, factories, banks and stores are all necessary but the human life and energy and intelligence back of them determine what they are to be. The higher the type of the people, the better the physical plant of the community.

"The difference between this community today, its houses, its factories —all its physical conditions—and the same community when the Indians lived here is to be traced to the difference between the people who are here now and the people who were here then."

Mr. Mobley suggested that we study our town. In some communities, he said the people look on their town as though they are not responsible for it and as a result they are dead and their town is dead.

"Too often we have to go away from home to learn the news," he said. "Do you know the things in your town that should be boosted, and the things that should be corrected? We work ourselves into the frame of mind that the things at home are not worth while. There is a life time study in this community, that is of utmost value to you. Evvery bit of it is full of practical knowledge. Every bit of it refers to your community."

Some things you should know about this community are the home, school, church and work-a-day life in the community, the government of the community, the health conditions, the division of boys and girls in educational matters. "All these things," he said, "are to be found on the greatest page in history—the open page of everyday life. Without a good, wholesome social life there can be no wholesome school life, church life or home life—no wholesome government."

Mr. Mobley described a town that "moved away" when the mines that supported it played out. The buildings were still there but the people were gone. The town had been composed of people and two other things —productive labor and business transactions. When labor quit, business quit and the people had to move away. "Land in this community wouldn't be worth 15 cents an acre if it were not for the human mind," he said. He next told of attending an Old Settlers' Meeting and talking with a man who ran a refreshment stand. He asked the man if he had been required to pay anything for the privilege of running the stand, and the man said he had and told how much he paid. Mobley then asked him how much he would be willing to pay to run the stand the following day, and the man replied that not only would he not give anything but that they would have to pay him to run it, because the people would be all gone. "So you see," said Mr. Mobley, "everything depends upon the human element."

He declared that the stubborn, selfish, unreasonable person is never of much good to a community, because he never works with anyone else or will let anyone else work with him.

"Dr. A. E. Winship," he said, "describes such an individual as being one who goes through life riding backwards, sitting on the rump of progress, pulling on the tail of things and hollering 'whoa',

"It makes me think of two women who were traveling on a passenger train. One was seated next the window and the other next the aisle. The steam pipes next the window grew very hot and the air became oppressive. The woman sitting there told the porter he would have to raise the window or she would smother to death. The one sitting next the aisle threw her cloak about her and remarked that if he opened the window she would freeze to death. A traveling man, having heard the contrary orders and seeing the negro's perplexity, asked him if he did not know the right thing to do, and the negro said he did not. The traveling man then said: 'If I were you, I would let the window remain closed until the woman sitting next to the window suffocated. I would then open it and let the other woman freeze to death.' Of course this is a joke but I have been in communities where the opinion was quite general that what the town needed most of all was a few funerals."

Mr. Mobley picked up from the pile of literature distributed at the meetings a card containing one sentence. "This one sentence, as simple as it is," he said, "is profound with community good sense. It says, 'Cooperation is living so other people can work with you.' Get that point and you will get the spirit of what I am driving at."

Mr. Mobley declared that one of the most embarrassing experiences for anyone who has pride in himself is to find that he has been following or acting upon some half truth, or some rumor, based on false logic.

"The people of this world," he said "who stand out above the masses are those who do not act until they are sure they are right. Start something in this community and keep your ears open for statements of radical people, of half truths, of prejudiced propagandists, and you will see clearly what I mean.

"But when you know the truth about anything, you are practically invincible. Everybody listens to you. You are a leader. You are worthwhile. It is one of the most forceful things in the world, to get the truth about things before you act. But it is difficult. It costs time, money, and a great deal of self-control."

He related an anecdote of some negroes who debated the question: "Resolved that the moon is of more value to the earth than the sun is." Those who favored the sun were about to get the decision when one negro got the floor and won the debate, by reminding the judges that the sun shines in the daytime when we do not need any light while the moon gives us light at night when we need light.

"In practically all questions we are called upon to decide," said Mr. Mobley, "we meet the logic of the negro. While sometimes, by the use of such logic, we carry our point, we are not victorious. It is worth while to get right on any question."

Mr. Mobley cautioned the community against getting what he called "the disease of somewhere else," and then explained what he meant by saying:

"In one town in a prarie county of Illinois where we held some of these meetings, they opened the evening session with a song which the children had been trained to sing. Their manner showed that great care had been taken in preparing to sing that song and they sang, down there in that flat, level country, resplendent with miles of yellow grain, kissed with the dew of early morn, 'My Heart is in the Highlands.' That is, somewhere else.

"Over in Ohio, this Winter, a splendid quartette sang with spirit, "Sleep, Kentucky Babe," and when I came on to talk I could not resist being rude enough to say that if I were in their place, I should write a lullaby about Ohio babies and let the Kentuckians put their own babies to sleep.

"We went down into Kentucky, made immortal by Stephen C. Foster through his folk songs that will live as long as the heart of man beats true to the impulses of higher emotions, and I expected to hear them sing some of those heart-moving songs, but in Kentucky they sang, 'Carry me Back to Old Virginny,' and in Virginia, a land of romance and poetry they sang like they meant it, 'Out Where the West Begins.'

"And when we went to South Dakota, there in a great school building they gathered from all parts of the state and out there, where the West is, where it lies spread out under the heavens and is fastened down by the Black Hills and the Rocky Mountains so that it can not get away—out there they sang with gusto and with soul-moving pathos, 'I Wish I Was in Dixie.'

"People, this 'somewhere else' is a wonderful thing but we can not put our hearts on other places and other people and dream dreams and see visions of things foreign to our home town, and people, and community, and, at the same time be and do in this place what we ought to be and do. Some of this 'over yonder' doctrine is all right, but too many of us have too much of 'somewhere else.'"

Mr. Mobley said that it is a good thing to get acquainted with our neighbors but it is equally important to get acquainted with our neighborhood.

"Towns are building manhood and womanhood and exporting them to other communities," he said. "If they had instilled in them appreciation of their own town they would have stayed. According to law a boy is worth $13,000. Are you capitalizing your boys and girls?"

Mr. Mobley closed by admonishing his hearers to select something they liked and stay by it and study it and work it. "If you do," he said, "something of great value to you and your community will come out of it."

Mr. J. N. Dennis, one of the leading farmers of Chilton County has the following to say in regard to the Short Course which was held here Monday and Tuesday:

The Agricultural Short Course just held here by Messrs. Mobley, Kraker, Hannon, and Miss Grace M. Smith, of the International Harvester Company, has been one of the most successful meetings ever held at Clanton.

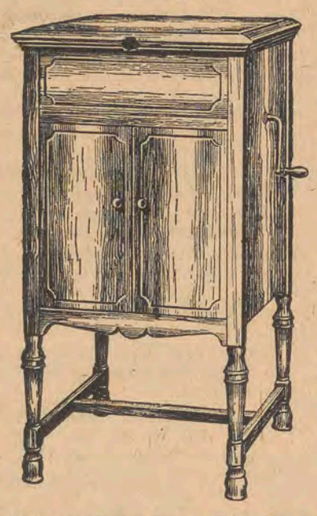
It has been inspiring, instructive and intensely interesting to those able to attend. With very adverse weather conditions the auditorium of the auditorium of the Chilton County High School building was taxed to its capacity at the four meetings held during the day sessions with good audiences at each of the night sessions.

I wish to thank each of the speakers for the splendid work done and to express the hope that they may be able to continue the work for many years.

I also wish to express my thanks to the International Harvester Company, and to congratulate those attending these lectures.

NEW CROPS IN FLOODED STATES BRING PROSPERITY

The introduction of new habits of planting, following the Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, has brought added prosperity to farmers in many of the Mississippi Delta counties, according to Red Cross officials.



Almost every cabin has a fine vegetable garden, whereas cotton formerly grew right to the doorstep, the Red Cross states. The home demonstration and agricultural agents have followed up the project inaugurated by the Red Cross, immediately after the flood of 1927, with very gratifying success. There is a large acreage in corn whereas formerly cotton was the one crop. Alfalfa has gained a firm foothold, and the growing of this crop is bringing good financial returns from the three or four cuttings each year. Live stock also is showing improvement due to these new crops.

Everything considered, the Delta sections which escaped a backwater problem in the Spring of 1929 are in a prosperous condition, as a result of the follow-up and rehabilitation by the American Red Cross.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

A Small Tale About a Large Nose

A NEW YORK playwright, famous for a gift of sardonic humor, was invited one evening to join an after-theater party at one of the Broadway cafes.

The prospective host told him he would be expected to pay some attention to a lady friend of his—the host's—fiancee.

The dramatist was wary. He remembered that more than once he had been called in at the eleventh hour to fill this role.

"Tell me something about this girl," he said. "Is she good-looking or is she one of those total losses?"

"Well," admitted his friend, "she isn't exactly what I'd call a raving beauty, but she's awfully nice—good company and all that sort of thing, you know."

"Yes, I know," said the playwright mournfully. "Well, for your sake I'll take a chance."

When he reached the appointed rendezvous at midnight, his worst fears were justified. Sitting at a table with his friend and his friend's sweetheart, was an exceedingly dumb-looking young women. Her most outstanding feature—and in this connection the word "feature" advisedly is used—was an enormous hook nose. To the dismayed eyes of the new arrival it loomed as the largest nose he had ever seen affixed to a human countenance. So, before joining the party, he fortified himself copiously from the contents of his pocket flask.

Presently, somewhat groggy but bearing himself with all proper dignity, he approached the group and introductions took place. With some slight difficulty he seated himself. His fascinated gaze meanwhile fixed upon the nose of his appointed vis-a-vis.

An embarrassing little pause followed. Nobody seemed to have anything to say. It was the befuddled dramatist who broke the silence. Bending forward and addressing the stranger, he said politely:

"I beg your pardon, but do you smell anything dead around here?"

"Why, no," she said.

"Well, then," he continued, with an air of finality, "there can't be anything dead around here."

COFFEE CROP AIDED BY RED CROSS IN ISLANDS

Disaster relief given following the West Indies hurricane which struck Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Florida, as well as other islands in the Caribbean Sea, presented one of the largest tasks yet undertaken by the American Red Cross. In Florida, where 1,810 lives were lost, the Red Cross aided 41,236 persons. In Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, where the loss of life was not so great, but where the devastation was almost complete, the Red Cross aided 731,712 persons.

Destruction of the coffee plants was the gravest loss, and the Red Cross aided in rehabilitating this industry by employing 67,000 natives to clear the coffee-land, so that replanting would go forward immediately, thus providing work and wages for thousands.

TRAIN LOAD OF SHRINERS TO STOP OFF IN CLANTON MONDAY

The Union-Banner has been informed from a reliable source that a train load of Shriners, en route to Birmingham from Montgomery, will pass through Clanton about 10:30 on Monday, November 18th. The group, we are informed, will unload here and parade through the main thoroughfares of town, and give a short band concert in some public place. The train, which is a special for the Shriners, will be here for about 30 minutes.

All who want to see the Shriners in all their pomp and glory, and hear the good music by their famous band should arrange to be on hand at 10:30 next Monday.

The Union-Banner is $1.50 a year.

HAVE YOU AN UNMARKED GRAVE?

How unthoughtful is he who permits the remains of a loving Mother, Father, Sister, Brother or a little Child to rest in an unmarked grave with nothing to distinguish that hallowed spot from the commonplace surface of the earth, indifferently trampled by man and beast. Great comfort will be gained by consecrating the spot where sleeps the departed with a beautiful and lasting monument.

THE SCOUT MASTER BEATS THE WARDEN

James Sabine, cheif probation officer of the Third Utah Judicial District, including Salt Lake City and an area larger than the State of New Hampshire, has found out from his records that no Boy Scout who attended troop meetings regularly has ever been brought into his court.

If you nail the interest of an ardent kid—no mater how tough he may seem—to scouting, temptation won't mean any more to him than radio meant to Robinson Cruso. Scouting strengthens boys, more than that, it hurries them, and a boy in a hurry, with half a glimpse of a decent destination, lives in another boy world, and will make the grown-up world better.—Industry and Labor.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

When the United States Senate, after a historic battle, rejected the League of Nations so far as the United States membership in that international association was concerned, and it became necessary, because of conditions, that we draw up and ratify a separate peace with Germany, Uncle Sam was denounced, not only in Europe but by the more rabid internationalists in the United States as a pariah among nations. It was asserted that we have given up a great chance offered us to become a moral leader of the nations of the world, that we had adopted a policy which amounted to building a great wall around the United States with the intention of retiring selfishly unto ourselves, and that the naturel developments would be loss of world prestige to ourselves and the fastening of the war danger on the world for generations to come because our influence for peace would be missing in world affairs.

Ten years have passed since the stirring battles over the League of Nations. It might be well to pause for a moment, and review succeeding events to see whether or not these dire predictions of the internationalists have been carried out. Have we built that insurmauntable wall and retired into isolation? And have we endangered world understanding and world peace? What is the record of the past decade?

In 1921 there was called into being in the city of Washington a naval limitations conference. It assembled on invitation of the United States government, and in that conference we gave up what was agreed to be an excellent chance to become the greatest naval power in the world. We would soon have had a preponderance in battleships, yet we gave up this assured superiority and accepted battleship equality, with out only serious rival, Great Britain. We did this because we hoped that it would be the first act in a world drama of general disarmament and ultimate peace, and we sunk good battleships to show our sincerity and our good intentions in the cause of peace.

When the great battle of the Ruhr came on, when it seemed that Germany might sink into bolshevism and the financial security of France be destroyed in the general economic debacle of the times, it was the Dawes plan, perfected in a conference presided over by a leading American statesman, which saved the day, brought financial order out of chaos, gave Germany a new lease of life and lessened the financial tension in France.

When the time came for the revising of the Dawes pact and the solution of the reparations tangle, so that allied troops might have the Rhine and actual peace be bestowed, American statesmen and American financial genius were again in the forefront in bringing the solution.

When the time seemed ripe to write another chapter in the book of peace it was the Kellogg pact, put in motion by another American administration, which finally bound the nations together in a moral agreement that was be renounced as an instrument of national policy and that henceforth the nations of the world agree to settle their disputes by arbitration rother than at the mouths of cannon.

Finally when the time seemed propitious for the taking of another step along the path of naval limitation it was an American administration that co-operating with the government of our chief naval rival, worked out a plan which, it is believed, will further lessen the naval burdens of the people of the earth without sacrificing the doctrine of parity and of defensive naval needs.

Here is the record of little less than a decade. Today Europe has gone farther along the path of peace and economic rehabilitation than it would have been dreamed possible a short ten years ago. In each step the United States has played a prominent part and has played the part of an adviser and friend, a disinterested party who could lend his aid for the very reason that he was not committed to any European policy and was not comitted in advance to the entanglements of European politics. This much has been done by a country which sought not isolation, but the preservation of its traditional policy of friendship toward all nations and alliances with none. The result proves that it is a successful policy. Had we ten years ago elected to enter into the maze of European diplomacy and European political jealousies, could we have been so successful in showing the way to peace and understanding? The answer is so plain that it needs no elucidation here. The internationalists have been refuted by the history of the world during the past decade. And our international policy will continue as it has been because it is the best policy not only for the United States but for Europe as well.

TIMES OUT OF JOINT?

Are the times out of joint just at present? If one were to accept present conditions at their face value the answer would have to be in the affirmative. In France we have recently seen the fall of the government, and the formation of a new and untried one only after grave difficulty, bringing into being a cabinet which threatens a fall once more at the least provocation. In Germany the Nationalists are on the warpath again. After the agreement on the Young Plan the Kaiserists, fortunately in the minority, have succeeded in getting enough signatures to bring about a plebicite on the ratification of the Young plan. They hope by this means to repudiate the reparations agreement in its entirety and to throw Central Europe once more into chaos. True it is that the Nationalists unless all signs fail, will not have enough votes to bring this deplorable condition about but just the same Germany will have to go through a bitter campaign and an expensive election, and the times call for a strong guiding hand to take the place of the late Dr. Von Stresemann. And the effect on France is not reassuring.

In England the Labor government seems at the present strongly entrenched because of Prime Minister MacDonald's successful visit to the United States, but there are a number of ticklish questions in the offing, among the more important being the solution of fthe unemployment problem and the recognition of Soviet Russia. Italy is peaceful because the iron hand of Mussolini is still at the throttle, while for Russia there is little to be said except that the communist autocracy is still busy in every part of the world seeking to undrmine governmental solidarity. The present pitiable condition in China is an eloquent example.

Here in the United States we have our troubles, too, though they are not of so serious a nature. But it must be regarded as more than regrettable that after a campaign in which there was no party backing the principle of free trade, the anti-tariff advocates seem to be about to get their way in preventing more tariff legislation because of the peculiar situation in the United States Senate. In our own country it would seem at least possible that party government, through which we have functioned for nearly a century and a half, may go by the boards and be succeeded by the European bloc system.

Yet after all things may not be so bad as they seem. The world has a way of muddling through its difficulties. Perhaps after all it is only the politicians who have the real cause to worry. The people have a way, given time to think things over, of settling questions in a manner which is not always satisfactory to the politicians but highly agreeable to the best interests of the country.

Our idea of a happy family is not the United States Senate when it is considering the tariff question.

Henry Ford is quoted as saying that women are not mechanically minded. Yet a lot of them make machines out of their husbands.

TOOTING OUR HORN

It is usually rather bad manners for one to toot his own horn, but we are going to break that well defined rule a little. What we want to blow about is the Wand-Adv., or Classified Adv. section of The Union-Banner. There are lots of folks over the county who know the value of this particular phase of The Union-Banner, and they make use of it, but others might as well be profiting by it also.

If you have lost anything of value or found anything that you know the owner values, why spend a quarter or fifty cents telling about it thru The Union-Banner. Or if you have a baby carriage, a gasoline engine, farm, cow, mule, or anything which you want to sell, or if you want to buy any of these things, you can more than likely find someone with whom you can get up a trade by letting your wants be known through The Union-Banner. And the cost to you is trivial. We couldn't hope to get rich off this advertising, but we do it mostly to accommodate those who need this service; and of course enough quarters put together make a dollar you know, and dollars buy paper on which to print.

So, take time to check over your business assets and see if you haven't got a plow stock or something which somebody else might need more than you, and advertise it in our classified section. It will help the other fellow, you and us at the same time. This advertising gets results.

WEST CHILTON

People are a little late in getting their crops gathered in this section.

Jahn P. Atchison will move away from this community to Montevallo.

There is now a nice profusion of autumnal flowers in this locality. We notice a fine display of them in Mrs. Marion Cofer's front yard. Nature's beauty excels anything artificial.

Mr. and Mrs. Tubb, who have been living at Palm Beach, Fla., have located on the highway near Macedonia. Mrs. Tubb was formerly Miss Pearl Crumpton of Macedonia.

Mrs. Belle Hubbard is extensively repairing her home.

Hunting is a great pass time over here since the hunting season opened up.

Mr. Tilery of Birmingham came down to visit his brother here and to hunt some also.

There was quite a fox chase here last week; starting near the John W. Mahan farm and continued for several hours but finally lost near the Pratt Crumpton place.

J. O. Mize of Maplesville spent a night with L. G. Posey last week.

Miss Littlejohn and Prof. White are the teachers at Freeman for this school term.

"Coming events cast their shadows long before." The school bus is carrying great numbers of children to the high schools, which is comfortable and convenient — also expensive. Is this an indication that the local school is dying? Men of superior intelligence say "the little red schoolhouse" is going. Is it best for all for it to go? We do not claim to know. But locating the high school in a community will boost that section; but how about the isolated sections from which it is drawing support? Will the home seeker invest in the isolated district? No. One of our leading citizens says: "Abolish the rural school and the rural church in a section and he would not give a snap for that section." Food for thought in that. Yet both institutions seem to be declining. We see some of the shadows being cast; and what will coming events be?

About fifty years ago a Jewish conference met in Berlin. That is destined to affect the entire world, probably soon, yet we all failed to see the shadows there cast. Some day we will see what fools we mortals were.

All of W. R. Latham's friends should visit him as soon as the weather gets colder; for he has two of the finest hogs we ever saw, ready for slaughter. Mr. Latham is one of our substantial citizens.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

WHY FARM PEOPLE SHOULD HAVE AN ORGANIZATION

By L. N. DUNCAN, Director of Alabama Extension Service

At this time the farm leaders of Alabama are making a very systematic and concerted effort to increase the membership in, and otherwise strengthen, their County Farm Bureaus.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, President of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is lending his assistance and encouragement in every way possible, by making some good, strong speeches in several important centers of the State, such as Mobile, Selma, Decatur and Anniston.

The entire staff of the Alabama Extension Service is working intimately and actively in a close advisory way with farm people in making and executing plans in the membership drive.

There are three big reasons why farm people should have a strong organization among themselves.

1. For social and recreational reasons. Farm people need to get together in a systematic and organized way for social intercourse and for various forms of recreation.

2. Farm people should be organized in order that they may further their educational facilities and opportunities. It is only through well organized community, county and State groups that schools may be built, teachers employed and other exceedingly important educational matter may be brought to the rural people.

It is also vital for the farm people to be organized to assist their county men and women agents in making and executing the right sort of an agricultural program.

3. The farm people need a strong, clean, business-like, non-partisan, non-political, farm organization for cooperative business purposes. If the farmer is going to make a real success of his business enterprise he needs to follow the same principles as other business institutions, in securing certain expensive supplies that enter so vitally into the cost of production, such as fertilizers, seeds, feeds, and so on, at the lowest possible cost.

Then the whole question of the efficient grading, warehousing and selling of farm products can not be accomplished successfully by individual effort, but must be done by cooperative marketing.

The kind of a farm organization which I am discussing, a clean, high class, constructive organization, officered and manned by the very highest type of rural citizens in Alabama, it not only necessary for the success of agriculture, but is good for every class of our citizens. This movement, therefore, should have the cheerful, friendly and whole-hearted support of all of our citizens.

In presenting this program of enlarging, strengthening and developing the Farm Bureau, the leaders are not speaking in theoretical terms of what they propose to do, but are coming forward with eight years of successful experience, with a record of achievement unparalleled by any group of farmers in America.

In the eight years more than seventy million dollars worth of farmers cooperative business has been transacted.

For the fifth consecutive year Joe Givhan, Blalock, Dallas County, has been awarded the grand champion fat steer prize at the State Fair of Alabama in Montgomery. At the recent 1929 fair he won on a cross between a Hereford and a Shorthorn. Givhan is now a student at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

DR. BRADFORD KNAPP FAVORS FARM ORGANIZATION

Dr. Bradford Knapp, President of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, is emphasizing the fact that farmers must organize to receive aid from the newly created Federal Farm Board, for the board is to work only with farmer-owned and farmer-controlled organizations. He has addressed county agents, farm leaders, and business men at several important centers of the state, such as Mobile, Selma, Dothan, Decatur, and Anniston.

Some of the most vital points made by Dr. Knapp may be summarized as follows:

1. Almost everything with which we deal is highly organized except agriculture. Our modern life is sweeping inevitably towards larger organizations. In fact, agriculture is about the only business still unorganized.

2. Unorganized farmers are trying to do business on an oxcart basis in this day when the rest of the world has learned to travel 300 miles per hour by airplane.

3. The greatest defect in American democracy is the lack of economic opportunity for farmers; it is only through organization that the farmer can make his voice heard in the markets of the world.

4. The membership of the Federal Farm Board constitutes the strongest leadership that agriculture has ever had in Washington. The members are fearless, intelligent, informed, and sincere. They deserve the support of farmers in their efforts to improve the condition of agriculture.

5. Though 26 per cent of the population of the United States is engaged in agriculture and forestry, they receive only 10 per cent of the national income, according to the 1920 census. By organization, other business groups are getting their relative share of the income.

6. Bankers lend money to farmers on the basis of how many acres they plant to cotton but they should lend it on the basis of individual integrity.

7. We will fail and be wiped out by a bunch of Soviet Russians if we fancy we can make agriculture attractive in this area by every fellow fighting against every other one. We have tried that a long time, and it has not only not worked in the past, but it doesn't work now. Wouldn't it be wiser to get together as a group, organize and affiliate with the thinking farmers of America, make these large organizations represent us, just as the state represents us, and thru organization put agriculture back on a decently prosperous basis.

NEW VITAMIN FOUND BY AUBURN RESEARCH

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 12.—Clues that may lead to victory for man over the dreaded disease, pellagra—which destroys 500 Alabamians yearly—and positive proof that vitamin B, as it was known until recently, is two vitamins instead of one, are important discoveries made by the nutrition laboratory of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. This is announced by Prof. W. D. Salmon, under whose direction the discoveries were made.

The Auburn findings are verified by the work of two other groups of scientists, who independently discovered similar facts about the same time.

As a result the new vitamin G is added to the list and the complete list of known vitamins now includes A, B, C, D, E, and G.

Prof. Salmon first divided vitamin B, as formerly considered, into B and G. Then, he found that white rats fed on a diet lacking vitamin G would not grow and would develop what appeared to be rat pellagra. Symptoms in rats show striking resemblance to those of human pellagra. If the disease is rat pellagra it will point the way to the long-searched for cause of the human ailment. Pellagra was discovered 200 years ago, but as yet no one knows its exact cause. Each year 500 Alabamians die from this disease.

Experiments by Prof. Salmon and his associates reveal that all seed in their natural state contain vitamin B. Corn contains B plus a small amount of G, while wheat contains B plus a larger amount of G. White flour is very low in vitamins because most of the vitamin content has been removed. Therefore, whole wheat flour is a better source of vitamins. Leafy vegetables contain vitamin C and other vitamins.

The work at Auburn was started in 1924. Both rats and pigeons were used. The research is being continued.

AID IS ONLY FOR ORGANIZED FARMERS

Farmers of Chilton County, of the State of Alabama, and of the United States are promised aid by the Government if they will only organize, according to W. L. Popwell, president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, when discussing the agricultural problems with the board of directors of the county organization last week.

President Popwell reviewed the fact that by the recent act of Congress cooperative marketing has become an established policy of the government. He read from section 1 of the Farm Relief Bill, as follows:

"That it is hereby declared to be the policy of congress to promote the effective merchandising of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce."

A Federal Farm Board of eight members has been appointed by the President and affirmed by the senate to put the Farm Bill into operation, said Mr. Popwell. He quoted President Hoover when he said that a big responsibility of the Farm Board is:

"To create permanent business institutions for marketing which, owned and controlled by the farmer, should be so wisely devised and so soundly founded and well managed, that they by effecting economies and give such stability, will grow in strength over the years to come. If we are to succeed it will be by strengthening the foundations and the initiative which we already have in the farm organiaztion and building not only for the present but for the next year and the next decade."

Again President Popwell quoted Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture:

"The farmers' problems can be solved only by their organizing into cooperative marketing societies."

Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, made the following statement at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation, Baton Rouge:

"The major policy of the Board will be the expansion and strengthening of the cooperative movement. The Board believes that it can be of great assistance to the American farmer by encouraging the development of large scale central cooperative organization."

Carl Williams, cotton representative of the Farm Board, made the following statement at the Institute:

"Farmers should get in with organized farm movements rather than attempt to organize new ones."

GOV. GRAVES INDORSES CO-OP

Declaring that farmers' problems can be solved only by their organization into cooperative buying and selling organizations and that the Federal Farm Board offers aid only to organized farmers, Governor Bibb Graves has endorsed the farm bureau and urges each farmer to join with his fellow farmers in building strong county farm organizations in Alabama.

Mr. W. L. Popwell, president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau, said today that Governor Graves has recently written the president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation a letter in which he agreed with President Hoover that the big responsibility of the Farm Board is "to create permanent business institutions for marketing which, owned and controlled by farmers, shall be so wisely devised and soundly founded and well managed that they by effecting economies and giving such stability will grow in strength over the years to come. If we are to succeed it will be by strengthening the foundation and the initiative which we already have in farm organization and building steadily upon them with the constant thought that we are building not for the present only, but for next year and the next decade."

Turning his attention to the farm bureau the Governor wrote as follows:

"I helped organize the farm bureau in my own County of Montgomery and have been deeply impressed and gratified with the strong growth of the county and state Farm Bureaus in Alabama. They have served not only their members but all of Alabama. I feel it a great progressive movement for our state. I am for the man with the slick hoe handle who faces the sun each day. As Governor I have tried to serve him and help him in every way that I could. I feel that I know his problems and understand them and I would advise that he join with his fellow farmers in building the Farm Bureau in County and State."

LIBERTY HILL

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days here. Rev. J. S. Holland preached three excellent sermons to a large and attentive congregation.

The Liberty Hill and Cedar Grove singing society met in the afternoon; singing was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Kermit Lowery; and prayer was offered by the chaplain, Mr. D. T. Melton.

We had with us several of our former members, whom we were very proud of, especially Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Mastin, Mrs. Walter Mastin, W. G. Culp and L. V. Riggins. Mr. Riggins is among the best bass singers in the State. Directors for the afternoon were, Kermit Lowery, W. G. Culp, J. E. Miner, Houston Melton, and D. T. Melton. Pianists were, Miss Leila Melton, Mrs. Lucile Lowery, and Mr. W. G. Culp. The singing was good and enjoyed by everyone present. It was the first time that we had used the new books.

Officers were elected for the society, as follows: Kermit Lowery, president; Hiram Littlejohn, vice-president; Mrs. Frances Littlejohn and Mrs. Evie Smith, secretaries; program committee, J. E. Minor, A. G. Littlejohn, D. W. Ward and Misses Leila Melton and Girtie Lowery; D. T. Melton, chaplain.

We insist on all members getting new books and attending our singings. Let's try to make this our best singing year in the history of our society.—Secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Samuels of near Rockford, accompanied by Frank Mitchell were visitors with friends and relatives of Clanton and Mulberry last Sunday.

UNION GROVE

The United Singing Society met at this place Sunday afternoon with a large number of good singers and also a large audience. Service was opened with a song by our president, Mr. Akins Collins assisted at the organ by his wife; prayer was offered by Prof. Appleton. A committee of three—Messrs. E. F. Conway, E. L. Glasscock and Akins Mims—was appointed by the president to arrange a grogram for the afternoon.

Directors were: A. H. Glasscock, Jasper Oaks, Lorenzo Sanders, Akins Colins, Akins Mims, E. L. Glasscock and Prof. Appleton. Those accompanying at the organ were Mrs. Akins Colins, Misses Genie Collins, Jessie Dorminey and Mrs. Belle Dorminey.

The singing was good; this being the first time the society had met here with the new boks and new officers in charge. Everyone was anxious to sing who could sing, and the ones who could not sing were anxious to hear singing; so you may know that it was enjoyed by all.

I think singing praise to God is one of the best ways we can spend Sunday afternoon. It is one of the best ways to worship because we can get people to help in singing who probably would not help in any other form of worship. There is really and truly a blessing and a consoling spirit for the ones who sing.

Naturally people like to get together, and it is so much more upbuilding to a community to have a good live singing once in a while. Singing is one way we have of teaching and training the boys and girls to love God and love to be in a service for Him.

The young people are going some where and get together some time, so why not keep some kind of good services for them, such as singing, Sunday school, preaching and B.Y.P.U. to attend and take part in. They enjoy the work if we will furnish it for them.

Let us make our singing the best it has ever been. We have a good man for president, one who will do all he can to make the society better, but he can't do all by himself. Each one has a part to do, and the other fellow can't fill your place. We will have to co-operate and attend all the singings and help in every way we can to make the society what it should be.

The United Singing Society will meet at Collins Chapel next Sunday afternoon; another good singing is expected to be there.—Secretary.

Friendship's Fontain, purebred Jersey owned by Mrs. King Pharr, Catherine, has been awarded her second Gold Medal by the American Jersey Cattle Club. This blooded cow produced 762.26 pounds of butterfat and 13,038 pounds of milk in 365 days.

LITTLE NOLAN LOWERY

Little Nolan Lowery, the 20 days old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carrie Lowery, died last Friday night.

The relatives wish to thank the people of Pleasant Hill community for their help and sympathy shown them. May the Lord bless each one. And we especially thank Bro. Cost for the words of comfort he spoke to the bereaved ones; we also thank the people for the floral offerings.

It was their only child, but the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away.—Grandmother and Aunt.

OAK GROVE

There will be singing at this place next Sunday evening at 2 o'clock. Everybody come and bring your new books. Will have Providence Class, and Pleasant Grove has a special invitation, as we will have some business to come before the people.—W. J. Northcutt.

Seven years of eradication work has been effective in ridding Alabama dairy herds of tuberculosis. In 1922 three per cent of the animals tested were reactors. During the first nine months of 1929 sixty thousand animals were tested and only .065 of one per cent reacted. This is presented by Dr. C. A. Cary of Auburn, state veterinarian.

SOME LUCKY DOG!

One of our town's late bridegrooms dropped in on us the other day and remarked that his honeymoon was over; we ventured that his whole married life should be one continuous honeymoon, to which he replied: "The honeymoon is over when friend wife gives you pork and beans for dinner and gives the pork chops to the dog."

THORSBY SECTION

S. E. NORTON, Manager

Mrs. R. R. Franklin lost a green gold mesh bag at the Baptist church Sunday. Anyone reading this who found the bag will know where it belongs, and we have no doubt will be glad to return it to the owner.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gray spent Sunday in Prattville.

Miss Mary Gladys Childress was a guest of Roberta Marcus in Clanton last Sunday.

Miss Pauline Bean spent the week end with Miss Edna Childress,

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice and children visited friends at Deatsville Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pate were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin Thursday.

There will be services at the Lutheran Church at 10:45 A. M. in Scandinavian language, next Sunday, November 17. There will also be service at the same place and hour Sunday, November 24, in English.

Rev. J. E. Each, who has been spending a month in Wisconsin and Minnesota, speaking in the interest of Congregational Missions, is expected to return home early next week.

The proceeds of the B. Y. P. U. Dollar and measuring social, recently held at the home of Mrs. Ed Piper, netted around $50 for the Baptist church building fund.

Work on the new church building has been delayed a good deal on account of heavy rains, but is now so far along that it is hoped to have the work under cover within the next week or ten days. The Baptist church building committee is trying to pay as they go. One thousand dollars will be needed very soon, and they hope that all who are willing to help, and especially those who have pledged certain amounts will pay in this week to Sidney Davenport at The Bank of Thorsby.

William Each who is employed by The Montgomery Journal such time as he can spare from his studies in a business college, met with a painful accident in the Journal building one day last week. It seems the elevator stuck in some way and young Each was among those trying to turn it loose. When they succeeded in doing so William's right hand was caught in some way and second, third, and fourth fingers severely injured. Latest reports say the fingers are healing and seem not permanently injured.

At Thorsby this week, Thursday night, at 7:30 P. M. is the first number of the Lyceum Course. Charles Crawford Gorst is the entertainer. He will whistle while piano accompanies and imitate many birds' songs. He will show very interesting pictures. Those who have heard him say he is a very fine entertainer and as he receives a large remuneration he does not often visit small towns. It is a rare opportunity being offered. Admission, single tickets: adults 50c, students 35c; season tickets, three numbers: adults $1.25, students 95c.

The Helen Keller Literary Society held its second open meeting of the year in Helen Jenkins Hall, Saturday evening, November 10. L. C. Sims, the vice president, presided in place of Aubrey Taylor, the president, who was absent on account of the illness of his father.

The program consisted of two numbers. A play entitled "Joe's Radio" was the first number. The second number was a short operetta for girls entitled "Lady Frances" with Kathryn Foss singing the title part. The program was prepared under the direction of Miss Arthur and Miss Thoroman.

The Philomathics got possession of the banner when they won the point for attendance.

The Christian Endeavor Society had a program for Armistice Sunday. The society considered the causes and results of war, and then discussed how Christians might help prevent wars in the future. Mr. V. H. Sutlive was the leader.

Mr. Luther Rowe, a Howard College student, and a graduate of the Thorsby Institute, who is preparing for the ministry, occupied the pulpit at Thorsby Congregational church last Sunday. Mr. Rowe is a young man of pleasing personality, and has a good speaking voice. He preached an interesting sermon and spoke without notes.

Rev. Neil McQuarrie, who is no stranger in Thorsby, will preach at Congregational church next Sunday. Mr. McQuarrie is Superintendent of Congregational churches in Georgia, Alabama and West Florida.

Mrs. Mack Gray has as her visitors this week her brother and sister, Mr. Howard and Miss Mabel Colley, of Prattville.

Mr. Lester Pate and a boy friend of Wetumpka are spending a few days with Lester's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pate, on account of high water which prevents work at their job.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Mrs. Mack Gray, Miss Mabel Colley and Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway spent Wednesday shopping in Birmingham.

Mrs. Dowling entertained the Thorsby bridge club at her home in Clanton last Friday. High score was won by Mrs. Roberts, second by Mrs. Guy Higgins, booby by Mrs. Thompson. Delightful refreshments were served.

Mrs. Perry Gore who has been in the hospital at Birmingham is reported to be improving.

Ernest Eiland was seriously injured in an auto crash near Jemison last Sunday night. As we got it a speeding car undertook to pass a car that was following him quite closely, and instead of passing both cars the driver undertook to cut in behind Ernest, resulting in knocking his car off the road in a heap of ruin. He was badly hurt about the face and got internal injuries that were so serious that he was carried to Clanton to the hospital. It was reported Tuesday morning that he had a bad night Monday.

Theron South of Birmingham was a visitor in Thorsby Sunday.

Miss Helen C. Jenkins returned Sunday morning from a trip to Charleston, South Carolina, where she attended a meeting of the advisory council of Congregational churches in the Southeast. This meeting was held in the Circle Congregational church. Some people think Congregationalism is comparatively new in the South, yet this Circular church at Charleston was organized in 1681 and is still going with 57 members.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowe, parents of Luther Rowe who preached at Thorsby Congregational church, and two of his sisters in Thorsby Institute, came from their home at Camp Hugh, Bibb County, to be with their children Sunday.

Mrs. Ellery Hansen and Miss Lois Primm of Lock 12 were visitors to their parents in Thorsby Sunday.

Alabam tralenf now is the time for

Rev. J. W. Jones and G. F. Harper left Tuesday morning for the Baptist State Conference which meets at Gadsden November 12th and 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burdette and children of Clanton, Mrs. C. M. Williams and daughter, Mrs. Thomasson, went to Anniston Sunday, stopping at Talladega to pick up Martha Williams, who is a student in one of the Talladega schools. At Anniston they visited Mr. Burdette's sister, Mrs. Hamilton. They all enjoyed the outing very much, particularly Martha, who is well, gaining in flesh and happy in her work at school.

Messrs. John and Claus Carlson are expected to return to Thorsby for the winter at least, on Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. George Peterson of Birmingham visited her daughter, Margaret, a student in Thorsby Institute, last Sunday.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid will meet Thursday, November 21st, at the home of Mrs. Conrad Carlson.

The Congregational State Conference will be held with the Thorsby church November 22-24.

The Ladies Guild annual Bazaar will be held at Thorsby town hall on Saturday afternoon, November 30. We hope all members of the Guild are working for it.

Roy Raybon left last Tuesday for Birmingham to resume employment at the Tutwiler Hotel where he was employed for several years.

Arthur P. Villadsen with his wife and baby were visitors at the home of Mrs. T. W. Robinson a few days last week. On their return to their home in Tuscaloosa they took with them Miss Jennye Robinson, sister of Mrs. Villadsen.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Mrs. Mack Gray, Miss Mabel Colley and Kendall Franklin motored to Mitchell Dam Monday. They report the water in Coosa River exceedingly high.

Rev. Th. Bakke who has had a charge in Canada the last six months returned to Thorsby Sunday morning.

Mr. Willie Scott of Montgomery visited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott last Sunday.

Miss Iola Gerald spent the week end in Decatur.

The Baptist Ladies Aid will meet this week with Mrs. G. F. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Dyrhovd and Mrs. Th. Bakke were visitors in Birmingham last week, Thursday.

Mr. Steve Stanley of Mitchell Dam has been doing petit jury duty at Circuit Court here this week.

The JACK-POT

Rain again! Phew! Can't do anything BUT rain. No huntin'—no ridin'—no nothin'—maybe fishin'—but it ain't that time o' the year. However, it's got that bad that they go fishin' during the Christmas holidays, so maybe somebody can get a little fun out of all the surplus water.

Returned doughboys said last Monday, Armistice Day, was a real reminder of days spent across the pond, all right. Rain pretty near all day, the only genuine finishing touch to make them think of the dyed-in-the-wool war days—nothing missing but the heavy artillery!

A few weeks ago we had a few words to say about the new fill the Town has built on the Higgins Ferry Road, east of town. That fill is going to be lots of help to farmers this winter, and the Town Council is to be commended for having it built. All it needs is a good thick coat of gravel, and one of the worst road hazards in the Clanton district will have been wiped out. That'll be fine. No stalling, no drowning out of your motor, just a good piece of road. Good doin's!

It's days like the last few that make people appreciate what your Uncle Sammy does to make life a little easier for farming people. Of course, along about June, it looks mighty easy to watch a rural mail carrier drive up to your mail box, deliver your daily batch, and drive on. Mighty easy! BUT—nowadays, it doesn't look quite so easy—but your mail comes to your door just the same—rain or shine—good or bad—THE MAIL MUST GO! The boys all pull out with your mail—ON TIME—it matters not what the weather. Just remember that when you hear somebody ranting about the easy pickings and big pay the carriers get.

More 'taters! Say, this country must've turned to 'taters this year. And the more they come the bigger they get. Just about the time we get ready to name somebody as the champion sweet potato raiser, along comes some bird with another one, and we have to hang up the crown again. 'Bout decided to let everybody get done diggin' 'em before we decide the champ. Honest, folks, when they bring 'em in where four potatoes make a bushel—well—words fail us!

The weather man pulled a raw deal on the people for their big get-together meeting last Monday and Tuesday. Guess it was a fitting setting for the farmers, though. It is said they always get the worst of everything, anyway. No matter what happens, the farmers suffer in the long run, so the fellers possibly didn't notice anything very much amiss at the way things turned out. Farmers generally prepare for the worst—and GET IT!

This fall we have heard a number of people discussing the apparent falling off of trading in the Clanton district. One ginner wanted to know where all the cotton was going—they found out—to neighbor towns. Now the merchants are asking where all the money went. Want to know? Drop around by the post office any morning you wish, for your answer. Last Monday morning we watched seven rural carriers' automobiles leave Clanton loaded to capacity with packages.

Mail orders. One man with a good business head decided that all the merchants in Clanton wouldn't sell as much in a day—and a busy one, as busy days go now—as the carriers carried out. And it's that way almost every day. And that's only the parcel post, too. Think what comes in by express and freight from mail order houses, in addition. Now, just whose move it?

Saw a man the other day who believed our next hard-luck would be an "auto panic." We've been hearing that for years, but it doesn't happen. Some how, some way, we keep breezing along, and each year finds more auto license tags being sold than ever before. It may come some time, but when it does, if it does, we have one consolation—we've all had a rattlin' good time of it while it DID last, haven't we?

Auto panic? Not much! Just the other day we read an article written by a man very much in touch with the credit end of "big business," and his main worry seemed to be how the fuel sources would be able to fill the demand to be made upon them in the immediate future—not how they would be able to dispose of their product. That man who was worrying about an "auto panic" should stop worrying. Some people are PAID to worry over things of that kind, and to see that it doesn't happen—and he was doing his worrying for nothin'! Scabbin'! He oughta join the "Worriers Union," and get in one of the best paid classes.

Well, folks, somebody delivered us a load of coal by mistake the other day, so we're gonna let 'er slide, go home, forget 'taters, rain, auto panics, etc., for a week, and just prop up and enjoy life as it chooses to come to us. If it don't come—? Well, why bring that up, anyway?—"Jack."

CAPITOL News

Alabama livestock raisers will be interested in the formation of the Alabama Farm Bureau Livestock Commission, which will market cattle on a cooperative basis with elimination of speculation. This newest form of Farm Bureau activity has taken over the Watkins-Carrithers Company and is functioning from the company's former office in the Union Stockyards, Montgomery.

Montgomery is a live stock center of growing importance, situated as it is in a region admirably adapted to cattle production. The new Farm Bureau Department will assist the farmer in the same general way as the Farm Bureau Cotton Association helps in markeing cotton. Farmers will be asked to send their cattle and other livestock to the Farm Bureau Commission, which will market cooperatively and bargain collectively for the shipper.

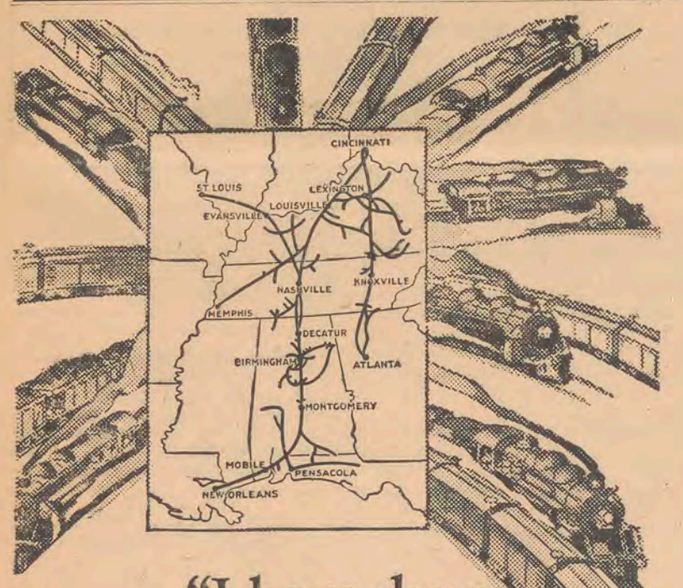
In commenting upon the formation of the new livestock body, President Edward A. O'Neal of the Alabama Farm Bureau said;

"The purpose of the commission department is to aid the farmers to get the very best price possible for their livestock. J. B. Sylvest and J. D. Moore, marketing specialist of the extension service will supervise and direct in an advisory capacity the livestock operations and they are contracting livestock organized shipping associations, shippers and county agents.

"The Farm Bureau believes that the greatest returns from livstock is gotten through assembly of large volumes of livestock, which give the seller greater bargaining power. To this end, special stress will be given organization of small shipping associations in communities where individual car load shipping is not already in progress.

As a result of the abolition of the fee system some years ago Montgomery County is saving $1,000 per month in the Probate Office alone. This information was brought out at a recent meeting of the Montgomery County Board of Revenue, and was based on reports of examiners of accounts, showing costs of running the office on the present salary basis as compared with the obsolete fee system.

The Alabama Ginners Association in a recent meeting at Montgomery adopted resolutions calling on the Federal Government to investigate the "Apparent understanding among cotton seed oil mills in Alabama to regulate prices." These resolutions were sent to the Federal Trade Commission and the Departmnt of Justice, and aid of Alabama's members of congress was also sought in breaking up the alleged practice.



J. M. White of the Department of Game and Fisheries, will devote his entire time during the next few months to educational work, according to announcement by Commissioner I. T. Quinn. Mr. White will work particularly among the schools and will have complete charge of organizing Junior Audubon Societies throughout the state. He will also lecture before Civic Clubs and other similar organizations. This work is being done in cooperation with the National Association of Audubon Societies, with headquarters in New York City.

Mr. White has had much experience as a lecturer and his work is causing much favorable comment. It is a progressive step for conservation to have a man of Mr. White's ability devoting his time to educational work.

"I have done the state some service and they know't"

The above quotation from Shakespeare is surely, and not too boastfully, applicable to the L. & N.'s position in the territory it serves.

The economic soundness of any community or territory is determined largely by its contribution in commerce to the rest of the world. People can't live to themselves. Marketing in other communities the products grown or manufactured in one section brings prosperity to the home community. Without railroad service, the products of farms, the output of mines and factories, would become practically valueless because of their restricted markets.

The business of transportation is to take things from where they are plentiful to places where they are scarce, and, therefore, it is with considerable pride that this railroad points out the fact that, although SIXTEENTH in rank in the amount of operated mileage of individual roads in the United States, last year it held THIRD place in the number of carloads of traffic originating on its lines.

Last year 1,238,770 cars were loaded on L. & N. rails, thus emphasizing the importance of the service this road is rendering to its patrons as well as the benefits accruing to the sections of the South in the thirteen states in which it operates. Constant improvement of transportation facilities, coupled with dependable operation, keep busy the wheels of industry and make for the intensive development of the wonderful resources of the Central South.

To this originating tonnage should be added 500,000 cars of freight which the L. & N. received from other carriers and distributed promptly and efficiently. Last, but not least, the Pan-American, the Southland, the Dixie Flyer, the Flamingo, the Crescent Limited, the Piedmont Limited, the Dixie Limited, and other fast through-trains, afford adequate passenger service through greatest comfort, fast schedules, superior dining-car service, and better connections.

THE OLD RELIABLE L&N LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

When you Travel and use the L. & N. your trip will be swift, safe, economical, and comfortable, in modern trains departing and arriving on time at convenient hours.

Let the nearest agent arrange all details of your next business or pleasure trip, and remember that, regardless of your mission, each trip is a pleasure trip on the L. & N.

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1929 Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 17

LIVING WITH PEOPLE OF OTHER RACES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:9-15, 30-35; Gal 3:28, 29; Ruth 1:1-18; John 4:5-10; Rom 1:14.

GOLDEN TEXT—Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Friends of Many Races

JUNIOR TOPIC—Friends of Many Races.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Treating Those of Other Races as We Should Like to Be Treated.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Contribution of Various Racial Groups to a Common National Life.

I. God Is No Respecter of Persons (Acts 10:34).

The approach to the heart of this lesson is through the Golden Text. Paul declared on Mars' hill, "God hath made of one blood all the nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth" (Acts 17:26).

II. Examples of Racial Harmony.

1. Ruth, the Moabitess (Ruth 1:1-18).

In the days of the Judges, because of famine in Judah, Elimelech and his family went to Moab to find subsistence. While there his two sons married Moabitish women. Not long after this, the father and the sons died, leaving three desolate widows. Learning that the famine was over, Naomi decided to return. Ruth insisted upon going with her and her determination was expressed in such wonderful words that they have become classic (Ruth 1:16, 17). She renounced her country and people in order to be identified with the people of the living God. In this we have an example of two very dissimilar people united as one.

2. The woman of Samaria (John 4:5-10).

This woman was not only of a despised people, but of a disreputable character. But when the light of God entered her soul she became a witness to her people of Christ, and the leader of a movement which prepared the way for the revival at the hands of Philip a few years later. That which removed the barrier from between the Jews and Samaritans was the personal knowledge of Jesus Christ.

3. Cornelius, the Roman soldier (Acts 10:9-15, 30-35).

The Jews hated the Romans because they were under bondage to them. Peter, the head of the apostolic group, was a Jew of strong prejudice. The time had now come for the removal of the wall of partition between the Jews and the Gentiles. To do this God chose a high-grade and influential Gentile to make the transition. Cornelius was a devout man, though not saved.

In removing this wall, two visions were given:

(1) To Cornelius (Acts 10:3, 8). While engaged in prayer, an angel from God announced to him that his prayers and alms had come before God as a memorial, and instructed him to send to Joppa for Peter, who would tell him what to do.

(2) To Peter (Acts 10:9-16). In his vision Peter saw a certain vessel containing clean and unclean animals, let down from heaven and heard the command, "Rise, Peter, kill and eat." Against Peter's protest God said, "What God hath cleansed, call thou not common." This vessel let down from heaven and taken back again indicated that both Jews and Gentiles were accepted on high. The spirit of God bade Peter to go with the messengers of Cornelius. Upon arrival, Peter explained to Cornelius how God had removed his Jewish prejudice and then, being assured that they were ready to hear the message from God, he preached Jesus Christ to them. In his sermon to Cornelius, he set forth:

a. The basis of salvation—the death of Christ.

b. The scope of salvation—whosoever believeth on Him.

c. The method of appropriation of this salvation—faith in Christ.

In endorsement of this message by Peter, the Holy Spirit was poured out and as the gospel now was reaching beyond the Jews, there was a new Pentecost.

III. All One in Christ Jesus (Gal. 3:28, 29).

In Christ all class and racial distinctions are lost. Let those who would hasten the period of racial good will bestir themselves to the task of preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ—the only means of uniting the various branches of the race.

Those Who Are Gone

Those who are gone, you have. Those who departed loving you, love you still; and you love them always. . . . They are only gone into the next room; and you will presently get up and follow them.—Thackeray.

According as Thy Faith

Art thou a beggar at God's door? Be sure thou gettest a great bowl, for as thy bowl is, so shall be thy mess. According as thy faith, saith He, be it unto you.—John Bunyan.

Loosening the Grip of Time

ASKING no favors, playing no favorites, time gives to every man twenty-four hours every day.

Nor can one moment be added. To scientific skill and human ingenuity remains the task of making the most of the time that we have. How well these efforts have been rewarded is common knowledge. Today man completes in moments—with a mind free for other duties—work that a few years ago required hours. Modern transportation draws distant points hours closer.

Working hand in hand with each advance—faster than the fastest—is the telephone. Wherever you call—in town or out—you get your connections even quicker than you did last year, much quicker than the year before.

The grip of time is being loosened, but it must be loosened even more to meet the needs of tomorrow. A refusal to be content with present accomplishments is the spur that urges the 23,000 employees of this company to exert their best efforts to make your telephone service faster and better.

SARDIS NEWS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching daps. Our pastor, Rev. G. G. Williams, delivered two mighty good sermons. From now on we will have our regular preaching days on the Third Sunday and Saturday before. Our B.Y.P.U. will be held every Sunday morning before Sunday School.

We were sorry to learn that our friend, Rev. L. B. Headley has left our community. We sure will miss him in our Sunday school and B.Y.P.U. work. He was always ready to assist us every way he could in our church work, besides being a good neighbor.

We invite everybody to come and help us out in our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. Next Sunday afternoon is our regular singing, and we invite all the singers and lovers of music to come and be with us.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

Notice is hereby given that the assessment roll of book containing description of property, and subjects of taxation located in the Town of Clanton, Alabama, for Town or Municipal taxes for the tax year of 1929, has been made by the Town Clerk of Clanton, Alabama, and returned to the Town Council as provided by Section 2124 of the Code of Alabama, 1923 and an ordinance duly adopted by the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, on the 15th day of October, 1929, levying a tax of Five Mills on each Dollar's worth of taxable property in said Town, for said year. That the assessment of said tax has been completed in accordance with the requirements of said Section and ordinance and that the Mayor and Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, will meet in the office of the Mayor and Clerk of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, on the 29th day of November, 1929, to hear and determine objections to the assessment of said tax, and finally determine and pass the assessment of said taxes.

Witness our hands this the 5 day of November, 1929.

Picture of Baptising Was In China Press

The picture of the Falakto baptizing last summer has gone around the world. The latest instance of where the scene has popped out is called to uor attention by Rev. J. Toy Williams who sends us a clipping of The China Press with the picture in it.

On Sunday following the baptizing the picture appeared in The New York Times, later in The Birmingham News, and goodness knows how many more paper we never saw.

With his enclosure of the China Press, Brother Williams sends us a letter which we publish below:

Shanghai, China.

Editor Union-Banner:

Imagine my surprise the other day when I opened the morning paper and found in it a picture taken somewhere near Clanton. The world is not so large after all. You folks in Chilton County will have to be careful what you do, for the rest of the world has your number and knows what you are doing.

In this modern age it is usually the bad things that are featured in the daily papers. But it greatly pleases me to have something good noised abroad from my home county in Alabama. If the English reading people of China must see a picture from my home town, I am glad it is something good rather than something bad. How I would have enjoyed being one of the crowd at that great baptizing service! May everyone of those baptized at the meeting always be earnest, faithful servants of the Master. May they not be proud that the eye of the world is looking upon their pictures, but that the eyes of the Lord are upon them and that He wants them to make His name known to the world.

After all, it is the religion of a people that counts for most. Their religion moulds their character. It is the combined impact of the individual characters of a people that makes a nation great or insignificant. The Chinese people have religion, and it is the worship of gods made of wood, stone and clay, one does not expect to find the highest type of character. When one sees some of the low ideals and lack of noble character so prevalent out here his heart goes out to them in an earnest desire to give them something better.

It is a joy to me to be out here and to do what I can to give the people a knowledge of Him who can regenerate the heart of man and give him new life, new ideals and a noble character. How thankful you people back at home ought to be for your churches, Sunday schools, and preachers of righteousness, when there is so much of the world that has no knowledge of our Lord.

Will you please say through your valuable paper to our many friends back in old Chilton that we reached Shanghai on schedule time and found a host of Chinese and missionary friends on the shore to give us a welcome back to China. We are getting back into the work out here and enjoy preaching again in the Chinese language though it comes a little hard after having been away for a year.

We are greatly indebted to the good people of the Clanton Baptist church for paying the freight on our of Chevvy out to China. That same car we used at home to make speaking engagements we are now using in Shanghai to go to our work and to meet preaching engagements. May the Lord richly bless everyone who contributed toward sending it out for us. It saves a great deal of time and energy for us and our prayer is that we may be more efficient in the work of the Lord.—J. Toy Williams.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

Tribute Where Tribute Was Due

YEARS ago in one of the smaller cities along the eastern seaboard, the local leader of the dominant political party was one Mr. Michael Dempsey. Mr. Dempsey carried the organization in the hollow, as the saying goes, of his hand. True there was a selfish motive behind his activities, because he held the most lucrative local office within the gift of the populace.

As might be inferred from his name, he was of Celtic antecedents. Naturally, what with his powers of leadership and his compelling personality, he was the idol of all the Irishmen among his constituents. Those among them who had come, as he had, penniless greenhorns from the Old country, regarded him as the greatest man in the state if not in the nation.

In the fullness of time, and largely through his patriotic efforts, a bond issue was voted for the erection of a new county building. On the day after the cornerstone of the new structure had been laid, two of his followers chanced to pass the spot. Upon the face of the stone, in the customary Latin numerals, the year had been engraved, as follows:

MDCCCXCIX.

One of the passersby stared at this curious inscription. He spelled out the letters. To him they had no meaning.

"Larry," he said wonderingly to his companion, "what's the purpose of that?"

"Simple enough," said his learned friend, "that MD stands for Mike Dempsey, and thim three C's in a row means Clerk of the County Court. 'Tis merely a deserved tribute to Mike that's been carved he're."

"Yis," said the first speaker, thoroughly convinced, "but whut does the rist of thim marks stand for?"

"Oh, thim?" said the scholar. "That's just to kep track of the times whin he's licked the d—n Republicans."

MRS. J. T. B. ADAMS BURIED

Mrs. Martha E. Adams, age 56, wife of J. T. B. Adams of near Coopers, died at her home last Saturday night. The remains were buried Sunday afternoon at Verbena cemetery by Martin. Rev. S. J. Ezell of Clanton conducted the funeral.

SIX MILLION CHILDREN IN JUNIOR RED CROSS

The year 1929 marks the tenth anniversary of the founding of the American Junior Red Cross. There are now Junior Red Cross societies in forty-one nations, all pledged in the common cause of service to their fellows.

Membership in the American Junior Red Cross in the United States and insular possessions is 6,878,000, and is largely through grade and high schools and private schools. The organization is governed by the boys and girls. One of its chief features is conduct of international correspondence with schools of other nations, through exchange of albums and small gifts. The American Juniors sent 85,000 Christmas boxes of small gifts to children of many nations last year.

The American Junior Red Cross gained 349,171 in membership last year.

Fifty-one nations belong to the League of Red Cross Societies, and are prepared to carry on health, disaster relief and life saving programs all around the world.

BAPTISTS GIVE WET PAPERS A STERN REBUKE

None Named But Floor Comment Is: "We All Know Them In Alabama"

RESOLUTION PASSED AT STATE CONVENTION

Gadsden, Ala. Nov. 15.—The Alabama Baptist Convention at the closing session of its one hundred and eighth annual meeting here today adopted the cooperative program calling for an expenditure of $460,000 during 1930.

The convention proposes to raise $207,000, or 45 per cent of the total goal, for the furtherance of southwide and foreign objectives. The program was outlined in the report of the executive board.

Proposed amounts to be raised for state objectives were, for missions, $85,400; church building funds, $18,400; Judson College, $36,800; Howard College, $36,800; Newton Institute, $23,400; ministerial education, $13,800; orphans' home, $13,800; Alabama Baptist Hospital, $23,000.

The $207,000 to southwide causes will be apportioned by the Southern Baptist convention among home and foreign missions, theological seminaries, Womans Missionary Union training schools, ministerial relief and other causes sponsored by the denomination in the south.

Wet Press Rebuked

The executive board announced that a canvass of church members would be started during the week of December 1-8.

The report of the executive board was second in interest only to that of the social service committee last night, read by the Rev. M. L. Harris, of Prattville. The report gave a stinging rebuke to the "wet press" of the State and nation for "condemning the faithful discharge of duty on the part of duly authorized public officials." Names of the papers were not mentioned but it was remarked on the floor of the convention that "we all know them in Alabama."

"There is nothing in our modern civilization which is more astonishing than the spirit and attitude of a large portion of the press, especially many of the great dailies, touching the vital matters of law enforcement," the report declared. "It is difficult to understand and regrettable beyond expression that many of our metropolitan papers sneer at some of the fundamental laws of the land."

The report assailed the "wet press and other designing forces," for criticising and denouncing preachers for "dabbling in politics."

The report deplored the spread of irreverent, obscene and salacious literature and commended United States postal authorities for refusing such literature to pass through the mails. The homicide record in Alabama was "regretted" and the report classed motion pictures as a harmful influence.

Dr. Knapp Guest Of Kiwanis Club Today

Will Speak To Gathering of Professional Men and Farmers Today

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton is distinctly honored to have as their guest at luncheon to-day Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, at Auburn. The meeting will be held at the Methodist Church, and will be attended by members of the Kiwanis Club, together with about 25 business and professional men of Clanton and other towns of the county, and about 20 of the representative farmers of the county.

Dr. Knapp will speak to the gathering on some subject of his own selection. The Kiwanis Club feels that the coming of Dr. Knapp to Clanton is an occasion worthy of the fullest appreciation of our town and county. Therefore the entire membership has been very active in making every arrangement necessary for a grand gathering and a hearty good time.

Special music for the occasion is being arranged by Percy Pitts. Mr. Pitts has promised to have the Clanton Quartet appear as the main feature of his part of the program.

Road To Lock 12 Is Being Improved

Indications now are that the road to Lock 12 will be in first class condition for the traffic that will go over it on next Saturday for the dedication exercises when the plant will be named "Lay Dam," in honor of Captain W. P. Lay, founder of the Alabama Power Company.

Over a month ago the county road crew began to concentrate on the Lock 12 Road with a view to grading and graveling it. Then came the announcement of the Power Company of the coming of thousands of visitors to the dedication exercises. Also came the rain, enough of it to make a very bad mess of the road. A grave problem was thus developed in getting the road back to proper shape for Saturday.

Officials of the Power Company and officials of Chilton County put their wits together and began to figure on the problem. It now looks like they have solved it. Only a lot more rain this week can prevent the proper solution of the road question. And it now looks like the balance of the week will be fair. Such being the case, everybody who goes to Lock 12 next Saturday will have a delightful road to travel.

Alabama Power Company offered to furnish 50 car loads of slag to put on the road if the county would haul it to the road. Judge Reynolds and Commissioner Vinson agreed to carry out the contract for the county. All last week and this week they have been running a large fleet of motor trucks carrying the slag. Also a large crew of men is being kept on the road to scatter the slag and keep the surface in shape.

The Power Company has already overhauled all the bridges on the road. With the extra work and material that is being put on this road, it not only means the guarantee of a good road for use next Saturday but that the future of this road will be made permanent.

We congratulate the county officials upon their determined efforts to provide a good road for the use of our visitors next Saturday. And the cooperation of the Power Company in the work is most commendable.

ADDITIONAL SENTENCES IMPOSED BY JUDGE SMOOT

After the disposition of the regular cases on the docket Judge Smoot went back over the cases Friday afternoon and imposed additional sentences on some cases in which the juries did not specify the punishment. These cases follow:

DR. ANDERSON AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Dr. C. C. Anderson of Montgomery will preach at the Clanton Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning at eleven o'clock.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who will attend the services.

Capt. W. P. Lay

We present above a picture of Captian William Patrick Lay, founder of the Alabama Power Company, who will be signally honored next Saturday when Lock 12 is formally dedicated as "Lay Dam." It is to the perseverance and persistent effort of Capt. Lay, more than to any one man, that the Alabama Power Company was first organized and placed on a sound financial basis.

In the early days of the company, he wrestled with powerful opposition and met the rebuff of doubting financial interests with firm determination that his plans should not accept defeat. He had a dream of development for the Coosa River that he believed was destined to prove a great industrial asset to Alabama.

To tell the great story of Captain Lay in a few words, it is necessary only to say that he refused to give up his ambition in the face of any obstacle, and held out until success had to come and bow at his feet.

Now his achievement is to be crowned with the honor which he so richly deserves. All Alabama will on next Saturday look up to him with thankfulness for what he did single handed and alone in the turbulent years of his past.

Captain Lay is Alabama's own son. He has laid his life on the altar for the advancement of his native State. It is well that Alabama now rise with one accord and dedicate a memorial that shall stand to his honor for all time to come.

Biography

The following biography of William Patrick Lay is taken from Thomas M. Owen's History of Alabama and Dictionary of Alabama Biography:

Lay, William Patrick, promoter and developer, was born June 11, 1853, in Cherokee County; son of Cummins M. and Elizabeth (McGhee) Lay who lived in Cherokee County, the former a pioneer in the operation of steamboats on the upper Coosa River in Alabama to which vocation he devoted his life.

He was educated in the common schools, and at the age of eighteen began the machinist's trade in the engine department of extensive railroad shops working at that trade for six years. He went on the road for a time as locomotive engineer, and in 1874 went to Gadsden as bookkeeper for William P. Hollingsworth.

In 1879 he embarked in the lumber business in Gadsden, and conducted that business until 1890. It was largely through Mr. Lay's efforts that the first blast furnace was located at Gadsden in 1883. He built and owned the first electric light plant in Gadsden in 1887. In 1888 he figured largely in the construction of the railroad from Anniston to Gadsden.

He was president of a hotel company that built the Printup Hotel in Gadsden; was instrumental in inducing the Louisville & Nashville Railroad to build a connecting railway line between Gadsden and Oneonta. It was due solely to his efforts that the Southern Steel Company located its plant in Gadsden in 1902.

In 1903 he built and owned the little water power plant on Big Wills Creek near Attalla, which supplied the city with its electric current.

Mr. Lay has been an active worker for the improvement of the Coosa-Alabama River for more than a third of a century, and has been chairman of the Coosa River Improvement Association for more than twenty years. As a part of his plans to bring about a dual development of that kind, he organized and incorporated the Alabama Power Company in 1906, which company built the power plant at Lock 12 on the Coosa River.

He has been a member of the city council of Gadsden twice; was an elector at large for the state of Alabama in 1912 to vote for President Wilson; was commissioner at large from Alabama to the St. Louis exposition in 1903; was chairman of the Alabama Conservation Commission in 1908. He is a Democrat and a Methodist.

He compiled the original Coosa River Memorial in 1899, and is the author of a booklet entitled, "The Great Coosa-Alabama River and Valley, Georgia and Alabama," and of several other booklets treating on the Coosa-Alabama River and the benefits to be derived from the proper improvement thereof.

He was married April 26, 1876, at Gadsden, to Laura J. Hollingsworth, daughter of William P. and Mary J. Hollingsworth. His children are Earl, insurance man, Gadsden; Carl, merchant; Tracy, deputy consul general for the United States in London; Orville, chief chemist of Woodward Iron Company; Everett, Gadsden.

The Abbeville Exchange Club is promoting the dairy industry in Henry County. Members of the club have agreed to buy 100 cows and place them with farmers at cost. The cows will be paid for from the sale of cream and milk.

Meeting of the family bills is usually enough to take the "fat" out of father.

Be thankful—you have reason enough whether you have sense enough or not.

CROWSON HOME BURNED EARLY TUESDAY NIGHT

The home of Mr. Willie Crowson, formerly the Will Plier place, on the Lock 12 Road across the creek from Clanton, was burned early Tuesday night. The house was completely destroyed. Most of the house furnishings were removed and saved from burning. We have not learned how the fire originated.

When the city fire fighting crew arrived on the scene the flames had gained such headway that little could be accomplished by applying water to the building. However, the work of the fire fighters was effective in keeping the flames under control.

The fire engine was placed on the bridge over the creek, the pump was lowered into the water, and a powerful stream was carried over 300 yards to the burning building. The value of the fire engine was demonstrated, because it was shown that if another building had been close to the one burning, the water would have been sufficient to keep the flames from spreading to other property. A barn near the house was saved by the efforts of the City Fire Crew in charge of the hose.

Most people can lose weight if they were not so careless about putting it on.

ALL THINGS ARE READY FOR LAY DAM CEREMONY

Five Thousand Visitors Expected at Big Barbecue and Dedication Exercises

ROAD PROMISES TO BE IN GOOD CONDITION

"Everything is ready for the big day," comes the final announcement concerning the arrangements for the dedication of "Lay Dam" on next Saturday. Things have been done with great haste, yet with careful order and precision.

The Alabama Power Company has made its house in order at Lock 12. Everything is shaped up as neat as a pin and when Lock 12 becomes "Lay Dam" on next Saturday, the place will be as spick and span as it was in 1913 when the big wheels first began to turn.

Perhaps the busiest gang in the whole army of preparation for the big day has been the road crew which has been battling for two weeks against incessant rains and miles of mud to get the road from Clanton to Lock 12 in good condition. It looks like they have conquered their big problem. With fair weather the rest of this week, it is sure that the road will be in better shape than it has ever been before.

A great fleet of automobiles has been enlisted by Major H. M. Simpson for the purpose of transporting the visitors from Clanton to the river. When the special trains arrive here Saturday morning these cars will be standing by ready to load up the folks and take them to Lay Dam and bring them back.

Many hundreds of people from all over Chilton County are expected to attend the ceremony, in addition to those who will come from afar by train and auto. The Power Company is prepared to feed 5,000 people with a delightful barbecue and all the necessary trimmings that usually go with it.

The Town of Clanton will present a festive appearance to greet the visitors with a hearty welcome as they pass through here. A delegation of more than a hundred citizens of Clanton and Chilton County will be on hand to help show the folks a good time.

Everybody is asked to remember that the exercises will begin at the dam at 10:30 o'clock. All who intend to go should make preparations to be there by that hour.

REV. CHILDS ATTENDING METHODIST CONFERENCE

Rev. Ernest Childs, pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church, is in Montgomery attending the annual meeting of the Methodist Conference. The session will continue into the first of next week.

Shriners Stop Here For Parade Monday

Brass Band Rendered A Brief Concert For Large Assembly of Spectators

The trainload of Shriners which stopped off in Clanton Monday morning presented a most elaborate appearance. All diked up in the gay colors of their exalted degree, the company took charge of the town for about half an hour and entertained a big throng of spectators with band music, marches and a variety of funny stunts.

The town was all ready for them when they arrived. The city officials had cleared Second Avenue of all traffic between Sixth and Seventh Streets and had the pavement washed plum clean so the fellows wouldn't encounter any danger of getting their white slippers dirty. Banners swung aloft across the street proclaimed the welcome of the town to the visitors. A great number of local Shriners wearing the fez were on hand to mix with their visiting fraternalists.

The delegation was from Alcazar Temple in Montgomery, and were on their way to Birmingham to join with the members of Zamora Temple in a big blow out in the Magic City Monday night. Many Clanton Shriners either joined in with the party here or went to Birmingham in automobiles Monday and Monday night.

STATE CAPITOL News

Full recognition of the Alabama-Coosa water route as one of the main arteries of a national system of waterways was accorded by the Mississippi Valley Association at its recent meeting at St. Louis. Governor Bibb Graves attended this meeting and presented the importance and merits of the Alabama-Coosa project. The Governor returned to Montgomery having completely accomplished his objective of securing the incorporation of the Alabama-Coosa project in the main waterways system endorsed by the Mississippi Valley Association, an organization which is a powerful factor in furthering development of water routes. The resolution adopted by the association placed the Alabama-Coosa route on a par with the Mississippi and its tributaries as part of the system, the development of which was recommended at the earliest possible date. The resolution declared that:

"The main lines north and south on the Mississippi River from Minneapolis to New Orleans and connecting waterways, and east and west from the upper reaches of the Ohio and its tributaries, such as the Ohio and Lake Erie Canal and the great Kanawha and the Tennessee and the Cumberland, up the Missouri to Sioux City and to a point as far north as a satisfactory channel can be secured, the intra-coastal Canal from New Orleans to Corpus Christi, Texas, the Alabama-Coosa, the Arkansas River, and Red River are vital parts and main arteries of this system and should be improved with the least possible delay."

In his address before the St. Louis meeting of the Mississippi Valley Association, Governor Graves said:

"There are few things of which we Alabamians are so proud as we are of the fact that we are here and can greet all of you as fellow members of our Mississippi Valley Association. We are proud of your leadership, proud of your vision that sees the need of the nation, and we rejoice in the strength of our organization that is back of that leadership and that vision. Mr. President, your Ninth Division, your newest recruit, has enlisted for the duration of the war. We salute you and stand ready to serve.

Our big country is a country of big things that are growing bigger and better and closer together all the while. Great as is our growth in bigness, greater still is our growth in oneness, our growth in a spirit of one for all, all for one, our growth in the feeling as well as in the knowledge that anything that helps any part of our country, big though it be, helps all of it, and anything that hurts any part of it, hurts all of it.

The biggest thing that has come before our whole people since the World War, is that which brings us here now. Since that war, America has been sitting "On top of the world," commercially, industrially, financially, primarily because our man power has been at a premium. That war destroyed a third of all the man power of Europe, but was of far less hurt to our own. Now a crop of man power is coming on in Europe that will take away our premium and will endanger our world leadership if we fail in the duty of this hour.

That duty can be met and we will meet it. Always there is a bright side, for God so made His world that when we face His sunshine the shadows fall behind.

If we will but use the powers of nature that are in our hands, our continued supremacy will be secured.

Add America's river power to her man power and she will "stay put" on top of the world.

The prompt and proper solution of that river problem, including as it does flood control, water power development and navigation is the challenge of today to the efficiency of the leadership in our Nation.

I am glad for our Nation that the hand now holding its lever is the hand of an engineer, a river-minded engineer who has both the vision to see the need and the courage to do the needful.

As was said to Esther when it came within her power to save her people, "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the Kingdom for such a time as this?" So I say to the Great Commander in Chief in America, our President.

For the making of another immortal, the man and the occasion are met.

At the outset, let it be known to all that our ends are constructive.

Our ends are to provide actual transportation, not potential freight rates.

It would violate the principles of common honesty for our Government to spend its tax-gathered funds, contributed in large part by the railroads, on projects to force these roads to render service for less than it is worth, and thus further force these roads to pocket the loss or to "pass the buck" to some other helpless part of the public.

The conscience of the country forbids such destruction, and may be depended upon through its Congress and Commission to make rates and classifications fitted to new conditions that will make rail, truck, barge and aero and every other kind of transport complementary rather than competitive.

When the water projects provide actual transportation to slow moving heavy cargoes at costs that make possible new business, the resulting developments will benefit railroads together with all other interests. The conclusive proof of the soundness of this statement is in the fact that our most prosperous roads parallel navigable waters, so we believe that the surest way to make all railroads prosperous, is to make all navigable rivers actually navigable. In this, we, of course, include the St. Lawrence Development and the Chicago Peoria and inter-coastal projects.

Making navigable rivers navigable removes the handicap of our magnificent distances; lays the surest foundation for prosperity in peace; and above all, is our best preparedness for war.

The southeast has a special as well as a general interest in every phase of this problem. We appreciate the necessity of flood control, for Alabama lost many millions in the floods of this year, and we know what happened this time may happen again, if we fail in proper safeguards.

Our interest in water power is known of all, for we have many hundreds of thousands of available horse power still unused.

None has a greater interest than we in water transportation both river and inter-coastal canal. We have within our State more miles of navigable streams than has any other State, and the proposed inter-coastal canal to connect the Mississippi and the Atlantic crosses our State.

When Alabama stresses her special interests she does so without any sense of narrow selfishness.

Alabama would not have an interest adverse to that of the Nation.

We know that the development of our part of the system is absolutely essential to the full success of the whole. We know that America's river transport system must be a complete whole; that its value will be in the aggregate of the values of the contribution of its every part, just as the strength of a cable is the aggregate of the strength of its every strand.

Mr. President, the Ninth Division is here to work with you as a part of your team to win the game for us all. You will hear from the representatives of our delegation in Congress, who are here as members of this Convention, that the strength of the delegation is yours, and we believe that it is as strong as any of its size.

You will hear from Mr. Brent and Colonel Fox, both of your Executive Staff, whom you have let us have to direct the assembly of the facts that Congress will need in determining the merits of the project, that they have the wholehearted aid of our governmental and civic agencies—that our whole people are on this job.

We expect to show conclusively that within the arms of the Coosa-Alabama-Warrior rivers there is embraced more potential ton mileage for the nation-wide system of water transport than there is in any other Division. In support of this there are many details that I should like to give if there were time, but just one will illustrate our case. Last year Alabama was the fourth State in water power production. We call this "white coal." None of our "white coal" superiors had any black coal. Last year we were the fourth State in the production of coke, while none of our coke superiors had any "white coal." Last year we were the third State in the production of iron ore, and mark you, none of our iron ore superiors has either "white coal" or black coal with which to work the ore or iron. You can readily see why the industrial workshop of our electric-iron age is now building in this heart of Nature's storehouse.

The products of that industrial workshop are the ever-increasing need of this Golden West. That workshop is already the good and evergrowing consumer of the products of the West. Each has the things the other needs, and each will supply the other with return cargoes, if here today we measure up to the duty of this hour.

We know from the parable of the Divine Teacher that non-use of the talents within our keeping means for us and for ours the fate of the unprofitable servant, the outcast from whom is taken the little that he hath. The user of our resources will bring to us and to ours the reward of the profitable servant; that we shall have abundance and shall enter into the joys of our Lord.

SARDIS SINGING REPORT

Editor Union-Banner:

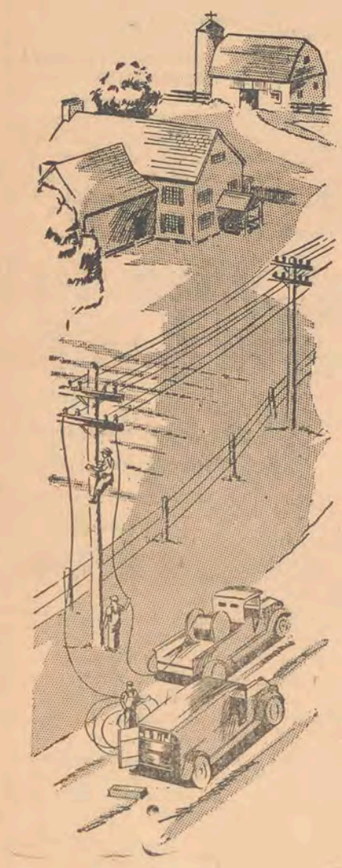
Please give me a small space in The Banner to give the singing report of Sardis yesterday afternoon. The Society was called to order by Bro. G. B. Williams, who acted as president in the absence of our regular president. Bro. Williams opened the singing with that good old hymn, "Amazing Grace." After the song Bro. Williams led prayer, after which Mrs. H. L. Ratliff and Miss Arie Ratliff were asked to make a program of directors who sang one song each. The following is a list of the directors:

Carson Williams, Miss Alpha Ratliff, Miss Mae Sansom, Miss Arie Ratliff, Miss Melvie Roebuck, Miss Nellie Hayes, Miss Lila Belle Golden, Mrs. Gladys Short, and Welch Roebuck. The organists for the singing were Miss Arie Ratliff, Miss Lila Belle Golden, Mrs. Gladys Short, and George Anderson. Although the audience was small the singing was real good. Everyone who was present enjoyed the singing very much. It pleased the Lord to give us a beautiful evening for our singing. We expected the Liberty Hill singing class with us, but we are sure the roads were too rough for them to undertake it, but we hope to have them with us as soon as it is convenient fo rthem to come. After the program was over we were dismissed with prayer by Rev. J. D. Deason.

Our Sunday school ,B. Y. P. U. and W. M. S. are all progressing nicely. We were real sorry to give up our friend and co-worker, Rev. L. B. Headley. He has accepted a position with the Broadhead & Nivens Co., of Clanton. We sincerely hope Bro. L. B. Headley a successful life in all his undertakings for good. Although we had to give him up we hope God will use him for a purpose of His own glory.

We cordailly invite the public to Sardis any time they will come and help us out in our worship.—George Anderson, Secretary.

CHEVROLET WINS FIRST PLACE AT AUTO SHOW



Tribute to its leadership as an automobile producer is again paid the Chevrolet Motor Company in the announcement by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, that Chevrolet has again been awarded first place at the 1930 national automobile shows.

The award is given annually to the member company doing the largest annual volume of business, and is one of the most coveted honors that the automobile industry can bestow on an individual automobile manufacturer.

In addition to the distinction that goes with the award, Chevrolet is given the first choice of exhibition space at the national automobile shows in New York and Chicago.

All Down the Line

ALL Alabama Made

FOR the first time in the history of Alabama, a complete electric distribution line can now be built exclusively of Alabama-made materials. During 1930 Alabama Power Company expects to build 619 miles of new lines. Construction of these lines will involve use of vast quantities of Alabama manufactured products, most of which are made from Alabama natural resources. Here are the Alabama-made materials which can be used in the construction of an electric distribution line:

CONCRETE for anchorage of poles, made in Alabama cement mills from Alabama shale and limestone.

POLES from Alabama forests.

CREOSOTE for the protection of the poles, manufactured in Mobile and Birmingham.

CROSS ARMS hewn from Alabama timber grown within the state.

BOLTS, STEEL BRACES AND LAGS made of Alabama iron, produced from Alabama ore.

COPPER WIRE manufactured in Mobile, Alabama.

GLASS INSULATORS now made in the Birmingham district.

It has always been the policy of Alabama Power Company to give preference wherever possible to Alabama industry. In the future, as in the past, this policy of patronizing home enterprises will be persistently pursued.

A GOOD START IS HALF THE RACE

"As the twig is bent so will the tree be inclined," was not spoken of chicks, but the proverb fits splendidly. Chicks must get a good start if they are to develop into good layers. In the first place, strong chicks are necessary. Good enviroment, sanitary quarters, freedom from dampness and plenty of warmth for comfort are all important factors, but nothing is quite so important as proper feeding.

The ideal feeding method is one which keeps the chicks growing every minute. If your present methods are accomplishing that result, do not change, but unless your chicks are developing regularly from day to day so that you can literally and actually see them grow, you will probably profit by changing to another plan. That does not mean a more difficult or complicated one. On the contrary, it oftens means simpler and easier methods—most certainly more effective ones.

The time to start proper feeding is the very moment your chicks arrive from the hatchery or when taken from the nest or from your own incubator. Thousands of chicks are killed every year by premature feeding or by being given the wrong kinds of food materials during their first few hours of freedom.

Nature provides all the nourishment needed by a chick during the first two or three days of its life. Just before it emerges from the shell, what is left of the yolk which nourished the chick before hatching is absorbed into its abdominal cavity. This supplies all the nourishment needed for the first 48 to 60 hours. To feed anything else during that time may lead to serious digestive disorders causing death later on if not at once. A considerable percentage of so-called White Diarrhea cases are caused by premature or improper feeding at this time.

While chicks should receive no grain, mash or other solid food during the first 48 to 60 hours, they can have water, fresh buttermilk or sour milk from the start. If the milk is available water is not necessary, otherwise see that they constantly have before them clean water into which is dissolved Chick Tablets. Water or milk should be given in clean shallow dishes or drinking fountains so arranged that the chicks cannot get into them with their feet.

After about 48 to 60 hours, give them their first feed, placing the food on clean paper or in shallow trays so they can see it and learn to eat easily. Do not overfeed as it is extremely dangerous. Baby chicks should be fed about every three hours for the first two weeks and never at any time should they be given more than they can clean up in about fifteen minutes. It is much better to keep them hungry than to stuff them during this period.

Scatter a little grain and fine grit in the litter the first day or two after you start feeding them and teach the little fellows to scratch. If they find some of the grain in the litter they will learn to scratch readily, and as soon as they learn to scratch, all their grain feed should be fed in the litter, as exercise is very important for baby chicks. It causes growth and wards off disease. I can usually teach my chicks to scratch the second or third day, and then I scatter all grain in the litter.

Litter is very essential for baby chicks that are brooded inside. It is the means of providing the exercise necessary for the chick's growth and continuous appetite. It should be dry and clean and free from mold or must.

Chaff that is found in all straw makes excellent litter for chicks. In fact, I prefer it to any other. Shake the chaff from the straw and use it for the chicks. Alfalfa is good, but it should not be as fine as dust, as that will get into the nostrils of the chicks and cause inflammation. Bright straw, hay or alfalfa cut into short pieces make excellent litter for baby chicks.

I have carried on hundreds of experiments during the past fifteen years and as a result of the knowledge thus gained, I have developed a very successful method of feeding baby chicks. Unfortunately, lack of space prevents me from incorporating my method in this article, altho I hope to give it in the next one. Should you miss the next article or desire any further information about the handling and feeding of baby chicks, I shall be glad to answer any questions addressed to me in care of the editor of this paper.

CHEVROLET BREAKS ALL OCTOBER RECORDS

Detroit, Nov. 18.—All October production records in the history of the Chevrolet Motor Company were broken last month with an output of 85,915 cars and trucks, it was announced at the central offices here today.

Compared with the output of 65,052 units for October of last year, the 1929 October manufacturing volume shows a gain of more than 20,000 units. It indicates an increase of more than 900 cars and trucks a day over the showing for the corresponding month a year ago.

Chevrolet's record October performance brings output up to 1,275,778 units as of November first. This is more cars than Chevrolet has ever built in an entire year and is nearly five times the number of any other six cylinder car built in an entire year.

Due to the continued high demand Chevrolet plants are working on the biggest November schedule on record. An indication of the volume of business that Chevrolet is doing nationally is seen in the report for the last ten days of October which shows a gain of 49 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. The figures for the period are 36,640 for the last ten days of this October a scompared with 24,539 for the corresponding period of 1928.

Lesson for November 24

THE HIGHER PATRIOTISM

LESSON TEXT—Jonah 1:1-3; 3:1-5; 4:5-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Love for Everybody.

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Love for Everybody.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Is True Patriotism?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Patriotism and Internationalism.

The lesson committee has rightly suggested the entire book of Jonah as the basis of our study. The topic selected by the committee may seem a little strained. It will hardly do to call the spirit which moved Jonah to preach to the Ninevites, patriotism; rather, we should recognize it as the passion of a missionary going forth with the message of God calling upon men to repent and turn to Him. Patriotism means love for one's country while the spirit of the missionary is passionate love for lost men of all countries.

I. Jonah's Call and Commission (1:1, 2).

Jonah, a Jew, was called to go and preach repentance to a Gentile city. In a real sense, salvation is of the Jews. In the seed of Abraham all nations of the earth shall be blessed (Gen. 12:1, 2). The story of Jonah graphically portrays the history of Israel as a nation. God separated Israel to be the channel through which His mercy and salvation were to be carried to all the nations of the earth. They, like Jonah, have been recreant to duty. Because of this God has caused them to be swallowed up by the nations, who will one day in the future spue them out upon dry ground Palestine. After chastisement they like Jonah, will discharge their obligation and nations will repent and turn to God.

II. Jonah's Flight From Duty (1:3).

He turned his back upon God and attempted to flee from His presence. He went in the opposite direction to which he was sent. He did not believe in foreign missions. In the same way Israel has become an apostate people and instead of a blessing has become a burden and curse to the nations.

III. Jonah's Correction (1:4-2:10).

1. Overtaken by a storm (1:5).

Trouble soon came upon the disobedient servant of God. So with the Jews, misfortune after misfortune, storm after storm have overtaken them because they turned from God. They are now tossed about by the nations. They, like Jonah, are asleep.

2. Cast overboard (1:15).

In their perplexity the sailors cast lots and the lot fell upon Jonah. According to his own direction they did this. God had prepared a great fish which swallowed Jonah.

3. Jonah's deliverance (ch. 2).

Jonah in his affliction turned to God and prayed (James 5:13).

God miraculously preserved him while in the belly of the fish. God has miraculously preserved Israel while in the heart of the nations. The fish could not digest Jonah, neither can the nations assimilate Israel. Jonah repented while in the fish. So Israel will repent as she goes into the great tribulation. God made the fish to vomit out Jonah. So He will at the proper time cause the nations to cast out Israel.

IV. Jonah's Commission Renewed (3:1-10).

Although Israel has been rebellious and failed in the execution of her commission, she will repent and go forward to fulfill her commission in preaching the gospel to the nations of the earth observe.

1. The field of his ministry (v. 3).

It was to be the great Gentile city Nineveh.

2. His message (v. 4).

He was instructed to "preach the preaching" which God had commissioned him to utter—Nineveh was to be overthrown within forty days.

3. Effect upon the people of Nineveh (vv 5-10).

They repented and sued for pardon. In the time to come the Gentile nations will repent of their sins when the gospel of the kingdom is preached unto them by the Jews.

V. Jonah's Behavior (4:1-11).

1. His displeasure (vv 1-3).

He now makes known the real reason for his flight from duty. He knew that the gracious God would spare the people who repented.

2. God reproves Jonah (vv. 4-11).

By means of the gourd God shows him his error. The closing scene affords a striking example of the patience and pity of God in contrast with the hard-heartedness of man.

Hidden Gold Found

A story is told of a man whose home and mill, all that he had in the world, were swept away by floods. But, as he stood on the scene of his loss, after the water had subsided, broken-hearted and discouraged, he saw something shining in the bank, which the water had washed bare. It was gold. The flood which had begared him, had made him rich. "Sorrow strips off loved possessions, but reveals the treasures of the love of God."

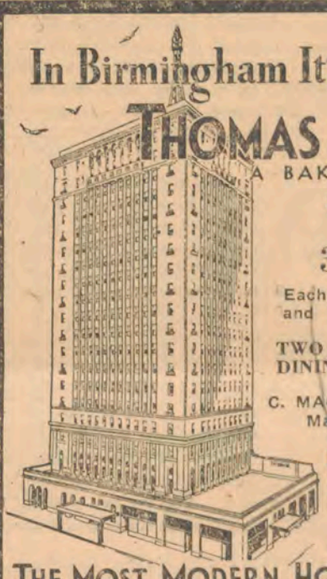
If you are NOT yourself

Are you being denied the happiness that is due you in life?

S.S.S. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

IT is easy to abuse our golden life-given body, but Nature has a way of signaling danger. If heeded, graver troubles may be avoided. That tired, exhausted feeling, lack of appetite, aches and pains, flabby flesh, skin troubles—all speak of a body weakness—a lack of the normal count of red-blood-cells.



Every normal person's blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles to the cubic millimeter—those vitalizing, tiny red-cells which give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people. It helps Nature increase the red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building. It is time-tested and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It is easily assimilated. Pleasant to take. It is on sale at all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. © S.S.S. Co.

IN MEMORY BUELL NORTHCUTT

Buell Northcutt died October 25, 1929 at St. Joseph's Hospital, Hot Springs, Ark. He met death while working for the Phoenix Utility Co.

Buell would have been 22 years of age December 3, 1929. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. B. Northcutt, two brothers, A. V. Northcutt of Gorgas, Ala., Brasher Northcutt at home, one sister, Leila Northcutt.

The father of the deceased died August 8, 1923. One brother died in 1901, one sister died in 1905. He is gone, but not forgotten. Buell promised his mother when his father died he would never do anything to worry her. He kept his promise till God called him home.

His mother wants to thank all the good people of Jemison and Clanton for their love and help and flower offerings. The family thanks all the good people of Hot Springs for their love and kindness during the sickness and death of our son and brother. Especially do we thank Mrs. Guy Jones and Mrs. Pete Limbough for being so kind to my son while he was away from mother and home. It is sad, oh! so sad to have one die so far away from home.

The last songs Buell and his friend, Herman Smith sang were: "In The Sweet By and By," and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

We thank Dr. Wood and Dr. McNeil. May God bless everyone is our prayer.—Mrs. J. B. Northcutt and Children.

CANE CREEK

Last Sunday was such a bad day we didn't have any Sunday school, but we will meet again next Sunday morning, at ten o'clock, for Sunday school and as it is our regular singing time we will meet again at one o'clock for the singing. Everybody who is interested in singing come and be with us. Bring your new 1930 Showalter song books. Remember the time, November 24, 1929, at Cane Creek, at one o'clock.

We invite everybody to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Parrish have a baby girl which arrived at Central Alabama Hospital about six o'clock Monday morning. Mother and child are reported doing well.

HARDWOOD USES INCREASE

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18.—The growing of hardwood timber is receiving much attention in many parts of Alabama, says the State Commission of Forestry. The increased interest is due to the greater demand for wood suitable for furniture.

Wood has been used for furniture ever since man has inhabited the earth. However, in recent years efforts have been made to substitute metal for this purpose. The results of this substitution have not been altogether gratifying, and householders and office occupants are returning to the use of wood.

Metal furniture is said to be uncomfortably cold, difficult to repair and does not possess the infinite charm and variety of grain and figure found in wood. In addition to its other merits, wood tends to simplify the problem of acoustics. In the home the radio, talking machine and the human voice are made more pleasant where there is an abundance of wood furniture to act as a resonating agent. In talking moving pictures, both in the studio and in the theater, this factor is of exceedingly great importance.

SOCIETY

HUDDLESTON-ROBINSON

An interesting event of last week was on Friday afternoon at four o'clock at the Baptist Church when the marriage of Miss Alma Robinson and Mr. William Eugene Huddleston was solemnized.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Quantities of ferns banked the chancel and arches entwined with garlands of Southern Smilax, formed a background. Arches were also placed at the aisle and on either side of the arches were bunches of huge yellow and orchid chrysanthemums tied with tulle of the same hues. The windows were draped with smilax with tall tapers burning in each candelabra with lighted tapers and floor vases of yellow and orchid chrysanthemums completed the setting for the wedding party.

A program of nuptial music was in charge of Mrs. Percy M. Pitts, pianist, assisted by Mrs. Grady Broadhead, violinist. "O, Promise Me," and "All for You," were rendered by Mrs. R. M. Howe of Tuskegee, sister of the groom.

Serving as ushers were Messrs. Jack Hayes of Clanton and Charles Curtis of Greenville.

Mr. John Curtis of Birmingham was best man to the groom. The bride's attendants were attractive in satin gowns made princess style. They wore picture hats of gold lace with touches of color.

The bridesmaids were Misses Jenney Chalmers of Birmingham and Florence Cochran of Uniontown. Their gowns were of eggshell satin and they carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums tied with gold tulle.

Miss Minnie Brown Hurt of Marion, Alabama, attended the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in orchid satin and carried orchid chrysanthemums tied with orchid tulle.

The bride entered on the arm of her brother, Gaston Robinson, by whom she was given in marriage. She was lovely in a gown of blue transparent velvet with trimmings of lace and accessories in shades of harmonizing blues.

The bridal bouquet was of bride's roses showered with Lillies of the Valley.

Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist Church pronounced the vows using the ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Huddleston left during the afternoon for Washington, D. C. and other points of interest in the East.

The bride's traveling costume was of tan with accessories to match.

Mrs. Huddleston is the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson of Clanton. She received her education at Brenau College, Gainsville, Ga., and is a graduate of Judson College, Marion.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Huddleston of Tuskegee and a graduate of the Georgia Military Academy, being in the rank of Senior Major there, a member of the Theta Chi and Alpha Kappi Psi fraternities and also attended the University of Alabama. He has been connected with the Texas Company for some time, holding the position as assistant agent in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Huddleston will make their home in Clanton. Among the out of town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Howe, Mrs. John T. Morgan of Tuskegee, Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and mother of Montgomery, Mrs. Noles, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams, Mrs. Bill Yarbrough, Mrs. O. S. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Byrd, all of Montgomery.

CHILTON HIGH NEWS

Two very interesting and attractive high school plays are being scheduled, and will be ready for presentation at early dates.

The first of these is "High Flyers," a play of very recent publication, and one which has much promise of success. It is being sponsored by a committee of teachers headed by Miss Bernice Williams. Those of us who were fortunate enough to be in attendance last year when "Kicked Out of College," was presented, know what Miss Williams can do. You are invited to be present on Thursday night, December 5, to enjoy this program of fine and wholesome entertainment.

The second attraction, "Dixie Blackbirds," will be in the form of an old time minstrel. It is Wayne P. Sewell's latest production, and it comes to us highly recommedend. If you like good minstrels you will not want to miss this one. It has every feature of first class minstrels, and you will enjoy every minute of it. Don't fail to be on hand Tuesday night, December 17th, to have a good time and take part in making this a successful program. Watch the papers for further announcements concerning these entertainments.

Much is being done in our high school auditorium to add to the comfort and convenience of our pupils and the public in general. We have been fortunate in being able to dispose of the old broken seats which have been a source of much discomfort and inconvenience and we hope at the time of presentation of the above performance to have our auditorium fitted throughout with new opera chairs. We cordially invite you to visit our school, enjoy our plays, and inspect our new equipment.

FRIENDSHIP CHURCH

Next Sunday is regular preaching day at Friendship. Rev. A. L. Foshee will preach both morning at 11 and night at 6:30. There will be Sunday school at 10 o'clock.

There will be singing in the afternoon. Rev. O. L. Devaughn and the Poplar-Maple Springs singers will meet with the home singers. Several other visitors have promised to come and help. An invitation is extended to all singers and lovers of music to come out and help in the singing. Bring your new books.

ALABAMA FREE OF TICK QUARANTINE

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 18.—With the release of Clarke County from Federal quarantine on account of cattle ticks, all of Alabama becomes free from the tick embargo. This was announced by Dr. C. A. Cary of Auburn, State veterinarian.

The order of release from the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, becomes effective December 1. Alabama is the tenth state to work its way above the tick fever quarantine line. Eradication work has been in progress 10 years. Dean Cary led the work in Alabama.

The JACK-POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

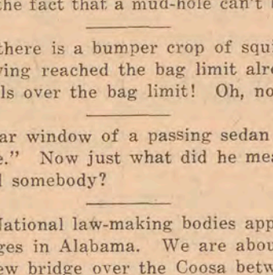
Well, what'll we talk about this week? It's quit raining, the 'taters have quit coming in, and people seem to have settled down to receive what old man Winter has in store for them. This is supposed to be a column of comment on general affairs as they unroll before us, and as nothing much is doing, so there is nothing much to comment on.

For one thing, the Thanksgiving period comes to us next week, and we might just sit down and recount the things we can be thankful for. Just what, out of the ordinary, has happened to you during the past year that gives you cause for thankfulness? One man says he got most of his cotton burned this fall—that's not what he's thankful for, however. What he wants to rejoice over is that he had enough left to feed him and keep him warm this winter. That's lookin' on the bright side, eh?

'Possums and cane-patches! Funny how the 'possums always seem to thrive near the cane patches. At least the hunters seem to think so. Passed a big cane patch the other day, and from the looks of things, the possum hunters must've held their annual conclave there. The owner said he had stripped and hauled away a quantity from one side of the patch, but had it not been for the "chews" left, he couldn't have told which side he harvested. As it was, he could easily tell.

Some time ago when the Commissioners Court gave out the news that they had built a certain number of miles of chert road, lots of folks wanted to know where it was. We don't know. But from the work that is going on at present, it won't be long now. While the Lock 12 Highway is almost impassable at present, the amount of gravel and slag that is being used to surface that road should soon make an excellent road of it. And other places in the County are receiving expert attention, too. It seems that somebody is about to wake up to the fact that a mud-hole can't be fixed with mud.

Hunters report that there is a bumper crop of squirrels this year, many of the said hunters having reached the bag limit already this season. Of course, nobody ever kills over the bag limit! Oh, no!



Saw a sign in the rear window of a passing sedan the other day: "Don't Shoot—No Liquor Here." Now just what did he mean? Want protection or was he trying to kid somebody?

Some time ago the National law-making bodies appropriated a big batch of money to build bridges in Alabama. We are about to see some results from this now. The new bridge over the Coosa between Calera and Sylacauga is nearing completion now, and another one at Wetumpka is coming along fine. Soon we will be able to get to the eastern part of the state without going around the world or crossing rivers on death-trap flats.

"The Little Red Schoolhouse" is fast becoming a thing of the past. Is there any significance in the fact that so much money is being spent on schools we don't read of Grand Juries recommending repair or reconstruction of the prisons very often? Of old, almost every Grand Jury had something to suggest as a help to the jails. Not now, though. And lots of our consolidated school buildings might now be taken for college buildings. Can there be any connection between these two facts?

As we stated in the beginning, news is scarce, and we're gonna pass the buck. Bein' as there ain't nothin to write, we've already quit.!—"Jack."

We're fully equipped to give you rapid service on repairing and re-charging storage batteries for autos and radios. Batteries picked up and delivered to your home.

T. E. WILLIAMS TO BE ASSISTANT CASHIER

Promotion Given To Employee Of Morgan County National

Directors of the Morgan County National bank, in session last night, elected T. E. Williams as an assistant cashier of that institution. The promotion is effective today.

Mr. Williams today was receiving the congratulations of his many friends upon his promotion by the official board of the institution with which he has been associated for a number of years.

No other changes in personnel of the bank were announced by officials of the institution today.

The above is a clipping from a recent issue of The Decatur Daily, which was brought to our attention by friends of Mr. Williams in Clanton.

We congratulate Mr. Williams on his promotion in the banking business. Ernest Williams, as he is widely known around Clanton and Chilton County, began his banking experience here several years ago. From the very first day he started in the business his ambition has been high, his purposes have been noble in every way, and his determination to succeed has never fagged for a minute.

Mr. Williams deserves his promotion. He has been with the Morgan County National Bank for several years. The Union-Banner joins with the hundreds of his friends here who feel a justifiable pride in the high mark of endeavor and success that has been set by this worthy son of Chilton County.

He is one of the famous Williams family that is known far and wide for its worthy contributions of preachers and bankers.

EAST VIEW

The rain is gone again, but the roads are in such bad condition that we can hardly travel over them with old tin lizzie.

Mr. Elbert Bowles has purchased a new truck.

Mr. I. L. Smith has moved to Mr. Bowles home place.

Rev. A. C. Nelson has moved up near the church on the Frank Nelson place.

Mr. J. W. Nelson has moved to his farm at East View.

Mr. Abner Cox is building a new dwelling on the road at the foot of the East View hill.

We learn that Mr. J. Adams will move back to East View community. We welcome them back.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson were the guests of Mrs. Sallie Strength Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ida and Sybil Ray were the guests of Mrs. Myrtle Bowles Monday afternoon.

Miss Catherine Strength was the guest of Miss Ethel Griffin Monday.

Mrs. Sallie Strength visited her father, Mr. J. P. Rushing, Sunday.

Rev. A. C. Nelson motored to Mt. Springs Sunday where he filled his regular appointment there. He reports the roads in very bad condition.

Mrs. Lola Nelson visited Mrs. Carrie L. Nelson Monday.

The services at the Congregational church last second Sunday night were called in on account of the weather, some sickness and a death in the community.

There will be Sunday school next Sunday at 10 a. m. and preaching Sunday night. Come and meet with us.

Mr. Martin has purchased a new Ford truck.

Mr. J. F. Nelson has moved from Coopers to his father's farm below Enterprise. He will move to East View about the first of January to farm here next year.

The farmers have got some corn in the field that was in all the rain during the last two weeks.

LOCAL MAN PASSED STRING OF BAD CHECKS

It is reported that Mr. Lee Sway, proprietor of a cabinet shop in Clanton for the past year, has left town with a string of bad checks scattered behind him. The story goes that Mr. Sway went to a number of places in town last Saturday night to pay bills he owed. At each place it is said that he gave checks much larger than his bills and asked that he be given the change in cash. It is not known just how much money he secured in this way. The amount will perhaps run close to a hundred dollars.

After gathering in all the cash he could, it is said that Mr. Sway departed for parts unknown. A warrant has been issued for his arrest, and police in Birmingham have been put on his trail.

We know that the radio has arrived when we see some tightwads buying them.

Very often, our idea of wasted time is two lawyers arguing a case before a judge.

"LITTLE CHARLIE"

Editor Union-Banner:

Please publish the following:

To all good people: Call and see little "Charlie" at B. Green Gore's house near Collins schoolhouse, and have a little talk about Collins and Culp. If you can't come write to little "Charlie," and he will tell you all about it. Our dear mail carrier will see that all letters addressed to little Charlie will be put in little Charlie's box. His name is Mr. Miller. So hoping to hear from you if I can't see you.—Yours, Etc., Little Charlie, Route No. 4, Clanton, Ala.

WEST CHILTON

It seems superfluous to tell your readers about the abundance of rain. But we will say it rained all last week, almost day and night, and now raining again. But "Old Sol" came out in all his beauty for awhile Sunday.

Last week was a trying time on our rural mail carriers. But the air mail seemed to be generally on schedule time.

Miss Littlejohn, the popular teacher at Freeman, was a recent vistior to Mrs. Hubbard.

John Atchison made a business visit to the Aldrich district Saturday.

Mr. Martin and wife of Birmingham were recent visitors at William Robinson's.

Mr. T. J. Hubbard has returned from an extended visit to his daughter at Hamburg, Ala. Mr. Hubbard reports a fine visit, a real treat. While he found some mud and slush yet, the pleasure of his visit overcame the disagreeable mud.

We note that President Hoover has made a fine overture to the other powers on the question of disarmament: "That America would scrap the implements of war as low as any other nation."

Equivalent to saying if they would disarm entirely we would too. A fine example. While we doubt the success of the movment at present, yet the President has acted wisely. Eventually the dove of peace will hover over this planet, when the sword and spear will be converted into implements of agriculture.

Joseph Smith Sr., of Randolph Route 1 visited W. R. Latham Sunday.

Misses Dovie and Johnnie Smith visited Miss Vashti Martin Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Ward of Hamburg recently visited Mr. Ward's mother, Mrs. Anna Nix, who is sick. They brought Dr. Mason with them for a professional visit to Mrs. Nix.

Jerome Armstrong made a business visit to Selma Monday. His brother-in-law, Mr. Drue, accompanied him. Mr. Drue is here on a visit from New Jersey.

The people of our county should congratulate themselves on having such devoted, painstaking, and efficient county officials. No one is uneasy about the county affairs. Our affairs are in safe hands. That fact is corroborated by the past and the present.

We learn that John S. Waldrop will add another department to his already growing business.

R. F. Croom, president First National Bank of Evergreen, plans to finance purchase of 10 purebred bulls to be located in Conecuh County.

SORE THROATS AND COUGHS

Quickly Relieved by This Safe Prescription

Here's a doctor's prescription that is really throat insurance. Sore or irritated throats are relieved and soothed almost instantly with the very first swallow. About 90 per cent of all coughs are caused by an irritated throat; consequently for most coughs there is nothing better than this famous prescription—it goes direct to the internal cause. It is put up under the name Thoxine and is guaranteed to stop coughs and relieve sore throats in 15 minutes or your money will be refunded. Singers and speakers find Thoxine very valuable.

The remarkable thing about Thoxine is that while it relieves almost instantly, it contains nothing harmful, is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Ask for Thoxine, 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Sold by Upchurch Drug Company.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY

The United Singing Society met at Collins Chapel Sunday afternoon, November 17, 1929, and will meet next Sunday afternoon, November 24, 1929, at Oak Hill.

A large crowd from the following communities enjoyed the singing last Sunday: Oak Hill, Union Grove, Mineral Springs, Salem and Collins Chapel and some leaders from other communities who show great interest.

Salem and Mineral Springs came with eager hearts to see which one would get the United Society to meet and sing with them on the first Sunday in each month, until Thorsby finishes her new church, then the society will meet regular there on the first Sunday in each month. Both communities were eager for the singing. One thoughtful man from Salem suggested that the singing meet one first Sunday with Salem and the other with Mineral Springs. With a hearty cooperation the communities and society agreed upon this. The United Singing Society will meet the first Sunday in December at Salem and the first Sunday in January at Mineral Springs.

Will you be at Oak Hill Sunday afternoon? They are expecting you. Don't be selfish. Go to all the communities. You really owe it to Oak Hill. We usually go where they give things away. This singing is free. If you put anything in it you sure will get it back. Go and show the people you are standing behind them.

Money in your pocket if you attend the Anniversary Sale at The Leader.

REPORT FROM ALABAMA BAPTIST STATE CONVENTION

Rev. S. J. Ezell, pastor of Clanton Baptist Church, returned last week from the session of Alabama Baptist State Convention held at Gadsden.

At the eleven o'clock hour Sunday, Rev. Ezell gave to his congregation at the Baptist Church a summary report of the work of the Convention. His narrative of the convention was forcefully punctuated with some suggestions that apply to the duties of Baptists individually in performing their obligations as members of a great denominational organization.

ISABELLA NOTES

We are very glad to see the sun shine out again.

Isabella High School attended the Short Course at Chilton County High school last week.

This week is test week and everyone is very busy.

The basket ball boys and girls have a practice game schedule game with Maplesville teams, Saturday night, November 23rd.

The boys have elected Claude Conway for their Captain. The varsity team has not been fully decided upon, as they have quite a bit of competition. The following will play on the team or as substitutes:

Claude Conway, Eddie Owens, center; Luther Mims, Cato Roebuck, Kelly Seals, Carson Williams, forwards; James Burnett, Houston DeRamus, Ezell Calfee, Homer Morgan, guards.

The girls have elected Jewell Foshe as captain. The following will play on the varsity team and as subs:

Jewell Foshee, Mary Turner, forwards; Nellie Hayes, Elsie Conway, guards; Sarah Griffin, Dot Manning, centers; Ruby Owen, Edna Bearden, Mildred Durbin, Edna Durbin, Ruth Roebuck, Ruth Martin, Lucille Edwards, Cora Owens, Vergia Owens, subs.

We are expecting to win lots of games in basket ball. We have two good coaches. Mr. Ellis Paulk coaches the boys and Miss Bonnie Cylde Griffin the girls.

Our Home Economics Club meets this week to have their program. We have named our club "Merry Home Makers." We have very interesting and helpful programs. Miss Cora Belle Maddox, Home Economics teacher, is the instructor. The officers for our club are: President, Jewell Foshee; Vice President, Myrtle Durbin; Secretary and Treasurer, Dorothy Manning; Program Committee: Lorene Lecroy, Edna Bearden, Lloyd Culp, Pauline Durbin.

We are very glad to have Kelly Seals in our Senior III Class. We are glad to know he is interested enough in school to walk from Maplesville.

SPLENDID MEETING OF JEMISON BERRY GROWERS

In spite of the bad weather last Saturday, 50 or more strawberry growers assembled at the Jemison High School to discuss marketing berries. Mr. J. P. Montgomery, secretary and manager of the Jemison association outlined the purpose of the meeting, which was to perfect arrangements to sell berries co-operatively with the Clanton association.

C. E. Stapp, county agent, outlined a system of selling berries that would strengthen all berry association by having one central selling agency.

Mr. J. N. Dennis and Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer of Clanton spoke for their association and offered their services to the Jemison association free of charge in order to unite the two associations under one central selling agency.

Mr. Montgomery has made a check-up of the Jemison territory and finds that 57 growers have positively agreed to ship their berries from Jemison. Mr. Montgomery says there are 50 more whom he is sure will ship from Jemison, owing to the fact that they are located in that section, but whom he did not get to see in his recent survey.

The Jemison farmers accepted the co-operative agreement made with the Clanton Association and expressed great appreciation to the officers and members of the Clanton association for their helpfulness and encouragement, all of which it is believed will help toward making Chilton County a greater strawberry center.

A SUGGESTION

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give a small space in your valuable paper to make a suggestion to our county commissioners in regard to our public roads?

There are many roads in the county that are impassable on account of the recent heavy rains. We know that it will take our present overseers a long time to get all the roads in a passable condition. I think it would be a good plan for the county commissioners to appoint a man on every road in the county and give him authority to hire hands sufficient to put the roads in a passable condition, which would give every citizen in the county the same emergency service.

Under our present road system it will take several weeks for our present oversers to get all the roads in a passable condition.

We feel that the above plan will give equal service to each citizen in the county from our county officials. Hoping the above may have some consideration from our county officials, yours for equal rights of all and special favors to none.—A. A. Jackson.

Everyone is glad to see Mrs. Herman Justin, Maya Mims, from Pontiac, Mich., back in Clanton visiting relatives and friends.

A LIFE-GIVING LAW

Three years after the curtain had fallen on a world wide panorama of murder and destruction, our President set his signature to a piece of legislation intended solely to stay death and promote life—the Sheppard-Towner Act providing for Federal appropriations to carry on maternity and child welfare. The bill was automatically repealed on June 30 of this year, but its seven-year record stands as a remarkable program of quiet but effective constructiveness. A survey of this record for the year ending June 30, 1928 has just been published by the U. S. Department of Labor.

All but three states of teh Union have cooperated with the Federal government in this work. By appropriating funds and establishing children's bureaus, corresponding to the bureau at Washington, state officials worked side by side with national aides. The aim was always to reach the mother, and through the mother the child. This was done through child conferences, maternity conferences, visits to private homes, and by encouraging queries and requests for aid. Examinations and advice were given freely. In the year 1928, 7,341 maternity and child health conferences were conducted by physicians in eight stattes. Hundreds of volunteer workers assisted the public officials in their tremendous task.

Letters of gratitude on file in the Children's Bureau at Washington are ample testimony to the effectiveness of this humane undertaking. From the lonely cabin on the mountainside to the cluttered slums of big cities, Uncle Sam's faithful cohorts have made their presence felt and left their gifts of better understanding and happier living.

REYNOLDS IN THE SOUP

They have been trying hard to get Judge Reynolds in the soup on the county road business, and he was there part of last week; but the judge got there by himself. During all that rain the last of the week Judge Reynolds was out on Lock 12 road most all the itme wading around in the mud and slush helping the road hands put gravel on the road. And Commissioner Vinson was in the soup too. They both worked valiantly, nothwithstanding the very bad weather.

The county authorities are to be commended highly for the manner in which they have pushed the graveling of the Lock 12 road although the weather has been mighty bad most of the time.

HE OVER-PAID THE STATE

W. J. Coker, assistant examiner of accounts, has found something new under the sun. He has found a public official whose only error in his records was in favor of the state rather than himself and who paid more money into the state treasury than he should have paid.

Chilton County was the scene of action and the public official was the Republican Probate Judge, Lewis H. Reynolds. Mr. Coker found that Judge Reynolds had over-paid the state $31.34 and was entitled to a refund of this amount. He complimented Judge Reynolds for the correctness and neatness of his records and thanked him for courtesies shown during the examination.

In referring to the accuracy of the records, Mr. Coker paid particular attention to the road exemption tax record. Chilton County permits citizens to pay a road tax in lieu of road work. Judge Reynolds collects the tax. The examiner checked his record and found it correct. "This is the first account of road exemption tax that I have found for sometime that I could examine," commented Mr. Coker.

Perhaps this record is the reason no one, Republican or Democrat, can defeat Judge Reynolds in Chilton County.—Alabama Journal, November 13, 1929.

A SQUARE DEAL FOR THE REDSKIN

A refreshingly new point of view as to Indians, that of treating them as human beings, has just been enunciated by the Secretary of the Interior, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur. In a memorandum to the Commissioner of the Indian Service, in regard to the construction of certain roads through Indian reservations, Dr. Wilbur stated that he "would like to adopt the following policy:"

"That no public roads shall be built across Indian reservations unless the Indians approve of their construction, except in such cases as the public interest would permit condemnation of property for road purposes;

"That no Indian funds be used for the construction of public roads on Indian reservations unless the Indians agree."

"It seems to me," Dr. Wilbur stated in closing, "that we must treat the Indian groups as owners of the property with the natural rights of ownership and deal with them accordingly."

After the tragic blot upon our history that is our Indian policy, every such sign of better understanding of our responsibility is more than welcome.

NOW, REFORM THE CALENDAR

Calendar reform, which seemed for a while to be making good strides into favor, fell behind in a nation-wide referendum of business organizations conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce. A majority vote favored the proposals, but according to the rules of the Chamber only two-thirds vote can commit the organization, and hence no official recommendations can be made. The three proposals voted on were:

That the present calendar should be so changed as to bring about greater comparability in business records for periods within the year, and fo rperiods from year to year.

That the forms of changes in the calendar should be determined thru international conference; and

That the govrenment of the United States should participate in an international conference to determine forms of changes in the calendar.

The last proposal received the largest affirmative vote, 1856 for and 1009 against.

Calendar reform seems destined to become a subject of fanatical favor or opposition, as has the metric system, and as the twenty-four hour day wlil be come, once it is suggested in this country. The metric system has been accepted and put in use in every other American nation the twenty-four hour day is in use in the most advanced of them, and a revision of the calendar is favored in practically all. We should get in step with our neighbors.

Miss Jessie Cooley of Birmingham was in Clanton last week visiting relatives and friends.

No one can register, except in his or her own precinct and at the courthouse in Clanton.

The Board of Registrars is now composed of A. D. Martin, Chairman, B. M. Killingsworth and O. O. Roper.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

SUBJECT: "I KNOW WHOM I HAVE BELIEVED."

In Paul's 2nd letter to Timothy whom he speaks of as his own son in the faith we read one of the most thrilling statements in these words: "Only Luke is with me." But I wish to study with you something which he wrote just before Luke penned these words for him. The words are these: "I know whom I have believed." Certainly these words are a constant reminder to me and no doubt to you of what we believe or of whom we believe.

Paul is writing this just before he is to be executed, and it seems that he has a premonition of his approaching execution any time. So we find him writing to Timothy at Troas saying, "I am ready to be offered up at any time wherefore I have fought a good fight, having finished my course. And I know whom I have believed." Then listen to his perfect faith and trust as he writes further stating that he is perfectly subdued in Christ's will in these words: "And I am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day."

Then again we read in the 19th chapter of Job and the 25th verse in Job's great trials and afflictions we find him still clinging to his Redeemer, his Saviour from sin in such words as these: "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that He shall stand at the latter day upon the earth." In Romans the 8th chapter and the 28th verse we read that we know all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to His purpose.

Now what do I know, and what do you know this morning concerning this blessed, loving Christ? First, you and I know that this Bible is the Word of God. It does not just simply contain the Word of God, but it is God's Word direct from heaven to us today. We know too, as this Word teaches that all Scripture is given by inspiration of God, written by holy men of old as they were moved by the Holy Spirit. Every single word in the sixty-six books of the Bible of the Hebrew, Syriac, or Greek language is inspired of God.

We know too that it is the only book ever written that points us from the very slums of earth to the glories of heaven. It is the only book which teaches us how to get rid of sin and enter into salvation. It is the only book that teaches us that the pure in heart are blessed and shall see God. This is the only book which is a rule of faith and practice for the Christian's life. Its precepts fit perfectly into the routine of our home life whether on the farm, in the store, or whatever business our work may call us into. It teaches us kindness and generosity to our fellowman. It teaches us the rule for peaceful relationships with each other in the Golden Rule which no other book gives: "As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets." This means that this is the Old Testament law and prophets given by Moses and Elijah and others. So we find Jesus repeating it to us in the great constitution of His kingdom, the Sermon on the Mount in these words: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

This means that I must do to the very last man on this earth all things whatsoever I would have him do unto me. If I receive God's Word into my heart and life and obey His commands therein He has likened me unto a wise man who builds his hope upon a foundation that can not be shaken or moved. So believing and trusting in God I will pray for my fellowman daily and try to the best of my ability by God's help to assist him along the rough pathway of life by holding up Jesus Christ to him.

Secondly, I believe Jesus Christ is the only Saviour from sin and its direful consequences, and saves souls because they believe and trust in Him, having their sins washed and purified in His shed blood and not because of a high position or nice clean clothes or social status. Jesus Christ looks on the heart of a man and not upon his outward appearance or his ability to make money or talk effectively. To depend upon what the world has to offer is one of the greatest hindrances in America and many other countries today in the spread of Christ's kingdom. O, my friends, neither is there salvation in any other for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved.

Jesus Christ's mission from heaven to earth was predicted by God Himself when He told Isiah to tell the children of Israel that unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder; and His name shall be called Wonderful Counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. The angel said to Mary in the hill country of Gallilee, "His name shall be called Jesus for He shall save His people from their sins."

"Jesus, the name which quells my fears and bids my sorrows cease,
'Tis music to the sinners' ears, 'tis life, and health and peace.
He breaks the power of cancelled sins and sets the prisoner free.
His blood can make the foulest clean, His blood availed for me."

I believe in the church of Christ, and that it must be given first place in our lives because it is the blood bought bride of Jesus Christ. He loved the church and gave Himself for it. It is founded upon the apostles and prophets. Its head is Jesus Christ. I believe in Jesus Christ as the only Mediator between God and man. If we sin we have an advocate with Jesus Christ the righteous. I believe that He is our Comforter, a comforter to poor, tired, weary, greif-stricken souls. What do you believe?

I believe in prayer to God, not once in a great while, but all the time. I believe that as followers of Christ we must have this personal prayer life. I believe in a family prayer life, a church prayer life, a Sunday School prayer life, a Men's Bible Class prayer life, a Women's Auxilliary prayer life, a Christian Endeavor prayer life, a Junior Society prayer life. God has wonderfully blessed this church by giving us some faithful elders and deacons whose lives were outstanding ones in prayer to Him. It takes prayer and lots of it to be a faithful soldier in the trust which Christ has given us. I believe in prayer because the Bible teaches us that it is the life of the church. The weekly prayer meeting is indispensable to the life of the church. It is Biblical and orthodox to keep the fire burning on the weekly prayer meeting altar if we expect to grow spiritually. Whittier, the great poet, wrote, "I am a part of what I meet." By prayerful assembling together at God's house we can become a part of Christ's blood-bought bride.

I conducted by God's help twenty-one meetings last week, and if I live expect to conduct forty-seven this week because it is the week of prayer for boys and men. The federation of churches, and the vote of the General Assembly has set aside this week as a week of special prayer for the men and boys all over the world. This great move was begun by the Y. M. C. A. I ask you to pray as you have never prayed before that God will move upon the hearts of all men and boys throughout the whole world. The world can be moved by prayer. Let us pray beginning today as we have never prayed before. Let us pray with that perfect faith and trust in God knowing Whom we believe, and that He is able and will save the men and boys throughout the world.

Editor Union-Banner:

Please announce through your paper that our regular singing time is Sunday afternoon. We are expecting a large crowd. Prof. Boswell who taught for us last summer has promised to be there with new books.

Everybody come. You are welcome.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT BUCKS HUMAN NATURE

It is a little more than a month before Santa Claus begins his long trek from the North Pole around the world. It isn't any too soon, however, for the Post Office Department, which is accustomed to furnish invaluable aid to the jolly old gentleman, to begin planning for the rush that starts well before December 25.

Instructions are already being sent postmasters throughout the country by Arch Coleman, First Assistant Postmaster General, to look to advance expansion and perfection of the various organizations at city postoffices to meet this annual emergency. Except for unusually severe snowstorms and similar conditions over which the Department has no control, there is no reason for irriting delays in handling mail during this period, it is stated.

Postal employees are to have the unusual treat of spending Christmas day with their families, as there will be no deliveries or window service on December 25. We will have the usual campaign through the press, radio, trade journals, and business and civic organizations to arouse the procrastinators to a sense of duty regarding their Christmas gifts. There will be, in fact ,all the urgency and admonitions that we have heard for yars and years past, and the cause will be as worthy as ever. Nevertheless, the realists are prophesying that just as many Christmas gifts will reach recipients after the appointed day. However, that won't be the fault of the Postoffice Department.

THE GOOBER GETS PRECEDENCE

Behold the humble peanut—the goober of every Southern urchin—joining the luxury class! Always before one of the most democratic of vegetables, class distinction entered its life with the duty on its Chinese brethren, imposed by decree of an eminent gentleman from Vermont, who preferred whittling to eating peanuts, as a diversion. Now, under the rule of an eminent gentleman reputed to prefer peanuts to whittling, still greater distinction is heaped upon the goober. The Georgia product has successfully plead for recognition of its social status, and has been so far successful that it has reason to hope, although not grown on Peachtree Street, that its name will be entered on that agricultural Social Register, the list of the favored of the Federal Farm Board entitled to free rides on the $500,000,000 revolving fund.

Childbirth

a happy event

"Mother's Friend relieved me of the strain and the pain that came from the stretching of the skin and tissues," writes a young mother. "I did not suffer as I have heard other women say they did. My doctor recommended Mother's Friend to me."

Countless thousands of expectant mothers have had the same experience with "Mother's Friend." Naturally, mothers have recommended it to their daughters.

"Mother's Friend" is a scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever. It originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician, and has been in use for 60 years.

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives. It is so soothing and relaxing! It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal.

Free Book "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. Try a massage with it tonight and notice the ease and comfort it gives. A booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" will be mailed in plain envelope, free, on request. Address Bradfield Regulator Co., Dept. 14, Atlanta, Ga.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

ALABAMA CO-OP GETS $2,000,000 FEDERAL LOAN

The Federal Farm Board has approved a $2,000,000 loan to the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association to enable it to advance to its members 15.64 cents per pound for middling while 7-8 inch cotton and other grades in proportion to the value. This amount will be paid members who place their cotton in the annual pool, according to Allen Northington, General Manager, who said that more money is available if the $2,000,000 is not enough. The rate of interest is 3 5-8 per cent. per annum.

As stated by Mr. Northington, here is how Alabama Farmers may avail themselves of this money:

"All that is necessary to do is join the Association, if you are not already a member, and all our facilities are then open for you. We give you below the steps necessary to take to get the additional advance up to 15.64c Middling basis.

"1. You can draw through your local bank for the initial advance we are making at the time with your original warehouse receipts or original order notify bill of lading attached and place the cotton in the Annual Pool. The loan is not available for special pool cotton.

"2. Additional check to put the cotton up to 15.64c for Middling 7-8 inch with other grades in proportion to their value will be sent out from this office as soon as the samples can be received from the warehouse and the cotton classed and run thru our records."

That Alabama farmers are taking advantage of the assistance offered by the farm board and the Cotton Association is plainly set forth by the heavy delivery. Last week Mr. Northington said: "Our delivery at this time is very heavy. Our total recipts now being something over 60,000 bales and we are still receiving cotton at the rate of 1500 to 2000 bales per day. With a heavy delivery of this kind you can see the big job your office force has before them in getting this additional amount out to the members. However, everything possible is being done to facilitate this work and we are putting on additional help as fast as necessary to take care of the increased business.

"We hope you will explain this additional loan to any producer who has cotton unsold and get him to pool it and back up the Farm Bureau in their effort to stabilize the cotton market."

STATE BEEKEEPERS BELIEVE IN ALABAMA AS LEADING STATE

Alabama's income in 1928 was a thousand dollars a day, from bees alone, according to information made public at the State Beekeepers Association, held in Montgomery last week. Much of this income is from shipments by mail of queen and package bees to northern states and Canada, according to L. T. Floyd, provincial apiarist of Manitoba, Canada, who journeyed from Winnipeg to spend a week in Alabama.

Mr. Floyd, not only delivered several lectures at the two days' session of the Association, but visited the Department of Agriculture, where he conferred with Thomas Atchison, State Apiary Inspector, and Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, to whom he spoke as follows:

"I am charmed with this Black Belt Region and with Alabama as a place for raising bees. Our province buys over fifty thousand dollars worth of bees annually, from Alabama. We find the Alabama apiarists to be men of high character and willing to do the right thing by our Canadian raisers.

"Our beekeepers in Canada have found that it pays to kill their bees in the fall, thus saving several dollors worth of honey in each colony. In the spring, they buy from Alabama, start in with strong fresh young bees, and ready to catch the big honey flow all through the four summer months.

"Here in Alabama you can raise queens 12 months in the year. In Canada, we can raise them but 3 months. Our winter losses are heavy, and I am advising commercial honey producers to kill their bees in the fall and buy fresh, certified stock from Alabama."

At the State Department of Agriculture, Mr. Floyd said that the progressive sanitary laws enforced by the Department made it possible for northern beekeepers to rest assured that all bees bought from Alabama, bearing the Departmental inspection tags, were free from disease and in good condition. He said that he believed the trade in bees to Canada would continue.

Bees are kept in every county in Alabama. There are about 1,200 beekeepers in the State, and bees average over 2 tons of honey daily, on an average through the year. Mr. Floyd visited the apiaries of J. M. Cutts of Snowdoun; H. C. Short at Fitzpatrick; and Jasper Knight at Hayneville. He expressed himself pleased at their queen rearing apiaries. Apiarists present from over the State report the most enthusiastic gathering beekeepers ever held in Alabama.

The following are the officers elected for 1930:

President, W. E. Harrell, Hayneville, Ala.; Vice President, Paul Cutts, Snowdoun, Ala.; Sec.-Treas., J. M. Robinson, Auburn, Ala.

Directors Executive Committee: Jasper, Knight, Hayneville, Ala., H. C. Short, Fitzpatrick, Ala., Thomas Atchison, Montgomery, Ala., J. M. Robinson, Auburn, Ala., Paul Cutts, Snowdoun, Ala., W. E. Harrell, Hayneville, Ala., Ex-Officio.

CONTROL FOR SAN JOSE SCALE GIVEN

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 18.—"San Jose scale is probably causing more damage in Alabama orchards than any other pest. It kills thousands of trees annually. These insects multiply rapidly, and if a few are allowed to hibernate much injury may be expected before another dormant season." So warns Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Control is possible, he says, and adds that proper spraying of the orchard during the dormant season is necessary. He recommends lubricating oil emulsion as the spray to use. This material may be prepared at home or purchased from manufacturers.

"For control of scale on deciduous fruit trees, a 3 per cent solution has proved most satisfactory for Alabama conditions," said Mr. Brown in giving direction for application. "The stock emulsion should contain not less than 66 2-3 per cent of oil by volume. A dilution of 1 gallon of such stock solution to 21 gallons of water gives the proper strength spray.

"One thorough application is usually sufficient for satisfactory control," he continued, "but if live scales are found after the first application a second may be made. Application should be made only during the dormant season; otherwise defoliation is likely to occur. Oil sprays should never be applied during freezing weather. And the stock emulsion should never be allowed to freeze. This occurs at about 15 degrees Fahrenheit."

"The stock emulsion should be examined for free oil before and after adding water. If free oil is present the emulsion is not fit for use, and should be discarded, or repumped."

Mesdames Frank Porch, Steve Stanley and J. W. Cagle spent last Thursday with Mrs. Jean Wyatt in Clanton.

SUN USED TO HEAT WATER FOR KITCHEN

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 18.—Two practical ways of heating water to 120 degrees Fahrenheit by use of sun rays have been devised by Prof. A. Carnes of the agricultural engineering department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The new methods of heating are expected to be of use in homes, since it is estimated that 90 per cent of the cost of cooking is due to heating water. The plans should also facilitate heating water for use at dairies. Details of Professor Carnes' plan have not been revealed, but will be published in a bulletin.

BAXTER COW MAKES NEW STATE RECORD

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 18.—Nunthorpe's Sunshine Lass, owned by J. W. Baxter, Huntsville, now holds the Alabama record for production in the senior three-year-old class.

Lass produced 628.12 pounds of butterfat and 11,609 pounds of milk in a 305-day official test. Her milk averaged 5.41 per cent butterfat for the 10 months, and she was started on test at the age of 3 years and 6 months.

Bringing Home The Turkey

is a good thing if you don't bring home the wrong turkey; a young lady stenographer who had written a letter to her young man during business hours sent the wrong letter to a business firm which stated that they were shipping them a car load of love and kisses instead of the axle grease that they ordered.

It's a case of bringing home the turkey when you buy your used car here. Every used car we sell bears our certificate of service. Why deprive yourself of the convenience and pleasure a car affords when the purchas price is so reasonable.

The first number on Thorsby Institute Lyceum Course in which Mr. Charles Crawford Gorst, known all over the country as "The Bird Man" gave a unique and delightful as well as very instructive lecture punctuated with imitations of bird songs, and descriptive of their haunts and habits, particularly stressing their great benefit to humanity on account of the enormous amount of bugs and worms they destroy whic hare injurious to so much of the vegetation that humans are dependent on for food that without the help of the birds the supply of our foodstuffs would soon be cut off.

The illustrations of birds he displayed were rare works of art, and altogether the whole entertainment was of a nature to be placed by itself in a high class of refined entertainment and useful information.

Messrs. Burt and James Bosworth have been called to Portland, Ind., where they have a brother who is very ill.

Mrs. C. R. Foss and three daughters, Katherine, Edith and Ruth, motored to Montgomery Tuesday.

Claus Carlson and his brother, John, with his daughter, Pearl, motored from Rockford, Ill., to Thorsby last week. The Messrs. Carlson expect to remain for the winter while Miss Pearl will return in a few days to resume her work in Winnebago County Court House at Rockford.

Mrs. Roy Raybon and her two babies went to Birmingham last Saturday for a visit with friends and relatives. Mr. Raybon, her husband, has returned to take a position in the Tutwiler Hotel, and as soon as they can arrange it Mrs. Raybon and the children will remain in Birmingham with him.

The Ladies Guild Bazaar will be held at Thorsby Town Hall Thursday afternoon, November 30th. The sale of articles will begin at two o'clock sharp. Many interesting things suitable for Christmas presents will be on sale: embroidered runners, buffet sets, luncheon cloths, pillow cases, and other useful articles. Coffee and refreshments will be served from two to five o'clock.

Rev. J. E. Each arrived home Monday about noon, after an absence of nearly five weeks in Wisconsin and Minnesota, during which time he traveled about 2,400 miles in Wisconsin, by auto, train and bus, and speaking in 34 churches on the general theme of Home Missionary work in the Southeast, and stressing the work being done at Thorsby. His message was received with interest.

On his way home he stopped in Chicago to visit his son, Cecil, who is attending the Coyne Electrical School. He also met there some other young people who graduated at Thorsby Institute, the Misses Bertha and Beatrice Kirkland, both of whom were married before going to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard are enjoying the thrills and pleasures brought to their home by the installation of a fine radio.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin ,Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway and Mrs. Mack Gray went to Birmingham Monday shopping.

Mrs. Each entertained Sunday Rev. Neil McQuarrie, Miss Fairbank and one of the girls from the T. I. Dormitory.

Mrs. Alvin Cox had as visitors on Sunday her mother and a friend, Miss Rogers, from Prattville.

Mrs. Mack Gray had as her guests Sunday her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Colley, of Prattville.

Mrs. S. C. Wood entertained the Young Matron's Bridge Club, at her home in Thorsby last Friday afternoon. Vases of roses and chrysanthemums were used for decorations. Mrs. Wood was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. McDonald Pearson and Miss Lurla Heflin. Those winning highest scores were Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway and Mrs. Lee Pate, and the booby prize was captured by Mrs. Mack Gray. Mrs. Dowling was guest. The following were guests at the luncheon: Mrs. McDonald Pearson, Mrs. Guy Higgins, Mrs. Dowling, Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Miss Lurla Heflin, Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway, Mrs. Mack Gray, Mrs. Lee Pate, Mrs. Grover Bice and Miss Mabel Colley.

Miss Mabel Wallace and Mr. Raybon DeLoach from Prattville were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cox.

Ladies of the Guild in Mrs. Butler's division please bring articles for the Bazaar to Mrs. S. E. Norton Friday afternoon, November 29.

The Clanton Quartet will give a concert at Thorsby Public School building Thanksgiving night, admission 25 and 15 cents. Everybody invited.

The Christian Endeavor met Sunday night at 6:30. The topic for discussion was, "What Should Young Men and Women Expect of Each Other." Daisy Rowe led the meeting. We had an interesting discussion on, "What a Girl Admires and Dislikes in Boys," and "What a Boy Admires and Dislikes in a Girl." Everyone seemed to enjoy the meeting.

Word was received here early this week of the announcement of the marriage on November 14, of Rev. Waldemar Hiram Lefstead to Miss Mary Mellon. Mr. Lefstead is one of the boys in whom we are much interested in. He is located in Salisbury, N. C., and we bespeak for him continued success in life.

You need not go to Mobile to fish, just come to the Ladies Guild bazaar at the town hall Saturday, November 30, and you can catch as many fish as you want at 5 cents apiece. Don't forget the place nor the date.

Mr. E. L. Thornburgh spent 3 days in Plantersville last week. He reports the road between Clanton and there as being in very bad shape in places. He returned by coming around by Randolph.

Mr. Earle Meade of Birmingham was a visitor in Thorsby last Saturday.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid will meet this week Thursday with Mrs. Conrad Carlson.

Last Saturday night Mr. Sutlive, Mr. Maddox and the dormitory boys entertained the girls and teachers of the Boarding Department of Thorsby Institute at a party held in South Cottage. Various games were played after which delicious refreshments were served. Everyone had a fine time.

Mr. Craft, father of Maurice Craft, a boarding student at Hhorsby Institute, drove from Damascus, Georgia to visit his son over Sunday. He brought with him three young men.

Miss Maybelle McJunkin, who graduated from Thorsby Institute in 1919 and later was graduated from Piedmont College, died recently at the Andalusia Hospital. She was a young woman of sterling character and high ideals. As a teacher she was always very much interested in her work and ways of benefitting her pupils. She will be greatly missed by many.

Livestock owners in Taylor County, Kentucky, have eliminated every scrub and grade boar, as well as all scrub and grade bulls, thus winning for the county the distinction of being the first in the United States to reach a "100 per cent goal" for purebred sires in two classes of livestock.

Miss Dewey Branch will be the nurse at the first aid station during the dedication exercises at Lock 12 on next Saturday, November 23.

MR. FOX'S STORE

Mr. W. W. Fox's store has gradually grown from one of Clanton's smallest stores to one of the largest in the city, and in Central Alabama. This fact to Mr. Fox seems to have given him much pride and a great deal of satisfaction. It is proof of what many of us have wondered about—whether or not diligence, honesty and giving value received in merchandising are forerunners of success.

The fact that Mr. Fox has a fine established trade, a comprehensive stock of furniture and hardware, proves that his methods and business policies have the general approval of the people of this section of Alabama. They realize on each visit to his store, that it is constantly growing and with each new expansion his equipment and facilities are more readily adaptable to the needs of his customers.

In the commodity markets from time to time, real bargains appear. Mr. Fox is quick to take advantage of these low prices and pass them on to his customers at a great saving. Such action on his part has saved his customers lots of money and made for him many friends.

The latest addition to his business is one that has been needed here for a long time—a dependable re-finishing shop directed by a capable cabinet maker. It promises to be of much benefit to those who have odd pieces they want to be refinished. This work will be at a very reasonable price and full satisfaction is guaranteed.

Most of us do not have an unlimited amount of money and when we make a purchase we are careful that we get value received for our money. This is thriftiness and is everywhere encouraged. Mr. Fox practices this when he makes his purchases and invites you to look through his store and see if he can be of service to you.

Experiments conducted by the Texas Experiment Station and other stations indicate that there are two reasons why cotton seed should not be used for feed. The first is that cottonseed meal is a better feed; and the second is that valuable products are wasted when whole cotton seed are fed.

CAPT. LAY'S ADDRESS AT DAM LAST SATURDAY

Gratitude Expressed For Honors Bestowed Upon Him by Company He Founded

SPECIAL MENTION OF CHILTON CO. PEOPLE

In accepting the houors bestowed upon him last Saturday at the dedication of Lay Dam, Captain W. P. Lay made a response that was beautiful to hear It was a flow of sweet words from a great heart as pure as sparkling water gushing from a crytal spring.

In order that all of our readers may enjoy what he said, we reproduce below his speech in full:

"If hope deferred maketh the heart sick, and I can testify from abundant experience that it does, hope fulfilled maketh the heart exceedingly glad, and surely I can testify to that on this happy, happy day for me. It has always seemed to me that the greatest satisfaction that could come to any one was in the knowledge that what he had tried to do and what he had done met the commendation of those whose opinions he valued and whose approval he desired.

"The gracious, thoughtful, and considerate action of the Alabama Power Company in naming this dam for me touched me most profoundly. What has been said about me here today, this great outpouring of my friends and fellow citizens, and the expressions of commendation which have greeted me on every hand, have continued to uplift my spirit until I find it difficult to voice my thanks and appreciation of the honors heaped upon me. Every friendly word and gesture stirs a wave of gratitude from the depths of my being, but I believe I would be unworthy of them all if back of any personal feeling of satisfaction and joy was not a deep and abiding thought that those expressions are not only of appreciation of my vision and labors but also of the development which they helped to bring to pass.

Embodies Progress

"This dam, had it been erected merely to honor me and bear my name, would mean very little to anyone save a few of my personal friends and loved ones. It means what it does, and this great crowd here, and these ceremonies are proceeding because it reaches far beyond all personalities and embodies and projects the diea of progress and service; because it typifies that spirit which makes America great—the guiding of the forces of nature to the uses of man and the releasing of man from heavy burdens of toil that his spiritual and cultural nature may grow and expand. In this spirit, Mr. Martin, my heart responds to this great honor which the company bestows upon me.

"I would be untrue to myself, untrue to the memories that throng my mind and heart at this hour and unworthy of the honor done me, if I did not hasten to ask, what I know you will gladly give, and that is a recognition of other personalities and other forces that entered in this work. It is an old saying that no man lives to himself and no man dies to himself. I believe it equally true that no man does his best work alone, no man reaches worthwhile success without the help and assistance, inspiriational as well as physical, of others who sustain him by faith and confidence as well as assist with money and brains. I would not be here today, this great development would not be here in its present form and with its present history, if, during the long years of struggle between its inception and its certainty, my hands and heart had not been sustained. Some of them are here, some are in far parts of the world, some, I am sure are looking upon this scene from the mansions of the blessed and communing with us in spirit here today.

Oak From Acorn

As memory tracks back through the years and as I gaze upon this scene, and as I visualize the two great dams below this one on the Coosa, and the three great dams upon the Tallapoosa, and the great steam plants at Gadsden and Gorgas and the transmission lines striding over the hills and valleys of Alabame carrying light and power and comfort and wealth and industry to the people, I feel again the amazement that swept my youthful mind when I learned and realized that "tall oaks from little acorns grow." Great as my dream and vision seemed to me in those days, it now appears but a small acorn in the contemplation of this tall oak which under the nurture of faithful hands has grown to such proportions.

Fortunate indeed was the holder of this acorn of such potentialities, fortunate the electric industry and fortunate the people of Alabama, when after a search beginning here at home extending in widening circles until it crossed the Atlantic Ocean, at last those honest, capable and clean hands were found and this seed of promise safely placed within their vigorous grasp. It can be said with truth and verity that the search had been conducted in all honor and I steadfastly affirm that the trust then imposed has been most honorably discharged and point to the history, the success, the present fine service of the Alabama Pow-

EDITOR LAKEMMAN VISITOR AT LAY DAM DEDICATION

Mr. E. P. Lakeman, editor of The Advertiser-Journal, at Haleyville, in Winston County, was among the visitors at the dedication of Lay Dam last Saturday.

Mr. Lakeman took advantage of the opportunity to witness the dedication exercises and pay a visit to his brother, W. P. Lakeman, who lives at Lock 12.

Monday morning as he was on his way back to Haleyville, the visiting editor stopped to say howdy to The Union-Banner editors. We enjoyed his visit very much; only wish he could have stayed longer with us.

Under the ownership of Mr. Lakeman The Advertiser-Journal has developed into one of the best weekly newspapers of the State.

DISTRICT THREE MILL TAX GIVEN MAJORITY VOTE

School Taxes of County Now Re-Established As In Past Ten Years

In the election held November 19, the three mill district school tax for the two school districts of Chilton county, District A and District B, was voted favorably by a large majority. However, the number of voters expressing themselves on the question was very small.

The officail count shows that in District A 566 votes were cast for the tax and 185 against it. In District B the vote was 12 for the tax and none against it.

As the return of boxes was made at the courthouse, the unofficial figures for the vote at the different voting places were given as follows:

District A

POWER COMPANY WAS GRACIOUS LAST SATURDAY

The manner in which the Alabama Power Company entertained their guests on last Saturday at the dedication of Lock 12 as Lay Dam was most gracious. The only drawback was the bad weather.

Every convenience was provided for the visitors. About 2,000 were in attendance. Preparations had been made for twice that many, and if the weather had been suitable, a crowd of 5,000 could have been taken care with all ease.

The barbecue was the finest we ever saw. About two acres of tables with seats attached were loaded down with the most delicious things to eat. All one had to do was to go in, sit down and eat.

A car load of choice meats for the occasion was unloaded at Clanton and carried to the scene of the barbecue, where it was prepared and served in the most approved style.

Hundreds of visitors came from different points in the State. The people of Chilton County were "Johnny on the Spot" to make them feel welcome.

It was a great day for our County, and the net result is that the spirit of cordiality with the Alabama Power Company has been increased to greater proportions.

COL. MILFORD HOWARD HERE SATURDAY

We were delighted to see among those present at the Lay Dam dedication last Saturday our friend, Col. Milford W. Howard of River Park, Lookout Mountain. Col. Howard has been a lifelong bosom friend of Capt. Lay, and of course was much interested in seeing the honors of the occasion so fittingly bestowed upon him.

Among the various writings of Col. Howard (and they have come to be many) is a life sketch of Capt. Lay, which was produced within the year. It is a piece of literature that does well measured justice to its hero, the man who first dreamed of the vast hydroelectric power development of Alabama.

ALA. CONFERENCE HELD AT THORSBY LAST SATURDAY

Joins Other Protestant Denominations For Support of Dry Laws

The Alabama Congregational Conference in its meeting at Thorsby, November 23, 1929 desires to place itself in line with the many other religious bodies which have declared their interest in, and sympathy with, the efforts:

First, to make the campaign against war effective. The day has arrived when war between the nations must be no more. Our churches should be in the forefront of the world-wide campaign for world-wide peace. If we as individuals have been guilty of the ancient and unchristian prejudices due to difference of race or of language let us repent of our sins, let us study the things that make for an acquaintance and understanding and sympathy that shall reach across all racial and national barriers and so become, indeed and in truth, followers of the Prince of Peace.

Second, to make effective the campaign against the liquor traffic. Our nation has put itself on record repeatedly through the action of our representatives in Congress and through the action of forty-six of our forty-eight United States as constitutionally opposed to this traffic. The Protestant churches and their ministers have been almost a unit in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment.

However we should clearly face the fact that the fight against the traffic is not yet over.

We as a conference would place ourselves in line with the many church bodies which have declared themselves in sympathy with the law and its enforcement. We would warn our people of the very evident fact that a large proportion of the city daily newspapers are under the domination of those who are opposed to prohibition, and that to such an extent that no statement of theirs regarding either the success of prohibition or the methods of its enforcement is entitled to our confidence.

We would urge upon our people that they in every possible way should uphold the law, that they encourage both by their words and by their personal examples the officers upon whom rests the responsibility for enforcement of the law.

And especially would we urge our people to make it a part of their Christian faith to believe that the day is approaching when the great evil of the illegal traffic in intoxicating liquor shall lose its grip upon the life of America. — E. W. Rutler.

MRS. YEAGER HERE MONDAY

Mrs. Yeager, proprietor of the Yearger Studios at Montevallo was a business visitor to Clanton Monday. Many people here have had photos made at the Yeager studio, and the work is recognized to be the very best.

Mrs. Yeager has a special Christmas offer which She is going to make to Clanton people by direct mail. This will be an exceptional opportunity for anyone to secure a fine oil painting of any member of the family free.

WHY WE ARE A DAY EARLY

You are receiving your Union-Banner a day early this week because Uncle Sammy gives his rural letter carriers a rest on Thanksgiving Day and so, in order to not be late with the paper we had to be early. It's either a day early or a day late, so we chose the former, feeling that it would suit our subscribers better to have it that way.

REV. M. LOCKHART, STUDENT MINISTER, ENDORSED BY BAPTISTS

When the Chilton County Baptist Association met at Refuge last month the body went on record in favor of rendering financial assistance to Rev. M. Lockhart, a young Baptist minister who is licensed by the Refuge church of which he is a member. Rev. Lockhart lives in the Refuge community and is now attending the Concord High School.

The further education of Rev. Lockhart depends upon such financial aid as may be given him by the churches of the Chilton County Association. Any church may help him with the full assurance that his case is meritorious.

Observance of Road Rules Is Demanded

Commissioners Court Thanks People For Aid On Lock 12 Road

Editor Union-Banner:

We, the Commissioners Court want to thank all who labored without ceasing with us on the Lock 12 road from Friday noon Nov. 15, to Friday night Nov. 22, did not stop for rain and worked on Sunday. The Ala. Power Company gave us free, 59 car loads of slag provided we would get it on the Lock 12 road before last Saturday, in order to get the road in passable codition, and if our people had not been so faithful to work in the rain we would have lost this opportunity to build this road.

We believe we will have a splendid road when the wet weather settles so that we can take our machines and put this road back in good condition. We want to urge all the people to observe the road law and not haul heavy loads over the road while they are wet and boggy. It is a violation of the law to haul any kind of load weighing over 800 pounds within 36 hours after a twenty minute rain over the public roads in Chilton County. It is also a violation of the law to haul lumber, logs, timber, cord-wood, cross-ties, or minerals over the public roads after a 20 minute rain.

Now we hate to see anybody prosecuted, but the heavy hauling over the public roads is a violation of the law. For the last 30 days has not only made it impossible for the people to travel some of the roads, but has put those with material to haul over the roads completely out of business, when, if they had just waited until the roads had dried out they could have hauled their lumber, logs, etc. over the roads much cheaper and quicker than they could with the roads in the condition they are in.

All oil trucks and all other trucks and teams will have to comply with the law as all road overseers are hereby notified to prosecute all people violating the above law, and if road overseers fail to prosecute anyone violating this law they are subject to prosecution. In conclusion we urge everyone to help us take care of the public roads, we want to keep your road in as good condition as possible, but it is a waste of your money to try to repair dirt roads with such weather as we have had for the last month, yet you people continue to haul heavy loads over the roads while they are wet.

We thank every body for their past cooperation with the court in the road work in the county. Remember the State highways have all narly bocome impassable when the state has spent thousands of dollars per mile to construct them, and if they will not stand the heavy hauling while the roads are wet how can you expect our dirt roads to hold up under like conditions.

Respectfully,—L. H. Reynolds,

LOVING CUP IS GIVEN TO CAPT. LAY SATURDAY

Presentation Speech is Made By L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate

RECITING LOVE FOR POWER CO. FOUNDER

In presenting a beautiful loving cup to Capt. W. P. Lay on behalf of the people of Chilton County, Judge L. H. Reynolds made the following address at the Lay Dam dedication on last Saturday:

As a representive of the people of Chilton County, who in a way are hosts upon this occasion, permit me to say for them that we are extremely gratified in having you as our guest. It is one of the biggest honors ever bestowed upon us, and I trust that each of you have enjoyed your visit and I assure you that the welcome sign shall always be hung up for your return.

About twenty years ago the Alabama Power Company first began its operations in Chilton County, and today we have as a result two magnificient structures, this one now being officially known as Lay Dam, and the other, Mitchell Dam. The spirit and co-operation existing between the people of Chilton County and the Alabama Power Company and its officials has always been the very best, in all this period of time no controversies or strife have ever existed between us, but always the spirit of co-operation for the betterment of the people of our County. This Company and its people have been a great benefit to us, both in a material and a social way.

Before the name of the Alabama Power Company had been heard, appeared a man in our midst, small of statute, but sturdy of mind and perseverance, who came here for a purpose no one knew and no one thought much about. The road you have traveled from Clanton to this site today was many times walked by this man upon foot before the days of automobiles and with his instruments he was testing rocks, observing and surveying up and down the banks of this river, which then was a great body of unharnessed energy rushing on in its wild furor, serving no purpose except a few fishermen who dotted its shores here and there. Wild rumors were afloat in those days, regarding this man's purpose, some of the old natives said he was looking for gold, and rumor had that the Indians had buried a box of gold and that this stranger had a map which would lead him to the hidden treasure. When the stranger made known his purpose, that he was contemplating building a dam across this river, the people shook their heads in disbelief and said it could not be done, but the idea in this man's head fosetred by his untiring perseverance, resulted in what you behold today.

To this pioneer and leader, the Alabama Power Company has paid its tribute so justly due, but Chilton County and its officials were unwilling that the opportunity should pass without it also, in its humble way, likewise paying its tribute of respect and honor to the man whom we many years ago learned to love. He has come and gone among our people, and if any man, woman or child has ever said aught against him, it has not come within my knowledge. We know that the great increase in taxes derived from these two structures has done more for our County than probably any man can conceive. The value in material benefit to our schools, to our roads and to our general weal and welfare is due to the man whom we are all honoring here today.

Not from the officials alone, not from the rich or the poor, but from all the people of Chilton County comes this tribute, not of great intrinsic value, but nevertheless a token of our esteem, just a small and humble way to show you—Captain William Patrick Lay, that we of this County feel especially grateful and proud upon this occasion and have felt it our privilege to present you this loving cup that you may always know and remember your friends back in Chilton County.

Therefore, it gives me the greatest of pleasure to present this cup to the pioneer and leader in river development in Alabama; this cup comes from the hearts of the people of Chilton County, Captain, who will always be remembered by us and with this accept the felicitation of the donors, and may it in your reclining years bring to you the knowledge that you have done your work well and the feeling that there are those who will never forget.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by FRANK P. LITSCHERT

The rabid internationalist and the unreasoning pacifist who would endanger and sacrifice is necessary, legitimate American interest for some fine-spun international program which would be impracticable and unworkable to say the least, will find the little consolation in President Hoover's inaugural address. On the other hand, those Americans who sincerely desire peace, and who favor all steps toward that end, compatible with the safeguarding of American interest, will find much that will commend itself in the President's sound and logical address.

The President pointed the way to America, and it is the path which has been traditionally trod for more than a century. Support of the World Court was advocated "under proper reservations" and the President then pointed out the two roads open for the promotion of peace. One is the road taken by Europe through the League of Nations and its agreements to use force if necessary to "maintain the peace." The other is the path now being taken in the Western Hemisphere over which we are seeking peace through enlightened public opinion. The League path, any sane American can see, would involve the United States in innumerable complications, and in political questions in which we have no interest, anad would thereby endanger our chance for peace. On the other hand, the American idea, depending on enlightened public opinion, while it may not always be effective, is the most effective plan that can be inaugurated in the present imperfect stage of world civilization. It is the plan used in the Kellog pact and it is the plan which will prevent war if war is to be prevented. The League plan, as the President states, has been rejected by the American people.

One of the most American and wholesome sections of the Presidents spech was that in which he declared that "until such titme as nations can build the agencies of pacific settlements on stronger foundations" and until the power of world opinion can act as a restraint in time of trouble "there will not have been established that confidence which warrants the abandonment of preparedness for defense among nations. To do so would be to invite war."

Continuing, the President said: "I am for adequate preparedness as a guarantee that no foreign soldier shall ever step upon the soil of our country. Our nation has said with millions of voices that we desire only defense. That is the effect of the covenant we have entered into, not to use war as an instrument of national policy. No American will arise today and say that we wish one gun or one armed man beyond that necessary for the defense of our people. To do so would create distrust in other nations, and also would be an invitation to war. Proper defense repuires military strength relative to that of other nations. We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other. Having said that, it only remains for the others to say how low they will go. It cannot be too low for us.

Surely in this statement the President is speaking for the great body of the American people. Here is the answer to those rabid internationalists who have claimed that the United states, by refusing to join the League of Nations, has been standing in the way of peace. We can work more effectively and more constructively for peace if we stay out of the fog of European suspicions and mutual jealousies.

In his suggestion that as a step toward freedom of the seas, ships bearing food in time of war shall have the same status as hospital ships, the President is appealing to the idealism of the world. He does not expect this suggestion to be written immediately into international law, does not even expect that it will loom large in the coming naval conference. But it is at least worth thinking about and worth discussing, and may well serve to direct the thought of the world constructive channels.

MR. HOOVER'S ADDRESS

Millions of individuals here and abroad will be encouraged when they read the Armistice Day speech of the President of the United States. They will draw comfort from the fact that the head of the strongest nation in the world is striving with might and main to find a way to prevent wars. Americans will applaud his sentiments as expressing the true spirit of America, while foreigners can not but feel that the United States may be depended upon to take a leading part in effective steps to maintain peace.

Mr. Hoover does not indulge in the day-dream of a blissful peace accomplished by mere example. He does not advocate the scrapping of ships and arms by this country as a means of inducing other countries to follow suit. Indeed, he recognizes the massive fact, always ignored or distorted by pacifists, that lack of defense is provocative of war. The world is under arms; with 10,000,000 more active and reserve soldiers than before the war. Combatant ships have been decreased somewhat, but aircraft and other war weapons are more potent than before the war. The President reminds the country that experience gives warning that wars are to be expected. At the same time, the world is more genuinely inclined toward peace that ever before. The almost universal adherence to the Kellog pact is a most significant proof of this progress.—Washington Post.

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

GOODYEAR

We put 'em on your wheels not on your shoulder

When you buy Goodyear Tires from us, you go away with your tires correctly installed on your wheels, and knowing that when you need any kind of tire service you can come back here with a good conscience and get it.

When you buy tires from a mail order house, you get them out of the postoffice and carry them away on your shoulder. Then when you are in need of tire service, guess you order that from the mail order house too.

Do you think you can save money by buying tires from the mail order houses? If you do, we invite you to come to see us and let us prove to you beyond any doubt that it pays you to buy Goodyears.

If we can't prove it to you, we don't ask you to buy our tires. Isn't that a fair proposition? As these retire, let others come, and get on the air of tire happiness that fills every Goodyear in the world.

STATE CAPITOL News

The long war against the cattle tick in Alabama has resulted in complete victory for the forces of progress, according to information from Dr. C. A. Cary, State Veterinarian. The United State Bureau of Animal Husbandry has ordered the release of Clarke County from the cattle tick quarintine effective December 1st, and with this release all Alabama will be free from the tick embargo.

Tick eradication work in Alabama has been in progress for ten years. It has been a troublesome and costly fight, but has demonstrated its value by opening up a new era of livestock development in Alabama such as was never known in the old days when the cattle tick was abroad in the land and was regarded as a more or less necessary evil. Alabama has many advantages as a livestock country, with mild winters and a long growing season, which in the past was to a large degree offset by the ravages of the tick which was a particular menace to imported pure-bred cattle from territory where the tick was unknown. The wiping out of the tick enables Alabama to realize more fully on her wonderful cattle raising possibilities.

Dr. John W. Abercrombie, Assistant State Superintendent of Education, has been chosen as one of twenty educators and literary leaders as a member of the Advisory Committee on Illiteracy in the United States. The appointment was made by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the Interior and ex-officio member of the body and approved by President Hoover.

The awarding of prizes on November 15th to successful contestants brought to a conclusion Alabama's First Annual Fresh Water Fishing Contest, conducted by Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the State Department of Game and Fisheries. The contest opened on October 1st, and closed October 31st, every person in the State being eligible except employees of the Department. There was no outstandingly large catches, though all were very creditable. This feature of the Contest, however, is an advantage as it will serve to convince the fishermen of the State that it is not necessary to make a champion catch to be a contender in these contests. The winners were as follows:

First Prize: Bait Casting for Bass, one Pfleuger Supreme Reel, awarded by Enterprise Manufacturing Company, Akron, Ohio. Winner, Mrs. A. F. Ditmar, Montgomery, Ala.

First Prize: Fly Casting for bass, 100 yards Korrect Kor Line, and assortment of South Bend Lures awarded by the Korrect Kor Company, Luzerne, New York, and South Bend Bait Company of South Bend, Ind. Winner, Sam Colen, Florence.

First Prize: Hook and Line fishing for bass, Kennedy Kit Tackle Box, by Loeb Hardware Company, Montgomery, Ala. Winner, D. A. Doss, Hartselle.

First Prize: Fly Casting for bream, Al Foss Lures and Pork Rind Bait, by Al Foss, Cleveland, Ohio and Eppinger Dardevle Lure, by Lou J. Eppinger, Detroit, Michigan. Winner, Dr. Frank C. Weaver, Anniston.

First Prize: Hook and line fishing for bream, three Al Foss Lures and Pork Rind bait, by Al Foss, Cleveland, Ohio. Winner, W. T. Dunklin, Greenville, Ala.

S. B. Sightler of Montgomery was a close contestant in the baiting contest for bass, and Hon. Joe Pelham of Chatom deserves favorable mention for his success in fly casting for bass. The prize bass caught by Mr. Colen weighed an even five pounds, which is an exceptionally good catch with a fly rod.

The Contest will be an annual event and is designed to stimulate interest in fishing, which is one of the most beneficial of all sports. The fact that the entries were so well distributed over the State indicates how general was the interest in this first Contest.

According to the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, 40,000 turkeys were recently shipped from Alabama to New ork to be consumed during the holidays.

PRICE FORECAST AS ALABAMA HOGS DIE

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 25.—Each good freeze from late November through January is accompanied by the killing of hogs by the thousands on Alabama farms. This year approximately 500,000 hogs will be slaughtered to furnish meat for home consumption. At present prices the value of these hogs on foot is about $7,000,000.

F. W. Gist, State and Federal statistician, is the authority on which these figures are based. During 1928 Alabama farmers sold and slaughtered 909,000 hogs valued at $14,248,000. Mr. Gist made no estimate as to division between "sold" and "slaughtered," but an unofficial estimate i sthat half of them were slaughtered on farms.

Many of the farmers will be aided in doing their slaughtering properly by Farmer's Bulletin, No. 1,186, "Pork on the Farm, Killing, Curing, and Canning." This bulletin may be had from county agents.

While killing and slaughtering are in progress, J. D. Pope, farm economist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, foresees a price improvement after the first of January. Further price decline is expected by him during December. If the well-known law of supply and demand is allowed to operate without disturbance, farmers should realize more money for their hogs this winter than they did last winter, he said.

However, the number of hogs now on Alabama farms is less than the number on the farms of the State a year ago. Federal figures released in June showed that the number of pigs saved in Alabama in the spring of 1929 was 6 per cent less than the number saved in the spring of 1928.

Many a circular finds the waste-basket without being read.

"Work hard," is useless advice and it isn't much information.

HOOVER'S TIMELY UTTERANCE

President Hoover's Armistice Day address has been extremely well received in this country, where his suggestion that food ships be accorded immunity in times of war seems to be in keeping with the modern trend to make war less brutal.

What will happen to the idea when the nations of the world begin to weigh their own selfish interests is another matter, but it evidences again that this country has no intention of trying to use its navy in inhuman warfare.

The stern declaration for naval equality, coupled with the willingness to reduce to any extent that other accept, again evidences the pacific spirit of our government, which, in this, represents its people's innermost desires.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. SARAH ADELINE MIMS

On Saturday morning, October 26, God called away from us our loving mother and wife. She had been in bad health for almost two years with heart dropsy, but hadn't been confined to her bed. All had been done for her that loving hands could do but the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh.

Through all her suffering she kept smiling. He had a mansion prepared for her, so He called her home. She loved her Bible very dearly and read it often.

We know that our hearts are broken with a void that it will take long years to heal. That vacant place and empty chair can never be filled.

Though the cries were loud and heart-breaking, they could never compare with the singing and rejoicing of the angels as mother entered in to be one of their number.

She was born November 26th, 1867 and died October 26th, 1929. She was laid to rest at Liberty Hill cemetery an Sunday, October 27th, Rev. Homer Carroll conducting the funeral. And sweeter and more consoling words never fell from human lips. Mr. Martin, undertaker, was in charge of the body.

We can't hear her voice any more,
In prayer or song as of old;
For now our dear old mother
Is sleeping in the grave.
Her empty chair is sitting there;
Her corner looks so lonely.
Sleep on and rest dear mother,
Although our hearts are sad.
Long are our nights, but God knows best; He took her suffering away.

And we wish to thank the people for the beautiful floral offering and kind sympathy shown during her illness and death. All the neighbors and friends were certainly faithful in doing every thing they could.

The dirigible airship, Vigilant owned and operated by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company was one of the most interesting features of the Lay Dam celebration last Saturday. The Vigilant for the present is stationed at Gadsden, the home of Captain W. P. Lay, in whose honor the exercises were held Saturday. The decision of Goodyear to send the Vigilant down to Lay Dam to add its interest to the occasion was very fitting indeed.

The big ship poked its nose through the clouds just as the dedication ceremony was being pronouncen by Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company. For more than an hour it circled above the hills and lakes surrounding Lay Dam. When the great throng of two thousand people sat down to eat the barbecue dinner the pilot of the Vigilant drew his big ship close to the tops of the trees. As he passed slowly over a patch of field a rope was lowered to the ground and Mr. S. R. Powers, superintendent of Lay Dam, attached a big box of barbecue and other edibles to the end of it.

As the box was hauled into the cabin the pilot shouted his thanks for the lunch, and he headed the Vigilant in the direction of Birmingham .

Pilot of the Goodyear craft is V. L. Smith. A. T. Sewel is relief pilot, and James Royle is mechanic. The ship is 128 feet long, 37 feet in diamater, has a gas capacity of 85,000 cubic feet, and will carry three passengers.

The JACK-POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Well we're out a day early this week, just in order to give you an idea of how to go about this business of celebrating Thanksgiving.

It's about that bad now, though, that it isn't called Thanksgiving any more. Nowadays it's generally known as "Turkey Day".

This the day, and the only day of the year, you know, when the usual order is reversed. On every other day of the year the "Goblers" gobble up everything in sight. On this day, every "Gobbler" in sight gets gobbled up.

It's a pity some of the "Goblers" of the human variety couldn't be dealt out the same dose as the feathered ones, isn't it?

At that, though, we suppose it would be about right to forget that it is Thanksgiving Day, and call it "Turkey Day". Very little thanks is offered now, while the turkey is litterally "on everybody's tongue."

As this is written, it seems that Old Man Winter has made his arrival. Reports of snow in the State, and all. Shake out the top coat if you haven't already done so (and if you have one) and get ready. Somebody says that the cold of winter will be in proportion to the rain of the autumn season. Now—if that's so, don't get out the coat, but GO SOUTH!

We hate to talk of rain ALL the time, but it seems that is about all we have all the time. Snow in some places, sunshine in others, still others take theirs out in winds—but if we have anything, ever, in the way of weather, looks like it'll be rain.

Hitch up your trousers, button up your coats and go visiting. It's coming time to pay central fees for telephone service again. Along about this time of the year we begin to hear from near-forgotten relatives, old time friends, and the telephone outfit. When these things happen--know what time it is?—Christmas, or soon will be.

That was kinda weak, but these things ARE heard from every year about the same time. One man says, "Oh, well, life is like that you know-misfortunes will come in droves"!

Y'know, it ought to be election year. Wouldn't it be funny to watch the candidates plowing through the roads in their present condition, on their electioneering trips? And how we could make 'em promise better times, "If I am elected". Not that that would make any difference, though.

Just human nature, we suppose, for us to think of that. We guess you have heared that "misery loves company".

When the real cold nights come, don't forget to drain "Lizzie's" radiator. Else, when you come into town the next morning, somebody is going to ask if you're tryin' to put on airs by driving a "steamer".

What with muddy roads, greasy lips from eatin' squirrels and the like, we've got into the habit of just lettin' things slide. "Just slidin' along"—furnish your own music.

Another rest is earned—rest for the JACK-POTTER from the labor on the POT, and for the POT'S readers from readin' the like.—"Jack".

We're fully equipped to give you rapid service on repairing and re-charging storage batteries for autos and radios. Batteries picked up and delivered to your home.

WEST CHILTON

Someone has said,"put fire in your writing or else put your writing in the fire," so it may be this time our writing had better be in the fire but however here we go.

Some of the West Chiltonites intended enjoying the singing at Mars Hill Sunday, but the dark threatening day and severe colds prevented.

N. B. Posey was taken violently ill last week.

A son of C. H. Langston and others from Birmingham were down here Saturday hunting.

Says the Farm Journal of Philarelphia, "What this country needed was fewer politicians and more mules." How is that for the present? We have politicians galore, and the mules keep the market supplied in food products.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Drue have returned to Barnegat, New Jersey, taking Mr. John F. Armstrong and family with them, where they will make their future home. Mr Armstrong was born and reared right here in the Macedonia community. Now he is lacated on the great traffic lines leading to New York and Philadelphia, where their roads are sufficiently wide for three cars abreast and no ditches on the roadside like we have here. A great place for growing chickens, where the flocks run into thousands of hens on a single farm, within easy reach of the sea coast, and New York. We hope Mr. Armstrong's health improves.

Just a few more days and the New Year will arrive with its achievements, defeats lights and shaddows. The new world in which we are now living calls for new methods all around, antiquated things are done.

Now like "Jack Pot" we have done quit.

PLEASANT GROVE—JEMISON

Rev. J. T. Browder filled his regular appointment Sunday. Preaching a Thanksgiving Sermon at the 11:00 o'clock hour service. His text was, "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above," his subject for the evening was, "As ye there have opportunities do good to all men." Every church member is urged to be present next preaching Sunday, as there is to be a special service in the morning.

The B. Y. P. U. rendered a splendid program Sunday night. The subject was, "Thanksgiving for Jehovah's favor." Group no. 2 is ahead this quarter with their daily Bible readings. The subject for Sunay night is, "Lessons from Isiah and right living." The B. Y. P. U. will meet at six o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. James Baker and children of Montevallo spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Bud O'Neal.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud O'Neal, Garvice and Hazel O'Neal, Paul and Emma Rene Dawson all took dinner with Mr. O'Neal's sister, Mrs. Zula Baker of Montevallo Monday evening.

Mr. Jim Price happened to the painful accident of breaking his arm a few days ago. He started to crank the car when it back fired.

Mrs. Annie Rasberry and children of Macedonia spent Sunday with Mrs. Monroe Smith and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Huie Waldrop and children of Macedonia were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion, Mr. and Mrs. Champion returned home with them.

Miss Mary Clements, the popular first grade teacher of Jemison, spent the week-end with home folks.

A marriage of interest was that of Miss Lula Conaway, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Conaway, and Louie Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miller, which was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock, November 16 at the home of Rev. Monroe Honeycutt. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Honeycutt. Accompanying the bridal pair was Miss Lois Conaway, the twin sister of the bride, and Misses Velma Samon, Hazel Glass and Mr. Harlie Miller brother of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller have purchased the old Myman place, just above Jemison and will start house keeping there some time soon.

The Union-Banner is $1.50 a year.

THERE'S A LOT OF WEIGHT

In the arguments of some salesmen. An auto salesman in a neighboring town was demonstrating a car, and mentioned to the lady prospect that it had a worm gear. She straightened up and indignantly replied: "I don't want any worm driving my car."

There's a lot of weight in our suggestion that car ownership will broaden your future and provide that joy to your family which only a change of environment can effect. With our used cars so reasonably priced you cannot afford to overlook the opportunity offered.

TURKEY GROWERS PAID $87,500.00 THIS YEAR

Montgomery, Ala. Nov 25—Turkey growers of Alabama this year sold twenty-five car loads of turkeys, weighing 350,000 pounds, which brought $87,5000.00, during the Thanksgiving co-operative turkey sales conducted by the Farm Bureau and Extension Service Officials. The turkeys brought 25 cents per pound.

The sales were conducted by the Farm Bureau cooperating with marketing specialist, Districts Agents, and County Agents. The County Agents and County Farm Bureau officials were in charge locally, and the were cleared through the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. J. B. Sylvest, marketing specialist, R. G. Arnold and Emmett Sizemore, district agents, and all the County Agents in the trukey producing counties, cooperated in arranging the sale dates and places. The turkeys went to New York.

Plans are at present being made for the Christmas Co-operative Sale which will come sometime during the early part of December, says Edw. A. O'Neal, President of the Farm Bureau.

The twenty-five cars for Thanksgiving were loaded at: Gallion, Uniontown, Greensboro, Newborn, Catherine Thomaston, Camden, Snow Hill, Aliceville, Fort Deposit, Safford, Geiger, Hartford, Samson, Ashford, Eufaula, Pittsview, Benton, Pine Apple, West Greene, Emelle, Andalusia, Dothan, Troy, Union Springs, Hurtsboro, Letohatchie, Hamburg, Marion Junction, Burkeville minters, Boligee, Eppes, Fitzpatrick, Cecil, Tyson, and Montgomery.

County Agents who helped with the sales in their respective counties are: J. L. Lawson, Hale; J. P. Robinson, Perry; W. A. Cammack, Wilcox; E. E. Hale, Marengo; F. A. Rew, Pickens; J. E. Bonner, Sumter; H. B. Helms, Geneva; J. H. Witherington, Houston; F. G. Clapp, Barbour; L. L. Pearson, Russell; R. S. Parker, Lowndes; John Blake and R. D. Winch, Dallas; H. C. Appleton, Greene; W. T. Cheney, Covington; J. A. McLeod, Bullock; R. L. King, Pike; L. A. Edmonson, Montgomery; T. W. Allen, Macon; and Ida Brunson, home agent, Crenshaw. County Agents, including the home agents in counties loading turkeys, and the agricultural agents in counties near by the ones in which the turkeys were loaded also helped with the sale.

CEDAR GROVE NEWS

However cold, we met here last Sunday afternoon and became just a little more familiar with the new Showalter song books. We hope to meet next fourth Sunday afternoon with all our singers present and lots of visitors.

The pastor, Rev Lynch of Walnut Creek, preached an interesting sermon Sunday Morning. He announced that there would be no preaching on Saturday before the fourth Sunday in December, but He will expect you on the fourth Sunday. We are very gald to have Bro. Lynch with us again for the coming year. Let us urge the people of this community to cooperate with him and attend church every possible chance.

The weather may be rather cold some Sundays to go to church but we should remember that our Saviour suffered much more than we do when we go to church on a cold day. So, as a duty we should attend church regularly.

OAK HILL HAPPENINGS

The United Singing Society met in regular session here Sunday afternoon and did some good singing. We had the pleasure of listening to such able directors at Profs. Akins Collins, Appleton, and the Glasscock brothers; accompanied by Misses Emma Campbell and Jessie Dorminey at the organ. The singing was above the average for this place and was greatly enjoyed by all present. This was evidenced by the good order and attention given.

All seemed anxious both to sing and listen, as scarcely anybody left the room during the two hours of almost continuous singing. The society decided to meet Thursday night for practice at Union Grove instead of Wednesday night. The public as well as the singers are invited.

The society will meet with New Salem class next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Everybody has a special invitation to come and take a part with us in these song services.

Our first quarterly meeting will be held here at Oak Hill on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day. District Superintendent W. A. Murphree of Birmingham and our new pastor, J. H. Lott, will be in charge of preaching at 11 o'clock by Supt. Murphree, and conference in the afternoon. The public has a special invitation to attend these services both morning and afternoon; and the members of the church are especially requested to attend. Don't fail for you will miss something great if you do.—E. L. Glasscock.

LEFSTEAD-MELLON

A wedding beautiful in its simplicity was solemnized Thursday afternoon, Nov. 14, at 4 o'clock, in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Salisbury, when Miss Mary Lowe Mellon became the bride of the Rev. Walemar H. Lefstead.

The altar was banked with a profusion of evergreens and chrysanthemums which formed a setting for the impressive ceremony of the Lutheran church. The soft glow of cathedral candles added to the solemnity of the occasion.

A musical prelude to the ceremony consisted of a piano solo, "Salut D'Amour" (Elgar), by Miss Mary A. White; "Sweetest Story ever Told" baratone solo by Samuel L. Sox; "Venetian Love Song" played by Miss White; and "Because" sung by L. C. Bumgarner, tenor.

The traditional Lohengrin wedding march ushered in the bridal party. Miss emily Mellon, sister of the bride, and maid of honor, wore dahlia georgette and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

The bride was becomingly gowned in an afternoon frock of blue faille, fashoned along princess lines, with close-fitting felt hat and accessories to match, and carried a bride's bouquet or roses and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her brother, James Mellon, of Kannapolis. Mr. Lefstead had as his best man Rev. C. K. Derrick. "Hearts and flowers" was softly played during the ring ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Leroy E. Blackwelder. Just before the benediction Messrs. Bumgarner and Sox very effectively sang "O perfect love." Mendelssohn's wedding march was used as a recessional.

J. L. Beall, Trexler, Robert Mellon and Fisher were ushers.

Mrs. Lefstead is the attractive niece of Mrs. John E. Miller, of Linwood, where she is esteemed by a wide circle of friends. Since her graduation from North Carolina College for Women, she has taught successfully in various public schools of the state.

Mr. Lefstead, originally of Thorsby, Alabama, has recently come to Salisbury, where he is the well liked minister of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Immediately after the ceremony Rev. and Mrs. Lefstead left for Atlanta and points south.

Following the rehearsal Wednesay evening at St. Paul's Lutheran church, an informal reception was given the Lefsteaed-Mellon bridal party and a few friends, by Mrs. John E. Miller, aunt of the bride, at "The Ooks," near Linwood; punch was served to the guests on their arrival. Music and conversation were enjoyed throughout the evening, and the cutting of the bride's sake was an enjoyable feature. A fruit salad course with sandwiches and coffee was served.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Johanna Lefstead, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKenzie, Rev. and Mrs. Leroy E. Blackwelder, all of Salisbury; Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Trexler, of Richfield; Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Fisher, of Lexington; Miss Emily Mellon, of Greensboro; James Mellon, of Annapolis; Miss Harriette Mellon, of Stony Point; Rev. L. C. Bumgarner, of Concord; Rev. Samuel L. Sox, of Hickory; and Rev. C. K. Derrick, of Columbia, S. C.

MRS RUBE MILLER IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Callie Miller, wife of C. T. (Rube) Miller, of Clanton, has been very ill for the past several weeks. She was carried one day last week to the Woodlawn Hospital out from Birmingham, where she is being treated. Her condition is said to be serious.

Uncle Henry Conway of Jemison was a visitor to Clanton Monday. Mr. Conway says many of his friends in the county are insisting that he become a candidate for Representative of Chilton County in the next Legislature of Alabama. He is giving the matter his consideration.

FRIENDSHIP SERVICES ARE CHANGED FOR THE WINTER

At the regular preaching day at Friendship last Sunday, it was decided not to have any night services during the winter; but instead two day-time services would be had. So Rev. Foshee will preach here at 11 o'clock on the first and third Sundays. There will be preaching next Sunday morning at this hour. This plan will prevail until the winter season is over.

The singing society met Sunday afternoon, and the crowd and singing was fairly good, taking into consideration the bad weather. We were especially glad to have several visitors with us, and extend a welcome to them at any time.

SAMARIA NEWS

Our Sunday school has been small for the past few Sundays on account of bad weather. We must keep the faith and run with patience the race that is set before us.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Whitfield of Birmingham spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Holley.

Miss Sallie B. Wood spent last week end at Lay Dam. She attended the dedication service Saturday.

Miss Evelyn Littlejohn spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Mims.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Glenn and family attended the dedication service of Lay Dam Saturday.

Miss Flora Jones was entertained by Mrs. R. W. Lowe last Friday night at a birthday party.

Mr. and Mrs J. W. Wood spent last Tuesday with Mr. J. G. Wood.

We wish to announce that our B. Y. P. U. will meet at 5:30 o'clock on next Sunday night. Come and bring someone with you.

G. T. Mims, of Temple community, who was stricken the sixth time with paralysis a few days ago, is said to be possibly improving a little.

UNCLE BOB MILLER VERY ILL

We are grieved to report that Uncle Bob Miller (R. A. Miller Sr.,) is not expected to live. He was stricken with paralysis last Sunday, and has been continually growing weaker ever since. Mr. Miller has been living with his son-in-law, Glaucus M. Baker, near Maple Springs, for the past several years.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE BEGINS FRIDAY

The "Alabama Liberty Bell", believed to be the oldest bell in Alabama that can ring, will swell its mellow tones Friday, November 29, the day after Thanksgiving, to signify the opening of the annual Christmas seal sale in Alabama.

The Alabama Liberty Bell, which was rung in Montgomery in 1825 when General LaFayette visited that city will be taken from its position in the Department of Archieves and History and placed in front of the building, and rung by the officials of the seal sale in Montgomery.

There is an older bell in Alabama, which would have signalled the opening of the seal sale, but it fell last year and this year cannot be rung, according to Mrs. Marie Bankhead Owens, of the Department of Archives and History. This bell was once on St. John's Church in Mobile and put up in 1823.

All over America the bell ringing at 10 o'clock Nov. 29, will signal the start of the sale, which is the yearly income of the National Tuberculosis Association and the Alabama Tuberculosis Association for war against tuberculosis. The design on the 1929 Christmas Seal is the bell ringer.

Declaring that the fight against tuberculosis is a national fight, the Federational Council of the Churches of Christ in America, has endorsed the seal sale and has urged every pastor in the United States to have their church bells rung at that eventful hour. In addition many sermons on the white plague will be preached in American churches the Sunday following the bell ringing.

Success is following the war conducted against tuberculosis both in Alabama and in the United States says Dr. J. D. Heacock, president of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association, for the death rate before an organized fight was made against tuberculosis was more than 200 persons per 100,000 annually, which has been cut down more than one half. Last year in America 150,000 persons lived, who would have died had not the intensive campaign against the white plague been carried out.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

A TRAVEL IN PALESTINE

I wish to speak to you to-night of the road going west from Nazareth in Gallilee as far as we can go at this time. This is one of the oldest and most historical roads in the world. It evidently was the road traveled by Abram and Sarai journeying from Ur of Caldee to Shechem the first Palestinian camping place of Abraham. It stands at the cross roads, but is on the road north and south, the cetral point between Dan and Beersheba, and guards the one pass south of the plain of Esdraelon, the valley between Mounts Ebal and Gerizim. It is really the oldest sacred spot known to Hebrew tradition in Palestine.

This is the road over which Eliezer walked leading the camel upon which the beautiful Rebekkah rode down to Hebron to become the wife of Isaac the son of Abraham. It is the road which Jesus Christ traveled ove: and oer many times, but I don't think as many times as we sometimes are inclined to think. We do know that Jesus went about doing good to those in need of help. I believe that Christ went everywhere, because people everywhere were in need of his help.

This is the road over which Saul of Tarsus, afterwards Paul, walked when going down to Damascus to persecute the Christians. Somewhere on this road near Damascus his heart and life was changed from a persecutor of Christians to a Christian himself. It is the road over which Christ walked to Nain where He met a funeral procession, and broke it up by raising the widow's only son to life.

But we are leaving Nazareth this evening. The country is not so desolate looking. The hills have quite a little distance on both sides of the road. Then we come to a wonderful looking plain called by the Greeks, and also by us the plain of Esdraelon. It is also known in history as Esdraelon. The Jews called it Jezreel. But I don't think I will stop long here. But I wish to mention that it is one of the headquarters of the Zionist Movement in that part of Palestine. The land seems to be very fertile and more productive than other parts of the Holy Land. A great many Hebrews settled there, people from Russia, Portugal, Italy, Germany, and Poland.

But I wish to first call your attention to a place called Nain. It is connected in Biblical history with one event, and that was the raising of the only son of his mother who was a widow. Christ had walked from Capernaum, his own city. No doubt this road had been covered all day with a great cloud of dust. As He approached the city of Nain no doubt thirsty and hungry and tired He met a procession coming out of the city. The Jews did not allow any one to be buried within the walls of their cities.

This mother must have been poor indeed because she could not afford even a home made coffin for her son's dead body to be placed in. Her friends were carrying him out of the city limits on a bier, just planks liad across some sticks with the sleeping body placed on it. What a wonderful thing it is to have friends, true, loyal, truthful, honest friends. They are one of the greatest blessings of God to man. Jesus touched the bier, and as we say, broke up the funeral procession by saying to the only son of his mother who was asleep in death, "Young man, I say unto thee arise." The young man stood up. His mother gave him some nourishing food and he expressed his love for her by working to support her. The next few years I see him going out in the wheat fields sowing and reaping wisely for her sake.

Somewhere not far from this place is a neighborhood called Endor which we surely remember its associations in connection with what we would term as witchcraftery. It was here that Saul no doubt devil-possessed went to enquire of a vision rather than to go to God and enquire for the information which he wished. What a sin it is to enquire of anyone but God. The prophet Samuel appeared to Saul and told him of what a great sin he had committed by resorting to such un-Godly means. That certainly was one of the down falls in Saul's life. When we fail to pray to God we are handi-capped spiritually.

This week we are to observe as "Week of prayer" for the boys and men all over the world. It is an answer to the Y. M. C. A.'s call for prayer for the men and boys. We want to get in the spirit of prayer and pray as we have never prayed before. We should stay in the spirit of prayer. Let us think of Christ who visited Nain, and the God who would have heard Saul's prayer at Endor if he had only offered it. He is waiting this week to hear our prayers. Are you offering your humble petitions to him, or are you letting the world take their place? Let us pray, pray, pray as we have never prayed before.

Somewhere right along here is the location of the Shunamite woman's home who is spoken of as being very kind to Elisha. He went right along this road to Mount Carmel to preaech. This Shunammite woman saiad to her husband, "We must be kin dto this prophet of God." So they built him a little chamber on the side of their house, and even the furniture of it is described in the Bible. As a result of her love for God and care for one of his servants she had a son who worked in the fields and had a sun stroke one day and died. She rode a donkey to the place where Elisha was preaching and begged him to come and pray God to restore her son back to life.

We are now in sight of Mount Carmel. I confess that we have a very serious feeling. We come to a rather filthy, as we would say, swarms of flies gather around you on every side and above your head. I don't know whether they are what we call green flies or not, but I do know that that place is a filthy one and the sun is burning hot, and the atmosphere is close. This neighborhood or village is called Gennin, and is believed to be the place where Christ cleansed ten lepers. You know that leprosy is a type of sin. He cleansed ten, but only one returned to give him thanks, the nine forgot it. When Jesus cleanses us from our gulit and sin will we forget to thank him? The one who came back to praise him and thank him for the blessing was a Samaritan.

We are compelled to think of Samaria. It was in Samaria that Elijah and Elisha were open faced in opposition with sin. The location of a great contest for the worship of the one true God is on one of the hills of Samaria which we have been gazing upon. Once as Jesus and his disciples were going through Samaria some of the people threatened to kill Christ anad when the disciples wanted to destroy them Jesus saiad, "I came not to destroy men's lives, but to save them."

Jacob's well was the meeting place for the poor Samaritan woman to find salvation in Christ, not far from the neighborhood and village of Sychar. She left Christ with her sins at his feet, her worldly possessions, and became one of the greateste missionaries among the Samaritans. She went back to the village and said to the Samaritans, "Come see a man who told me all things which I ever did. Is not this the Christ?"

No doubt the Samaritan of the good Samaritan parable was led to Christ under the influence of this woman. Remember that in this parable Christ teaches us in the example of the Good Samaritan who is our neighbor in that he who needs my help is my neighbor whereever he is, whoever he is, and whatever he has done. The man who needs our help is our neighbor.

When pigs are born without hair and calves and lambs have goiters, it is a sure sign that the feeds available are lacking in iodine and the best way to prevent heavy losses is to feed potassium iodine.

Every pretty girl may thik that she has the rest of the world sitting up and taking notice, but she must remember that it takes more than looks to get far.

My Idea of An Ideal Home

The home is a type of heaven. The home is the most sacred spot on earth, for this was where the breath of life was given.

The home should be neat and in good order. It should always be free from dirt and noise.

The children should be obedient, obey father and mother. Their parents should be their best chum. The children should make the home the place to meet their friends, "Not the street Corner."

The ideal home should provide enough social interest and amusement to hold the family together. Each member of the family should have his part of the work to do, and should do it well.

The mother should teach the proper training for the human souls. In the ideal home the father plays his part, for he is a standby from the start.

From this ideal home will come a boy. He will put his plans into operation. There also comes the ideal girl, who goes forth to bless the world.

First of all, love must abide in a happy and successful home. Each member having respect for each other.

There must also be cooperation between father, mother and children. Religion has a very important place.

The home is the first community we know. The home is the place for the children to gain moral ideals that they will carry all through life. Their first lessons in respect, loyalty, obedience, self-restraint, and charity are gained in the home. These things make their character, and has a great effect upon the community in which they live.

Economy is practiced too. One or more members earn the means of living, for all and each member feels the responsibility for the success of the rest.

In this home there is entertainment for each member. Practically all their recreation is enjoyed there.

The home is located ten miles from town. It isn't an expensive home, but very attractive. It is attractive both on the outside and inside.

It is sanitary also. It is equipped with the necessary conveniences.

Well, what became of the stock that you thought about buying?

Every politician thinks he is a statesman just after being re-elected.

Birds infected with white diarrhea should be isolated.

Clean ground is the most important item is raising chickens successfully.

All broken or dead pecan twigs, and all mummied nuts, husks, or leaves should be knocked off of the trees, and completely turned under or burned.

At present fertilizer prices an acre of leaves and straw contains several dollars worth of plant food. The nitrogen and humus are lost when fire burns over the forest.

A 100-acre tract of woodland that is today bringing in an income warranting a valuation of $2,000, can be doubled in value by protection from fire and better practices of cutting.

What Price LAZY APPETITE

"Dear, are you not glad you followed my suggestion when I urged you to try S.S.S. for your lost appetite?"

HAVE you an indifference or loathing for food, or do you really enjoy mealtime?

Fads and fancies come and go. We must be reasonable. You can't afford to wreck your body by "killing" an appetite given you by Nature to nourish your body.

You must really enjoy your meals and assimilate them to restore the waste of the body. Don't expect a strong, sturdy body and a keen mind to carry on if you do not enjoy your food. It just can't be done. Friends, happiness and business success may depend on a keen appetite.

Many thousands have turned to S.S.S. when the appetite signaled danger. It is a time-tested remedy . . . purely vegetable. Easy to assimilate. Pleasant to take. It will do much to restore the natural appetite. It will not act instantly, but, be assured, when taken according to directions, it will usually bring back your desire to eat and enjoy your food. This you well know is the basic step for health. Simply reason it out for yourself and you will agree that it is the practical way.

And remember, S.S.S. will help you get your blood-cells back up to normal. Then that sluggish, let-down feeling and skin troubles will disappear. You should sleep soundly. Firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again. At all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

ALABAMA WOMEN WIN IN CANNING CONTEST

Tuskegee, Ala., Nov. 25.—Evident- good fruit as the women of any other state. This statement is substantiated by the fact that Macon County women won $390 in prizes in a canning contest sponsored by the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. This is announced by Mrs. Lida Jones, who assisted the women in preparing entries.

They competed against 40;000 women from all sections of the United States. They won $100 for entering the third largest number of jars of any county in the nation. Mrs. Dudley Brooks, Creek Stand Club, won $250 as first prize on individual jar. Four other women won prizes on individual jar.

NEWS IN BRIEF

One-third of the total loss from fire in the United States, exclusive of forest fires, occurs on farms and in rural communities, according to an estimate by the National Fire Protection Association. Loss from fire in this country in 1928 exceeded $450,000,000. Of this, the estimate says, $150,000,000 occurred in rural communities and on farms. There is also a large rural loss of life estimated to be as high as 3,500 lives a year.

Hog cholera is reported less prevalent in Alabama and the Nation this year than last, and last year losses from the disease were the lowest since the U. S. Department of Agriculture has been keeping records.

Fifteen new brooder houses and Auburn type brooders have been built in Butler County. Thirty farmers have agreed to purchase 20,000 baby chicks to be sold as broilers in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Stocks of Fayette, R. 4., near Mount Pleasant Church, have been carrying water up a long hill for many, many years. They installed a hydraulic ram, and now the water climbs the hill for them.

Three farmers of Perry County have purchased windmills to be installed in November. They will furnish themselves with running water at a low cost, says County Agent J. P. Robinson.

A "Home Orchard Chart," is being distributed by Julian Brown, extension horticulturist, Auburn, Ala. It shows how to have fresh fruit over a long period of time. County Agents will furnish farmers with copies.

GOLDEN TEXT—Honor thy father and thy mother.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing God in Our Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Pleasing God in Our Home.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living as Christians at Home.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Home: Its Helps and Hindrances.

Instead of an exposition of the printed text, as suggested by the lesson committee, it will be better to make a synthetic study of the salient points of the several reference texts proposed by the committee.

I. The Makers of the Home (Matt. 19:3-9).

The home is a divine institution its makers are the man and the woman joined together in holy wedlock according to God's primary law—one man for one woman and one woman for one man.

1. The union is so vital that God declared the man and the woman to be one flesh (Gen. 2:24).

2. Divorce was not in God's thought for man (v. 6).

It was only permitted because of sin (v. 8). Divorce has the disapproval of God and right thinking men and women.

3. Fornication the one and only ground for divorce (v. 9)

Laxness of the divorce laws causes the Christian to hang his head in shame

II. The Ideal Child (Luke 2:40-52)

Marriage has as its primary purpose the propagation of the race. Children are to be desired and expected. Christ stands as the ideal child in the home.

1. His central interest (v. 49)

"My father's business." Being conscious of His Mission He entered the temple to inquire into the meaning of the ordinances of God's house.

2. His obedience (v. 51).

Though fully conscious of His divine being and mission. He went down to Nazareth and lived a life of filial obedience.

3. His development (v. 52).

(1). Bodily—"Increased in stature." His body became strong. A strong, healthy body is the inalienable right of every child, and parents are obligated to provide food and raiment such as to preserve their health

(2) Mental—"Increased in wisdom." As a normal human being, his mental powers developed.

(3) Spiritual—"The grace of God was upon him," and he increased in favor with God and man. How beautiful is the picture of the symmetrical development of the Savior of men

III. The Place of God's Word in the Home (Deut. 6:3-9)

The home has a vital teaching function. The child develops slowly; remains in the home for a long time to give an opportunity to be taught the things of God.

1. The central truth to be taught (vv. 4, 5).

This is twofold. The unity of God (v. 4) and man's supreme obligation to God (v. 5).

2. How the truth was to be kept alive (vv. 6-9).

(1) It was to be diligently taught to the children (v. 7)

(2) It was to be talked of everywhere and under all circumstances

(3) It was to be bound upon the hand and placed as frontlets between the eyes (v. 8)

(4) It was to be written upon the posts of the houses (v. 9).

IV. The Early Training of the Child (II Tim. 1:3-5; 3:14, 15).

Timothy was taught the Scriptures from his childhood by a godly mother and grandmother. The Holy Spirit uses the Word of God in the salvation of children as well as adults.

V. Christ a Guest in the Home (Luke 24:28-32).

At the urgent invitation of certain disciples, Christ tarried in their home and sat at meat with them. Christ will come into the home and bless those who sincerely invite Him

VI. Mutual Relation of the Members of the Home (Eph. 6:1-9)

Each member has certain rights and privileges which must be respected. Children are to obey and honor their parents. Parents are not to provoke their children to wrath but to bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Servants are to be obedient to their masters and to render service as unto the Lord. Masters are to show consideration to their servants, since they themselves are servants to the heavenly Master

Faith

When we are confronted by misery which needs relief, suffering which requires sympathy, folly which should be reproved, ignorance waiting for counsel, sin pleading forgiveness, the true prayer is, "Lord, increase our faith." Nothing is impossible to faith

A Daily Thought

I say to you truly, the heart of him who loves is a paradise on earth; he has God in himself, for God is love.—Lamennais.

The Union-Banner is $1.50 a year

$4.68 RETURN FOR $1.00 SPENT FOR FERTILIZER IN ALABAMA

For every dollar spent for fertilizer in Alabama, growers receive in return more than four and a half dollars in increased value of their crops grown.

This statement is based on estimates of neary 2,500 Alabama farmers who were personally interviewed regarding their experiences, opnions, practices and results from the use of commecial plant food. Their answers developed the fact that more than half of the total crop of cotton grown in Alabama in 1927 for instance was produced by fertilizer.

This means for cotton alone in Alabama an increase in value of $5.21 for each dollar for fertilizer, with similar large returns for money spent for fertilization of other crops grown in the state averaging $4.68 for all crops

The yield of cotton —50.8 per cent of the total yield — resulting from the use of commercial plant food has a money value of $58,094,000, of which $46,943,000 is returned over and above the cost of fertilizer; only $11,151,000 having been spent that year for this crop-producing commodity.

These facts, along with other valueble information regarding fertilizers and fertilizer practices in Alabama and 32 other states, based on a recent survey conducted under the supervision of the National Fertilizer Association, were brought out in a paper presented by H.R. Small, director of Soil Improvment Work of the Association, before the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy in Chicago.

Consumer Survey

Farmers all over the country — over 48,000 in 35 States—were personally visited by representatives of fertilizer companys doing business in states. This"Consumer Survey", as it is called, was made to obtain facts regarding fertilizer practices on American farms. Of the total number interviewed, 2,396 were Alabama farmers.

The information developed was utilized in connection with data made available by the United States Department of Agriculture and shows the results indicated for cotton, more than half of the total crop in Alabama produced by 348,460 tons of fertilizer, with the estimated increase in the value of the cotton crop of nearly 500 per cent for every dollar spent for commercial plant food.

For the corn crop in Alabama, 15 per cent of the total crop was produced by fertilizer, the added value produced in this manner being $5,476,000. Total tonnage of fertilizer used on corn in Alabama in 1927 was 86,990 tons, bought by farmers at an estimated total cost of $2,610,000, and resulting in an increase in the value of the crop of $2.10 for every dollar spent for fertilizer.

The increase in value of the Irish potato crop in Alabama for each dollar spent for fertilizer being estimated at $3.92. The percentage of the total potato crop produced by plant food is given at 65.2, an unusually heavy return, worth $2,165,000 from the 15,770 tons of fertilizer used on tobacco at a cost of $552,000 to the Alabama potato growers.

Farmers estimated that 60.2 per cent of the sweet potato crop of Alabama was produced by fertilizer. This increase being worth $3,588,000 from 11,000 tons of fertilizer costing $385,000. This gives the enormous return of $9.32 for each dollar spent for fertilizer for sweet potatoes.

For other crops Alabama farmers estimated the added value at $494,000, an increase of $2.30 in the average value of the crops for each dollar spent for fertilizer. For other crops than cotton, corn, Irish and sweet potatoes, 6,700 tons of fertilizer were used, costing $215,000.

Taking all crops considered, it was found that the percentage of the total crop produced by fertilizer in Alabama was 40.8, with an added value of $69,817,000 from the use of 468,920 tons costing $14,913,000 and returning $4.68 for each dollar spent for fertilizer.

Farmers' Own Estimates Used

The foregoing figures and conclusions are based on Alabama farmers' own estimates of the increase in yield obtained by the use of fertilizer, the percentages of acreages fertilized, the value of crops as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture, the approximate quantities of fertilizers used on certain crops, an estimate of the average price paid by farmers for fertilizer on cotton as shown by figures of the United States Department of Agriculture, and an estimate made by the National Fertilizer Association on the average price paid for fertilizer used on other crops.

The farmers' estimates of increased obtained by the use of fertilizer are the most comprehensive estimates of this kind ever obtained, and it therefore seems worthwhile to employ them to determine approximately the returns that the farmers obtained from the use of fertilizer. The 1,946 cotton farmers interviewed in Alabama estimated their average yield of cotton without fertilizer at 112 pounds of lint per acre and with fertilizer at 247. For corn, the 1,078 Alabama farmers questioned estimated the yield without fertilizer at 11.8 bushels per acre, with fertilizer 23.6. For Irish potatoes, 27 growers estimated 20.4 bushels as the yield without fertilizer, and 81.7 with fertilizer; sweet potatoes, 12 farmers estimates were, without fertilizr 51 bushels, with fertilizer 142.

And it is from these estimates, made by the farmers of Alabama themselves, that the conclusion is reached that the returns from the use of fertilizer in that state reach into the million of dollars.

ALABAMA CLUBSTERS TRAVEL TO CHICAGO

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 25.—Thirteen prize winning members of Alabama's 4-H clubs will attend the eighth national boys and girls 4-H Club Congress which is to be held in Chicago November 29 to December 6. Eight of them are boys and five are girls. They were give the trips as a reward for achievement in their undertakings. While there they will meet with 1,000 other boys and girls who have taken part in various phases of the work in agriculture and home economics carried on under the direction of men and women agents.

The girls are Belle Lanier, Elmore County; Lossie Stanford, Jefferson; Margaret Thomas, Coosa; Thea Gamble, Lee; and Eloise James, Tuscaloosa. Boys to go are Collis Williams and James Phillips, Bullock; Eugene Blackwell, Conecuh; Charles Miller, Etowah; Odie Holden, Franklin; and Jim Ford, Franklin. Two others are to go but they have not been selected.

Merchants who advertise should take some interest in what they advertise and how. The reason why advertising doesn't pay is usually because it isn't advertising.

It takes a long, long time for a man to save enough to buy a block of stock but when the Wall Street boys shake the bushes it doesn't take him long to tumble to the ground.

The wife who wonders why hubby isn't exactly like he was before they were married probably has a husband who wonders why two don't live as cheap as one.

THORSBY SECTION

S. E. NORTON, Manager

If any are disappointed on account of having a matter for this issue of the Union-Banner which was not received and published it is because the publishers called for their copy to reach them not later than Monday night of this week, on account of Thanksgiving being on Thursday, their regular publication day.

Rev. and Mrs. Each had as their guests during the conference, Mrs. M. B. Hart, the Misses Mertice and Lola Hart and Rev. W. H. Tillman, all of Crestview Florida.

Rev. and Mrs. Bakke entertained all these Florida guests at supper Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pate spent Friday in Wetumpka, with their son Hollis Pate.

The Clanton Male Quartet will sing at the Thorsby public school auditorium hursday evening, Nov. 28. Admissions will be 25 and 15 cents; half the proceeds will go for the Baptist Church fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Grey spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Georgfie Graves in Speigner.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin spent Sunday with their mother Mrs. J. K. Robinson of Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Nixon and daughter, of Deatsville, and Mrs, M. D. Walker, and Mrs. Grover Bice and children, spent Sunday with Mrs. H. L. Walker.

Mrs. C. R. Foss will entertain at dinner Thanksgiving day, all the family relatives in Thorsby and other places in Alabama.

Messrs James and Bert Bosworth returned Saturday from visiting a sick brother in Portland, Ind. They report him much improved.

All the ladies of Mrs. Reagan's division of the ladies guild of Thorsby, will please meet with her Friday afternoon, bringing their articles for the bazaar.

All the ladies of Mrs. Butler's division of the guild please bring articles for the bazaar to Mrs. Norton, Friday afternoon.

The sale of articles at the bazaar will begin at one o'clock, at the town hall Saturday, instead of at two as previously announced.

Don't forget to go fishing at the town hall next Saturday afternoon. You can catch as many fish as you want for five cents each. The ladies guild will be there to bate your hook.

Mr. I. S. Gerald and sister Ruth of Birmingham were week-end visitors at the home of their mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

Mr. L. N. Thorngurgh spent several days in Plantersville the latter part of the week.

The ladies guild will serve you delicious coffee, cake and sandwiches next Saturday afternoon at the town hall. Don't forget the day, Saturday p. m. November, 3 at the twn hall on the highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Ensley visited at the home of J. O. Johnson Sunday.

Miss Pearl Carlson left for Chicago Friday night, after spending a week in Thorsby.

Miss Mary Ella Gerald spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mrs. W. S. Spiller of Moulton, Alabama was a visitor of Thorsby last week, to have a dental operation performed by Dr. Leslie, dentist of Thorsby. The operation consisted of removal of a compound follicular odontama composed of a large tumor formation with the second molar and the wisdom tooth inclosed within the tumor, and was removed by nerve block, and complete removal of the infected area and curretting the bone.

Mrs. Spiller underwent the operation nicely and returned home the following day.

The Pushmatahas and Philomathisc, the two clubs of the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute met Friday afternoon and gave very interesting programs. These clubs meet once a month in the afternoon. The Helen Keller Literary Society also meets once a month. They have open meetings to which the public is invited. Their next meeting will be on the night of December 14. It will be a Christmas program.

Prof. C. M. Willaims is expected home for Thanksgiving day.

Mr. W. H. Townsend and Mr. Ed Piper went to Birmingham Saturday on business.

Ladies of Thorsby should not forget to remember their usual Thanksgiving offerings of "good eats" for the people at the poor farm. All articles for this purpose should be left either at G. F. Harpers' store, or at Thorsby Institute before noon on Wednesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Townsend will entertain Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Lorell, at dinner Thanksgiving.

The regular union Thanksgiving services at Thorsby will be held this year at Thorsby Congregational church at 10 a. m. on Thursday Nov. 28th. People of any denomination or of no denomination who feel inclined to join others in a community Thanksgiving service are cordially invited to attend this annual get together occasion.

The Congregational State Conference, which closed Sunday at Thorsby Congregational Church was in many respects the best so far held within the state. The attendance was unusually large, upwards of forty delegates from churches throughout the state and West Florida were present, and there was a good attendance of townspeople. Seventy five were served at the dinner provided by the ladies on Saturday. Some of the speakers were notables in the Congregational denomination, and there was an air of good fellowship and brotherlines in spiritual things. Announcement was made that the merger between Congregationalists and one branch of the Christian church had been consumated. Thus strengthening the forces of both denominations for the work of the Kingdom. On Saturday night the young people had an inning and conducted. Vigorous resolutions were adopted regarding liquor traffic and peace.

er Company as indisputable evidence of the fact.

Never can I forget the occasion and the hour which marked the turning toward success of this enterprise. We had the project under option to a New York company and the negotiations had reached such a point we felt sure of a trade. However, we had reached this point so often before and then had our hopes shattered by a sudden explosion, that I had previously reached a tentative understanding with James Mitchell that in such an event he and his associates would come to our rescue. Sure enough, when the hour came to close on Feb. 1, 1912, the usual explosion happened and the New York company did not exercise its option. In all honor to that great spirit, James Mitchell, true and dependable then as he was in all his engagements, be it said that within an hour he was on the job. The guidance of the Alabama Power Company thus passed from my hands to his. He had even then associated with him Thomas W. Martin, who was in turn to receive from his hands the trust when an untimely death caused him to cease from his labors. You may imagine something of my relief and satisfaction when Mr. Mitchell, representing himself and clean, high minded English and Canadian capitalist, thus came to our rescue, enabling the great development to proceed until, in the course of time, American capital could carry it on, and it could come largely under the guidance and control of Alabamians.

Future Is Bright

My studies and investigations in early life lead me to the definite conclusion that raw material, energy and transportation were the three principal factors in all industrial progress and if they were properly coordinated in the Coosa Valley progress would be swift and far reaching. Standing here today I believe I am justified in saying this conclusion has been proved by what has been done and the bright promises of the immediate future. The Alabama Power Company speedily built up a splendid organization with which it has been an honor and a pleasure to be associated. Its able and far sighted executives, its skilled and loyal force of employees, have proceeded steadily with such development and coordination. By building their great dams they have ameliorated flood conditions and lightened the burden of the government so that it can go on and do its full part in the development of the stream to its fullest possibilities. They have raw material to be fabricated, giving employment to our people, have brought them home comforts and have thus helped provide markets for farm products.

This work has not been accomplished without opposition, even as I encountered it in my pioneer days. It seems the fate of all far-reaching innoviations, especially those dealing with the forces of nature, to encounter the hostility of men who will not catch the vision and march with progress. Sometimes the greatest obstructions are those who receive the greater part of the benefit, but it is well for mankind that they cannot have their way and that for their own and the common good they are brushed aside as the world moves on.

I am glad to say from an appreciative and grateful heart that I never met such opposition from the people of Chilton County, where I did so much preliminary work. On the contrary, they assisted me and met me with warm hospitality. While some expressed doubt as to the feasibility of the project, they were always ready to help me when possible. I see many of them before me now and I rejoice in the progress and prosperity that is being exhibited by this splendid county.

I would be unworthy of the small part Providence has allowed me to play in this great unfolding drama of flood control, of unobstructed navigation, of hydro-electric generation, if I were content in the short span of time still allowed me to stand still and revel in dreams of the past and merely invite you to share such pleasure with me. Rather would I feel and say to you:

" 'Some work of nebler note may yet be done.' The future still beckons with alluring promises and the end of man's achievements in the direction in which we are moving cannot be discerned. As its vista opens before our expectant eyes I leave with you the question of the prophet of old:

"How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?

Mr. Martin, and my associates in the Alabama Power Company, friends and citizens, one and all, I thank you."

TO MAKE DRIVE FOR RELIEF OF COUNTY'S POOR

Plan Is To Raise Funds For Entire County From Which Aid Will Be Given

The Chilton County Child Welfare Board met Wednesday, November 27th, and discussed the need and plans for a drive for funds with which to work. Mrs. Florence Adams from the State Child Welfare Department of Montgomery was here and cleared up several legal aspects of the work and talked before the Kiwanis Club.

The Child Welfare Board was the guest of the Kiwanis Club at their regular luncheon and the club voted to put on a County Chest drive. A committee of Mr. Boyd, chairman, Mr. Renfroe Mullins, Dr. Gregg, Rev. Childs and Rev. Ezell was appointed to put on the drive and work out plans with the committee from the Child Welfare Board.

The following members were present at the Board meeting: Judge L. H. Reynolds, A. P. Vinson, Supt. B. Lawrence, Miss Ruth Jones, Mrs. Irby DeRamus, Mrs. C. E. Stapp. Mr. C. C. Conway and Mrs. C. N. Parnell were absent.

Since the very cold weather, there have been many calls for clothing especially shoes and wraps. These calls come almost daily to the Child Welfare worker for children who are unable to go to school on account of insufficient clothing. If you have anything which your children have outgrown or any old style dresses that might be made over into dresses and suits for these cold little fellows, please bring them to, or notify, Mrs. C. E. Stapp at the Court House, phone 69.

THE EGG-LAYING CONTESTS

Some interesting fact brought out in last egg-laying contest at Auburn. The Alabama contest ranks equal to any other in the United States. Several National egg-laying records have been made at the Alabama contest in the last five years.

One hundred pens of ten hens each make up the contest each year.

Average Production Higher.—Total production of the 1,000 birds for 51 weeks was 197,072 eggs, or an average per hen of 197 eggs. The average production for 1928-29 was 6.6 eggs higher than for any previous year. Average production for the five years was: 1924-25, 153.2; 1925-26, 180.2; 1926-27, 173.6; 1927-28, 1904., and 1928-29, 197.

Each year the contest at Auburn has stood high in production as compared to other contests in the United States. In the past several national records have been established by hens at Auburn. For 1928-29, a black minorca pen, owned by Kildare Farm, Huntsville, Alabama, finished with what is probably the best score of any black minorca pens in contests in the United States.

How They Were Fed.—The hens received six different kinds of feed: (1) germinated oats, (2) green feed, consisting of soybeans and cowpeas in the summer and rape in the winter, (3) laying mash, (4) scratch grain, and (5) wet mash. Part of the time (6) cod liver oil was used.

Feeds mixed by the Auburn Experiment Station formula, which are being distributed by the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, were used. This is the same kind of feed which poultrymen throughout the state are using.

A schedule of a day's activities in the contest yards, as given out by Mr. Baily, is as follows:

6:30 a. m.—Germinated oats fed.
9 to 10 a. m.—Green feed given.
1 p. m. Fresh water given.
5 p. m.—Heavy feed of scratch grain given.
4:30 p. m.—Wet mash fed. To mix this, 24 pounds of semi-solid buttermilk and 32 pounds of Farm Bureau laying mash were used. This amount was fed for the netire contest.

Laying mash (dry) was kept before the hens all the time. Fresh mash was put out every three days, or as often as needed.

Records kept by Mr. Bailey shows that this method of feeding produced eggs at an average cost per dozen of 14.45 cents for the first 11 months of the contest. Records for the last mntho have nt been complied.

1 KILLED 2 INJURED IN HIGHWAY WRECK

Fatal Accident Happened North of Jemison Last Tuesday Afternoon

In an automobile wreck near Jemison Tuesday afternoon of last week, November 26th, J. T. Adams, a merchant of Midway, Bullock County, was instantly killed. Two other occupants of the car—Dr. J. W. Thamason and M. J. Hollingsworth of the same address, were slightly injured and were carried to the Central Alabama Hospital. Martin brought the body of Adams to his undertaking parlors and prepared it for burial. The body was shipped back to Midway Tuesday afternoon.

The wreck was caused when the car in which the three men were riding collided with a Ford coupe driven by Jim Graham of Montgomery. It is reporten that the two men in the Ford coupe were drinking.

There Were Big Taters Here Fifteen Years Ago

But They Were Not Quite As Large As The 1929 Models

The Union-Banner has received a letter from Mr. I. M. Gibbons, of Eldorado, Arkansas, in which he says:

"I am attaching a clipping from today's issue of The Eldorado Daily news, column "From other days."

The clipping referred to is as follows:

"In reply to a notice we gave Mr. Barkley on his large potatoes a few weeks ago, we received from Mr. Foshee of Clanton, Ala., a clipping from the Clanton Press in which is the following: 'Perhaps the largest sweet potatoes ever grown in Chilton County were exhibited by Mr. Jodie Lansford, of Cooper, eleven potatoes, 63 pounds, the largest one weighing twelve pounds.' Mr. Foshee added, 'You ain't got no taters, Jodie sho' been got taters.' "

Continuing, the letter of Mr. Gibbons says "Chilton County being the home of my birth and childhood days the article was of unusual interest to me, and no doubt would be material for a news article for your publication and of interest to your subscribers who are familiar with the incident quoted.

"My people were life long subscribers to The Banner and The Union when they were separate publications, and I well remember the time when we depended on them for our whole supply of reading and world events."

The clipping quoted above was taken from the Eldorado News, relating events of fifteen years ago. It seems that a Mr. Barkley received special attention for his potatoes, whereupon a Mr. Foshee of Clanton sent a copy of The Clanton Press to the Arkansas paper, telling of the big taters grown by Jodie Lansford.

Expression of Thanks From Capt. Lay

To honorable L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate, Board of County Commissioners and citizens of Chilton County, Alabama.

Gentlemen:

I can find no adequate words to express to you my appreciation of your more than gracious act in presenting me with a loving cup, expressive of your sentiments of esteem on the occasion of the dedication of the Lay Dam.

Th entire ceremony was of such a character that I shall never forget the honors that were so generously bestowed, nor lose from memory the range of emotions through which these signal tributes carried me. But deeply moving as they all were, it remained for Chilton County to cap the climax by a beautiful gesture which, I assure you was quite overwhelming.

I have long entertained sentiments of deepest friendship for your County, which has never failed to express its welcome in terms of the most generous hospitality. If my long labors in your midst have but repaid this only in part, as your charming token assures me that they have, then I shall feel far more content to leave my gratitude expressed to you in these simple words, thanks.

It shall be my purpose to visit your county more often in the future than I have in the past and shake the hands of my Chilton County friends.

With deepest appreciation and affection, I am,

Most sincerly yours,

W. P. Lay.

J. Toy Williams Writes Letter From Shanghai, China

By your kind permission I shall be glad to say a few words to the churches back home. Not so many days ago the Baptist churches of the county were sending delegates to the Chilton County and Unity Associations. Perhaps they would be interested in having a word about my attending a Baptist Association out here.

Last week I went to attend the Chinkiang Baptist Association. The place is about 170 miles from Shanghai. It so happens that there is a railroad in that direction and I went on the train. The train has first, second, and third class cars. I went second class. The second class does not cost quite as much as the train at home. The second class cost about half as much as first. I went up and back for about $3.60. I do not like to ride on Chinese trains. They keep the cars just clouded with smoke from cheap cigarettes all the time and there is no escape from it.

The association is a small one, only about fifteen churches represented, but the brethren took part in it enthusiastically. It was interesting to see them work. A Chinese brother was moderator. Questions would come up for discussion and sometimes they would get things mixed up a little and hardly see the way out of it. Then they would turn to the missionary for help. He nearly always had something ready for them. The members of the Chinese churches are developing an are now doing a great many things for themselves, but in their public meetings they seem to like to have a few missionaries around to help out when needed. I went up particularly to speak on the Sunday School and the importance of teacher training. If you people could see these groups of redeemed men and women witnessing for the Master among their own people, you would be glad you have had a part in sending the Gospel to them.

As I looked out the train window at the farms along the way, I thought how different are the scenes from what you people see when you go along the road. People seemed to be busy in the fields all along the way. Some were cutting rice, some sowing wheat, some plowing with a one handled plow getting the land ready to sow, others breaking up the clods in the plowed ground with a hoe, some harvesting buckwheat and so on. The land is a sticky hard soil, it breaks up in big clods when plowed, and they go in and break these up with the hoe. The crude plow pulled by a water-buffalo lacked about ten feet getting up the end of the field and they were digging up the ends with a hoe. Many of the fields grow wheat in the winter and rice in the summer. I saw one man hauling manure out to his field in a big wheelbarrow. He was pushing and his wife had something like shafts in front and was pulling. Some people were gathering in tall grass and weeds for firewood. Nearly everything is done by hand, but the people were working away very industriously at their jobs. I thought to myself, if they had modern farm machinery they could get it done so much faster. But if they got it done so much faster, what would they do the rest of the time? There are so many people in China that if they were to use many machines, many of them would be out of work and that would mean no rice to eat. Perhaps they are better off to do their work by hand and all have work to do, than to do it by machinery and three fourths of them be without anything to do and no rice to eat. Busy people do not cause much trouble. It is the idle, whether they be rich or poor, that are always getting into trouble and causing trouble for others.

If a Chinese farmer has as much as two acres of land he can make a living on it for himself and family, and that is about all any one gets out of life. Of course, that does not take care of the newspapers, books, radio etc., for he has none of these things. Millions of the Chinese farmers do not know the war is over—(as a matter of fact it is not over in China, for they break out in a new one every few weeks.) The life of most of the people is very narrow. Just the little farm, a meager living, and no luxeries such as most of the people at home have. He takes his produce to market on his shoulder. But I must stop for this time.—J. Toy Williams.

B. E. OGLETREE DEAD

B. E. Ogletree, age 80, died Sunday at the home of his son-in-law, J. S. Ogletree, at Mitchell Dam. The body was brought to Clanton and prepared for burial by Martin, and shipped to Talladega Monday. B. E. Ogletree and family went to Talladega for the funeral.

The deceased had lived with his son-in-law for some months past.

"HIGH FLYERS" AT C. C. H. S.

"High Flyers," the popualar college farce in three acts, will be presented by the Senior Class of Chilton County High School, Thursday evening, December 5th, 1929, at 7:30 o'clock.

Dovey Doyle, as played by Mary Foshee, is an unsophisticated but intellectual country maid who leaves the farm and goes to Berkshire College.

William Arthur Willis, as the handsome athletic Jack Whitley, enters college; also becomes very interested in Dovey. They both make a desperate effort to be "high flyers," and many screamingly humorous scenes are enacted.

Come and see the outcome of these "High Flyers."

COUNTY IS PAYING OFF BOND ISSUE

$86,000 of Original $200,000 Has Been Paid Twenty Years Before Due

Up to the present time, Chilton County has paid off $86,000 of the $200,000 bond issue which falls due in 1947. The Commissioners Court determined more than a year ago to pay off and retire these bonds as fast as they could get hold of them.

Chilton County bonds are a good investment and those who have bought them are reluctant to give them up until they are due.

We feel that our county is in a very fortunate situation to be able to pay off its bonds twenty years before they are due. That is ample evidence that the business management of the county is and has been good.

We often hear folks say that a bond issue is something that will never be paid, and that it means the perpetual expenditure of money for interest. Chilton County is demonstrating that it is good business to pay off the bonds and stop the interest.

If those who are always seeking to show that Chilton County business is poorly managed by the present Republican officials will point out another county in Alabama that is in such good financial condition that it can pay off its bonds twenty years before they are due, maybe they could prove that Chilton County is not the best county in Alabama. They certainly have no support for the argument that ours is the worst in the State because we have Republican officers.

DIED AT BILLINGSLEY

Mr. W. E. Culp, at the age of 73, died at his home in Billingsley, Ala., last Sunday night at 8 o'clock. The remains were buried Monday afternoon in the Billingsley cemetery.

OLIVER E. LATHAM BURIED HERE SATURDAY

Mr. Oliver E. Latham, age 69 years, died at his home in Clanton last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, having suffered a stroke of paralysis a few days before. The remains were buried Saturday in the Clanton cemetery. Funeral services were conducted from the home by Rev. S. J. Ezell.

Mr. Latham is survived by his wife and two sons and two daughters.

Churches Asked To Help Rev. Lockhart In Going To School

Appeal Is Made By Executive Board of Chilton County Association

To pastors, clerks and S. S. Superintendents of Chilton County Baptist Association:

At the meeting of the Association in October the matter of aiding Bro. M. Lockhart to secure ministerial training was referred to the Executive Committee with the recommendations that they do what they could for him. The committee has decided to recommend that each church in the Association give a minimum of $1.00 per month for a period of six months toward his support. This can be done either in cash or its equivalent in groceries.

Brother Lockhart was born and reared in this county and is a worthy young man and we feel sure that money invested in his training will mean much to the denomination. He is now in school and is doing everything he can for himself but has a family and does not possess any property. We suggest that if you have any groceries that you wish to donate him that you leave them with the County Superintendent of Education at the courthouse and he will see to it that they are delivered to Bro. Lockhart. He will give you a receipt for anything that you may leave there for Bro. Lockhart. If you send cash we recommend that you send that to Rev. W. P. Lowery, Thorsby Ala., who is treasurer of the Chilton County Association and he will send you a receipt.

STATES TO GET MORE MONEY ON ROAD WORK

Twenty Million Dollars Coming To Southern States From Uncle Sam's Treasury

Roads in Alabama and other Southern states will get a considerable portion of the money made immediately available by the federal government to accelerate the construction of public works as a part of President Hoover's program to keep American industry and labor at prosperity levels.

Responding to the president's suggestion that building plans be speeded up to promote business and prevent unemployment Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde Monday will apportion among the 48 states and Hawaii $73,125,000 authorized by Congress as federal aid for road construction in the fiscal year 1931. The Secretary announced Sunday that there is available also a balance of $28,000,000 of federal aid funds previously apportioned, making a total of $101,125,000 with which the government is prepared to match at least an equal amount of state money for expenditure in 1930.

To be Spent at Once.

In Alabama steps have already been taken by Gov. Graves to push this state's road program in order that the federal money may be spent on Alabama roads during the coming year.

Secretary Hyde said Sunday that state highway departments will be authorized to proceed immediately with preparations for the expenditure of the new funds.

Of the $73,125,000 to be apportioned Monday Alabama will be entitled to $1,557,372, the money being allotted in proportion to area, population and mileage of post roads.

Twelve Southern States will get $20,000,000 o fthe total of the apportioned. Of these Mississippi will get $1,323,897 and Georgia will get $1,985,632. Texas will be given the largest apportionment of any State in the nation, $4,545,830.

Joint Supervision.

It is contemplated that the money to be apportioned Monday will be spent for work during the early winter where weather conditions permit, and in spring and summer thruout the country. The share of each State, together with $28,000,000 balance from funds previously apportioned will be available for expenditure under the joint supervision of state highway departments and the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

Julian Latham of Miami, Fla., and Sam Latham of Jackson, Miss., were here the past week on account of the death of their father, Mr. Oliver E. Latham.

REYNOLDS TOOK OFFICE 25 YEARS AGO

A review of the old files of The Union and Banner brings to our attention the fact that twenty-five years ago Judge L. H. Reynolds first took charge of the office of Probate Judge of Chilton County. He was the successful candidate of the fusion of Populists and Republicans in the election of November 8, 1904. Judge E. B. Deason opposed him as the Democratic candidate.

At the same time Judge Reynolds was first elected as Probate Judge, Sam W. Collins was elected as Circuit Clerk on the same ticket, and went in office at the same time Judge Reynolds did.

Judge Reynolds served the county as Probate Judge from 1904 until 1910, when he was defeated by Judge Deason. But, like Banquo's Ghost, Reynolds would not down. Again in 1916 he was up for the Probate Office, and succeeded in the election. His incumbency of that office has not been interrupted since the first of the year 1917. Unless the efforts of some of his enemies happen to turn out with more success than in the past, and Providence being willing to spare him, he will continue to serve in the Probate office five more years of his present term.

The service of Judge Reynolds in the highest office of the county has been longer than that of any other man in the history of the county. His political and official career has been one of a great many ups and downs. But most of the time he has come out on top. In all his varied political career, Judge Reynolds has been defeated but one time. In 1910 he went down in defeat because he was uncompromising in his stand for prohibition of the liquor traffic.

While it is largely recognized that the defeat of Reynolds in 1910 was a costly blow to the county, yet it will stand to his eternal commendation that personally he would not yield his position on the prohibition question for the sake of being elected to office.

It would take many volumes to adequately review the history of Chilton County during the time since Judge Reynolds first acceded to the Probate office. In passing the subject briefly, as we are forced to do here, we are glad to say that the long service of Judge Reynolds in public office has been one continuous and zealous effort on his part to conduct the business of the county in a safe, sane, sound, and sensible manner. It goes without saying that in this effort he has made a wonderful success.

Since Judge Reynolds was first elected Probate Judge, practically all our county officials have been put in office by the Republican party. While it is true that a Republican county in the South is a rare thing, yet it is also a rare thing that a county's business can be run by one political party for a quarter of a century without a single instance of corruption of office. There are not many of the Democratic counties in Alabama that can point to a record as clean as that which has been made by Chilton County's Republican officials throughout the past twenty-five years.

FRANCIS E. WARREN

The history of the republic is enriched by the life and character of Francis E. Warren, senator from Wyoming, who passed to his reward on November 24, full of years and honors. The news of his death was a shock, as it had been reported that his robust frams was shaking off the attack of bronchitis that confined him to his home. Pneumonia having developed, the ordeal was too much even for Senator Warren's stout heart.

Francis E. Warren was the last veteran of the Civil War serving in the United States Senate. He served longer in that body than any other man in the history of the nation, his service in all extending over 36 years. He reached the Senate after a war record that won him the Congressional Medal of Honor and after a civil record as mayor, member of the legislature, treasurer of Wyoming, and several terms as governor both by appointment and election.

Like one of the fathers of the republic, Senator Warren wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams. His antique virtues were in odd contrast with the manners and political morals of the latter day Senate. He kept faith in all things, and regarded a political pledge as binding as any other pledge. At this,of all times the country cannot afford to lose such a citizen in the Senate. It mourns his departure, and will cherish his memory, but must acknowledge that after his extraordinary service to the state, and with his burden of years it would have been thoughtless and selfish in his countrymen to begrudge him rest and endless sleep.—Washington Post.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

Edgar Wallace, popular British writer of mystery stories and plays, has just returned to London after several weeks stay in America, during which time he visited many of our leading cities and incidentally gathered color for more mystery stories. Just before his departure he gave out an interview in which he gave some of his impressions of the American people. In his statement Mr. Wallace does not attempt to lecture Americans on some of their reputed shortcomings but pays them a few very nice compliments, and it is hoped that his remarks have been read by a great many of our own deprecating internationalist. Mr. Wallace declared that the patience and politeness of the audiences he had addressed left him with the impression that the American public "Is the most chivalrous and kindly in the world." It is of course only fair to say that as a writer of popular stories Mr. Wallace may not have come in contact with our "Profound" liberals of the professorial type, but he undoubtedly saw a cross section of the real American public and it is nice to know that the contact pleased him.

Perhaps the most significant section of Mr. Wallace's statement however was that in which he commented on the spirit with which the general public took the stock market crash. In that connection he says:

"I think one of the most amazing revelations of my trip was the reactions I witnessed to the great Wall Street slump. It was one of the most tremendous disasters that has overtaken the finances of the people and every grade of society was hit. To it was as though some hundred million people had backed the favorite for the derby and had staked their entire worldly possessions on their favorite and had the mortification of seeing it finish last.

"I have never seen disaster faced with such courage and good humor, never heard fewer squawks. Men and women who were absolutely ruined came up smiling. To me, that was the most impressive spectacle that America had to offer. It was a test of national character that few nations could have survived."

Here is something worth thinking about. It is this element in our national character which permits us to accept our defeats with good sportsmanship which is responsible in a measure at least for our rapid rise as a nation. From the days of Valley Forge own to the present Americans have had the faculty of coming through difficulties with their faces toward the rising sun.

It is this spirit of national sportsmanship which has permitted our form of government to function so successfully. Our national political campaigns are always hard fought and the votes are usually fairly evenly divided. But in the face of all this, in the face of the acrimony and heat engendered in the campaign, the result of the election is always accepted gracefully, the losers congratulate the winners, and the entire country, no matter who is elected, buckles down to make the next four years the greatest, if possible, in American economic history.

So long as we possess these attributes of national character we will continue to succeed. And that Mr. Wallace found us polite and attentive is in a way complimentary to himself. Perhaps he came to learn as well as to dispense knowledge and, in failing to lecture us and chide us on our shortcomings, deserved more politeness and chivalry than some of the European notables who come to visit us.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

BIBLE NAMES AND THEIR MEANING

Let us study some proper nouns and names in the Bible. Really every phase and word in the English text as we read and study it as translated from the language in which it was first written carries with it a definite meaning. The first phase "In the beginning" is from the Hebrew word Berasheth. So the word Eloherin means strong, powerful, majestic, glorious creator, preserver, benefactor. All together, it means three in one, God the Father, Jesus Christ his son, and the Holy Spirit.

The borrowed Latin word testament as we have it is the Latin rendering of the Greek word Diatheka (covenant) testamentum, testament. But we must think of this all-powerful, glorious creator and preserver of our lives. Think seriously about just whom you have been dealing with all these years. Whom have I been dealing with for forty years in Birmingham? I have been dealing with this all-powerful creator and preserver of my life.

Another name by which God is called is Jehovah. The Hebrews at one time expressed it this way "Yakva." There is a difference in the message conveyed by the termination of the word used. When I say Jehovah as did those old patriarchs and prophets I am talking about a self-existing God, the God who was, who is, who is to come, and who will be for all time to come.

Think of the greatest lesson we get from Abraham's call to take his only son, Isaac and offer him as a slain sacrifice on the alter to God. After he had prepared the altar, his son looked up into his father's face wistfully and said, "Father, where is the lamb for the offering?" Abraham spoke up and said, "My son, Jehovah-Jirah," meaning to say God will provide a sacrifice. Thus he expressed himself with the meaning of the atonement: God, the Father provided Jesus Christ, the lamb who was offered for the sins of the world.

He trusted God to provide the sacrifice in the place of his son whom he required of him. He expressed the coming of the Messiah, the Lamb of God which God would provide by his atonement for the salvation of a lost world.

Take the word of Jehovah-Rahab which carries with it the meaning that the Lord will cleanse. The blood of Jesus Christ His son cleanses from all sins. Jehovah-Nisa is next and means that the Lord is my light. I can't fail him. He is going to take the lead of my life if I but trust him. The next is Jehovah-Pasach which means Jehovah is my peace. Christ says, "In me is thy peace." The next is Jehovah-Shamah which means Jehovah is present. The reason we go to God's house is because Jehovah is present.

Bethel, a hill-top town on the ancient highroad from the north to the south ten miles north of Jerusalem was once called Luz. Leally Luz was its first name. It is numbered among the oldest cities of the east. Damascus is the oldest; Hebron, next Zoan in Egypt next; and Jerusalem next and then Luz which is called Bethel. As you come to this mere village today, but a royal shrine in the days o fJacob, you see a rich, fertile country. The guide pointed out the location of the church which was erected by Helena, the mother of Constantine for the worship of the one true God. I can't see why anybody on earth can but worship the one true God. Think of his goodness in saving our souls. The blood of Jesus Christ can take a man out of his sins and lead him into heaven.

Jacob had done wrong which is no more than the rest of us have done. It was all right that he had done wrong when he became penitent. But it is a terrible thing to do wrong and stay in the wrong. I see Jasob as he leaves Hebron to go by Bethlehem and Jerusalem on his long journey back to his home. He stopped at this place called Luz. There as it was growing late he lay down to rest. In a dream he saw a ladder reaching from this place into heaven and the angels ascending and descending upon it. The next moring he arose, rubbed his eyes and said, "Surely, the Lord is in this place, and my conscience is stinging me so terribly that if I had known it would not have stopped here.' Then he called it Bethel which means house of God. Remember that God spake to him there on two memorable occasions. Then can you not wonder that he gave it this name?

Jacob did not stay in sin because his conscience hurt him. The reason some men stay in sin is because they have so grieved the spirit of God that their conscience does not sting them. Jacob had not been standing for the right and had committed a great sin thereby. He lay down there taking a stone for his pillow on that little hill where I stood while visiting in Palestine. His conscience hurt him so much to think that God would permit him to have such a wonderful heavenly vision that he arose, and said; "The Lord is in this place and it shall be called Bethale," which means this is none other than the house of God.

I am thinking of a man and his wife whose names were Zecharias and Elisabeth, Zecharias was a priest and his name carries with it the meaning of being remembered of God. Elisabeth his wife and mother of John the Baptist carries with her name a greater meaning. Eli means "My God" and beth means "My house belongs to God." An English bishop has said that her name carried with it the great meaning that her house was one of as much piety as any Hebrew home could possess.

You remember that in this home came Mary the mother of Jesus one day and sang her heart-felt thanks and praise to God in what we call the magnificant. Luke 1:46-56. She was praising God because she was to become the mother of the long-looked for Messias of prophecy. Then next your mind naturally turns to Bethlehem, beautiful Bethelhem where the Messiah, Jesus Chrust, the Saviour of the world was born.

Bethlehem means a house of bread which name no doubt was taken from the wonderful wheat and barley fields around it. It is spoken of as the city of David. Certainly it is the city where Jesus Christ, the bread of eternal life was born while studying this town we think of a man named Elimelech and his wife Naomi. They were the natives of Bethlehem and lived there until a great famine in the land at which time they went down into the land of Moab.

The name Elimelech carries with it the meaning that God was his king. He was of the tribe of Judah. Naomi means beautiful, delightful, pleasing. After her husband and two sons had died in the land of Moab she turned to her two daughter-in-laws who were Moabitish women, and said, "There is a man here from Bashan who says that Bethlehem is not stricken with this sore famine and I think I had better go down there to live among my own people. It is but that I go." But as she turned to tell them good bye Ruth said to her, "But I must go with you." Naomi insisted that she remain there in her own country but listen to Ruth's words of endearment to Naomi and the God which she worshipped. They are among the most beautiful literature of the Bible:

Intreat me not to leave thee,
Or to return from following after thee:
For wither thou goest, I will go;
And where thou lodgest, I will lodge:
Thy people shall be my people,
And thy God my God:
Where thou diest, I will die,
And there will I be buried:
The Lord do so to me, and more also,
If aught but death part thee and me.

I see Naomi as she comes near the gates of Bethlehem. Her friends run to meet her calling her by her name, Naomi. She says call me Mara which means bitter because the Lord hath dealt bitterly with me by taking my husband and two sons, and now I am come to you sad and lonely. But think what a blessing she was in her return gringing with her her daughter-in-law Ruth the loving, the ancestress of Jesus Christ.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AT THORSBY

There will be a fiddlers convention at Thorsby Public School on Saturday night, December 7. We have the promise of several of the best musicians in the county to play. There will be a good variety of music rendered, and will also, be several other numbers on the program, such as stunts, chorouses, etc. Admission 15 and 25 cents—W. T. Bean.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means in thanking the people of Thorsby for their bountiful Thanksgiving gifts to the people of the County Home, and for their Thanksgiving service in the afternoon.

This an annual event which these unfortunate people look forward to every year and one which gives them much sunshine and happiness.—Mr. and Mrs. Jadie Bean, Superintendent of County Home.

WHY WE DO IT

By MEHRAN K. THOMSON, Ph. D.

WHY WE WANT THRILLS

Why did Lindburg capture the heart of the world? Why do you ride in the roller coaster and a score of other devices designed to scramble your insides and scare you out of a year's growth? Why do you read tales of hair-raising adventures and go to see dare-devil stunts? Why do you speed a high-powered car at the risk of your own life when (better say "because") you are riding for pleasure? Why are dangerous games and sports more attractive? Why does a nation go wild over a prize fight?

Thrills!

We all want thrills. Without the thrills life is a tame affair. We live for the thrilling moments of life; we endure the rest. We judge the value of an experience largely by the amount of "kick" we get out of it. Two young fellows of wealthy and cultured families confessed in court that they committed murder for a thrill.

But why? There must be a psychological and biological basis for so widespread and fundamental a drive to action. There is.

Before the dawn of civilization our ancestors lived for many centuries under the most thrilling conditions, not knowing what moment an enemy, man or beast, might furnish excitement. To kill and to be killed were the chief occupation and pastime of every man.

We have inherited a nervous system which craves thrills because it is organized for that type of expression. The veneer of civilization with its safeguards and restrictions has increased rather than lessoned the desire for thrilling experiences.

If some pious reformer is shocked by our mad thirst for thrills, he will do well to look at himself. He would see that he is getting his quoto of thrills by his very crusade against thrills. The difference is merely in the means of expression. No man can live without thrills. For every normal human being the thrilling experience is real life.

No Monogamism.—"This license entitles you to one deer and no more."

"But I asked for a hunting license, not a marriage license."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Safety-Razor Fan.—Lou— "Are you acquainted with the 'barber of Seville?'"

Jamie—"No, my dear boy, I'm not. But, as a rule I shave myself."—Detroit News.

Sell 'em Some Bustles.—In most Eastern countries, we read, women are discarding their veils in order to be like Western women. They'l have to discard considerably more than that.—The Humorist (London).

Sporting Offer.—During a grouse runt two sportsmen were potting the birds from butts situated very close together.

Suddenly a red face showed over the top of one of the butts, and the occupant said, "Curse you, sir, you almost hit my wife just now."

"Did I?" said the man, aghast. "I'm terribly sorry—er—have a shot at mine over there."—Stevens Stone Mill.

Install A Speedometer. — Landlady—"And whats wrong now?"

Youthful lodger—"I just wanted to say that I think you are getting too much mileage out of this roller-towel."—Lough-borough Herald.

The Modern Hostess Accepts The New Viande Knife

As Radical And As Popular As New Money

It took Uncle Sam a good many years of study before the Treasury Department finally put into motion the wheels that brought about the present change in our paper money. The International Silver Company studied the various table knives for a long, long time before its officials finally concluded to inaugurate a radical idea in knives.

The hostess who desires to please, will plan for days prior to the luncheon, the dinner or even the breakfast at which she will meet her circ[illegible] She will give careful attention to the menu, the decorations, and the placing of her guests. The table will be dressed in the finest linen, sparkling crystal, and shining silver will add to its attractiveness, but no table can pride itself on the truly modern mode unless Viande is in evidence.

Viande, the new table knife, was designed after a thorough study proved that only half the blade of the ordinary knife was used for cutting purposes. To eliminate the necessity of bearing pressure on that part of the blade not used for cutting purposes, the blade was [illegible] and the handle lengthened.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

An Explanation for a Parent

IT WAS one of the hottest days in the year in the town down South where certain friends of mine live. The thermometer on the front porch registered 106 in the shade at noon. Shortly after dinner the three children of the household—Mildred, aged three; Jackie, aged five; and Anthony, who was seven, were reported missing. They were not to be found in the big yard nor about the stables.

Their mother grew uneasy. She instituted a search of the premises. Finally, when every corner and cranny had been visited without results, she bethought her that there was just one spot she had overlooked. This was the attic. It did not seem possible that any human being willingly would linger for a single moment in a place which must be incredibly hot. Nevertheless, the lady climbed the garret stairs. As she lifted the trapdoor a breath of terrific heat, like a blast from a furnace, struck her in the face. But what she saw made her forget her own discomfort.

In a corner where a gable of the tin roof came close down to the floor, and under a sort of bower of grotto formed of blankets and cover-lids taken from the store of winter bedding, sat the two younger children. Neither of them had on a stitch of clothing. Their small pink bodies glistened with perspiration. To and fro in front of their snug retreat paced the older boy, majestically. He also was nude except that on his head he wore a huge coon-skin cap which he had resurrected from the ancient trunk.

"In the name of Heaven!" exclaimed the astonished mother. "Children, what on earth are you doing in this stifling place: You'll be sunstruck."

Master Tony raised an authoritative hand to check her.

"Don't bother us, please, mother," he bade her. "We're acting a piece out of the Bible." He pointed toward his brother and sister. "That's Adam and Eve yonder."

"Well, if that's Adam and Eve, who are you, pray?"

"Me?" He seemed surprised that she had not recognized him. "Why, I'm God, walking in the garden in the cool of the day."

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS HERE TUESDAY

Mr. Sauls of the Alabama Sunday School Board and Mr. J. N. Barnett of Nashville were at Clanton Baptist Church Tuesday night for a conference with workers of the Unity and Chilton Associations. The cold weather and bad roads kept many people from coming.

Mr. Sauls outlined a plan of enlargement for the Sunday schools of the two Associations which he expects to put on next summer.

JONES-PARKER

Miss Etta B. Parker and Monroe Jones were happily married at the Court House in Clanton, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Miss Parker was the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Parker of Billingsley, she was dressed in blue flat crepe, blue hat and patent leather pumps.

The groom was the handsome son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jones of Billingsley. He was dressed in blue serge. After the wedding they returned to the bride's home and spent the night with her parents. The next morning their parents and other relatives planned a big day for them. At dinner we had all the good things imaginable to eat, and late in the afternoon we served cream and tea, also, late that afternoon the bride and groom's youngest sister and brother Miss Elsie Lee Parker and Mr. Eunice Jones motored to Mrs. J. C. Price to tell them of the surprising couple. They looked more happy than ever before, and we wish them one of the most happy lives in the world.

They have made their home with the groom's parents until later.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Parker dined with their sister Mrs. J. C. Price, Sunday.

Ginkgo Tree Unchanged Through the Centuries

The gingko has an ancient history found in the wonder book of the rocks. It has come down to the present, scientists say, for perhaps ten million years so little changed that it is difficult, if not indeed impossible, to find any essential difference between the fossil leaf impressions that were buried in the mud millions of years ago and the leaves from the living tree.

The family group of the ginkgo was at one time abundant and widely distributed, as the records of the rocks show, but it is now represented, botanists say, by a single species ginkgo biloba, so different from any other tree that it forms a group all alone. A striking feature of the tree is its variation of leaf in size and outline. The large bilobed leaves, found on the long branches, recall most clearly the ancestral forms. The leaves of the short spur-like shoots are smaller and more gently lobed, while the fruiting branches are conspicuous for clusters of small leaves entirely without lobes. On close examination all of these leaves are extended like a lady's fan, but were delicately constructed.

Male Hornbill True to Mate in Confinement

The nesting habits of the rhinoceros hornbill, a large and peculiar bird of the Malay peninsula, Borneo and Sumatra, are said to be very extraordinary. After pairing, the hornbills select a hollow tree, which the female enters. Then, with the assistance of the male, which remains outside, the female walls up the entrance with mud and other materials until only a small slit is left open, through which she can thrust her long, narrow bill. During the entire period of laying and incubating the eggs and the growth of the young to the flying age, the female remains imprisoned in the trunk. The male, free on the outside to do as he pleases, remains nevertheless faithful to his mate, returning frequently with food, which he deposits in her bill through the slot in the tree, and otherwise assiduously attends to her needs.

Bagpipes in History

That bagpipes did not originate in Scotland is revealed in an article in Time, the Newsmagazine. "The bagpipe has a place in Genesis," says Time. "In Egypt it was called the asit and was piped ceremonially. In Rome it was called tibia utricularis. Colleges were formed for its instruction; Nero piped. Invading Romans took it to Britain. Early Britons named it the chorus. Itinerant pipers carried it farther into the Highlands and Iceland. The weird Asiatic music appealed to Celtic and Gaelic imaginations and stuck with them." According to Time both Marie Antoinette and Henry VIII piped, while Schubert and Handel wrote pieces for it. King George greatly enjoys the music of his royal piper, as did Queen Victoria.

Red Hair in Disfavor

Red hair was no novelty in ancient Egypt and evidently no delight either. Some of the female mummies discovered in the Nile delta are coiffed in smartly made black wigs which fit snugly over their own natural auburn tresses.

Fair skin was much admired. The belles of antiquity used a mixture of white lead to whiten their faces and hands. Also, they used the juice of the fragrant, freshly plucked lemon as a bleach.—Clifton Harby Levy, in the New York World.

Both "Thirty-Two"

According to Jean and Jane two sixteen-year-old twins, answering questions about themselves gets rather monotonous. Recently they determined they would have a little fun out of it.

It started when a new girl at the store where they work part time asked:

"How old are both of you girls?"

Jean correctly replied: "Both of us are thirty-two!"

"Thirty-two!" the new girl exclaimed, "why you don't look as though you were more than sixteen!"

Invented Monkey-Wrench

It is supposed that the word "monkey" in monkey-wrench is a corruption of the proper name Moncke. There is a tradition that wrenches with moving jaws adjustable by a screw first were made by a London blacksmith named Charles Moncke, and that the implements originally were called Moncke wrenches. Owing to popular ignorance as to the origin of the word, it was corrupted into monkey.

Wheat Not Wild Plant

Wheat grows wild nowhere in the world. Botanists have never found a wild wheat that can be regarded as the direct progenitor of the common wheat plant. This grain has been under cultivation so long that its wild progenitor is unknown. Its cultivation antedates history and evidence found by archeologists shows that it was cultivated already in the Stone age.—Exchange.

HOOVER LAMENTS GROWTH OF CRIME SWEEPING NATION

Washington, Dec. 3—President Hoover informed Congress Tuesday the most serious issue bofore the American people today is the steady growth of lawlessness.

In his first annual message, giving an account of his stewartship in the White House for nine months and affording a peek into the future, the president reported the general state of the nation, economically, financially and from an international standpoint, is excellent.

But law enforcement, he declared "is far from satisfactory" and "these conditions must be remedied."

He reffered especially to prohibition, and as in his inaugural address last March sounded again a clarion call for law observance by all classes of society, particularly by so-called "good citizens."

"We, can no longer," he said "gloss over the unpleasant reality that he who condones or traffics with crime, who is indifferent to it and to punishment of the criminal, is himself the most effective agency for the breakdown of society. It is the most serious issue before our people."

So far as the prohibition itself is concerned, Hoover again proposed some of the remedial measures he put forward last March—the transfer of enforcement from the treasury to the Department of Justice; simplification of court procedure to speed up trials; and codification of prohibitory laws to eliminate red tape—but in the final analysis he conceded the principal remedy lies with the people themselves.

"Law" he observed, "cannot rise above its source in good citizenship—in what right-minded men most earnestly desire."

It was noted with some significance, however, that the president did not mention, let alone endorse, the Sheppard bill which would make the buyer of liquor a felon along with the seller. Nor did he recommend any greater appropriation from the treasury to reinforce the army of agents now trying to enforce the law.

The blot of lawlessness was the principal, practically the only one, which Hoover found in the pleasant picture of national conditions.

He reported business basically sound, so much so, in fact that it is safe to immediately cut federal taxes to the extent of $160,000,000, benefitting all classes.

The outlook for international peace and reduction of armament never was better, he said. He asserted agricultural conditions are vastly improved, that railways are in a sound condition, and that generally speaking the American people are better off today than they have ever been, in a material sense.

The problems we are confronted with, he said, are the problems of growth and progress.

It was a voluminous message which Hoover transmitted to the new Congress, and it contained recommendations on more than a score of problems, ranging from fiscal affairs to social service.

On the tariff, which Congress wrestled unsuccessfully with all Summer, he reiterated his desire for a tariff beneficial primarily to agriculture and to "sick industries," but he reffered again from expressing any opinion upon the original House bill with its high and general increases in industrial rates.

He quoted at some length from his message to the special session last April on the tariff, said he saw no reason to change his views as therein expressed, and only added that, "it would be most helpful if action should be taken at an early moment." He did say, however, he wanted the flexible provision maintained. The Senate has knocked out that provision in the pending bill, in defiance of his wishes.

The Deadly Blow

THE late Alf T. Ringling, of Ringling brothers, loved the lore of the circus. In his library he had countless books and pictures and documents and ancient posters all pertaining to life under the big tops. Also he knew hundreds of anecdotes, humorous and otherwise, modern and ancient, which related to some aspect or another of the business which he, all his active life, had followed. A year or two before his death he told me this one:

It was back in the days before the Ringling show had attained large proportions, when Barnum and Bailey's circus was, as its billing proclaimed, "The Greatest Show on Earth." James A. Bailey was the junior partner in the mighty enterprise, but that master showman, P. T. Barnum, being still in good health, remained in active charge.

The aggregation, with its menagerie, its three rings and its elevated stages and hippodrome track, and all, was touring the South. A day or two earlier, an acrobat who just had closed with a traveling burlesque troupe—by special request of its manager—applied for a job with the circus and was given one. His act did not give full satisfaction to the ring director, who so reported to Mr. Barnum and the latter sent for the new performer and told him that his work fell short of the desired standard.

"You recommended yourself pretty highly when you came around the other day," said Mr. Barnum. "In fact, as I recall, you told me you were the best man in your line anywhere. Now I hear that you haven't made good."

Being an artist, the young man naturally had his share of temperament.

"Is that so?" he answered with heavy sarcasm. "Well, lemme tell you sometin'. There ain't nobody can reflect on my abilities without answerin' to me. Why I'm the guy that's makin' the show what it is. If I hear any more of this sort of talk, I'll quit."

"All right, then, quit," said the famous showman.

"You said it," answered the indignant trouper. "I'm out. I've resigned. Do you know what that means, Mr Barnum?"

"I think so," said the older man. "It means you've quit."

"Think again. Do you happen to know what town this is?"

"Certainly I do—Pine Bluff."

"Now you've got it. Here, right in the middle of the season, I'm leavin' Barnum and Bailey's circus flat on its back in Pine Bluff, Arkansas."

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

CO-OP COTTON MARKETING TO BE DISCUSSED

Alabama will be well represented at a meeting of representatives of the state cooperative growers association and members of the Federal Farm Board in Memphis, Tenn. Dec. 10 and 11th, says Allen Northington, general manager, of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for the future of cooperative marketing cotton. All cotton associations which are members of the American Cotton Growers Exchange will be represented at the meeting.

Mr. Northington, Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of extensive service, Auburn, the directors of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, and others are making plans to attend.

The Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association continues to receive large quantities of cotton. To date the association has received over 75,000 bales, and cotton is still coming from all sections of the state. Farmers who place their cotton in the annual pool can draw up to 15.64 cents per pound middling white 7-8 inch basis, and other grades in proportion to their value. Most of the cotton coming to the association is placed in this pool.

Growers who placed their cotton in the special pool before the Federal Farm Board made it possible for the association to advance 15.64 cents middling basis have been given the priviledge of transferring the cotton to the annual pool. All that is necessary is to notify the association advising the change, and requesting additional advance.

The 15.64 cents per pound is now available. If farmers desire that the check be sent all that is necessary is to write the association and if the cotton has been graded the money will be sent. If it has not been graded the money will be sent just as soon as it is graded.

Due to the unusually bad, rainy, cloudy, dark days it has been impossible for the association to grade the cotton as fast as it was pooled. In fact there was only about one week in November during which cotton could be graded. In the face of all this the graders will catch up within two weeks if we have fair weather, suitable for grading cotton.

Mr. Northington advises all cotton farmers to pool their cotton and give the government an opportunity to help the cotton producers.

SOUTHERN AIR PORT ADVISORY COMPANY

Ever since the prehistoric man made his first cart and found it necessary to widen his foot paths into roads, the realization of the great benefits, derived from the development of transportation has been a great problem.

Now that aviation has developed into one of the best and fastest means of transportation in commercial and industrial life, every community should, by developing a suitable airport grasp the opportunity of aiding aviation and also aid their own commercial standing.

In order to plan, design and manage an air port, one must be thoroughly familiar with the problems confronting these three subjects:

We have obtained the approval of the Department of Commerce to visit your city and give any information in regards to planning, designing, and managing a proposed airport.

We are backing our knowledge on these subjects with several years experience in the U. S. Air Corps and Commercial Aviation and in exchange for a reasonable fee, we hope to visit your city in the near future and select for you a suitable airport whereby your community would soon through the present development of aviation, make for itself a place in this fast growing means of transportation.

GROWS THIRTY-ONE FALL VEGETABLES

What may be a record for variety of vegetables in a fall garden has been established by Mrs. Vera Boyd Dugger, farm woman of Marion County. Being a strong believer in all-the-year-round gardens, Mrs. Dugger planted 31 vegetables.

They are beans, English peas, beats, carrots, onions, eggplant, salsify, rutabegas, turnips, cauliflower, chard, endive, Chinese cabbage, collards, asparagus, crowders, tomatoes, kohlrabi, lima beans, spinach, radishes, brussels sprouts, lettuce, Irish potatoes, artichokes, parsnips, pepper, leek, kale, cabbage, and mustard.

Miss Ella Hamilton, Marion County home demonstration agent, reports that many other farm women in the county grow a wide variety of vegetables in fall and winter gardens.

EIGHT MILLION FORM FERTILIZER RESEARCH

By the application of cotton fertilizer knowledge gained by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Alabama farmers are enriched annually to the extent of $8,000,000. This statement is based on a conservative estimate by Pro. M. J. Funchess, director of the station.

From a summary of the results of local fertilizer experiments conducted by this station at more than 200 places, a fertilizer program for cotton was developed. It is used on more than 20 per cent of the cotton acreage of the state. Numerous demonstrations by county agents have shown that the increased profit to the farmer who follows this program is approximately $10 per acre. From this, Director Funchess figured that the annual money value accruing from this single piece of research amounts to approimately $8,000,000.

FLORENCE SCHOOL BOY WINS SAFETY ESSAY COMPETITION

Washington, D. C., Dec.2—Notifications that they have been declared state winners in the annual safety essay and safety lesson contest conducted by the highway education of Washington,D. C., are today going forward to nine Alabama school children and one teacher. The essay contest, open to children of the fifth, sixth, seventh, and eigth grades, 14 years of age and under, and the safety lesson contest, open to all elementary school teachers of the eigth and lower grades, are conducted annually in every state in the Union.

Gertie Eaton, 1028 N. Wood Avenue, Florence, a pupil of the Gilbert School of that city, wrote the best safety essay for the State of Alabama and, as first prize winner will receive a check for $15 and a gold medal. In addition, her paper will be entered in a national competition with the best essays submitted by pupils from other states for one of th ethree national prizes. The first national prize consists of a trip to Washington with all expenses paid, at which time the winner is presented with a gold watch, while second and third prizes consist of gold watches only.

Mrs. Kate Salsman Martin, a teacher of the Woodlawn Central School of Birmingham, has been awarded first state honors in the safety lesson contest. While there is no prize for this contest, Mrs Martins paper will be entered in competition with the best lessons submitted by teachers in other states. In this contest there are also three national prizes, first prize consisting of a trip to Washington with all expenses paid and a check for $500, while second and third prizes consist of checks of $300 and $200, respectively.

Two teachers of the state received honorable mention in the lesson contest. They were Miss Eleanor Jones Young, a sixth grade teacher of the Dallas Acadamy, who lives at 410 Mabry Street, Selma, Ala., and Henry G. Richards, a public school teacher who lives at 830 Prospect Street, Florence. Selection of winners in both the essay and lesson contest was made by a committee appointed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. A. F. Harman. Supervisor of Secondary Education, N. R. Baker, was chairman of this committee.

Eloise Holroyd, a pupil of the Dallas Academy, Selma, whose home address is 1229 First Avenue, Selma, was awarded second test honors in the safety essay contest. Second place carries with it a check for $10 and a silver medal.

There are seven third prize winners for Alabama, all of whom will receive prizes of $5 and bronze medals. Third prize winners for Alabama are: Mary E. Young, a pupil of the junior high school, and her sister Jennie R. Young, a fifth grade pupil of the Byrd School, Selma, both of whom live at 410 Mabry Street. Golden Dungan, Coffeeville; Allison Alford, a fifth grade pupil of the Andalusia public schools; Bertharene Jones, 1840 Lee Avenue W. E., Birmingham, attending the Robert E. Lee School of Birmingham Mary Crowe, 1412 thirteenth Avenue, N., Birmingham, attending the Martin School of that city; and Kenneth Weldon, 1505 Fourth Terrace, Birmingham, who attends the Fairview School.

The contest in which these awards are being made heve been conducted by the Highway Education Board during the past eight years and preparations for the ninth annual highway safety essay contest, to be held during the present school year, are now being made. Details of this competition are expected to be announced shortly. National winners of the first prizes in the 1927-28 contests, in which more than 600,000 pupils and approximately 100,000 teachers participated, were Brendon A. Finn, a sixth grade pupil of the Prescott Street Public School, Somerville, Mass., and Miss Amy M. Striley, a schcool teacher of Beverly Farms, Mass.

While the contests are conducted by the Highway Education Board, prizes are awarded by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Names of the winning contestants are certified to this organization by the Highway Education Board and checks and medals are distributed as soon as possible thereafter. A total of 442 checks and the same number of gold silver and bronze medals are distributed to state winners through the state, city and county school authorities cooperating in the promotion of safety.

ALABAMA'S FARMERS MAKE BIGGER CROPS

Auburn, Ala., Dec.2—An official estimate that Alabama produced more feed crops, corn and hay, in 1929 than in 1928 reveals a trend towards soundness in the State's agriculture. For years experts of the State College of Agriculture at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute have been advocating increased production of feed, because, they say more feed is necessary if Alabama is to increase the number of livestock, especially cows and sows, on its farms. That more livestock will help alleviate the agricultural condition in Alabama is generally conceded by county agents and Auburn workers.

Figures were furnished by F. W. Gist, State and Fereral statistician, and they were based upon final official yields for 1928 and estimates for 1929. The 1929 yield of corn is estimated at 40,475,000 bushels. This compares with a 1928 crop of 30,475,000 bushels. Hay increased from 489,000 to 501,000 tons, according to the setimate.

At the same time increases are shown in cotton, peanuts, sweet potatoes, sugar cane syrup, and sorghum syrup. The sweet potato crop is up from 6,510,000 to 7,810,0000 bushels, sugar cane syrup from 2,250,000 to 2,320,000 gallons, and peanuts from 117,600,00 to 120,015-000 busheis.

The November Government estimate placed the Alabama cotton crop at 1,335,000 bales against 1,090,000 bales actually made in 1928.

Irish potatoes was the only crop to show a decrease in production. The 1929 crop is estimated at 1,875,-000 bushels against 2,812,000 in 1928.

J. D. Pope, farm economist at Auburn, reasons from the figures that the 1929 cash income for Alabama's farmers will equal or exceed that of 1928, when it was $164,000-000.

Wm. J. Billingsley of Thorsby, clerk of Chilton County Baptist Association, was a visitor to Clanton Monday. He gave us for publication an appeal in behalf of Bro. M. Lockhart which is made by the Executive Committee of the Association. This appeal is printed in this issue of The Union-Banner.

STATE CO-OP SELLS OVER MILLION LBS. LEGUME SD.

To assist Alabama farmers in enriching their soils the Alabama Farm Burear Federation has this year handled 1,253,25 pounds of winter legume seed—Austrian Winter Peas and hairy vetch. The seed sold cooperatively was distributed over the State to various counties, there being allotted to Chilton County a total of 25,100 pounds.

The Alabama Farm Bureau was a pioneer in the co-operative handling of winter legume seed. The Experiment Station and Extension Service had recommended the planting of legumes, however, they had made very little headway until the Farm Bureau furnished the seed. Alabama leads all other States in planting winter legumes.—L. O. Brackeen.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

THORSBY SECTION

S. E. NORTON, Manager

Mr. Bob Davenport and Mrs. Eugene Davenport returned from Pennsylvania on Friday. They report the weather too cold for any comfort.

William Each of Montgomery spent Thanksgiving day with his parents; he also came Saturday night to attend Stunts Night at Thorsby Institute and spend Sunday with home folks.

A letter from Cecil Each, who is in Chicago, says he took Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Chauncey and Mr. and Mrs. Barnes. The ladies were graduates of Thorsby Institute, known as Misses Bertha and Beatrice Kirkland; and Bertha's husband, Mr. Chauncey, was also a former T. I. student. They had a turkey sent by the mother of the young ladies from Alabama, which no doubt gave an air of home to the party.

The following Sunday Cecil went to a Congregational church in Chicago where the Kirkland ladies with their husbands and a sister of Luther Chauncey, with her husband, six in all, were received as members of that church. It is good to that our young people as they take on the responsibilities of family life are not unmindful of the needs of their spiritual life; but are willing to "Carry On" as Christians wherever they go.

Miss Effie Nugent spent the week end with Miss Edna Raybon.

Mr. Roy Raybon, who is employed at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham, is putting in all his spare time studying radio construction, with a view to getting into that business when opportunity offers. His cousin, Dan Primm, has just finished a course and is now building radios. His father, Tom Primm of Columbus, Ala., arrived Tuesday in Thorsby to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Primm.

Thanksgiving was one beautiful day. The union services at the Congregational church were well attended. Rev. J. W. Jones preached the sermon; there was special music by the choir and a collection of more than ten dollars was taken for the starving children of China. In the afternoon Thorsby Institute boarding students and faculty filled two big wagons and with other friends in automoblies made an annual visit to Chilton County Poor Farm, where Rev. Each made a short address and the young folks sang hymns.

Thorsby Town Hall was turned into a veritable bower of greens and flowers last Saturday afternoon. The occasion was the Ladies Guild bazaar. Many beautiful and useful articles attested the interest in and efficiency of Thorsby Guild ladies and their many friends in this annual sale of fancy goods and refreshments. The ladies report cash receipts for the afternoon sales $66.94, and wish to express their thanks to all who rendered assistance. There were quite a number of desirable articles left unsold. These will be on display at the home of Mrs. C. E. Lucas during Thursday afternoon of this week at the Congregational Ladies Aid Social which meets that day with Mrs. Lucas. Opportunity will thus be given for purchase of such articles as may be wanted by those present, and especially some who were not able to visit the bazaar on last Saturday.

The Christian Endeavor Society met last Sunday evening at the usual hour. It was a missionary meeting, and the topic for discussion was Japan. Evie Lee Rowe was leader. In response to the roll call several intresting questions were answered on Japan. A girl dressed as a Japanese told of the schools of Japan. (After Endeavor interesting Stereopticon pictures of Japan were shown by Rev. Joseph Each.)

On last Saturday night the Masons and Eastern Stars served a banquet at Masonic Hall, and tables were beautifully decorated for the occasion. Plates were served to 75; special music was furnished by Dr. Leslie and daughters and Miss Clara Vines.

The P.-T. A. will meet with Mrs. Wilder Friday afternoon, December 6th. A program will be given. We should be glad to have everybody come who is interested.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pate were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice Thanksgiving.

Mrs. H. L. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pate and H. L. Collins spent Friday in Montgomery shopping.

Mesdames Grover Bice, H. L. Walker and Lee Pate spent Monday in Birmingham shopping.

Last Saturday night the annual stunt night by the various classes of Thorsby Institute took place. In spite of the cold weather the auditorium was well filled. All the stunts were very much enjoyed, but the decision of the judges was in favor of the Seniors.

On December 14th the Christmas program of the Helen Keller Literary Society will be given. The Christmas program will consist of a Christmas play and special Christmas music. Everyone is invited. The usual admission of ten cents will be charged.

On December 10th the try-out for the Declamatory Contest will take place. The contest will be held on February 22. Miss Mary Ella Gerald will drill the contestants for the contest.

Stunt night was presented last Saturday night at Thorsby Institute, and each stunt was greatly enjoyed by the audience, many of them provoking considerable laughter. The Freshman stunt, consisting of "The musical Scale or Human Xylophone," "Hot Dog Machine," and the "Sympathetic Milk Machine," were given under the instruction of Miss Mary Ella Gerald.

The Sophomores with Mr. H. V. Sutlive, teacher, presented the "Kitchen Band," which was very nicely carried out. They also presented "Cinderilla up to Date," "The Fire Engine," and "Thorsby Institute Exercises." These exercises have to be seen to be appreciated.

The Juniors under Mr. Maddox, put on "The Wedding of the Painted Doll," in which Byron excelled as an actor. They also presented the "Five-Forty Train."

The Seniors with Miss Stoddard as their teacher gave "The Goos," "A Song of the Seniors," and "When the "Camp went Out."

The judges decided in favor of the Seniors as putting on the best stunt, but it can be well said that all the stunts were cleverly performed.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade, Mr. E. F. Meade and Mrs. Ollie Tagg motored to Selma Thanksgiving and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barrett's family.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg spent Thanksgiving day in Wylam with their daughter, Mrs. W. L. Morgan.

Miss Agnes Gerald of Guntersville spent Thanksgiving's week end at her home in Thorsby.

Mr. C. M. Williams, who is teaching in Guntersville High School spent Thanksgiving in Thorsby with his family.

Mrs. John Johnson and son, Albert of Ensley were visitors here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Thompson of Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Thornburgh.

Mr. Sumner Gerald of Birmingham spent Friday and Saturday with his mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

Mr. E. Steiner had dinner with Robert Primm's family on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Villadsen and baby of Tuscaloosa were visitors with relatives in Thorsby over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Bentley entertained Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Villadsen and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith for dinner on Thanksgiving day.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith were guests at the home of Mr. J. L. Vines last Sunday.

Mr. T. L. Robinson and family spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robinson in Thorsby.

Rev. W. P. Lowery, while returning home last week, driving over frozen roads, met with an accident which is confining him to the house for several days.

The Congregational Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Chas. Lucas this week Thursday.

Mrs. T. W. Robinson had as her guests for the Thanksgiving holidays Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Villadsen of Tuscaloosa and L. O. Whitley of Birmingham.

Miss Jennye Robinson returned from Nashville, Tennessee last week and attended the Alabama-Georgia football game in Birmingham Thursday.

ALABAMA MUTES TRIM TENNESSEE MUTES 15-0

Alabama Line Play Holds Margin of Victory Over Mountaineers

The Alabama School for the Deaf defeated the Tennessee Mutes football team on Saturday, November 16, by the score of 15 to 0. The game had only nine minutes to go when the first score was made. The contest was staged in a sea of mud, and when the game was over both teams were so muddy that one uniform could hardly be distinguished from the other, although the Alabama aggregation wore crimson jerseys, and Tennessee sported the white and blue.

Alabama outplayed Tennesse thruout the game, and the half-way whistle cheated them out of a touchdown as they were on Tennessee's 4-yard line at this time and going strong.

Two blocked punts and a partially blocked punt did the work that gave Alabama her markers. With only nine minutes of the game to go, and the score 0-0, Alabama backed Tennessee against her own goal line, but the mountaineers stiffened and held, taking the oval on the 5-yard line. On the first play an attempt was made to punt, but the crimson-clad Alabama line, which had been charging hard all afternoon, would not be denied, and broke through to block the punt, the ball being downed outside the end zone, giving Alabama a 2-0 advantage. Tennessee kicked from the 20-yard line, and Alabama brought it back for some distance, finally kicking out of bounds on the Tennessee 3-yard line. Again Tennessee attempted to punt, the kicker far back in the end zone but the Alabama wrecking crew tore Tennessee to pieces again to block the punt, an Alabama man falling on this one behind the goal line for a touchdown. The extra point failed. Score, 8-0, Alabama. This time Tennesse elected to kick off to Alabama, deciding to play a purely defensive game by putting the ball in play as deep in Alabama territory as possible, and away from the Tennessee line, but Alabama crossed up the works by hoofing back to the 30-yard line on the kick-off. Here a spirited march began, but flivvered out and Alabama was held for downs just a few inches shy of a touchdown. Again attempting to punt, an Alabama player deflected the ball almost straight up, an Alabama end receiving it to race to Tennessee's 10-yard stripe. This time, after two savage plunges at the center of the line, a fleet Alabama halfback raced around his right end for the final touchdown. The extra point was added this time. Score, 15-0, Alabama. A moment later the final whistle blew.

This game was a curious one to the writer, who had never seen a game between teams of this kind before. Imagine one's impressions, who, being used to attending games where cheer sections form a great part of the spectacle, with much noise and rah-rahing throughout, going to a game that had hardly any noise either on the field or sidelines. Anyone passing within 100 yards of the park would never have known that anything was going on. A little cheering by the few of those who can talk a little, little grunts and squeals as the two squads locked in savage line plays—that's all the noise there was.

In the backfield, the two teams were about equal, Alabama having a slight edge in the punting. With the soggy, slick ball, however, hardly any passes were completed, Tennessee getting away with the only one to speak of, for about 30 yards. A good footing was out of the question and so the punting on both sides was weak.

On the line Alabama held the supperior margin to win, and Alabama's victory, as related above, is a pure line victory. When one of those huskies hits a ball carrier, he stays hit. Both teams tackled hard, but Alabama's line did not wait, but went in hard and fast to hit their man with terrific drive. Vicious tacklers, every one of them. It did us good, too, to see a Chilton County boy, Jack Jones, of Mulberry community, as he ranged back and forth backing up Alabama's line. There's a football player for you. Tall, rangy, with a world of drive, he, wth others like him, simply tore the Tennessee line to pieces just for the fun of seeing what made it operate.

Much of the tributes to Alabama's aggregation, however, should go to her coach, who has welded together a splendid machine, smooth, brainy, and almost perfect in its defensive play. Their several men have been coached to stop everything that looks like it might be carrying a football, and the boys certainly follow instructions to the letter.

Tennessee brought along a bunch of fighters, all right. They didn't try to rock anyone to sleep, but the superior Alabamians simply wore them down and then trampled to victory.

ADULTS CONTRAST CHILDREN'S DISEASES

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yet, the symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose an anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly expels round and pin worms from children will do the same for adults —White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at Upchurch Drug Co. Clanton Ala.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

Appertaining to a Couple of Shipwrecks

ONE of the oldest stories in the world and deservedly, I think, one of the most popular, has to do with a shipwreck. Two hardy mariners escape from a sinking craft on an improvised raft. So far as they know, they are the only survivors of the crew. They are in perilous plight. The angry waves threaten to engulf their flimsy raft and a pair of huge triangular fins, circling in the water, give proof that at least a brace of hungry sharks are waiting for dinner to be served.

Says one:

"It looks to me like we're in the middle of a mighty bad fix. Do you know a prayer?"

His drenched companion shakes a forlorn head.

"Well, can you remember a hymn? Maybe it would help if we sang a hymn tune."

"No," confesses the second cast- "I don't know no hymns, either."

"Well," states Number One, "we certainly ought to be doing something religious. Let's pass the hat!"

I can parallel this with a small experience out of real life. A friend of mine, formerly active in politics in the South, was on his way to a settlement up in the mountains of Virginia to fill a speaking engagement. He left the railroad station at the end of the line. From this point he had to depend on horse power to get him over the knobs. He hired a native who owned a buckboard and team to carry him on the last lap of his journey.

As they rode along it developed that his guide was an itinerant Methodist preacher, and, naturally, of an exceedingly religious turn of mind. When, by questioning, he discovered that the visiting campaigner belonged to no recognized faith he was greatly shocked and said as much.

Presently they came to where they must cross a mountain stream. There had been a freshet up above somewhere and the stream was out of its banks. They were midway of the ford when a small tidal wave came rolling down on them. The rig was caught and swept down the current to catch, finally, on an upjutting bowlder in the middle of the channel. There it hung temporarily.

The struggling team snapped the harness and were swept away. White as a sheet, the native cast a rolling eye upon the raging torrent. It was a good hundred yards to either shore. He turned his haggard face to his traveling companion.

"My friend," he quoth in quavering accents, "can you pray?"

"No," stated the politician, as he prepared to go overboard, "but it so happens I can swim fairly well."

HEALTH PRESERVATION IS AIM OF RED CROSS

Society Employs Rural Public Health Nurses—Teaches First Aid and Life Saving.

A comprehensive, nation-wide program to prevent illness, and to save lives through proper nursing care and advanced methods of life saving and first aid is fostered by the American Red Cross.

The organization is the largest employer of rural public health nurses in the United States, through its Chapters. The policy of the Red Cross is to encourage its Chapters to extend the public health nursing service, where leadership in this field is not taken by some other agency in the community.

The Red Cross health and life saving campaign embraces the following: preservation of health through skilled nursing care: prevention of loss of life in accidents; prevention of illness through cleanliness in the home and knowledge of methods of home care of the sick and raising the standard of health and physical efficiency through proper nutrition.

CLANTON, ALABAMA

REV. H. G. C. HAIIOCK WRITES FROM CHINA

Editor Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala:

Christmas is coming before long when people feel as much like children as they ever do, and think as much about them, so let me tell you a bit about my kiddy "Chinks" and my work among them.

Soon after coming to China, I went with a missionary to see an idol temple. The missionary preached to the Buddhist priest. They didn't seem impressed with the message. The missionary said to me, "There is not much hope for these old priests. They are confirmed idol-worshipers." I was surprised at his remark, feeling God's Holy ened priest. Leaving the temple we had to pass through a great gatehouse. In it were four huge idol "Gate-keepers," fierce, savage, ugly, with hands upraised ready to strike any who might displease them. They did strike terror into a little child whose mother was bringing it into the temple to worship. As we were passing by the little one was screaming with fright; but the mother put the wee one's hands up and made it go through the acts of worship in spite of its terror.

Then I realized why the Chinese were confirmed idolaters. They are taught to worship idols even when babies. And I saw that our hope of winning China was not in preaching to the priests, though that must not be neglected; but was in getting the children. So, as soon as I could talk Chinese and a missionary lady suggested starting a Ragged Sunday School, for the street kiddies not far from her home. I was ready to help She asked the dairyman if we could hold it in his shed. He consented, so we began our first Ragged S.S. And crowds of little people came. How they do delight to sing 'Ya-su-ai-ngo' (Jesus loves me). Many of that cow-shed Sunday School came to love Jesus and became useful members in the church.

When I came to Shanghai, and went about preaching, children a plenty were on the strets. I remembered that Sunday School and wanted these "Yaller" people to have the same joys. I rented a room and started a Sunday School with no pupils. I stood inside and sang, "Jesus loves me." Children came to the door. I was glad and said "Come in". The kiddies ran for home as fast as their legs could carry them. They had heard that foreigners use eyes and hearts of Chinese children to make medicine for Western children. I sang again and big people came to listen. The wee ones took courage and peeped in. I talked of Jesus and his love for little and big people, and gave the kiddies cards, asked them to come again and bring their friends and I would give them all cards. Next Sunday ten came and the next 20, then 40, and soon my small room was full of "Brownies." They learned to sing and liked to sing and we literally sang the Gospel into their hearts. Now Jesus has lots of little friends in Shanghai. They do not run from me any more, but run to me shouting, "Jesus man coming," and grasping my fingers, lead me to the Sunday School.

I wish you could know my wee brownies. I am sure you would love them as I do. Every Christmas I try to give them a jolly time, friends at home sending me money for their treat. Christmas is not far away and I am already getting ready for the glad day. No Chinese kiddies will hang up their stockings and no home will have a Christmas tree. Christmas will be cold and bare for millions of kiddies, but I like to bring brightness into the lives of more than 800 of my brownies. They will delight as much in some foolish little toy as some grown-ups at home do in a motor car. When they receive the gifts their eyes sparkle and they say a sweet "Ziazia Noong" —Thank, thank you. It pays in joy of giving and who knows how many little hearts will be opened to God's big gift through these little gifts. (Enclosed for Christmas card-goddess of mercy.)

May you all have a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

—Rev. H. G. C. Hallock.

UNINTENTIONAL SUICIDE

Many people are slowly poisoning themselves just as surely as if they drank iodine every morning for breakfast. They are daily absorbing the toxins, or poisons, created by accumulated waste matter in their constipated digestive systems, Sooner or later disease will conquer their weakened bodies.

If you have dizzy spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, insomnia, no appetite, bilious attacks or pains in the back and limbs, you are probably suffering from self poisoning caused by constipation. The surest and pleasantest relief for this condition is Herbine, the vegetable cathartic which acts in the natural way. Get a bottle today from—Upchurch Drug Co., Clanton Ala.

Lesson for December 8

HELPING NEIGHBORS IN NEED

LESSON TEXT — Luke 10:25-37; James 1:26, 27; 2:14-17; Matt. 25:31-46.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being a Good Neighbor.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Being a Good Neighbor.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Be a Good Neighbor.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Modern Good Samaritan: Who Is He?

It is difficult to discover a thread of unity running through the texts selected by the lesson committee. The teacher should choose between them, making a study of the one best suited to the needs of the class. If the use of all the texts be desired, the teacher will be under the necessity of selecting the verses from each unit best suited to the needs of the class. Perhaps the nearest approach to unity of treatment of the texts in the light of the lesson subject would be the following:

I. Who Is My Neighbor? (Luke 10:29, 30).

The parable of the Good Samaritan makes clear who is a neighbor and also what it means to be a neighbor. This destitute and wounded man left on the highway by the robbers, needed a neighbor. My neighbor therefore, is the one who needs my help—whether he lives next door or on the other side of the world.

II. What Being a Neighbor Means (Luke 10:31-37).

Our primary concern is not—who is my neighbor? but whose neighbor am I? Being a neighbor is:

1. To be on the lookout for those in need of help (v. 33).

2. To have compassion on the needy (v. 33).

Human need called forth Christ's compassion. All who have His spirit will be likewise moved.

3. To give to those in need (v. 34).

This means not only to give money but also to minister to the poor.

4. To bind up wounds (v. 34).

5. To set the helpless ones on our beasts while we walk (v. 34).

6. To bring to the inn and take care of the unfortunate (v. 34).

7. Genuine love is not spasmodic but completes its service.

8. To give money (v. 35).

It costs much to be a neighbor. Love is the most expensive thing in the world. It cost God His only Son; it cost Christ His life.

III. The Test of Pure Religion (James 1:26, 27).

1. The tongue is bridled (v. 26).

This means that those who have experienced Christ will speak with discretion.

2. Sympathizing with and helping those in need (v. 27).

The widow and orphan are the symbols of helplessness and need. Those who have true pity will visit such and render necessary aid.

3. Keep unspotted from the world (v. 27).

The one who has truly experienced the life from God will separate himself from the world.

IV. Judgment of the Nations (Matt. 25:31-46).

It is difficult to see what bearing this text has upon neighborly responsibility as it is a picture of the judgment which is to take place at the end of this age.

1. The Judge (v. 31).

He is the Son of Man who died to redeem the human race. He will then be clothed with majesty and power, occupying His throne as Judge.

2. The time (v. 31).

It will take place when the Lord comes in His glory, accompanied with a retinue of glorious angels. It will take place after He has gathered the elect remnant of Israel.

3. The place (v. 31).

From Zechariah 14:1-5 we learn that it will be in or near Jerusalem. Since, according to Luke 1:31-33, Christ is to sit upon the throne of His father David, we conclude that the place and the throne will be real.

4. The people judged (vv. 32-45).

They will be the living nations upon the earth after the translation of the church (I Thess. 4:16, 17). They will be people unto whom the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached (Matt. 24:14). Those who preach this gospel will be Jews (Rev. 7 and Romans 11). They will be the brethren of the Lord in the flesh.

5. The issue of the judgment (v. 46).

(1) The sheep, Israel, shall enter upon their inheritance of the prepared kingdom.

(2) The goats, rejecters of Christ, go into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels.

A Glowing Service

There is no greater or more glowing service in the world than that of recovering from the human refuse pile those who have been thrown there by a world's bitter condemnation, and giving to them that new hope that will "turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God."

SOUTHERN FORESTRY LEADS

That the south is progressing in forestry more rapidly than any other section of the country is the opinion of practically all competent and unbiased observers, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The occasion of this statement by the Commission is the misinformation sometimes mistakenly broadcast by distant agencies, even by public bureaus.

The criticism directed by the industries and by Congress at allegedly deceptive and incorrect reports emanating from official bureaus may not be altogether unwarranted, according to the commission. Recent comments on southern forest conditions by such an agency disclosed a situation that well informed foresters regard as remarkable. The tenor of the reports originated from this source is that southern forestry is doomed unless a large part of the forest lands are put under public ownership. One statement implies that this is the only alternative to permanent land unproductiveness. The Alabama Commission of forestry however, points out that such a procedure is not the only alternative and is questionable as any alternative at all, since an extensive canvass of the country failed to reveal any successful forestry project operated by a public agency.

In the statement the surface burnings in the southern forests are referred to as wiping out all the established production, when every southern school boy knows that, given a few years start, such reproduction of most of the valuable southern species of timber trees suffers comparatively little from such fires and that mature timber is harmed still less. It is also well known that the extent of these burnings has decreased enormously in recent years, and that seedlings and saplings have sprung up over millions of acres of formerly unproductive land. Contrasting such favorable conditions with the destructive conflagations which frequently and quite recently have worked such havoc with publicly managed forests, the southern timber grower can but wonder at the conclusions of the distant observers.

All is not gold that glitters, neither is all fact that is featured, comments the commission. In the absence of any demonstration by public agencies that it pays to graw timber, the southern timber grower has proved it for himself. The defeatist doctrine that the landowner should abandon his holdings rather than pay taxes on them is met by the observation that, the cost of local and state government being what they are, what the land does not bear in the way of taxes will have to be borne by his other property. He also shrewdly notes that whenever public agencies attempt to engage in commercial enterprises, such as timber production, he has them as his competitors whose expenses and losses he himself in part must pay through increases in his tax bill.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION

There will be a fiddlers convention, candy drawing and yo-yo contest at County Line School near Lawley, Saturday night Dec. 7.

According to cable dispatches, Russian troops have stormed and burned another Chinese city. This is what the communists called waging "defensive warfare" for the benefit of the proletariat.

NOTICE OF JERSEY BULL TRANSFER

I have bought and removed to my place near Mt. Pleasant school, the jersey bull bought by Mr. Stapp for Mr. Sid Weldon west of Clanton.

Mr. Stapp thinks the bull is possibly the best bred bull in the county. I have bought the bull with the view of building up my own herd. I will serve him to a limited number of cows out side of my herd at $3.00. It will be my policy to serve this bull only when $3.00 is sent with the cow. Continued service until the cow is bred will be given but no fees will be refunded.—R. M. Foshee, Clanton, Ala., Route 4. 3tpd.

MT. PLEASANT JR. HI DEFEATS UNION GROVE

On last Wednesday evening, Nov. 27th the Mt. Pleasant basket ball team opened the season by winning a one-sided game over the Union Grove Jr. High team, at a score of 31 to 7.

Littlejohn, the rangy center for Mt. Pleasant led his team as high scorer, netting the ball for 16 points. He also displayed his ability at jumping, getting the "tip-top" over the Union Grove center practically every time.

The first half of the game ended with Mt. Pleasant leading 20 to 1. During the last half the Mt. Pleasant lads relaxed their tight defensive play and allowed the losers to add 6 points to their credit.

Smith and Chandler for Union Grove played a great game, but they were unable to cope with the heavier opposing players.

Next Friday, December, 6 Mt. Pleasant plays the fast Stanton team on the latter's court.—R. B. Johnson, Principal.

Mrs. Grady Broadhead and Mrs. Mack Wyatt were visitors to Montgomery Monday.

AN IDEAL HOME

A few days ago the Senior III Class of Isabella High School had a very interesting discussion in Democracy class.

Their subject was, "An ideal home" the class voted on the best papers in the class. They came to the conclusion that Avoleen Webb had the best paper among the girls and Eddie Owen the best among the boys.

The home is a type of heaven. The home is the most sacred spot on earth, for this was where the breath of life was given. The home should be neat and in good order. It should always be free from dirt and noise.

The children should be obedient, obey father and mother. Their parents should be their best chums. The children should make the home the place to meet their friends, "Not the street corner."

The ideal home should provide enough social interest and amusement to hold the family together. have his part of the work to do, and Each member of the family should do it well.

The mother should teach the proper training for the human souls. In the ideal home the father plays his part, for he is a standby from the start. From this ideal home will come a boy, he will put his plans into operation. There also comes the ideal girl, who goes forth to bless the world.—Eddie Owen.

First of all love must abide in a happy and successful home. Each member having respect for each other. There must also be cooperation between father, mother and children. Religion has a very important place.

The home is the first community we know. The home is the place for the children to gain moral ideals that they will carry all through life. Their first lessons in respect, loyalty, obedience, self-restraint, and charity are gained in the home. These things make their character, and has a great effect upon the community in which they live.

Economy is practiced too. One or more members earn the means of living, for all and each member feels the responsibility for the success of the rest.

In this there is entertainment for each member. Practically all their recreation is enjoyed there.

The home is located two miles from town, it isn't an expensive home, but very attractive, it is attractive both on the outside and inside. It is sanitary also. It is equipped with the necessary conveniences.—Avoleen Webb.

NEW SALEM

The singing society met at New Salem Sunday afternoon. The singing was greatly enjoyed by all who attended. It was said that the coming of Sunday brought with it the best singing that has ever been held at New Salem.

The directors were as follows: Mr. Appleton, H. H. Hays, Lorenza Sanders, Johnnie Miner, Jasper Oaks, Elijah and Arch Glasscock, Kermit Lowery, Akins Collins, Enice Traywick and others. The pianists were: Mrs. Fred Sims, Miss Jessie Dorminey and Genie Collins.

We were delighted to have some visitors from Liberty Hill and other places. We cordially invite them back again.

Let's not forget to go to Union Grove Sunday to the singing. If you can't sing, go for we need people to fill up the house as well as we need singers—Lera Bean, Secy.

Dr. Arthur Johnson returned last week from Chicago, where he spent a month in special study of medicine.

SORE THROAT? DON'T GARGLE

This Doctor's Prescription Gives Quicker' Better Releif

Don't suffer the pain and discomfort of sore throat. Use a doctor's prescription called Thoxine, guaranteed to relieve with the first swallow. Gargles and salves are too slow and if they do relieve, it is usually only temporary.

Thoxine has a double action—it relieves the soreness and goes direct to the internal cause. It contains no harmful drugs and is safe and pleasant for the whole family. There is nothing better to stop coughing due to irritated throats. Just ask for Thoxine, put up ready for use in 35s, 60c and $1.00 bottles. Money back if not relieved. Sold by Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton Alabama.

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Did You Know --- That ------

You can't believe a truthful person all the time? He could be mistaken! And a mistake is costly—sometimes.

* * * * * * * * *

Very little attention is paid to a regular howler? People expect him to howl. That's his long suit.

* * * * * * * * *

Lots of the time a howler howls to cover his own ignorance? He does his bit of howling at something or someone, when he has no idea of a way to better the object of his howling.

* * * * * * * * *

We have such things as habitual howlers? Habits are hard to break sometimes, and the worse the habit the harder it is to break.

* * * * * * * * *

You can't see good through a bad eye? If you have a good eye, most of the time you can see SOME good in almost anything. But if you look through a bad eye, you never can see any good in anything.

* * * * * * * * *

If you look for something bad, you can usually find it—enough to justify your wants, anyway? Anything will do to satisfy suspicion.

* * * * * * * * *

No human is perfect? If there were any perfect people we would have found some of them long ago, and put them in the lead of affairs.

* * * * * * * * *

Our Court of County Commissioners is made up of HUMANS? They know they make mistakes at times, but as a rule they do things up in pretty good shape.

* * * * * * * * *

If half the energy spent in "cussin' " the County Court could be put to constructive use, our road system would improve overnight?

* * * * * * * * *

A County Health Unit, as suggested from time to time, can't be expected to build roads? Some people seem to think so, though.

* * * * * * * * *

It takes gasoline to pull road machines? Gas and hot air just will not do the job. Ink and paper don't work in them, either.

* * * * * * * * *

It takes money to buy gasoline yet? The gasoline and oil companies are reputed to be quite wealthy, but they don't give it away, as some seem to think.

* * * * * * * * *

When gifts are offered, they are generally accepted? This applies to anything from offering a baby candy to offering a Court of County Commissioners 59 cars of slag, to build roads with.

* * * * * * * * *

"The hit dog always hollers?"

* * * * * * * * *

"An empty wagon makes the most noise?"

* * * * * * * * *

"When you wish to hide, you must find something larger than you are to hide behind?"

* * * * * * * * *

When more sensible people are a reality instead of a hope, Chilton County will have her quota, and the voters will have sense enough to elect them to office?

* * * * * * * * *

"Bitter medicine is always the best?" Ask a doctor.

* * * * * * * * *

More gasoline, and less gas; more slag and gravel, and less dirt; more pulling and less knocking; along with more sunshine and less rain, will put your wheels on a solid road quicker, and keep 'em there longer?

* * * * * * * * *

All gnat-gaggers and camel-swallowers will please stand at attention!

WILL ADAMS NOT GUILTY

In the report of Circuit Court proceedings a few weeks ago the Union-Banner stated that Will Adams was found guilty of carrying concealed pistol. This was an error in copy-in the court reports.

The case of Mr. Adams should have been stated "Jury and verdict of not guilty." We offer this correction with appology to all concerned.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY WILL SPEND 14 MILLION

More Than A Million Dollars To Be Spent On Rural Light Lines

69 ADDITIONAL LINES DISTANCE OF 619 MILES

Alabama Power Company will continue its program of expansion next year, following the suggestion of President Hoover, and plans to expend on developments, improvements extensions and operations the sum of fourteen million dollars, according to a statement issued today by President Thomas W. Martin.

Of this vast sum more than a million dollars will be spent on rural line extensions. Recently the company issued a statement to the effect that the 1930 rural propram calls for 69 aditional lines extending for a combined distance of 619 miles and affecting forty counties.

Included in other major expenditures is a sum sufficient to complete the Lower Tallassee development, which will add 108,000 horsepower to the company's system.

Extensions of the general system of the company which serves now all but seven counties in the State, and improvements in all phases of service including street railways, are listed as items for 1920 expenditures. No new major developments were announced.

"Anticipating a normal increase in powe consumption and having an abiding faith in both the present and the future growth of Alabama, we confidently believe that the large sum budgeted for 1930 will, as usual, be inadequate to take care of the operating and construction program for the year," stated Mr. Martin.

"Present rate cuts of over a million dollars per year in the company's revenue from domestic and comercial service ordered by the public service commission will not affect the company's immediate expansion program," continued Mr. Martin. "While these material reductions in our revenue are much greater than the company should stand at this time, we feel that our first duty is to provide the best possible service to the greatest number of people, and it was with this in view that our plans for the next year have been formulated. We hope that the changes in our rates will enable the more extensive use of electric service and thus make permanent the lower schedule of rates prescribed by the commission."

Mr. Martin is of the opinion that the Southeast, and Alabama in particular, is on the threshold of a most prosperous era.

"The power company, along with other large industrial concerns, is preparing to usher in the New Year with optimism and an unshaken faith in the South as the only 'remaining American frontier' that is destined to see a continuation of the development and prosperity which have and are attracting the attention of the nation," concluded the power executive.

HENLEY BROTHERS HERE FROM LAKELAND, FLA.

Messs. M. L. and D. S. Henley, former residents of Chilton County but for the past several years of Lakeland, Fla., came up Sunday and spent a few days with old friends and relatives near Clanton. M. L. Henley has been left his native county and State for about fifteen years, and D. S. Henley has been away for eight or ten years.

These gentlemen report that they had a fine trip up from the Land of Flowers, finding good roads most all the way. They report conditions in their State good, but possibly a little slower than usual. Fruits, berries, etc., are moving right along, they report.

CLANTON KIWANIS CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton, at its regular meeting last Thursday, elected officers for next year, as follows:

President, Dr. V. J. Gragg; Vice-President, J. Mell Martin; District Trustee, H. G. Boyd; Treasurer, J. R. Mullins.

Members of Board of Directors: E. A. Childs, S. J. Ezell, Eric Hart, J. C. Jones, W. M. Polk, Reedie Taylor, L. C. Warr.

The newly elected officers will assume their duties on the first meeting in January, 1930.

SECRETARY OF STATE NAMES ORGANIZING COMMISSION FOR INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS

Washington D. C., Dec. 9—Secretary of State Stimson today announced the appointment of Roy D. Chapin, Detroit, as chairman of the highways committee of the national automobile chamber of commerce, as president of the American Organization Commission in charge of the sixth international road congress to be held in Washington, October 6 to 13, 1930, by invitation of the United States Government. In naming Chapin, the secretary acted upon the recommendation of the members of the organizing commission.

The commission acts for the permanent international association of road congress, with headquarters in Paris, and functions under the authority of the State Department. Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads and chairman of the Highway Education Board, was named secretary-general of the commission in an earlier announcement.

Other members are: Wilbur J. Carr, assistant secrtary of state; Thomas R. Taylor, department of commerce; Robert B. Hooper, American automobile association; Henry G. Shirley, American association of state highway officials; Charles M. Upham, American road builders association; A. J. Brosseau, chamber of commerce of the United States; H. H. Rice, highway education board; and Roy D. Chapin, national automobile chamber of commerce.

Headquarters for the commission have been established in Washington where preliminary arrangements for the congress will be made by the staff. The congress is expected to bring the United States from 2,000 to 3,000 delegates, leading highway authorities of their respective countries, representing virtually every nation in the world. It is expected that sessions of the congress will be held at the offices of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Previous congresses have been held at Paris in 1908, in Brussels in 1910, and in London in1913, in Seville in 1923 and in Milan in 1926. The congress in Washington next October will mork the first meeting of the international association in the Western Hemisphere.

At the suggestion of the organizing commission, Secretry of State, Stimson has transmitted to Mr. P. L. Gavrian, Secretary-General of the permanent association in Paris, an invitation to visit the United States as guest of the American Commission to confer as to plans for the congress and arrangements for the care of the visiting delegates.

Mr. MacDonald, who recently returned to the United States from an extended tour of the South American nations following the meeting of the second Pan American Highway Congress at Rio de Janeiro, expressed the belief that each of the Latin American countries visited by the United States delegation will send delegates.

Mr. Chapin, president of the Commission, recently returned from Paris where he met with the members of the permanent international commission regarding program and plans for the forthcoming congress. He reports that the members of the commission are enthusiastic over the prospects of visiting the United States to attend the sixth congress next year.

Prof. H. G. Daniel, who is teaching at Union Grove School this year was among the visitors to Clanton last Saturday.

PREACHING AT THORSBY NEXT SUNDAY

Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the Thorsby Baptist Church, announces services at the Thorsby Public School Building for next Sunday as follows:

Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, preaching by Rev, Luther Rowe. Mr. Rowe is a former student of Thorsby Institute, and now a student at Howard College.

At seven p. m. preaching will be conducted by Herbert Vines. These are worthy young men, according to Rev. Jones, and he commends them to the support of the people of his congregation and community.

U. S. MEN ARREST 538 IN ALABAMA

Washington, Dec. 7—Federal prohibition officers arrested 66,195 persons during the fiscal year which ended last June 30 and assisted in the arrest of 11,156 more by state officers. New York was the scene of the largest number of arrests by government agents, prohibition Commissioner Doran reported today, that state having a total of 8,265. Kentucky was second with 3,964, Pennsylvania third with 3,847, New Hampshire had the smallest number, 17, and Kansas the next smallest, 31. In Alabama government operatives arrested 538 persons.

In addition 1,993 persons were arrested by state officers on information furnished by federal officers.

For Relief of the Poor and Needy

The destitute circumstances of many poor and needy people presents a very real problem to the citizenship of Chilton County. There are many unfortunate and underprivileged who are hungry, cold, and sick. These people constitute an obligation for charity upon those who are living under more favored conditions.

This question has been thought out very carefully by the Child Welfare Board of Chilton County and other citizens whom they have called into conference with them. It has been determined that a drive will be put on in the County to raise a Chest Fund of $4,000 to be administered through the Child Welfare Worker for the relief of all worthy needs as they may arise through the year 1930.

Elsewhere in this paper will be found a full statement of every phase of the program which has been adopted. On Friday afternoon of this week meetings will be held at every school in the County. Speakers will be there to explain every phase of the proposed program of raising the fund and applying it to the relief of the needy.

Every man and woman who enjoys the comforts of life in abundance owes a part of that comfort to those who are poor and needy.

We are told that we shall have the poor with us always and that he that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord. Every citizen of Chilton County is called upon to make a ready response to this appeal. It is an appeal that needs no urging. Anyone can see the needs that exist.

If Chilton County citizens will fill up the Relief Chest with $4,000 in response to this appeal, it will be the most blessed act of organized charity within the possibilities of our people.

Remember it is more blessed to give than to receive and do your part toward the relief of those of our own people who are poor, unfortunate, sick and hungry.

TO ALL IT MAY CONCERN

In conjunction with, and in supplyment to the report of the Executive Committee of the Chilton County Association relative to Brother M. Lockhart, I wish to recommend him, heartily, to the churches. As his pastor, I feel especially interested in him as well as from the standpoint of my interest in the Kingdom work.

To my mind Bro. Lockhart is a man of firm conviction and steadfastness in the Lord's work, and is worthy of our best effort to help him in school. He is a man of a family and is a hard worker and is willing to pay the price so far as his part is concerned. He is now in school at Concord, (Chilton County.) Walking a distance of two and a half miles. He has done considerable preaching about the country and and has been licensed to preach about five years.

Speaking from my experience in the ministry and in school, I am in position to say just what a man is confronted with to start to school with a family. So I am just emphasizing the necessity of doing our duty towards Bro. Lockhart in giving to his assistance, and using him in our churches. We are praying that God will use him in a great way to the saving of many souls through his efforts. Sincerely and prayerfully, G. G. Williams.

CHILTON COUNTY, LADIES ENTER NATIONAL CAN CONTEST

Much interest has been occasioned among local housewives in the announcement from Chicago of the prize winners in the National Canning Contest held recently. Among the Chilton County women who had entries in the contest were: Mrs. Lillian Moore, Verbena; Mrs. O. M. Martin, Thorsby.

The grand champion winner in the contest was Mrs. Mary Hvass of Kennan, Wis., whose entry of a quart of green peas brought $1,250.00. Mrs. Hvass was awarded first prize of $250 by the judges for the best entry in the vegetable class, and $1,000 as grand sweepstakes prize for the finest jar of food in the three classes of vegetables, fruits and meats.

The contest was sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation of Chicago.

MRS. JOE MARLOW DEAD

Mrs. Simie C. Marlow, age 74, wife of J. B. Marlow, died at the family home a mile north of Clanton Monday night. The funeral was held at the home Tuesday afternoon and interment made in the Clanton Cemetery, Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. E. A. Childs, assisted by Rev. S. J. Ezell.

The aged lady is survived by two sons and two daughters, and a host of other relatives.

PREPARING FOR CONVENTION OF SIGN CONTRACTORS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank James, of the James Sign Shop of Clanton went to Birmingham Wednesday night to attend a conference of sign contractors of Alabama, who are making arrangements for a convention of the sign contractors of the Sounth-east, to convene at the Bankhead Hotel January 14 and 15.

Mr. James states on returning from the convention that an elaborate program is being prepared. There will be a sight seeing tour of points of interest in the Birmingham District for the special benefit of the visitors from other states and cities of the Southeast. Theatre and bridge parties will be on the program for the special benefit of the ladies. Business sessions will be held at the Bankhead Hotel.

Mrs. Burnie Vest of Birmingham and Mrs Hames were designated as a committee to make all arrangements for the entertainment of the ladies.

The Birmingham branch of the Associated Sign Contractors of North Alabama was formed at the national convention in Louisville last August. The organization covers Alabama, with headquarters in Birmingham. The ames Sign Shop of Clanton is a member of the Alabama and the National associations.

In conformity with the purposes of the national organization, the members of the Alabama state division have as their objective the raising of a high standard of business conduct in the sign craft. Mr. James reports that much progress has already been made, and that the meeting in January will add further to the accomplishment of the purposes of the organization.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY TO BUILD STATION IN CLANTON

Work was started Tuesday morning by the Standard Oil Company upon the erection of a new automobile service station on the property of the company at the corner of 7th Street and Third Avenue.

According to a statement by Mr. J. P. Lawrence, local agent of the Standard Oil Company in Clanton, this will be a modern and up-to-date place, offering every convenience to the motorist.

The location of the new place is across the highway from Clanton Service Station, the Shell place, and across Third Avenue from Clanton Motors, the Ford place. It is one block south of the new filling station now being erected by T. C. McSwain for the Texas Company.

PRAISES CLANTON QUARTET

The Clanton Quartet is in receipt of the following letter from Mr. E. G. Caldwell of Pletcher, Ala:

"Please allow me to congratulate you on your program rendered last night at Billigsley. It was indeed splendid.

"Wait a minute! Al Jolson hasn't got anything on you fellows. You certainly know your 'petunias,' as well as Lowery knows his ABC's. Am sorry I have been missing all your previous engagements, but will catch some of them from now on. Yours very truly, E. G. Caldwell.

The Clanton Quartet wishes to publicly thank Mr. Caldwell for his splendid letter of commendation. Although the members feel unworthy of his words of praise, yet they thank him, because they feel that they were sent in the right spirit.

ARRESTS MADE BY CITY OFFICER LOSS ROBINSON

Night policeman, Loss Robinson, reports the arrest of five boys on the streets of Clanton last Friday night, charged with violation of the city ordinance on shooting fireworks. The cases were disposed of by the Mayor's Court with a fine of $10 and costs.

Saturday night officers Robinson and Smith arrested a boy by the name of Payne from the mill village, charged with disorderly conduct. He made bond.

Just before daylight Monday morning Robinson caught Jim Floyd stealing coal from Mack Broadhead. He was arrested and carried before Mayor's Court Monday for satisfaction of the charges.

FUND FOR RELIEF OF POOR WILL BE RAISED IN COUNTY

Drive For $4,000 Will Be Put On For One Week, December 15 to 22

MEETINGS AT EVERY SCHOOLHOUSE FRIDAY

At the meeting called November 27th of the Chilton County Child Welfare Board the possibility of a County Chest was discussed. The members of the Chilton County Welfare Board are: Judge L. H. Reynolds and A. P. Vinson from the Board of Commissioners, Supt. B. Lawrence and C. C. Conway from the Board of Education, and Mrs. C. N. Parnell, Mrs. D. I. Deramus and Miss Ruth Jones from the county at large. Rev. S. J. Ezell is an honorary member and Treasurer of the Board and Mrs. C. E. Stapp is Secretary.

The Child Welfare Board, with Mrs. Florence Adams of the State Department were guests of the Kiwanis Club on the 27th following a splendid address by Mrs. Adams, the Kiwanis Club voted to help put over a county-wide drive in interest of a fund for the destitute of our county.

A committee was appointed from the Kiwanis Club to work with a committee from the Child Welfare Board to help formulate plans for a county-wide campaign in interest of the County Chest.

At a meeting of the committee on Wednesday, December 4th the following were present: Judge L. H. Reynolds, Supt. B. Lawrence, C. E. Stapp, H. G. Boyd, Rev. S. J. Ezell, Dr. V. J. Gregg, and Mrs. C. E. Stapp. After considerable discussion of distressed conditions and general needs in the county it was definitely decided to organize and solicit funds for a County Chest. Judge L. H. Reynolds was elected Chairman of the campaign organization, Rev. E. A. Childs Vice Chairman, Mrs. C. E. Stapp, Secretary and Rev. S. J. Ezell, Treasurer. Another meeting was called for Saturday, December 7th, at 2:00 p. m. and letters were writen to representative citizens over the county requesting their presence at this meeting, the purpose of which was to set a goal and make definite plans for raising the amount set.

About twenty of these representative citizens met at the Court House Saturday afternoon, December 7th and discussed need of funds with which to do more effective and systematic work with the destitute of the county. After much discussion of ways and means of carrying on the drive, definite plans were made.

The following is a tentative outline of things done:

A goal of $4000.00 was set for the County.

A Publicity Committee composed of Mack Wyatt, J. B. Atkinson and Miss Stapp was elected.

A Campaign Committe of B. Lawrence, C. E. Stapp and Glenn Boyd was elected. This Committee is also to work out a definite program and select speakers.

It was decided that Friday afternoon, December 13th beginning at 2 o'clock be set aside in each school as an afternoon to explain this work to the children and parents and that the teachers be notified so that they may get word to all parents to be present at which time a speaker will explain the plan.

It is the plan of the committee that each school community at this meeting select its best leader or keyman or woman as chairman of the drive and one who will also work in an advisory capacity in keeping the welfare worker in touch with each community, and also one to pass on the worthiness of each individual case in his or her community. This chairman will also make suggestions to the central committee as to the needs of these people.

The purpose of the fund which we are expecting to raise, is to eleminate street begging and the constant drain on a few in every community who are liberal givers. Also through the purposed plan and organization, the social worker in the county can investigate the cases reported and recommend to the central committee just distribution of the funds.

It was also proposed at this meeting that cards be issued to the adult contributors showing the amount and that their names be published in the county papers.

A plan was formulated so that each child may become a member of the Chilton County Child Welfare League by subscribing 10c for the year. A button to be worn by each school pupil showing that he is a member of the League.

The drive will start in full swing on December 15th and continue through the 22nd.

In electricity the public has a commodity or service which can perform innumerable duties in the homes, the places where people work, where they seek amusement when in health, and the places where they seek health when they are ill. From the time we wake to the time we retire electricity can minister to many of our necessities, comforts and luxures. There is nothing else like it in the world; its adaptibility is almost infinite. And new applications are being discovered almost daily.

Every locality should require fire inspections and enforce adequate fire laws. The general public, if wise, will welcome such procedure, in the knowledge that it will result in greater security for life and for property.

The United States, in its electrical development, has been far ahead of the rest of the nations of the world. Electricity has played a major role in making us the pre-eminent industrial nation of the world.

Crime has its place in the front row of American life today. This is evidenced by the fact that gang warfare forms the basis of the plots in many current "talkies" and "movies" where not so long ago historical incidents and frontier episodes were the basis of stirring scenes around which the play revolved.

An idle mind is the devil's work shop. Most of the crimes committed are by people who are idle. A person who hasn't anything to do is often dangerous, while people who stay busy usually stay out of trouble.

Apparently we do not need more laws but we do need better records of results obtained under our present laws, better enforcement of present laws, and greater certainty of punishment under existing laws as a crime deterrent.

Tariff has an intimate relation with our prosperity and progress. It is the business of our elected officials to give us a sound schedule of rates, based on economic facts, and unaffected by jealousies or party differences.

Train the child in safety habits and carefulness will become second nature later in life. This worthwhile undertaking is deserving of public co-operation.

WHAT WAS OUR LARGEST CITY 400 YEARS AGO?

If one were to ask the next ten people he happened to meet, what was the largest settlement within the present boundareis of the United States four hundred years ago, he would probably get many and varied answers. The correct answer is given by Louis H. Warner, chairman of the Pueblo Lands Board, in an interesting article on the great Southwest in the current issue of the National Republic. The settlement was Pecos, and there are ruins in New Mexico of many other ancient settlements. Writing of Pecos, the historic, Mr. Warner says in part

"Pecos, the historic, we know was the largest settlement in the present boundaries of our country four centuries ago. All the Spanish explorers of our Southwest knew of its existence Coronado wrote of it in 1540. Onate visited it in 1598. De Vargas sought its allegience in 1693. Here one of the first French martyrs died. Today it is but a shell, former greatness gone, where once 2,000 inhabitants lived and prospered. Today not a person even remotely related to the former grantees dwells there. Bits of excavated buildings alone mark the spot.

The area originally granted the Pecos pueblo by Spain in 1689 comprised 18,643 acres. This claim was more or less recognized by Mexico. It was confirmed in its entirety by the congress in 1858 and patent issued thereon. Now the area is largely occupied by the ranch of a well known rodeo promoter. There are two good sized Mexican villages upon it; a transcontinental railway and an ocean to ocean highway cut it; a small section where the village did stand is being excavated under the direction of eminent archaeologists; parts are occupied by modern tourist ranches

"The story of the fall of this pueblo from former greatness is pathetic. It is however not unlike many others on or near the Rio Grande. Where these people came from when they settled there, history does not say. They were unquestionably ancient. They spoke the same tongue and were of the same basic stock as the occupants of Jemez Pueblo, 60 miles or more to the west. Pecos was located well to the east and on the edge of the buffalo country. It was in a constant struggle with the roving bands of Comanches, Apaches, Utes and Navahos; the ravages of sickness wore it down. The natives' grant was encroached upon, and their rights disregarded; the overland forty-niners saw no difference between a roving and a sedentary Indian, all whether peaceful or hostile seem to have been treated alike by them. The old Santa Fe trail crossed the Indian lands near the village ed the Indian lands near the village. It was used by these adventurers. Finally, in 1838 a party comprising some of the leading officials of the Jemez pueblo, long separated by mountains, rivers and people, having heard of the serious plight of Pecos, paid the few remaining survivers a visit. They induced their kinsmen to give up the struggle; to let the fire continuously burned for years in honor of Montezuma go out; to turn their backs upon the lands of their forefathers. At Jemez, they and their descendants have since remained. For many years, at stated periods, delegations returned to the old haunts but even those ceremonial visits have probably all now been discontinued.

"At Jemez, homes were provided and lands were alotted. Intermarriages followed. Of course all of that little band which left home in 1838 have since died. However, I have talked with the son of the last survivor. He told me his father died only a few years ago. Those of Pecos ancestry keep up a little organization within the greater. They secure recognization at the annual elections. I undrstand the church records show their number to be about two hundred."

THE PRESIDENT ON PEACE

There is a two-fold distinction to the Armistice Day address of President Hoover which thoughtful people here and elsewhere will be quick to comprehend. In the first place, it is a clear, sincere and straightforward expression, not of the temporary sentimentalities of a small minority, but of the abiding sentiments of the overwhelming majority of the American people.

Witness the emphatic indorsement they have given that deliverance throughout the household of the nation.

In the second place the Armistice Day address has arrested and will long hold the respectful attention of the world because it goes to other nations as the permanent program of a mighty people "who, with wisdom, love peace, but who love righteousness more than peace."

It is a prudent program proposing practical ways and means for the purpose of lofty ideals.

It calls for preparedness for defense as well as preparedness for peace.

It calls for equality with the strongest upon the seas because that is essential to our national security and must be therefore a condition precedent to any further limitation or reduction of our naval forces.

It calls for the strengthening and supporting of our foreign service "as the great arm of our government dedicated to the organization of peace."

It calls for the codification of the law of nations and for the peaceful settlement of justiciable disputes.

It pledges the United States, in effect, to strive at all times and in all places to obey the mandates of the Farewelll Address to "observe good faith and justice toward all nations," and "cultivate peace and harmony with all," and "thereby give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people always guided by an exalted and benevolence."

And in that spirit President Hoover proposes for the consideration of the world exemption of food ships from any interference in time of war. In other words, to renounce "starvation of women and children" as a weapon even of defensive warfare.

All in all, the Armistice Dal Address, coming as it does on the eve of the position of the United States, not the London conference, solidifies only in the issues to be dealt with at that conference, but in the whole field of relations.

It charts a way of life that the American people are firmly resolved to follow and offers their cooperation with all the world in the constructive tasks of peace.—Chicago Herald-Examiner.

A JUMBLE OF LAWS

Senator Joseph G. Wolber told a gathering at Montclair, N. J., that the law books of New Jersey contain 6,500,000 words, "all mixed up with repealed and superseded acts," the whole comprising a mass of veriage "equal in bulk to a library of forty volumes of fiction of average size." To this mass the legislature is adding more at the rate of 200,000 words a year.

A commission of lawyers is engaged in a revision of state laws, but the future will repeat the verbosity of the past unless some curb is set. It is the plan of the Republican Party to establish a bureau, agency or authority by which legislation can be simplified and clarified so that bills introduced shall be concise, easily interpreted and especially, easily found in the statutes as printed.

Mr. Wolber, himself a lawyer, knows as well as anyone that the terminology of the law is usually involved and verbose—to the layman often difficult of comprehension. If he is magician enough to bring about even a modification of this circumlocution and indefiniteness, and if he can induce the compilers to make it a relatively simple matter to find a law after it has been compiled, he will be more than a deserving official; he will take his place among the immortals.—Newark News.

AN INDUSTRIAL NECESSITY

Without oil, says a well-known economist, not a wheel of industry could turn.

This is not an exaggerated statement. Railroads, steamships, automobiles, factory motors, all depend on petroleum for lubrication or to furnish motive power. The separate uses to which petroleum products are tpu are innumerable. They extend from production of power and heat down through the whole industrial system, ending in preparation of drugs and cosmetics. Oil and our modern civiliation are inseparable.

The oil industry is working toward a solution of many vexing problems and is making definite headway in a conservation policy which will mean the fullest use of every cubic foot of gas and every drop of oil.

SOME RAILROAD FACTS

The railroads, since they were returned to private hands in 1920, after the two-year period of federal control, have given every effort toward reaching new standards of efficiency and economy in order that improved service might be offered the public. A few facts, recently issued, show the fruits of their labor.

In 1920, 24.5 per cent of freight locomotives and 7 per cent of freight cars were in bad order. In 1928 these figures were reduced to 16 per cent and 6 per cent respctively. Car miles traveled by freights per day increased from 25.1 to 31.3, an increase of 25 per cent. In 1928 each freight train produced each hour service equal to carrying 10,205 tons one mile—an increase of 40 per cent. Loss and damage for every loaded freight car dropped from $2.66 to 68 cents, or 74 per cent.

In 1920 car shortges were a nationl menace. In 1928 they were practically unknown. Freight cars now carry more produce, in longer trains at greater speed, on less fuel. In every phase of operation service has been improved.

We now receive the best railroad service in our history, and at a remarkably low cost, due to the progresive spirit of private railway managements.

Labor and capital really constitute a partnership. One cannot get along without the other, and as this fact is becoming better and better known, a more friendly feeling exists, and conditions generally are improved.

For every dollar of new business secured, a public utility at the present time must invest $5.50.

At the Cross-Roads of Health SSS has meant a new day to many a person

A CLEAR SKIN comes from within

Lack of appetite, loss of strength, skin eruptions, that "tired feeling" and other human ills may be due to a lack of red-cells in your blood.

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

"MY despair was so great I could have cried. The good cheer and merry happiness of others only mocked at my condition. I had begun to wonder why life could be so cruel. No appetite. No strength. Skin blemishes always embarrassed me. Aches and pains coursed through my body. I wanted to restore my health and live. What was I to do? . . . happily the day came and I found the right road to Health when a friend recommended S.S.S."

You may be one of the thousands with a low blood count—to this may be attributed "run-down" systems, skin troubles, and even more serious ailments. It is very dangerous to let the blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. © S.S.S. Co.

Churches Asked To Help Rev. Lockhart In Going To School

Appeal Is Made By Executive Board of Chilton County Association

At the meeting of the Association in October the matter of aiding Bro. M. Lockhart to secure ministerial training was referred to the Executive Committee with the recommendations that they do what they could for him. The committee has decided to recommend that each church in the Association give a minimum of $1.00 per month for a period of six months toward his support. This can be done either in cash or its equivalent in groceries.

Brother Lockhart was born and reared in this county and is a worthy young man and we feel sure that money invested in his training will mean much to the denomination. He is now in school and is doing everything he can for himself but has a family and does not possess any property. We suggest that if you have any groceries that you wish to donate him that you leave them with the County Superintendent of Education at the courthouse and he will see to it that they are delivered to Bro. Lockhart. He will give you a receipt for anything that you may leave there for Bro. Lockhart. If you send cash we recommend that you send that to Rev. W. P. Lowery, Thorsby Ala., who is treasurer of the Chilton County Association and he will send you a receipt.

It was on a Fourth Avenue car that a buxom woman was standing in the aisle hanging to a strap. In front of her sat a rather cantankerous looking man, apparently absorbed in a newspaper. The car stopped suddenly and she trod sharply on his foot.

He looked up over the top of his paper with anything but a happy expression.

"Madam," he said, "will you please get off my foot?"

"Put your foot where it belongs," she replied shortly.

"Don't tempt me, madam, don't tempt me," he countered.

A MAN IS AS OLD AS HE WORKS

Today when youth is generally given the preference in industry, the attitude of the Chevrolet Motor Company toward older men and veteran employees presents an interesting view of some of the policies which have contributed to the growth and development of the Chevrolet manufacturing organization.

Man-power, the most vital factor in industry, its selection, management and productivity, has been a chief concern of Charles F. Barth, vice president and general manufacturing manager, who at 63 heads up one of the largest factory organizations in industry.

Commenting on the status of the veteran in industry, Mr. Barth declares that "age is no barrier to employment and promotion with Chevrolet. We have drawn no age lines in our organization. If a man is physically fit and disposed to do the work in mind for him he will receive favorable consideration, regardless of his age."

In its Flint plants alone, Chevrolet is now employing 324 men over 50 years of age. Of these 131 are between the ages of 50 and 55; 98 are between the ages of 55 and 60 and 95 are more than 60 years of age.

Sentiment plays but a small part in the scheme of things, despite the company's interest in older men, Mr. Barth explains. The company is perhaps, "hardheaded" in its evaluation of their worth. We have no ribbons or buttons for our old timers. Each man is put on his own mettle and made to feel the responsibility we place in him. We appeal to and rely on the man in men. The old timer is valuable in a large sense. Older men are the stabilizing influences so vital to in dustry today. They help constitute the backbone of the organization. By their balance and poise they instill confidence in beginners and, having themselves a feeling of loyalty to the organization, they inspire it in their fellow workmen.

They have that experience that money cannot buy nor book learning provide. They are no longer theorists. They make the most of the opportunities about them rather than fondling the hope of some ideal situation that seems to show faintly in the future.

They take pride in their good service records built up over a period of years and apply themselves diligently to preserve them.

At the same time we are fully mindful of the great contribution that youth is making to industry. Youth supplies the power, age the experience.

Mr. C. A. Pattillo of Billingsley was in Clanton Tuesday of this week attending to some business matters.

To November 8 spinners of the world had taken 4,285,556 bales of American cotton from storage in all parts of the world, compared with 4,486,124 a year ago. The census report shows that on November 1 stocks in domestic mills and in storage were 6,672,477 bales compared with 5,827,869, a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank James motored to Birmingham Sunday where they were joined by Mrs. F. E. Sharp, sister of Mrs. James, and Mr. W. H. Madison, on a trip to Anniston. They were entertained at dinner in Anniston at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamilton. From Birmingham the trip was made by way of Ashville and the short cut across the river at Greenport. Returning they came back by Pell City and Leeds, over the new Bankhead Highway which is under construction.

Figures Show Growth of English Language

The amazing growth of the English language, surpassing that of any other during the past 100 years, is illustrated by statistics given by the Neue Auercher Zeitung. English was spoken by less than 20,000,000 persons in 1830, the statistics showed while at present no less than 160,000,000 people speak it natively, while an additional 60,000,000 understand it but do not consider it their own native tongue. The newspaper says the rate of increase has far outstripped all other languages, and that "there is no part of the world where English is not now spoken. German was spoken by 32,000,000 persons a century ago and now by between 80,000,000 and 90,000,000 persons, the statistics showed. The use of the Dutch languages increased from 6,300,000 to 15,000,000; Swedish from 3,200,000 to 7,500,000, and Danish from 2,100,000 to 5,000,000. The growth of the Latin languages on the other hand has been less rapid, with Italian slightly in the lead. Spoken by 21,400,000 a century ago, that language now is spoken by 45,000,000, while Spanish, which was second in increase was used by 35,200,000 a century ago and now is used by 50,000,000. French, the language of diplomacy, has increased only from 32,400,000 to 45,000,000, but it is understood by an additional 75,000,000 foreigners.

Relics of "Boom" Days on Death Valley Trail

Stovepipe well is a hole in the sand on the east side of Death valley at the foot of Death valley buttes, writes Bourke Lee in the Saturday Evening Post. When freighters were making regular trips across the valley during the mining boom, men and stock got water at Stovepipe well.

The well was hard to find until some one thrust a short piece of stovepipe into the sand to mark it. Very thirsty men got water at the well. Stovepipe well is a point of interest to the tourists. They take pictures there. Sometimes they taste the water.

Across the road from the well is the Bottle dugout. Two-thirds of the dugout is underground. In hot weather the valley is cooler below the surface. The Bottle dugout is a curiosity. It was a saloon in the days of the freighters. The freighters crossing the valley on the old Bullfrog trail stopped at Stovepipe well and helped to empty the bottles that went into the walls of the Bottle dugout.

Land Transference

From 3000 B. C. down to the Christian era the form of documents transferring land remained practically the same. First came a description of the land, its size and exact location; then the names of the seller and the buyer and a statement that the land in question had been sold. Usually the price was paid at once, but there are cases on record where the purchase was made on credit—this credit being a promise to pay written in the contract or made before witnesses. At the end of the contract was a note to the effect that the participants have corroborated the purchase by oath (similar to our oaths before notaries for legal papers); then followed the signatures and the names of witnesses.

Modern Miracles

The allusion to the use of a sudden rise in temperature mechanically calling the fire station by releasing a spring that sets the bell ringing, mentioned in a case before the King's Bench division, has astonished the world. But there are more wonderful miracles than this due to applied science. For instance, some of the fog horns on buoys at sea are blown by an amazing device. Human hair is the means employed. A hundred human hairs fixed side by side, like the hairs of a violin bow, stretch in foggy air and thus open a valve which releases a gas. This gas works the siren.—London Mail.

First Shorthand System

Modern shorthand dates from the patent granted on July 26, 1588, for fifteen years, to Dr. Timothy Bright, resident physician at St. Bartholomew's hospital, which licensed him "to teache, imprynte, and publishe, or cause to be taughte, imprynted, and published, in or by character not before this time commonlye knowne and used by any other oure subjects."

In the same year Bright published a description of the system in his book "Characterie. An arte of shorte, swifte and secrete writing by character."—London Answers.

Ancient Pictish Tower

Little remains to identify the early race of people that occupied the British isles prior to the coming of the Germanic tribes and the beginning of things historical. Some evidences of their civilization are found, however, and among them this Pictish tower, or castle, on the mall island of Mousa in the Shetland group. It is about 40 feet high and 158 feet in circumference at the base.

British Royal Household

In Buckingham palace, London, there are more than 200 rooms, including 40 bedrooms (30 for servants), 10 private apartments for the king and 9 for the queen, 30 state apartments and 20 box and luggage rooms. The servant staff numbers about 250 man and maid servants. There are about 60 housemaids, a housekeeper and 4 assistant housekeepers.

COUNTY ROAD LAWS CALLED TO ATTENTION OF PEOPLE

In a letter recently sent out by the Commissioners Court to the various road supervisors over the county, special attention is called to certain parts of the county road laws. Below we reproduce the parts of the laws which pertain to duties of overseers and persons hauling over the pubilc roads of the county:

Sectin 6—Sub-division (Road Overseers) "He shall prosecute all violations of these rules and regulations which may be committed in his precinct."

Section 28—Any persons who violate any of these rules and regulations herein prescribed or fails to perform any of the duties required hereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided by law.

Section 37—No person shall run or operate any vehicle, either motor driven or horse drawn, carrying a load of more than 800 pounds on or along any public road in Chilton County upon which a rain of twenty minutes or more shall have fallen until the expiration of 24 hours after such rain shall have ceased to fall during the period of the year ftim the first day of May to the first day of December; nor until the expiration of 36 hours after such rains shall have ceased to fall during the perjod of the year from the first day of December to the first day of May. Provided, that the hauling of lumber, logs, timber, cord wood, crossties or minerals along the public roads after such rains during such periods is absolutely prohibited. Provided this section does not apply to automobile trucks or other vehicles used exclusively for transferring children to and from school.

The above is a part of the Chilton County road law which regulates hauling over the public roads in Chilton County while they are wet. Also a part of the duties of overseers to see that the road laws are not violated in their precinct.

It was ordered by the Commissioners Court to have this published so that overseers could give all persons violating the law a copy of the same. Overseers must see that the law is enforced.—Respectfully, L.H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate.

The JACK-POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Glory be! Somebody evidently reads THE JACK-POT. We had about given up hope of hearing from anybody who read it, but somebody opens up with the statement that a Ford has been seen "popin' off steam" like JACK-POT.

* * * * * * * *

The only thing that we are wondering now is — Was that meant for a bouquet or a brick-bat? From the "popin' off" we've been used to seeing, this informer of ours was evidently impressed with the "pep" behind it, at any rate.

* * * * * * * *

Now to open the pop-valve again. What time do your children get home from school? Of course, varying distances from the school buildings make a difference, so we might ask—What time are they released from school duties?

* * * * * * * *

The other day we had the occasion to be wandering around the outer edges of the County, and were impressed with the difference in "turning-out time" at a few of the schools we passed.

* * * * * * * *

At one, we met the children on their way home, and from the distance we met them from the school, we decided they had been loosed not later than two o'clock p. m.

* * * * * * * *

The teacher at this school is a young lady. But don't jump to conclusions yet. This is no tirade at the younger generation of teachers, as you will find out by reading further.

* * * * * * * *

The next school passed was about five miles further over the road, and also taught by a young lady. From the looks of things, that school, pupils and teacher, had BEEN gone for some time.

* * * * * * * *

About four miles further on we passed another school—young lady teacher—but this one was still going to it, tooth and nail. Everybody busy!

* * * * * * * *

Some four miles further on, another school—this one taught by a man, one of the older remnant of teachers. He was just releasing his charges.

* * * * * * * *

Seven miles to the next one—taught by two young ladies. They also were just "turning out". This was about four p. m.

* * * * * * * *

Assuming that all of these schools began at 8:00 a. m., it would appear that some children of Chilton County Schools receive more time and attention than others. Why? — and how?

* * * * * * * *

More about this road proposition. Which is worse—accepting a gift of 59 cars of gravel to FIX roads with, or allowing trucks to run at will over the roads, cutting them to pieces after heavy rains?

* * * * * * * *

That isn't hard to answer, yet some thought it shameful to accept the Alabama Power Company's gift of 59 cars of slag, but not a word from this same plaintiff about heavy trucks and wagons doing their cuttin' up".

* * * * * * * *

Now, the question is — would the County officials have been lauded had we had pretty weather so that the roads could have stayed good?

* * * * * * * *

They certainly were ridden hard when the heavy rains came and the trails to town got boggy. Sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander.

* * * * * * * *

The road officials can't regulate Jupiter Pluvius' water plugs, you know. All they can do is their best to clear up what is left of the roads after the late wet spell.

* * * * * * * *

Now, if you are fair-minded, just remember the panning our Commissioners Court got when the roads were bad, and along next summer when these same roads are in such condition that it is no trouble to slip Lizzie up to 40 per and hold her there with no bumps, see how many you can hear praising the officials on account of the good condition of the road system.

* * * * * * * *

If you hear ANYBODY offering credit where it is due, we're willing to bet that none of them will be any of those who were so handy with the panning lately.

* * * * * * * *

All bets on this basis taken—the line forms at the right—we're broke as a "haint"— but we'll be able to pay all bets lost on this gamble.

* * * * * * * *

Do you hear anybody? Put your ear to the ground and listen—"JACK"

PREACHING AT FRIENDSHIP NEXT SUNDAY BY PASTOR

According to the plan adopted at the last regular preaching day—the fourth Sunday in November, there will be preaching at the church next Sunday at 11 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. A. L. Foshee.

The change was made in order that both services each month during the winter might be held in the day time. Rev. Foshee preaches here every 1st and 3rd Sunday at 11 o'clock.

Everybody try and arrange to be present at preaching next Sunday.

STRONG LIGHT WILL CURE RICKETS — SO THEY SAY

An artificial light has been developed which, according to experiments completed today by Dr. Walter H. Eddy, proefssor of physiological chemistry at Columbia University, is twelve times as powerful as natural sunshine in the prevention and cure of rickets.

Carbon sticks impregnated with various metals and burned by an electric current in the form of an arc, is the source from which the new light is derived. It was developed in the research laboratories of the National Carbon Company, of Cleveland.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

A Breath From Happy Hollywood

I HAVE often told the truthful tale of the distinguished New York theatrical magnate who told a well-known playwright that he didn't care to consider putting on the latter's newest piece called "The Dauphin," because he was sure the American people would never care for a play about a fish.

Then of course there is the tale told of that other and equally prominent manager who, on hearing a synopsis of a dramatization of "David Copperfield," said he liked the story and asked who the original author of the story might have been; and then, when the adaptor told him this honor had belonged to Charles Dickens, said promptly:

"Well, you better get in touch with this here Charley Dickens and bring him in to see me and we'll talk over the royalties, and if the guy ain't unreasonable, why we'll fix it up a contract and go ahead with the production."

But the contemporary authorities agree that for a wide and comprehensive and all-embracing ignorance of the classics these dignitaries in the realm of the spoken drama are not to be mentioned in the same admiring breath with some of the leaders of the moving-pictures industry. A man lately back from sinless Hollywood brings with him two anecdotes regarding a strictly self-made gentleman who holds an important, indeed a commanding position, in one of the biggest of the studios. This gentleman chooses subjects for screening; he casts the companies; he passes on details of location, of costuming and of treatment; he bosses the directors and he issues orders to the actors.

Not so very long ago he was told that the editorial department of his plant looked with an eye of favor on the project of making a film version of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Promptly he put his foot down on it.

"Nix," he said; "we positifly wouldn't do it. The public is fed up on these here college plays with football players for heroes."

A few days later he personally was supervising the taking of certain scenes of a comedy. In the script prepared from the author's scenario by the continuity writer, he came upon a line to the effect that the leading woman should be pictured as seated alone in a deep reverie.

"Come with me, you," he said indicating the assistant director, the leading lady and the cameraman. "I know just the place for taking this here piece of business."

He loaded the three of them into an automobile, got in himself and bade the driver take them along a certain road winding into the foothills above Los Angeles. After an hour or so of steady travel they came to where a narrow but precipitous canyon cut in to the contours of the landscape. Here the leader of the expedition gave orders to halt.

"There you are," he stated, with a wave of his arm, "you could look for a week and nowhere you wouldn't find no deeper reverie for her to be setting in than what this one is."

Several met at the church last Wednesday p.m., and prepared some wood for the church and trimmed up the grove in front of the church, which adds much to the appearance of the place.

The service at the church was rained out Saturday but there was a good attendance Sunday and Sunday night. Some new members were added to the Sunday school Sunday.

Mr. Bob Griffin was in Verbena Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Vinson of Montgomery were the guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Elna Mims last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nelson visited their daughter, Mrs. Susie Moore at Mt. Creek Sunday. Mrs. Moore is very ill.

Mr. Joe Ray and family of Dadeville were visitors at the home of Mr. J. A. Dobbs Sunday.

Miss Lois Nelson was the guest of Miss Cornelia Nelson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kicker of Birmingham were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bowles on last Sunday.

Mr. J. F. Nelson was the dinner guest of Rev. A. C. Nelson Sunday.

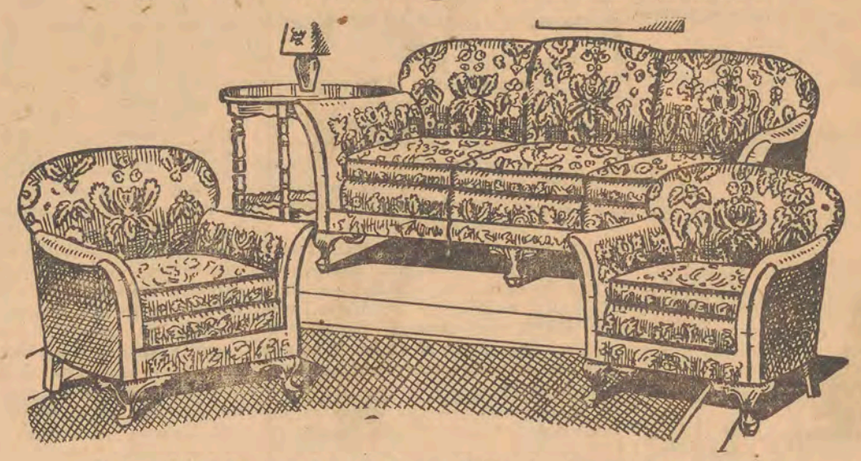
There will be a box supper and cake sale at East View Monday night before Christmas — December 23. Proceeds go for the church.

Mrs. Mary Belle Stockdale visited her mother, Mrs. M. A. Hutson, on last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lett of Verbena visited the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gray, Sunday.

Prof. Jimmie Williams was in East View community on business Monday.

Mr. Johnnie Williams of Verbena visited Mr. Charlie Price Sunday.



Mr. O. B. Nelson will soon have his new dwelling completed.

Come to Sunday school next Sunday and bring your papa with you.

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

BRO. BRYAN ARTICLE A TRAVEL IN SAMARIA

Let us start from Mount Carmel, the western boundry of the Plain of Esdraelon and travel through Samaria. At the same time let us make a note of the Biblical events connected therein and the neglected passages of the Bible associated therewith. First let us think of its name. The name Samaria comes from the word Shemr, the name of the man from whom Omri bought the hill upon which the city of Samaria was built.

Samaria is forty-two miles north from Jerusalem, and twenty miles from the Mediterrenean or great sea. The word Mediterrenean does not occur in the Bible. It is called the West Sea and the Great Sea in the Bible. But here is Samaria which in the time of our Lord was one of the three provinces which composed Palestine, and lay between Judea and Galilee, embracing the ancient territory of Ephraim and West Manasseh.

I shall never forget the ride of forty-two miles from Samaria to Jerusalem. I jotted down twenty-three places which confirm events and teachings of the Bible. On the way I saw two women grinding wheat at a mill. I at once thought of Christ's teachings: "Two women shall be grinding at the mill, the one shall be taken and the other left." I saw sheep and goats grazing quietly in pastures and I thought of Christ saying, "At that day the good shepherd will separate the sheep from the goats, placing the sheep on his right and the goats on the left."

We read a great deal about the mountains of Samaria. They are not so high as one might think. They compare favorably with the high hills of our own country, and extend a distance of about two miles. They have been known since the world began. Certainly on Mount Carmel the northwestern corner boundary of this country was the scene of the battle of the claims of the Lord of Raal with the claims of Jehovah victorious.

Certainly the city of Samaria is one of the most idolatrous, polluted, filthy places on the face of the earth. At that place occured some of the most marked events in all the history of the world. Over and over again you read about Ephraim which is pictured as one of the most intemperate places, steeped in sin. This place was in the province of Samaria. But the most striking thing there to-day is the fulfilment of the prophecy that the crown shall be taken off the head of Samaria. As one looks upon Samaria a loathsome, filthy, buggy place with her pale-faced, blind women and children there comes a realization of the fullfillment of that prophecy.

It is remarkable how well those blind people can drive an automobile. Most of the cars which I saw were Dodge cars, and they could drive them through those alleys never missing the way. They were wonderful horsemen before the days of the automobile, and they have taken to the cars just as they did to the horses.

Now as to the palaces of Samaria which are today only a heap of ruins, the first one was built by Omri Ging of Israel, in the ninth century B. C. An evidence of the impression which Omri made upon the nations is found in the fact that after his reign the kings of Israel are referred to as the "sons of Omri" on Assyrian tablets. But what did that amount to? We read that he wrought evil in the eyes of the Lord, evil in the eyes of the Lord, and in-and influenced Israel to sin. You can belong to a certain music club, but if you do not master its technique what does that amount to? You can belong to a Bible study class but if you do not study prayerfully and carefully what does that amount to? Omri had a wicked heart and no doubt was a Baal worshipper.

Now as to Baal worship I must say that I am convinced it had its beginning in Baalbec, a ruined city of Syria,, situated near the foot of the Antilibanus mountains forty miles northwest of Damascus. Its very name signifies that it was a city of Baal. The most ancient ruin there today is that of the temple of the Sun. South of it is the temple of Jupiter which is probably of more recent origin. Certainly that temple of the Sun was the most beautiful one in the world. When the allied troups won a peace treaty in the World War they held a prayer meeting in the ruins of that temple.

When Nebuchadnezzar sent the people back to Jerusalem under Ezra to rebuild the temple and reestablish worship in Jerusalem, the remnant of the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh who did not go down with them were deprived of helping to rebuild the temple. This caused a division and the disappointed Samaritans built their own temple of worship on Mount Gerizim where the Samaritans worship to this day. That was the reason the women of Samaria near Sychar came to the well to get water while Christ, unknown to her, sat on the well and spake kindly to her, and she answered him in these words; "Why speakest thou unto me? The Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans."

She was a Syrian, a Baal worshipper, but there was something rueing in her heart, a longing for something which she did not possess. She might have stopped at a nearby creek and got just as good water as that at Jacob's well, but instead she was led on to it. The Holy Spirit was moving her on to seeking Jesus. She found him precious to her soul, and no doubt hastened back to Shechem, Nabulus and Sychar to tell her friends about the Christ who was superior, who was kind, tender-hearted and forgiving.

I shall never forget my first impression of Nabulus or ancient Shechem. There was only one place there in which you could find a place to get a meal and a place to rest. It was a stone building. When the great earthquake came Nabulus, or Shechem and Sychar were torn up, the huts were destroyed, and women and children and some of the men were badly crippled. A hospital has been erected for the care of these needy, and suffering people.

Here at Samaria is the ruins of Jehu's palace, and also that of Ahab and his wicked, domineering wife, Jezebel. It was she who took her husband's money and groves to feed and take care of the heathen worshippers. They were her missionaries to do the evil to the worshippers of the true God. From that palace she looked out of the window with her husband upon Naboth vineyard in coveteousness and contrived a wicked plot which her husband accepted in the taking possession of it. From the same palace she met an evil fate like unto that which she contrived upon Naboth.

It was in Samaria Herod had his capital. There in a grand palace he lived in adultry with his brother Phillip's wife, Herodotus. At a great feast here one day Herodotus' daughter danced so beautifully before Herod that as he sat there with a golden sceptre in his hand he pointed over the whole of Palestine and said, "All this belongs to me, but ask what you will and I will give it to you to the half of my kingdom." Now why Herod so boldly made such a promise I do not know. He might have been drunk, but that is none of my business. But his wicked adultrous wife stood behind the curtain near him and said to her daughter who stood between her and Herod, "Ask the old hypocrite for the head of John the Baptist in a silver waiter."

So he sent some servants to the prison at Maecherus and had John's head severed from his body and carried to the damsel on a silver waiter. The disciples took up the body of John the Baptist and buried it at Maecherus. From Josephus' account we learn that this prison was the castle of Maecherus.

BETHSALEM NEWS

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Although there are several others in this community whom we would like to have with us.

A large crowd attended the singing at this place Sunday afternoon. We invite all lovers of music to come back next second Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cardwell are visitors at the home of Mr. Sidney Askins.

The singing given at the home of Miss Alice Williams Saturday night was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Moore spent Sunday night with their son, Mr. Alpheus More.

Misses Evie Cardwell and Agnes Askins will leave Friday for Aliceville where they will visit friends and relatives until after the holidays.

Miss Mabel Moatts visited Miss Alta Belle Vinson Sunday

We have changed our preaching day from second Sunday to the 3rd. Everybody is invited to come.

MATUREN RETURNS TO DUTY

Montgomery, Dec. 9.—Mr. H. F. Maturen, a forester connected with the State Commission of Forestry, who has been on an extended leave of absence in Wisconsin, has returned to active duty. While he was away he was associated with one of the outstanding commercial timber projects of the North.

At present Mr Maturen is assisting Division Forester Harry F. Smith in Mobile County. It is expected, however, that he shortly will be assigned to the charge of another division comprising the southeastern counties of the State with headquarters at Troy. The latter division was organized some time ago but on account of lack of funds has not been under administration during recent months.

Landholders, especially the owners of small tracts such as are connected with farms, will find the assistance and cooperation that Mr. Maturen is able to render of very great value. It is the policy of the Commission ultimately to have technically trained foresters stationed in various parts of the Satte for the purpose of aiding tree and timber growers in every practicable way.

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 16

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a small crowd, but every one present was filled with the singing spirit. In the absense of the president, J. W. Clackler the vice president R. M. Robinson presided.

The opening song was directed by R. M. Robinson, followed with prayer by J. R. Robinson. Those directing three songs each during the afternoon were: W. H. Robinson, Riley Robinson, C. H. Robinson and J. R. Robinson. Two splendid quartets were rendered by J. R. Robinson and children.

Pianists were: Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Robinson and Mrs. Moses Bates. A short talk was given by Rev. M. J. Parrish, He also led the closing prayer. We thank the visitors for their help and invite them back at all times.

BASKETS BRING HER NEEDED PIN MONEY

Basket making has helped me to independence, is what Mrs. T. G. Hornsby, who lives near here, says in summing up the benefits she has derived from making pine needle baskets for sale. She is one of a group of successful Clay County makers.

In a letter to Mrs. J. E. S. Rudd, home demonstration agent, she gave a summary of what basket-making has done and is doing for her. Here it is: Bought three rugs, room size, helped buy a new car, a few kitchen utensils, all the clothing for my daughter and me for two and a half years, one cow, $65, which is now valued at $80, one calf three weeks old, now valued at more than $75.

Oregon Record Breaker

Viola's Rinda Fancy

Independence, Oregon, Dec. 10.—Producing 936.96 pounds of butterfat and 12,738 pounds of milk during a 365-day oficial test, Viola's Rinda Fancy, purebred Jersey heifer, owned by M. N. Tibbles of Independence, Oregon, has achieved the honor of making the highest senior 2-year-old butterfat production record of the Jersey breed. Her butterfat yield, more than 86 pounds above the previous world record, is greater than her own weight of 925 pounds.

Twenty-five supervisors from three different states—Oregon, Washington and Idaho, supervised her test. For ive months she produced more than 80 pounds of butterfat per month, and during her best month she yielded 85.79 pounds of butterfat. Viola's Rinda Fancy was started on this test at the age of 2 years and 10 months, and her total yield for the year is the equivalent of 1,171 pounds of butter and 5,924 qts. of milk.

Records kept by Mr. Tibbles show that the feed consumed by Viola's Rinda Fancy while on test cost $207 while income from the sale of butterfat during this period totaled $492, making a net prefit of $285 above feed cost during the year. In addition to this profit, Mr. Tibbles received a good price for Viola's Rinda Fancy's bull calf sold at 6 weeks of age.

Viola's Rinda Fancy was bred by H. S. Portwood of Monmouth, Ore:. and sold to Mr. Tibbles a few weeks before she was started on test. She was sired by Rinda Lad's Golden Boy and through his sire, Rinda Lad of S.B., one of the eight Medal of Merit bulls of the Jersey breed, received a rich heritage of high production.

Her dam, St. Mames Lad's Viola, is a daughter of another famous Jersey bull, St. Mawes Lad, and is at the present time on official test in the herd of S. J. McKee of Independence, Oregon.

Jazz Is Chief Export Of American Business

LEO FEIST

Leo Feist Finds World Listening to Tunes of U. S. A.

New York City.—For the first time in history an international music exists. America is the manufacturer of this music, and it is our greatest commercial commodity.

So says Leo Feist, head of the largest music publishing company in the world, and he backs his statement up with facts.

"To speak in business terms, there is no other commodity of American manufacturers that reaches such far corners of the world," he points out. "Modern American music, put up in records, is used for barter among African tribes in the French Sudan. The Dutch have introduced it in the far Bali Islands of the Dutch East Indies. The Esquimaux in Greenland treasure American records. They call them 'canned white man.' You'll find American records being played in the jungles of South America.

"Even Japan and China, though both countries possess an entirely different national musical ear from America, import our music.

"This wide distribution of American music has changed the whole music map of the world. Many countries have played each other's music, but never before have we all played one type of music. Today the whole world plays modern American jazz."

My Favorite Stories
by Irvin S. Cobb

Tribute Where Tribute Was Due

YEARS ago in one of the smaller cities along the eastern seaboard, the local leader of the dominant political party was one Mr. Michael Dempsey. Mr. Dempsey carried the organization in the hollow, as the saying goes, of his hand. True there was a selfish motive behind his activities, because he held the most lucrative local office within the gift of the populace.

As might be inferred from his name, he was of Celtic antecedents Naturally, what with his powers of leadership and his compelling personality, he was the idol of all the Irishmen among his constituents. Those among them who had come, as he had, penniless greenhorns from the Old country, regarded him as the greatest man in the state if not in the nation.

In the fullness of time, and largely through his patriotic efforts, a bond issue was voted for the erection of a new county building. On the day after the cornerstone of the new structure had been laid, two of his followers chanced to pass the spot. Upon the face of the stone, in the customary Latin numerals, the year had been engraved, as follows:

MDCCCXCIX.

One of the passersby stared at this curious inscription. He spelled out the letters. To him they had no meaning.

"Larry," he said wonderingly to his companion, "what's the purpose of that?"

"Simple enough,' said his learned friend. "that MD stands for Mike Dempsey, and thim three C's in a row means Clerk of the County Court 'Tis merely a deserved tribute to Mike that's been carved in stone."

"Yis," said the first speaker, thoroughly convinced, "but what does the rist of thim marks stand for?"

"Oh, thim?" said the scholar "That's just to kep track of the times whin he's licked the d—n Republicans."

TRY SOME POTASH ON OATS

When it is considered that the average yield of oats over a period of years in Alabama is about 20 bushels per acre, there is no hesitancy in concluding that this is rediculously low. Though nitrogen fertilizers are generally used on oats in Alabama, there is not enough of this plant food used on the crop. Experiments, demonstrations and farm practices have shown that at least 200 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre or its equivalent in sulphate of ammonia, calcium nitrate, calurea or leunasalpeter return good profits when applied to oats.

Just as general as has been the use of nitrogen fertilizers on oats in Alabama has the non-use of potash fertilizers been practiced. This is due to the idea prevailing that potash does not pay on oats. No doubt the use of potash will not prove profitable on oats where the average yield remains around 20 bushels per acre. However, where somewhat higher yields have been obtained the use of potash has proven its profitableness in numerous cases. Where large yields of oats are to be expected from heavy applications of nitrogen fertilizers or on lands in a high state of fertility with the applying of little or no nitrogen, heavy losses may be suffered due to the oats falling down badly before harvesting.

Mr. Webb Hurst, Shorter, Ala., has had this straw stiffening ability of potash well demonstrated on his farm. According to Mr. Hurst the use of 100 pounds of muriate of potash per acre on oats at the same time he applied nitrate of soda (about the 1st of March) caused the oats to remain erect, while oats fertilized identically except no potash was used, fell over badly. This year he plans to use 100 pounds of muriate of potash per acre on 60 acres of oats. Mr. Hurst is one of Alabama's first ten Master farmers.

Mr. L. C. Young of Montgomery, another of Alabama's first master farmers, has used potash on his oats for years. He has had the value of potash on oats impressed upon him many times. His oats have been particularly praised by a seedsman to whom he furnished seed oats as being outstanding in quality as compared to other oats handled. His neighbors using no potash on their oats have had fine looking prospects turn out disappointing yields on account of the oats falling down badly. But Mr. Young's potash-treated oats near by suffered little or no damage from this cause and turned out excellent yields.

Here is what Mr. O. H. Wienges, St. Matthews, S. C., has to say in regard to potash causing the oat grains to fill out better:

"I was delighted with the results of the oats from the field where potash was applied. I threshed out 100 bushels per acre on the 50 acres. I could measure a bushel and knock the top off with a stick and the oats would weigh 36 pounds per bushel.

"I built a division in my barn and put the potash oats in one bin and the oats which received no potash in the other bin. When farmers came to buy my oats they always selected the potash oats as soon as they saw them. In fact, these oats all sold before I had sold any of my other oats. The oats receiving only sulphate of ammonia were much lighter, the yield was one-half less, and I had to take $1.00 per bushel for them. You can easily see why I believe in always using potash on my oats."

Each of Mr. Wienge's fields mentioned received 200 pounds of sulphate of ammonia per acre. Where the potash was added the potash application was 200 pounds of muriate of potash per acre.

Last year on the Kildare farms, Huntsvile, Ala., 100 pounds of muriate of potash increased the yield of oats from 66 bushels per acre to 77 bushels per acre. Furthermore, the oats from the potash area were so much better filled that to look at the two lots one would have thought the oats were of different varieties. As a matter ot fact the planting seed all came from the same bin. The past season on Spann Brohetrs' farm near Dothan, Ala., 100 pounds of high grade kainit (20 per cent potash) and 150 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre produced 88 bushels of oats per acre, an increase of 14 bushels over the production per acre where 150 pounds of nitrate of soda alone was used. Incidentally, so far as the writer knows, this production of 88 bushels per acre was as high a yield of oats as was produced in Alabama last year.

Potash may be applied before planting the oats or as the top-dressing. Except on Mr. Young's farm the potash was applied as a top-dressing on all the farms mentioned in this article.

Try top-dressing your oats with potash. Let the oats tell you whether it is a paying practice. This may be done during the Fall months. However, potash has proven to be very effective when applied in a mixture with the nitrogen top-dresser in early Spring. In southern Alabama it is not advisable to apply potash to oats after March 1st.

What It Will Do

1. It will help care for the destitute needy of our County
2. It will eliminate constant appeals for the needy.
3. Your gift will reach the real needs.
4. It will save the self-respect of the worthy needy.
5. Give to the fund and send all solicitors to our County Welfare Worker for investigation.
6. It will bless your own heart to give to the needy.
7. It will meet a real need in our County.

How It Will Be Administered

1. Each school community will have a representative to report all destitute cases.
2. The County Welfare Worker and the committee on distribution of funds will investigate the needs of each case and give aid.
3. All gifts of $1.00 and above will be published.
4. All those who make gifts of $5.00 and above will be given a receipted pocket card.
5. The Treasurer's books will be audited regularly.

Why Give?

Bible Reasons

1. "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord."
2. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."
3. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."
4. "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ."
5. "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and the widows in their affliction."

REMEMBER!

That this is Christmas time. Remember what Christmas really means. Remember the needy along with your fortunate friends.
Remember John's warning "But who hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?"
Remember that your gift will express your love in deed and in truth!
Remember the golden rule!
Remember to be a good samaritan!
Remember we have no salaries; every cent goes for charity!

Go to your school Friday December 13th at 2 P. M. and hear more from a speaker.

DANGER SPOTS

One of the things which seems to impress the observant tourist in Europe is the number of political "powder magnates" which remain on the map of that continent. Before the World War there were submerged minorities all over Europe. Russia and Austria possed a big share of them, and Germany also had some sore spots of the same kind. The war changed the map of Europe. It satisfied the claims of many of the minorities which were submerged before the great conflict but the victors went further than this in reconstructing the map and created a lot of new submerged minorities. It will not do to judge their work too harshly. Races are so intermingled in Europe that it would be difficult to draw boundary lines to please every nation, though doubtless some improvements could be made on the present status quo of Europe.

Along with the Versailles treaty and as a part of it we got the League of Nations. Like famous grand alliances of the past, the League was desinged primarly to maintain the status quo created by the war. The purpose of the less idealistic of its sponsors was to preserve for the victors in Europe the territory they had gained during the war. If the League should eventually grow into something more than that and become a factor for peace in Europe, all well and good. No citizen of the United States will criticize any such happy effect that it may have.

But this does not gainsay the fact that it is just as important now as it ever has been for Uncle Sam to stay out of the League and its entaglements, and to do business with or through the World Court only with proper and safeguarding reservations. Just now the will of most of Europe seems to be toward peace. There is much brandishing of the sword in Russia and the Reds are busy now with military operations against China, but so far as the nations of western Europe are concerned there seems to be a genuine desire for peace.

But we must not forget that the danger spots remain. They are present not only in Russia but in the submerged minorities in Rumania, and the Balkan states. These questions of boundaries are questions with which the League of Nations may properly have a great deal to do, but they are questions with which Uncle Sam has and should have nothing to do. His mixing up in their adjudication would promote not the peace of Europe but a hatred in Europe against him for mixing in where he had no real interest at stake.

It is much better therefore that America maintain its freedom of action, promoting a program of peace by mutual understanding and through the force of enlightened public opinion. Further than this we cannot go with safety to ourselves and with benefit to the rest of the world. We can do much more in case of a European crisis in the role of a disinterested friend on the outside, than as a member of the feudal family.

Lesson for December 15

THE CHRISTIAN SPIRIT IN INDUSTRY

LESSON TEXT—Deut. 24:14, 15; Matt. 20:1-16, Mark 12:1-9; Luke 3:14; Eph. 6:5-9, I Tim. 6:17-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—As ye would men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Kindness to Those Who Work for Us.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Kindness to Those Who Work for Us.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Fair Play in the Day's Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Golden Rule in the Work of the World.

While some of these instructions were given to Israel, showing what God required of them, we should remember that He requires no less at our hand.

I. Treatment of Hired Servants (Deut. 24:14, 15).

Political and industrial power have been used through the centuries in the oppression of the poor and weak

1. Oppression forbidden (v. 14)

The man who hires out is usually poor and needy. The employer should not take advantage of his poverty.

2. Foreigners to have the same treatment as fellow countrymen.

3. Wages to be promptly paid (v 15).

The laborer was to be paid at the end of the day. The credit system in industry is greatly to be deplored. It places the purchaser at a disadvantage, and causes a bad psychological reaction upon his personality.

II. Fidelity to Contracts (Matt. 20:1 16).

In this parable it is clearly made known that there was agreement between employer and employee as to wages and time. Though those employed at a later hour received the same wage, there was no occasion for complaint by those first employed, for they received their wage according to agreement. Fidelity to agreement is essential in industry.

III. Unfaithful Tenancy (Mark 12: 1-9).

In this parable a valuable vineyard was rented out to husbandmen. They not only refused to turn over the just returns to its owner, but shamefully treated his servants who were sent to collect rental. Those entrusted with possessions and power are under solemn obligation to make proper returns therefor.

IV. Contentment With Wages (Luke 3:14).

One of the chief difficulties in the industrial world today is discontent with wages. Oftentimes workers fail to take account of the conditions of business even to the extent of going on strike and make demands as to wages which the proprietor cannot meet. Contentment with wages does not mean that one should not be ambitious to prepare himself for a more efficient service and higher wages.

V. Reciprocal Duties of Servants and Masters (Eph 6:5-9).

1. Servants are to be obedient to their masters (vv. 5-8).

This obedience should be (1) "with fear and trembling"; that is, the servant should have a proper regard for his master and an earnest desire to please him. (2) With singleness of heart. Servants should perform their tasks as though doing them for Christ's sake. (3) Not with eye service. Acceptable service should be honest, not merely to please the eye of the one who looks on, but as unto Christ. (4) With good will. This expresses the spirit of service. It should not primarily be for approval or pay. Christian servants will perform their duties with the same fidelity as they would unto Christ. (5) Rewarded by the Lord (v. 8). The Lord takes account of our service in the common rounds of life and will one day reward us accordingly.

2. Masters to be considerate (v. 9)

Just as servants are to give whole hearted consideration to their masters, so masters are to look out for the best interests of their servants.

(1) Masters should desist from threatenings. (2) They should be impartial in dealings with their servants.

VI. Responsibility of the Rich (I Tim 6:17-19).

Riches are possible to Christians but most perilous. God charges such

1. Not to be high-minded; that is to have a sense of superiority.

2. Not to trust in the uncertainty of riches.

3. Riches to be properly used

(1) To do good. Not for selfish gratification, but for the welfare of others. (2) To be minister to good works. (3) The rich are under obligation to minister to the poor and the needy.

Intolerable Pride

I think half the troubles for which men go slouching in prayer to God are caused by their intolerable pride. Many of our cares are but a morbid way of looking at our privilege. We let our blessings get moldy and then call them curses.—Beecher.

Preparedness

He is to be pitied, indeed, who has seen better days ahead of him, yet has made no preparation for living them better.

STATE CAPITOL News

World War veterans of Alabama are enrolling in increasing numbers in the American Legion, and a record membership for 1930 is indicated, according to information from State headquarters of the Legion in Montgomery. Each year the membership of the American Legion in the state has shown a substantial gain over the preceeding year, as ex-soldiers come to appreciate more the real value of membership in the veteran's organization. For 1929 the membership reached a new high record of 7,922. A goal of 10,000 has been set for 1930, and gratifying reports have been received from over the state in the progress of the membership drive which was launched beginning November 11.

A recent bulletin from State headquarters of the American Legion showed that on November 18 nine posts had "gone over the top" in their membership work and thereby won the distinguished service citation awarded to posts which equalled or surpassed their 1929 membership by November 18. The nine posts which won a place on this "honor roll" are: Chatom, Ozark, Red Bay, Evergreen, General Gorgas, Foley, Enterprise, Luverne and Tuscumbia. Chatom, which had 15 members for 1929, had erolled 53 members for 1930 by November 18, and another striking example of progress was furnished by Red Bay which jumped from a 1929 membership of 18 to 68 enrolled for 1930.

Legion officials are urging all posts to attain their 1930 membership quota by Christmas. It is pointed out that the sooner the membership work is completed, the sooner the American Legion will be able to center its efforts on other objectives, including better hospital facilities for disabled men, child welfare, Americanism work and community service.

Two valued historical relics, the sword of Major John Pelham, famous Confederate artillery leader, and an oil portrait of Governor William J. Samford, were presented to the State of Alabama and placed in custody of the department of archieves and history on December 3. The presentations were marked by appropriate exercises in which tributes were paid to Governor Samford, who died after a short tenure of office, and to Major Pelham, who after a brilliant military career gave his life for the southern cause. Governor Samford's potrait will be placed with those of other of Alabama's chief executives in the Hall of Governors at the State house, while Major Pelham's sword was laid upon the chair which was the favorite seat of his commander-in-chief, Jefferson Davis.

Governor Bibb Graves has appointed R. T. Simpson, Jr., of Florence as solicitor of the eleventh circuit, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Henry D. Jones of Russellville. Mr. Simpson is a prominent attorney and a World War veteran, having served overseas with the 82nd division.

Ill health had forced Dr. Douglas L. Cannon to resign as head of the Sate health department. The resignation is to become effective January 1st. Dr. Cannon suffered a nerve breakdown several weeks ago as result of over work after the death of Dr. S. W. Welch, his predecessor as state health officer, and during the serious floods in the state last spring.

Dr. Stuart Graves will act as head of the State health department until a successor to Dr. Cannon is named.

Figures recently announced by the State Tax Commission indicate that approximately $60,000,000 had passed through the State Treasury during the fiscal year which ended September 30, 1929. The figures show that the sum of $42,870,296.28 passed through the Tax Commission, directly or indirectly, during the year. Federal funds and funds received from bond issues and other sources indicate a total volume of state business of around $60,000,000.

The Commission personally supervised collection of $12,018,419.98. This figure includes the educational trust funds set up by the 1927 legislature, made up by the sales tax on cigars and cigarettes, the hydro-electric killowat tax, the coal and iron tonnage tax, the privilege tax of 2 1-2 percent on gross receipts of railroad, telephone, telegraph and express companies and the sleeping car privilege tax, and also the gasoline tax, which goes for highway purposes, the franchise tax, and several other items. The Commission also supervised collection of $2,914,376.30 from motor vehicle license taxes, and $1,600,000 from persons engaged in various business occupations. In addition to the huge volume of tax collection work handled by the Commission direct, there is the big item of ad valorem tax collection, which amounted to $26,337,500 for the fiscal year. While this money is actually collected by the county tax collectors, its collection is supervised by the State Tax Commission.

An interesting fact shown by the Commission's figures is that there has been a substantial increase in collections for 1930 of the public utility purposes. Collections from this source for 1929 amounted to $888,115.44, while for the fiscal year 1930 which began October 1st, there has been collected from these taxes the sum of $1,021,252,05, an increase of $133,136.61.

RELIEF that is REFRESHING

"We have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years in our family. I can highly recommend it for many ailments. We take it for colds and for constipation.

"I have four children, and I give it to them. When my little girl gets bilious, or complains of headache, I give her a treatment of Black-Draught, and she is all right in a day or two.

"Sometimes when I have indigestion from improper eating, I have headache. Then I take Black-Draught. I always feel fresh and have more energy after I have taken it."—Mrs. E. Reich, 2215 East First Street, Austin, Texas.

WOMEN who need a tonic should take CARDUI. In use over 50 years.

WOULD YOU KNOW ONE IF YOU SAW IT

If you ever came face to face with a germ, would you recognize it? Of course it is not likely that you ever will see a germ, unless you own a tremendously powerful microscope, for you would have to magnify one over a thousand times to make it as big as a pin head. But you should recognize the fact that these tiny germs can get into your blood streams through the smallest cut, and give you typhoid fever, tuberculosis, lockjaw, blood poisoning, and many more dangerous and perhaps fatal diseases. There is one sure safeguard against these dangers bzy washing every cut, no matter how small, thoroughly with Liquid Borozone, the safe antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Ala.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

ALA. CO-OP HAS AN IDEAL ARRANGEMENT, SAYS O'NEAL

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 10.—The Alabama Farm Bureau plan of farm organization with the co-operation of the Extension Service, the Experiment Station, the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Vocational Agriculture, is an ideal arrangement for a farmer owned and farmer controlled co-operative organization, said Edward A. O'Neal, president Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, vice-president and chairman of the Legislative Committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in the eleventh annual meting of the National Farm Bureau in Chicago, December 9th to 11th.

"Every State should have a general farm organization, educational in character, looking after the needs in agriculture in production, marketing, finance, legislation, taxation, and relationships, working with the Agricultural College and Experiment Stations on sound principles," declared President O'Neal.

After making this statement he said that the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, chartered under the laws of Alabama, is a non-stock, non-profit organization. Its membership is composed of the county farm bureaus. It does no business itself, but has the power to set up subsidary organizations when needed. It is supported by a membership fee divided between the County, State and the American Farm Bureau.

"Its primary purpose is to carry out through organization the program of the state agricultural college and the experiment station in co-operation with farm bureau leaders and county agents in each respective county"

To carry out scientific and economic practices, the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association, the Mutual Supply Association, the Credit Corporation and the Poultry Association have been organized and are now functioning, Mr. O'Neal declared. In conclusion he said: "We feel that we have a cooperative set-up, simple, democratic and economic in its efficient operations." — L. O. Brackeen.

L. N. DUNCAN HONORED BY NATIONAL FARM BUREAU

Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of extension service, Auburn, has been awarded American agriculture's highest honor, according to a telegram from Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama farm bureau, who is in Chicago this week attending the 11th annual meting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Prof. Duncan, Alabama, and Geo. L. Cooley, Ohio farmer and farm bureau leader, were presented with the farm bureau's distinguished service to agriculture medal, according to Mr. O'Neal who nominated Prof. Duncan for the honor which he received.

Mr. O'Neal wired that he believes there has been no person who has been more active in assisting organized agriculture than has Prof. Duncan. "As our director of extension he has worked unceasingly for organized agriculture. If we had such men in each state, American agriculture would be organized. Not only has Prof. Duncan fought for us in Alabama but as a member of the Executive Committee of the Extension leaders of the United States, he carried on the same fight nationally."

Prof. Duncan called and presided over the first farm bureau meeting in Alabama at Auburn in January of 1921. Since then he has been a leader in farm bureau organization work although he has never been an official of the farm bureau.

He is credited with the establishment of the Alabama farm bureau as a model organization. In addition to work in Alabama, he has been called into service in other states, advising with officials of other organizations of farmers and in helping them to solve their mutual problems by co-operative means. Mr. Duncan is a farmer, born and reared on his father's farm near Russellville, Ala. He was graduated from Auburn in 1900.

Although greatly honored by the tribute paid him, Mr. Duncan said today that it was an added incentive to him to continue his work of pushing the organization of farmers even harder than ever before.

Y., and her brother, George Hughes of Montgomery, were callers at Thorsby Institute dormitory for a few minutes last Saturday morning, in a downpour of rain, which prevented them from calling on other friends in Thorsby while passing through. They were on their way to Birmingham where Mrs. Male was to take a train for home. Mrs. Male who will be remembered in Thorsby as Miss Essie Hughes, and her brother, George, were graduates from Thorsby Institute, and were recently called to Montgomery to attend the funeral of their father.

Mr. R. H. Maddox spent the week end in Birmingham.

Mr. J. L. Mixon was a visitor in Birmingham last Saturday.

Mrs. Johanna Lefstead and son, Palmer, of Birmingham, were calling ing on old friends in Thorsby last Sunday. Mrs. Lefstead is now at home in Birmingham with her son, Palmer.

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, daughter, Mary Ella and Miss Odie Lee Arthur, were all week end visitors in Birmingham.

Mr. Dwight Mixon of Montgomery spent Sunday with his brother, J. L. Mixon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Stovall and son, Eugene, and Mrs. Riley and two daughters of Montgomery were visitors Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mixon.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Horn and son, Leroy, were visitors Sunday at the home of Mrs. Horn't parents, Dr. and Mrs. O. C. Mastin. Mr. Horn has been transferred from Memphis back to Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith, Mr. T. L. Robinson and family and Mr. E. N. Bentley and family leave on next Monday to spent Christmas at Foley, Ala.

Mr. Ernie Hansen and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davenport will leave Monday for Foley, Ala., to remain for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Olie Camp of Trafford spent Thursday and Thursday night at the home of E. N. Bentley.

Saturday night will be the Christmas program of the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute. A Christmas play and Christmas music will compose the program. Everyone is invited. Admission 10c.

Last Saturday afternoon some of Miss Thoroman's music pupils gave a pleasing music recital at the dining hall. After the recital light refreshments were served.

"What is back of Christmas Giving?" was the subject of Christian Endeavor Sunday night. Cathryn Stallings was leader. A trio of boys rendered special music.

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 13

It affords us much pelasure indeed to be permitted again to write a few more good things regarding this place.

We had some extremely cold weather the past week, but we are not quite snowed under yet.

Health conditions around here are good and we certainly are thankful for same. Also we were made to rejoice when we were blessed with another beautiful Sabbath day—That we might be permitted to meet with our Sunday school classes and B.Y.P.U. friends and co-workers.

Our song service the second Sunday evening was just fine, with the splendid co-operation of other adjoining classes.

We extend a cordial invitation to all singers to come be with us on the next second Sunday evening.

It was quite a treat indeed to have Dargin B. Y. P. U. to put on such a fine program at this place last Sunday night. They knew their lesson and were well on their job. They told us something worth while, and the service was well attended and it seemed to be much enjoyed by all. We hope to have them with us again some time!

We are highly enthused over the bright out-look of our singing society for the coming year. We have a wide-awake president, and the promise of splendid co-operation. We expect to use the most popular books of the late editions.

We are putting forth much effort to make the forthcoming year one of our best in every detail.

We have on foot an effort for a Christmas offering for the Baptist orphanage at Troy, Ala, of which we hope to have much success thru our Sunday school and B.Y.P.U.

With much success and a Merry Christmas to The Union-Banner and its many readers.—W. F. Thompson.

TELL HOW TO STOP THE RED ROBBER

Auburn, Ala., Dec 9— Fire "The red robber" destroys 3,500 people and $150,000,0000 worth of property on farms and in rural communities of the United States yearly. These figures are based on an estimate by the United States Department of Agriculture. Alabama lives and property come in for their share of death and destruction, members of the Agriculturing Engineering Department at the Alabama Polytechnic Insttute say.

Much of this disaster is preventable, according to J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer at Auburn, who, with county agents, is helping farmers of Alabama with their building problems.

Mr. Wilson and the U. S. Depart- of Agriculture list eight of the principal causes of rural fires, to which they say two-thirds of the loss and death is due. These causes are: spontaneous or self-ignition of hay and other agricultural products, lightning, defective chimneys and flues, sparks on combustible roofs, careless use of matches — smoking, careless use and storage of gasoline and kerosene, defective heating equipment, faulty wiring and improper use of electrical appliances.

Suggestions for reducing fire loss are also given. In general these consist of prevention of the causes, Mr. Wilson said, but called particular attention to the importance of ventilating hay immediately after it is stored. e also mentioned that major buildings should be equipped with lightning rods. "A substatial metal roof with all parts in good electrical contact and with proper grounding also offers good lightning protection," he added. Good, fire-resistant roofing material, he continued, will prevent many fires from sparks.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The United States uses more than 12,000,000 tons of ice annually for icing about 1,600,000 carloads of perishable food-stuffs, one car load to every 70 inhabitants.

Exports of merchandise from the United States during October amounted to $530,000,000, an increase of $98,000,000 over the previous month. With exception of October and November, 1928, when exports totaled $550,014,000 and $544,912,000, respectively, October exports exceeded those of any previous month since January, 1921, when the total was$654,300,000. Figures were made public by U. S. Department of Commerce.

RURAL BRIEFS

Clean ground is the most important item in raising chicks successfully.

All broken or dead pecan twigs and all mummied nuts, husks or old leaves should be knocked off the trees and completely turned under or burned.

At present fertilizer prices an acre of leaves and straw contains several dollar's worth of plant food. The nitrogen and humus are lost when fire burns over the forest.

A 100-acre tract of woodland that is today bringing in an income warranting a valuation of $2,000, can be doubled in value by protection from fire and better practices of cutting.

When pigs are born without hair and calves and lambs have goitres, it is a sure sign that the feeds available are lacking in iodine, and the best way to prevent heavy losses is to feed potassium iodide.

NATURE THOUGHT OF EVERYTHING

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, when our children grind their teeth when they are asleep, or lack appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely and surely expel the worms. Thus we aviod the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 25c a bottle, and can be bought from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Ala.

Nearly 2,500 separate farm-owned dairy enterprises operated in 1928, turning out dairy products valued at $640,000,000. With the exception of an occasional war between producers and distributors of the big cities, the dairy industry has made a distinctly prosperous livelihood. Price wars have never lasted long where the dairymen were organized.

UNION GROVE

The United Singing Society met here Sunday afternoon and had another good singing. Our society is improving, for which we are thankful, and the way to keep it improving is by co-operation and regular attendance.

The service was opened with a song by Mr. A. H. Glasscock and prayer by Mr. Tommie Maddox. Directors for the afternoon were Messrs E. L. Glasscock, Jasper Oaks, W. G. Culp, H. H. Hays, Emmett Billingsley, Akins Collins and Prof. Appleton. Organists were Mrs. Belle Dorminey, Miss Genie Collins, Mrs. Carrie Davenport and Miss Jessie Dorminey. The service was dismissed by Prof. Appleton with prayer.

The United Singing Society will meet at Collins Chapel on Thursday night for practice and at the same place Sunday afternoon for regular singing. Everyone invited to be present and take an active part in the singing.

NON-RESIDENT NOTICE

The State of Alabama, Chilton County, Circuit Court in Equity.

E. H. Hays, Complainant vs. Zeleemer Hayes, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Omar L. Reynolds, that the defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort: and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the defendant is of the age of twenty-one years: It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Zeleemer Hayes to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 12th day of January, 1930 or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken out against her.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

STATE FLOCKS TESTED FOR DREADED DISEASE

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 9— Since August 1, more than 26,000 Alabama chickens have been blood-tested for bacillary white diarrhoea, one of the most serious poultry diseases. This testing will continue until February 1, and is being done by R. B. Jones and others of the poultry division of the state department of agriculture and industries for poultrymen who wish their flocks to be 'certified' and 'accredited.' Men and women county agents, the Alabama Farm Burau Poultry Association, and H. R. Baily, assistant extension poultryman at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, are helping in the mevement.

This work began in 1926 when the department of agriculture, the farm bureau, and the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, cooperating, approved plans for an accreditation and certification project in Alabama. The project was started to eliminate bacillary white diarrhea, and to improve the quality of baby chicks produced in the state.

Poultrymen say that there is only one way of being sure of avoiding the dreaded disease and that is by purchasing chicks from stock that has been tested and is known to be free. Accredited or certified flocks are free from the disease, absence of bacillary white diarrhea being one of the requirements that must be met before a flock is accredited or certified by the farm bureau poultry association, which is the accrediting and certifying agency in Alabama.

In 1926-27 approimately 17,000 birds were tested with 8.6 per cent infection; 27,513 birds were tested in 1927-28 with 7.1 per cent infection; and in 1928-29 the birds tested numbered 30,810 with 4.28 per cent infection. The disease was found in 98 per cent of the flocks tested. In some flocks it has caused as high as 75 per cent mortality.

Poultrymen wanting their flocks tested should confer with county agents or R. B. Jones, chief, poultry division, State Department of Agriculture and Industries, Montgomery.

RECORDS TELL FACTS ABOUT DAIRY HERDS

Anburn, Ala., Dec. 9— Like a searchlight, the dairy herd improvement association pierces the dense darkness that prevails so generally regarding the records of our dairy cows, reads the opening sentence of what is said to be a highly informative and intensely interesting bulletin written by J. C. McDowell of the United States Bureau of Dairy Industry on the subject of improvement associations and "stories the records tell."

It is expected that the owners of 3,626 cows of Alabama which are on test in seven such associations will be interested in the bulletin. Others will also find it valuable, according to C. M. Ling, herd improvement specialist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who points out that the bulletin will be furnished free upon application to county agricultural agents.

FARM FIGURES

Taxes on farm property continued to increase slightly during the past year. For the country as a whole this amounted to about 1 1-2 per cent.

Farmers are using machinery. In 1927 the number of tractors manufactured in the United States was 62,712. Though this was double the production of 1916, it was less than half the number turned out in 1928.

Farm incomes in the United States for the crop season 1928-29 averaged higher than those of any season since 1920-21 execpt 1925-26. Aggregate gross income from agriculaural production for 1928-29 is estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to have been $12,527,000,000 more than for the preceding year.

Total exports of agriculture products from the United States, excluding forest productions, amounted to $1,847,567,000 in the fiscal year 1928-29, an increase of about 2 per cent over the previous year. Agricultural exports in the past year made up only 33 per cent of total exports of all commodities, the smallest percentage, except for 1917-18, on record.

The trek of farm people to the cities is still in progress, but declined in 1928. Farm population, January 1, 929, according to an estimate just released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was the smallest in more than 20 years, or was somewhat smaller in 1928 than in 1927 and 1926, it comprised the formidable total of 1,960,000 persons. This figure was largely offset, however, by the movement of 1,362,000 persons from cities, leaving a net movement of 598,000 persons from farm to cities.

NITRATE OF SODA NOW OLDEST OF COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS

The use of commercial fertilizer in the United States dates back to 1830. In that year the first shipment of nitrate of soda was brought to this country. Used ever since, this fertilizer now occupies a distinct position among the inorganic materials utilized for agricultural purposes. With the exception of lime and marl, it has probably been used the longest of any of the so-called commercial fertilizers.

The use of mineral phosphates was begun in 1842 when Lawes, later of the Rothamsted Station in England, took out his patent for the manufacture of superphosphate. It was not until about 1860 that potash from the German mines was used for farm purposes.

Although many substitutes for the pioneer fertilizers have been developed during recent years, the demand for these natural mineral products continues to expand. In the case of Chilean Nitrate, some 800,000 farmers in this country are now using nearly 1,000,000 tons annually.

EDUCATIONAL FILMS OFFERED FREE OF CHARGE

A new series of motion picture films, featuring approved farm practices in various parts of the country have been made available for schools and clubs, by the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Board. The pictures traces the growth of the common crops from the time the seed is put into the ground until the crop is harvested. The films are practicularly adapted for use in the programs of rural clubs and to be shown before classes studying science and agriculture.

The films will be furnished free of charge to county agents, vocational teachers, and others in charge of rural clubs or meetings. A booklet, giving a synopsis of each film, will be sent to anyone interested in showing the pictures. Write to Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau, 57 William Street, New York.

DEPARTMENT GUARDS ALL FEED SALES IN ALABAMA

A thousand tons of feed a day for every week day in the year, is Alabama's big bill paid for commercial feeds, according to Hamilton M. Robertson, head of the division of agricultural chemistry in the State Department of Agriculture at Montgomery.

Just what is done to insure proper quality and quantity of feeds, thus safeguarding the rights of citizens, was made plain by Dr. Robertson, who said:

"Our chemists analyze about 1,000 to 1,500 samples of commercial feeds each year,—among the nearly 2,000 registered brands in Alabama. Most of this analytical work is designed to detect the presence of adulterations and to make sure that certain low grade mixed feeds have the proper legal amount of nourishment and are free from such adulterations as cotton seed hulls, cotton seed bran, ground peanut hulls, rice hulls or even grit, oyster shells or gravel."

The tonnage of ground or mixed feeds has decreased since 1924 and 1925, according to records kept in the office of the Department of Agriculture. In 1924-1925 a total of 341,024 tons of feed were bought, according to license tags sold by the Department. In 1927 - 1928 only 314,495 tons were disposed of.

To sell a billion dollar cotton crop is not a job for one man nor for one state in the Union. It especially is not a job for one state to be selling its cooperative cotton against all other states. The above opinion was given by Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of Agriculture, just as he was leaving for a meeting with the federal farm bureau at Memphis. It appears that if the government is to sponsor the selling of co-operative cotton, it is determined to proceed on a national scale. This makes it necessary for farmers to join cooperatives if they are to receive any benefit from government aid.

IN A southern city a colored youth applied at a leading hotel for a job as bellboy. There was a vacancy in the bell-hopping staff and the applicant, it seemed, had had experience in similar work at other hotels. The manager, liking the boy's looks, turned him over to the bell captain, who also was colored, for final examination before signing him to duty.

"De main question," began the inquisitor, "is whether you is got politeness. We insists yere 'at all our force must be respeckful an' polite."

"Huh!" said the candidate. "I not only is got politeness, I lakwise also is got tact."

"Whut's de diff'unce 'tween politeness and tact?" asked the bell captain.

"A big diff'unce," said the new hand. "Listen: Lemme give you a 'lustration to prove it. De last job I had over yere at de Palace hotel, de clerk calls me one day an' he tells me to tek a armload of fresh towels up to Number 970. So I teks de towels on my arm an' goes up an' knocks at Number 970. Dey ain't no answer. So I turns de knob and finds de do' ain't locked an' I walks in. Dey ain't nobody in sight inside, so I figgers dat de guest, whoever 'twuz, w'ich wanted de towels is done gone out. So I goes across de room an' opens de bathroom do' an' dere's a strange lady settin in de bathtub. I says right quick: 'Excuse me, suh, and I backs out.

"Now, sayin' 'Scuse me' was politeness, but de 'suh' part—dat was tact!"

Salesman (showing customer some sports stockings): "Just the thing for you. Worth double the money, latest pattern, fast colors, holeproff, won't shrink, and its a good yarn."

Customer (politely): "Very well told, too."—Wall Street Journal.

DR. MILES' NERVINE

Red Lady and her Owner, Bob Shuford

Newton, N, C,,Dec. 10—Red Lady, the South's most noted dairy cow by virture of her exceptionally high production records has stepped into the distinguished circle of world champion jerseys with her latest official test yield.

Now in her fourteenth year, she has just completed a record of 951.94 lbs. of butterfat and 17,434 lbs. of milk, the equivalent of 1,189 lbs. of butter and 8,108 quarts of milk, in 365 days. During the quarter of a century in which official test yields have been recorded by the American Jersey Club this is the highest record ever made by a jersey cow over 12 years of age.

In addition to this remarkable production record, Red Lady has completed four other official tests, each for 365 days. During these five tests she has yielded a grand total of 4,209.44 lbs. of butterfat and 80,425 lbs. of milk, the equivalent of 5,261 lbs., or more than two and a half tons of butter, and 37,406 quarts of milk.

One of these five tests brought Red Lady into international prominence when with her yield of 1,028.-51 lbs of butterfat in 365 days she became the first cow south of the Mason and Dixon Line to make a 1,000-pound butterfat record. All of her records have been outstanding. Three successive times she has been awarded the coveted Medal of Merit, highest medal award of the American Jersey Cattle Club, an honor achieved by only two other cows in America.

Red Lady was bred and rased on the farm of R. L. Shuford, Newton, North Carolina, where all of her amazing records were made under ordinary herd care. In 1927, shortly after the completion of her 1,028-lb. record, she was exhibited at the National Dairy Show at Memphis, Tennessee. Her appearance there was the sensation of the show and the occasion of a history making ovation.

"Bob" Shuford, as Red Lady's owner is known throughout North Carolina, started his purebred Jersey herd in 1891 with two cows, developing it as circumstances permitted. Today it is considered one of the South's most important dairy herds. It has probably won more medals for high production than any herd of equal size in the United States, and won two world championships are counted among its honors.

As a busines enterprise, Mr. Shuford's herd has been exceptionally successful, the sale of dairy products assuming such importance that during a single year 40,000 gallons of ice cream have been manufactured and sold at "Oakwood Farm." Diversification is practiced and the farm has made an enviable reputation for itself for super-yields of corn, cotton and feed crops from its 500 expertly cultivated acres.

BOLTERS BARRED FROM RUNNING IN STATE PRIMARY

Heflin and Locke Will Not Be Permitted To Run Under Rooster In 1930

BOLTERS MAY VOTE BUT CAN'T HOLD OFFICES

Montgomery, Dec. 16.—United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin, a candidate to succeed himself, and Hugh A. Locke of Birmingham, a candidate for governor of Alabama, Monday were barred from the Democratic primary of next year by the Democratic Executive Committee for not supporting Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee in last year's general election.

The committee by a vote of 27 to 21 voted to bar all candidates for federal, state, district or circuit offices from the primary to be held August 12th, 1930, who supported President Hoover. County officers were not affected by the committee ruling, the state committee leaving such action to the discretion of the county committees.

Inroduced by Lynne

While Heflin and Locke are barred from the Democratic primary by the committee ruling, both announced late Monday that they will run in the general election on Nov. 30, of next year as independent Democrats.

The resolution to bar bolters was introduced by S. A. Lynne of Decatur, a former speaker of the State House of Representatives and a prominent prohibitionist. The resolution inviting all Democrats, regardless of how they voted in the general election, to return to the party was introduced by Arthur F. Fite of Jasper.

Lynne, in addressing the committee, said the question of barring bolters involved party organization and loyalty to the wishes of the majority. He based his plea on loyalty, declaring the party could not countenance its adherents' openly espousing the Republican cause.

"Aimed at Smith"

Fite asserted that for Lynne's resolution to be adopted would drive thousands of Alabama Democrats into the Republican ranks. He declared the political revolt in the general election of last year was aimed at Smith as an individual and not against the party or its policies.

Fite was supported in his argument by State Senator J. C. Inzer of Gadsden, who cited statistics showing the rapid gains of Republicans in the last five years.

Chairman E. W. Pettus of Selma expressed his gratification over the outcome. He was one of the leaders to declare bolters ineligible. Gov. Bibb Graves, who remained neutral throughout the long contest, was out of the city on a hunting trip.

ALABAMA ORPHAN'S HOME IN JOINT CHRISTMAS CAMPAIGN FOR CASH

Their Needs Are Urgent

The Presbyterian Home of Talladga, the Methodist Home of Selma, and the Baptist Home of Troy are joining in their efforts to secure a Christmas Cash Offering for the support of their children. The 500 children in these homes were placed there because they had no other home. There, they have the proper care, are fed, clothed, receive the proper medical attention and are sent to school. The class of service rendered by these institutions is approved by the State Child Welfare Department.

These homes are in urgent need of help, and are worthy of the most liberal support. It is believed that these three great denominations and many other friends of orphan children will cheerfully and liberally respond to the call.

SHELBY FINDS HENS BRING MOST INCOME

Columbiana, Dec. 16.—Our poultry industry is making more progress and paying better profits than any other farm operation, is the gist of a statement made by A. A. Lauderdale, county agent. Production is good and poultrymen are getting unusually high prices for chickens and eggs, he explained.

For example, he continued, Sam Stone of Wilsonville, with a flock of 325 white leghorns received on income above feed of $340 for the last seven months inclusive.

CLEVE LITTLEFIELD RETURNS FROM DEER HUNT

Mr. Cleve Littlefield has returned from a deer hunt near Eutaw in Greene County, where he spent last Friday and Saturday with a party from Birmingham in quest of the antlered monarch of the forest on the Smith game reservation.

Cleve poked chest away out with much pride as he related how he brought down a 150 pound buck on Saturday morning with his faithful Browning automatic.

We can not relate the full details of the hunt as given us by Mr. Littlefield. We will have to let it go by saying that it is an interesting story, and all who enjoy tales of the hunter should get him strung out with the yarn. Killing deer is a sport which few men are permitted to enjoy these days, and Mr. Littlefield is fully justified in his pride over this experience of last week.

BYRD'S GREAT EXPLOIT

Commander Byrd's exploit in the South Polar region deserves all the praise that is being showered upon the American people. His expedition, well equipped for its task, is a complete success.

While we have no idea that his latest flight was anything like as dangerous as that over the North Pole. It was by no means a cinch and the Byrd party deserves congratulations for its exploit.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS OF THE TOWN OF CLANTON

Attention is again called to taxpayers of the Town of Clanton that municipal taxes are due December 1st and delinquent January 1, 1930. After delinquent date fee will be placed on taxes, said fee being in many cases almost equal to amount of taxes due. To avoid paying this fee, we respectfully ask that taxes be paid on or before the date of delinquency.—Eric Hart, Mayor.

Many a rich man has paid a young lady for a promise that he never made, but how could yo uexpect a jury to believe that a good looking girl would lie.

We remind you again of our rule, which is the same as that of all reputable newspapers, and prohibits the publication of unsigned articles or news reports.

Judge Clayton May Retire From Bench

Ill Health Reason; O. D. Street Mentioned as Probable Successor as Federal Judge.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Judge Henry D. Clayton, of the United States Court for the middle district of Alabama, has notified the department of justice that he desires to retire, and his request will be granted immediately, it was learned.

Ill health is the reason assigned for Judge Clayton's desicion to retire from active service. President Hoover will nominate a successor to the veteran jurist as soon as the necessary papers to retire him on three-fourths pay are prepared and approved. Several Alabamians already have their eyes on the vacancy, and there are indications that a lively contest will soon be under way.

Street Eyes Bench

Judge O. D. Street, Republican national committeeman for Alabama, would like to go to the federal bench according to his friends here, but it is pointed out that he is not a resident of the middle district, although that would not make him ineligible. Judge Street was an applicant some months ago for presidential appointment to the United States court of Claims, and many of his supporters were greatly surprised and disappointed when he failed to land that post.

Lawrence H. Lee, legal advisor to Governor Graves, was in Washington Monday, and it was strongly intimated by some of his friends that he might become an applicant. Mr. Lee went on to New York Tuesday without commenting on the matter.

The name of Representative Henry Steagall, of the third Alabama district, was frequently mentioned here in connection with the judgeship. Mr. Steagall has gone home for the holidays, and while his colleagues in the Alabama congressional delegation doubt that he would consider becoming an active applicant, they are planning to present his qualifications and work for his appointment.

Judge Clayton was the congressman from the third district when he was elevated to the federal bench and the colleagues of Seagall declare that if a similar course should be followed in making the forthcoming appointment, the court would be presided over by a man eminently qualified for the federal bench.

FORMER CHILTON CITIZEN WAS HERE FROM WASHINGTON, D. C.

Lieutenant Bradford N. Headley of Washington, D. C. was in Clanton Thursday and Friday of last week. He was just passing through here, and stopped off a few days to see old friends and acquaintances.

Lieut. Headley is now connected with the War Department at Washington, and had made a trip to Fort Benning Ga., to carry a detachment of trucks down there for the War Department.

This man was reared near Union Grove in this county, where he lived until he left this part of the country twenty years ago. Since that time he has been all over the world, having served in the regular army and later having been retired from the regular service and given a responsible position with the War Department.

Mr. Headley taught school one winter, in 1908, at old Pleasant Cherry schoolhouse on the river, near Higgins Ferry. He left Chilton County shortly after that, and this is his first visit back here. He is the son of the late Caleb Headley who died in Shelby county and was buried at Union Grove several years ago. Mr. Headley spent the night with his old friend, H. B. Glenn, who lives two miles out from town. He left for his home in Washington Friday afternoon.

CARRIED TO INSANE HOSPITAL

Deputies from the Sheriff's office went to Tuscaloosa Tuesday to carry Mrs. Peallie Wood to the insane hospital. Mrs. Wood is from Mississippi, and has been in this county for some time.

The Sheriff states that this is the fourth person he has sent to the asylum in the past month. He has another insane person in jail now.

MONUMENT BUSINESS COMING HERE

Mr. Boykin Murrah, Mr. Clark and Mr. Limasey, of Birmingham, have been in Clanton this week looking for a place to put up a monument and tumbstone business. We understand that they will come here if they can secure a suitable place.

Mr. Murrah is a cousin of Deputy Sheriff, George Murah.

BIRMINGHAM YOUNG MAN GETS OXFORD SCHOL'SHIP

University, Ala., December 17.—Lewis Smith has been awarded the Rhodes scholarship from the State of Alabama. This scholarship will take Smith to Oxford University in England for three years, and will include travel over continental Europe. It carries a stipend of approximately $2,000 a year. Smith, former president of the student body, is graduating this year in the law school and will spend his three years studying law in England. He expects to return to Alabama to practice, he stated.

"Tony" (Bernard) Holm, Fairfield, Ala., left the University campus this week to meet the All-Eastern football team in Chicago, and will accompany the team from there to San Francisco, where he will play in the West-East game on New Years day. Tony was invited to paly on the West Coast shortly after he was selected all-American fullback by the 215 writers in the United States representing the Associated Press.

The Y. W. C. A. of the University, composed of University girls, met this week and voted to have a Xmas. tree on the campus for unfortunate children. Santa Claus and lots of gifts are in store for these kids, and a big Xmas tree will be set up on the campus for the event. The freshman Y. W. C. A. group voted to hold a meeting each Monday during the school year.

COUNTY CHEST EXPLAINED

Many are wondering how the funds from the chest are to be distributed. A record will be kept of all funds received, names and amounts over $1 will be published in the papers, cards will be mailed out to the contributors so that they will not be called upon again. Larger cards will also be given to the larger contributors for display in stores, etc.

A representative citizen of the community, chairman of the drive, is also an advisory chairman to work with and advise with the Child Welfare Board and the Central committee. This central committee consists of Rev. S. J. Ezell, Treasurer, Rev. E. A. Childs, and Mrs. C. E. Stapp. Whenever a case is reported, the Superintendent of the Child Welfare and the community chairmen all work together and make recommendations to the central committee; and this central committee will make investigations when necessary and pass upon the worthiness of each call. Help will go to all parts of the county just in proportion as the needs are shown. Upon investigation only worthy cases will be cared for and those in real need of the most necessary things.

CONTRACT LET FOR BUILDING NEW NEGRO SCHOOL HOUSE

The office of County Superintendent of Education, Buford Lawrence, announces that the contract has been let for the construction of a new public school for negroes in Clanton, to take the place of the building which was burned last year.

The site has been selected and approved by the State, and will be on the Mike Foshee proprty west of the Kincheon Road in West End. The new school will be a frame structure and will cost $5,695. The contractor is J. L. Crawford from South Alabama. Time for the completion of the building is specified at March 1, 1930.

The new school will be designated as a Rosenwald School, having received $1,000 from the Rosenwald Fund. $1,800 was received as aid from the State of Alabama.

E. W. Burt is principal of the Clanton school for negroes, and is holding school temporarily in the negro church and lodge hall until the new building can be completed.

THE COUNTY CHEST DRIVE

Letters are being mailed out to the different community chairmen of the Chest Drive, telling them if they are not able to get the money which they feel that their community should raise, that they can possibly raise quite a bit by getting good syrup, chickens, corn, good second-hand clothes, towels, quilts, pillow cases, sheets, etc. There will be many farmers who would easily give from one to ten gallons of syrup a great deal easier than they could donate that much money. The same can be said about corn, chickens, etc.

The name, address, and the money value of each article is very necessary in order for the community to gain credit for the amount it raises in this drive.

Let's all get together and sacrifice in order to help the most unfortunate and in order that we may not have to be giving all during the year. Let's make our donations large and only once so that it may be used systematically, and in this way we will be helping only those who are worthy.

ARRESTED FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Mr. Vernon Robinson was arrested last Saturday night by city officers Loss Robinson and Milton Smith, on a charge of reckless driving. He was carried before Mayor's Court Monday morning and fined $15 and costs.

THREE NEGROES ARRESTED

Last Saturday afternoon city officer Loss Robinson and County officer George Murrah, arrested three negroes, Mary Williams, Sam Williams, and Walter Benjamin, charged with violating the prohibition law. The arrests were made in Frog Level where the negroes were found in possession of some liquor. They were placed in jail and turned over to the state courts, later being released on bonds.

CLANTON QUARTET AT JEMISON

The Clanton quartet will render a musical concert at Jemison High School Building Friday of this week, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Admission charges of 15 and 25 cents will be made and proceeds will go for benefit of the Jemison School.

The quartet will sing at Pine Level in Autauga County Thursday night of this week.

Every body is invited.

ROLAND W. TAYLOR ABLE TO BE OUT ON JOB AGAIN

We are pleased to report that Rowland W. Taylor of the Downs Grocery Company is able this week to be back on the job again.

Mr. Taylor has been confined to his home for several weeks with a liver and heart trouble, but he seems to be steadily regaining his strength, and we hope that he will soon be enjoying his normal health again.

LUNCH STAND OPERATOR ARRESTED

A man by the name of Earl Parrish, who operates a lunch stand near the cotton mill, was arrested last Saturday night by city officers Loss Robinson and Milton Smith, on a charge of violating the prohibition laws. He was caught with a pint of liquor at the cotton mill. The man was released after making bond for his appearance at court. Parrish is said to have come to Clanton recently from Sylacauga.

HENRY TEEL IN WADE'S THEATRE BARBER SHOP

Mr. Henry Teel has recently taken charge of the Theatre Barber Shop on the west side of the railroad.

Mr. Teel is a well experienced barber, having followed this trade for the past several years.

Clanton is Henry's old home town, but since he began barbering he has been around over the country quite a bit. His many friends in Chilton County will be glad that he has chosen to come back home and work his trade among the people who know him best.

CALL FOR MEETING OF COUNTY REPUBLICAN EX. COMMITTEE

Clanton, Ala., Dec. 17, 1929.

The Chilton County Republican Executive Committee is hereby called to meet at the court house at Clanton, Ala., on Saturday, December 28th, at 2 p.m., at which time arrangements will be made for holding a Republican primary election during the coming year. All prospective candidates and others interested are requested to meet with us.

J. N. DENNIS, Chairman,
Chilton Co. Republican Ex. Com.

FARM BUREAU CONTEST TIME EXTENDED

At the request of several committees, the time of the Farm Bureau membership contest has been extended to January 15. Committees are urged to turn in their cards at the end of each week so that insurance can be issued promptly to those who sign up.

HOSPITAL BILL OKAYED IN HOUSE

A telegram from Representative Lamar Jeffers, received here Friday morning at state headquarters of the American Legion, said that the house veterans committee of congress had approved the bill providing for the erection of a government hospital for world war veterans in Alabama. Jeffers introduced the bill at the last session of congress, but action on the measure was delayed.

The veterans committee, of which Jeffers is a member, voted favorably on the bill Friday morning, according to the telegram received by Adjutant C. B. Simms, of the American Legion.

Dr. N. A. Staples Coming To Clanton

Will form Partnership with Dr. J. E. Edgar in Practice of Dentistry.

Dr. N. A. Staples of Union Springs is coming to Clanton and will be associated with Dr. J. E. Edgar in the practice of dentistry. The partnership will be effective on January 1.

Dr. Staples is a boyhood companion of Dr. Edgar; they grew up together in Choctaw county, went to school together, and were classmates at Vandervilt University. For the past three years Dr. Staples has been practicing his profession at Union Springs. After finishing his dental course at Vanderbilt, Dr. Staples remained at the University for two years as an instructor in dentistry.

The partnership will be Edgar & Staples. They will have their parlors at the same place which has been occupied by Dr. Edgar for the past two years. New fixtures and equipment will be installed, including an X-ray machine. The offices will be closed from Christmas eve until January 1st, while the new equipment is being installed.

Dr. Staples, with his wife and little daughter, will live at the home of Mr. Glenn Moore, where they will do light housekeeping.

THE COUNTY CHEST DRIVE IN FULL SWAY THIS WEEK

This has been a week full of interest and work in the drive for funds to be used in caring for the unfortunate ones of Chilton County. In every community, the chairman and committeemen are to raise as much money as possible to be sent in from that particular community.

Good reports have already come in from several communities. These reports show progress in the work which is being done by the chairmen of these communities, as well as the people at large who are doing great things by contributing.

Let us labor the remainder of the week in finishing the work of the County Chest drive. Just as people of long ago brought gifts to the Christ Child whose birthday we are soon to celebrate, let us remember to make liberal contributions to the ones who are in need.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

NEW A.&P. STORE WILL OPEN HERE NEXT SATURDAY

New Place Here Is In Class With Best Stores In The Larger Cities

FINE MEAT MARKET COMPLETE FOOD STORE

The new store of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company in Clanton will open for business Saturday of this week, presenting to the people of this county a service that is unexcelled and which will be on a par with the best of the A. & P. stores of the large cities of the country. Mr. C. A. Robertson, district superintendent of the A. & P. Company, who has been here this week supervising the arrangement of fixtures for the new place, stated that the Clanton store would be nothing short of the best stores of the company, an would in every way be equal to the stores which are being operated in cities like Atlanta and Birmingham.

The manager of the Clanton store will be Mr. John Warren Lusk, of Gadsden, an experienced A. & P. man, who has been with this company about three years. Mr. Lusk has been here all this week attending to the placing of the stock and getting things in readiness for opening day. The assistant manager will be Mr. J. B. Warren, who is a Chilton county man, son of W. E. Warren of Mitchell Dam.

The A. & P. store in Clanton will be supplied with stocks of merchandise direct from the warehouses of the company in Birmingham. The store here will be in the territory of Mr. S. L. Williams of Montgomery, who is assistant superintendent of A. & P. Company in this district.

Workmen have been busy this week getting the fifxtures installed in the building formerly occupied by W. T. Baker Dry Goods Company. Everything being put in is brand new and neat as a pin. This will be the largest grocery store in Clanton. Its modern facilities and splendid arrangement will make it possible to accommodate a vast number of people with much ease.

A complete line of fancy groceries will be carried, and sold to the people of this section according to the most modern methods of grocery merchandising.

A specially attractive feature will be one of the finest meat markets in Alabama. It is covering a lot of ground to say that, but it is a fact, nevertheless. You will say so too when you see it. All the meat market equipment will be mechanically refrigerated.

All kinds of fruits, vegetables and produce will be featured at this new store, and available to their customers every day in the year.

Clanton should feel proud to have such a store as this to come to our city. The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company is the largest retailers of groceries and food products in the world. They have thousands of stores from one end of the country to the other. With their long established reputation for dependability, our people may be assured that the goods and the service they will get at this new store will be up to the highest standard in every respect.

AUTAUGA COUNTY LEVIES 3-MILL TAX FOR SCHOOLS

A three-mill tax election was held in Autauga County Tuesday. The result was 528 votes for the tax and 250 votes against it.

Messrs. E. C. Powell and "Deacon" Lowe of Decatur paid a flying visit to relatives and friends in Clanton last Sunday.

CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AT CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

The Clanton Baptist Sunday school will present a Christmas Pageant at the Clanton Baptist church on next Sunday night. The title of the story which will be portrayed is "The Star Leads on."

The different departments of the Sunday school will take part in the exercises, and it is assured that the lesson will be very impressive.

At the close of the pageant, each class and department of the Sunday school will present its offering which will go to the Christmas fund for the orphans home at Troy. Also the audience will be given a chance to contribute to the fund.

Everybody is invited to attend the exercises. You will enjoy it immensely and it will help you to get the Christmas spirit.

CHRISTMAS IN 1777 WAS BLEAK IN THIS COUNTRY

One of the bleakest Christmasts in American history was that of 1777. General Washington and his little army had gone into winter quarters at Valley Forge, and the future looked gloomy indeed. Washington's Christmas that year was not a merry one. It is described in interesting detail in the current issue of the National Republic Magazine in an article written by Mrs. Edith Irwin Hobart, President General of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, who writes:

"The dinner consisted of this: A little veal, a little mutton, not much, for it is probable that the turkeys, geese and 'fouls' were husbanded for the occasion; a small quantity of potatoes and cabbage and less of turnips; no tea, no coffee, no milk, a small amount of butter perhaps, but no bread, no eggs, no flour; so there were no pies, pudding, desert. If there was either whiskey or rum—which is doubtful, as none was issued to the traps in that day—there was no punch for sugar was lacking. A minor, though irritating difficulty was the probable lack of sufficient knives, forks and spoons, for Washington had been separated from his baggage during the Brandywine and Germantown maneuvers and did not obtain it again until the middle of January.

"The prices paid for the food of this Christmas dinner varied considerably from present-day values. Reckoning the Pennsylvania shilling at about 13 1-3 cents of the present day, which was, probably, well above its purchasing value, mutton and veal cost about 15 cents a lb.; potatoes a little over a dollar a bushel; turnips about a dollar and a half a bushel; and cabbage 13½ cents a pound. Butter was one dollar a pound, when obtainable, and the chickens, which Gibbs always wrote as 'fouls," were fifty cents each, with the turkeys a dollar and a half and the geese a dollar and a quarter each.

"From historical records we learn that these were the men who sat at the table the afternoon of Christmas Day while the heavy snow drifted down the gloomy little valley and banked in wet, clinging masses up against frame and sill; George Washington, grave of mien and towering in physique even among the stalwarts of the Revolution; on his right the guest of honor, the Marquis de La-Fayette; the Baron de Kalb, major general of the day; Brigadier General John Peterson of New Jersey; Lieutenant Colonels Thomas Paxton of the Pennsylvania militia and Robert Bullard of the Virginia line, and Brigade Major Simon Learned, of Massachusetts. The aides de camp were Robert Hanson Harrison, John Fitzgerald, Alexander Hamilton, Richard Kidder Meade, Peter Presley Thornton, John Laurens and Tench Tilghman; all lieutenant colonels except Tilghman, the volunteer, who was giving his talents and health to the cause of liberty without thought or care for rank or pay. There were two others acting aides by special appointments, Captain Caleb Gibbs and George Lewis, a lieutenant in the guard and a well-liked nephew of the commander-in-chief. A goodly number! The young courtier from the most militant in Europe, the seasoned and critically sardonic veteran from France; an embryo judge of the supreme court, a Secretary of the Treasury and special ambassador to Europe among the young aides who were learning, as were the others, the greatest lesson of life from the quite dominant figure at the head of the table. A hundred Valley Forges could not have broken the spirit of American manhood within the candle light of that board."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

There was something in the way in which President Hoover called together the heads of the various industrial, commercial and agricultural industries of the country, which took us back in memory to the stirring days of the war when this same Herbert Hoover as head of the National Food Adminstration, was organizing and directing the resources of the nation for the purpose of assuring that our food supplies would not be lacking for our armies across the seas and for our nation itself. This time the call was not for organization to win a war but to preserve the prosperity of the country which seemed for the time in danger of a check because of the disastrous slump in the stock market..

Probably never in history has any nation survived so severe a stock liquidation as that which came upon us unexpectedly a few weeks ago, without undergoing a panic and a series of subsequent financial disasters. The way in which the country withstood the shock indicated that out economic fabric is fundamentally solid. Our national leaders realized this, and the purpose of President Hoover in organizing for the restoration of normalcy was to prevent any widespread secession in business due to a psychological condition among the people themselves.

That the President's initial efforts have been successfil is evidenced by the enthusiastic response from the ousiness and labor world. The response has gone further than this and the governors of the various states, regardless of their political affiliations, have assured the chief executive of their cooperation in the constructive program which is being outlined. The President has naturally expressed some satisfaction over the results of his first efforts in this program of restoring business confidence. A number of things already have been accomplished. The heads of the railroads who came to Washington, later conferring among themselves, have announced a program of improvement and expansion which means a great deal for the industries of the country in 1930. The industrial group reported to the President that business was generally very good and that there would be no serious curtailment in the near future. They promised that there would be no reduction of wages, and the heads of the labor groups agreed that there would be no requests for general raises in wages until the situation has righted itself.

The administration itself has adopted a progrom which will help a great deal in making 1930 a prosperous year. Income taxes are to be reduced in the sum of $160,000,000. Ocean mail carrying contracts will be awarded in the sum of $10,000,000, thus aiding our shipping industry in a substantial way and this in turn is expected to result in the construction of new ships for our merchant marine, with a cost of approximately a quarter of a million dollars. All of which, of course, will aid not only the ship building industry but business in general. Again the administration will propose an increase of $175,000,000 in the fund for the construction of public buildings. The government will of course aid in the financing of the new ships for the merchant marine, mentioned above.

Last but not least the President conferred with the argicultural group and the farm leaders pledged him their support and gave him the encouraging information that the general farm situation is much better than it was a year ago. They aproved the President's plan for increased road construction and suggested that agriculture could be benefitted especially by the construction of "farm to market" highways connecting with through roads and thus cutting down the farmer's transportation cost.

Taken all in all, the President's program seems comprehensive in a national sense, as was to be expected. Of course, national co-operation from business, labor, agriculture and the people in general will be necessary to make it a complete success, but there is little doubt that this will be forthcoming. And it may be said in passing that a sound and scientific protective tariff bill enacted in the coming regular session of Congress will go a long way toward stabilizing conditions in America.

A TESTING TIME FOR PEACE TREATIES

General treaties for peace are of no account so long as there are nations which, while entering into solemn obligations under them, claim and assert the right to repudiate these treaties whenever such repudiation suits their interests. Indeed such treaties under these circumstances become a menance to well intentioned nations, and a weapon in the hands of nations which rely upon force to impose their will upon weaker neighbors.

A case in point is the cynical disregard of obligations under the Kellogg treaty by Russia. Russia as well as China is a signatory of this pact. China has repeatedly appealed for international arbitration of these differences. In the beginning the Russian Government publicly announced that it had no intention of going to war for commercial purposes in Manchuria. Under cover of this assurance to the world the Moscow masters entered upon a program of purchasing and otherwise securing rebellion by military generals within China. While thus throwing China into turmoil Russia began massing troops and supplies on the Manchurian border, and when fully prepared began an invasion which is now in full swing, with heavy loss of life.

The war in Manchuria is due to Russia's cynical disregard of a prior treaty. The agreement between Russia and China for Russian control of a railroad over the Chinese territory obligated each nation to desist from propaganda against the other. The Chinese Government discovered, and has asked the powers for opportunity to display the proofs, that The Chinese Eastern Railroad was being used as a base for Red revolution in China. The correspondence discovered in the Harbon raid even that the chief officials of the Nanking government were marked for assissination in a conspiracy to seize control of the Chinese government. In other words, Russia was guilty of gross violation of a treaty involving the fundamental right of China to protect itself from destruction. No self-respecting nation could have tolerated this.

The people of the western world have a very vital interest in these treaty violations of Russia. Should Moscow's plan of seizing control of China succeed, the menance of bolshevism will be brought to the whole eastern edge of the Pacific ocean toward which our western coast faces. Japan is conscious of a widespread revolutionary movement engineered by bolshevists in that country and has recently made wholesale arrests of revolutionaries acting under Moscow direction. Should the Russian conquest of China succeed, the Japanese empire will be in immediate danger. For this reason, Japan is taking an interest in Manchurian events, and it is possible may yet take a hand which will precipitate a general war in the Orient.

It is a rather remarkable fact that American "Liberals" who were crying "Hands off China" when the United States and other western powser were protecting their nations against Red attacks in China, are silent now that Russia has torn the Kellogg pact to pieces and has armies in motion with a view to the crushing of the Nationalist government. It evidently depends with them as to whether it is the Red ox or some other ox that is being gored. Those pacifist organizations in the United States with ill concealed sympathies with Soviet Russia, have nothing to say about Russia's ruthless disregard of the Kellogg peace treaty, which these same pacifists so ardently espoused.

Does the League of Nations mean anything in the restraint of militarism? Does the Kellogg treaty mean anything in the prevention of war? With one signatory to the treaty spitting upon the treaty and another appealing in vain to other signatories to stop this violation of the treaty, and with the League of Nations supinely sitting by while invading armies are in motion, the testing time of world peace by international agreement is at hand.

THE UNITED SINGING SOCIETY

The writer, a representative of The Union-Banner, had the distinct pleasure of attending a meeting of the United Singing Society, which was held at Collins Chapel church last Sunday afternoon. Most of the leading singers of the county were there, and the music made was fine indeed.

The society this year is being presided over by that splendid singer and fine young leader, Akins Collins, and he is backed up by those old veterans of sacred song, Lige and Arch Glasscock, and most all of the many good singers of the northern part of the county. When this bunch gets behind a movment, they make it go; and the United Singing Society is going this year.

This bunch of singers supplemented by the help of W. M. Devaughn, C. H. Robinson, Jasper Oaks, O. L. Devaughn, Lorenzo Sanders, Akins Mims, and others, can certainly make a song move. The singing last Sunday at Collins Chapel was full of life and the spirit from start to finish.

Now, we have said some good things about the singing and the singers, we are going to turn the picture over and do a little friendly criticism. Collins Chapel ought to have a better musical instrument in their church than they have got. It may be that we are too late about our criticism, because a movement may already be on to purchase a fine piano for the church; if so, what we say will do no harm, and if not, maybe it will couse somebody to institute such a movement. Collins Chapel needs a good piano and the people there can buy one and never miss it.

Opposition leaders in the Senate complain because the President did not try to lead them. If Mr. Hoover had tried to lead them, they would have complained because he was trying to lead them.

The all-year-round Santa Claus to your Community

Happiness and good cheer are in the air. The Yuletide has rolled round again. Soon you and your family will be looking under holly and mistletoe to see what Kris Kringle has brought you! . . . . Christmas, however, comes just once a year---and then only for a day. Quickly the busy world moves on. There is much work to be done, and, for this work, another kind of Santa Claus is needed. A Santa Claus which comes, not with reindeer and jingling bells, but on shining steel rails.

The railroad is the all-year-round Santa Claus to your community. It connects your town with the outside world, and you and your family with friends and loved ones elsewhere. It provides dependable outlets for the things your community makes, and brings the goods of the world to you. The railroad furnishes steady employment for many of your fellow-citizens and through their pay-checks, which are largely spent in your town, it adds directly or indirectly to your prosperity. The railroad buys locally, and pays city, county, and state taxes.

In patronizing this railroad, you are furthering your own best interests. For the more business it does, the better off you and your community will be. Travel and ship by rail---let the L. & N. serve you.

The L. & N. is widely known for its splendid dining-car service, which is not surpassed by that of any other railroad. The stewards and waiters are courteous and attentive to the wants of passengers, the food is the best the markets afford, and the charges are moderate. This service adds materially to the pleasures and comforts of a trip over the L. & N.

County Farm Agent's Notes

CROP REPORTS FOR ALABAMA SHOWS FARMERS PROSPEROUS

Alabama produced this year the third largest cotton crop since the advent of the boll weevil, according to figures made public by F. W. Gist, state and federal statistican, of the Department of Agriculture and Industries, at Montgomery, on December 9, 1929. His report follows:

Alabama has again demonstrated that a dry year with intelligent fertilizing will make cotton. We have made 1,335,000 bales of cotton on 3,589,000 picked acres, giving an acre-yield of 178. These figures compare with 1,109,000 bales last year on 3,534,000 acres and an acre-yield of 150 pounds.

The crop of this year is the third largest since the boll wevil entered our borders and spread over the state In 1926, we made 1,470,000 bales, and in 1925, 1,356,000 bales. In 1926, the acre-yield was 196 pounds and in 1925 was 185 pounds. Both these years were better cotton years than 1929. The floods of last March disorganized some farms, though cotton was planted afterwards on fairly well prepared land. In some northern counties a severe drought was thooght at the time to have seriously damaged the cotton crop, and the boll weevil were quite active in many southern counties, so that up to the first of November we did not expect to make more than 1,200,000 bales. Ginnings at that time and since, however, have convinced the most skeptical that we have again produced a good crop.

Last year there were used on cotton 428,000 tons of fertilizer, which was increased this year to 569,000. Our bill for fertilizers last year was about $17,000,000 chargeable to cotton, while this year it was $118,000,000. The value of last year's lint and seed was about $118,000,000. At present prices this year's crop is worth $124,000,000. So that with even the lower prices of this season, the cotton grower is about $6,000,000 ahead of last year after paying his increased fertilizer bill.

Roughly estimated the cotton produced in the various sections of the state, north Alabama has produced this year 635,000 bales of cotton against 570,000 last year; the black belt has produced 257,000 against 179,000 last year; the piedmont has produced 148,000 against 211,000 last year.

There were ginned in Alabama 1,200,000 bales to December 1, so that nearly 10 per cent of the crop remains to be ginned, mostly in the north half of the state.

The estimate for the United States is 14,919,000 bales, slightly less than was estimated a month ago.

KEEPS A RECORD KNOWS HIS HENS

Kimberly, Ala., Dec. 16.—One of the best poultrymen of Jefferson County, according to J. L. Liles, county agent, is Dennis Houghes, of Kimberley. He keeps a record on his flock of 125 white leghorns. They averaged 220 eggs for the last 12 months. This, Mr. Liles said, is a good record. Proper feeding, well-selected birds, and good care are largely responsible, he added.

"Home Beautification," a bulletin written by Sam F. Brewster, extension landscape specialist at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, has been published. It may be had free from men and women county agents. Suggestions for landscaping the farm home are given in this publication.

A day in 1929 is perhaps equivalent to ten of the thirteenth century.— Dr. H. Jaworski.

PULLETS BEAT HENS IN PRODUCING EGGS

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 16—A hen may live ten years but on the average she will produce a profit for her owner only one or two years out of the decade. In fact, records kept by the poultry farm of the Alabama Poly-technic Institute go a long way towards proving that the average hen is profitable only for one year if she is used solely for producing market eggs.

There is a demonstration flock here of 1,500 birds which is kept to show what can be done with poultry under actual farm conditions. G. A. Trollope, head of the poultry department, gives records on two groups of these chickens, which he says deserve study by poultrymen interested in profitable egg production.

In one of the groups there are 231 white leghorn hens which are kept for their value as breeding stock; in the other 247 pullets. The hens are in their second year of production, and the pullets were hatched last February. For November the older birds produced only 65 dozen eggs, while the pullets laid 314 dozen.

At 45c a dozen the pullets dropped $141.30 worth of eggs, while the value of the eggs from the hens was only $29.25. Expenses for feed, labor, and other costs on the pullets amounted to $55.26, compared to $47.42 for the hens. Therefore, the pullets gave a return above costs of $86.04, and the hens lost $18.17 for their owner.

It should be born in mind, Mr. Trollope says, that these records are for only one flock over a period of only one month. However, basing his recommendation on these figures and other information, he says that at least 75 per cent of the pullets in a flock should be culled out after the first year's production.

Both groups of birds were fed, housed and managed alike. Feeds mixed by the Auburn formula and distributed by the Farm Bureau were used.

AUBURN LEADER GETS MEDAL FOR SERVICE

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 16.—Director L. N. Duncan of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute was honored December 10 for his outstanding service to the farm people of Alabama and the nation.

He was awarded the American Farm Bureau Federation's medal for distinguished service to agriculture at the eleventh annual meeting of that organization at Chicago.

Prof. Duncan called and presided over the first Farm Bureau meeting in Alabama at Auburn in January, 1921. Since then he has been a leader in rural organization work although he has never been an official of the Farm Bureau.

LOCAL FIRM GETS VALUABE AGENCY

Alred Drug Co. Secures Exclusive 5 Year Franchise for New Scientific Formula

Local citizens who have heard of the amazing results which have been accomplished by Sargon will be interested in the important announcement that this new and scientific formula can now be obtained in this city.

Manufacturers of this revolutionary medicine have followed out the policy of selecting outstanding firms as exclusive agents in every city where it has been introduced. Leading druggists everywhere have acclaimed it as a triumph in the field of modern chemistry and have been eager to be among the first to supply it to their trade.

Never before in the history of the world has the progress of Medical Science been so rapid. One important discovery after another has been made which will have a far-reaching effect upon the health and well-being of mankind. Some of these discoveries are startling in the extreme and absolutely disprove many of the beliefs, practices and theories we have known for a life-time.

As scientfic investigators learn more and more about the human anatomy, the practice of medicine changes—the old is discarded for the new.

As a result of this world-wide medical research, science has learned that good health is largely governed and maintained by three vital organs and fluids of the body.

What is more important, we have learned that these organs and fluids can often be aided and strengthened by certain basic elements.

Having knowledge of these important discoveries, one of America's leading bio-chemists succeeded, after two and one-half years of laboratory research, in combining many of these basic elements in one formula, which may well be considered one of the greatest health-sustaining remedies of the age.

It is called Sargon. This formula and the formula for Sargon Soft Mass Pills, which are an essential and integral part of the treatment, are the property of Sargon Laboratories and can be obtained by no other firm or individual in the world.

This new scientific treatment, which represents much of our latest knowledge on modern therapy, has been acclaimed by druggists throughout America as a triumph in the field of pharmaceutical chemistry.

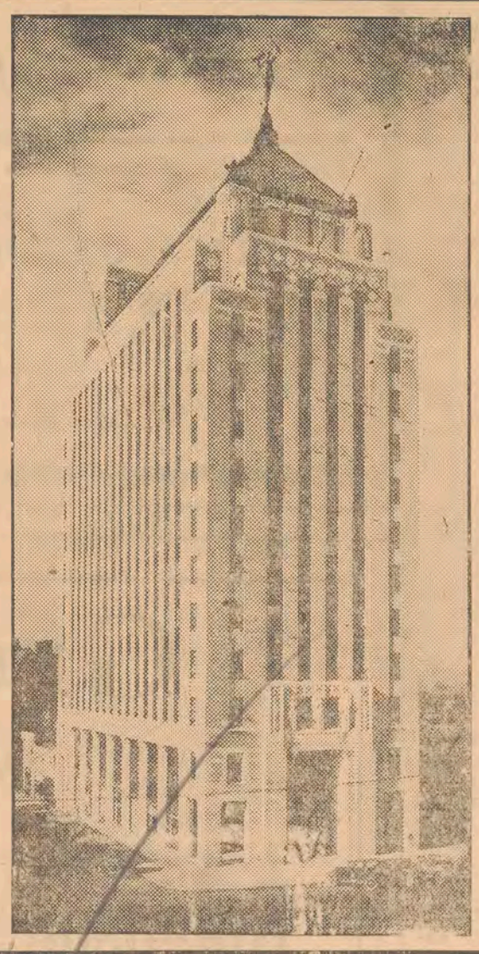
With the needs of their customers uppermost in their minds, leading druggists everywhere have been eager to be among the first to supply it to their trade.

The exclusive agency for Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills for this city and section has been awarded to the Alred Drug Company.

CANE CREEK

Our Sunday school has been quite small for the last few Sundays but we are still having it at 10 o'clock every Sunday that the weather will permit. There are several in this community who are not attending a Sunday school anywhere. There are plenty of Sunday schools at different places and if you are not attending one somewhere else, come here and your presence will be greatly appreciated. The lessons which we have will be a great help to you.

The proceeds from the box supper Saturday night come to $21, which will go toward painting the church. We thank all who helped out in any way with it. We haven't enough yet, and all the members who did not help with the box supper and quilts or give money, are asked to help on it. It is our duty to help, and we will be glad of any help outside of the church members; but we especially ask the members to help some, and give the money to Mr. J. N. Miner, treasurer, and he will see that it all goes in for the paint and work.



Several from here attended preaching service at Mountain Springs Saturday and Sunday to hear Rev. Nelson preach. We enjoy hearing him for he sure preaches some good sermons.

Remember that next Sunday afternoon, December 22 is our regular singing evening. The new song books will be used. We invite all singers from any society to come and help us sing. I you don't sing come any way and you will be welcome just the same. We always try to make everybody feel welcome who come here. It will start at 1 o'clock. Our chairman promised that he would come and do his part if we would all help him; so come on people and let's help him and see what a good singing we can have.—One who is interested in the Church Services.

more SERVICE at LOWER RATES

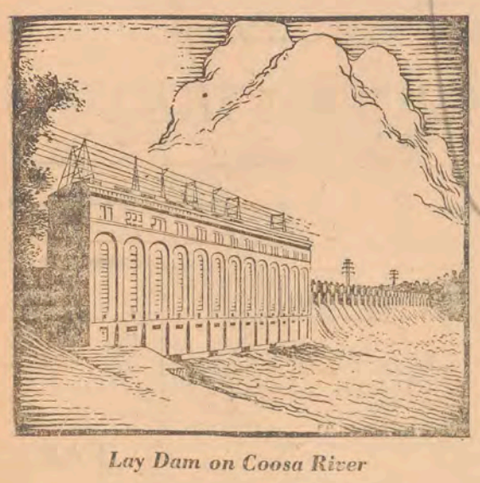
Alabama Power Company Building, Birmingham

Food, clothing, rent—almost every item in the household budget has steadily gone UP since 1918.



Only one has steadily gone DOWN. That is electricity.

Within the past ten years, the average price of residential electric service throughout the country has dropped from 8.3c per kilowatt hour in 1918 to 6.55c per kilowatt hour in 1928.

Here in Alabama, 1929 has seen two big rate reductions, which will save domestic and commercial customers approximately $1,000,000 annually.

The first reduction, ordered by the Alabama Public Service Commission, was more than a $300,000 cut in domestic rates. The second, ordered recently by the same body, will reduce the cost of commercial and power service in excess of $500,000 annually.

Alabama enjoys today unusually low electric rates—"as low or lower domestic rates than any other state," according to the testimony given before the Alabama Public Service Commission by John Bauer, rate expert brought to Alabama from New York by officials of the City of Mobile.

Lay Dam on Coosa River

Alabama's low rates are a boon to both homes and industries. They are introducing the comfort and convenience of electric service into many households which formerly could not afford them. They will attract new manufactures and further the expansion programs of many existing enterprises, bringing untold benefits to the entire state.

CHILTON COUNTY HI BEAT THORSBY INSTITUTE 13--12

Chilton County High's cage quint deefated Thorsby Institute on Friday afternoon 13 to 12. As the score indicates, the game was a good one, though neither side showed much of an eye for the baskets. With only a few days practice, the Chilton aggregation did not show much pass work, but with more parctice a better, smoother working combination is expected.

No definite schedule has been arranged, but officials of the local school team expect to bring several good teams to Clanton after the Christmas holidays. Our information is that Chilton High will stags her home games in the court at Maddox's warehouse, as they did last year.

Members of the squad at present include: Forwards — Benson Sims, Rufus Brown, Harvey Ricks, J. C. Maddox, Pratt Busby and Fred Busby; Guards—Emanuel Cooper, William Robinson; Centers — Harvey Melton, Clarence Baker.

Many more boys are expected out for practice after Christmas, and Coach Green expects to be able to place a strong team on the floor in the remaining games of the season. Come out and root for the locals!

MELLON PLANS HOLIDAY TRIP TO FLORIAR AND THE SOUTH

Secretary of the Treasury of the United States Arrives in the Land of Flowers.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 18.—Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, arrived in Miami early today to begin a three weeks holiday cruise of Bahaman waters.

The secretary had planned to leave his private car at a railroad station early, but instead remained aboard until late in the morning. He was to go aboard the yacht Vagabondia, on which he will make the cruise, some time Wednesday.

Secretary Mellon is accompanied by his son, Paul, his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Bruce, a friend of his son. The yacht is the property of his nephew, W. L. Mellon, Pittsburgh.

YOU MUST COME TO DINNER

Gone are the days when Mrs. Newlywed dreads her first dinner party for the new in-laws! Biscuits and cakes, those traditional gambles of the amateur, hold no terrors for the modern bride, for, with self-rising flour at her right hand, Mrs. Newlywed is without fear and without reproach. And so is everything she cooks!

"You must come to dinner," she says, and come they must, these critical in-laws who dread this demonstration of amateur cuisine. The bride is calm at her debut. She's proud of her vegetable soup, and the cheese sticks she serves with it. Roasts are simpler and surer than any other meats and lamb was ever a standard treat at the in-law's home. So roast lamb it is, with mint jelly jelled in the refrigerator, and green peas.

Then comes that bane of life of every bride before the reign of self-rising flour—drop biscuits! With self-rising flour, however, all fear is gone, for the actual cooking is a matter of ten of the last minutes. The recipe is simply two cups of self-rising flour, two tablespoons of fat, and seven-eighths of a cup of milk.

Dessert is easy for the happy bride, for the romantic pairing is obvious—Paradise Pudding and Honeymoon Cake. No terrors here! Follow these directions:

Honeymoon Cake.

½ cup fat
⅔ cup sugar
1 tsp. lemon extract
1½ cups self-rising flour
½ cup milk or orange juice
2 egg whites

Directions: Cream the fat; add the sugar; continue to cream until the sugar granules have dissolved; add the flavoring and flour alternately with the milk; fold in the egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry; pour into a greased and floured cake pan, and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. Cool and spread the top and sides with orange frosting.

WETUMPKA CITIZEN UNDERGOES SECOND OPERATION

Montgomery, Dec. 18. — Adolph Hohenberg, Wetumpka banker, merchant and cotton buyer, underwent his second operation of the past ten days at St. Margaret's hospital on Wednesday morning. He had not recovered from the effects of ether at noon Wednesday but hospital authorities said he withstood the operation well. Mr. Hohenberg is president of the First National Bank of Wetumpka. He came to the hospital here about two weeks ago.

BODY OF UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND NEAR LEEDS, ALA.

Birmingham, Dec. 18.— Coroner J. D. Russum today was endeavoring to establish the identity of the body of a man found in a wooded section between Leeds and Henry Ellen. Efforts were also being made to determine if the man was the victim of foul play.

The man was dressed in overalls, sweater, and heavy overcoat. He was said to have been approximately 40 years old. The coroner said the body was badly decomposed, and that it could not be determined immediately how death came about.

Promoted to Plank-Walker.— "Come, come, my man, you've been looking around here long enough without buying. What do you want?"

"Guess I want another floorwalker," replied the old gentleman. "I'm the new owner."—Boston Transcript.

LIGHTING THE WAY

Young America always likes to have a good time even at Christmas; We asked one of the boys the other day why he tied a tin can to a certain dog's tail? "That's where I always tie them, Mister," he replied, "If you know of a better place I'd be glad if you'd teel me."

We don't know of a better place to buy that Xmas. used car than right here where values are highest and prices lowest. Our holiday display includes some exceptional buys in cars that please the eye as well as your purse.

OLD RELIABLE SPENDS LARGE SUM TO INCREASE IN SERVICE

During the first nine months of 1929, approximately $13,000,000 was spent by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad on facilities to improve the roads transportation capacity. Last month the L. & N. authorized additional expenditures for equipment, new rail, automatic signals, and other work aggregating $8,820,000. This latter amount includes the purchase of 64,800 tons of rail of 100-pound section for maintenance and improvement during 1930 and the acquisition of six mountain type locomotives, 23 passenger cars including dining cars, standard coaches and baggage and mail cars, and 1,800 freight cars of various types.

The above totals will be further increased by expenditures to be made during the remainder of 1929 and by authorizations that will be given during 1930.

Charlton A. Swope, general eastern freight agent for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad at New York, has been elected president of the New York Traffic club, after serving that organization for 23 consecutive years as secretary. The New York traffic Club was organized in 1906 and its membership today numbers 4,834. Mr. Swope is a native of Indiana. He became associated with the L&N at Louisville, Ky., in 1886 where he remained until transferred to New-York in 1898.

The first coal mine in the territory served by the Eastern Kentucky Division of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad was opened in 1895 near what is now Seco, Ky., by Dr. D. L. Webb, according to the L&N Employes Magazine for December.

Dr. Webb worked his mine for "home use only" supplying himself and neighbor. He and two helpers mined the coal with hand picks and conveyed the output to a storage bin by means of a wooden sled and an ox. The mine was operated for 25 years by Mr. Webb. Later it was mined into by the Elkhorn Jr. Coal Company, who are now using it as a drain way.

Ed Cuningham, colored supply man in the mechanical department of the L & N at Lebanon Junction, Ky., has recently been awarded a gold service button containing 9 stars in recognition of his having completed 45 years of continuous service for the road. Ed is a native of Colesburg, Ky., having been born there on Christmas Day, 1845.

Figures published in the December number of the L&N Employes Magazine indicate a reduction in employe injuries on the L&N of 18.6 per cent for the first ten months of 1929 as compared with the corresvisions of the L&N the Knoxville Division and the St. Louis Terminal, employing about 2,000 people, went thorugh the month of October without a reportable employe injury.

Retirements to the L&N pension roll as reported in the December issue of the Employes Magazines, include: Virgil F. Stephens, engineer,

---

Stephens, engineer, Fifth Street and Madison Avenue, Covington, Ky., 18 years service; Frank Smith, colored, yard cleaner Nashville, Tennessee 19 years; James Baoley, section laborer, Campton Junction, Ky., 23 years; C. E. Bitters, engineer, Covington, Ky, 28 years; John Malley, boilermaker, 2917 South Third St., Louisville, Ky., 49 years; Thomas E. Miller, engineer, 9 Glendale Ave., Evansville, Ind., 42 years; S. A. Smith, section laborer, Blue Ridge, Ga., 23 years; Goff Campbell, colored, depot porter, Irvington, Ky., 30 years.

...SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

By GRACE VIALL GRAY

"IT IS SMART TO BE THRIFTY"

By using inexpensive foods rather than the more expensive ones, we can cut our food bills considerably. For instance, there are many delicious inexpensive cuts of meat that gives us the same nourishment as the expeasive choice cuts. If these cuts are properly prepared and then cooked and served attractively, we are not depriving our family of good food even if we are saving money.

Milk is one of our best foods and when the food value is considered, it is an inexpensive one. Use milk in all forms and in all possible ways. Buttermilk and skim milk have good food value. Milk can be used as the basis in soups, in white sauce for vegetables and left-over meats, and in many desserts as custards, puddings and souffles.

Self-rising flour is economical. It is cheaper to have the manufacturer combine flour, salt and baking powder than for each individual housewife to do so, for the miller gives the housewife the advantage of car-lot prices on these materials. Fewer eggs are required when using self-rising flour for cakes, cookies and muffins. Use only 1 egg for each one and one-half cupfuls of self-rising flour in butter cakes. By using flour that has been prepared for use we can save many dollars. And not only are we saving money but we are giving our family good food.

The economy cake below is well worth trying on your next baking day.

Economy Cake (Using Only One Egg)

⅔ cup sugar
½ cup butter, washed, free of salt
⅛ cup liquid
1 egg
1½ cups self-rising flour
½ tsp. vanilla

Cream the butter to the consistency of cream. Add sugar and continue to cream until the granules have dissolved, add the unbeaten egg and beat until blended. Add the flour and the milk alternately, then the flavoring. Fold the flour in quickly and gently, handling as little as possible. Pour into a well-greased pan and bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees Fahrenheit—thirty minutes. This makes one large or two small layer cakes. This economy cake makes an inexpensive but elaborate dessert when served as Washington pie, that is, baked in two layers, with a cream filling placed between layers and whipped cream on top.

JUST LIKE AN OSTRICH

A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet creams and powders is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are natures warning that constipation is throwing poisons into your blood stream and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the constipated condition and you will strengthen your system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Herbine, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and easilly, which you can get at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Ala.

Among those L&N people whose promotions are recorded in the December L&N Employes Magazine are Ed. T. Seay, appointed District Attorney for middle and west Tennessee, Nashville; J. R. Skillman, assistant general attorney at Louisville; Hiram E. Porter, northwestern passenger agent at Chicago Percy W. Morrow, division passenger agent at Birmingham, Ala., Asbury E. Groves, district passenger agent, Memphis, Tenn., Tyndall Boll, traveling pessenger agent at Detroit, Mich., E. J. Wise, coal freight agent at Cincinnati O., H. D. Wilson, coal fright agent at Detroit and Jesse E. Holdeman, city passenger agent at Memphis.

From a field of more than a score of Christmas cover designs prepared by employes and members of families of employes of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, the full color painting of Frank D. Burke, correspondence clerk in the executive offices of the company, was chosen for the December L&N Employes Magazines.

Others submitting paintings and drawings for the Magazines front cover were: Lucile Lenfers, Evansville, Ind., C. H. Sherman, Birmingham, Ala; Edward Geiser, Lousville, Ky. Clifton Holmon, Mobile.; Kathryn J. Cohen, Louisville, Ky., M. B. Jones, Lousville, Ky.; Lawrence Pruit Decatur, Ala.; William H. Blackburn Evansville, Ind.; Frances R. Garrison Louisville, Ky.; Rita Mount, Lexington, Ky.; W. W. Carrier, Jr., Louisville; Evelyn Hazelwood, Athens, Ala.; Jesse E. Files, Mobile, Ala.; Charles Waggoner, Louisville, Ky.; Charles Andrews, Paris, Tenn. Hello Folks!

Santa's Speaking

Are you going to have a new radio this Christmas? Or, are you contemplating giving one of your friends or relatives a set for a gift? If so, then we urgently advise you to visit our store and see our wonderful display of everything new in radio equipment

Here's the most amazing offer in radio!

ATWATER KENT SCREEN-GRID RADIO

$142 AND UP

Complete Installed IN YOUR HOME

Three million owners can't be wrong

ALMOST 3,000,000 Atwater Kents already—first choice of the whole world! Now comes Atwater Kent Screen-Grid—new wonder of radio! It carries on the Atwater Kent reputation for dependability. It works and keeps on working! Sustains the reputation for the finest in radio at a price that everyone can afford. Listen—today—here! You don't have to buy. Just listen and learn what modern radio is!

This is how Screen-Grid works—as Atwater Kent uses it!

SCREEN-GRID overcomes an old problem in radio amplification. With the old type of tubes, power had to be cut down to prevent feed-back and oscillation. The fourth element—the "Screen"—in the Screen-Grid tube prevents this feed-back, so that the new tubes, as Atwater Kent uses them, develop ten times as much amplification per tube—and a hundred times the power, with no hum!

Exquisite Cabinet!
Unsurpassed Tone!
Giant Power!
—Everything!

ERASE the miles with the set that pulls in distance without half trying—Atwater Kent Screen-Grid. Let needle-point selectivity separate the station you want from all the others.

Notice the exquisite lines of this cabinet—the beautiful blending of choice woods. We have other cabinets, too—many fine cabinets, in a wide variety of prices, and a table model—see them!

CARTER ELECTRIC SHOP MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

The Carter Electric Shop is making extensive improvements in their building which, when finished, will give them a much nicer and more convenient place of business. The front of the building has been rearranged with two nice display windows. The interior is divided into two parts, cutting off the back part for a workshop and making the front a separate unit for business office and display of merchandise.

The leading line of the Carter Shop is Atwater-Kent Radio, which they sell, and service complete. The organization is headed by Marvin Carter, and caters to every kind of electrical service, including the wiring of buildings in construction. It is a very busy place, as there is much of their line of work to be done in this territory.

JUDGE SMOOT SICK

Judge George F. Smoot was unable to meet his engagement to hold court here Tuesday, on account of being sick. The Sheriff states that the busines which was on the docket for Tuesday has been postponed until some time in January.

The many friends of Judge Smoot in Clanton and Chilton County regret to hear of his illness, and hope that he may soon recover.

1,350,000 CHEVROLETS WILL BE MARK REACHED DURING 1929

Detroit, December 18.—Surpassing by 150,000 cars and trucks, its previous record annual achievement, the Chevrolet Motor Company, this year, will manufacture 1,350,000 automobiles, it was announced at the central office here today. Due to the tremendous popularity of the six cylinder car, introduced a year ago, the year 1929 will be by a wide margin the greatest year in Chevrolet history.

Chevrolet officials announce that daily, weekly and monthly production records were broken over and over again during 1929. Perhaps the most significant achievement of the company this year was the placing of a million cars on the road in less than eight months. Although the first Chevrolet six did not go into the streets until last January 1st, there were a million in owner operation early last August.

An all-time monthly production mark was set in May when the Chevrolet factories built 160,895 cars. A new high monthly record was established in every month except January.

The consistency with which Chevrolet production has gained annually in recent years may be noted from the following annual production figures:

1924, ---------309,000
1925, ---------510,000
1926 ----------728,000
1927 ---------1,001,000
1928 -------- 1,200,000
1929 ---------1,350,000

Sixteen factories, strategically located from coast to coast, contributed to the achievement. In all, over 100,000 men were employed during the year in the various divisions of the company.

We wish to thank the people of the surrounding community for their help in the box supper here. We are going to paint the church with the money.

We also wish to ask the people of this community to let the benches stay at the church and the stove pipe; and we wish to ask the prayers of the praying people for the lamp that has gone astray, also the song books.—A Member.

PURSE SNATCHER MADE ATTEMPT AT CLANTON LADY

About dark last Friday night as Mrs. Bud Alred was walking home, a man jumped out of a dark place in the yard of Grady Reynolds and attempted to seize her purse. Two small children of Mrs. Alred were with her and when they began to scream the man abandoned his effort and ran away. Before Mrs. Alred could summon anyone to chase the man he had made his get-away. She could not tell whether it was a white man or a ngro, as he had his face covered.

"ROSCOE" IS UP IN "G"

"Roscoe" is "some punkins." Perchance you don't know who Roscoe is, well, he's a little metal chance box where you put in your nickel, pull the lever, and watch the wheels of chance turn 'round. Certain combinations on the wheels, when they "hit" cause the machine to spill out metal chips in several different quantities, ranging from two to twenty. And sometimes, none. In addition, of late, an attraction other than the usual, has been added. Now, in case you are lucky and the wheels line up for the combination that pays 20 chips, the "Jack-Pot" pays off too. Every once in a while the nickel or chip you put in doesn't go into the till of the machine, but in this "Jack-Pot." In time, quite a pile of nickels and chips accumulate in this pot, and lucky players have been known to hit the machine for from $1.00 to above $5.00.

We feel that all this explanation of the workings of the "nickel-in-the-slot" machine, is in some degree superfluous, but it is given to try to explain the popularity of them. That they are popular is very evident, for, although there are many of them in Clanton, you hardly ever see one without a crowd around it, and standing in line to play.

Somebody gave it the name "Roscoe" and it stuck. That the operation of these machines is profitable is also evident, for, beginning with a few placed in some of the stores a short while ago, the number has increased until at the present time there is hardly a drug store or cafe in the town which does not operate one or two of them.

"Roscoe" operation in Clanton in the future, however, is going to acquire more of a business aspect. The Town Council of Clanton feels that if the operators are making so much out of it, the Town ought to come in on the deal too. So, "Roscoe" is now up in "G."

At a meeting of the Town Council for the purpose of setting the several license charges for different occupations and businesses in Clanton, the Council voted to put a license charge of $500 on each "Roscoe" machine operated in the Town. The license will be collected in public jurisdiction and takes effect January 1st, 1930.

This about the only addition of any note to the scale of licenses already in effect.

So, after January 1, 1930, "Roscoe" will either go out of business or will be considered one of the members of the "well-to-do-class." No more will one of these machines be considered as just another gaming device. He will be considered "some punkins" or be out of the picture altogether.

TWO CARS IN WRECK HERE LAST TUESDAY EVENING

Two automobiles, one driven by Mr. W. H. Hayes and the other by a son of Haul Tyus, ran together Tuesday night on Eighth Street in front of the home of W. M. Wyatt. Both machines were damaged considerably and a little girl of Mr. Tyus was slightly injured.

Mr. Tyus and Mr. Hayes each agreed to take his own loss and each repair his own car.

MT. PLEASANT NEWS

Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School basket ball team was defeated last Friday afternoon by the Maplesville Sr. I team in a close count of 12 to 9. Mt. Pleasant led most of the game.

There will be a ball game at Mt. Pleasant school next Friday afternoon, December 20th, when the local team will play Enterprise Jr. High school.

A large crowd attended the chicken supper here Saturday night. A nice little sum of money was raised which will be used for school equipment. Those serving at the supper were Misses Pauline Eiland, Ruby Wells, Addie Pearl Wilson, Ruth Wells, Eunice Headley, Gertrude Blalock, Berdie Logan and Mamie Logan.

Miss Pauline Eiland spent Saturday night with Miss Mary Foshee of Mt. Pleasant community.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapp attended the chicken supper at Mt. Pleasant last Saturday night.

Miss Bean spent the week end with Mrs. Emmett Smith.

Miss Ilar Massey spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Gladys Thomas of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Popwell and family were the guests of Mrs. G.H. Massey Sunday.

The Mt. Pleasant school and community wishes to thank the many kind people of Clanton for their help and attendance last Saturday night at the chicken supper. We extend to them a hearty welcome to come and be with us every occasion they may have.

Mrs. E. G. Melton of Montgomery was a welcome visitor at Mt. Pleasant school last Saturday. She received the nice fat turkey which was given away.

CHESTNUT CREEK SINGING

The Chestnut Creek singing society met Sunday afternoon. Owing to the absense of the president, the society elected Amie Boswell as chairman for the evening.

Those directing were Messrs. Bob Grant, Amie Boswell, Jasper Robinson, and the pianists were Mrs. Fannie Belle Connell, Richard McKinney and Amie Boswell.

The singing was enjoyed by a big crowd. We were glad to have all the visitors and ask them to come back again the next Third Sunday aternoon.

Mrs. Jammie Moore was elected secretary for the evening.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for their kindness shown us during the illness and death of our son. Especially do we thank Drs. N. S. Johnson and Arthur Johnson and Miss Wilson of Birmingham. May God's greatest blesings rest upon each and very one of you is our prayer.—R. L. Hayes and wife.

COLLINS CHAPEL JR. HIGH

We are indeed glad to say that we have another teacher, making a total of five teachers. This new teacher is Miss Ola Rogers.

The girls had a basket ball game with Union Grove on December 10. The score was 20 to 9 in favor of Collins Chapel Jr. High. Also the girls went to Maplesville Wednesday night, December 11th and sadly took a defeat. The score was 27 to 10 in favor of Maplesville; but we hope to win the return game. One difficulty was that the Collins Chapel girls hadn't ever played on an indoor court.

There will be an old maid's convention at this place Friday night, December 20. Proceeds will go for a piano for the school. There will also be a box supper, the proceeds from which will go to Salem church. Everyone is invited to come and have a jolly time to start off Christmas.

There will be a Christmas tree and program at this place Friday evening, December 20th. Come if you want to see Santa Claus.

BETHSALEM NEWS

The members of Bethsalem Sunday school met Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Our superintendent, C. L. Wilkins, led in the devotional. The subject was "Fair play in the Day's Work." Bro. Clem Billingsley led in the singing with Mrs. Lee Billingsley as organist.

Rev. W. P. Lowery preached at 11 o'clock; his subject was from the 12th chapter of Numbers.

Our singing society meets every second Sunday afternoon.

A GREAT CHRISTMAS

I am 44 years old, and I feel just like this will be one of the greatest Christmases of my life, if all are living as well as I hope. A letter from my daughter, who lives in New York city and has been gone for a year, says that she and her husband are coming home. They will get here in time to take Christmas with me. They leave New York the 22nd and will get here the next evening. They and Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Barrett.

I am sure they would like to meet all of their friends during the holidays.

I hope that the good people of Chilton County will see that every orphan child, together with those who are unable to get presents, get something to cheer their poor hearts this Christmas. I believe that it is our duty, so may our Heavenly Father help us celebrate the season in honor to His great name.—E. H. Headley, Clanton R. 5.

COUNTY CHEST FUND $4.000

December 15 to 22

What It Will Do

1. It will help care for the destitute needy of our County
2. It will eliminate constant appeals for the needy.
3. Your gift will reach the real needs.
4. It will save the self-respect of the worthy needy.
5. Give to the fund and send all solicitors to our County Welfare Worker for investigation.
6. It will bless your own heart to give to the needy.
7. It will meet a real need in our County.

How It Will Be Administered

1. Each school community will have a representative to report all destitute cases.
2. The County Welfare Worker and the committee on distribution of funds will investigate the needs of each case and give aid.
3. All gifts of $1.00 and above will be published.
4. All those who make gifts of $5.00 and above will be given a receipted pocket card.
5. The Treasurer's books will be audited regularly.

Why Give?

Bible Reasons

1. "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord."
2. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."
3. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."
4. "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ."
5. "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and the widows in their affliction."

REMEMBER!

That this is Christmas time. Remember what Christmas really means. Remember the needy along with your fortunate friends.
Remember John's warning "But who hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?"
Remember that your gift will express your love in deed and in truth!
Remember the golden rule!
Remember to be a good samaritan!
Remember we have no salaries; every cent goes for charity!

Go to your school Friday December 13th at 2 P. M. and hear more from a speaker.

Birmingham To Atlanta Paving Project Is Urged

Association is Formed at Anniston to Push Early Completion of Highway Between two Metros.

Anniston Dec. 17.—A resolution designed to obtain the paving of the Bankhead Highway between Birmingham and Atlanta was voted by over 100 good roads adherents who gathered here Tuesday afternoon to effect the organiation of the Birmingham-Atlanta Good Roads Association.

L. B. Liles of Anniston was elected chairman of the new organization. Directors, one from each city and town on the route, will be appointed in the near future.

John Turner of Oxford said that the paving of the route ought to be pushed during 1930 even if the counties had to float bonds and obtain money to lend to the State. Federal aid can also be obtained to help in the project, Mr. Turner said.

The total mileage of the Bankhead Highway between Birmingham and Atlanta is 165 miles, or about 40 miles shorter than any other route. It was a national highway mapped to connect many military posts, and those seeking its paving declare it should receive consideration in state and federal aid.

My Favorite Stories by Irvin S. Cobb

The Species Was Not Yet Extinct

BY WAY of a beginning, it is incumbent to me to explain that the negroes of the coast of South Carolina and Georgia have a distinctive patois which differs radically from the speech of members of their own race up country. "Gullah talk," as it is called, has but one gender—the masculine. Everything—a man, a woman, a bull, a cow—is "he." "Where" is "w'ar," "though" is "do," etc., etc.

With this bit of explanation, we may proceed. An Englishman, desirous of killing some big game during his visit to America, accepted an invitation to visit a plantation owner on one of the sea islands lying below Charleston. In honor of the visitor a deer drive was arranged. The Britisher, chaperoned by an old negro man, was assigned to a "stand" on one of the best "runs." Beforehand he had been told to shoot only at bucks, as the does and the fawns enjoyed protection.

Presently, to the ears of the nervous Englishman where he crouched with his black companion in a thicket, came the sound of the hounds' baying. The dogs had found a fresh scent. They were drawing nearer and nearer.

Fifty yards away, across an open glade, a darting patch of tawny brown showed in the undergrowth. The Englishman fired, and a convulsive thumping in the underbrush told him he had not missed.

The old negro left his covert and ran forward to see what it was that had been shot.

"Did I kill him?" called the excited amateur.

"Yeah, boss. You kill 'im," answered the darky, as he bent over the stricken game. Then, seeing that the fallen animal had no horns, he added: "'E a doe do'."

At this moment the host hurried up the trail, having heard the shot from his place of ambush a hundred yards or so away.

"Any luck?" he called out as he approached.

"Oh, yes," answered the Britisher, exultantly. "I thought I saw a deer and dropped it, but your black fellow yonder has just told me that it is a dodo—a creature which I thought was entirely extinct. Lucky, eh, what?"

58 Miners Killed In Oklahoma Mine Explosion Tuesday

Families of McAlester Victims See Bodies Being Removed from Mines After Explosion.

McAlester, Okla., Dec. 17.— Poisonous fumes that followed a terrific explosion Tuesday a mile under the ground in the Old Town Mine claimed 58 lives, officials announced Tuesday night. Of 63 miners who left their small homes nearby early Tuesday morning, cheerful with the Christmas holiday spirit, only five were alive Tuesday night.

One by one, 11 bodies had been hoisted to the surface by 8:30 p.m. The victims were found huddled in small groups. It was late Wednesday before all the bodies had been recovered.

The rescuers, working with gas masks, struggled in the mine depths trying to reach the trapped men before the poisonous fumes did, but even with gas masks, they were forced to come up at intervals for fresh air. Three miners were found on a higher level than where the explosion occurred, were near death Tuesday night at a hospital.

Two other miners who happened to be coming up the shaft, managed to walk out, and then rushed back with the rescue squad.

About half of the dead were Mexicans and negroes, rescuers said.

The explosion occurred shortly before noon, at a point some 5,000 feet below the surface of the mine, which is built in a series of sloping shafts that reach into a hillside. It shook the buildings at the opening of the workings and the little cottages near by, in which the families of the miners lived. The ominous roar brought the entire settlement flocking to the mouth of the mine, and throughout the night bereaved wives and children shivered there in the bitter cold while the rescue crews slowly brought up their dead husbands and fathers.

A call was sent out for $20,000 in relief funds to assist families in need to bury their dead. A move was on to organize a campaign for Christmas funds for the children of the miners, some 176 children being left fatherless.

The three found alive were too ill to tell the story of the fatal moments or to be questioned as to the cause of the explosion. Their recovery was in doubt.

BOWMAN IN THE RACE FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

Birmingham Man Candidate for Post on Alabama Public Service Commission.

Montgomery, Dec. 17.— James M. Bowman of Birmingham, formally became a candidate for associate member of the Public Service Commission in opposition to Frank P. Morgan, insumbent, Tuesday. He filed his delcaration with John Brandon, secretary of state, Monday, after the State Democratic Executive Committee had prescribed the quelifications of candidates and voters. He indicated several weeks ago that he would make the race.

In announcing in opposition to Morgan, Bowman followed the new election law which requires all candidates to designate the person they are opposing where more than one position is to be filled. Alabama has two associate member of the Public Service Commission — Morgan and Fitzhugh Lee.

Commissioners Morgan and Lee have indicated that they will be candidates for re-election.

14 FEDERAL MONUMENTS TO BE ERECTED IN ALABAMA

Washngton, Dec. 15. — Fourteen historic sites in Alabama will be properly memoralized by monuments and markers by the federal government at an estimated cost of $100,000 if the Congress passes legislation which has been recommended by the president and the secretary of war, following surveys made in Alabama last summer at the request of Senator Hugo L. Black. Senator Black was joined by several of his colleagues in whose districts the sites are located, namely: Representatives McDufie, Hill, Oliver, Patterson, Jeffers and Steagall.

The sites for which monuments and markers have been recommended by the war secretary are as follows: Talladega, where General Andrew Jackson had his last fight with the Indians; Fort Williams in Talladega County, where many of Jackson's men are buried; Fort Mitchell in Russell County, a fort used to protect the frontier from the Indians; Fort Jackson (or Fort Toulouse) in Elmore County where General Jackson made peace with the Creek Indians; Fort Stoddard on the Tombigbee River, north of Mobile, from which a detachment was sent to capture Aaron Burr; Fort St. Stephens, the site of the old capitol of Alabama and a frontier post; Burnt Corn in Mobile County, scene of the first battle of the Creek Indian War; Blakely in Baldwin County, scene of one of the last battles of the Civil War between General Dick Taylor of the Confederate forces and General Canby of the Union forces; Citronelle, in Mobile County, scene of Civil War operations; Tuscaloosa, scene of operations during the Civil War; Spanish fort in Baldwin County marking the Confederate defenses built around the old fort; Fort Tom Becbee, another Indian fort north of Mobile; Fort Mimms in Baldwin County, scene of the famous massacre by the Indians; and Jackson's Oak near Mobile.

QUESTION OF MUSCLE SHOALS WILL BE TAKEN UP SOON

Washington, Dec. 16—The long delayed Muscle Shoals legislation will be taken up in the Senate immediately following the disposal of the pending tariff bill as a result of an agreement secured by Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama.

When Republican leaders proposed to take up the President's tax reduction program, Senator Black declared that Muscle Shoals. legislation should not be delayed longer and called upon his colleagues to ro-operate with him. Senator Watson, the Republihan leader in the Senate, thereupon stated that he would agree to a motion to consider Muscle Shoals as soon as the present tariff bill is out of the way. Senator Smoot, in charge of the tariff bill, made a similar statement as well as Senator Norris, leader of the Senate Progressives. Senator Simmons, ranking Democratic member of the Senate finance committee, indicated that he would co-operate with Senator Black in taking up the Muscle Shoals question.

In all probability, the tariff bill will be disposed of in the Senate some time in January, and under the agreement secured by Black, the Norris bill providing for government operation of Muscle Shoals as well as the amendments offered by Senator Black which makes provision for the leasing of the nitrate plants to a private corporation which must guarantee that it will produce cheap fertilizer for the farmers as well as the construction of an additional dam for navigation and power purposes, will be taken up immediately.

In calling for action upon Muscle Shoals, Senator Black told his colleagues that while many tax-payers throughout the country will benefit from the President's tax reduction program, that no Southern farmer will be directly benefitted because they do not, unfortunately, come in the income tax brackets. He said that the passage of the Muscle Shoals bill with his amendments putting into operation the Muscle Shoals nitrate plants, will be of great benefit to the Southern farmers, since it will reduce the price of his fertilizer.

FOREST AID CHRISTMAS

Montgomery, Ala., Alabama forests supply all materials essential for Christmas decorations. Holly, mistletoe, smilax, laurel and sprays of laurel oak leaves are extensively gathered for shipment. Cedars make excellent Christmas trees.

In some localities the collection and shipping of these decorative materials have reached large proportions and have proved an excellent part time employment for farmers and others. Much of this material is shipped north where it is in great demand. Modern merchandising and advertising methods, such as radio sales talks, are used in disposing of hampers containing a combination of materials suitable for decorating a room.

In gathering holly, smilax, laurel and laurel oak the greens should be neatly trimmed close to the tree, plant or vine and in no case should the entire plant be destroyed. Christmas trees should only be cut from thickets where the young trees are standing too closely together. Longleaf pine plumes, in particular, should only be cut from dense groups of seedlings. In fact, commercially it is much easier and more profitable to raise Christmas trees than to gather them from the woods.

It is a violation of the criminal laws of the state to mutilate or cut any tree of any size from the lands of another without permission. Trespassers are not only liable to a fine of ten dollars for each tree removed but are also subject to other penalties. If the value of the materials cut is less than twenty-five dollars the offender may be proscetuted under a petty larceny charge; if more than that amount, the culprit may be charged with grand larceny. Before gathering any Christmas greens it is best to obtain a written permit from the owner of the land in order to keep well within the law and assure customers that they are not buying stolen goods.

"We Serve to Serve Again"

THORSBY SECTION

S. E. NORTON, Manager

Thorsby Parent Teachers Association, during the past four days has justified its existence, not only as a social organization but in demonstrations of what may be accomplished in the way of community service by an organization of public spirited citizens who have a mind to work.

During the past four years this organization has been directly responsible for raising upwards of $3,000 for public school equipment and improvements, besides being indirect stimulators in securing considerable amounts of other funds for similar purposes.

Friday of this week will be devoted to Christmas exercises at Thorsby Public school, at 2 p. m. the elementary grades will put on a play in their auditorium including a Christmas tree.

At the close of these exercises Thorsby P.-T. A. will hold their regular monthly meeting at the school house.

On Friday evening at seven o'clock the Junior High School students will put on a play entitled "Out on the street." There will be no admission charges.

The Christmas exercises of Thorsby Baptist church will be held at the public school building at 7:15 p. m. Sunday December 22nd, this will be in the form of a play entitled, "The Story Beautiful." Rehersals, which have been conducted under direction of Miss Ruth Martin. There will of course be no admission charges, but people should go prepared to make liberal contributions for the benefit of the Baptist orphans home.

Last Sunday night following the Christian Endeavor meeting, there was an interesting service of song, using our newly acquired hymn books in which many of the old familiar hymns are set to unfamiliar tunes. The leaders were Rev. Each, Miss Jenkins, Mr. Steiner, Mr. Butler and Mr. Thornburg. Presiding at the organ were Misses Thoroman, Ruth Gerald and A. N. Laurell.

On Wednesday evening of this week at 7 o'clock there will be the usual congregational mid-week meeting, followed by a special called meeting of the church, which means all members and those who consider this their church home. Matters of importance will be presented.

Following this meeting there will be a rehearsal of special music for the white Christmas services to be held at the church Sunday night, December 22nd at 7:15 o'clock. A mixed chorus under direction of Miss Marguerite Davison, with Miss Lola Gerald accompanist, will have a part in the program. There will also be other interesting features.

Next Sunday morning under direction of Rev. Each, there will be a Congregation service at the Congregational church at 11:00 a. m., when pledges will be received of self or substance for the work of the church for the ensuing year.

Mr. D. D. Manning, uncle of Mrs. H. V. Thompson. who has spent several winters in Thorsby and summers with his daughter in Illinois, arrived in Thorsby Monday night, expecting to spend another winter here.

Mr. D. H. Gentry has been remodeling his home just north of Sam Pate's, and has made of it a very unpretentious house, a commodious and attractive six room cottage with two porches and a perfectly good cellar. We congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Gentry on having such agreeable environment in which to spend their declining years.

The Christmas program for the Helen Keller Literary society given at Helen Jenkins Hall last Saturday night was a very enjoyable entertainment and demonstrates that we have among us several young people of more than ordinary musical talent, and quite a number who are pretty good in dramatics. There was a good audience who seemed to be well pleased. The program follows:

Piano solo, Holy Night, Edith Johnson; Chorus, Christmas bells, ring far and near; Trio, good Christian Men, rejoice, Edith Johnson, Louise Gibbons, Marie Eiland; Solo, Christmas night, Kathryn Foss; Chorus, Prince of Peace; Play, The next door House, an English Christmas play by Margaret Cropper; Scene 1, a cottage in a village street belonging to good humor time, Christmas eve; Scene2, the next door cottage, the home of down-in-the-dust and evil life; Cast of characters: Good humor, James Deason; Good sense, his wife Wilma Goodgame; Young heart, their daughter, Dera Rowell; Common talk, a neighbor, Kathryn Lenoir; Carollers, Myradine Martin, Conradine Pate, Lucile Each, Marie Each, Ruth Foss; Down-in-the-dust, Marie Eiland; Evil life, her husband, Willis Peterson; The stranger, Katheryn Foss, Invisible choir, Senior Quartet.

Thorsby Institute will close for the Christmas hollidays on Friday of this week. All of the boarding students will go to their respective homes. Of members of the faculty, Miss Klingelhoefer will visit her brother in St. Louis, Mr. Maddox will go to Blakeley, Ga., Miss Jenkins will be in Boston, Mass., Mr. Maddox will be at his home, Miss Arthur expects to go to her home in South Alabama, Miss Stoddard, Miss Leech and Miss Fairbanks will remain in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Yancey M. Kelley and daughter Audrey with Miss Margarett Butler were Sunday visitors from Birmingham to friends in Thorsby.

Lloyd Howard of New Albany, Ind., is expected to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hansen, went to Birmingham Monday to do some Christmas shopping.

The Each family spent Saturday in Montgomery, shopping on their return they brought William Each to spend Sunday with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen had as dinner guests last Sunday the Each family, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Townsend and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell.

Little Peggy Mims Franklin is quite ill with bronchitis.

Thorsby Institute honor rolls:

First: No grade below 85%, general average of 90% or above.—Lois Thompson, Carl Ekblad, Byron Bean, Wilma Goodgame, Eunice Williamson, Carrie Smith, Sallye Thompson, Helen Diefenderfer, Gerald Smith, Alta Each, Virginia Little, Dera Rowell.

Second: No grade below 75%, general average of 85% or above. —Mildred Jeffries, Odell Rowe, Edith Johnson, Juanita Each, L. C. Sims, Kathryn Lenoir, Marie Eiland, Jessie Martin, Fred Boyd, Brown Russell, Ella Howard, Frank, McMurray, Kathryn Foss, Aubrey Taylor.

Third: Perfect attendance during term.—John Adams, Martin Bakke, Byron Bean, Velma Billings, Christina Bosworth, Fred Boyd, Claiborne Champion, Hilma Collins, Maurice Craft, Ruby Connatser, Unawill Davis, Helen Diefenderfer, Alta Each, Juanita Each, Orville Freeman, Olean Hybart, Mildred Jeffries, Edith Johnson, Nick Keaton, Kathryn Lenoir, Virginia Little, Jessie Martin, Lola Martin, Mayme Martin, Albert Mims, Conradine Pate, Ralph Pate, Roma Lee Pate, Willis Petersen, Ruth Prim, Sidney Reynolds, Daisy Rowe, Evie Lee Rowe, Odell Rowe, Dera Rowe, Ralph Roy, Brown Russell, Gerald Smith, Gracie Smith, Hilton Smith, Carmel Snow, Lois Thompson, Eunice Williamson.

The Christian Endeavor met last Sunday night at the regular hour. Ida Mae Williams and Olean Hyhart were leaders. The topic for discusion was, "What have young people to give?" A very interesting Christmas program was given after a number of Christmas songs and the topics and questions for discussion, each person wrote either what he wanted to give Christ or what he would like to do the next year on a slip of paper, then with only a candle light in the church everyone placed his slip on a Christmas tree, Mr. Each then read these "gifts".

The Ladies Guild will meet next Thursday, December 26 with Mrs. C. M. Williams.

Mr. J. S. Gerald and sister, Ruth, of Birmingham spent Sunday at home with their mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

Mr. Arnold Soberg of Birmingham was a week end visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bosworth and daughter, Christine, and son, Leonard were visitors in Birmingham last Saturday.

The JACK-POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

Will wonders never cease? Somebody came out one day this week and announced that he actually hunted up the JACK-POT every week when he gets his Union-Banner, and reads THAT first!

* * * * * * *

And, too, he had it all figured out that the JACK-POTTER had a watermelon to "bust", or something, later on. Well! Well!! Well!!! If we've got some curiosity aroused, we'll let good enough alone, and let him find out by reading the POT. In that way we'll keep ONE reader, any way.

* * * * * * *

Now, what will we talk about this week? Reading about roads is getting old. And, besides, the roads are getting passable again. But, of course, the sunshine did all of that. The road officials just COULDN'T be accused of doing anything laudable.

* * * * * * *

Of course, when the rain was coming down in sheets a few weeks ago, the road crews were to blame for the bad condition our roads got in, but they don't happen to have as much to do with the sunshine as they did the rain, you know, so that's that.

* * * * * * *

What about the Community Chest? Have you done your bit? If not, you will very probably be called upon in the near future. But pray don't take the attitude ONE man did, he was glad it was being put on foot, because "maybe it would stop so many people from bringing petitions to him", to use his own words. And he was a Clanton merchant, too.

* * * * * * *

We just know that man never read his Bible MUCH, or he would have read about the good Samaritan. Do you suppose the good Samaritan helped the needy man so that he wouldn't have to watch 'em pass around the hat? Not much!

* * * * * * *

No kiddin', though, folks. The Community Chest is a highly commendable project. And, YOU are a member of one of two classes. YOU either need the help of the Chest, or you are able to contribute to the Chest for the benefit of those who DO need it. There is no middle ground. If you are not able to help theChest, you are one of the guys it is being made up for.

* * * * * * *

And, hadn't you rather be able to help somebody who needs help than to be one of the unlucky ones? Look at it that way, folks. The Board which is to see to the distribution of the $4,000.00 is made up of citizens taken from every nook and corner of our County. All will share according to their needs.

* * * * * * *

Don't wait for somebody to come to you—hunt 'em up, and DO YOUR BIT! You'll feel lots better Christmas morning if you know some tot has a good warm pair of shoes because you gave a few dollars to the Chest, than you will if you are jingling those dollars in your pocket.

* * * * * * *

And, after all, it's almost Christmas! Loosen up! It won't paralyze you to give out money without getting a receipt for it bearing the well-known "for value received". Any way, you will get that receipt in a form you can't lose—it'll be stored away in your conscience instead of your own pet strong-box.

* * * * * * *

Excuse the seeming sentimental impulse, please, and the rude form in which we are putting it, but you might rejoice some day to look over Saint Peter's shoulder when he is balancing your account, and see (on the right side of the ledger) an account of yours in connection with the Chest. Don't be ashamed of your contribution, THEN!

* * * * * * *

BUT—as said before, give what you give just because you want to—not because Tom, Dick, or Harry may look over the list and, noting your gift, comment on the hardness of your heart. AND—remember it is money given away in this way that you REALLY SAVE. Give to the Chest—TODAY!

* * * * * * *

Oops! Yep! We knew it was going to happen sooner or later. But that's too good to waste on the ragged edge of this week's POT. We'll just save it for next week. Want to peep in, any way? Nope, we'll save it—its just too good. Guess that'll arouse somebody else's curosity.

* * * * * * *

Station P-O-T now signing off. Good-night! "Jack".

...SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

By GRACE VIALL GRAY

BAKE AT HOME

Baking at home is a simple process today compared to what it used to be. Formerly a woman had to measure out the flour, the baking powder and the salt. If she were using soda and buttermilk she would have to guess at the acidity of the milk. Some days her biscuits or cakes would be perfect while the next day they would be far from palatable. There was too much guess work in baking at home. Today all guess work has been taken out of baking by the appearance on the market of self-rising flour. Self rising flour has the leavening or baking powder accurately proportioned by weight, and has the right amount of salt for seasoning.

With self-rising flour, baking at home is a great indoor sport. It is easy; it is reliable; it saves from 25 to 40 per cent time in mixing biscuits and from 25 to 60 per cent in mixing cakes.

Furthermore, baking at home makes the money go further. From actual statistics we know that money goes from 20 to 40 per cent further than if one buys bakery goods.

Why not try an Up-Side-Down cake for dinner tonight? Here is the recipe for that unusually attractive dessert:

Make a cake batter of one egg as follows:

½ cup butter
⅔ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
1½ cups self-rising flour
½ tsp. vanilla

Cream the butter thoroughly, add sugar and continue to cream until the granules have dissolved, add the unbeaten egg and beat until blended. Add the flour and milk alternately, then the flavoring.

Fold the flour in quickly and gently, handling as little as possible.

From this batter the Up-Side-Down cake is made this way:

Standard one egg cake batter
1 cup brown sugar
4 tbs. butter
1 cup nuts
½ cup diced pineapple
1 cup raisins or dates
1 cup cherry or other preserves

Melt the butter in an iron skillet: add the sugar and stir until blended: remove the skillet from the fire: spread the sugar and butter mixture in an even layer; then add the fruits and nuts in layers; pour the batter on top and bake in a slow oven about forty-five minutes. Loosen the cake from the edges, and turn out as quickly as possible after taking it from oven. Serve with hard sauce or whipped cream.

DOCTORS DISAGREE

When children are irritable and peevish, grind their teeth and sleep restlessly, have digestive pains and disturbances, lack of appetite, and have itching eyes, nose and fingers, doctors will not always agree that they are suffering from worms. Many mothers, too, will not believe that their carefully brough up children can have worms. The fact remains that these symptoms will yield, in a great majority of cases, to a few doses of White's Cream Vermafuge, the sure expellant of round and pin worms. If your child has any of these symptoms, try this harmless, old fashioned remedy, which you can get at 35c per bottle from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Ala.

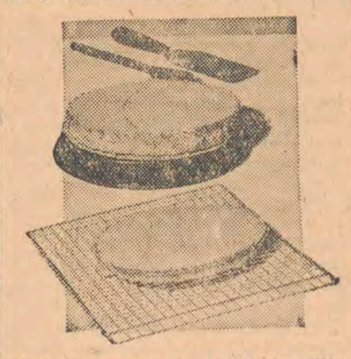
Hoover Names Republican Member

Judge Jones of Tennessee to Succeed R. V. Taylor of Mobile, Democrat.

Washington, Dec. 18.—President Hoover Tuesday took away Alabama's representation on the interstate commerce commission and gave it to the border state of Tennessee. He sent to the Senate the nomination of Judge. Robt M. Jones, Republican, of Knoxville, to succeed Commissioner R. V. Taylor, democrat of Mobile, whose term expires at the end of this month.

In nominating Mr. Jones, the president swept aside requests of 22 senators and 40 congressmen for the reappointment of Commissioner Taylor and followed the recommendation of J. Will Taylor, congressman from Tennessee and the Republican national committeeman and patronage referee for that state.

A group of southern senators met Monday night at the call of Senators Simmons of North Carolina and Black of Alabama, to discuss the action of President Hoover in nominating a Republican to succeed a Democrat on the commission. It is not improbable that a fight against Mr. Jones' confirmation will grow out of the conference.



Commissioner Taylor came to the Commission four years ago under appointment of President Coolidge to fill out an unexpired term.

QUICK BAKING

The keynote of today is more leisure for women. Women today are just as excellent housekeepers as their mothers and grandmothers before them but they are not willing to spend every minute of the day hanging over the stove, the kitchen sink or the dish pan. They systematize their housework and so plan their meals that they have leisure time for reading, for club meetings, for playing with their children and time for their husbands.

From laboratory experiments we know that a cake calling for three cupfuls of self-rising flour can be mixed in 8 minutes against the 15 minutes required for the same cake of plain flour. This is easily explained. Self-rising flour has to be sifted only once, there is no baking powder to measure, the eggs are added unbeaten and the cake is mixed as quickly and gently as possible. This all saves time against the old method of sifting flour three or four times, getting out the baking powder and measuring it, separating the yolks and whites of the eggs into separate bowls and then beating them separately.

Women would make cakes oftener if they did not have to go to so much trouble. A package or bag of self-rising flour eliminates all this trouble and makes cake and pastry making simple and quick.

Here is a very delicious cake that can be made in seven minutes. The family will love it:

Quick Cake.

Sift three and one-third cups of self-rising flour into large bowl. Break two eggs into standard measuring cup. Fill cup with melted shortening or cooking oil. Put into flour but do not beat. Add two cups sugar, one cup milk and one teaspoon vanilla. Beat entire mixture two minutes. Pour into a greased and floured loaf pan or two large layer cake pans and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes.

For variety's sake, nuts, raisins, melted chocolate or spices may be added. Any desired frosting may be used on this cake.

SHILOH NEWS

Last Sunday was our regular singing day, but was called off for different reasons. We hope to meet again next third Sunday.

Our B. Y. P. U. met last Sunday night and rendered a very interesting program, one thing we have to admire is the attendance in our union. One thing that I noticed last Sunday night was that everyone that was to serve on the program was ready to respond.

Come and be with us next Sunday night, December 22, we have a very interesting program planned, one item is "The christian observance of Christmas". We also have a number of other things.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Keen visited the latter's parents.

Mr. Walter Coggins and family spent Sunday with Eugene Mullins and family.

Mrs. O. S. Ray and children spent Sunday with her brother, Mr. Tom Powell of Clanton.

Mr. Johnnie Billingsley spent the latter part of last week with his parents who is very ill.

Mr. G. W. Mullins visited his son, Mr. John Mullins last Sunday, Mr. John Mullins has been suffering with rheumatism.

Misses Sela and Odis Dobbs and Geneva Deason dined with Roy Dobbs and wife Sunday.

Mr. Willie Dobbs and wife spent Sunday with Mr. Marshall Baker and family.

We wish every one a merry Christmas.

POTENT MOONSHINE EXPLODES IN COURT TO PROVE ITS POWER

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Frank Chila testified with great earnestness that the moonshine whiskey Mrs. Anna Borazin sold him had a potency the like of which he never had experienced even in his wildest dreams.

On the strength of his testimony, Mrs. Burazin was fined $100 and all costs yesterday. Following this, police Sergeant Richard Powers carried the moonshine into a nearby court room where he was a witness in another case. He placed the package on a chair beside him.

The room may have been over heated; the moonshine may have been unduly shaken in being carried about. Something certainly happened, for the stuff exploded like a bomb. The court ducked and escaped injury, but Bailiff Louis London was cut by flying glass. Bailiff Leo Nowacki dodged a big hunk of glass and drew his pistol.

The explosion demonstrated, Sergeant Powers pointed out, that the moonshine's potency was well within bounds of veracity.

Judge Henry D. Clayton Is Near Death At Hospital

Federal Judge's Condition Believed Almost Hopeless, Though 48 Hours may bring Change.

Montgomery, Dec. 18.—Judge H. D. Clayton, author of the Clayton anti-trust Act, former member of the house of Representatives from the Third Alabama District, Judge of the United States court for the middle and north Alabama Districts, remained critically ill at Hill's infirmary Wednesday. Relatives have been summoned to his bedside and they are the only ones permitted in the room.

Judge Clayton became ill several months ago and had been under treatment of physicians. He went to the hospital about three weeks ago and received a blood transfusion necessitated by anemia. He returned to his home but was forced to go to the hospital again last week.

Although announcements from the hospital were guarded, indications were that Judge Clayton's condition is almost hopeless. However, if he remains alive during the next 48 hours, he will have a fighting chance to get well, according to his physicians.

Judge Clayton is one of the best known men in the United States, and announcement of his critical illness will affect many persons. He served the third congressional district for years and was a close personal and political friend of Woodrow Wilson while the latter was president.

After serving his district and receiving assurance from the voters that he could remain in congress as long as he cared to do so, Judge Clayton decided to seek one of the two Alabama positions in the United States senate. He was persuaded to remain in the House and withdraw from the race for the Senate.

In recognition of his loyalty and his service to the people, President Wilson appointed Judge Clayton as judge of the middle and north Alabama districts, as the successor to Judge Thomas G. Jones, deceased.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

When Pasteur discovered, in 1852, that the infection of wounds was caused by malignant bacteria, he performed a service of inestimable value to mankind. Since then medical science has been producing better and better antiseptics, to kill these germs that may enter the smallest cut and give us diseases such as typhoid; tuberculosis and lockjaw. Now, all you have to do to be sure that these dreadful germs will not infect a wound, is to wash that wound however small, thoroughly with liquid Borozone, the modern antiseptic. You can get Liquid Borozone, in a size to fit your needs and purse, from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Ala.

THE CHILD IN A CHRISTIAN WORLD

(Christmas Lesson)

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 18:1-6; Mark 10:13-16; Luke 2:1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—Suffer little children and forbid them not to come unto Me for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Story of the First Christmas.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of the First Christmas.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding and Following Right Leaders.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Obligations to Childhood.

I. The Greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven (Matt. 18:1-6).

Jesus answered concretely the disciples' question as to who is greatest in the kingdom of heaven, by placing a child in their midst and declaring:

1. The condition of entrance into the kingdom (v. 3).

In order to enter the kingdom one must become childlike. He thus showed to these ambitious disciples that a change of heart was necessary in order to even enter the kingdom, let alone having an honorable position therein. Birth from above is essential, even to see the kingdom (John 3:3, 5).

2. Those who possess childlike humility are the greatest (v. 4). The child is dependent, lowly and modest. Such characteristics are only possible to those who have been regenerated.

II. Little Children Brought to Jesus.— (Mk. 10:13-16).

1. The mothers' desire that Jesus might touch their children (v. 13).

Doubtless they had witnessed the healing power of His touch and covered it for their children. All Christian parents want their children to come into contact with Jesus Christ.

2. The disciples' rebuke (v. 13).

They thought the children were too insignificant to be allowed to interfere with Jesus' work, therefore they rebuked the mothers for bringing them to Him.

3. Jesus reply (v.14).

He declared that the kingdom belongs to the children, therefore the children have a right in the presence of the king.

4. Jesus blesses the little children (v. 16).

He took them up in His arms and blessed them. Christianity is peculiarly favorable toward children. Only where Christ is known is the child duly recognized.

III. The Child Jesus (Luke 2:1-20).

1. His birth (vv. 1-7).

It took place at Bethlehem according to prediction (Micah 5:2). The Lord moved upon the emperor to enforce the decree of taxation just in time to bring Mary to Bethlehem. His surroundings were of the most humble sort. The eternal God condescended to be thus incorporated with humanity, to be born in a manger, becoming the poorest of the poor that none might be hindered in coming unto him.

2. Jesus' birth announced (vv. 8-14).

(1) By whom. An angel of the Lord was the first to give the gospel message.

(2) To whom. His birth was announced to the shepherds who were keeping watch over their flocks by night.

(3) The nature of the message. It was good tidings of great joy. It was good tidings because the darkness of heathendom which had so long covered the earth was beginning to vanish; the casting out of Satan, the prince of the world, was about to take place. Liberty was soon to be proclaimed to those who were in bondage. The way of salvation was to be open to all. So glorious was this message that a multitude of the heavenly host accompanied it with their song of praise.

3. The shepherds investigating (vv. 15, 16).

They did not stop to argue or raise questions, though these things were no doubt passing strange to them. They went immediately to Bethlehem where they made investigation and found everything just as represented. They had the privilege of first gazing upon the world's Savior, the Lord of glory.

4. The shepherds witnessing (vv. 17-20).

They found things as announced. When they beheld the Lord of glory they could not remain silent, therefore they went back praising God and making known what their eyes had beheld. Those who really hear the gospel can not be silent—they must tell it out to others.

STATE CAPITOL News

The Alabama Bridge Corporation at a recent meeting adopted a schedule of tolls for four of the fifteen toll bridges built or building under authority of an act of the 1927 legislature which provided for construction of these toll bridges to relieve the urgent need at important river crossings in various parts of the State. The schedule of tolls adopted is for the four smaller bridges located at Cedar Bluff, Childersburg and Riverside, over the Coosa, and Cochrane over the Tombigbee. The corporation followed closely the recommendations of Ford, Bacon and Davis, traffic engineers, of New York, who made a complete traffic survey bearing on the toll bridge question and rendered an exhaustive report to the bridge body. The schedule of tolls adopted is regarded as very moderate, providing a charge of 40 cents for an automobile and driver, and an additional charge of five cents for each additional person occupying the car; for farm wagons, 15 cents, commercial wagons, 25 cents, horse and rider, 10 cents, pedestrian five cents, and for motor trucks, from 40 cents to $1.50, depending upon the tonnage. Toll charges will be some 20 per cent higher for the eleven large bridges, if as anticipated the bridge corporation follows the recommendations of the traffic engineers, who recommend a reasonable diferentiol in tolls for the smaller bridges as compared with the larger and more expensive structures. For example, the proposed toll schedule for the larger bridges is 55 cents for an auto with driver and one passenger, as compared with 45 cents for the smaller bridges. Revenue from tolls will be used for retiring bonds issued to cover cost of construction and maintenance of the bridges, after which the toll feature will be abolished and they will be free public bridges. The eleven larger bridges are located at Scottsboro, Guntersville and Whitesburg, over the Tennessee; Butler, Jackson, Epes and Gainesville over the Tombigbee; Camden and Clairborns over the Alabama; Demopolis and Eutaw over the Warrior.

The bridge over the Tombigbee at Cochrane is already open to traffic and the Childersburg bridge over the Coosa has been finished and is expected to open within a few days. The Riverside and Epes bridges will be completed in February, it is anticipated and the last of the fifteen bridges by September of the coming year.

S. P. Storrs, State commissioner of Agriculture, has launched a movement to speed up soil survey work, declaring that it will take thirty odd years to complete in all the states the soil survey program now being carried on by the Federal government, due to insufficient appropriations. Congressman J. Lister Hill of the second district has undertaken to secure the additional appropriations so badly needed for this important work, and the aid of various agricultural agencies is being enlisted in the move. Mr. Storrs has written the commissioners of agriculture of other states asking them to aid in the undertaking.

A bill has been introduced in congress to provide for erection of a monument at the grave of General Sam Dale, famous Alabama leader in the war of 1812 against the Creeks and the British. Dale County, Ala., was named in honor of this pioneer hero, who lies buried in an unmark-grave near Daleville, Mississippi. Through the activity of Mrs. Thos. M. Owen, director of the Alabama Department of archives and history, a bill to provide a suitable monument to General Dale's memory has been introduced by Congressman R. A. Collins, who represents the Mississippi district in which Dale's grave is located.

THE UNITED SINGING SOCIETY MEETS AT COLLINS CHAPEL

The United Singing Society met at Collins Chapel Sunday aternoon, December 15th, 1929. The opening song was sung by Akins Collins and prayer was offered by Prof. Zac Appleton, after which the following directors led in singing: T. E. Wyatt, A. M. Devaughn, W. M. Devaughn, O. L. Devaughn, C. H. Robinson, D. T. Melton, W. L. Sanders, Enoch Traywick, Akins Mims, Jasper Oaks, and A. H. Glasscock. The closing prayer was offered by Mr. C. C. Conway.

Some people said that the singing made them think of the days gone by. They saw people they hadn't seen in years; one of the largest crowds that ever has attended an evening singing was there. The building was not large enough to hold them; the doors were full and people were standing on the outside.

Everyone agreed that the singing was extra good. It is not often that one heard so many good voices together. It was one of the happiest crowds that has been together in a long time—good music and plenty of good warm sunshine made it a glorious day.

The United Singing Society is building up; we are pushing up the ladder. What will we be when we reach the top?

We sing every Thursday night; the society will go to Jemison Thursday night, December 19th. Everybody go and see for yourself what we are doing. The society will go to Oak Hill next Sunday, December 22nd. Come, please; we were very fortunat last Sunday by having visitors from other places—Prof. Devaughn and all who came with him. We invite you to come again. You could see from the crowd that people do enjoy singing. So, come again.

If you feel down-hearted and blue, come, and the singing will make you feel like a different person. Good singing affects one like a good dose of medicine when you need one. It will really make you over again.

We must thank the people for the hearty co-operation; they really are standing by us—singers and listeners as well.—Mrs. Zac Appleton.

There are still some people in the United States who think that the farmer that lives off the fat of the land.

It would be funny, if it wasn't tragic, how people continue to run into trains that are using the same crossing.

We still hope to be able to live long enough to discover that what we have in the bank is actually what we think we have.

WEAK SPELLS

"I WAS so weak," says Mrs. Josephine Cockcroft, of Baldock, S. C., "that I was not able to do anything.

"At certain times, I suffered dreadfully with pains in my back and sides. My head would hurt—felt like it would split open. Spells of weakness would last for weeks.

"I read of Cardui. I sent for a bottle and began taking it. My case was stubborn, and at times I almost lost hope, but I could see a little improvement. At last I began to feel much better. Then I improved rapidly. For the last year I have been in better health than I ever have been before.

"I give the credit to Cardui, for after I had given it a thorough trial, I got well."

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

Bro. Bryan's Weekly Message

(Written for The Union-Banner by REV. J. A. BRYAN, Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, Birmingham, Alabama)

A TRAVEL IN BIBLE LANDS

Last Monday I studied with you of Damascus as I saw it and something of its past history and something of the Bible events which are confirmed there.

Today I am going to write of the Antilibanon Mountains as we travel to what the Bible speaks of as the Plain of Shinar. Through this plain the Euphrates and the Tigris rivers flow on their way to the sea. This incient alleluvial tract is known in later times as the Chaldean or Babylonia.

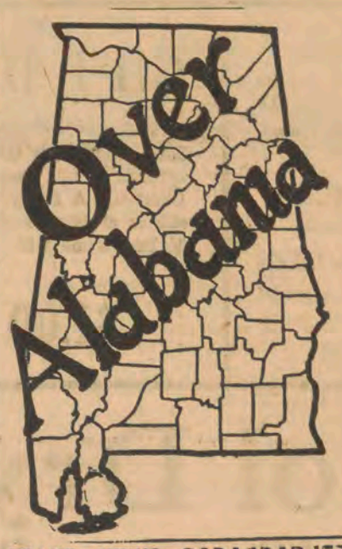
Somewhere between the Euphrates and the Tigris rivers is the Garden of Eden. In the book of Genesis we read of the Kishon, Gion, Hiddekel, and Euphrates rivers. The fact is that all civilizations have had their origin and growth on the banks of a river. The river Nile is a God-given blessing to Egypt, and on its banks was the great Egyptcian cicilization built. The Euphrates had a civilization built on its banks as confirmed by the bible.

The Euphrates rises in Mount Ararwas the great Egyptian civilization rat away up in Armenia and emties into the Persian Gulf along the Tigris River. It mentioned some years after the creation of the world. Hence, what we are to study now is really older than Egypt, and to be plain its civilization or what men call civilization is older than Egyptian civilization, as it is gleaned from God's Word, the Bible.

The Euphrates is four hundred miles in length and is navigable two hundred miles from its mouth, the remainder is navigable only by rafts and small boats, except the cataracts. This river on which Edenic civilization was founded and grew also watered the fertile Garden of Eden. It is also the river on which man's rise and fall began. We should say then that it was the home of the first appearence of sin's satanic majesty. It was near the home of the first man and woman of God's creation who were happy beings without sin who by falling into sin were expelled from the garden, the home of our first parents.

This county of Shinar has been made fertile in all ages by the flow of the Euphrates river just as Egypt has been made fertile by the overflow of the Nile river. It is interesting to Bible students to know that a city which is mentioned in Geneses by the name of Nimrod is somewhere in this district. There is a neighborhood called Nimrod and evidently is the same place as Nimrod. Nimrod was built we read by a famous hunter named Nimrod. It was evidently a populous and thiving city. It is believed that Babylon was built on its foundation.

In this plain of Shinar was begun the Tower of Babel which could not be finished because God confounded the language of the people. Hence the Tower of Babel and the repopulation of the world. In this narrative we are studying we find a contrast to the one we have just studied on Egypt that we read of sun-burnt bricks in this plain and not in Egypt. On excavated sun-burnt bricks there one finds uniform writings very well depicting the life of the people there. One sees on some of them the figure of boats and persons on them which scholars believe to represent the ark with Noah and his posterity.



Again one sees the figure of the Tower of Babel. Excavators think they have also found its foundation in this plain. Remember the history of this tower was the simple fact that the people wanted to build a tower reaching from earth to heaven, aviolation of God's law. No dought they foolishly contrived this scheme that they might be safe from another flood which might come or some other catastrophe which might come upon the earth. But God in His great wisdom confounded their language so they could not understand each other and thereby cooperate reaching from earth to heaven, a vin the work and labors of the builddepicting the life of thepeople there.

The Babylonish civilization won a great many laurels by its armies. Remember these armies passed through Syria, Assyria Syria in Palestine and even as far as Egypt. Excavators have proved so much in Babylonish history it would take many pages to tell it all. It is believed they have found the location of the Lions Den into which was cast Daniel the Hebrew because of his courage.

It is also believed they have found the room which can be called the place of burning,fiery furnace into which was cast Shadrac, Meshach and Abednego. On these excavated cuneiform writings is found an account of the flood. In this ancient Bible country we cannot doubt the location of the mount on which the ark rested after the flood. It is the mount called Ararat in Armenia.

Ninevah was built after Babylon, and was famed for its kings among which was Nebuchadnezzar who captured Jerusalem and took the people captives to Babylon. The Babyloni ans did not have any real idea of the one true God. They worshiped heathern gods. But Nebuchadnezzar through his secretaries and servants trained Hebrew boys for his courts. One of the boys which was trained stood very firm for his God during tempestous time. His name was Daniel.

Excavators have the word Daniel on sun-burnt bricks in cunieform writings. His babylonish or Chaldee name was Belteshazzer. It is claimed that Bel was the Babylonian god. Thus the word Belteshazzer means Bel's Prince that is he whom Bel favors. Daniel, strong in his stand for his God was favoured among the worshippers of the heathern gods. We read that he had a great influence for his God upon the King. It is very interesting to me to know that the Bible record of the Hebrews being taken captives there is confirmed which fact is clearly pictured in cunieform writings and representation of slaves carrying great burdens.

Such beautiful weather, spring like days in December.

How swiftly the years come and go. Here we are at the close of 1929, with the happy yuletide and New Yead just around the corner.

We learn that L. M. McCary of Randolph has sold his farm in Beat 14 to H. E. Barnhall.

Thomas Cofer Jr. has moved from the G. W. Freeman place near Randolph to the Barnes place in Beat 2.

Mrs. Braswell of Beat 14 has moved to her daughter's home, Mrs. Cofer in Beat 2.

Riley Cofer and wife of Siluria spent Saturday night with his brother, Marion Cofer.

Alonza Crumpton will locate on the Charlie Smith farm.

A Mr. McGraw has moved to the Lee Bearden place for next year.

Mrs Alice Cofer of Siluria is visiting in these parts.

At Christmas time everybody is at their best, yet we are far from an ideal Christmas. Now mixed with good will and cheerfulness we have revelry, hungry people, some have no clothing, some begging, homes made sad by death. Heavy obligations pressing on some, lawlessness, an unparallelled wave of crime rolling over us. So, how different the ideal Christmas when man to man, united, no revelry, no want, death no more, health and happiness prevailing, good will everywhere, no war tax or preparations for war. But, the blue bird building its nest in the discarded connon's mouth. The golden rule in full force. Some day we will reach that ideal Christmas. What hinders us now is that man's invisible enemy is not restrained.

President Hoover Praises Railways Efficient Service

Tribute of President Hoover to the efficiency and economy of railroad service is quoted by A. E. Clift, president of the Central of Georgia railway, in a statement published today. Mr. Hoover's commendation of this country's transportation service was as follows:

"As a whole, the railrads never were in such good physical and financial condition, and the country has never been so well served by them. The greatest volume of freight traffic ever tendered is being carried at a speed never before attained, and with satisfaction to the shippers. Efficiencies and new methods have resulted in reduction in the cost of providing freight transportation, and freight rates show a continuous descending line from the level enforced by the world war."

Mr. Clift closes his statement by expressing appreciation for the cooperation and friendly support of the public, which he says have been important factors in bringing about the improvement of which President Hoover speaks: he says.

"With the approach of Christmas and the New Year the Central of Georgia in extending the season's greetings to its friends and patrons wishes to thank each of them for the part his patronage and support played in helping to make the year one of the progress and advancement for the railroad."

Salesman (showing customer some sports stockings): "Just the thing for you. Worth double the money, latest pattern, fast colors, holeproff, won't shrink, and its a good yarn."

Customer (politely): "Very well told, too."—Wall Street Journal.

PRATTVILLE LEGION

Ex-service men of Prattvile, Autauga County, organized an American Legion post Monday night with 15 charter members. Richard T. Rives, commander for the fourth district of Alabama; C. B. Sims, state adjutant, and C. Allen Hopkins, commander of the Montgomery post, attended the organization meeting. Harry M. Doster, of Prattville, was one of the leaders in perfecting the organization.

Officers will be elected in January. The post charter will be presented by the state department at the next meeting on the second Monday night in January.

O. K. By Her.—"Did you know, dear, that tunnel we just passed through was two miles long and cost $21,000,000?" said the young man to his sweetheart.

"Oh, really, did it?" she replied, as she started t rearrange her disheveled hair. "Well, it was worth it, wasn't it?"—Boston Transcript.

CHILTON COUNTY HAS HIGH RANK IN STATE

(By W. J. Boles, in Birmingham News)

Chilton County was created by a legislative act approved December 30, 1868 and, given the name Baker in honor of Judge Alfes Baker, a noted jurist of his day. Later it was changed to Chilton, thus honoring another citizen of the state, Judge William Parrish Chilton, chief justice of the Alabama Supreme Court and a member of the Confederate States Congress.

Chilton is located in the center of the state, has a good climate, sandy loam suitable for nearly all field and garden crops and in 1920 had an 82.6 per cent white population. It is an agricultural county, its population being largely home-owning, industrious and good workers.

The County has unusually good highways and railroad facilities and electricity is available in almost every locality. Two of the hydro-electric power plants of the Alabama Power Company is in the county.

Area of 713 Spuare Miles

The center of Chilton County is about 35 miles north of Montgomery and 65 miles from Birmingham. The Coosa River partially bounds it on the east, Mitchell Dam, of the Alabama Power Company, created a considerable lake along its borders. Irregularly shaped, the county has an extreme length of about 39 miles east and west and 28 miles north and south. It has an area of 713 square miles, which is slightly smaller than the average for counties of the state.

Located at the junction of the three great divisions it has some of the characteristics of each. Partly in the crystalline area, partly in the paleozic and partly in the coastal plain region, the county offers diversity of soils, topography and drainage. The crystalline area is underlaid with igenous and metaphoric rocks, such as granite, schists, slates and marble; the paleozoic comprises hard sedimentary rocks such as limestone, sandstone and shales, and the coastal plain area is composed of later sediments such as soft limestone, clay, sand and gravel.

The surface features partake of the characteristics of all three divisions, being rough and broken to the north and north-east, level to gently rolling on the south ridge that extends through the county from north-west to south-east and separates the drainage of the Coosa River from the Alabama River, and rolling to hilly in the south and south-west.

400 to 600 Feet Elevation

The extreme elevation is 835 feet on Jemison Mountain toward the north-east, and the general average ranges from 400 to 600 feet

The soil for the most part is sandy loam and lends itself to the use of firtilizer, and responds to systematic raising of legumes and proper crop rotation.

Summers are long with occassional hot weather, but because of the altitude these are not oppressive, except in the lower areas. The temperature rarely goes below 25 above zero, Fahrenheit, in winter and this only for a few periods of a day or two. The average temperature for the winter months is 46 degrees, spring, 64; summer, 79, and fall, 64, with an average of 63.5 degrees for the year. Rainfall, fairly distributed through the year averages 50 inches.

Agriculture is the principle source of revenue, but previous to 1900 part of the population was occupied in the timber and turpentine industry. The timber has been cut off, however, and forms only a negligible industry. Clearing timber lands opened larger areas for farming, with cotton forming the major money crop. In recent years, however, considerable attention has been given to grains and forage, poultry raising, dairying and truck.

Some Gold Found.

In the crystalline area, in the northeast portion of the county slate, mica, building stone, gold and possibly some other minerals occur to some extent, but further investigation is necessary to determine whether these can be developed profitably.

HOWARD COLLEGE STUDENTS ELECT A STUDENT LEADER

Alfred Turnipseed Named President of Body of Baptist College.

Howard College students Tuesday elected Alfred Turnipseed of Birmingham president of the student body, the highest honor in the power of students to bestow. He was unopposed.

Turnipseed, who is a member of the junior class and Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, was president of the sophomores last year and vice-president of the freshman class the year before.

The new student body president will be inaugurated early in February. Other student officers for this year were elected during the 1929 Spring term of school.

Turnipseed has been an honor roll student every year since entering Howard and recently was named the best all-round boy on the campus in the student "Who's Who" contest.

TAX REDUCTION BILL READY FOR HOOVER'S SIGNATURE

President to Get Resolution For Signature This Week.

Washington Dec. 15.—The resolution carrying a reduction in next year's income taxes to every individual and corporation taxpayer goes from the White House Monday, and President Hoover will sign it forthwith.

Thus with the Christmas shopping in full swing, those who are to pay taxes next year can count on a considerable savings in that burden, which will help to meet the inevitable strains on the pocketbook in the Yuletide season.

The tax resolution slashes 1 per cent off the present rates applying on all individual and corporation income taxes to be paid during the forthcoming year.

The individual income taxpayers with incomes this year of $4,000 or less will be taxes at the rate of one half of one per cent next year instead of one and one-half of one per cent. Those with net income between $4,000 and $8,000 will pay at two per cent instead of 3 per cent and those receiving more than $8000 will be taxed at 4 per cent instead of 5 per cent.

POLITICS WILL GET STARTED NEXT SATURDAY

Republican Executive Com. Meets At Courthouse at Two O'Clock P. M.

With the meeting of the Republican Executiue Committee of Chilton Co., called for next Saturday p.m. at 2 o'clock, we may expect the political pot to begin to boil in real earnest. There will be a flock of candidates announced immediately after the committee meets and announces arrangements for the Republican primary to be held next year.

According to law, the primary will be held the 12th day of August. It is not known whether the Republicans will consider holding a separate primary at another date or not. Such action has been mentioned by some.

Immediate stress will be made by political leaders to get folks to pay up poll taxes during the month of January so they may be able to vote in the elections of 1930. Registration of new voters is also being pushed. The last day of this month closes the meetings of the Board of Registrars for this time.

Officers to be nominated and elected next year are Tax Collector, Tax Assessor, Sheriff, two county commissioners, one member of county board of education.

JUDGE CLAYTON, U. S. COURT JUSTICE, DIES OF CANCER

Framer of Anti-Trust Act Expires After Three Weeks Illness At Montgomery

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 21.—The long career as a public figure of Henry DeLamar Clayton, judge of the middle federal district of Alabama, a former congressman and democratic national committeeman, ended in his death at 12:45 p.m., Saturday, after an illness of 3 weeks. He was 72 years old.

Stricken shortly after he had recused himself from presiding over the trial of A. M. Brown, Eufaula banker, who subsequently pleaded guilty to embezzlement, because of relationship, Judge Clayton was admitted to Hill's hospital for treatment of cancer which was aggravated by an anemic condition. He responded to a blood transfusion and returned to his home ten days ago. Three days later he returned to the hospital, where he gradually grew worse.

Framed Anti-Trust Act

Judge Clayton will be best remembered as a congressman and the framer of the anti-trust act, which bears his name, while he was chairman of the house judiciary committee. He was elected to the House of Representatives from the third Alabama district in 1897 and was re-elected to the seven succeeding congresses. He retired from the house with his appointment to the federal judiciary in May, 1914 by President Woodrow Wilson.

Prior to his career in national politics which began with his election in 1888 to the national Democratic committee, Judge Clayton served his home county of Barbour as Register in Chancery and as a legislator.

Judge Clayton was widely known as a jurist. Possessing a very keen sense of humor he ever represented himself as taking the bright side of life; although he was strict in preserving order in his court room.

He was born February 10, 1857 in Barbour County, Alabama, the son of Henry D. and Victoria Virginia Clayton. His father, a Confederate general, was killed during the Civil War.

Judge Clayton was educated in the country schools and received his AB and LLB degrees from the University of Alabama in 1877-78, respectively.

The widow, five brothers and 3 sisters survive.

Following a brief funeral service at Montgomery Sunday, the body was taken to Eufaula for burial.

GASTON ROBINSON MARRIED TO MISS FLORENCE CORCORAN

The marriage of Mr. Gaston Robinson to Miss Florence Corcoran at Demopolis last Friday night was a surprise to their friends.

The lovely bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Corcoran of Uniontown. She has been a student at Florence Normal College.

Mr. Robinson is the son of Mrs. W. C. Robinson of Clanton and has been attending the Marion Military College.

The happy young couple are spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson in Clanton.

IOWA YOUTH DIED IN HOSPITAL HERE

Levert R. Mikesell, age 16, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, died in the Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton last Friday night. The lad shot himself accidentally Friday afternoon while on a hunting trip in the neighborhood of Thorsby.

Young Mikesell had come to Thorsby to spend Christmas with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen.

The body was brought to Clanton by Martin's ambulance and given medical attention at Central Alabama Hospital. After his death the body was prepared for burial by Martin and held until the arrival of his father Monday, when it was shipped back to Cedar Rapids for burial.

DR. AND MRS. SAM JOHNSON IN CHINA

The Union-Banner has received a Christmas greeting card from Dr. and Mrs. Sam E. Johnson, who are now in Canton, China. Dr. Johnson is in the Medical Department of the United States Navy, with the U. S. S. Mindanao in the Asiatic fleet. He will be in the Orient for about two years.

CHARLES COOPER WINS NICE COTTON PRIZE

Mr. Chas. Cooper of Mt. Creek has gained prominence by winning a prize for growing cotton. His products took a prize at the State Fair this fall. As a result of his achievement his picture was printed in the picture section of the Birmingham News last Sunday.

FIRE DOES LITTLE DAMAGE TO PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The new Presbyterian church of Clanton was the scene of quite a bit of excitement on Christmas Eve about 3:30 o'clock p.m., when it was discovered that the church was on fire. Not much damage was done, as it caught from a stove flue; and the city fire department was on its job before the fire was given any chance.

This was the first time the new fire siren was used.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Baker of Sylacauga are visiting relatives near Clanton this week.

SURVEY MADE OF TRADE ALONG THE COOSA-ALA. RIVER

Waterways Expert Calls On Montgomery Merchants For Information

E. B. Lawson of New Orleans, assistant to Theodore Brent, in charge of traffic potentialities survey for the Coosa-Alabama river development project, was in Montgomery Saturday completing assembly of data on able traffic for the river systems. Mr. Lawson was calling on shippers who did not return the questionaires distributed by the traffic bureau of Montgomery.

M. M. Caskie, manager of the traffic bureau and chairman of the committee on questionaires, said that the response was gratifying and that the answers in hand promised traffic in sufficient volume to warrant the government improving the two rivers. Available traffic for the river system by the State of Alabama, representatives in congress and spikesmen for cities in Georgia and Alabama citizens will go before congress to urge appropriations for development. The improvement will mean establishment of a barge line from Rome, Ga., to Mobile.

Governor Bibb Graves is an advocate of the improvement, and before the Mississippi Valley Association meeting in St. Louis last month, presented the state's case, with the result that the asociation pledged its aid in urging congress to appropriate for the river systems. Recently, when city and county officials met with the governor at the business stabilization conference in Mobile, improvement to the Coosa-Alabama river systems was specifically designated as a project which would be of benefit to the state and the nation, and the message to President Hoover conveying the official suggestion for reducing unemployment by expanding public works, called attention to the importance of the Coosa-Alabama project.

Udah Curlee is in Clanton this week for Christmas holidays. He is teaching this year in Etawah County.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jeff Mims of Jasper are at home with relatives near Clanton for the holidays.

FOR FIRE ALARM CALL PHONE 9114

Clanton's New Fire Siren Has Arrived and Is Temporarily Installed

The Town Council has recently purchased an electric fire siren, which has arrived and has been temporarily installed. The permanent location will be on top of Upchurch Drug Store, and a switch located at Dief's Service Station, and one in the business district.

In case of fire, day or night, citizens are requested to call 9114, giving location of fire, and the alarm will be given promptly. Town of Clanton.

CHILTON GIRL ON HONOR ROLL

The distinction of being one of 40 counties to be represented on the student honor roll for the first term of the present session at Alabama College was won for Chilton County by Miss Elizabeth Parnell, of Maplesville.

Miss Parnell's name appears on the second honor list, which requires that an average grade of B shall be made on all subjects taken during the term.

To this young woman, who is a senior at Alabama College, will belong the unique distinction of being the first daughter of a graduate of the institution to graduate. She is the daughter of Lucy Lenoir (Mrs Parnell's name), who graduated from the A. B. degree in May, 1930.

Miss Parnell expects to receive the A. B. Degree in May 1930.

Mr. Emmett Bates, who for the past three years has been working in South Carolina with the Dixie Construction Company, is spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bates near Providence.

J. SIDNEY WELDON DIED TUESDAY NIGHT

Sid Weldon, age 50 years, died at midnight Tuesday at his home on the old Weldon place just west of Clanton. He had been sick for several days with pneumonia.

He leaves a wife, no children, four brothers, two sisters, and his mother. Burial will be at Liberty Hill Thursday at eleven o'clock, funeral by Rev. Buford Lakrence.

Mr. Weldon was one of the leading farmers in this community. He has been active in the organization of the Chilton County Farm Bureau of which he was a member of the Board of Directors.

Mrs. Walter Sanford is reported to be critically ill at the Sanford home in Clanton.

REYNOLDS WRITES ABOUT BAD ROAD

Road Machines Stopped and Bad Places Will Be Graveled

Editor Union-Banner:

Christmas is here, and the roads are worse than usual. I will say for the Commissioners Court that they have done the best they could for the roads this fall. We have never seen such conditions and such weather to work roads since I have been in office. I hope the people will be patient, and realize that we cannot work roads such weather as we have had for the last six weeks. We have notified all road overseers that the rain law must be observed. Heavy loads must not be hauled over the roads when they are wet.

We have stopped the road machines until February 1st and will try and gravel the bad places as soon as the weather will permit. I hope the road machines will not run any more until the roads dry out.

May I remind those who are kicking so much about the roads to go over the State Highway to Maplesville, which cost something like ten thousand dollars per mile, and see the condition of this road. There is more bad road on this highway than there is on all the county roads in the whole county. No one who had control of any road could foresee and prepare for the present condition.

I wish all the people of the county health and happiness, and I hope the New Year will fulfill all your highest expectations and bring you a ship load of pleasure.

Yours truly,
L. H. RENOLDS.

A. Washie Mims, who is working with Dixie Construction Company, at Milledgeville, Ga., is spending a few days at home near Clanton.

CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION WAS LIVELY IN CLANTON

Christmas celebration in Clanton Tuesday night was somewhat lively and accompanied with a profusion of noises from firecrackers. Thousands of rockets and candles illuminated the elements in every direction.

There was an unusual amount of firecracker shooting in the business district, which is in violation of city laws.

We understand that the police authorities were able to get a correct list of all violators, and we presume they will get an invitation to Mayor's court about next Monday morning.

Phillip Foshee of Birmingham was in Clanton for a while Tuesday night. His old friends here were glad to see him again.

Revolution In Farm Life Shown By 13,431 Letters

A survey of American form life, designed to show the revolutionary changes which have taken place during the past decade, has just been completed by a jury of 13,431 residents of farms and smaller cities, under the direction of Farm and Fireside, national farm magazine.

Answers to a four-page questionaire showed an overwhelming interest in how to live rather than how to make a living, and an interest in subjects other than specific advice on farming.

The questionaire, in one section, asked the jurors to check off, in a list of twenty-one subjects, those in which they were most interested. The leading favorites of all subjects were: "World Events" and "Modern Thought," which were selected by 36 per cent of the voters. "Child Training" was second with 29 per cent of all votes cast; "Books and Music," 19 per cent; "Building Plans," 19 per cent and "Gardening and Beauty," 12 per cent. Among professional farm subjects only "Poultry" and "Crops and Soils" were ahead of "Books and Music" and both of these were below questions concerning the training of children, youth and national events.

Residents of the rural communities taking part in the survey showed a decided tendency to cling to the old mortalities that go with the problem of living rather than of making money, but there was also evidence that the grip of old-time religion on the farms and small towns is slipping. Only 16 per cent of the jurors under the age of 20 years favored adherence to the old preachments; 19 per cent of those between 21 and 30 advocated such adherence; between 31 and 40, 32 per cent; between 40 and 50, 33 per cent; between 51 and 60, 44 per cent and over 61, 86 per cent.

The most astonishing departure from old-fashioned standards lay in the vote on birth control. Sixty-seven per cent of the readers favored legalization of the imparting by doctors of birth control methods to married couples applying jointly. Easier divorce, however, was voted down, 81 to 19 per cent. Prohibition lost by 78 to 22 per cent. Fifty per cent expressed no confidence in any law to relieve agriculture; 40 per cent favored Hoover's farm board and 10 per cent clung to the debenture plan.

Tobacco growing was approved, 65 to 35 per cent and tobacco advertising was sanctioned by 58 to 42 per cent. Advertising cigarettes for women, however, lost by 84 to 16 per cent

As a result of the survey, which continued over a period of months, Farm and Fireside, for perhaps the first time in the history of magazines in its February number, will begin to reflect the changes that have been thus indicated in country life in general. The magazine was established in 1877 and has undergone various changes from time to time, but will now reflect the changes that have come with the speed of the modern age. The publication henceforth will be known as "The Country Home."

"Readers have shown a constantly increasing response to all questions of better living and improved human relations," says the current issue, editorially. "They have shown a constantly decreasing response to strictly technical agricultural articles. The need of old time farm trade paper is gone. It is not that country people are uninterested in making money, in getting along in the world, but they are sick unto death of being talked to about it all the time."

ALLGOOD BECOMES FAMOUS AT LAST

Miles C. Allgood, congressman from the seventh Alabama district, now knows how it feels to be a hero. His southern colleagues have been making quite a fuss over him since he balked at serving on the same committee with Oscar DePriest, Chicago negro congressman. Newspaper photographers have been camping on his trail. Reams of copy have been written about him, and it has been front page stuff, too. The notoriety is about to get the best of the genial solon from Gadsden, and he is getting ready to slip out of town for a week of rest and quiet.

Not a few of Allgood's house colleagues have been casting envious glances at him. They would like to make the front page for a week on a stretch, and besides, they have an idea that the Alabamian's resignation from the committee to which DePriest was assigned is the kind of thing that helps a congressman with his constituents, especially if he hails from way down south. Well, Allgood will need every "lucky break" he can get next year, because the recent action of the Alabama Democratic executive committee makes it extremely doubtful whether a democratic nomination for congress from the seventh district will be worth much. That district is close, even when conditions are normal.—Alabama Journal.

MRS. MARTHA JANE ADAMS

Mrs. Martha Jane Adams, age 84, wife of Judge S. M. Adams, died last Sunday morning at the Masonic Home Hospital in Montgomery. Martin brought the body to Clanton and attended to the burial in Clanton cemetery Monday afternoon. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, at Clanton Baptist Church.

Mrs. Adams is survived by her aged husband, and one son, Enoch Adams, of Thorsby. Before her marriage to Judge Adams she was Miss Martha Jane Whatley, daughter of Elisha Whatley, of Bibb County. She was a sister of Mrs C. V. Heath, of Clanton.

Robert W. Evans of Birmingham was in Clanton Sunday visiting his mother, Mrs. J. E. Evans.

SENATORS PREDICT HEFLIN'S ELECTION AGAIN

They Think He Has Been Strengthened By Action of State Democratic Com.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—Senator Heflin, of Alabama, has been prohibited from running as a Democrat in the Alabama primaries next year by action of the state democratic committee, but senators are predicting today that he will be returned as an independent candidate.

Heflin was barred from the Democratic primaries because of his opposition to Smith, as a result, Heflin is preparing to run independently while the Alabama republican organization is preparing to extend to him its assistance at the general election.

Anticipating that Heflin will win in a contest in which the religious issue, the Ku Klux Klan and the Republican vote will figure, senators already are forecasting the troubles Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, pres. pro-tem, will have if Heflin is supported by the Republicans. Moses has already denounced the "wild jackasses" on the Republican side because they were not responsive to old guard leadership and Heflin would be even less responsive.

But whether Heflin, if elected, would accept affiliation with the Republican senate organization is problematical because of his Jeffersonian theories.

The action of the Alabama committee in punishing Heflin because he opposed Smith has caused much concern among Democratic senators and at the Democratic national committee. The Washington opinion was that Heflin should not have been read out of the party but should have been defeated at a regular Democratic primary.

Heflin it is believed will win at a regular election whereas he would have been defeated within a party primary. Heflin is chuckling over the Alabama situation as it will turn out to his advantage, he believes.

Senators also are speculating on the possible effect the Alabama action will have on North Carolina where organiation democrats are preparing to punish Senator Simmons because he, too, refused to accept Al Smith. Senator Simmons faces reelection next year.—Birmingham Post.

MACK D. RUFFIN BURIED HERE LAST MONDAY

Former Clanton Man Died In Baptist Hospital At Birmingham Saturday

The body of Mack D. Ruffin was brought to Clanton Monday morning from Fairfield, and buried in the Clanton Cemetery. Mr. Ruffin died Saturday morning at the Baptist Hospital, in West End, Birmingham, after an illness of several weeks.

The deceased was a brother of our townsman, Jeff L. Ruffin, and was a son of the late W. J. Ruffin, who died here some years ago. The Ruffins came to Clanton in September, 1902, from the farm where they were reared 12 miles north of Wetumpka. For several years the father and two sons were engaged in the grocery business here.

About thirteen years ago Mack went to Fairfield, where he has lived ever since. During the time he lived in Clanton he was married to Miss Emma Guinn, who was stenographer in the law offices of Hon. Tipton Mullins. She lived about a year after their marriage.

Mr. Ruffin won for himself a place of confidence and respect with the people of Clanton while he lived here. His noble life was a shining example of Christian character, and the people of Fairfield found in him the kind of man who could be loved and respected in every sense of the word.

After going to Fairfield, Mr. Ruffin became one of the organizers of the Baptist Church of that city. He served as Deacon, Secretary and Treasurer of the church until his death.

The funeral was held at the Fairfield church Sunday morning, and it was an impressive moment when many of his brethren, associates and friends exercised the opportunity to say words of praise for their deceased friend and co-worker. Six members of the Board of Deacons of Fairfield church came to Clanton with the body, and liad it to rest.

The death of Mack Ruffin has brought down a solemn benediction upon a life of 47 years of kind-heartedness that has touched every one of his many acquaintances. All of us are sad to give him up, but we are glad of the blessing he has been to the generation in which he lived.

UNITY MINUTES WIN FIRST PRIZE

The minutes of the Unity Baptist Association for the session of 1929, recently printed by The Banner Print Shop, won first prize for the State of Alabama. The Southern Baptist Convention every year awards prizes for the best Associational minutes, placing the percentage upon a number of points of competition. The total percentage given the Unity Minutes this year was ninety eight and one-half per cent. Second prize was awarded to Tuscaloosa Association with a percentage of ninety-six and one-fourth per cent.

The cash prize of $25 was given to Mr. Grady Harris, clerk of the Association, who in turn presented The Banner Print Shop a box of cigars.

INTERESTING PLAY AT BAKER SCHOOLHOUSE FRIDAY NIGHT

"A Poor Married Man" to be put on for Benefit of Liberty Hill by Tallassee S. S. Pupils

For the benefit of the Liberty Hill piano fund, a play entitled "A Poor Married Man" will be staged at the Baker Schoolhouse on Friday night, December 27th, beginning at 7:00 o'clock. The play is brought here by students from the Baptist Sunday School of Tallassee, Ala. After the play is over a concert will be put on, which promises lots of fun and plenty of wholesome amusement.

This cast recently put on this play at the East Tallassee Theatre, and it was proclaimed a great success by their home folks. Following is the cast of characters:

Prof. John B. Wise, Shelby Holland; Dr. Matthew Graham, Porter Stalnaker; Billie Blake, Morris Patterson; Jupiter Jackson, Walter J. Gunnels; Mrs. Iona Ford, Grace Caldwell; Zonie Ford, Olive Wadsworth; June Graham, Mary Louise McCluskey; Rosiland Wilson, Gertrude Wadsworth.

An admission of 15 cents and 25 cents will be charged, and as stated above, the proceeds will go to the piano fund of Liberty Hill church. The public has a cordial invitation to attend, and are promised an hour and a half of real clean entertainment.

WAIT FOR A SUNNY DAY

Here we have a new alibi for the crime wave, a grave and reverend psychologist opines that "many persons who commit crimes are prompted by the effect on their minds of gloomy weather and other depressing factors of environment." If there is anything in this, how easy to solve the crime wave problem. Double the watchfulness on stormy nights, keep an eye on the families with half a dozen small boys caged in little apartments on rainy days, and then, extending the principle. let legislators choose nice sunny days for introducing and discussing their pet bils. But, perhaps, it is proved to be a good rule by working both ways, opposing legislators, wise to the value of "weather tempers" can equally bring up discussions of the World Court, Haitian Commissions, marines as diplomats, etc., and, why not have a research commission on weather and its effects on political movements.

POLITICS THIS WEEK

The Senate took time off from tariff-tinkering last week to don a red suit and white whiskers. Thoroughly disguised as an official Santa Claus, they crammed the public stocking with a $160,000,000 tax reduction, and then tossed the strange nabiliments aside this week to renew consideration of a measure designed to levy indirect taxes upon hundreds of everyday commodities. The proposed tax on sugar alone, for instance, amounts to approximately $65,000,000 annually.

Despite such inconsistencies, there is much to be said for our upper house which is getting its full share of adverse editorial comment these days. The old talk about the "efficiency" of the house of representatives as compared with the windy senate is rife again, but more liberal papers have pointed out that house efficiency as regards the tariff was nothing but a matter of speed and lack of consideration which made the senate job of revision 100 per cent "talky".

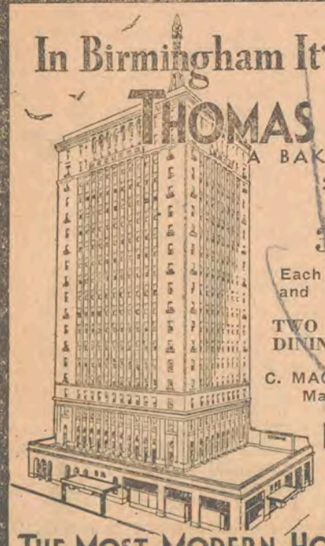
Predictions of an unbreakable deadlock between the two houses, when the bill goes into conference are being freely uttered. By some, however, this is felt to be a prophecy based entirely on the surface appearance of things. They state that the house had small expectations that the bill as they passed it would be anything like final ,and that house leaders realizing fully the desire of the country for a limited revision, are prepared to back down on most of the tariff schedules. The export debenture clause and the new provision for flexible tariff revision, nevertheles, form two bones of contention concerning which practically nothing can be predicted. In fact, the one really safe judgement we can pass on the tariff bill is this: consumers can breathe a sigh of relief in the sure knowledge that their grocery rations, clothing, sugar bowl, etc., will be safe from the ravages of Smoot - Hawley until next year, at least.

ANOTHER CUE FOR A COMMISSION

Wall Street crashes may come and go, politicians loom large on the horizon and then be sunk without a trace, all this happens in the day's work in Washington, but the swarming army of the rowdy, roughneck starling comes but does not go from the streets of this capital.

Precisely at four on chilly afternoons there comes an occasional starling across the skies over the capital; then two or three; then two or three hundred; then many times that many thousands, in swirling flight, up and down and across. Now a few settle on cornices, quarrelling violently among themselves for sheltered nooks, then all swooping off to apparently attack some other band. And all the while carrying on violent sampaigns of unprintable mutual vituperation. All this goes on until darkness drives them to whatever sheltering cornices they can find; and lacking those, the rows of trees along the avenue, where, once the startlings have settled down the campaign of vituperation is taken up by the passersby against the feathered nuisances.

And policemen, scientists, "pieces in the paper", firemen—none availeth against starling.



But we, humble scribe that we are, have up our sleeves a sure-fire remedy. Let only ornithological expe ts induce a few of the best minds of these whirling thousands of black feathers to lead their flocks to roost in the stately elms of the White House lawns, and in the corners of its fresh-painted facade, and see how quickly a "President's Commission on Starlings" would abolish them from the Potomac Valley.

A lot of fellows who say that they are unable to obtain justice any more in America would be a lot worse off if they did.

It is often we pity a person who loses money, but when we read about a man dropping $50,000,000 in the market we sorta wish we could do it .—Dayton (Ohio) News.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

Written for The Union-Banner by
FRANK P. LITSCHERT

After having had a tough struggle since the close of the world war the American Merchant Marine seems to be coming into its own, and this fact may well be a cause for rejoicing on the part of the American nation. The signs that our merchant marine is coming back are beginning to multiply. The expansion of the mail service is one cause for felicitation. This expansion, announced with the President's program of keeping business going as usual, will involve the construction in the next few years of at least twenty-nine American ships at a cost of nearly $175,000,000. Four fast steamers will go into the North Atlantic service and of the total to be constructed all but two will go on existing trade routes. The other two will be required for the extension of the service into the Black Sea. According to the Associated Press, construction contemplated in the program approved includes: One ship for service between New York and Valparraiso, one for the route from Tacoma to Valparraiso, two between San Francisco and British Columbia, three between New York and Limon, two for the Baltimore-Hamburg line, three between New Orleans and Puerta Columbia, three for San Francisco-Corinto, three for New. York-Puerto Columbia, two between New Orleans and the east coast of South America, and two between New Orleans and Spanish ports.

Six of the new ships will be added to the Merchant Marine by the American Export Steamship Corporation according to a contract entered into recently by the Postoffice Department with that concern, which operates to Mediterranean ports. Two ships are to be completed in 1931 and two more the following year. One is to be completed in 1935 and the last one in 1936. The ships are to have a speed of 14 knots and to cost from two and a half to three millions each. Two ships of the lot are already under construction. The signing of this contract is the first tangible result of the new program and it will be hailed with satisfaction by good Americans everywhere.

Evidently the move started a few year ago to make the American people shipping minded is having its effect. That this is true is one of the encouraging signs of the times. It means that the American people will not again be lulled into a false sense of security by the cry that we are not a shipping nation and that we cannot have a marine unless we are feeding a mythical and wicked "shipping trust" from the American treasury. Propaganda of this sort was used to defeat the revival of the American Marine for a generation, but with the coming of the World War we were brought to the sudden realization of what the lack of a merchant marine meant to us. And we know, too, that a merchant marine is almost as important to our welfare in time of peace as in time of war.

In a recent address Alfred A. Haag, director of the Bureau of Research of the United States Shipping Board, declared that the future of the American marine is now brighter than it has been at any time since the good old days of the Yankee clipper ships. He pointed out that in the decade ending June 30 1928, American ships carried thirty-six per cent of the nation's foreign trade as against only ten per cent carried in the decade which ended with the outbreak of the World War. Mr. Haag further pointed out that "In view of the fact that the value of our total water-borne foreign trade in the decade just ended has been more than double that of the decade ended in 1924, it is significant that the 26 per cent gain involved an advance from an annual average of $300,000,000 to an annual average of $2,600,000,000, an increase of more than 70 per cent in the value of our commerce carried in American ships."

All of which is highly encouraging to the man who is still old-fashioned enough to believe that the welfare of his country should be dearer to him than that of any other nation. These new ocean mail contracts will mean not alone the extension of our merchant marine. They will serve notice to the world that we intend to develop our shipping till we have our just proportion of vessels on the high seas, all subverse propaganda to the contrary notwithstanding.

WHAT IS AN EDUCATION?

Those who decry the increasing emphasis placed on business, commerce and industry in this country will not be pleased with the survey made by the Cleveland Board of the National Association of Credit men, drew up a report recommending means of "adjusting the curriculum of the schools to the actual demands of business".

Educators—taking the word in its sense—point out that this very tendency to place the purely utilitarian side of the school instruction above that devoted to general developments of intelligence and knowledge of such very necessary branches as world geography, is what is bringing the demand for college men to the point where complaint is heard that opportunities for merit promotion are few. The boy who goes into industrial establishment, say, on the lower plan, only something of his probable duties on that lower rung, is extremely likely to find himself handicipped by his lack of instruction in such simple matters as United States history, geography, etc., when it comes to promotions.

An automobile which can be taken to pieces easily and placed in a very small garage has been invented in Germany. Maybe something like this will eventually solve the parking problem.

WOMEN WHO KNOW WHICH WAY TO ZOOM

Newspaper readers of at least seven cities in this country who pick up their morning sheets to see what is going on in the field of aviation, are turning to women for information, since the avition news for seven large dailies is being handled by women.

The difficulty of corraling and writing all the aviation news each day as well as filling and supervising an aviation page for Sunday editions, can be appreciated only by those who have attempted it. It demands understanding of aeronautical terms on the part of the writer who wants to avoid ridicule from persons who know their flying language. Woe, for instance, to the aviation editor who chronicles that a plane "zoomed down." You can't zoom any way but up, say the authorities but how is a newspaper writer to sense that a nice expressive word like "zoom" has a limited usage unless she knows a great deal about aviation.

Leading dailies which employ women aviation editors are the Hartford Chronicle, the Daily Oklahoman and Oklahoma City Times, the Memphis Press-Scimitar, the Jacksonville Journal, the Buffalo Courier Exprees, the Des Moines Register and Tribune Capital (a morning and evening combination), and the Youngstown Telegram.

EVENTS OF 1929 PASS IN REVIEW

Noteworthy Happenings of the Year in the United States and Other Countries.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MANY happenings contributed to making the year 1929 highly interesting to the observers of human events, and at times exciting for some of the participants therein. First in international importance were the long strides taken toward the establishment of peace and amity throughout the world. These were the unprecendented visit of Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain to President Hoover, followed by the announcement that under their administrations the two great English-speaking nations would co-operate to prevent war, and by the invitation to France, Italy and Japan to participate with the United States and Britain in another conference for naval limitation; the formal acceptance of the Kellogg-Briand pact by nearly all nations; the readjustment of German reparations by the Young commission, the liquidation of other World war problems and the beginning of the evacuation of the Rhineland by the allies.

Mars was almost idle throughout the year. The only serious armed conflicts were the "unofficial" war in Manchuria between the Chinese and Russian; the perennial civil war in China; a bloody but futile rebellion in Mexico, and a bitter struggle for the throne of Afghanistan. An uprising of Arabs against Jews in Palestine cost many lives but was speedily quelled by the British.

In the United States the most talked-of event was the collapse in the autumn of inflated stock prices on the exchanges, which took from a host of amateur speculators paper profits of many billions of dollars. The calamitous depression that might have resulted was averted when President Hoover called into conference the leaders of industry, finance and labor and obtained their pledges to support his program for continued and increasing prosperity. At the same time Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced that the administration would recommend that corporation and individual income tax rates for 1929 be reduced by 1 per cent, and this plan was supported by leaders of both parties and acted on with celerity by congress in December. In its special session during the summer congress enacted a farm relief law and a federal farm board acting under its provisions was soon in operation with ample funds to aid the agriculturists. The house also passed a tariff bill, raising many of the rates; but the senate, controlled by a coalition of Democrats and radical Republicans, re-wrote the measure on other lines and the controversy went over to the regular session that opened on December 2.

INTERNATIONAL

WHEN Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, after doing a little job of revising the public finances of Santo Domingo, went to England as American ambassador, he immediately began conversations with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald with a view of clearing up the differences between the United States and Great Britain concerning limitation of naval armament and preparing the way for another conference of the chief naval powers. The two statesmen found agreement easy, and early in October Mr. MacDonald came over to discuss that and allied questions with President Hoover. Their conversations were equally satisfactory and they announced that the two nations would renounce war with each other and cooperate to preserve peace throughout the world. The spirit of good will infused all their utterances, and even the suspicious French were reassured when both Mr. Hoover and Mr. MacDonald declared this Anglo-American entente was not designed to take the least advantage of any other nation.

The ground thus being made ready, France, Italy and Japan were invited to participate in a conference in London in January for the purpose of extending and supplementing the Washington treaty of 1922. They were told that the British and American governments still desired the abolition of the submarine but recognized that no final settlement on this subject could be reached except in conference with the other naval powers.

President Hoover named, as American delegates to the conference, Secretary of State Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Adams, Ambassadors Dawes, Morrow and Gibson, and Senators Reed of Pennsylvania and Robison of Arkansas.

Adjustment of Reparations.

German reparations were readjusted by the commission of international experts headed by Owen D. Young of the United States, and the plan offered was accepted by all nations concerned, though Germany professed to be disappointed with it, and Great Britain would not accept the division of payments at first suggested. The Germans were consoled by the resulting evacuation of the Rhineland long before the time set by the treaty of Versailles. Withdrawals from two of the occupied zones was completed late in the year, and by the middle of December all the British troops had departed.

One of the most important features of the Young plan was the setting up in Basel, Switzerland, of a Bank of International Settlements.

The allied nations and Germany settled most of the remaining World war questions, including the payments to Belgium for the worthless German marks left in that country. Premier Briand of France, being then in an optimistic mood, presented to the representatives of 28 European countries his plan for a federation of the continental powers, asking that it be submitted to their governments. It was received politely and widely discussed.

Russia and China, disputing over the control and management of the Chinese Eastern railway, came to blows along the Manchurian borders, and though there was no declaration of war, the fighting continued for months. The Russians were the aggressors, making frequent raids into Chinese territory and destroying a number of towns. "White" Russians in Manchuria were especially the objects of their attacks. Finally, late in November, China appealed to the powers to persuade Russia to abide by the Kellogg-Briand pact, which both Russia and China had signed. President Hoover led the way in response to this request, but meanwhile negotiations had begun between Moscow and the provincial government of Manchuria, and Moscow resented the American note as unnecessary and "not a friendly action."

Italy and the Vatican at Peace.

Early in February negotiations for the resumption of friendly relations between Italy and the Vatican were completed and a treaty was signed by which Italy recognized the full sovereignty of the pope and the quarrel which had lasted 50 years was ended. The separation of church and state in Italy was made official, and the Vatican, with some adjacent land given the status of an independent state. It was called "Vatican City" and Pius XI promulgated a constitution for it.

One other old quarrel was settled amicably, through the efforts of President Hoover. This was the Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru. The territory was divided and every one was satisfied except Bolivia, which had hoped for an outlet to the sea.

Elihu Root's formula for adhesion of the United States to the Court of International Justice, commonly known as the World court, was accepted by the League of Nations and the court itself. It satisfies in the main the reservation long ago made by the senate, but it will be necessary for that body to pass on the matter again. The protocol was signed in December on behalf of President Hoover by J. P. Moffat, American charge d'affaires at Berne, Switzerland.

FOREIGN

PRIME Minister Stanley Baldwin's British government grew steadily weaker through the first part of the year because of unemployment, housing, pensions, taxes and a dozen other domestic problems which it could not meet to the satisfaction of the nation. David Lloyd George put the rejuvenated Liberal party in the limelight with ample promises, and the Laborites looked forward to the general elections of May 30 with a confidence that was fairly justified. When the ballots were counted it was found that the Conservatives had been badly defeated, so Baldwin and his cabinet resigned. No one party had secured a clear majority in the house of commons, but the Laborites were strongest. Therefore Ramsay MacDonald was given the post of prime minister and proceeded to form a new government. The portfolio of minister of labor was given to Miss Margaret Bondfield, the first woman to enter a British cabinet. She was one of fourteen women elected to parliament. Arthur Henderson was put at the head of the foreign office.

The Liberals had elected fifty-nine members and held the balance of power. They virtually agreed to support the Labor government so long as the policies it put forward were not too socialistic; and it was freely predicted that Mr. MacDonald's chief troubles would come from the radical members of his party. His plans for the alleviation of unemployment were almost upset in July when the great cotton industry was tied up by a strike that involved 500,000 operatives and closed 1,800 mills in the Lancashire area. The prime minister took an active personal part in the settlement of this trouble. He also made progress toward ending the old disputes between the coal mine operators and their employees.

France Reasonably Prosperous.

France had a fairly prosperous year, her people fattening on big crops, reparations and American tourists and amusing themselves as always with the game of politics. Premier Poincare continued in office, despite ill health, until he had secured the ratification of the war debt agreements with the United States and Great Britain. This action was taken by the parliament on July 26, and M. Poincare, who had so long and so well served his country, immediately resigned. Aristide Briand, veteran cabinet member, was made premier, and as the Radical Socialists refused to participate, he made no changes in the ministers. Under his rule repressive measures against the Communists were continued with vigor and their meetings of protest were broken up by the police. Through the summer unemployment was almost nonexistent, and in August a French commission reached an agreement with the government of Rumania by which 10,000 laborers were to be transported from that country to France.

In October Briand's support in the chamber of deputies dwindled, and on the 22nd of that month he and his cabinet resigned. Eduard Daladier tried in vain to form a new government, and the job was then done successfully by Andre Tardieu. Briand remained in the cabinet as foreign minister and it seemed that his policies would be carried forward by the Tardieu government.

Fascism Grows Stronger.

Premier Mussolini of Italy, quite scornful of his detractors, further strengthened the power of Fascism, if that were possible. The new legislature was set up early in the year, and in April the Duce assumed full control of the regulation of capital and labor. Not having much confidence in disarmament conferences, the premier took steps to make Italy's armed forces more efficient and declared that while the nation desired peace with all the world, it was spiritually prepared to face any crisis. The settlement of the old quarrel with the Vatican was a feather in his cap, but later developments showed that much bitterness remained. In December the king and queen paid their first visit to Pope Pius XI in the Vatican.

Afghanistan achieved the front page at various times during the year. King Amunallah found that the western reforms he tried to introduce were causing such violent opposition that he rescinded them in January and abdicated in favor of his brother. The rebellious tribesmen were still not satisfied, and under the leadership of one Habibullah Khan, they captured Kabul, the capital, and drove out the new king. Habibullah, who really was Bacha Sakao, a bandit, assumed the crown and lasted until October, when Nadir Khan occupied Kabul and proclaimed himself king. Bacha was taken prisoner and executed.

Race War in Palestine.

Palestine was the scene of a bloody uprising of the Arabs against the Jews in August and many of the latter race were massacred in Jerusalm and other places. The immediate cause of the outbreak was a dispute over the Wailing Wall which the Jews have used for centuries as a place of prayer; but it goes back to the deep resentment of the Arab against the British mandate and the predominance of Jewish influence in the government of a country which they consider belongs to them. The local authorities were unable to stop the fighting, so the British stepped in with warships, troops and airplanes and speedily forced the belligerents to cease their killings and depredations. The situation in the Holy Land was still considered so serious that the British government sent out a commission of inquiry.

China's Nationalist government, besides the quarrel with Russia, had to contend with the seemingly unending civil warfare that keeps the huge nation relatively powerless. This conflict died down and revived several times during the twelvemonth, and in December reached perhaps its most serious stage.

Mexico's annual revolutionary outbreak came in March and spread rapidly in eight or ten states, becoming really formidable though belittled by President Portes Gil. The rebels were under the general leadership of Escobar, while General Calles, minister of war, led the government forces in person. For weeks there was bloody fighting in Orizaba, Monterey, Juarez, Manzanillo, Jiminez and Torreon, with fortune favoring first one side and then the other. Gen. Jesus Aguirre, rebel leader in Vera Cruz, was captured and executed, and on April 3 the federal forces won a great victory at Reforma. By the end of April the rebellion was in collapse, and generals by the dozen were fleeing across the United States border. With this off its hands, the government proceeded to squelch the "religious rebels" who had been active along the west coast.

The Presidential election was held on November 17 and resulted in victory for Pascual Ortiz Rubio, candidate of the Grand Revolutionary or government party, over Vasconcelos of the Anti-Re-election party. The election itself was reasonably quiet but was preceded by sanguinary riots in many cities.

DOMESTIC

DURING the last two months of its life the Seventieth congress passed a number of necessary and wise measures, including the army and navy supply bills, the bill authorizing the construction of fifteen cruisers, and one providing for deportation of alien gunmen and bootleggers. Resolutions were adopted ordering a survey of the Nicaragua canal route and giving federal approval to the Chicago centennial exposition of 1933, and the senate ratified the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war. Another measure passed both houses that was looked upon by a considerable part of the citizenry as neither necessary nor wise. This was the Jones bill to punish offenders against the Volstead law by a maximum of $10,000 fine or five years in prison or both. The bitter opposition of the wets was appeased somewhat by an amendment stating that congress did not intend that such severe penalties should be imposed for slight or casual violations.

Then came Herbert Hoover, who, with Charles Curtis as vice president, was inaugurated as chief executive on March 4. In a vigorous inaugural address the new President promised that his campaign pledges would be fulfilled, and dwelt especially on the problems of law enforcement, farm relief, and the tariff. He announced that the first of these would be subjected to a searching investigation by a national commission which he would appoint, and urged congress to do its duty in respect to the others.

Mr. Hoover's cabinet was headed by Henry L. Stimson as secretary of state and contained two hold-overs—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Labor Davis. The names of Mellon and Davis were not submitted to the senate for confirmation, and a little later the foes of the head of the treasury tried in vain to impeach his right to hold the portfolio.

Farm Relief and Tariff.

The President called congress to meet in special session on April 15, asking that it confine itself to passing bills for the relief of agriculture and revising the tariff especially for the benefit of farmers and industries that had not been prosperous. The house in ten days passed the Haugen farm relief bill; and on May 28 it gave its approval to the Hawley tariff measure which revised most of the schedules and generally increased duties.

In the senate the Republican radicals and the Democrats insisted on putting in the McNary farm relief measure a provision for the debenture or export subsidy plan, though they knew this would not be accepted by President Hoover. In this shape the bill was passed on May 14, and for a month the house and senate conferees struggled over it, the house finally winning and the debenture scheme being eliminated. Mr. Hoover signed the measure on June 15, and soon after named the members of the federal farm board authorized by the act. Alexander Legge of Chicago, president of the International Harvester company, was appointed chairman and the board proceeded to promote the formation of farmers' co-operatives, which would be aided with loans from a revolving fund of $150,000,000 that had been voted by congress. This work continued throughout the year, meeting with general approval.

With the question of tariff revision the senators got tangled up in a fight that seemed interminable. A coalition of Democrats and radical Republicans was formed that succeeded in tearing to pieces the bill reported by the senate committee which resembled that passed by the house. This anomolous majority professed to be acting for the farmers and even inserted in the tariff measure the export debenture plan. The re-writing of the bill could not be completed before Thanksgiving, and so was passed on to the regular session that opened on December 2.

In their spare time during the autumn the senators investigated the activities of lobbyists, especially those concerned with tariff rates, and from some witnesses, notably Joseph Grundy of Pennsylvania, they heard comments on them and their doings that were not pleasing.

President Hoover on May 20 appointed his commission on law enforcement, consisting of eleven eminent men and women with George W. Wickersham as chairman. It was understood this commission would take several years for its investigation, making recommendations from time to time.

Stock Market Collapse.

The great debacle mentioned in the introductory paragraphs came in late October and continued for two weeks. It was the culmination of many months of frenzied gambling by amateur speculators in a sensationally rising market. Prices fell rapidly and paper profits of about seventy billion dollars vanished. The government could do nothing to check the collapse, but when normal levels had been reached President Hoover came forward with a program for the stabilization of business and industry and the continuation of prosperity the country had been enjoying. He called groups of leaders in all lines to conferences in Washington and received from them assurances that they and their organizations would co-operate with his plans. At a final meeting of big industrialists and financiers a permanent committee was named to watch out for weak spots in business and apply remedies.

In his message read to the first regular session of the Seventy-first congress the President expressed the confidence that the measures taken had re-established confidence and that a very large degree of unemployment had been prevented. He recommended increased expenditures for waterways, buildings, and other public works, and asked congress to authorize the income tax cut of 1 per cent, effective for one year. The President also dwelt at length on the matter of law enforcement, declaring it to be the most important issue before the people and recommending various changes to help the enforcement of prohibition.

The house speedily passed the tax reduction resolution and the senate accepted it in due time. One of the first acts of the upper house was the adoption of a resolution which denied a seat in the senate to William S Vare of Pennsylvania on the ground of corruption and fraud in his nomination and election three years previously. Governor Fisher promptly appointed Joseph Grundy to fill the vacant seat, and he was sworn in after being severely castigated by a number of senators.

Riotous demonstrations against President Borno of Haiti and his American advisers broke out in December. The United States marines were constrained to shoot down a few natives, and President Hoover asked congress to authorize the appointment of a commission to study the unsatisfactory conditions on the island.

Secretary of War James W. Good died on November 18, and Patrick J. Hurley of Oklahoma, who had been assistant secretary, was given the portfolio.

Mr. Hoover's diplomatic appointments were highly commended. He sent Gen. Charles Gates Dawes to London, Senator Walter E. Edge to Paris, John W. Garrett to Rome, Gerritt J. Diekema to Brussels, Henry F. Guggenheim to Cuba, Irwin B. Laughlin to Madrid, Charles C. Hart to Persia, and A. B. Geissler to Siam. Dwight F. Davis, former secretary of war, was appointed governor general of the Philippines; Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was made governor of Porto Rico, and Lawrence M. Judd governor of Hawaii.

There were echoes from time to time of the oil scandals. The Supreme court upheld the conviction of Harry F. Sinclair for contempt of the senate and of court and he was in prison from May 6 until November 20. Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was found guilty of bribery in the oil lease cases and was sentenced to one year in prison and $100,000 fine.

The annual convention of the American Legion was held in Louisville, and O. L. Bodenhamer of Oklahoma was elected commander. The Grand Army of the Republic met in Portland, Maine, and chose E. J. Foster of Worcester, Mass., as its commander in chief.

An interesting event was the celebration on October 21 of the golden jubilee of Edson's electric light. The entire civilized world recognized the occasion but the big doings were at Henry Ford's reconstructed old-time village near Detroit, President Hoover, Mr. Edison and a host of other notables being the automobile manufacturer's guests.

While in the Middle West the President took part in the celebration of the completion of canalization of the Ohio river, delivering addresses at Cincinnati and Louisville.

There were two elections that attracted especial attention. In Virginia the regular Democrats defeated a coalition of Republicans and anti-Smith Democrats led by Bishop Cannon. In New York Jimmie Walker was re-elected mayor, easily beating Congressman La Guardia and other aspirants. Other elections in various parts of the country indicated that the Democratic party was regaining strength.

AERONAUTICS

MOST spectacular of the year's events in aeronautics was the flight of the huge German dirigible Graf Zeppelin in August and September from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N. J., and thence eastward around the world, with stops only at Friedrichshafen, Tokyo, Los Angeles and Lakehurst. On September 4 the big ship arrived safely at its home port in Germany. The trip was made without mishap though a severe storm was encountered soon after leaving Japan. Plans were laid to use the dirigible in Arctic exploration.

The Atlantic was crossed three times by airplanes. Jiminez and Iglesias of Spain flew from Seville to the Brazilian coast late in March; and in June three French pilots in the plane Yellow Bird crossed from Old Orchard Beach, Me., to the coast of Spain. Next month Williams and Yancey, American flyers, hopped off from Old Orchard Beach for Rome, but they were forced to land near Santander, Spain, by lack of gas; later they completed their trip. All other attempted transatlantic flights were failures, some of them tragedies.

Setting New Records.

All records for sustained flight were broken in January by the army plane Question Mark which remained up 150 hours and 40 minutes, being refueled in the air 36 times. In May this was surpassed by Robbins and Kelley of Forth Worth, Texas, whose endurance flight lasted 172 hours and 31 minutes. In July Mendell and Reinhart at Culver City, Calif., put both records in the shade with a mark of 246 hours and 43 minutes, and then, later in the same month, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, in the St. Louis Robin plane, settled the contest for the year by remaining aloft for 420 hours and 21 minutes. Lieut. Apollo Soucek of the United States navy established a new altitude record of 39,140 feet. Capt. Frank Hawks flew from Los Angeles to New York in 17 hours and 44 minutes, and George Haldeman flew from Windsor, Ont., to Havana in 12 hours and 56 minutes.

The Schneider cup race for seaplanes was won by Lieutenant Waghorn of England, who averaged 328.63 miles an hour over the 218 mile course. A few days later A. H. Orlebar drove the same plane at the record speed of 355.8 miles. Over in Germany a plane propelled by rockets was given its first tryout. Fritz von Opel flying six miles. The Germans also boasted of the biggest airplane, the Dox, which made successful flights carrying 169 persons.

The American national air races were held at Cleveland in August. In connection with them the women who were becoming very active in aviation, had an air derby from Santa Monica, Calif., to Cleveland, Louise Thaden of Pittsburgh was the winner. The races for 1930 were awarded to Chicago.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was a busy man during the year, and after his marriage to Miss Anne Morrow in May he usually was accompanied on his flights by his bride. In February the colonel inaugurated the United States-Panama air mail service, and in September he and Mrs. Lindbergh opened another new route by a flight from Miami to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana. On the way home they stopped to make flights over the jungle of Honduras and Yucatan to photograph hitherto unexplored Aztec ruins.

On Thanksgiving day Commander Richard Byrd and three members of his expedition made a difficult and hazardous airplane flight over the great Antarctic plateau in the course of which they looped the South pole, returning in safety to their base in Little America. Byrd thus became the first man to fly over both poles.

NECROLOGY

SOME of the greatest actors in the drama we call the World war were taken by death during the year. France lost Marshal Ferdinand Foch, supreme commander of the allied armies; Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger," premier during the later years of the war, and General Sarrail, the defender of Verdun. Among the Germans who passed were Field Marshal Liman von Sanders, commander of the German forces in Turkey, and Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the eminent statesman who was German foreign minister at the time of his death. Myron T. Herrick, beloved American ambassador to France during the great conflict and at the time of his demise, passed away in March. Three United States senators, Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, L. D. Tyson of Tennessee and F. E. Warren of Wyoming, and James W. Good, secretary of war, were among America's noted dead.

Other notables who died in 1929 were:

THORSBY SECTION

S. E. NORTON, Manager

A most distressing fatal accident occured in Thorsby last Friday afternoon, when Lavert Roland Mikesell 16 year old son of Roland and Hilma Petersen-Mikesell, of Cedar Rapids Iowa, was fatally wounded with a shotgun with which he was hunting in the fields near the home of his Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen. Willis Petersen, his uncle, who was with him describes the accident as follows: Young Mikesell was standing on a fallen tree with the butt of his gun resting on the log beside him, some of the bark of the log under his feet became loosened, slipped and threw him off, also the gun which in falling caught the trigger and discharged the full load into the abdomen of the young man. As soon as possible he was rushed to Central Alabama Hospital at Clanton where he died at 8 o'clock p. m. five hours after the accident happened.

The young man had come on with his mother from their home in Iowa, to spend the holidays with kinfolks in Alabama. While his mother stopped in Birmingham to visit her sister, Mrs. Lewis Self and her husband, Lavert hastened on to Grandfather Petersen's, where he expected to enjoy boys company and hunting.

He was a fine type of young manhood, was a member of the Christian Church, in Cedar Rapids, and as a mark of his character it is said that in all ten years of his school life, he never missed a day in school when it was in session. He was a senior in Cedar Rapids High School, and a very exemeraly young man.

As soon as the accident happened a message was sent to his father who had remained at home. He came on and arrived in Thorsby Sunday night.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:30 p. m. Monday, at Thorsby Congregational church, of which the relatives in Thorsby are members.

Rev J. E. Each pastor of the church officated, and Mr. Laurell played the organ. Familiar hymns were sung. The attendance of Thorsby people was larger than could have been expected on a few hours notice.

The pall bearers were all Thorsby young men, as follows: Herschell and Rendall Hayes, Albert Adams, Martin Bakke, Willis Petersen and Carlton Collins. The family have the wholehearted sympathy of Thorsby people.

The body was taken Monday night to the Iowa home of the family for interment.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank friends of Thorsby and Clanton for their assistance rendered us during our recent bereavement.—Mr. and Mrs. R. Mikesell and family and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen.

Monday night the postponed "White Christmas" exercises of the Congregational Sunday School, were held at the church, consisting of readings, singing and "gifts of service and substance," in distinction from the usual custom of presenting gifts to all who attend the customary Christmas doings of such gatherings. The various classes were given opportunity to select their own object for which their contribution should be applied. About $13 was received for church home expenses and practically the same amount for missions and benevolences. Among the gifts was $5 from the primary department for the starving children in China.

The Lutheran Sunday School will have their Christmas entertainment at their church on Thursday night of this week at 7:30.

The religious play which had been planned for the Baptist church last Sunday, and postponed on account of the weather, will be given at the public school house at 7:30 p. m. next Sunday.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS

Our stomach and digestive systems are lined with membrane which is delicate, sensetive and easily injured. It is dangerous business, then, to use medicines containing harsh drugs, salts or minerals, when we are constipated. In addition to the possibility of injuring the linings of our digestive system, these medicines give only temporary relief and may prove habit forming. The safe way to relieve constipation is with Herbine, the cathartic that is made from herbs, and acts in the way nature intended. You can get Herbine at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

Leroy Mims, student at Auburn, is at home for the holiday season. Leroy is a son of Mr. E. H. Mims of Concord.

IRA SMITH GOING TO HALEYVILLE

Mr. Ira Smith will leave here this week for Haleyville, where he will be manager of one of V. J. Elmore's 5c, 10c and $1.00 Stores. Mr. Smith will move his family to Haleyville as soon as he can secure a house to live in.

For more than a year Mr. Smith has been manager of the Elmore Store in Clanton. He is a young man of great promise, and we regret that he is to leave Clanton.

Mr. V. J. Elmore, owner of a chain of stores, announces that Mr. Horace Jones, of Thorsby, has accepted a position with his organization and will be at the Clanton store.

Buster Foshee, student of law at the University of Alabama, is at home for the Christmas holidays. He is a son of B. G. Foshee of South Clanton.

Miss Katheryn Hayes, a student of Womens College at Montgomery, is at home for Christmas.

OVER A BILLION DEADLY GERMS IN A SINGLE DROP OF WATER

Germs are so small that there may be as many as one billion, seven hundred million of them in a drop of water. And just a few of these tiny germs, if they get into your blood through a cut in your skin, may make you so sick you will be in bed for weeks—may cause the loss of a limb through blood poisoning—may even infect you with that most dreadful and fatal of diseases, lockjaw.

Just because you can see no dirt in a cut does not mean that it is clean. You cannot see germs. The only safe and sane thing to do, is to thoroughly wash every cut, no matter how small, with Liquid Borozone, to kill the germs, and the dust it with Borozone Powder, to hasten the healing. Liquid Borozone costs 30 cents, 60 cents, $1.20 and $1.50; Borozone Powder, 30 cents and 60 cents, and can be had at Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.

GOODYEAR RUBBER COMPANY BUILDS COTTON MILL AT ROCKMART, GEORGIA

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company has just placed in production its seventh cotton mill located at Rockmart, Georgia, it was announced today by L. E. Diefenderfer manager of Dief's Service Station, local Goodyear dealer in Clanton.

When ground was broken for the new Rockmart plant in 1929, Goodyear had but one cotton mill in the south, at Cedartown. Shortly after construction of the Rockmart plant was started, the rubber company purchased the Cartersville, Georgia mill of the American Textile Company.

An expansion program was put in effect at both Cedartown and Cartersville, Mr. Diefenderfer stated, increasing the production capacity to 50,000 spindles each, the same figure set for the Rockmart mill.

A number of years ago, Goodyear established a precedent in the rubber industry by taking over its first cotton mill, buying the Killingly works at Goodyear, Conn. It was here that "Supertwist," the fabric process which gives Goodyear tires the maximum wearing qualities which have won world renown, was developed.

Since then the Devon Mills at New Bedford, Mass., Los Angeles, St. Hyacinthe and the three southern plants have added to keep pace with the ever growing demands for Goodyear tires and "Supertwist" fabric.

Other major expansions of Goodyear in 1920 include construction of a 5,000 a day tire factory and large rubber reclaiming plant at Gadsden, Alabama, building of the world's airship dock and factory at Akron, O., and starting of construction on the U. S. Navy ZRS-4, which will be the world's largest airship.

Lesson for December 29

FELLOWSHIP THROUGH WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Neh. 8:1-12; Micah 4:1, 2; Ps 122:1-9; Heb 10:22-25.

GOLDEN TEXT—As his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Worshiping God Together.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Worshiping God Together.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Taking a Real Part in Worship.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Common Worship and the Community Spirit.

I. The Place of the Bible in Worship (Neh. 9:1-12)

1. The reading of God's word (vv. 1-3).

(1) The eager assembly (v. 1). The people gathered themselves together and requested Ezra to bring the book of the law. God had touched their hearts, creating within them a yearning for His Word.

(2) It was a representative assembly (v. 2). It was made up of men, women and children. God's Word should be taught to all classes, men, women and children.

(3) An appreciative assembly (v. 3). So eager were they to know God's Word that they did not get tired, although the lesson lasted five or six hours. Their ears were attentive from morning until midday.

2. The attitude of the people toward God's Word (vv 4-6).

(1) They reverenced it (vv. 4, 5). When Ezra opened the law all the people stood up out of respect for God's Word.

(2) They joined heartily in the prayer (v. 6). As Ezra led them in prayer, they united in saying, Amen, Amen, bowing their faces to the ground.

3. God's Word being interpreted (vv. 7, 8).

(1) Ezra stood up where the people could see him (v. 5).

(2) He read distinctly (v. 8). The manner in which many read the Scriptures greatly discredits them.

(3) He caused the people to understand the reading (v 8) The supreme business of the minister is to make the Word of God plain to all, old and young.

4. Effect of the application of God's Word upon the life of the people (vv. 9-12).

(1) Conviction of sin (v. 9).

The divine method of convicting men of sin is the application of God's Word in the energy of the Holy Ghost.

(2) Weeping turned into joy (vv. 10-12). Forgiveness follows the recognition and confession of sin.

(3) Their blessings were shared with others (vv 10-12).

II. Jerusalem the World's Central Place of Worship (Micah. 4:1, 2).

1. Its place of supremacy (v 1).

In the last days, Messiah's kingdom, with Jerusalem as its capital shall prevail over all kingdoms.

2. The peoples, Jews, shall flow unto it (v. 1). It will be a beautiful sight to see the Jews who have been scattered all over the world come to Jerusalem as a mighty flowing stream.

3. The Gentile nations shall go there to worship (v. 2).

4. The supreme purpose of their going will be to be taught of God, that they may walk in His ways (v. 2).

What a wonderful day when all peoples of the world shall worship together in God's holy temple!

III. The Song of the Worshipers (Ps. 122:1-9).

This psalm is one of the songs sung by the Jews as they made their pilgrimages to Jerusalem to worship at the great festivals. This song embodies the following great ideas:

1. The joy of the worshipers (vv 1, 2).

The invitation to go up to the house of the Lord to worship stirred within them delightful emotions.

2. Love and admiration for God's house (vv. 3, 4).

We should go to the house of worship because we love the place. Like Jesus, we should regard it as our Father's house.

3. It was the seat of royalty (v. 5)

When Christ's kingdom shall be established in Jerusalem, worshipers will delight to journey there because of their love for Him.

4. Prayer for God's house; prayer for the peace of Jerusalem (vv. 6-9)

It is our duty as well as privilege to pray for Israel. God blesses those who are kindly disposed toward His chosen people (Gen. 12:1-3).

One Way to Help God

There is but one way in which man can ever help God—that is by letting God help him: and there is no way in which His name is more guiltily taken in vain than by calling the abandonment of our own work, the performance of His.—Ruskin.

The Book of God and Prayer

Give the Book of God its place in prayer. Prayer is not talking to God simply; it is listening first, then speaking.—S. D. Gordon.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRESENTED CHRISTMAS PAGEANT

The Clanton Baptist Sunday School presented a Christmas pageant at the church auditorium last Sunday night. In spite of the extremely bad weather, a good attendance of people was present.

The story of the Star of Bethlehem was impressively portrayed by the participants in the exercises.

At the close of the program the collection for the Christmas offering to the orphan's home was announced as $181.00.

Irby Calloway, who is with Dixie Construction Company, at Milledgeville, Georgia, came home to spend Christmas with his parents at Wadsworth. He was in Clanton Sunday visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Kin Vinson and family will leave Thursday for Milledgeville, Georgia, where they will make their home in the future.

Miss Beverly Hester, teacher of music at Judson College, is at home for the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hester.

RELIEF that is REFRESHING

"We have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years in our family. I can highly recommend it for many ailments. We take it for colds and for constipation.

"I have four children, and I give it to them. When my little girl gets bilious, or complains of headache, I give her a treatment of Black-Draught, and she is all right in a day or two.

"Sometimes when I have indigestion from improper eating, I have headache. Then I take Black-Draught. I always feel fresh and have more energy after I have taken it."—Mrs. E. Reich, 2215 East First Street, Austin, Texas.

LOOK FOR 'EM AFTER SATURDAY, JANUARY 28

Candidates are going to bob up after next Saturday like mushrooms after a summer wet spell. We already know of half a dozen who have their guns loaded, with dead aim at some coveted office, and finger on the trigger, ready to pull it just as soon as the Republican Committee has had its meeting.

FREEZING IN CANS

An outgrowth of the familiar method of freezing shell fish in cans is the process now being worked out by the Department of Agriculture for freezing raw fruits, berries and perishable vegetables in cans.

To test the best mehods in this canning process, 10,000 cans of various fruits and vegetables were frozen last summer in the state of Washington, and placed in cold storage. These will be opened and tested during this winter, to determine the best methods for various products. Some were packed in cacum sealed tins, others in waxed paper containers, in natural state or with sugar or salt.

The products packed for experiment include strawberries, raspberries, loganberries, blackberries, currants, pears, cherries, avocades, peaches, peas, cantaloupes, apricots, beans, beets, melons, sweet corn and tomatoes.

NOTICE

The attention of all parties concerned is called to the 1930 license schedule of the Town of Clanton.

All 1930 licenses will be due January 1st, 1930, and become delinquent February 1st, 1930. During the month of February a 5 per cent penalty will be collected on all delinquent licenses issued. A 10 per cent penalty will be collected through the month of March, and a 15 per cent penalty will be collected after April 1st.

The 1930 license schedule also provides that license shall be collected in the police jurisdiction of the Town of Clanton, according to an act of the 1927 legislature.

The above is given for your information, in order that you may save the penalties if you so desire.

J. H. Plier, Clerk.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS

A meeting of the share holders of the First National Bank of Clanton, Clanton, Ala., is called for Tuesday, January 21, 1930 at 7 o'clock p.m., in the directors' room at the bank, for the purpose of electing directors and for the transaction of any other business that may come before the meeting.

Respectfully,

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp. County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

COTTON GROWERS TO HAVE LARGEST CO-OP ASSOCIATION

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 23.—Plans for cotton growers to establish the largest cooperative marketing organization in the world have been approved by 150 representatives of Cotton Cooperatives, from board members and leaders of the cotton business. This approval was made at a meeting in Memphis, Tenn. last week.

The plan is to organize a $30,000-000 selling organization. It is to be organized by the government, backed by the government, and its policies directed by the government's farm board.

Alexander Ledge, chairman of the Farm Board, said the American Cotton Growers' exchange will be re-organized and incorporated by the government for $30,000,000, which is $10,000,000 more than was granted for organization of a grain marketing agency.

Restricted to Farmers

Stock in the association will be sold to cotton growers and the law will restrict sale of the stock to farmers only. There are more than 2,000,000 cotton growers in America, and the board hopes to organize and enlist all in the agency.

Government control of the organization will be indirect, as the farm board is not allowed to hold stock in such corporations. The various state exchanges will give notes to the board for loan of money needed, and stock will be issued for sale to growers.

Directors Selected

The following incorporation board of directors was named:

Allen Northington, Montgomery, Ala., Fred Elliot, Phoenix, Ariz., J.E. Conwell, Atlanta, Ga., Charles Henry, Little Rock, N. C., Williamson, New Orleans, R. E. Kennington, Jackson, Miss., X. Ceverno, New Madrid, Mo., U. B. Blalock, Raleigh N. C., S. L. Morley, Oklahoma City, R. O. McCutcheon, Columbia, S. C., Cowan Jones, El Paso, Taitt Butler, Memphis, Harry Williams, Dallas. Fay Sperry, Las Cruces, N. M.

The capital stock will consist of 300,000 shares of common stock of a par value of $100 a share, each share having one vote.

The cotton belt will be divided for purposes of representation in management. Southeast division consists of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

LEADING POWER CREDIT CORPORATION INCREASED

Montgomery, Ala., Dec 23.—Approval for increasing the capital stock of the Alabama Farm Bureau Credit Corporation from $100,000 to $300,000 was made at a special meeting of the stock holders last week, according to N. Eric Bell, Manager of the Credit Corporation, who said that this will enable the Corporation to serve the agricultural interest of the state to a greater extent than it has in the past.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors Mr. E. L. Deal was elected a member of the Executive Committee of the Board.

E. L. DEAL GOES TO MONTGOMERY

Florence, Ala., Dec. 23.—Effective January 1st, 1930, E. L. Deal, County Agent of Lauderdale County will go to Montgomery to work wit hthe Alabama Farm Bureau. He will serve in an advisory capacity with the purchasing committee of the State Farm Bureau.

This will enable the Farm Bureau to give farmers of Alabama more and better service in cooperative purchasing, says Edward A. O'Neal, president.

CO-OP TURKEY SALES BRING $123,335

Ten cars of Alabama turkeys weighing 125,000 pounds which have brought the growers $30,000 were shipped to New York last week for consumption during the Christmas Holidays, says an announcement from the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. The turkeys were sold co-operatively through the Farm Bureau. Marketing specialists of the Extension Service, district agents, county agents, county farm bureau officials and others were in charge.

J. B. Slyvest, marketing specialist of the extension service, said that the Christmas sales brings the total tonnage of turkeys sold co-operatively by Alabama farmers within the past six weeks up to 497,000 pounds. These birds filled 35 cars and brought the growers $123,335.

The 35 cars of turkeys this year were loaded at Gallion, Uniontown, Greensboro, Fort Deposit, Safford, Geiger, Hartford, Samson, Ashford, Eufaula, Pittsview, Benton, Pine Apple West, Greene, Emelle, Andalusia, Dothan, Troy, Union Springs, Hurtsboro, Letohatchie, Hamburg, Burkeville, Minters, Boligee, Eppes, Fitzpatrick, Tyson, and Montgomery.

County agents, who helped with the sales in their respective counties are: J. L. Lawson, Hale; J. P. Robinson, Perry; W. A. Camack, Wilcox; E. E. Hale, Marengo; F. A. Rew, Pickens; J. E. Bonner, Sumpter; H. B. Helms, Geneva; J. H. Witherington, Houston; E. G. Clapp, Barbour; L. G. Pearson, Russell; R. S. Parker, Lowndes; John Blake and R. D. Winch, Dallas; H. C. Appleton, Greene; W. T. Cheney, Covington; J. A. McLeod, Bullock; R. L. King, Pike; L. A. Edmonson, Montgomery; T. W. Allen, Macon; and Ida Brunson, home agent, Crenshaw.

MRS. DUGGER WINS IN GARDEN CONTEST

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 23.—Mrs. Vera Boyd Dugger of Hackleburg, Marion County, has been judged the best home gardener in Alabama. She won first palce in a contest sponsored by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau. Announcement of this was made by Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of Auburn, who served as judge.

In announcing the award Mr. Brown said: "The contest started March 1st and closed November 1st. Throughout all this time Mrs. Dugger had a good variety of vegetables in her garden. When the contest ended she was harvesting 19 vegetables and had 13 others growing for winter use."

Other winners were announced at the same time. First place among 4-H girls in North Alabama went to Mirial Alverson of Hamilton, Marion County; For Southeast Alabama to Irma Brown of Banks, Pike County; and for Southwest Alabama to Altha Rigsby of Georgoana, Butler County.

Four women winners were picked in each of three districts. For North Alabama, Mrs. Charles King, Athens, Limestone County, won first prize; Mrs. B. M. Avery, Hamilton, Marion County, second; Mrs Frank Brown, Cullman, Cullman County, third; and Mrs. H. O. Lenderman, Bailyton, Cullman County, fourth.

Southeast Alabama winners were Mrs. L. W. Spratling, Waverly, Chambers County, first; Mrs. A. D. Ramsay, Macon county, second; Mrs. O.K. Weights, Waverly, Chambers County, third; and Mrs. J. P. Harris, Chambers County, fourth.

Mrs. Nannie Wall won first in Southwest Alabama; Mrs. J. H. Hill, Mrs. J. H Lee, Hamburg, Perry county, Haynes, Autauga County, second; ty, third; and Mrs. J. C. Lee, Marion, Perry County, fourth.

The women winners received $350 in prizes from Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau, and the girls were awarded a free trip to the State 4-H club camp to be held at Auburn next summer.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Income tax reduction in the United States of $160,000,000 was enacted into law December 16 when President Hoover signed the joint congressional resolution providing for the cut.

The world's champion egg-layer is a Canadian, Lady Victorine, a barred plymouth rock pullet owned by the University of Saskatchewan. She laid 358 eggs in one year, beating the former champion by seven eggs.

The total realized income of people of the Continental United States, estimated in current dollars, grew $23,470,000,000 in ten years from 1919, or, from $65,949,000,000 to $89,419,000,000 in 1928, acording to the National Bureau of Economic research.

Over 40 per cent of the counties in the United States have no hospitals. Of about 2,500 counties, wholly or in large part rural, 414 at the beginning of 1928 had health departments. The figures are taken from estimates just relased by the Committe on the Cost of Medica Care, headed by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior.

The income from agriculture in the United States declined slightly between 1909 and 914, increased vigorously during the war period, dropped abruptly between 1919 and 1921 and has since been able to maintain itself on the level of the latter year. Agriculture is now producing less than 10 per cent of the Nation's income in contrast with 18.5 per cent prduced in 1918. Figures are from a report being prepared by the National Bureau of Economic Research.

ALL-YEAR GARDENS

Wetumpka, Ala., Dec 23—Eighty-five 4-H club girls of Elmore County are tending all-year-round gardens. Their aim is to have vegetables for their tables every day in the year.

Interest in this work is such that special committees to stimulate interest in gardening have been appointed in each gril's club, Mary Olive Carnley, home demonstration agent, said: We expect gardens to improve diets, she added.

LANDSCAPE LAWNS

Selma, Ala., Dec. 23.—Sixty Dallas County farm women have made base plantings of shubs around their homes. Mrs. Annete Smyth Breeden, home demonstration agent, says that every planting means a beginning toward more beautiful homes. Other landscape work on the homesteads will be done later, she said.

PREVENT SCRUBBING

Abbeville, Ala., Dec. 23.—To prevent scrubbing and improve appearance, six farm women of Henry County have treated their floors with crank case oil drained from automobile engines. They used a formula furnished by Mamie B. Mathews, home demonstration agent. In all except one case the treatments were successful. In that case the oil was not applied hot.

BUY LONG STAPLE

Alexander City, Ala., Dec. 23—Five thousand bushels of D. P. L. No. 4 cotton seed have been purchased by farmers of Coosa and Northwest Tallapoosa Counties. Mills of Alexander City have been buying most of their cotton from farmers outside of the county on account of length of stapel. The new seed were bought because they produce a cotton of long staple—from one inch to one and one-sixteenth inches. The seed were bought through the local Farm Bureau organization. They were ginned on a private gin and every precaution taken to prevent purity and quality.

Either Would Do

Jim: "Yes."

Jack: "But how do you tell them apart?"

Jim: "I don't try to."

Small girl: "Why doesn't baby talk, father?"

Father: "He can't talk yet, dear. Young babies never talk."

Small girl: "Oh, yes, they do; Job did. Nurse read to me out of the Bible how Job cursed the day he was born."

DOWN WITH COTTON ACREAGE AWAY WITH THE SURPLUS

We solicit your co-operation in a cotton acreage reduction campaign, which we believe is the best way to assist our Federal Farm Board in their work to raise the cotton industry to the standard of other industries.

As you know, when the government issued its cotton acreage report the first of last July of approximately nine million acres, the price of cotton started down, and this crop has been sold for from three to four cents a pound less than last year, although we will not produce more than five or six hundred thousand bales more than last year, according to the final governments estimate of December 9th.

Now if you want our cotton mills and every other industry of this Southland of ours to hum lets wipe out this surplus of cotton, so our farmers can have a profit in what they have to sell. To increase the farmers buying power means profit in every line of business. Our co-operative associations throughout the South have thousands of bales of cotton on hand, and if we do our part in this campaign, we have no doubt as to the outcome of the remainder of the crop.

Now if we bankers, farmers, and merchants sit idly by and let the South plant from forty to fifty million acres of cotton, and all growing conditions are favorable, we will produce eighteen or twenty million bales of cotton next year, and it will mean bankruptcy and poverty for the masses of people, and years of hard work to get ourselves back on a sound business basis.

Every other industry such as coal, lumber, copper, petroleum, textiles, and many others we could name, curtail their production when the supply exceeds the demand. There is no reason why we people of this great south-land of ours could not join hands with the excellent leadership we have in our Federal Farm Board and help raise the standard of the cotton farmer to a level of other lines of business.

We are writting a letter similar to this to one banker in each county in ten cotton states. We ask you to take it up with all the bankers in your county, urging them to cooperate with you in helping to get all organizations in your county and state to help in the reduction of the cotton acreage, setting the first week of January as advertising week, and soliciting help through your local newspapers and other state publications to advertise to the world that the acreage will not exceed forty million. Upon receipt of this letter, wire or write Carl Williams of the Federal Farm Board, urging him to take the lead and help us put this campaign over one hundred per cent. Also let the Farm Board know that we are behind them one hundred per cent in their work.

ADDITIONAL YOUNG TREES AVAILABLE TO LANDOWNERS

Landowners may obtain additional Slash Pine seedlings from the State Forest Nursery, says the Alabama Commission of Forestry. There is a supply of approximately 187,000 young trees of this species which will be distributed for forest planting purposes. The Slush Pine is rapidly becoming popular in forestry planting in Alabama, since it has seed crops more often than the old long-leaf pine and thrives in many localities where the long-leaf grows comparatively slow.

Seedlings up to 1,200 in number will be issued free to each planter who will pay the postage, which amounts to $1.80 per 1,200 and 90 cents on 600 or less. In addition, any amount up to 50,000 young trees may be purchased at $1.50 per 1,000 charges to be collected upon delivery of the trees. Special application blanks for the purpose of obtaining the seedlings will be furnished by the State Forester, Montgomery, Ala., upon request. Applicants are required to certify that the trees will be used only for forest planting and not for ornamental or landscape purposes.

CANE CREEK

I wish to endorse what was wrote in the Union-Banner last week about the church benches and stove pipe being left at the church and I also ask the prayers of the praying people to remember that the church lamps and the church song books are in good keeping. I have one lamp and all the song books at my home and Mrs. Pack Parrish has the other two church lamps. They will be carried back to the church when needed only for church service. I endeavor to do all I can to help out in the church service.

church that are willing to pay to

I wish to ask the members of the come forward with what they are going to pay and turn it over to Mr. J. N. Minor, treasurer of the church. We wish to get the church painted before the men get too busy in the field again. If anyone outside the church wishes to pay anything on the church, it will be gladly received by the treasurer and also the church.

Let us all remember that the first Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Let all the members be present and make this year be more successful than we have ever had. We invite all visitors to be with us at all services. A member of the church—Mrs. Floyd Little.

The Oldest Road to Bethlehem

A little further down from Bethel, nearer to Jerusalem than you think and farther from Shiloh than you think, is the little neighborhood of Romah. Today one just sees a few tents, yet over and over in the Old Testament Ramah is mentioned. In the 16th chapter of 2nd Chronicles we read that Ramah was built by Baasha, King of Israel because of the unceasing war between him and Asa, King of Judah, that he might not suffer any of his subjects to go out or come into Asia.

But since we have traveled along the oldest highway of all history down to Ramah, situated near the border of the rival kingdoms of Judah and Israel and in the tribe of Benjamin, we would not forget that it is outstandingly mentioned as the home of Elkanah and Hannah, the God-loving, God-fearing and God-worshiping parents of Samuel, a prophet of God and the last one of the fifteen judges. The way I have Ramah, since traveling and visiting the Holy Land and from a careful study of my new map, it is only 9 miles from Shiloh, where these venerable parents went to church to worship God, and where they dedicated their young son Samuel to God and left him for special training in God's service.

The best I can decipher the word Shiloh means "one sent." It is one of the names given in the Old Testament to the coming Messiah by Jacob in bestowing his blessing upon Judah: "The scepter shall not depart from Judah, nor a law giver from between his feet, until Shiloh come." Going from Shiloh to Ramah there is only one place mentioned in the Bible. It is called Beeroth, and is the place through which the Israelites twice passed in traveling through the desert on the way from Egypt to Canaan. It is no doubt the place where Abraham and Sarai camped on their way to Hebron. It is also the place where Jacob and Rachel camped. It has always been the camp-out place for caravans along that old historical road. I saw a girl leading thirteen camels attached to one across this road which the Bible teaches to be the oldest road of all the world. It goes right through the gate just outside of which Christ was crucified.

This Beeroth was the place Eliezer stopped when going to Padan-aram to get Isaac a wife. It is the place by which Jeremiah went on his preaching tours. Right near Beeroth is Anathoth. It like Beeroth was called Anathoth in Old Testament days and also to-day. This place called Anathoth is interesting to study because it is the home town of the wonderful character known to us as Jeremiah, the weeping prophet, who was imprisoned because of his faithfulness to God, but was carried back home.

weeping prophet who was imprisoned because of his faithfulness to God, but was carried back home.

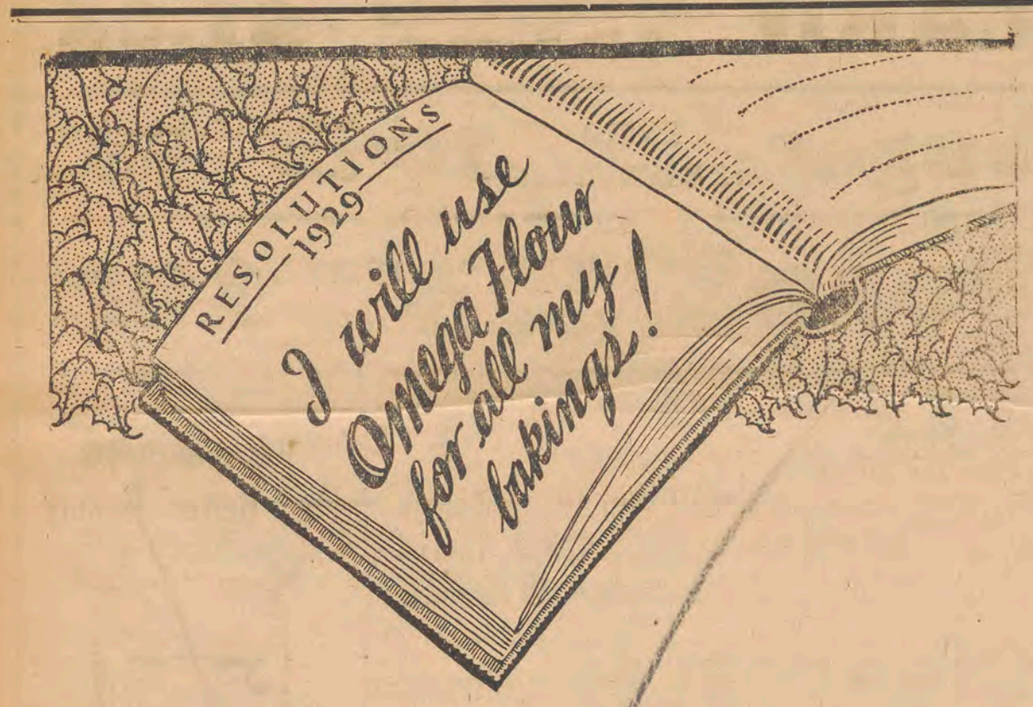
Now, go back to Beeroth again. This was bound to have been the place where Mary and Joseph stopped and rested the night before Christ was born in Bethlehem the next day. This is true. Christ had to go along that road to Bethlehem. They had to go down to Bethlehem of Judea, and Mary in that condition to be taxed along with the people from all over the world in obedience to the Emperor of Rome. Joseph her husband and the stepfather of Christ was careful and particular with Mary who was to be the mother of God's eternal son. So they did not want to get to Bethlehem before night. There was no room for them in Bethlehem's homes because others who had arrived there before them had occupied the rooms that it might be fulfilled, there was no room for him in the inn.

Beeroth is also bound to have been the place where Mary and Joseph stopped to camp when they missed Christ coming back from Jerusalem temple where they had been to worship. It was only six miles from Jerusalem and was the first camping place on their way back to Nazareth. I can't see how those little donkeys paced along that most ancient of all highways with their burdens. Yet for thousands of years they traveled this road up those mountains.

We are not going to stop in Jerusalem, but just pass along this highway which leads by this famous Jewish center. It leads us through the Damascus gate which leads on down to Damacsuc. That was the gate through which Saul of Tarsus passed through with warrants in his pocket to arrest the Chistians in Damascus and bring them back prisoners in Jerusalem. You stand in Jerusalem and see camel after camel passing through this gate into Jerusalem loaded with straw. It looked to me like some of them were loaded with lumber. goods from Syria and Damascus. They were laden with all kinds of

This old highway begins up there near the source of the Euphrates River away up there in Syria, does not pass Ninevah because Ninevah is still farther up, but it crosses the Lebanon mountains and comes on down through Galilee, Samaria, Judah, into Jerusalem. I looked out of my roo min Jerusalem and thought of the fact that that old road there before me was the one traveled by Isaiah when he went down to Jaffra and had a vision of Christ. Isaiah was a man who sacrificed for God's service. The reason men make sacrifices today is because they want Christ to rule in their lives. The materialistic view has nothing to do with the church. It is not run like a railroad or a wholesale grocery business.

I talked with a missionary in Jerusalem. He was truly a Christian gentleman. He told me that in Jerusalem you could not call it a mission to the Hebrews because they would not submit to it. I attended one of his meetings and I think I never wished for five thousand dollars any more than I did that day. I wanted it to give to the great cause there. The Bible readings was read in German, but I was used to that quite a bit in Birmingham and understand it just fine.



I looked out over that old road and thought of the fact that Christ was led out of Jerusalem on that very road through that gate on to Calvary to be crucified on Calvary. I thought of the fact that we should not know any one save Jesus Christ and him crucified, God forbid that we should glory save in the cross of Jesus Christ. On that very road leading out from Jerusalem Jesus went to Samaria, and sat down on the well curb of Jacob's Well which was dug by Jacob himself. There Jesus in an interview with a woman of Samaria saved her soul, gave her of the water of life, and she went back into Samaria one of the greatest missionaries no doubt among the Samaritans.

There in the hill cuntry of Judah is a place called Arian-Kurian, the home town of Zechariah and announced that his wife would bear a son, and the angel named him John. It was in this house in Arian-Kurian Mary, the mother of Jesus, visited her cousin, Elizabeth, and sang the Magnificat when she heardthat her cousin too would bear a sonand that she already knew she would be the mother of the Messiah as the angel had told her in her home in the hill country of Galilee.

"My soul doth magnify the Lord and my spirit doth rejoice in God my savior. For he hath regarded the low estate of His hand maiden: for behold from henceforth all generations shall call me blest."

This the angel annouced to me in the hill country of Galilee, and now in the hill country of Judea I rejoice with my cousin Elisabeth.

The JACK-POT

BY "JACK" HIMSELF

This is being written just before Christmas, but when you read it, the good old DAY will be gone. We hope you had your full measure of joy and gladness on the occasion—and may 1930 be the best in your memory this time next year.

* * * * * * * *

Well, folks, it certainly is one fine thing that we held up the little procession on that earful we hinted at on the tail end of last week's POT. It didn't materialize. It was a fact at that time, but just a little later it wasn't Now, isn't it provoking that we can't tell you what we're talking about? It'll all come out soon, though. Just as sure as January.

* * * * * * * *

And, now, from away over at Sylacauga cames another reader who reports that he actually HUNTS the JACK-POT and reads it FIRST. Say, we're going to amount to something some of these days, sure as shootin'.

* * * * * * * *

Some wag of a "Demmycrat" wrote a friend to come to Chilton County and help him hunt the "Hoover prosperity" during the Christmas holidays. Now, wasn't that just a dead give-way. When a Republican administration is in power you can year such wise-cracks, but if the Democrats are in, nobody even LOOKS for any prosperity, let alone HUNT it.

* * * * * * * *

Now, honest, folks, who is the joke on? We're gonna leave it up to you. If that don't prove what we've been hearing, though. Somebody said that some folks vote for Democrats to win elections, but PRAY that the Republicans win. We believe he is one of them.

* * * * * * * *

You know there are three kinds of Democrats. Maybe you thought there were only two kinds, but not so—there are three—good, bad and indifferent. The good vote Democratic because "Pap" did; the bad vote so because they ARE bad; and the indifferent vote so just because they just don't care what happens to 'em.

* * * * * * * *

Comes the news that we MAY not have the road machines on the roads during the month of January. One high official of the road business vioced the belief that if the money spent during December in running the machines had been used to gravel certain bad places on the roads, it would have done more good.

* * * * * * * *

We're with the h. o. on that. Ham, chicken, etc., is mighty fine to eat, but there is a possibility of getting too much—then we might get up with the cramps in the "stummick". There is a chance of getting too much of a good thing—and too much is worse than not enough.

* * * * * * * *

We think more good will come from that gift of 59 cars of slag than just fixing the Lay Dam Road. It has taught the powers that be that just a little judgment mixed with gasoline and oil used in road building works wonders.

* * * * * * * *

Of course it was perfectly AW-ful to accept the slag from the Alabama Power Company after them paying so much tax money into the County treasury, to look at it the way some people do, but, then, people are like that, you know—SO PRACTICAL—no sense of pride, et cetera.

* * * * * * * *

Speaking of that "Hoover prosperity" as we were, come to think of it, we HAVEN'T read of any soup lines recently. At certain times in history, though, about this time of the year soup lines were formed in almost every city of importance in the country. Most people had rather have a chance to earn their own bread than to stand in line in the snow to have it given out to them.

* * * * * * * *

And folks just can't help noticing that times, as a rule, are somewhat better under Republican management than otherwise. That's the reason that for the last several times the Elephant has crossed the line ahead of the Jass-mule in the November classics we stage every four years.

* * * * * * * *

Oh, yes! That made us think of it. Have you paid your poll tax yet? If not, get busy and do so. Of course there's quite a bit of time to do that in, but we just dropped that as a kind of reminder. Don't forget!

* * * * * * * *

Of course we'll get around to that in a warmer way as the time draws near when you can't pay, but you don't have to pay but once, any way, so it might be a good plan to do it while its on your mind. Do it now!

* * * * * * * *

We didn't intend to be so leather-lunged this week, but the Editor said he had plenty of space to fill, so we decided to pitch in and help him fill it up. Hope you liked the fillers.

* * * * * * * *

Any time anybody feels like it, we'd like to hear from you whether you have brick-bats or bouquets to toss. We'll be seein' ye.—"Jack".

MOTOR TOURIST'S HAVEN

Tropical forests and vast solitudes; exotic plants and emerald green valleys; lush foliage and grim mountains—these are some of the sights that Cuba's highway program, now more than seventy percent completed is opening to tourists. Vistas heretofore known only to hunters and naturalists are being revealed to the ordinary traveler with a magic unfolding of scenery that has been brought about by the deliberate effort to direct the road through the island's most beautiful sections.

There has been no attempt to sacrifice natural appeal to the convenience of shorter distances in the building of this highway. Where the direction takes one through lovely regions at an expense of an added seven miles or so, the longer route is selected. The highway has other practical conveniences however, from end to end, there is not a single right angle curve, but only long, swinging turns. The road is made of concrete and asphalt and is twenty to thirty feet wide. It is being constructed at a cost of approximately $100,000,000.

The Cuban government has done much toward removing restrictions on the entry of visiting cars. Only a certificate of registration or ownership is necessary for the motorist to enter his machine. A three or four hour boat ride from Florida brings one to Havana, and the traveler may drive his car aboard the boat and have it blocked on the deck for the short over water jump.

It was stated recently that fossils have been placed on the free list in the tariff bill. This is a serious mistake. We have enough fossils in this country already, without encouraging importations from Europe.

I have bought and removed to my place near Mt. Pleasant School, the jersey bull bought by Mr. Stapp for Mr. Sid Weldon west of Clanton.

Mr. Stapp thinks the bull is possibly the best bred bull in the county. I have bought the bull with the view of building up my own herd. I will serve him to a limited number of cows out side of my own herd at $3.00. It will be my policy to serve this bull only when $3.00 is sent with the cow. Continued service until the cow is bred will be given but no fees will be refunded.—R. M. Foshee, Clanton, Ala., Route 4. 12-19-2tp

ANYWAY WE ARE NOT LAZY

The world's richest and most powerful nation is also the world's hardest-working nation. How far Uncle Sam exceeds other countries in his output of labor is shown by Dr. Thornton Read, professor of mining at Columbia University, who estimates after careful saudy that the United States with one-sixteenth the population of the world, completes about half its work. This country accomplishes one and a half times as much per person as Canada, her nearest competitor, and thirty times as much as China.

By calculating the relative amounts of actual horsepower generated by men from the food they eat by the machines from the fuel and water power they use, Dr. Read has arrived at his conclusions regarding fifteen leading countries. He also reveals that China and India are first in the amount of work done without the aid of machinery, but are far behind the United States, Great Britain and Germany in the work done by men aided by powered machines. For instance, the labor done by men and machines together in this country equals the manual work that could be done by ten times the number of men in China—or almost forty times the number of men in the United States.

We refuse to become exited, at present temperatures, over the British claim to the ownership of the South Pole. Uncle Sam already has too many frozen assets, including the European war debts.

PEOPLE PREFER OLD-TIME MELODIES TO JAZZ AND CLASSICAL

Kent, O., Dec. 23.—Martin L. Davey, president of the Davey Tree Expert company, is wagering 26 nation-wide radio programs that the people of America prefer old-time melodies to either jazz or classical music.

The first program will be heard Sunday afternoon, January 5, 1930, from 5 to 6 p.m., eastern time, over the red netwrk of the National Broadcasting company. It will be followed by a concert each Sunday afternoon until July.

Mr. Davey makes no claim to expert musical knowledge, but he believes that his experience as congressman and as nominee for governor of Ohio last fall has given him an insight into what people want to hear.

"My first purpose in putting on this program," said Mr. Davey, "is to commemorate the golden anniversary of the conception of tree surgery by my father, John Davey."

His idea is resulting in the preservation of the beauty of America. It was only natural that I turned to the old-time melodious selections as fitting to the subject. It seems to me that these are what people want to hear, because they stir the heart and bring back fond memories. I encountered so much opposition that I am going through with our type of program as a deliberate test of public opinion.

Experts argured that a radio program should be predominantly classical or jazz. Mr. Davey's answer was that not enough of classical music is melodious and that jazz is a temporary craze of which the public has become weary.

Of the thirteen musical selections on each program, 10 will be old-time melodies and three will be taken from classics or semi-classics. Not one jazz number wil be heard through the entire 26 weeks.

Another unusal feature is the dominance given to the pipe organ, which will be heard with every selection. Chandler Goldthwaite, famous as a concert organist both in America and Europe, will be at the console, assisted by an ensemble of six vocalists, violin and cello.

AN UNPLEASANT SUBJECT

All of the functions of life are not pleasant to consider. Perhaps this is why some mothers refuse to think that such symptoms as restless sleep, loss of flesh, lack of appetite or itching nose and fingers in their children can be caused by round or pin worms. Many mothers have proven, however, that a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge, that pure and harmless worm expellent, will make these symptoms disappear. You can get Whites Cream Vermifuge for 35 cents per bottle from Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Alabama.
